Tractor accident mars Westphalia's 135th celebration

Parade participant was seriously injured while loading tractor after event

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WESTPHALIA — A 77-year-old Garnett man who rode his antique tractor in Westphalia's 135th anniversary parade Sunday afternoon was seriously injured while loading the tractor after the event.

Marvin LeRoy Teter took part in the lengthy parade, which began at 3 p.m. Sunday in downtown Westphalia.

After participating, Teter attempted to load the tractor onto a trailer but apparently the brake was not fully engaged, according to a report from the Anderson County Sheriff's Department. Teter got off the tractor, but somehow the tractor fell off the trailer onto him, the report said.

The incident was reported at about 4 p.m., and some emergency vehicles had to navigate through entries for the parade, which was still underway, to get from the fire station to the scene of the accident a few blocks away.

Teter was taken by air ambulance to Overland Park Regional Medical Center. A family member reported on Facebook that he was in intensive care and suffered multiple broken ribs, broken vertebra in his lower back, a broken pelvis and other injuries.

The event put a damper on the 135th birthday celebration, but otherwise the events of the day were well-attended and successful, according to Marilyn Brooks, one of the event's organizers. An annual "old timers' reunion" coincided with the celebration and helped boost attendance, she said. A highlight of the day was a display of old wedding pictures in the basement of the St. Teresa Catholic Church. Organizers at times worried they would not be able to feed a large dinner crowd, but they made it through, Brooks said.

Fifty-one entries took part in the parade, which lasted more than an hour. The birthday celebration took the place of Westphalia Days, a former annual celebration that ended a few years ago.

"We had quite a crowd, which is something we hadn't had for so long," Brooks said.

County: Road damage not severe after floods

Mild winter meant county saved money, can absorb road repairs

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A mild winter likely helped save Anderson County roads from the costly damages of a wet spring.

County road crews were forced to spread several tons of rock on rural roads to repair damages caused by floods in May. But Anderson County Road Supervisor Lester Welsh said the damage doesn't appear to be any worse than other years, and his department will be able to absorb the cost of repairs as part of his 2015 budget for general road maintenance. Damages still are being assessed and repaired, so cost estimates were not available.

Part of the reason the county will be able to absorb the costs as part of general maintenance is because of a mild winter, Welsh said.

Verdict still pending for crops after rain

Wheat does best, corn suffers and soybeans haven't even started

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — May's onslaught of wet weather didn't exactly signal a death knell to area crops, but they may need additional maintenance to recover.

Wheat remains in the best position of all area crops, as its growing stage was furthest advanced when the rains and thunderstorms hit, said Anderson County's ag extension agent Shannon Blocker. Farmers typically avoid planting wheat in low-lying areas, so most wheat likely sits in dryer upland fields. However, some to make adjustments before the pool opened for the day. But seconds after he entered the building, PVC pipes exploded and sent shards of jagged plastic as far as the pool house on the other side of the facility. Bures escaped with only a minor scratch on the back of this neck, but was quite shaken up by the incident, Martin said. Sharp, ragged pieces of pipe were found throughout the area, with several pieces stuck in the fence surrounding the pool. The pool has been partially drained and a vacuum will remove any pieces of pipe that fell into the water, Martin said. "We're so thankful no one else was out there" when the explosion occurred, Martin said.

As a precaution, city crews shut down not only the pool but also the "tot lot" playground nearby until investigation of the explosion was completed and the area cleared by the hazmat team. It wasn't until Friday morning they learned the blast likely was caused by some sort of chemical explosion, but the exact cause was unknown.

Chemical explosions have been known to occur around both private and public pools in which chlorination chemicals calcium hypochlorite and trichloro-s-triazinetrione have been combined, according to a National Institutes of Health website. More dangerous incidents have occurred when larger amounts were mixed. Injuries have included various wounds, burns and respiratory system damage from breathing fumes produced by the combination of the chemicals.

The city pool uses a manual chemical filtration system, which means a staff member must open valves and watch gauges to make sure the correct chemical mixture flows through the pool's filtration system. Martin said she planned to ask city commissioners to invest about $10,000 into an automated system that could prevent a similar incident from happening in the future.

"You can't put a price on someone's life," she said.

Martin estimated the incident will cost the city about $5,000, including repairs and the loss of revenue for the week or so the pool was closed. Because of frequent rain and thunderstorms as well as cool temperatures since the pool opened May 23, attendance - and therefore, revenue - has been low.

The force of the explosion damaged an underground water line west of the pool, and city crews had to dig up the line to repair it. The maintenance building where the explosion occurred was rebuilt in early 2000, Martin said.

ROADS...

Very little snow and fewer ice storms this past winter meant the county did not need to tap into its road salt supply very often. "A shedful" of road salt was enough to get through the winter, compared to previous years when the county spent thousands of dollars to replace depleted salt supplies, Welch said.

Roads near Harris likely will need the most repairs, Welch estimated, because rain was heavier in the western part of the county and because large creeks like Cedar Creek and the Pottawatomie Creek run through the area. Those creeks reached flood stages at various times in May but have since receded.

Once the area dries out and stays that way for a couple of weeks, county road crews will try to retrieve gravel that was washed into ditches, he said. County officials likely will not seek state or federal assistance to help pay for the damages, County Commissioner Les McGhee said Friday. Gov. Sam Brownback filed a disaster proclamation May 29 that would allow governments to recoup some of the costs of damages caused by flooding and storms. But Welsh told Anderson County Commissioners the damage wasn't significant enough to warrant the extra time it would take to deal with administrative documentation for the assistance.

Little to no damage was reported in the city limits at Garnett, City Manager Joyce Martin said Monday. However, city road crews will need to repair roads at Cedar Valley Reservoir. She estimated it will take about $2,000 worth of rock to repair those roads, but the work likely won't be done until later this month. Roads should be repaired before the Fourth of July holiday, she said.

wheat is starting to show signs of moisture damage.

Some fields still have standing water, which can be critical to plants that need moisture but also need time to dry and allow roots to breathe.

Corn may need another nitrogen application and its future will hinge on balanced weather conditions throughout the rest of the growing season. Corn is the No. 1 crop in Anderson County, followed by soybeans and wheat, respectively.

Soybeans on the other hand mostly have not been planted yet and time may be running out to get them in the ground. Soybeans typically are planted in this area the last week of May or first week of June. Continued rain and thunderstorms have left the ground too wet for planting. By the third week of June, it may be too late to plant soybeans for a sufficient growing season.

Even now, planting soybeans will likely be similar to planting beans as part of a "double crop," when a second crop is planted just after the first has been harvested. Double-crop soybeans typically yield about 15 bushels an acre, compared to about 40 per acre for a full season, Blocker said.

"If it were dry right now, it would be a perfect time to plant," Blocker said.

The heavy rains also have caused problems washing away chemical applications like nitrogen and weed killer. Corn, especially, may need another application of nitrogen but that brings special considerations at this point. Because the crop already has emerged, farmers who need to apply nitrogen will be limited in the type they can apply. Some nitrogen cannot withstand hot temperatures that likely will follow the current wet, cool conditions. Nitrogen that can withstand hot temperatures is more difficult to find and more expensive.

"A lot of our producers put on more nitrogen than they need anyway, and they may be in good shape. But if the plants start to turn yellow, they may need to consider it," Blocker said.

Some producers also may need to reapply weed killing chemicals, she said. Fields that previously were more or less weed free have been invaded by weeds thanks to the heavy rains.

But just like any year of farming in Kansas, things can change quite quickly. Blocker said the fate of corn and soybeans, especially, will rest on weather conditions throughout the rest of the summer.

"It would be silly to give up hope now, but it is getting troublesome," she said.

You name it, we print it.

Come to Missouri and eat some carp

When I was growing up in southern Missouri we used to joke about eating carp the same way some people joke about eating cats.

Now there's a push on to promote carp eating to help control the Asian Carp species, which is now considered invasive in Missouri's lakes and streams and threatening the habitat for other more respectable fish. It's called "Eat Mo Carp."

Yep. The campaign was kicked off recently by the University of Missouri's School of Natural Resources with the aim of getting restaurants and grocery stores to start serving up the now notorious bottom feeder. In Columbia they even got one of the local micro breweries to jump on the band wagon and host a carp eating festival.

C'mon, I mean everybody wants to do what's best for lakes and streams in Missouri – if we don't take care of Missouri's rivers, where else are we going to collect Mardi Gras beads on summer float trips? But trying to convince folks to eat carp?

I grew up believing carp were the lowest form of fish which ate the lowest form of scum at the bottom of the river, and were only eaten by the lowest form of people – like, people who maybe hadn't completely finished evolving – of which there were quite a number where I grew up.

Of course in China they eat a lot of carp. Horse, dog, whale – why is it foreigners eat so much gross stuff?

If you're not familiar with them, carp are vegetarian fish which haunt the bottom of waterways and lakes rooting around in the mud for plankton and decayed morsels. The idea that we grew up with – that they ate sewage and dead animals off the bottom sort of like an aquatic vulture – well, apparently there's no truth to that. Mizzou scientists say carp – primarily Asian Carp which have become such a pest in Missouri and other Midwest states – are low in mercury because they don't eat other fish. Low-fat, high protein, and they taste like a mixture of cod and crabmeat. Lots of bones though, so you only want to eat a big one.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

What am I saying?

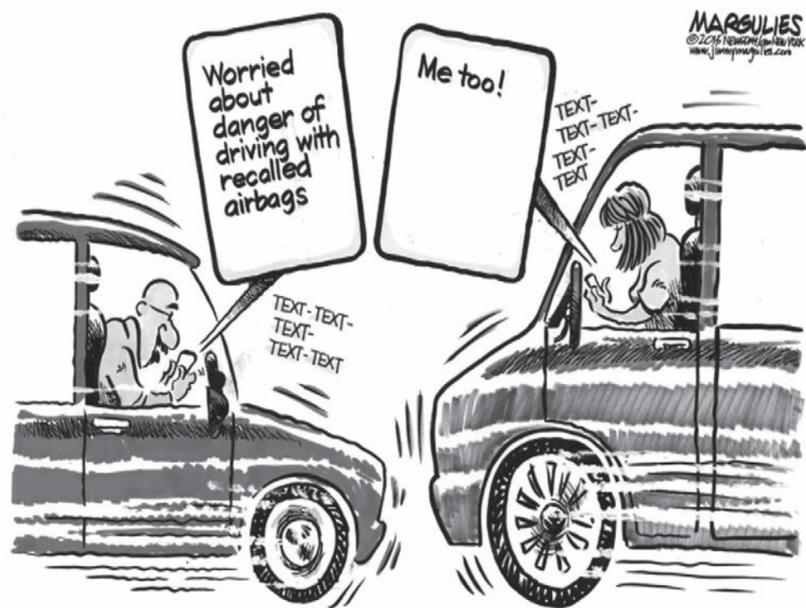

I remember hearing the tale of a meat processing plant in Colorado during the low-fat craze of the 1980s which tried to market rabbit to be sold in grocery stores. You know, we're used to what a chicken carcass looks like in the grocery store; but those rabbits, skinned and cleaned and tucked into their box with the cellophane window, according to my friend – looked like... cats.

The project was scrapped, and you still are hard pressed to find rabbit in any commercial grocery in these parts.

But leave it to the stalwart Missouri micro brew industry to seize a leadership role in the Eat Mo Carp campaign. Columbia's Broadway Brewery hosted the Concert Against Rogue Picnics (CARP) in which local bands played and the business sold beer (of course) and served up free samples of carp prepared a variety of ways.

I have to admit, I ate carp once at one of my annual college chums weekend gatherings at Lake of the Ozarks. There were two qualifiers: 1) beer (did you notice the presence of beer seems to be a recurring theme when it comes to carp eating?) and 2) it was deep fried. I'm pretty sure you could eat a roll of pennies if it was properly battered and deep fried. As I recall, it wasn't bad.

Enough to make me plan a bus trip for locals to head to Missouri for a big carp feed as part of the Eat Mo Carp campaign? I'm not sure.

After reading the paper I had to make a comment about the city commissioner who wants to stop the road work in town and pave the lake road, which I think is stupid. I drove around it – there's no potholes. The kart racers they don't use the road but once a year, that's nothing. The boat races, there's not enough there to even call it anything. Yet he wants to do that and stop work on the streets where people live in this town year round and depend on those roads? There's many, many potholes in roads around town. Wake up. This ain't the car club. Let's take care of the roads where people live. Thank you.

All right all you Garnett High School kids. Do you want to be part of a losing football town forever? A losing football team means your town is a loser. That's how it's seen by the rest of the world. Do you want to change it? Do you have the guts? This is the time to get your butts off the couch in front of the TV and get into the weight room or the Garnett Rec Center and get on the weights. Do agility exercises. Quit eating (name deleted) and start a decent diet. Do cardio.

Get together with other players on your own and get stronger and tougher. Are you a cream puff who never played? Get busy these next couple of months and make a difference for the team. What have you got to lose? Are you afraid? Suck it up. Make your team a winner and you make your town a winner. Do you have what it takes?

The school administrator states that an increase in the mill levy will be necessary for next year's budget. There has been a lot of publicity about the shortage of school funds. Let's ask if the money that is available is really being spent on the right items. We are building a new football stadium at the track field. I recall the citizens voted against building a track there several years ago. The school board then built the track anyway and now the football stadium. Does that remind us of the way the county jail was constructed? Do we need a large white Bulldog bus that is similar in size to those at many small colleges? Let's put our so-called limited funds into the classrooms with adequate support for the teachers. That approach will probably come closer to lasting the students for a very successful adult life.

Hey Phone Forum people, if you're coming up north on 59, that parking lot right at Longfellow School, that dumpster, that speed trap's been there for years. I used to live there in the house right south. Yep, it's been there for years.

I read about the tax windfall coming next year from the ethanol plant. I hope the city and county commissioners give considerable thought on how they spend that money. Wouldn't it be nice if they used at least half of it to give the property owners a reduction in their real estate taxes? This group deserves a break for a change. Reasonable property taxes have a very positive compounding effect on the future of our community.

This so-called president of ours, Obama, is not just a joke but he's a disgrace to America and our foreign allies. What it took 230-some years to build he's trying to destroy in just six years. He is an outright failure as a human being and as a president. Whoever voted for him can't be too much of an American citizen.

Last week's article about the residential streets in Garnett – down on First Street which was just blacktopped maybe 2-3 years ago, there's potholes at the corner of Spruce big enough I'm surprised there's not fish in it. If the water was cleaner the neighborhood kids could probably swim in it. I know it sure plays hell with the front end of people's vehicles.

Hey, instead of fixing up the road around the lake so they can race around it, why not just let them race up and down Park Road. They speed up and down there anyway and the cops don't do anything about it. It'd save some money.

The properties at the intersection of 169 and Sixth Street over on the east side of the highway are a disgrace to our community. There are three or four houses or small buildings over on that east side of the road. The grass and weeds are knee high. The homes are in disrepair and look like they probably should be torn down. I don't know that they're even still livable for human beings. They give our community a horrible first impression for people driving down 169 highway. The gentleman who owns those properties needs to get off his rear and start thinking about the community instead of keeping that mess out there.

Attention city manager and city commissioners: Many streets in Garnett need major repair. Please consider this to be able to retain our residents, plus consider when the last person moved to Garnett and built a new home. New homes create sales tax plus property taxes on a permanent basis. Events at the North Lake are great but do not create every day sales. Please consider future population growth for our town.

I think all the businesses should publish a list of people that don't pay their bills so businesses trying to stay afloat aren't caught by these dead-beats.

Obama declares war on climate change

President Barack Obama is less than stalwart in the fight against ISIS and doesn't seem overly concerned about Vladimir Putin's predation in Ukraine or China's aggression in the South China Sea. It is the fight against climate change, an allegedly dire threat to the nation's security, that brings out his inner Churchill.

In remarks to the Coast Guard Academy commencement, Obama pledged his undying hostility to climate change and his determination to fight it on the beaches and in the fields. He called it "one of the most severe threats" we face and "an immediate risk to our national security."

He hailed the Coast Guard for building more fuel-efficient cutters, and the Marines for deploying with portable solar panels. It was one of the most insipid calls to arms ever made by an American commander in chief, and there is unlikely to be much competition until President Elizabeth Warren rallies the U.S. Navy against income inequality.

From the president's urgency, you would think that climate change is beheading American hostages and taking over large swathes of Middle Eastern countries, toward the end of establishing a hostile climate-change empire. The reality is that, even accepting his premises about the state of the science, he can only point to laughably tenuous connections between climate change and national security.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

The president cited drought as one of the causes of the Syrian civil war. Yet an article in the journal Middle Eastern Studies notes that Israel, Jordan and Lebanon experienced drought in 2007-2008. None of them collapsed into a genocidal hellhole. Nor is drought unusual in Syria. Quite reasonably, the article counsels focusing on the corrupt and dysfunctional Syria government as the fundamental cause of the uprising. Not to mention the fact that countries all over the Middle East and North Africa experienced revolts at the same time.

The president warned of how climate change could create "mass migrations," the kind of disruption that a White House document says will disproportionately affect Africa and Asia. Even if this is true, how will it implicate our national security? The United States was content to stand by while 800,000 people died in the Rwandan genocide and more than 5 million in Congo's civil war. If that mass slaughter didn't move us, we aren't going to mobilize the troops to manage climate-driven mass migrations.

Another climate-change hot spot is the Arctic, with President Obama predicting that summers could be ice-free there by around 2050. Man the battle stations? Well, no. A Brookings Institution article notes that "what we're seeing in the Arctic is that receding ice is triggering commercial competition and governance cooperation; not conflict."

Typically, the president implied clear and present dangers from climate change, although the "consensus" science he purports to champion projects effects on extreme weather roughly 80 years from now. By then today's cadets will have long ago passed the baton of the fearsome battle against climate change to subsequent generations.

Of course, if climate change were a true enemy of the United States, President Obama would extend a hand of peace, or declare victory and go home.

Publicity comes to rescue after furlough threat

STATE COMMENTARY

workers. So those agencies and universities dutifully started notifying employees they rather distastefully refer to as "non-essential" that because there was no specifically authorized appropriation for their salaries, they would be furloughed, without pay. As the realization of the size of the furloughs circulated—we didn't know until Friday just how many jobs were affected—the politics heated up. And, the politics got sharper because there wasn't a budget approved for the upcoming fiscal year, and legislators started trying to figure out how to save their state employee constituents—and presumably their registered voter friends and family—from those layoffs. At about this time, the administration was saying it had no choice but to start furloughs, as another spur to quick budget action. It didn't work.

So, by Friday and Saturday, everyone was ready for the furloughs; thousands of notices had been printed and sent to workers who bore that unfortunate "non-essential" title.

And then, lawmakers worked to pull that child from the burning building, passing a bill that puts the crown "essential" on every state employee's head. That's literally pulling the child from the burning house. All were saved, and not a single legislator in the House and Senate voted against that rescue.

Gov. Sam Brownback drove to the office to read the bill, signed it into law and the Secretary of State's office published an "extra, extra, read all about it" online edition of the official state publication, the Kansas Register.

So, we had the Legislature rushing into the house to save the child, we had the governor speeding to work to pronounce the child officially saved...and it was only winners. Oh, and of course, those state employees stayed on the job and didn't have to worry about their early July car payments.

Oh, but just a day later, the Legislature approved the budget that fixed the payroll accounting problem. Would furloughs have happened if that high-publicity rescue hadn't occurred?

Probably, but just for some who work on Sundays...but where's the headline in that?

Prather 60th anniversary

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 6-9-2015 / Photo Submitted

Richard Prather, Kincaid, and Dolores Weirich, Bush City, were married on June 12, 1955, at First Baptist Church, Kincaid. They were blessed with three children: Norman, Melvin and Sherry.

The extended family will be gathering to celebrate this special event on Saturday, June 13, at the couple's home in Garnett. Hosting the luncheon are their children: Norman and Cindi Prather, Ida Grove, Iowa; Sherry and Terry Lust, Bellevue, Neb.; grandchildren, Matt and Josie Lust, Mankato, Minn.; Adam and Katelyn Lust, High Point, N.C.; Amy Lust, Falls Church, Va.; Phillip Prather, Sioux City, Iowa; and Lane Prather, Iowa City, Iowa; and great-grandchildren, Savannah Lust, Felicity Lust and Aurora Lust.

We are responsible to God to make disciples

In 2nd Peter 3:8-9 the Bible says concerning God, "But do not forget this one thing, dear friends: With the Lord a day is like a thousand years and a thousand years are like a day. The Lord is not slow in keeping his promises, as some understand slowness. He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance."

Two things come into view in this text. First God does not measure time as we do. From this text we are unable to discern how God measures time only that he does have some method. Second there appears to be some point in the future on God's calendar where he has appointed a time for an accounting of all things commonly referred to as the Day of the Lord, at the end of time when God's will and purpose for mankind and his world will be fulfilled. The Bible does not specify the duration of this "Day of the Lord", whether it is one day or a longer period of time, but God has clearly set a time of reckoning.

So what is the responsibility of the church to God concerning the "Day of the Lord"? The church came into existence at Pentecost after the ascension of Jesus into heaven. It was then as it is now a local assembly of all ages who follow Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord. Because the church general will not become a reality until after Christ's return, the greatest emphasis in the New Testament is placed upon the idea of the local church.

The church has a key role to play in redemption. Speaking to his followers after his resurrection Jesus commissioned the church to make disciples and teach them what he had taught. (Matthew 28:19-20) God has accomplished this in many ways by sending Stephen to the Ethiopian and on a much larger scale by sending Paul to the Gentiles.

As a believer, one who takes God at his word and trusts in him for salvation, you and I have a role to play as well. That role is to live our life emphasizing the object of our belief Jesus Christ. We as individuals are called by God just as Jesus called the Apostles in Matthew 28 to go and make disciples of all nations. I believe the emphasis will always be on the responsibility of the individuals within the church to make disciples. If we ignore such a call we are in violation of two commandments. Love the Lord your God with all your heart and your neighbor as yourself. By this omission we will have little or no impact for the church of Jesus Christ.

FFA Students Recognized at State Convention

Central Heights FFA member wins state proficiency award

MANHATTAN – A member of the Central Heights FFA Chapter was recognized May 28 for having one of the best career development programs in the state at the 87th Kansas FFA Convention.

Cade Hibdon received a State FFA Proficiency Award in Sheep Production during the convention for outstanding accomplishments he has made in developing programs that will prepare him for a career in agriculture. This award is sponsored by Harris Show

Lambs.

The proficiency award program recognizes students for exceptional accomplishments and excellence in a Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) program. This program allows students to set goals and gain real-world experience in a chosen area of the agriculture industry.

In Cade's SAE, his herd is comprised of 27 commercial ewes and a ram. His love of sheep was engrained at a young age as he grew up caring for his parents' herd. Cade currently manages his own herd and is in charge of daily labor, feeding and management decisions and Cade has been able to expand his herd through breeding and purchasing, and hopes to have a 150% lamb crop. He plans on studying either agronomy or agricultural economics at K-State.

FFA members earn Ford scholarships

MANHATTAN – Local FFA members were among the 71 Kansas students awarded $1,000 Ford Trucks/Built Ford Tough Scholarships during the third session of the 87th Kansas FFA State Convention on Thursday, May 28.

The Built Ford Tough FFA Scholarship Program recognizes FFA members' talents and accomplishments while encouraging their future academic achievements.

"We're proud to recognize these student leaders for their passion for FFA and the leadership they display in their communities and chapters," said Chantelle Simon, Kansas FFA Association treasurer. "We thank Ford Trucks/Built Ford Tough for providing financial support for our students' educational goals."

This year's recipients are, from:

- Anderson County: Melissa Kropf, Alexis Pedrow;
- Central Heights: J.R. Kimball.

Crest member recognized as state finalist

MANHATTAN – Crest FFA member Braden McGhee competed as a finalist against three other district stars for the state's top honor of State Star in Ag Placement May 27-29 at the 87th Kansas FFA Convention on the Kansas State University campus.

Each year, the Kansas FFA Association recognizes three FFA members who have the top Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) programs with the Star Farmer, Star in Agribusiness and Star in Ag Placement awards. The Star competitions are sponsored by ICM, Inc., United Bank and Trust and Kansas Farm Bureau.

McGhee's SAE is in Diversified Agriculture Production Placement. Baling hay, feeding and processing cattle, grinding feed, building fence and marketing cattle are all tasks McGhee helps manage on the family farm. Learning about silage production was one goal of McGhee's SAE, which he met and exceeded. Currently, he is working toward his CDL to benefit his work at McGhee and Milner Harvesting.

McGhee is the son of Kendall and Christy McGhee. His advisor is Brett Brownback.

FFA members receive State FFA Degree

MANHATTAN – A total of 63 students from the East Central District FFA were awarded their State FFA Degree May 29 at the 87th Kansas FFA State Convention.

Quilt guild recaps May show

The Pieces & Patches Quilt Guild was called to order by President Charlotte Lutz, on May 28, 2015, at 9:30am at the Anderson County Extension meeting room. Roll call was answered by 22 members and 2 guests, Sandy Miller & Thyra David.

The minutes of the April meeting were approved as printed in the newsletter. Terrie Gifford gave the treasurer's report.

Committee Reports:

- Program — Bonnie Deiter reported that Charlotte has requested that her President's block be a Wonky Star 9 1/2 inch block of orange and turquoise with a white background with the signature being placed next to a star point on the white background. Patricia Knoechel will be here September 16 for her program from 1 to 3pm at the Community building. Bonnie distributed information to those going on the bus trip to the Missouri Star Quilt company in Hamilton, Missouri, June 16.
- May Quilt Show — Terrie Gifford reported that there were 96 visitors at the May quilt show and we had 34 entries in the show with Connie Hatch winning People's Choice. Sharon Rich sold the most raffle tickets as well as the winning ticket. The boutique was a success. Members were encouraged to pick up any of their boutique items that were not sold if they want. Terrie thanked all those who helped with the show and to Samantha Fletcher for the wonderful boutique sign.

• Scholarship — Ruth Theis reported that the recipient of the guild scholarship was Seth Wolken. She also read a Thank You from the Anderson County Jr-Sr High school for our scholarship support.

• Anderson County fair — will begin August 3 with entries due that day. Jeannie Poore will judge the quilts at the fair. A work schedule sign-up sheet will be available at the July meeting. There was group consensus that with everyone's busy schedule this summer we would not plan a class for individuals wanting to do a challenge block for the fair.

• Challenge — Judy McArdle still has fat quarters available to anyone who is interested in the challenge.

• Block of the Month — Several members showed their blocks from the April pattern. Bonnie Deiter showed the May Block, May basket, distributed the pattern and demonstrated its assembly. Joleata Kent has the June block and will present it in July.

• Nominating — Terrie Gifford reported that she &

Judy Stukey are still working on the slate of new officers. Judy Stukey will work on the installation ceremony.

• Old Business — Bonnie Deiter will check into ordering new quilt racks with the funds collected. The guild agreed to allow Ruth Theis to arrange with her husband and another person to remove the hinged top from the wooden quilt racks since we no longer need the racks that high.

• New Business — Judy Stukey moved and it was seconded by Lynda Feuerborn that we donate $100 to the Senior Citizen Center for the use of their facility for the May quilt show. Motion carried. There will be no June guild meeting since we are taking the bus trip. The July 23 meeting will be in the Archer room at the Garnett Library.

• Secret Sister - gift was received by Margery Hunt.

Meeting was adjourned by Charlotte Lutz.

Bonnie Deiter demonstrated the correct use of a seam ripper.

Anderson County-grown beef hamburgers will be provided by the Democrats. Those attending are asked to bring a side dish or dessert.

Democrats or anyone who's fed up with the chaos in Topeka and Washington," said Dennis Richards, Anderson County Democratic chairman.

Garnett native Sherri Long Grogan, who is chairman of the Leavenworth County Democratic party, is scheduled to be among those attending.

Community band offers first concert June 11

The Garnett Area Community Band under the direction of John Bechen will present its first concert of the Summer Season on Thursday, June 11 at 7:00 p.m. on the Anderson County Courthouse lawn, Northside. John Bechen, Lawrence, KS, has been an active member of the Band for several years. John Bechen has a Bachelor of Music Degree from Loras College in Dubuque, Iowa, and is employed at The Reuter Organ Company in Lawrence.

In case of inclement weather for an outdoor concert this summer, the First United Methodist Church, 205 S. Oak Street, Garnett, will be the alternate site for the scheduled concert. If it is raining or the Band is not on the Square, please come to the Church. The Band appreciates the availability of this location. It is good to know that even if it rains, the Band will play on.

Googling up sales for your business

So there are millions if not billions of potential customers for your small business on the Internet, right? So why are customers still treating your Facebook page, your website and your cash register like they all have simple chronic halitosis?

Two reasons:

1) You don't have a marketing plan that assesses who your potential customers are, where they come from, and how to adequately communicate with them; and ...

2) You haven't tried Google AdWords.

While it's easy for customers to miss your website or Facebook page, Google's targeting system is pretty slick, defined by keywords and locaters used when people do searches, and depending on who your market is it can work whether you're aiming for local sales or customers far outside your local area.

Small businesses with tight budgets can still use Google, primarily Google Search. It's what's called a "pay per click" model, meaning you give Google money, define your parameters and write your ad, and you only pay when someone searching Google clicks on your ad. You can start a Google account with as little as $5, but if you're going to test it for your business you should plan to spend at least $100 a month. Look to the advertising sections of Google for details.

Within Google Search you will set up keywords for your business so that your ad is pinged when searchers hit your keywords and other parameters of your search. If you're a tire shop, you can't just put in "tire shop" because it's too generic - there are thousands of tire shops out there, and nobody's going to drive from Seattle to buy tires in Hoxie, Arkansas.

So you flesh out your Google

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

Search ad with various qualifiers: "tire shop", along with "in Hoxie, Arkansas" and maybe "open 'til 9 p.m.", along with brands you handle, other services, etc.

Another feature to Google Search is Geo-Targeting, which allows your ad only to be seen by searchers from a specific location. You can target by city, zip code and also a radius around your business location. You can target computers, tablets and mobile devices separately, with the obvious advantage being that if your business targets traveling or mobile customers, they're most likely to use a smartphone or maybe a tablet to try to do instant searches. Other parameters allow you to set the time of day or dates that your ad will appear - if you're not open at 10 p.m. you may not want your ad appearing, or you may want it only to appear at peak or non-peak hours.

That's important, because the down side to Google Search is that you pay for searchers who clicks your ad but who may never buy from you - those "dry click" eat up your Google budget, so you want to qualify the clicker as much as possible to have the best chance at the sale.

2005: Kincaid graduates last class

May 31, 2005

The last ever graduation ceremonies held in the Kincaid school last week could have been a time of resentment and anger from a community losing its school tradition. Instead it was a celebration for the 20 eighth graders who will be going on to high school. Most, if not all, of the 20 will be freshmen at Crest High School in Colony, where Kincaid's lower elementary grades will also move in the '05-'06 school year due to cost issues that closed the Kincaid school.

City commissioners approved the issuance of up to $50 million in industrial revenue bonds for the East Kansas Agri-Energy ethanol plant, a move that will effectively shield the plant from property taxes for a period of 10 years.

Farmers looking skyward in the past month hoping for some wet weather relief have usually been rewarded with a big raindrop in their eye. The latest spell of rains last week have pushed back any fieldwork for at least another week. Anderson County Agriculture Extension Agent

Matt Teagarden is concerned now not only about corn, any more of which he said probably shouldn't be planted this year, but also about other crops.

The First United Methodist Church will celebrate 50 years of support for the local Boy Scout and Cub Scout troops in a ceremony June 25. Boy Scout Troop 126 has had a long tradition in Garnett that dates back before the Methodist church started sponsoring the troop back in 1935.

Safety at the Garnett Cedar Valley Reservoir was a matter of concern and discussion during a meeting of the Garnett City Commission. Mayor Claron Cole spoke on safety for swimmers and boaters at the lake. The application of regulations pertaining to the parks in Garnett are legal; however, this would prevent swimming in the reservoir because it is against the law to swim in the lakes. The commission did not want to prevent swimming.

June 8, 1915

The heavy downpour of rain late yesterday afternoon was of short duration, but it was about the heaviest rain we've had this season so far. Some hail accompanied the rain but did no damage. The heft of the storm seems to have fallen in and about town, though in some places considerable water fell. Judge Stein was in the country and he says scarcely enough rain fell to wet his shirt. Lightning struck the home of L.D. Walrad, on west Fourth Avenue, and ran riot through the kitchen. It knocked a board from the ceiling, hurled it through the window shade and window pane, and into the yard. The lightning forced out a part of the siding, tore a big hole in the ceiling and put the telephone out of commis-

What did this tin box once hold?

Isn't this a precious little round tin box! Many years ago my father gave me an old peanut butter jar that my mother had kept a number of small items in out on our farm. This little tin box was one of those items.

Unfortunately I no longer have the peanut butter jar, as it was broken when a large portion of my bottle collection was broken when my shelves fell almost 6 years ago. It was quite old as it was carried by a wire bail type handle.

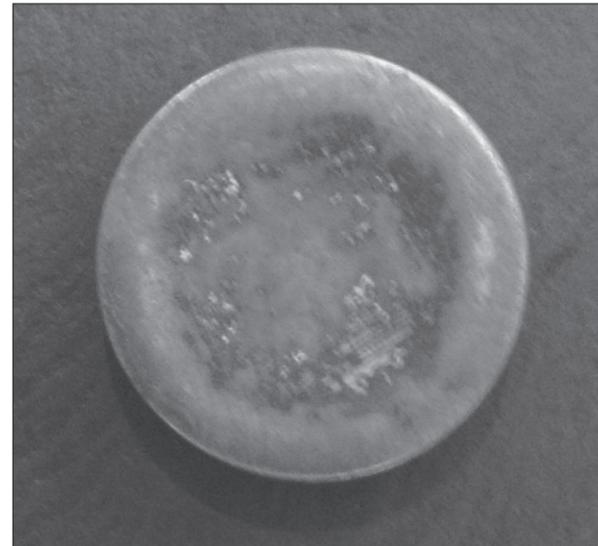

Now, what did this little tin box have inside of it (in fact it still contains a small amount) Mentholatum Lip Care for chapped lips. Where did my mother get it from? More than likely she bought it or it was given as a sample by the Raleigh man, who was a farm door to door salesman, selling all kinds of products in the 1920's thru the 1950's.

The beginning of the Mentholatum Company started when Albert Alexander Hyde left the real estate market in 1889. With the collapse of the market, Hyde established a new partnership called the Yucca Company, located in Wichita, Kansas, which focused on manufacturing and marketing shaving creams, laundry and toilet soaps. Garnett Library to discuss 'The Boston Girl'

The Garnett Public Library will hold a book discussion on Wednesday, June 24th at 7 p.m. This month's book is "The Boston Girl" by Anita Diamant. She has written an unforgettable novel about family, friendship, and feminism told through the eyes of a young Jewish woman growing up in the North End of Boston in the early twentieth century.

Leading our discussion will be Paulabeth Henderson.

Addie Baum is the Boston Girl, born in 1900 to immigrant parents who were unprepared for and suspicious of America and its effect on their three daughters. Addie's intelligence and curiosity take her to a world her parents can't imagine—a world of short skirts, movies, celebrity culture, and new opportunities for women; a world where women finish high school, go to college, have a career, and find true love on their own.

Written with the same attention to historical detail and emotional resonance that made Anita Diamant's previous novels bestsellers, The Boston Girl is a moving portrait of one woman's complicated life in twentieth-century America and a fascinating look at a generation of women finding their places in a changing world.

The books are available for checkout at the library. The discussions are held the fourth Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Archer Room at the library. Notification is posted in case of cancellation.

Garnett Fire Department receives grant

The Garnett Fire Department was recently awarded a $1,000 grant from Enbridge Energy Company, INC. These funds were provided to the department via Enbridge's Safe Community Program that provides grants to emergency response agencies throughout the region where Enbridge pipelines are located. Garnett Fire Department is using the funds to assist with the purchase of upgraded radio equipment that will allow for interoperable communications with other responders.

"Enbridge has been extremely generous to not only the fire departments in our County but also assisted with equipment purchases for law enforcement as well as the 911 communications center over the past few years. Emergency responders receive training from numerous pipeline facilities annually through pipeline awareness meetings. Not only do responders walk away with knowledge from these meetings but also gives them a chance to build relationships with the pipeline operators. Having solid working relationships with these operators leads to funding opportunities such as this," said JD Mersman, Director, Anderson County Emergency Management.

Cruise Night set for June 13

GARNETT - The Lake Garnett Cruisers invite you to Garnett's town square on Saturday night, June 13th for the "Can-U-Cruise" charity Cruise Night. From 4:00 to 9:00 p.m., this event welcomes classic and custom cars, trucks and motorcycles to participate in a show 'n shine to benefit the Garnett Area Ministerial Alliance Emergency Fund and food pantry (ECKAN). The public is encouraged to attend. Donations of canned food and non-perishable items or monetary donations will be accepted during this event to help those in need within the local area.

Deejay Everett Cox will be playing tunes in the courthouse bandstand. Everyone who brings a classic or custom "ride" will receive a goodie bag and be eligible for door prizes. There will be kids games on the courthouse lawn. In addition to area dining and shopping, the First United Methodist Church will be hosting an outdoor "Cook-Out" with pulled pork, curly fries, baked beans, dessert and drink.

The Lake Garnett Cruisers will be selling cruise night t-shirts while supplies last. Again, proceeds from this event will benefit the local ministerial alliance and food pantry.

Leave your legacy

at Anderson County Hospital

Foundation Memorial sponsorships available to help fund garden's construction

The Anderson County Hospital Foundation invites you to leave your lasting legacy or remember a loved one with a contribution toward the funding of the memorial garden and walking trail on the grounds of the new hospital.

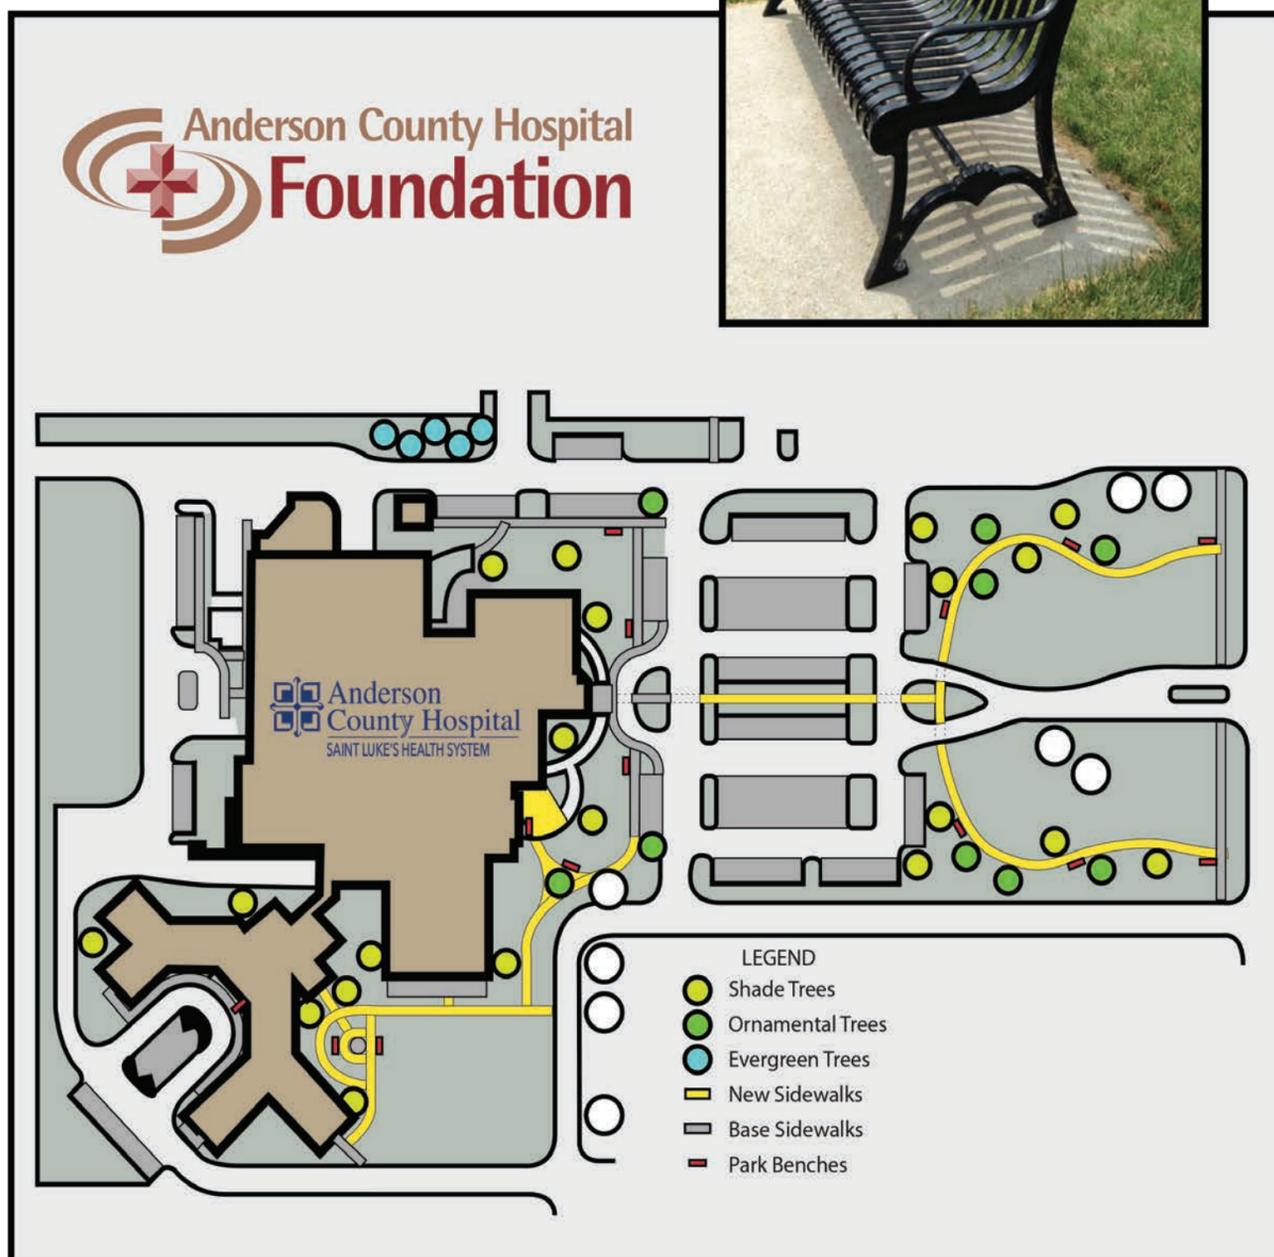

This opportunity provides for families, organizations or individuals to make a major and lasting contribution to this project, with benefits to be enjoyed both now and by generations to come.

Heavy-coated steel memorial benches designated with a donor's engraved plaque are available and will provide seating in various locations throughout the landscaping project. Only 7 of these original 14 bench locations remain at a contribution of $5,000.

In addition, the placement of various ornamental, evergreen and shade trees will accent the garden space throughout, and are available for sponsorship at $500 each. Locaters denoting tree sponsors will be part of the garden's directional map and brochure.

The foundation's goal is to cover the complete cost of the $135,000 development, so your help or that of your family, company or organization is paramount.

Contact ACH Foundation Chairman Mike Burns at (785) 448-3600 to reserve your sponsor opportunity today, and become a part of the legacy of pride and commitment to excellence at Anderson County Hospital.

For more information contact the ACH Foundation today at (785) 448-3600.
