Delinquent tax hole gets deeper

Treasurer offers plans to help real estate owners get caught up on taxes

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — What concerns Anderson County Treasurer Dena McDaniel about this year's delinquent property tax list isn't so much the number of people on the list or the total amount of delinquent taxes. It's the number of people who are falling farther and farther behind.

The county publishes its annual list of delinquent property taxes for three times each year, beginning with this edition of The Anderson County Review. The list shows a total of $334,061.23 in unpaid taxes by county real estate owners. That's about $4,000 less than last year's total of $372,347.12. McDaniel said she has not had time to make any comparisons between last year and this year. A comparison by The Review shows 551 individual entries last year compared to 529 this year, although some owners may have multiple entries.

Still, McDaniel said she's more

How will you get to school?

Parents asked to pick preferred route at today's enrollment

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Parents who enroll children at Garnett Elementary School today will have an extra decision to make — how they're going to get those kids to school each day.

USD 365 Monday released a map showing potential traffic patterns to drop off and pick up children. The plan features two options: enter Home Run Drive from U.S. 59 highway and drop kids at the front entrance, or enter from an access road off Lake Garnett Road and drop kids at the back entrance. Parents will be asked at enrollment which path they plan to use.

Traffic flow to and from the school has been an ongoing concern because the school is located on a busy highway. A turning lane has been added on northbound U.S. 59 because it's expected most of the traffic will come from the south. State and city officials say they will wait to see how traffic patterns develop before determining if

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 08-07-2012 / Vickie Moss

The former Garnett High/Elementary school came tumbling down Thursday, Aug. 2. Demolition crews with Ark Wrecking Co. of Oklahoma brought down the 90-year-old building in a matter of hours. The last walls were torn down just after noon. Clockwise from left, the crew brings down the north wing; a sign ironically marks the "last day of school"; former students of the school watch as it is torn down. The demolition brought several spectators. A video of the demolition is posted on The Anderson County Review's Facebook page. A photo retrospective is printed on Page 5B.

School board lowers tax rate

New school, other factors work in USD 365's favor as board approves mill levy decrease

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Taxpayers in USD 365 have the new elementary school to thank for keeping their tax rate low this year. But Superintendent Don Blome warns people not to get too excited about the savings; it's only temporary.

The school board Thursday night approved the 2012-2013 budget with a slight decrease in the mill levy, or the rate at which property taxes are assessed. Last year's total mill levy for the district was 54.421; this year, the mill levy will be 53.721.

Even though the tax rate is lower, the district's expenses will be slightly higher than last year. The district collected $3.2

Short Stop readies for new location

Station will move to former competitor's site, close current store

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A local gas station and convenience store that bought out a competitor will be moving to the other station's site.

Short Stop, which has a six-pump fueling station at U.S. 59 and Second Avenue, last month purchased the former Shell station at U.S. 59 and Fifth Avenue. The company plans to remodel the former Shell station and move there. The station at Second Avenue will be closed and the site offered for sale.

Owner Allison Leiszler said the owners of the former Shell station made them a good offer. Leiszler initially planned to remodel their present location and had purchased land behind the property with that intention. Those plans have been scrapped with the pending move. After Short Stop moves to the new location, fuel tanks at the site will be removed and the property will be offered for sale, including the property behind the current station.

The remodel project at the Fifth Avenue location will include a larger fuel tank. The store features a 16-door cooler and the opportunity to sell food; the Shell station offered Hunt Bros. Pizza and Leiszler said they plan to continue that ser-

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS JULY 23

Chairman Dudley R. Feuerborn called the meeting of the Anderson County Board of Commissioners to order at 9:00 on July 23 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Dudley R. Feuerborn, Present: Eugene Highberger, Present: James K. Johnson, Present. All present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Road and Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor, met with the commission. He reported the state is not going to proceed with charging liquidated damages against the company doing the bridge for not getting it done on time. It is up to the county if charges are paid. There should be about 12 days at $800 per day. Commission will talk to the county counselor about proceeding with collecting the damages.

Hospital

Diane Doran, Hospital Board of Trustees, and Dave Lybarger, Hospital Facility Board of Trustees, met with the commission. Denny Hachenberg, Hospital Administrator, was also present. Diane stated that at their last meeting the board voted to ask permission to place a question on the November ballot to build a new hospital and long term care unit. Dave stated he is president of the St. Luke's Facility Board and stated they had looked at the needs of the hospital and feel it is in the best interest to build a new facility. It was questioned by the commission whether there are any grants available to assist in the building of a new facility. Commissioner Feuerborn stated that a 10 million increase to the residents of Anderson County is a big hit. It was reported they are in negotiations with St. Luke's on a lease agreement if a new facility is built.

Veterans Memorial Committee

Dorothy Lickteig, Phyllis Gettler, Ken Miller, Steve Newland, and Doug Archer met with the commission. They have been requested by the commission to serve on a committee to build a Veterans Memorial on the courthouse lawn. Todd Barns and Tommy Lewis have also been asked but it was not certain whether they were willing to serve. Dorothy Lickteig brought Leon Lickteig who has built a Vietnam Memorial in Kansas City. The commission explained what they were looking at for a memorial and what they wanted the committee to do. The committee will meet hopefully later this week and set up guidelines.

Bond Counsel

Dottie Riley, Kutak Rock, met with the commission concerning the question of bonds for the proposed hospital construction. Options for the types of funding were discussed. She pointed out that the county is limited on the amount of debt they can have and general obligation bonds are in that category. The hospital could be built with hospital revenue bonds and the debt can be paid off with the revenue. The public building commission could also issue bonds for a hospital, however, the county would also have to broaden the authority by resolution of the building commission, and that resolution would be subject to a protest period. A lease purchase option is also available but they are more expensive and the leaser can end up defaulting on the payments.

Sheriff

Sheriff Hupp met with the commission. He presented a revised budget request for 2013. He informed the commission there is still county property at the old nursing home. Some he can make use of but some could be taken to the landfill and some could be taken to the Tuesday sale after it is advertised.

Ambulance

Commissioner Johnson moved to fund part of an ambulance not to exceed $70,000 with the Board of Trustees to fund the other half this year. Commissioner Highberger seconded. Approved 3-0.
Meeting adjourned at 12:34 p.m.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

She was born on September 12, 1917, in Yuma, Colorado, to John Benjamin and Edith Caroline (Drew) Husted. She married Leslie "Pete" Mace on August 30, 1939, in Mesa, Arizona. store owner, reversing decisions made in 2005 and 2007 not to allow Sunday sales. At those times, Casey's General Store made the request for Sunday sales. But in April, a new commission approved the request by Mike and Cathy Barnes, the new owners of one of Garnett's two liquor stores.

A petition was filed June 21 to bring the question to a public vote. One hundred thirty-three qualified Garnett voters signed the petition; only 73 were needed to force an election.

In addition to the Sunday sales question, voters will decide who they want to compete in the general election in November. Contested races include two county commission seats, local Kansas Senate and House of Representatives seats, and the U.S. House of Representatives.

County Commission Dist. 2. Republican voters will choose between Bill Craig, Ken Miller and Scott Rogers. The winner will face Democrat Jerry Howarter in the general election. Longtime commissioner Dudley Feuerborn decided not to run for re-election, leading to significant interest in the position.

County Commission Dist. 3. Republican voters will choose between Patrick Callahan and on November 28, 1999; brother, Donald Husted; three sisters, Elgia Worley, Millie Yates, and Evelyn McNamara.

Survivors include her sons, John L. Mace of Richmond; Jerry R. Mace of Colony; Larry E. Mace of Madison, Neb.; daughter, Rita F. Dixon of Humboldt; five grandchildren; and six great grandchildren.

Funeral services were Friday, August 3, 2012, at the Feuerborn Family Funeral Service Chapel in Garnett. Burial followed in the Welda Cemetery.

Dr. David Leitch. The winner will face incumbent Eugene Highberger, a Democrat.

Kansas Senate Dist. 12. Republicans John Coen and Caryn Tyson face off to see who will run against Denise Cassells, Democrat, in November.

Kansas House of Representatives. Republicans Lynn Oharah and Marty Read are competing for the chance to run against Shirley Palmer. Kincaid resident Arlyn Briggs will appear on the ballot but said he does not plan to campaign for the seat.

U.S. House of Representatives. The only contested Democratic race on the ballot is the U.S. House seat, now held by Lynn Jenkins, a Republican. Three Democrats are vying for the chance to challenge Jenkins. They are Scott Barnhart, Tobias Schlingensiepen and Robert Eye.

concerned with the people who keep falling behind.

"I'm real concerned people are putting it off, and they need to get something done," she said.

McDaniel said the number of delinquent property taxes could be attributed to the bad economy; even so, taxes remain due. But there are options to make it easier on taxpayers. The treasurer's office offers a payment plan to help people get caught up on delinquent property taxes. McDaniel said staff will work with property owners to find a workable payment plan.

a southbound turning lane is needed as well.

In order to alleviate congestion, the district built an access road behind the school. The access road intersects with the lake road and crosses the Prairie Spirit Trail. Although it may be a longer route to the school, some parents may prefer the back entrance to avoid highway traffic.

vice. But perhaps the biggest difference will be the ability to serve more fuel customers. Short Stop's present six-pump station frequently is full; the new spot offers eight pumping locations. Leiszler said future plans could include expanding diesel services at the property next door, now owned by Medicine Shoppe.

For more information, call the office at (785) 448-5824, or stop by the office at the Anderson County Courthouse.

Those who fail to pay property tax could lose their property in a tax sale. Properties are eligible for the tax sale after the list has been published three times, and if the property has been on the list three years.

The county's next real estate sale is said to be in its final stages of preparation but no tax sale has yet been scheduled. The county had a delinquent mineral rights tax sale in 2010, but the last real estate tax sale was May 7, 2004.

The delinquent tax notice is published on pages 6-8A.

school. The recommended route will follow next to the access road behind the school. Children will then take the Prairie Spirit Trail south to their destination.

School officials say it's too early to know what kind of traffic patterns will emerge. Once school starts and people get into a routine, they'll have a better idea of what changes, if any, need to be made. The request to pick a traffic plan at enrollment should help officials get a rough idea what to expect when school starts.

It could take up to six months before Short Stop moves to the new location, Leiszler said.

"We're excited about this opportunity to expand our services and offer more cooler choices and more services for customers at the new location," Leiszler said. "The same friendly faces will be at our new location, and we appreciate everyone's patience."

million in local taxes last year and expects to collect about $3.4 million this year. Last year, the district spent $16.1 million overall; this year, it expects to spend about $16.5 million.

Several things worked in the district's favor this year, not the least of which is the new elementary school. Because voters approved a $14.4 bond issue to build the school and make other improvements, the state of Kansas offers a special funding class for districts that build a new facility. That translates to about $355,000 in additional state aid.

"While that looks like a pretty good deal - and it is - remember that money is only there a year or two," Blome said. "It's kind of there as a bonus."

But the additional funding for a new facility wasn't the only pleasant surprise for taxpayers and the school district, Blome said. Higher enrollment than expected, more funding for at-risk students, more available state money and higher assessed valuation all contributed.

Enrollment: USD 365 officials expect enrollment to drop this year, as has been the trend recently. However, preliminary indications show enrollment will be higher than expected. It's still likely to drop, but perhaps not as drastically as officials expected. The new Garnett Elementary School, in particular, likely will benefit the most from increased enrollment, Blome said. District-wide enrollment is today at GES.

At-risk funding: The district receives additional funding based on the percentage of students who are considered "at risk" of failing, such as the number of students on free or reduced lunches. Previously, the state cut funding when districts reached a threshold, such as less than 40 percent of students who met the criteria. Now, the state will gradually decrease funding as the percentage of at-risk students declines.

State money: The Wichita school district recently returned money to the state's Local Option Budget, increasing the amount of money available from the state to all school districts.

Assessed valuation: The county's assessed valuation was slightly higher than expected, which means the tax rate will go farther because there is a larger pool of property to tax. Last year, the general assessed valuation was $55.2 million; this year, it increased to $58.2 million. The assessed valuation of other property - such as railroads and oil leases - increased from $61.7 million last year to $65.9 this year.

"Don and staff have done a good job of trying to hold the line," Dwight Nelson, school board president, said.

An article in last week's Review on the bond for two brothers charged with making and selling steroids contained the wrong bond amounts. Phil Moody's bond was reduced from $75,000 to $50,000 when he made bond earlier this month; Brock Moody's bond was $75,000 and reduced to $25,000 at a subsequent bond hearing, which he secured and was also released.

Yes, we did build 'that'

President's belittling remarks illustrate his core premise: Government is king

Recession or no, business people in Anderson County and all over the country deserve a lot more respect than they got from the words of President Barack Obama recently. Instead of having their business accomplishments belittled, any business that's survived the last four years of recession and bleeding recovery ought to get a medal.

"If you were successful, somebody along the line gave you some help. There was a great teacher somewhere in your life. Somebody helped to create this unbelievable American system that we have that allowed you to thrive. Somebody invested in roads and bridges. If you've got a business, you didn't build that. Somebody else made that happen."

EDITORIAL

by Dane Hicks, PUBLISHER

Beg pardon? They are probably the most famous and most telling words of his public life, not to mention his presidency, to date. They illustrate the President's personal and political philosophy more thoroughly and more concisely than any speech he's ever made, revealing his default mindset that government is an entity unto itself – and one whose virtues usurp those of everyone who pays its tab.

That belief sets up the great debate of the 2012 election: Whether a larger government or a smaller government makes better shade for the labor of national success. In four years of Obama to date, we have an anemic economic recovery (some say a continuing recession) and the beginnings of a mandatory national health insurance program that will most likely act like afterburners on the ever-surging price of health care. Not a track record that should be leaned upon in stealing credit from anybody.

The difference between this election and that of four years ago is that a great deal of America has awoken from the celebration of electing America's first black President to realize that they should have paid closer attention to what he was saying (or more importantly not saying) and less attention to the color of his skin and his made-for-TV drama personal story.

The sheer audacity is almost overwhelming – stealing credit from private business people who have put everything on the line to pursue their own piece of the American Dream. Fail in business and you lose not only the stake you put down, but you carry that failure with you for life. The rewards may vary, but the risk is always clear and the penalty for failure crushing.

Any business pulling its own load doesn't need to be told its success is due to the amazing foresight of government in building bridges and roads and the Internet. Who does Obama think paid for all that government infrastructure to begin with? He speaks of government as if a memorial should be built to it.

Hopefully President Obama's showing of his hand will clarify to Americans the path they really believe in, and better showcase the labors of those who will get us there.

"We build too many walls and not enough bridges."

Second Amendment protector is political whipping boy

BY RICH LOWRY

NATIONAL REVIEW

In America, we are supposed to like constitutional rights.

One would think that an organization that vigilantly -- and effectively -- safeguards a constitutional right would be honored as a kind of national jewel. Yet the National Rifle Association gets only obloquy. It's practically branded an accessory to murder whenever a lunatic shoots people. It's labeled a nefarious special interest that lobbies Congress into submission. It's all that is wrong with our system.

Lowry

No one can doubt the NRA's enormous clout. But the group comes about it the right way. It represents millions of members, including lots of union members and rural Democrats. Its supreme act of influence is defeating officeholders in free-and-fair elections. And its signature victory has been a sea change in public opinion on gun control.

Its influence is a function of its success in the art of democratic persuasion. In short, the NRA won the argument.

In 1959, Gallup found that 60 percent of people supported banning handguns. Now, Gallup doesn't even show majority support for banning assault weapons. The case for gun control collapsed on the lack of evidence for its central contention that tighter gun regulations reduce crime.

Federal gun laws are unrestrictive. Forty-one states have right-to-carry laws, up from 10 in 1987. Some 80 million people own guns, and about 8 million have conceal-and-carry permits. Nonetheless, violent crime is at 40-year lows. If the proliferation of guns caused violence, the country would look like Mogadishu.

The nation's highest-profile champion of gun control is a mayor who presides over a metropolis where guns are basically prohibited and yet hundreds of people are killed by them each year. If that hasn't made New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg stop and think, nothing will.

After the massacre in Aurora, Colo., Bloomberg and his allies rushed to plug their favorite gun-control ideas, evidently caring little whether the measures would have stopped James Holmes. Highly intelligent, methodical and determined to kill, Holmes the person constituted the elemental danger: Guns, even frightening-looking guns formerly banned by Congress, do not go on killing sprees on their own.

By the standards usually set for our politics, the NRA is a model organization. We say we want people more involved in the process. The NRA's more than 4 million members are highly engaged.

We say there's too much partisanship. Single-mindedly committed to its cause, the NRA endorsed about 60 House Democrats in 2010.

And we say that we value the Constitution. Gun-control advocates, though, treat the Second Amendment like an "inkblot" (to borrow Robert Bork's famous phrase for the Ninth Amendment). They consider it an unfortunate lapse by James Madison, a forlorn leftover from the 18th century. They were all duly shocked when the Supreme Court ruled, in its 2008 decision District of Columbia v. Heller, that the Second Amendment protects an individual right to bear arms.

No one, during fair political weather or foul, has been as unstinting in its protection of that right as the NRA. For that, we should be grateful.

I have an idea for the City of Garnett to use the gym at GEC. I think they should use it for gymnastics class for the kids around here, it would give them something to do. Gymnastics would be a good way to get exercise. Do it as an open deal without memberships.

The Kansas City Star had an article about the Olympics calling this Olympics the Title 9 Olympics, because there are more women than men in this Olympics, and Title 9 was the law that made public schools have equal athletic programs for girls same as boys, starting back in the 70s. So we have all this opportunity now for our daughters and granddaughters to get scholarships to go to the Olympics, and as taxpayers we all complain because we have to pay for more gyms, more softball fields, more coaches, etc., and all the other growing costs of education. Has it been worth it?

To the Garnett Police Department: I like that new stealth patrol car. Very Batman, gentlemen. Very, very Batman.

I couldn't believe what I was reading in the last Garnett paper. Now they are wanting either a new hospital or an updated one. If I remember right most of the people didn't vote for a fancy new jail but we know we needed one. Next we are paying taxes on an elementary school north of town. What's the matter with the hospital we have? Most of the time we are sent to Kansas City to see what's wrong with us. Who do you think is going to pay for all of this? The taxpayers of Garnett. Garnett is a retirement town and right now everyone is trying to hang on, especially the farmers with the bad year and the drought. We the people who own land are the major ones that get stuck with paying taxes. I can understand why people don't want to come to Garnett. Besides, we need jobs more than anything else. Just drive up and down the streets of Garnett and you will see all the houses for rent or sale. Thank you.

I'd like to respond to the caller about the wheelchairs downtown. You might want to open up your eyes. Most of the work down there was done for cosmetic purposes. And it still is now wheelchair accessible all the way. Also, the only way to get downtown is by the streets, because there's not one sidewalk wheelchair accessible to get downtown. We still have to use the streets to get to the grocery store, the doctor, church, etc.

Well taxpayers, that sucking sound you hear is another million or so of your dollars going out of town. Apparently there are no contractors in Garnett capable of tearing down even an old building. The old school is being town down by out of town firms.

Here's an idea: If they're talking about paying for the hospital with industrial revenue bonds which will be repaid with revenue generated by the hospital, let St. Luke's build the hospital and pay for it themselves, since it's gong to be their revenue paying for it anyway. Why does Anderson County even need to be in the picture? St. Luke's may be a non-profit organization but they have a lot more resources and a lot more ability to borrow money than Anderson County, which is only worth $71 million apparently.

A word concerning the city commission: I seriously doubt that increasing the number of commissioners from three to five will have any specific benefits to the City of Garnett despite an increase in expenditures. The Kansas open meeting law presently forbids the discussion of city business between commissioners other than in the city commission chamber, because two of the three is a quorum. This would not apply if the number was increased to five. Business could theoretically be discussed with preliminary conclusions even in telephone conversations. I am sure the citizens would prefer that all city business only be discussed in an open meeting, public forum. Thank you.

Hey, if our hospital isn't good enough for St. Lukes, maybe Olathe Medical Center or Shawnee Mission would take it over. You know we don't have to be the fanciest dang thing in town.

It's 11 o'clock Saturday night, I was driving down 6th Street by the grain elevator. Lo and behold what do I see, a man and a woman walking down the middle of 6th Street blocking the whole lane like they are a car. I had to go around in the oncoming lane because these idiots don't know how to use a sidewalk. I really think the cops ought to start giving these people tickets.

ACHS grad's internship uses dolphins to help people with disabilities

BY BRITNI SAYERS Special to THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

My internship was at Island Dolphin Care in Key Largo, FL. It was founded in 1990 by Deena and Pete Hoagland. (Pete is pictured in the Staff photograph along with their son Joe). Joe was the inspiration for IDC.

Joe was extremely sick with a heart defect he was born with. He had many surgeries and by age 3 had suffered a stroke and lost the use of the left side of his body. At the time IDC did not exist but Dolphins Plus (a place where anyone can swim with the dolphins) was the home of a dolphin named Fonzie. Deena told Joe that Fonzie was a left handed dolphin and if he wanted to feed the dolphin he would have to use the left side of his body. Eventually he was able to move the left side of his body. (Fonzie didn't have magical powers, but was more of an inspiration for Joe.) Deena thought if this could help her son then maybe she could help other families who have children with disabilities around the world. That is exactly what IDC does. Families come from all over the world, throughout the US, some local families from Miami and Key Largo, as well as families from Poland and other countries in Europe.

There is more detail about this at the website www.islanddolphinscare.org

My first day at work I walked into the facility and met the staff I was going to be spending the next 4 weeks with. In fact the first person I met was Joe and he is one of the most amazing people I have had the opportunity to meet. Despite his rough start in life, he has recovered extremely well and if you met him today you would never guess that he had such a long journey to get where he is now. The entire staff changed my life and allowed me to learn more about myself than I had ever expected possible.

I witnessed first hand the extraordinary atmosphere IDC provides for the families and their child/children with disabilities. I was able to learn about multiple disabilities such as autism, heart disorders, cerebral palsy, down syndrome and the list goes on. Island Dolphin Care provides classroom time for the children to learn and develop new skills as well as provides four structured swims (a dolphin trainer sends the dolphin to do a specific behavior) and then one natural swim (where the dolphins naturally interact with the kids). The most interesting thing about the natural swim is that I would find that the dolphin that worked with a specific kid all week long would come interact with that same kid during the natural swim. The dolphins actually remembered the children they worked with, some of which have been coming back for multiple years now.

Dolphins are truly fascinating animals and the work done at IDC is extremely beneficial for the families. If anything, it is that one week out of the year where the entire family is full of smiles and that alone is enough to bring the families back. Working with the staff of IDC was an experience I will never forget and it has helped me figure out more so what I would like to do with my life.

As an intern, I would take photographs of the classroom and water sessions and also provide notes for the families of what occurred during the sessions as well. I was also able to interact with the dolphins in both a Structured and natural swim.

Brittni Sayers is a graduate of Anderson County High School and the daughter of Loren and Susie Sayers.

Chamber Players production of 'Daddy's Dyin' ...' opens Aug. 17

The first production in the Chamber Players' 22nd season is "Daddy's Dyin' ...Who's Got the Will?", a hilarious Southern comedy by Del Shores, directed by Vicki Markham. The dinner theatre runs August 17-19 and 23-25 at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday and 12:30 p.m. Sunday. Advanced tickets are required and available by calling (785)304-1683 beginning August 6.

You will be rolling in the aisles one minute and suppressing tears the next as the adult children of the Turnover family return to the old homestead. Daddy Buford (John Wilson) is suffering from advanced dementia and is expected to die at any minute. Mama Wheelis (Jackie Fursman) tries to keep order in the house and her grandchildren in line: Bible-thumper Lurlene (Lori Barcus), dutiful Sara Lee (Shauna Devening), wild Evalita (Karen Katzer), and obnoxious Orville (Matt Wilper). Evalita's latest boyfriend, hippy Harmony Rhodes (Jim Stukey), and Orville's weight-challenged wife, Marlene (Amanda Holloman), complete the family circus.

Vicki Markham has performed in and directed several CPCT productions. April Buckman is Assistant Director and Steve Markham is Technical Director. Prairie Belles Catering will provide the meal. This play contains adult situations and language.

"Daddy's Dyin'..." was originally written for the stage and later produced as a motion picture starring Beau Bridges, Beverly D'Angelo and Judge Reinhold. Del Shores is also the celebrated author of "Sordid Lives" and wrote for television's "Dharma and Greg" and "Touched By An Angel".

The Chamber Players present four dinner theatre productions annually in the Thelma Moore Community Playhouse, 140 W. 5th Ave., Garnett, KS. For full season information, visit their website: www.TheChamberPlayers.org.

eBooks, tablets, smartphones part of classroom

MANHATTAN - The use of technology in the classroom is growing beyond computers to improve student learning, according to a Kansas State University education technology expert.

"Today it is very common that elementary school classrooms are equipped with SMART boards, which are interactive white boards, as well as a projector and at least one classroom computer with a high-speed Internet connection," said Lotta Larson, an assistant professor of curriculum and instruction who studies how technology can aid learning.

"More traditional technologies, such as audio recorders and players, are also useful and common at the elementary level," she said.

The use of e-books in the classroom is an increasing trend, particularly at the elementary level, Larson said. She attributes the increase to the significant decrease in the price of digital readers like the Amazon Kindle, making the devices an affordable alternative to iPads and laptops.

and young adults have increased rapidly, so teachers and students have endless options for both fiction and nonfiction texts," she said. "E-books are generally less expensive than print copies of the same book, and they don't wear out as quickly as a print copy. Another advantage is the instant access. Generally, an e-book can be downloaded in a matter of minutes."

Perhaps the greatest advantage of e-books, Larson said, is the ability to differentiate the reading experience. The devices allow the reader to customize the reading experience by adjusting the font size and page layout, or through the use of tools and features like a built-in dictionary, highlighter, digital notes or text-to-speech capabilities.

"This means all students - even those who struggle or have specific learning needs - can benefit from digital reading," Larson said. "As teachers are quickly realizing the possibilities of supporting students' reading comprehension and motivation, this technology is definitely becoming more popular in all grade levels."

dents to bring electronic devices from home to use in the classroom - even their smartphones.

More schools are also engaging in iPad or laptop initiatives where students have access to such technologies throughout the school day, not just during a designated - and often limited - computer lab time, Larson said.

But Larson cautions it's not enough to just place laptops, tablets or digital reading devices in the hands of children. She said teachers need to teach and model new literacy skills that are essential for effective use of such technologies. It's also important for parents and teachers to communicate technology expectations, guidelines and rules. Teachers should know whether students have Internet access at home and, if so, are they allowed to use the computer and/or the Internet to do homework.

To encourage technology use by students, Larson said it can be helpful for schools to host family nights where both parents and students can visit the school and learn more about using a computer or other forms of technology like tablets and e-readers.

Feuerborn earns perfect attendance, voting record

TOPEKA - Eleven Kansas House Democrats have been recognized for achieving a 100 percent voting record during the 2012 legislative session, including Rep. Bill Feuerborn (D-Garnett). Only 27 of 125 members in the House of Representatives achieved this distinction.

"This was a difficult legislative session filled with really tough votes," said House Democratic Leader Paul Davis, Lawrence. "Republican infighting created unprecedented gridlock and resulted in the fifth longest legislative session in Kansas history. Bill's ability to be present every day and cast every single vote demonstrates his unwavering commitment to his district and the entire state."

The following House Democrats cast every vote of the 2012 Legislative Session:

- Tom Burroughs, Kansas City
- Bill Feuerborn, Garnett
- Gail Finney, Wichita
- Stan Frownfelter, Kansas City
- Judy Loganbill, Wichita

- Melanie Meier, Leavenworth
- Eber Phelps, Hays
- Vince Wetta, Wellington
- Jerry Williams, Chanute
- Kathy Wolfe Moore, Kansas City

In addition, 10 House Democrats achieved a perfect attendance record during the 2012 Legislative session:

- Tom Burroughs, Kansas City
- Bill Feuerborn, Garnett
- Gail Finney, Wichita
- Stan Frownfelter, Kansas City
- Judy Loganbill, Wichita
- Melanie Meier, Leavenworth
- Eber Phelps, Hays
- Vince Wetta, Wellington
- Jerry Williams, Chanute
- Kathy Wolfe-Moore, Kansas City

During the 2012 Session, 603 bills were introduced: 217 in the Senate and 386 in the House. In addition, 530 bills were carried over from the 2011 Session, for a grand total of 1,191 bills that were alive during the 2012 Session. Of these 1,191 bills, 295 became law.

K-31 section closed today for crossroad pipe replacement

Tuesday, Aug. 7, the Kansas Department of Transportation (KDOT) will close a section of K-31 in Anderson County in order to replace a crossroad pipe. The highway will be closed between Georgia and Harper roads.

Maintenance crews from the Garnett KDOT Area Office will complete the pipe replacement in one day, beginning work at 6 a.m. and finishing around 8 p.m.

Since the roadway will be closed to all through traffic at the work zone, on August 7 motorists should seek alternate routes.

Persons with questions about the road work may contact KDOT Garnett Area Superintendent Kevin Ryan at (785) 448-5446, or Southeast District Public Affairs Manager Priscilla Petersen at 1-877-550-5368 (toll free).

Watch out for 'convicted felons' Joe Zentner's Alaskan adventures

In this part of the country, we have some convicted felons floating around. A new one drifts in every few years and takes over, stealing good native grass, cropland and gardens. These felons that are being written about are the noxious weeds that get spread around. This is done by planting not 'clean' or pure seed, carried on the wheels of machinery, spread by wildlife, the wind or drainage water.

In the past and to this day, some of those we have been bombarded by are field bindweed, musk thistle, Johnsongrass and now an all time favorite-Sericea Lespedeza. The noxious weeds that will be described to you are the famous noxious weeds in Southeast Kansas and how to control these 'convicted felons'.

Continuous CRP or General CRP fields should be checked regularly for the presence of noxious weeds. If you find noxious weeds, you must try to eradicate them in your fields to stay in compliance with the terms of your Continuous CRP or General CRP contracts. Let's look at those noxious weeds and see what can be done to those 'Convicted Felons'.

Field Bindweed-is a member of the morning glory family and a perennial that reproduces by seeds and rootstocks. The root system extends to a depth of 20 to 30 feet. The smooth, slender stems twine or spread over the soil and vegetation. Leaves up to 2 inches long are alternate, simple, petioled, quite variable in size, and highly variable in shape. The leaf blade may be oblong to elliptical or may be rounded to pointed with spreading basal lobes. Flowers are white, pink, or white with pink. Funnel shaped, they are about 1 inch across and usually borne singly in the axils of leaves. The flower stalk has two bracts 1/2 to 2 inches below the flower; the bracts, along with leaf shape and small flower size distinguish this plant from hedge bindweed. Seeds are dark, brownish-gray, are about 1/8 inch long, and have one rounded and two flattened sides.

Field bindweed is spread both by seed and roots. These can be transported by tillage or road machinery, drainage water, birds, or on the feet of animals. Harvesting equipment, manure from livestock fed contaminated hay, and grazing animals moved from infested to clean areas can also cause new bindweed infestations. The seeds remain viable for up to 50 years. Then when the proper conditions are created by tillage, rodents or other means, germination of seed may occur.

Control methods of field bindweed falls in preventing the production of viable seed and destroying the plant's ability to reproduce by vegetative means. Small grain, forage, and legume seed should be cleaned before planting to remove seed of bindweed and other weeds. For livestock feed, one should use grain, hay and other feedstuffs not infested with bindweed or other weeds difficult to control. If bindweed infested feed is fed to livestock the manure should not be spread on bindweed free land. Harvesting, tillage and other machinery should be cleaned before it leaves a bindweed infested field.

Other practices to control bindweed on cropland: (1) Plant competitive crops-close-drilled sorghum or sudangrass seeded about July 1, after a period of intensive cultivation; then a season of intensive fallow followed by two wheat crops. (2) Appropriate and timely cultivation-Cultivation used with competitive crops can control bindweed. (3) Application of herbicides registered for use in infested crops or on cropland with no growing crop. Often a combination of control practices results in a more effective program than just a single practice.

Practices approved for non-cropland are: (1) hoeing-such as in home gardens and flower beds-every 10 days to 2 weeks during the growing season; and (2) application of appropriate herbicides.

Musk Thistle-A member of the sunflower family is primarily a biennial or winter annual but may occur as a summer annual. The leaves of musk thistle are deeply lobed, hairless, and are dark green with a light green mid-rib. A silver gray leaf margin is characteristic of each spine tipped lobe.

The leaf base extends down the stem to give the plant a winged appearance. Musk thistle is the first of the Kansas thistles to bloom in the spring. The terminal flower is large (1 1/2 to 3 inches in diameter), solitary and usually nodding or bent over slightly. The plant is freely branched and each branch may have one flower or more in addition to the terminal flower. The flowers are purple and are "powder puff" shaped. Musk thistle reproduces only by seed dispersal which begins 7 to 10 days after blooming. Seeds are straw-colored, oblong, and 1/8 inch in length.

The seeds are attached to parachute-like hairs (pappus) which allow for dispersal by wind currents.

Control of musk thistle shall mean preventing the production of viable seed. Mowing with a rotary mower, cleanly and closely and repeat as needed, between the first appearance of pink and the first appearance of brown on the pappus of the earliest heads. If you don't have a rotary mower, hand cutting or digging at this time, is also recommended. Also, application of herbicides may be used.

Johnsongrass-is an upright perennial grass, reproducing by large rhizomes and seeds. Well adapted to hold its' own in competition with crop plants. The stems grow up to 6-8 feet high or more, from a freely branching, stout, rhizome possessing, fibrous root system. The leaves alternate, simple, and are relatively wide and long. The spikelets are 1-flowered, in-groups of 3, in rather open large panicles. Fruit a caryopsis or grain, finely striate, reddish-brown. It flowers from May till frost and seed to frost.

Johnsongrass was introduced from the Mediterranean region as a hay or forage crop. Once thought of as strictly a warm season grass, it has adapted and can be found in most of the western states. The plants form hydrocyanic acid when under frost or moisture stress, making it toxic to livestock.

Control methods are by planting Johnsongrass free seed, using livestock feed that is free of Johnsongrass seed and cleaning machinery before leaving infested fields.

Cultivation may begin any time during the growing season and shall be done in such a manner as to cut off all the weed plant at each operation (using a blade type implement). Cultivations shall be 3 to 5 inches deep at intervals of 14 to 18 days. When the plants have been so weakened that they emerge more slowly, the cultivation intervals may be extended to such time as will permit the plants to grow not more than 10 days after each emergence of first plants, but not to exceed intervals of 3 weeks.

Cultivation shall be continued until the weeds have been eradicated or have been suppressed to such extent that remaining plants may be more economically destroyed by the application of approved chemicals to individual plants or by hand cultivation.

Sericea Lespedeza-A member of the pea family is a perennial with stems erect, to 5 feet tall. It was introduced in 1896 from Japan to North Carolina. The leaves have 3 leaflets that are less than 1 inch long and less than 1/2 inch wide and wedge shaped (cuneate). The leaflets are covered with densely flattened hairs, giving it a grayish-green or silvery appearance.

The flowers are few (1-4) in the axils of the leaves from mid or late July to October with petals yellowish or tinged with purple, about 1/2 inch long. The fruit (pod) is about 1/8 inch long, roundish with pointed ends in outline and flattened. The stem is a woody-type.

Control: Sericea Lespedeza spreads primarily by seeds, which is probably spread by animals. Persons planting mixtures of seeds for erosion control and for wildlife habitat should ensure Sericea Lespedeza is not included in the mix.

For rangeland-prescribed burning at the proper time (late spring) followed by intensive-early stocking (double stock until July 15 and then remove cattle) may reduce the occurrence of Sericea Lespedeza. Mature cattle grazing early in the season are more apt to utilize Sericea Lespedeza.

Tame pastures-proper fertilization and grazing during April and May, may reduce the occurrence. Late grazing or no grazing will increase Sericea Lespedeza. Grazing infested areas with sheep and goats will provide effective control of Sericea Lespedeza. Mowing in the late bud stage for 2 to 3 consecutive years from mid-July to late summer should reduce the vigor of the stand. Also, application of approved chemicals may be used in June when the stalk is tender or in August when it begins the bloom stage. Remember, one Sericea Lespedeza plant can produce 1,000 viable seeds per stem. So, this noxious weed needs to be controlled.

On any of the above noxious weeds, it is best if you can spray them during the tender leaf stages or before they put on a seed head. The chemicals are more easily absorbed into the plants when the leaves are tender.

The Anderson County Noxious Weed Department does sell chemicals to eradicate noxious weeds. There is a discount for chemicals purchased to kill noxious weeds, when purchased through the Anderson County Noxious Weed Department. Check in with Vernon Yoder-Weed Director about any concerns that you may have in controlling noxious weeds at 785-448-2327.

Please come in and visit with us at the NRCS/Anderson County Conservation District located at 111 North Maple St, in the USDA Building in Garnett. Our phone number is 785-448-6323 ext. 3. We will be glad to visit with you on your concerns and eligibility.

Joe Zentner's Alaskan adventures

Does the name "Joe Zentner" ring a bell for anyone? Joe was a young man from Anderson County who at an early age worked his way from Kansas to Alaska. He worked in the orchards in Colorado, vegetable farms in Idaho and Montana, finally reaching Seattle, Wash. In Washington, he hired on as a barge hand taking farm machinery, etc., to Alaska, where he spent almost all of his life on Kodiak Island.

During my Naval career I was stationed on Kodiak and Adak islands five different times. It was in 1959 that I first met Joe and we became close friends.

The Joe "Zentner's Ranch" was located along Ugak Bay, some 42 rough, winding road miles from the Naval Air Station. Joe's ranch consisted of 25,000 mountain and tundra grass acres, with 250 head of grazing cattle. If my memory served me right, Joe actually leased the land from the U.S. Government for a small sum and a long termination.

You are asking yourselves what was the connection between Joe and I. Remember, Joe was from this area and most of his family was here, so I knew he lived in Alaska. I can't remember how we officially met, but Joe would go into town (Kodiak City) for supplies and on his way home (by the way the road from his ranch to town passed through the base) he would stop and pick me up on a Friday evening or Saturday morning and I would spend the weekend at his ranch. I would help feed and tend to his baby calves, disk and drilled oats for cattle feed. The volcanic soil was rich and grew wonderful oats. I can remember a fox following me, round after round disking (just like many farm dogs do). Wildlife was abundant.

One of my greatest memories of Joe is that he owned a small plane. His plane had an M-1 rifle mounted on it and was used by the Fish and Game to hunt down and kill the huge Kodiak bears that attacked and killed the ranchers' cattle and horses. A picture of Joe's plane with mounted rifle was on the front cover of Outdoor Life magazine one year.

A little about Kodiak Island.

Kodiak and adjacent islands lie in the North Pacific Ocean. These islands have a combined total of about 4,900 square miles. They were first sighted by Bering in 1741. The first Russian settlement was established by Shelikof in Three Saints Bay in 1783. In 1792 the Russian headquarters settlement was moved to the site of the present town of Kodiak in Pavlosic Harbor. The interior of Kodiak Island is for the most part of an unchartered wilderness, where dense tangled undergrowth and precipitous mountains make travel difficult. This is the habitat of the Kodiak Bear or Alaskan Brown Bear. The largest carnivorous mammal in the world, measuring as much as 13 feet from tip of nose to tip of tail. A herd of reindeer was brought to Kodiak in 1921. Sitkan deer, beaver, red fox and rabbits are numerous, as are ducks, geese and ptarmigan. The sea otter, now nearly extinct, was once common and brought fabulous wealth to the Russian fur traders who sailed out of the harbor in the time of Catherine the Great - seals, sea lions and several species of whales can be seen on or near the islands.

As a young man, Joe Zentner fell in love with these islands. Now deceased, Joe is missed and remembered by many.

1992: Teen girls go joyriding

Aug. 13, 2002

Relief efforts were underway to help a single mother of five whose belongings were destroyed in an accidental house fire Thursday. The family has received assistance from numerous local organizations.

Despite several days of temperatures in the upper 90s to low 100s, electricity usage in the city of Garnett has remained slightly under the city's typical summer maximum. City Manager Rick Doran said electricity consumption peaked at 9,700 kw last week. Although that figure is high, it's still under the usual summer maximum of a little over 10,000 kw.

Delays and confusion surrounding a computer system update last week which would have been used by several offices at the Anderson County Courthouse touched off an illustration of a continuing cat fight between some of those offices, and a warning from the county commission that the bickering had better stop. An off-the-record but long standing antagonism between the county clerk's office, county appraiser's office and county treasurer's office was apparently at the root of the blow up, which was called to the attention of the commission after a new computer system update failed to take place.

An auto theft ring made up of 14-year old girls was broken up when a deputy noticed a car traveling very slowly near Greeley. When the deputy approached, the driver and passengers bailed out and ran into a cornfield. Three were arrested and a fourth was implicated. Apparently, the girls would ride their bicycles down the streets of Garnett looking for cars with keys left in them.

An additional one cent sales tax will go into effect Jan. 1, 1983, in Anderson County as voters overwhelmingly passed the tax, 1244 to 505. Only one county township voted against the tax, Indian Creek, which defeated it 23-19, and in Rich Township the vote was 32-32. Before Tuesday's election, 10 counties and 59 cities had local sales taxes of one-half cent or 1 cent. Twenty-three counties and 17 cities were added to that list in Tuesday's election.

Although there were some 20 items on the USD 365 agenda Tuesday night, one item took about half of the meeting time. Five parents appeared to protest a decision to have kindergarten students from the Harris area sent to school at Westphalia rather than Garnett. An even larger contingent had appeared at the last meeting to protest.

Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild has show and tell

Minutes of June 28, 2012 Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild was called to order by the President, Judy Stuke, in the Archer room of the Garnett Public Library. Twenty-five members were present with 1 guest, Bonnie Deiter-Landis. The minutes were reviewed from the newsletter with no changes made.

Ruth Theis read the Treasurer report. Deposit of $10.00 was made. Checks were written to Kay Roeckers $15.00 for Peoples Choice Award; Nancy Kreibach $12.50 for newsletter expenses; Wing and a Prayer for $257.00 for the May Program; and Sonic $20.00 for 4 gift cards.

Committee Reports

Program: Charlotte Lutz reported that today in place of a program we will be completing plans for the Anderson County Fair. No meeting in July due to the Anderson County Fair. August Luncheon with installation of Officers.

Opportunity Quilt: The 2013 Opportunity Quilt committee met on June 14th at Country Fabrics. More changes were made to the Center block. Our next work day will be July 12th in the back room of Country Fabrics from 10am to 3pm. We will be going out for lunch.

Block of the Month: Everyone is working towards completing their mystery quilts. Judy Stuckey showed her mystery quilt as well as Phyllis Gordon. Both are hoping to have them completed prior to the fair.

Challenge Committee: All three Quilts of Valor are quilted, and were shown today. Phyllis Gordon volunteered to take one to complete the binding. Cynthia Fletcher took the remaining two. Mary Luney showed four Pillow cases she made to be given with the Quilts of Valor. Quilt Show Committee: Lynn Wawrzewski sold the most raffle tickets this year, and will receive a free membership to the guild.

Anderson County Fair Committee: Committee chairman Terrie Gifford reported that the committee met on June 14th. The committee has arranged for a raffle for fair contestants in the Open Quilt Class N. Each fair entrant may enter once in the raffle. Prizes are being donated by local merchants. A raffle will also be held for public guests and items are being collected.

The County Fair Committee approached a few of the local businesses about prizes for those who enter something in the Open Quilt Class category and have been very happy with the response. Miller's Ace Hardware donated a decorative blue bowl, Josephine's donated a package of quilt design stationery, Schulte Agency gave $20.00 worth of carwash coins, Country Fabrics gave a project carrying case worth $30.00. And...drumroll... Carolyn Bennett surprised the club when Judy Stuke, President, excitedly announced that Bennett's Sewing Center is donating a Janome sewing machine. The committee decided that no matter how many entries a person submits, they only get their name in the drawing once. And that entering something in the Challenge Block does not qualify for these special prize drawings.

There will be prizes for visitors again this year. Judy gave a yoyo quilt pattern, Joen Truhe gave two embroidered pillowcases, Phyllis Gordon is completing a table runner she is making to donate, and I think Cynthia is putting together a packet of 5 inch fabric squares. Phyllis Mundel is making an informational poster to explain the Challenge Block contest. The recipient of the resulting quilt has not yet been determined. WINGS has received 2 quilts as donations already and can not handle a third quilt.

People signed up to work most of the timeslots at the fair. Hope to see everyone there

Charity Quilt Committee: Carolyn Bennett reports that 12 baby blankets and quilts were donated to the Anderson County Hospital ER Department; 6 lap quilts were given to Anderson County Hospital Long Term Care Unit; 4 large lap quilts to Anderson County Hospital Hospice Department.

Audit Committee: Audit is to be completed by the August 23rd meeting.

Nominating Committee: Slate of Officers: President, Judy Stuke; Vice-President, Charlotte Lutz; Secretary, Cynthia Fletcher; Treasurer, Lynda Feuerborn; Historian, Rose Dennison; Newsletter, Terrie Gifford. Carolyn Bennett moved to accept the slate of officers, seconded by Rose Dennison. Motioned Carried.

August 2012 Luncheon: Each member is to bring a salad or covered dish, and their own table service.

Old Business: Charlotte Lutz asked the guild to make a donation to the Garnett Public Library for the use of the Archer room for two of our meetings this year. Phyllis Gordon moved that the guild donate $30.00 to the Library. Seconded by Lynda Feuerborn. Motioned Carried.

New Business: No open sewing in July. Rose Dennison motioned that we have no meeting in July, since our normal meeting day falls during the Anderson County Fair. Carolyn Bennett 2nd. Motioned Carried.

Mail was received from The Quilted Kitty introducing their business. Their brochure was passed around. Mail was also received from Mary Redeker of the Ottawa Sunflower Piecemaker's Quilt Guild regarding their Quilt Show. It is set for September 8, 2012.

Secret Sister Gifts: Sharon Bowman received a seam ripper, pins, placemats and coaster set.

Show and Tell

Marlene Walburn showed a charity blanket that she made from fabric donated to the guild from Ruth Hoffmeier. She also showed a finished pillow case kit she received from her Secret sister. Phyllis Gordon showed 2 table runners. Mary Luney donated 4 pillow cases to be used for the Challenge Quilts of Valors and a large lap quilt for charity. Carolyn Crupper showed her Fair Challenge block. Nancy Kreibach showed a charity baby quilt. Violet Holt showed a table topper. Lynda Feuerborn showed a quilt top, and Fish book written by Phyllis Moore. Kay Roeckers showed a baby blanket from a Buttons and Bows pattern, No quilting involved with this pattern. Rose Dennison displayed a lap quilt made for her husband using plaid flannels. Ruth Theis displayed a quilt made for a friend, using her friends Royal Crown bags, She also displayed her finished Sun Bonnet Sue quilt using gingham. Terrie Gifford shared a historical magazine about quilts and quilting that was purchased at an auction.

Meeting adjourned.

Minutes recorded by Cynthia Fletcher, Secretary

Egidy leads Dynamite 4-H Club meeting

The Dynamite 4-H club met on June 24, 2012, under the direction of President Morgan Egidy. Morgan led the club in reciting the Pledge of Allegiance. The Secretary, Savannah Moon, took roll call by asking each member to state their favorite summer activity. Fifteen members, nine parents, two guests, and one leader were in attendance. After roll call Savannah read the minutes of the May 13th meeting. The President approved the minutes with no corrections or additions.

The meeting business was reports from club officers and leaders. Treasurer, Nicole Dupont, gave an update on the monthly income and expenses.

All balances were recorded and approved. Club leader Tammy Egidy reminded members of the pre-fair judging of crafts and photography at the County Annex on July 21st. Tammy also reported the Dynamite 4-H club will be responsible to run the concession stand during the fair on July 25th and the club members will be required to pick up trash at the fairgrounds on July 27th. President, Morgan Egidy, presented some new business. The club was asked to sponsor some trophies for the fair. Austin Akers moved to sponsor two trophies for the fair and Samantha Nickell seconded the motion. The motion was brought to a vote and it passed.

At the conclusion of the meeting business, the President kept the gavel for the presentation of the talks. Austin Akers gave a project talk about his pig. After the talk was over the recreation officer suggested the group play outside at the conclusion of the meeting. Morgan announced the next meeting will be held on July 25th at the Anderson County fairgrounds. This will be an informal meeting in which the group will eat pizza and tour the 4-H project displays of each club member.

After the announcement, the President asked for a motion to adjourn. Austin Akers made the motion and it was seconded Samantha Nickell. The meeting was adjourned by reciting the 4-H pledge. After the meeting the group enjoyed the refreshments provided by the Egidy family.

Several local ladies took time out from this horrible heat wave to enjoy an afternoon at the movies and dinner in the city; Lavon Chase, Louise Sties, Carlene Brownback, along with Janice Stahl of Parker, traveled north on Thursday where they saw "People Like Us" and Madea's Witness Protection." They wrapped up their outing with dinner at Granite City in Olathe

How to live the exchanged life?

Now there was a man of the Pharisee's named Nicodemus, a member of the Jewish ruling council. He came to Jesus at night and said, "Rabbi we know that you are a teacher who has come from God. For no one could perform the miraculous signs you are doing if God were not with him." (John 3:1-2)

For whatever reason Nicodemus was drawn to Jesus. He no doubt had heard his teaching and had seen the many miracles he had performed. In order to preserve his standing with the Jewish ruling council he came to Jesus at night. Since he was a Pharisee Nicodemus was a religious man. In order to have the position he had Nicodemus lived in strict accordance with the Jewish laws, however something was missing for him to take this risk with his reputation. This explains why he came at night. Nicodemus was in no way prepared for the answer Jesus gave to his question.

In reply Jesus declared, "I tell you the truth, no one can see the kingdom of God unless he is born again." (John 3:3) This brings us to the point Jesus was making with Nicodemus. As important as we feel religion is it is not a means to salvation. Jesus was saying you must be born from above. Nicodemus was so preoccupied with religion he missed the masters touch. Jesus said live a changed life Nicodemus not a life filled with labor trying to be religious. In order to change a life one must exchange the old life for the new life.

Jesus said "The wind blows wherever it pleases. You hear its sound, but you cannot tell where it comes from or where it is going. So it is with everyone born of the spirit." (John 3:8) When someone is born again there is an inward change of heart which results in an outward change of life. The process by which this occurs is like the wind, we don't see the wind we just see the results of it. We cannot physically see the rebirth of a person just the results.

In John 3:3 we see the route to salvation. In John 3:16 the apostle gives us the price that was paid. "For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life. For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world but to save the world thru him"

In John 19:39 we see Nicodemus living the exchanged life as he assists Joseph of Arimathea in placing Jesus in the tomb. We don't see the wind but we feel the results. We don't see the rebirth just the results.

Goodbye, Garnett High School/ Elementary Center

A retrospective look at the building's history

The community paid its final respects to the school at an open house in June. The school was nearly 100 years old.

During demolition Aug. 2, former classrooms were visible as parts of the building came crumbling down.

As an elementary school in 1993, students participated in Jump Rope for Heart in what is now the Ray Meyer Gym.

The Class of 1992 was the final high school graduating class at Garnett. After that, high school was moved to Anderson County High School. Elementary grades 2-6 were moved to the former high school building, which was renamed Garnett Elementary Center (GEC).

Homecoming, 1983, in what is now the Ray Meyer Gym.

New emergency haying, grazing of CRP provisions announced

The Kansas Farm Service Agency has recently added another Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) practice that can be requested to be hayed under the emergency haying or grazing provisions. Practice CP-25 has been added to the list of eligible CRP practices that may be hayed or grazed.

CRP participants MUST contact the local Farm Service Agency (FSA) county office to request emergency haying or grazing on an individual contract basis prior to haying or grazing. Participants will work with FSA to determine if the CRP practice is eligible for emergency haying or grazing. If determined eligible by FSA, participants will work with the Natural Resources Conservation Service to develop a forage management plan. If the CRP cover is destroyed, the practice must be re-established at their own expense to remain in compliance with the CRP contract.

Participants must also accept a 10 percent reduction in the annual rental payment for the acres actually hayed or grazed.

Emergency grazing can begin after the request is approved by FSA and the authorized period ends September 30, 2012. Participants shall leave at least 25 percent of each field or contiguous CRP fields ungrazed for wildlife, or graze not more than 75 percent of the normal stocking rate. All livestock must be removed by the end of this grazing period.

Emergency haying can begin after the request is approved by FSA and the authorized period ends August 31, 2012. Participants must leave at least 50 percent of each field or contiguous fields ungrazed for wildlife. Hay must be removed from the field by September 30, 2012.

Managed haying and grazing is not allowed on the same acreage. Please contact the Anderson County FSA Office at 111 N. Maple, Garnett, KS or call 785-448-3128 for additional information concerning emergency haying or grazing of CRP. All requests MUST be on file AND approved BEFORE the land is hayed or grazed.
