Key to ACH deal is in the numbers

St. Luke's lease payments would pay 70% of new facility's bond, interest

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - The chairman of the Anderson County Hospital Board of Directors says the secret to understanding the benefit of a new hospital to both Anderson County and to St. Luke's Health System is in "who" pays for "what," and what a new facility can deliver to local patients and to the tenant.

Increased lease payments in the new agreement used to pay off the debt would mean St.

Luke's effectively will pay for 70 percent of the total bond and interest costs over the 30-year life of the bonds. A $2 million gift of new equipment at the beginning of the project, combined with the first 10 years lease payment, means St. Luke's pays $2 million of the initial $25 million construction cost.

"That's one of the reasons we believe this is the best possible time to do this," said ACH Board of Directors chairman Dave Lybarger. "We basically have a renter who's going to sign a 35-year lease and whose going to pay off 70 percent of the costs, and we want to do everything we can to continue

New hours announced for Westphalia post office

Change follows efforts by postal service to cut costs, hours

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WESTPHALIA - In the wake of news that the U.S. Postal Service would cut Saturday mail deliveries, Westphalia residents learned their post office would reduce its hours.

The Westphalia Post Office retail office now will be open from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday, and will be open just one hour - from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. - on Saturdays. The new retail hours will begin Saturday, March 23.

The reduced hours schedule follows several steps taken by U.S.P.S. officials to cut its expenses in the past several months. At one time, the postal service announced it would close about 3,700 smaller offices across the country - including offices at Westphalia and Kincaid - but restrictions set in place by the U.S. Congress stopped those closings and forced the USPS to focus on reducing hours at 13,100 post offices nationwide.

Rec center benefits from New Year's resolutions, programs

More than 2K people visit rec center in January; most ever

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Bolstered by New Year's resolutions and state weight loss programs, the Garnett Recreation Center's membership is at its highest point since it opened more than a year ago.

More than 2,000 people visited the recreation center in January, up from 1,337 in December 2012 - an increase of 50 percent in just one month.

Of those visitors, 162 bought monthly memberships to the center. Employee programs - the hospital, city and county pays for memberships for employees - brought 138 people from Anderson County Hospital, 94 city employees and 37 county employees. The rest of the visitors came from exercise programs, a new after-school program and city recreation programs like Biddy Basketball. An average of 65 people visit the center each day.

"We're just bursting at the seams. It's a great thing for the city," City Manager Joyce

Longtime city employee retires

Change presents city an opportunity to focus on zoning issues

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - The retirement of a longtime city official is an opportunity for the City of Garnett to put more emphasis on its zoning and nuisance enforcement.

Herb Waring, who has been

with the city since April 1981 and serves as the zoning administrator and parks and recreation director, is retiring in April after 32 years.

The city plans to fill his position, but city manager Joyce Martin said she considered several options when Waring announced his intention to retire. She considered not filling the position to save costs in a difficult economic time. But after evaluating the city's needs, Martin said it made sense to fill the position with more emphasis on zoning administration.

"I want to be a little more

Snow Happens

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 02-26-2013 / Dane Hicks

Area residents will face another onslaught of snow, after nearly 10 inches of snow fell over the region last week, and between 6 to 12 inches could fall again this week. City road crews will implement a new procedure for snow removal this week by closing both sides of a block while crews plow the streets within that block.

Repeat snowstorm challenges street snow removal work

Second big snow could dump 6-12 more inches

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Another snowstorm expected today could dump another 6 to 12 inches of snow on Anderson County on top of about 10 inches left over from last week's storm.

Mother Nature apparently has decided winter should arrive in late February, bringing two of the biggest snowstorms to hit the county in several years - both falling within a week of each other.

County and city officials say they are prepared for this latest round of snow, even though employees worked about a dozen or more hours of overtime last week to keep streets passable for motorists. Garnett road crews will implement a new procedure during this storm: closing roads a block at a time as road crews work to clear snow.

Last week's storm, which hit Wednesday night into Thursday, dropped a total of 9.8 inches of powdery snow across the area, according to totals at the Garnett Municipal Airport.

Another storm was expected to begin Monday afternoon and evening, after The Review went to press, and could continue through Wednesday. Forecasters pre-

Crest parents ask district to consider 4-day week

Board doesn't discuss issue brought up during PAT topic

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - Questions about shifting teacher duties to save money led to an unusual request from some parents in the Crest school district last week: Would the district be willing to consider adopting a four-day school week?

A handful of Crest parents asked board members if they had considered making a change similar to the Leroy school district, which began testing a four-day school week a couple of years ago. Under a four-day school week, students attend school slightly longer four days a week and have fewer holidays. Although some working parents have concerns about what to do with a child on the day off, churches or others could offer programs that day. Leroy parents like having a non-school day to schedule things like doctor appointments, and students seem more energized and excited about school, parent Aundi Miller said.

But teacher and coach Travis Hermreck said he took part in a committee several years ago that studied four-day school weeks. Academic achievement and test scores suffered when that change was made, he said.

BENEFIT 5K RUN/WALK

A 5K run/walk will be 9 a.m. March 9 at the Lake Garnett Park to help the Drumm family. The family is expecting the arrival of baby Zeno in late March. He has a neural tube defect that is always fatal once the baby is born. For more information, contact Patty Rundle at (785) 304-1118 or Randi Salazar at (316) 789-3826.

KINDERGARTEN ROUNDUP

Children in USD 365 who will be 5 years old on or before Aug. 31 are eligible to attend kindergarten next fall. Appointments are now being taken for kindergarten roundup screenings at Garnett Elementary School from 12:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday March 27. Allow 45-60 minutes. Call (785) 448-3177 to schedule. Roundup includes stations (color, cut, glue, motor skills, academic screening), completing paperwork (you may also turn in birth certificate, immunization log and physical assessment, if available), meeting school staff and teachers, and snacks.

GARNETT PET TAGS DUE

Dog and cat licenses are due before March 1. The last day to buy pet tags, without penalty, is Feb. 28. Fees are $7.50 for spayed or neutered pet and $20 for a pet that is not spayed or neutered. As of March 1, the fees will double to $25 and $40 respectively. A current rabies certification for each pet must be kept on file at City Hall. Failure to comply will result in the pet tag being revoked and a fine issued.

HELP FOR ANIMALS

Anyone willing to donate kitty litter, canned dog food or canned cat food, dog and cat toys, paper towels, laundry and cleaning supplies, or newspaper to help support Prairie Paws Animal Shelter can contact Lisa at 785-304-4286.

SEVERE WEATHER ALERT

Anderson County residents who want to get National Weather Service severe weather warnings by phone via the county's CodeRed system should register online at www.andersoncountysks.org, click Public safety/emergency management, or pick up registration forms at the county annex, Garnett City Hall, Garnett Library, Welda Post office, Westphalia Co-op, Greeley City Hall, Kincaid City Hall or Colony City Hall. You must be registered to receive the severe weather warnings by landline or cell phone. For more information contact AC Emergency Management at (785) 448-6797.

Clarification

An article in the Feb. 12 edition of The Review said that a person registering to vote after Jan. 1 can use a driver's license as proof of citizenship. However, the driver's license must include a notation that the person has provided satisfactory proof of citizenship. Such notations are included only in the new driver's licenses that recently began being distributed. The majority of people will have to show their birth certificates, county clerk Phyllis Gettler said.

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS FEBRUARY 11

Chairman Eugene Highberger called the meeting of the Anderson County Board of Commissioners to order at 9:00 a.m. on February 11 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Eugene Highberger, Present; James K. Johnson, Present; Jerry Howarter, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Road and Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor, met with the commission. He has received a permit to move a house through Anderson County. He has received a contract from the railroad to put crossing gates in near Selma. He will leave the contracts so that the county counselor can review them. Discussion was held on the 1 1/2 percent raise that was granted. Commissioner Howarter questioned what happens with the additional 1 1/2 percent that will be collected since it was in the budget requests that were approved. It was explained that any extra carryover at the end of the year would go into the reserve funds.

Job Interviews

Commission conducted interviews for the solid waste supervisor position.

Sheriff Valentine

Sheriff Valentine met with the commission. He updated the commission on what Advantage Computer found when they came in last week and that Lighthouse Electric had repaired the control room door that was not working. He has been talking to other counties about the possibility of housing their prisoners.

Abatements and Escaped Tax

Abatements B13-163 through B13-171 and Escaped Tax E13-110 through E13-121 were presented and approved.

Citizen Concerns

Dean Register met with the commission concerning the proposed hospital. He questioned the information that is being published. He mentioned that the payment is going to depend on what the interest rate is. If the interest rate is higher, then the county share will be higher if St. Luke's portion is set at $1,024,000.

County Attorney

Brandon Jones, County Attorney, met with the commission. He updated the commission of the reorganization he has done since he came into the office. There is currently a county attorney check fee fund that is accumulating from a fee for bad checks. He would like to use that fee to fund some changes to the office and from now on those fees will go directly to the general fund. He talked to the commission about carpeting, painting, blinds, lighting, and the need for a desk and computer system. Brandon talked to the commission about the appeal work. He would charge $75.00 per hour for time away from the county. Any appeal work done while on county time would not be charged for. He would like it paid as salary with taxes taken out.

Railroad

Commission signed contracts for the installation of gates and signals for the railroad crossing at 900 Road and Virginia Road.

Solid Waste Supervisor

Commissioner Johnson moved to offer the position of Solid Waste Supervisor to Robert Garrett. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. Discussion was held on the salary. It was decided to place it 10% up the range with the option to increase it when training has been completed.

Meeting adjourned at 12:30 p.m.

GEORGE

May 21, 1923-February 17, 2013

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW
Published February 26, 2013

Jacob George, age 89, of Colony, Kansas, passed away on Sunday, February 17, 2013, at the Allen County Hospital in Iola, Kansas.

George

He was born on May 21, 1923, on the farm two miles southwest of Neosho Falls, Kansas, the son of J.B. and Bessie (Kimler) George. He graduated from Neosho Falls High School in 1940. In 1942, Jacob moved to Wichita where he worked as a welder until December of 1947 when he returned to the farm where he enjoyed raising registered Hereford cattle until illness forced him to stop. Jacob then spent some time in the insurance and real estate business in Humboldt, Kansas, before going to Topeka where he opened a health food store and returned to school, obtaining a degree in nutrition. In the late 1980's he sold his health store in Topeka and moved to Colony, Kansas. He then started the Harvest Health Food Store in Humboldt, Kansas for Paul Finney.

Jacob was united in marriage to Mildred Stutz. She preceded him in death.

He was a member of the Colony Community Church. Jacob enjoyed reading and playing games.

He was also preceded in death by his parents and six brothers, Larence, Russell, Howard, Wilson, Robert, and John.

Jacob is survived by one sister, Virginia Dutton and husband Jay of Colony, Kansas; seventeen nieces and nephews; two sisters-in-law, Wilma George of Wichita, Kansas and Doris George of Burlington, Kansas.

Funeral services were Wednesday, February 20, 2013, at the Colony Community Church in Colony, Kansas. Burial followed in the Cedarvale Cemetery in Neosho Falls, Kansas.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Colony Community Church and left in care of the funeral home, PO BOX 408, Garnett, Kansas 66032. Condolences to the family may be left at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

dicted that storm would bring between 8 to 14 inches, with most of the snow falling overnight Monday into Tuesday. Temperatures were expected to remain below or near freezing throughout the week, possibly reaching a high of 38 by Sunday, according to the National Weather Service at Topeka.

County and city road crews likely will face another few days of overtime, following a week that demanded they hit the streets during the evenings and even Saturday.

About 23 county road employees each worked 10 to 12 hours of overtime last week, road department supervisor Lester Welsh said. Some employees worked Thursday through Saturday, including evenings, to clear county roads.

"It was all right - nothing we couldn't deal with. It wasn't quite as bad as a few years ago," Welsh said of the county's snow cleanup.

City road crews also worked throughout the week and on Saturday to clear city streets. About a dozen employees, some from other departments, were called in to help, City Manager

Joyce Martin said.

Road crews in Garnett will do things a little differently with this storm, Martin said. As a crew prepares to plow snow from a block, at least on the downtown square, they will close the block to traffic by using barricades or a flagman. Martin said she was in Ottawa Saturday and watched Ottawa road crews use that procedure. She said it should improve safety for city residents and road crew members, and should allow crews to plow the streets more quickly if they aren't battling traffic.

Martin also asked people to avoid parking on city streets if at all possible. Crews must plow around parked vehicles, and such vehicles tend to get buried in the snow.

Officials from both the city and county said they have enough salt supplies to get through this storm, thanks mostly to mild winters the past two years. The county may need to order some salt after this storm, though, Welsh said.

POST OFFICE...

The postal service has organized community meetings in areas where offices were scheduled for closing or reduced hours. About 254 Westphalia postal residents were sent a survey about their preferences, and 125 surveys were returned, with 93 percent favoring a change in hours over other options like using a nearby post office or having mail delivery only. A planning meeting was held Feb. 1 with 50 people attending.

The new hours will be posted in the Westphalia Post Office lobby.

aggressive when it comes to our nuisances and dilapidated structures," Martin said.

Waring's duties also include overseeing the parks and recreation department, including the city's cemeteries. The position will continue to oversee those departments in an administrative capacity, but some other city employees will see increased responsibilities.

The city has been advertising the position on a human resources Internet site and has received several applications. The position is being posted locally, including in today's Review on Page 4B, in order to give city employees and local residents an opportunity to apply. So far, the city has received about 20 applications, Martin said.

Martin said she would like to have the position filled by about mid-March.

Vernon Thomas Wharton, 97, of Pensacola, was born in Worth County, Missouri on April 17, 1915 to Tom and Pearl Wharton. He passed away on Tuesday, February 19, 2013.

Vernon dedicated his entire life to family and Government work; first serving in the United States Army, then continuing his career with military civil service until retirement.

He is survived by his wife of 68 years, Mary Elizabeth Caldwell Wharton; daughters Mary Jane (Gerald) Byrd and Janet Marie Wharton; granddaughters Kari Patrice (Mark) Givens, Juli Elizabeth (Bill) Reece and Cori Ann Byrd; 4 great grandchildren, Conner and Sean Givens, and Jackson and Chloe Reece.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donations to www.knightstemplar.org or your favorite charity.

The funeral service was Monday, February 25, 2013 at Oak Lawn Funeral Home, followed by burial at Barrancas National Cemetery.

REC CENTER...

Martin told commissioners at their Feb. 12 meeting.

In January, the rec center brought in $4,006 - enough to cover the center's operational costs. When the city first began exploring the possibility of a recreation center - after the former National Guard armory was turned back over to the city in 2010 - city officials promised not to use taxpayer money for the center. Instead, donations helped pay to remodel the building and fill it with recreational equipment such as exercise bikes and weight-training machines, as well as a gymnasium and walking track. The goal was to use membership fees to pay for the operations, such as staff, in addition to donations. Martin said previously that the center's operational costs were between $1,500 to $2,000 per month. That does not include utilities because it is a city-owned building.

The revenue shows an increase in use, as well. In January 2011, the center collected a little more than $3,500 in membership and daily use fees. In December 2012, the center collected $2,915, also up from the previous year, when the center collected $2,062 in December 2011.

Martin said although more people are using the center, it does not appear to be too crowded. The center continues to receive more exercise equipment through donations, so machines typically are available when someone wants to work out. Some of the busiest times are in the mornings, when groups of people gather to walk or work out.

"When I go by in the mornings, there's more and more people," Martin said. "I hope we have enough machines so people don't get discouraged." Biddy Basketball also brings some of the biggest crowds to the center in January and February, especially on Saturdays.

Many people have requested the center open earlier, and that is something officials are exploring, Martin said.

School districts that adopt such a system should do it as a last resort if they need to save money, Hermreck suggested.

The board did not discuss the issue and did not indicate a preference for or against four-day school weeks. The discussion by parents followed an earlier concern by board member Jason Beckmon, who wanted more information about a suggestion by superintendent Jerry Turner to do away with the Parents As Teachers program and create a position that would be half-time teacher, half-time para-professional.

At an earlier board meeting, Turner had discussed an opening after a third grade teacher resigned. He suggested a certified teacher would teach the class during half the day, and spend the other half working as a para to help teach reading to first and second graders. The other half of the class would be taught by the Parents As Teachers leader, who already teaches pre-school during the first half of the day and spends the rest of her time working on Parents As Teachers. The district would do away with its Parents As Teachers program.

Parents As Teachers is designed to work with parents and very young children, ages birth to 3, in order to give kids a head start for school readiness and development. The program is partially funded by federal grants, but the money has been declining each year.

Board members did not make a decision about the Parents As Teachers program.

Gun scare means jobs

Anderson County should recruit gun, ammo makers unwelcome in blue states

Write a letter. Send a box of premium Kansas steaks. Pay a personal visit. Anderson County officials and even our local residents should be full-court pressing U.S. manufacturers of guns and ammunition to move from liberal states where they are now political targets and bring their production facilities- and those jobs- to gun-friendly Anderson County, Kansas. States like Texas and Mississippi already have a lead on us. Texas Governor Rick Perry has been courting the gun and ammo makers for months ever since the heat's been on them, sending invitations to 26 manufacturers in states like Massachusetts, Colorado, Connecticut, New York, Maryland and New Hampshire to flee those political climates that now view them as evil stepchildren and bring their operations to Texas, where the skies are clear and guns are welcome. Even Mississippi- used to being last in about everything- saw the opportunity.

"In our state," wrote Mississippi House Speaker Phillip Gunn to Colt Manufacturing in Connecticut, "you will not be criticized for providing good to the law abiding citizens who enjoy hunting, shooting or who just want the peace of mind that comes with the constitutional right to protect their families."

Kudos to these leaders on seeing the potential blessings left by the scorn of others. The liberal left, centered with the Obama Administration and promoting what it sees as a new wave of support for photo-opp-rich gun control after the Sandy Hook Elementary School shooting, has undertaken the vilification of guns, gun manufacturers and even gun owners in order to exact tighter restrictions and registration requirements. The other side of that political dynamic- gun owners and enthusiasts- have responded by purchasing record numbers of firearms in recent months under the belief that they may eventually be illegal or much harder to get. Gun supporters have been flocking to take concealed carry gun classes and get permits to carry weapons on their persons. Last month Kansas set a record for concealed carry permit applications with 3,167 applications- the highest of any month since the Legislature enacted concealed carry in 2006. Perry and Gunn and others trying to recruit those manufacturers to their own states are showing savvy by following the trend and playing their hand.

Anderson County, which has lost 70 jobs in the past few years from factory closings and drought-related issues, is gun country too. We should be playing our hand.

In fact, why not make it a grass roots approach? What if every gun owner in Anderson County sat down tonight and wrote a letter to the maker of his/her handgun, rifle or shotgun inviting them to take a look at what Anderson County has to offer? A gun-friendly local culture, generations of local labor pool with experience with firearms, a great location tied with great local transportation and quick urban access. And don't forget, we even have an industrial building with free rent.

Sound far fetched? Maybe. But taking any shot at the target is better than unloading and waiting for miracles to happen.

Head Start facts contradict Obama

BY RICH LOWRY

NATIONAL REVIEW

The least-plausible sentence in the English language is "We know this works," when those words are spoken by President Barack Obama.

He said them the other week in his State of the Union address about early-childhood education. President Obama called for universal preschool funded by the federal government in cooperation with the states. He cited "study after study" showing that investment in Pre-K pays for itself several times over by creating better outcomes for children.

Lowry

He said this about two months after the release of a devastating report on the ineffectiveness of the federal government's already-existing $8 billion-a-year Pre-K program, Head Start. The study wasn't published by The Heritage Foundation. It was conducted by the Department of Health and Human Services, which presumably doesn't have a right-wing agenda or bristle with hostility toward children.

Grover Whitehurst of the Brookings Institution calls the study "one of the most ambitious, methodologically rigorous, and expensive federal program evaluations carried out in the last quarter century." The HHS study concluded that "there were initial positive impacts from having access to Head Start, but by the end of 3rd grade there were very few impacts ... . The few impacts that were found did not show a clear pattern of favorable or unfavorable impacts for children."

One would have thought that an elaborate, state-of-the-art study of Head Start would have merited mention in a speech advocating expansion of Head Start-like programs. Instead, the president invoked "study after study" to create an impression of empirical certainty that, at the very least, doesn't exist.

He said the experience of Oklahoma and Georgia with Pre-K is that it makes it more likely kids will go on to graduate high school, hold jobs and form stable families. Glenn Kessler, the fact-checker at The Washington Post, interviewed people close to the Oklahoma and Georgia programs, and they didn't know what the president was talking about.

Believers in Pre-K usually cite the success of the Perry Preschool Project and the Abecedarian Project, widely heralded early-childhood education programs from the 1960s and the 1970s. But Grover Whitehurst notes what sets them apart: They were very small, lavishly funded, multiyear programs run by small teams of highly committed experts. The question is whether they can replicate them on a vast scale. The 40-year experience of Head Start, now serving 1 million children, says "no."

If the state of the research mattered to the president, he would be cautious rather than audacious in his Pre-K goals. He would focus on at-risk kids, who have the most to gain from Pre-K, rather than launching a new universal program. He would want more research on what does and doesn't work at the state level rather than declaring the question settled for all time. He would support incrementalism rather than a vast expansion on top of a failed Head Start.

But he has an ideological commitment to an expansive government and an unshakable faith in its ability, given enough funding and the right rules and regulations, to overcome any obstacle. So impervious is his point of view to the evidence that even his own Department of Health and Human Services can't penetrate it.

House resolution could reveal true colors on Medicaid expansion debate

We may be about to see the bright yellow line between the House's majority conservative Republican less-government mantra and the health of those representatives' constituents, the financial future of the hospitals that serve those constituents and the future of health care professionals who treat the sick and injured.

There's a chance that a decision made in the House may translate pretty well into a political acumen test for those legislators.

The issue: A resolution — that's a nonbinding declaration of the will of legislators — that urges the governor not to accept a federal government offer to expand the range of Kansans who qualify for Medicaid health care for the poor, or KanCare, the catchy new Kansas name for Medicaid.

Gov. Sam Brownback isn't keen on the federal expansion of eligibility for Medicaid, err, KanCare, for which the feds will pay 100 percent of the cost for the first three years and about 90 percent of the cost thereafter.

That billion dollar-plus offer means that more Kansans would qualify for health care and that the providers of that health care — the doctors and hospitals and clinics and such — would be paid for providing those services to Kansans.

Brownback so far is coy, but philosophically doesn't much care for the Medicaid expansion, saying that at some point, Kansas is going to pick up some of the bill for that care—probably

by Martin Hawver
KANSAS STATEHOUSE COLUMNIST

somewhere in his second term if he is reelected.

So, if this decision can be squarely focused on the governor — praise or blame, take your pick — why in the world would legislators want to put their vote on a resolution to urge him to reject the Medicaid offer?

A vote for the resolution means they want the governor to reject care for some of their constituents, to punish the budgets of health care providers, and maybe, just maybe, the closure of some cash-strapped rural hospitals and clinics that care for the poor in their communities?

A vote against the resolution? That can be portrayed as support for "Obamacare" that will

Did you know that our banks in this wonderful country have lobbied the legislature to remove the sticker on your ATM that tells you how much of a fee you're going to pay for using your cash card at an ATM that don't belong to your bank? That's what our banks are doing for us in this country ladies and gentlemen, and that's what our congress is doing. Trying to make sure that the banks have a chance to screw us out of every nickel they possibly can. I think we should be real proud of our banking industry and we should be real proud of our congress. Thank you very much.

For a couple of months now I've had a question that nobody can seem to answer. That is: Where in the world do they plan on building this new hospital. Nothing has been said about where they're going to put it. Are they gonna have to go in and use eminent domain again and steal somebody's land? There's not another place big enough, they'll have to put it out of town.

Let's face it. Garnett can be classified as a bedroom community. Attempts to gain meaningful economic development and business for the county area have fallen on hard times. Most everything is stagnant. The City of Garnett recently received the Chamber's Business of the Year Award. I feel they do a very good job, but the point is they are not a true business. Where are the real business enterprises to fill this void? We need a bigger tax and more jobs before we even consider raising property taxes to build a new hospital. We are a nice community, but we are not an Iola, Burlington or Ottawa for such big costly building projects paid for by the property owner taxpayers. Thank you.

From Westphalia, a big thanks to the Anderson County road crew and their boss. Good job.

So you think the military industrial complex carries a lot of weight in Washington D.C.? Health care and pharmaceutical companies spend four times as much lobbying Congress as the military industry does. Food for thought.

(Editor's note: A cell phone call regarding a vehicle stranded on Bush City road was too broken to understand. Please call back from a different location or a land line.)

Yeah, I see the frickn' city has plowed my driveway over three foot tall. I had a breathing appointment today, can't get out my driveway because of the city. They really need to change the way they do these streets- making it where people can't even get out of their house. If I get sick enough and have to call an ambulance I don't even know how they're going to get to my house because of the way they plowed. I'll sue their (deleted).

Washington can't cut 2.4 percent out of trillions of dollars? Most of us have taken more than a 2.4 percent hit on our salaries just in the rise in gas prices in the past two years. Anybody ask Roberts and Jenkins why they're not doing their jobs?

HOSPITAL...

that partnership.”
 St. Luke's leases ACH from Anderson County to operate local health services and uses its local clinic services and other offerings to drive patient revenues into specialty treatments and advanced care in its main hospitals in Kansas City. That model is part of the changing national face of U.S. health-care, as mobility, technology and networks of practicing doctors in a variety of disciplines connect local patients with expertise and services far away from their immediate locales.

The problem, as described by hospital staffers and local board members, is that most of the building's core infrastructure - heating and cooling systems, plumbing and water connections, etc., are antiquated and in need of replacement. Some are so old spare parts can't be found any more. Water and sewer pipes were buried in concrete during its 1949 construction and are now filling with sediment and lime deposits that restrict their capacity; surgical areas, built during the days before technology and machines made surgeries quicker and safer, are now cramped and hard to maneuver within. The medical gas system needs to be upgraded as well, and the building has only one connection to the city's water supply - building codes for hospitals now require two connections.

The price tag to repair the structure instead of build new is $21 million, stretched over 7 years and after a number of business interruptions due to individual projects. Even that option would still require a bond to be approved by county voters.

Lybarger said the deal is pretty simple overall: If the new facility is approved, the county gets a brand new hospital to replace its 60-year-old structure with St. Luke's paying for 70 percent of it. St. Luke's gets a long-term commitment from Anderson County that will continue a flow of local patients into its business stream. The new lease agreement allows St. Luke's to get out of the lease after 10 years with a mandatory two year notice, which Lybarger said would allow ACH time to strike a new lease deal with another regional health care system to replace St. Luke's.

Under the terms of the new agreement, St. Luke's annual lease payment for the facility would go from the present $440,000 per year to $1.024 million annually. Presently the county banks the lease payment to attempt to fund repair and maintenance to the structure - a sum that doesn't approach the actual repair costs of the facility's many issues. Since the new facility would be nearly repair free, most of that payment would go into paying off the voter-approved bonds. The construction agreement would also include some $2 million in new equipment to outfit the facility to be paid for by St. Luke's.

Preliminary estimates project interest rates on the construction bonds under 4 percent, and St. Luke's financial contributions would mean a tax increase for local property owners of 5.3 mills. Any savings on the interest rate would be applied against the county's mill levy, since St. Luke's lease payment would be fixed.

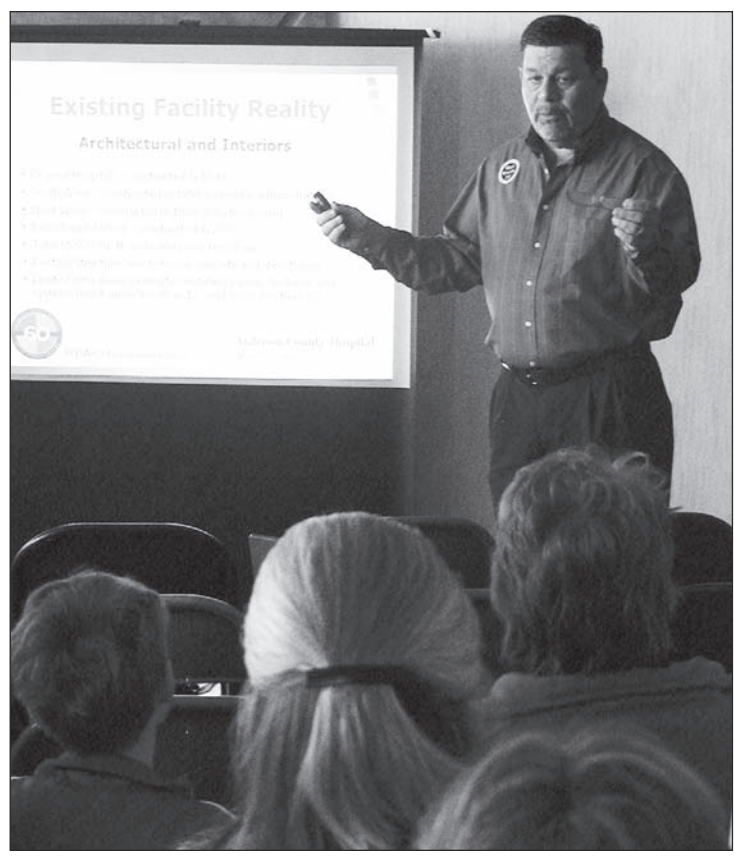

Part of the reason St. Luke's can pay a higher lease payment on a new facility has to do with ACH's federal designation as a "Critical Access Hospital" and the preferential reimbursements for services allowed by Medicare because of that designation. The new facility would also continue with that designation, and St. Luke's vice-president for regional services Don Sipes says the numbers and future projections have been well studied to come up with the plan.

"As is true with the many other hospitals that are federally designated as Critical Access Hospitals and have elected to proceed with new facilities, Anderson County Hospital will receive additional Medicare reimbursement for a portion of its costs associated with the new facility and technology," Sipes said. "When this additional reimbursement is incorporated into the financial model along with projected anticipated growth in service volumes, we are able to determine at what level the hospital-which is of course operated and supported by the Saint Luke's Health System-can sustain additional lease payments without placing the operation at undue risk for its financial sustainability."

Analysts and engineers also looked at a "Plan B" option which would repair the checklist of issues with the present ACH - an option which an independent engineering firm said would cost $21 million and would have to be stretched out over 7 years. The downside to Plan B is interruption of services at the hospital for a number of the projects, as well as day-to-day challenges operating around constant projects. Under this option St. Luke's would not increase its present lease payment or fund the initial $2 million in equipment purchases.

The vote on the issue is set for April 1.

David Lybarger, chairman of the Anderson County Hospital Board of Trustees, gives a presentation about the need for a new Anderson County Hospital facility.

I just want to thank the City of Garnett for not putting their snow plows down to the street to clean our streets off and to haul the snow off downtown like they used to. I know its okay for them to cut corners but if we are late on our utility bill they charge us extra. I see a double standard, might be called hypocrite. That's what happens when you have a city manager not qualified to be in the position.

Most citizens appreciate the present local hospital providing emergency service, the laboratory, radiology unit and access to visiting doctors for specialty clinics. Possibly that should be the entire focus and not try to be a miniature St. Luke's, which is never going to be possible due to financial limitations. I am told the present inpatient hospitalization rooms are used very little with most patients transferred on to Johnson County. Despite this fact the proposed new hospital plan includes room for 10 inpatient beds with possible expansion to 25 beds. I seriously question this decision. Let's keep the present hospital building, make only the absolute necessary modifications to support the areas which most citizens primarily use. A tour of the building raises the possibility that some of the large administrative wing could be consolidated and better used for patient use facilities. I think the decision to renovate would more closely match the tax payers pocketbooks.

AC substate postponed

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - A win and a loss in last week's final two games of regular season play put the ACHS Bulldogs at 14-6, and seeded the team first in last night's planned 4A substate opener game against Baxter Springs. Inclement weather brought a postponement until Wednesday.

AC fell to Paola last Monday night 62-47 but beat Iola 77-56. The record put AC at the top of the Pioneer League heap for 2013 with a 9-1 league record.

The present substate tournament grid pitted AC against 8th-ranked Baxter Springs (0-19), and sets the winner up to play the winner of last night's Girard (10-10) and Prairie View (9-11) contest on Thursday in Fort Scott. The championship game is set for March 2 in Fort Scott.

Other first round games last night included Frontenac (12-8) taking on Fort Scott (7-12) and Pittsburg (10-9) playing its opener against Columbus (8-12). The substate tourney system determines the tournament grid for the Kansas 4A state tournament to be held the following week.

Paola took an early lead at the end of the first period over the Bulldogs, 18-12 and led at half 31-21. Despite five 3-point connections by Spencer Walter the Paola defense hounded AC's remaining shooters to control the offense and kept the Bulldogs from recouping the early double digit margin. Eric Tastove hit 18 followed by Walter with 15, Jack Rickabaugh and Zach Hilliard with 5 apiece, Steve Dial with 2 and Drew Mechnig and Tanner Lickteig with 1 each.

Iola was never really in the game, with the Bulldogs planting 24 first-quarter points to the Mustangs' 6 and holding a 42-22 lead at the half. AC hit 15 of 26 free throws. Tastove shot for 31, Walter 14, Dial 11, Hilliard 7, Mechnig and Lickteig 6 each and Tyler Woodard 2.

Central Heights' Jordan Horstick sets up a move on a Wellsville player during the recent Cardinal/Viking matchup. Substate games for all three school districts beginning this week were expected to be postponed due to snow.

AC JV takes win from Iola 69-39

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Eleven Bulldog players managed to rack up points last week in the last junior varsity game of the season and a solid 69-39 win for Garnett over Iola.

Colton Eichman smashed 4 three-pointers in the first period for the Bulldog and slipped in two more in the third period to lead the AC scoring pack with 18. AC was up 34-21 at the half but Iola remained a threat until AC released a barrage of third period shooting from Ian Comfort and Eichman which bumped AC's third quarter points to 18 while holding Iola to only 8 points. Jake Rundle and Andrew Vaughn ripped in with three pointers in the final period to help seal the win.

Trailing Eichman was Comfort with 13, Rundle with 9, Craig Brallier with 8, Wyatt Hulett 6, Josh Potter, Vaughn and Mason Skiles with 3 apiece, Chase Ratliff, Tyler Woodard and Vincent Hamilton with 2 each.

Viking boys to see Wellsville at substate

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WELLSVILLE - Central Heights boys bested Wellsville 51-34 last week on their way to a 6th seed in this week's 3A substate tournament. But the rematch between the two rivals will have to wait, as substate games slated to begin this week have been postponed until Wednesday due to forecasts for more snowfall.

Third-ranked Wellsville, with a record of 14-6, will get a rematch against the 11-9 Vikings in the opening round to be played tonight at Wellsville at 7 p.m.

"We caught Wellsville in a poor shooting night and took advantage of it and capitalized for a win," said Viking head coach Rusty Cannady. "We'll see a different Wellsville team Tuesday night for substate," he said.

Wellsville couldn't get shots to fall, scoring only 5 points in the first period. By halftime the Vikes held a 25-14 lead and Wellsville failed to open up any more offense in the third period, when they again scored only 5 points.

The local 3A substate starts off like this on Tuesday night. First-ranked Humboldt (20-0) takes on Mound City (7-12) at Humboldt, Burlington (13-7) plays Pomona (11-8) at Burlington, Eureka (16-4) opens against Fredonia (10-10) at Eureka and Central Heights and Wellsville play at Wellsville.

Jordan Horstick hit 22 to lead the Vikes in the Wellsville win. Tanner Erhart had 13, Drew Beckwith 8, Tyler Hendron 5 and Zach McAfee 3.

AC frosh cold against Paola, lose 48-31

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Paola's Slowson slammed 10 points in the third period to push the Panther's margin over the Anderson County freshmen last week, ending with a rare defeat for the AC frosh 48-31.

Slowson drilled two three-pointers in the second period to boost Paola to a 21-17 halftime lead over AC. Paola's defense dominated the Bulldogs in the third period, holding Garnett to a mere 5 points for the entire period while they stacked up 21 of their own third period points.

Jake Rundle put 15 points on the board for the Bulldogs, but he was one of only two AC players to sink more than a bucket in regulation time. Mitchell Highberger notched 5, but Trey Ahring, Zane Phelps, Shane Figgins, Zeke Hermreck and Derrick Nelson all registered 2 apiece.

Bulldog freshmen win final game 38-26

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - AC's freshmen held only a 1 point lead on Iola by the end of the first period in their last season game Tuesday, but Garnett kept up the pressure and slowly built a margin to win 38-26.

It was 17-11 at the half, but Iola eased up enough on Jake Rundle to allow him six points in both the third and fourth period. Chase Ratliff also drilled two in a row in the third period to help widen the margin on the way to the win.

Rundle had 18 on the night with 7 from Mitch Highberger, 5 each from Mason Skiles and Ratliff and one each from Derrick Nelson, Zeke Hermreck and Trey Ahring.

Crest Elementary grades 3, 4 and 5 gathered $1,029.04 for Pennies for Patients, a program to raise money to help the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society.

Crest students collect Pennies for Patients

The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's School & Youth Programs are about just how powerful the youth in our schools can be. The third, fourth and fifth grades at Crest Elementary demonstrated their strength and determination during their three week Pennies for Patients Drive. Students collected pennies, and other spare change, as well as cash donations from the Crest community.

Crest students had the opportunity to help raise awareness and funds in honor of patients battling blood cancers like leukemia and lymphoma. A check for $1029.04 was sent to the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society as a result of these young students efforts. GSSB of Colony staff helped count the thousands of pennies donated; school officials said they were glad for the bank's assistance.

Seinbergers chosen to serve as Richmond fair parade marshals

BY PAT VINING Special to THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

The Richmond Free Fair Assn. is pleased to honor George and Marge Seinberger as this year's parade marshals in recognition of their contribution to the fair the past 10 years.

George has been a respected member of the fair board of directors since 2006, but it's the Horse Show that has gained the most from this man's vast knowledge and experience.

After attending the Richmond Fair the first year they lived here, George thought he could contribute to the horse show ---and he has done exactly that!

Interest, numbers and level of competition in the horse show have increased dramatically since the Steinbergers became involved in 2002. His many years of working with young people have taught him what works.

In 2007 the Horse Show was moved to the couple's ranch just west of town, where there is plenty of room and good facilities.

This part includes Halter, Showmanship, Western Horsemanship, Western Pleasure Riding classes, and Barrel Racing. Like other 4-H classes, there is a scorecard for judging each class. The Horse Show has grown to about 20-25 4-H members.

Using portable pens, Cowboy Olympics and the Pee Wee Rodeo are held at the livestock arena at the fairgrounds. About 20-25 six-ten year old kids get involved in the rodeo.

Cowboy Olympics includes both boys and girls who move and stack bales of hay, stack wood, feed horses, "milk" a cow which is actually a calf feeder...and then race to the finish line. Anderson Co. and Central Heights High School FFA teams love to compete in this!

Other classes are Dummy Roping, Mutton Busting, Calf Riding and sometimes more are added. It's competitive... yet safe and fun, too!

George, with help from family members, has been having horsemanship and rodeo classes and camps for years, first in Johnson County and now at their 'new location' named Homestead Ranch. At one time he traveled to other states to have Cowboy Church camps,

In his 35 or more years of leading these kind of youth activities, George has worked with several thousand boys and girls. A few third generation kids are now attending cowboy/rodeo camps at their Homestead Ranch.

Marge is always there to help organize, direct, guide, keep records and serve refreshments at events, including at fair time. She's the mom and grandma away from home that all kids need at times.

Thank you very much, George and Marge, for moving to the Richmond community and sharing your immeasurable knowledge and experience with the Richmond Free Fair.

Local students make honor rolls at KU

LAWRENCE - More than 4,450 undergraduate students at the University of Kansas earned honor roll distinction for the fall 2012 semester. The students, from KU's Lawrence campus and the schools of Allied Health and Nursing in Kansas City, Kan., represent 97 of 105 Kansas counties, 41 other states and 39 other countries.

The honor roll comprises undergraduates who meet requirements in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and in the schools of allied health; architecture, design and planning; business; education; engineering; journalism; music; nursing; pharmacy; and social welfare.

Area honorees are as follows:

Kirstin Brown, of Garnett. She is the daughter of Jesse and Linda Brown of Garnett. She attended Anderson County High School. Brown is a senior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Cynthia Brown, of Garnett. She is the daughter of James and Debra Brown of Garnett. She attended Anderson County High School. Brown is a senior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Cheyenne Frohlich, of Garnett. She is the daughter of Vernelle Stockdall of Garnett. She attended Anderson County High School. Frohlich is a senior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the School of Education.

Erin Kruse, of Garnett. She is the daughter of Tammy Serene Kruse and David Kruse of Garnett. She attended Anderson County High School. Kruse is a senior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the School of Nursing.

Miranda Naylor, of Garnett. She is the daughter of Glenn and Polly Naylor of Garnett. She attended Anderson County High School. Naylor is a senior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the School of Pharmacy.

Arlo Osler, of Garnett. He is the son of Eileen Poss and Kenneth Osler of Garnett. He attended Anderson County High School. Osler is a senior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Tyler Tush, of Garnett. He is the son of Benjamin and Renee Tush of Garnett. He attended Anderson County High School. Tush is a junior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the School of Pharmacy.

Caitlin Vaughn, of Garnett. She attended Ottawa High School. Vaughn is a senior at KU and was named to the honor roll for the School of Social Welfare.

Honor roll criteria vary among the university's academic units. Some schools honor the top 10 percent of students enrolled, some establish a minimum grade-point average, and others raise the minimum GPA for each year students are in school. Students must complete a minimum number of credit hours to be considered for the honor roll.

It's time for Heeling for Health

Hold the date of Saturday, April 27th for the 13th annual Heeling for Health walk at the Anderson County High School track. This year's honoree is Marcia Peine. Marcia passed away in December but left many friends and family members missing her easy smile and generous heart. Marcia served USD 365 for years as the school nurse and will be greatly missed by many students who were helped by her caring nature.

Anyone interested in forming a team should contact Michelle Cunningham at the Anderson County Hospital. Dorothy Miller is chairing the committee for Love Lights memorials. More information will be available in the weeks ahead. Cow-Platty Catering will once again be the food vendor and will be taking pre-orders for baby back ribs for $15/slab.

Wendt graduates from Fort Hays

HAYS - Sheena Wendt, of Parker, has graduated from Fort Hays State University with a B.S. in elementary education.

Wendt is one of 527 undergraduate and 125 graduate students who completed requirements for associate, bachelor's and graduate degrees in the fall 2012 semester.

Fort Hays State University's announcement of degrees includes only graduates whose transcripts and records have been verified as meeting all requirements for the degrees listed. FHSU does not release the list until all the graduates have been verified, a process that takes as much as two or three weeks after the end of a semester.

Garnett man gets winning inspiration from TV show

TOPEKA - Ronald Crawford, 59, of Garnett had just watched the popular TLC show The Lottery Changed My Life, so lottery was on his mind when he stopped at a convenience store last Saturday to get cigarettes.

"I bought $10 of Powerball and $10 worth of scratchers," Crawford told Lottery officials. "Then I went out to my truck, scratched them off, won $7 and went back into the store to buy a few more."

It's a good thing he did! On the very next ticket he scratched - a $2 Big Cash Money - he uncovered a $10,000 top prize.

"I read the back of the ticket to make sure I was playing it right. Then I returned to the store to have the clerk scan the ticket. After she verified my win, I called my sister and asked her if she wanted to go to the Lottery with me," said a very pleased Crawford.

Crawford is widowed with two grown children and four grandchildren. He plans to use his prize money to purchase tires for his truck and also tires for his pride and joy, a classic 1970 Pontiac GTO given to him by his son. He said he will put the rest in the bank.

Crawford purchased his lucky ticket at Casey's General Store, located at 219 W. Park Road in Garnett.

Why is this insulator special?

I know we have a lot of collectors in our area. In fact, these days folks collect almost anything and most of you have more than one collection. What I'm wondering is, do any of you collect "insulators." No, I don't mean woolen pajamas, but glass insulators. The reason I'm asking this, a couple of weeks ago I found a teal green Hemingray No. 12 Insulators dated May 2, 1893, in almost perfect condition.

by Henry Roeckers
Contact (785) 448-6244
for local archeology information.

ONLY manufactured glass insulators (not ceramic, porcelain, rubber or plastic). What does the number 12 mean? If the number is directly after "Hemingray" such as 9-10-12, etc. that is called the insulator's "style number." Some Hemingray styles are comprised of letters, words or a combination, such as T.S., E2, No. 1 Provo Type, Muncie Type, etc. Newer Hemingray insulators (produced after 1933) also have mold numbers and date codes.

What are those "bumps" or sharp "teeth" looking objects encircling the bottom of your insulator? These are called "drip points." Hemingray patented drip points on May 2, 1893, as "teats" for drawing moisture off of the insulator (both inside and outside). Hemingray produced two styles of drip points: sharp drip points and later, round drip points. Some later Hemingray insulators were also produced with a corrugated base - a rough, cross-hatch style base which is not considered a form of drip point, but essentially served the same purpose. Hemingrays were also commonly manufactured with a smooth base.

So if you happen to have a green Hemingray No. 12, dated May 2, 1893, you've got a "keeper."

The sheriff's department is requesting residents who see a small helicopter land in their area to immediately call the sheriff's department so the aircraft can be investigated. Three sightings of the helicopter with two men aboard have been reported to the department since the first of February. The most recent sighting was near Greeley. So far the department has not determined whether or not the sightings are related to any illegal activity. However, the incidents are under investigation

Kansas Gas and Electric officials announced recently that they will not accept safety-related systems for the Wolf Creek nuclear power plant from the plant's contractor pending a review of turnover procedures. The company took the action following conferences with region four Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials at Texas. There are two procedures being reviewed. One procedure is formally determining how complete systems must be when presented for acceptance. The other procedure being reviewed is one for ensuring that systems fully meet quality standards established by KG&E and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The company was in the process of reviewing what problems there were with procedures, then they would determine what further action to take.

February 26, 1913

It looked odd to see women election clerks at work yesterday, but it looked all right, and no doubt they did their work as well as the men have done it in the past. Some of the ladies took their fancy work with them, and when the voting was slow, they put in the time crocheting, embroidering or doing some other similar work, thus proving that they can do two or more things at once. One of the lady clerks said that at her polling place, only one man entered with a cigar in his mouth, and only one was chewing tobacco, so she concluded the polling place was just as nice a place for a woman as the post office or any other public place where women are wont to go.

At the special election in Garnett yesterday, there was a decided majority in favor of adopting the commission form of government. The majority of 284 voted for the proposition and 195 against. It is a larger majority than most of the advocates of the plan believed it would receive. This means that the business of the city of Garnett will hereafter be conducted by three men instead of nine, and one of the three will be mayor of the city.

Windbreaks provide permanent protection during drought

MANHATTAN -- The second chapter of article 20 of Kansas state statutes indicates "soil erosion caused by wind or dust storms is declared to be destructive to the natural resources of the state and a menace to the health and well-being of our citizens". The statutes suggest it is the duty of Kansas landowners "to conserve the natural resources of the state, and to prevent the injurious effects of dust storm by planting perennial grasses, shrubs, and trees" and introducing other emergency control measures.

Kansas continues to experience extreme drought conditions over 76 percent of the state with the remainder in exceptional drought. These conditions have created concern among Kansas State University soil scientists, agronomists and foresters that severe dust storms and wind-blown soil erosion will occur in late winter and spring of 2013. Annually, an estimated 2 tons/acre/year of topsoil is lost to wind erosion on the 24 million acres of cultivated cropland in Kansas. There is little doubt that 2013 will exceed that average.

"There are many conservation techniques that can reduce soil erosion such as the integration of crop residues or performing emergency tillage to roughen surfaces," according to Bob Atchison, rural forestry coordinator with the Kansas Forest Service. "However, during drought years it is hard to beat the time-tested shelterbelts and windbreaks to provide the most effective and persistent control of wind erosion."

Tree and shrub windbreaks provide excellent wind protection at a distance 10 times the height of the windbreak. In Kansas that equates to an estimated 579,221 acres protected based on the 289,577 acres of windbreaks that stretch 43,436 miles in length, a length that would cross the state east to west almost 100 times.

"In response to drought and dust storms of the 1930's, more than 200 million trees and shrubs were planted to windbreaks on 30,000 farms throughout the Great Plains between 1935 and 1942," Atchison said. "Unfortunately many of these windbreaks have been removed to make way for pivot irrigation systems and are continuing to be removed to make way for more farm ground due to high prices for crops."

Though many of the windbreaks established following the Dust Bowl were large multi-row windbreaks, research shows effective wind control can be obtained with two- to three-row windbreaks of trees or shrubs that don't require as much space. Some producers raise concerns over loss of crop yields to shelterbelts. However, more than 30 years of research conducted by James Brandle, forestry professor at the University of Nebraska, shows that wheat yields actually increase by 15 percent on the average, corn by 12 percent and soybeans by 17 percent when windbreaks were present.

"Though we have made great improvements in conservation over the years, our current drought is a reminder of the important role windbreaks and shelterbelts continue to play in Kansas," Atchison said.

Kansas Forest Service foresters are available to help Kansas landowners with windbreak design, planning and financial assistance opportunities by calling 785-532-3300 or by checking them out on the Web at Kansas Forest Service.

Pastor Nancy Snyder-Killingsworth's message was titled "Godly Acts of Kindness" and scripture was read from Matthew 5:16. Music accompaniments were provided by Nancy Lanham

The church annual meeting will be held on Feb. 26.

We exist in a fragile way

Children sometimes ask, "Who made God?" The clearest answer is God never needed to be made he was always there. God is self-existent. He exists in a different way than we do. We are finite, defined by limits. We need oxygen, food, water and shelter. We exist in a fragile way. God on the other hand is infinite, knowing no limits. In and off himself he is sufficient to exist.

God has communicable and incommunicable attributes. God made man in his own image and communicated some of his attributes to man such as kindness, goodness, generosity and the ability to love.

In Acts 17:28 the Apostle Paul states. "Yet he, (God) is actually not far from each one of us, for 'In him we live and move and have our being.' " What Paul is stating here is

Weekly Devotional by David Bilderback

God brought all people into being and they only exist by his providence. I believe he is also expressing the vast difference between the creator, God and the creature, man. Somehow man has lost track of his fragile state and has set himself up in God's place, therefore dishonoring God much like a disobedient son would dishonor his father by bad judgment and decisions. This system of belief permeates our society.

If we lack a clear understanding of God it is easy to suppose that the limits of our own finite existence apply also to God. It is much easier to bring God down to our level than to worship him at the level he deserves. What we must keep in mind is the Creator has life in himself and draws his unending energy from himself, needing nothing.

God's existence is called necessary in the sense that there is no possibility in him of ceasing to exist. The same cannot be said of you and I. When you and I pillow our head tonight we will wake up in the morning by the good pleasure of our Creator who holds our very life giving breathe in the palm of his hand.

David Bilderback: A Ministry on the Holiness of God.

Carol Sprague McGhee Scholarship applications available at schools

Carol Sprague McGhee Scholarship applications are available through the counselor offices at Anderson County High School and Crest High School. Applicants must be seniors or graduates of either school. Graduates must be enrolled in two or four year college programs or vocational programs. Applications must be returned to one of the above schools by April 1. Two scholarships will be awarded.

Carol Sprague McGhee was a graduate of Crest High School and lived most of her adult life at Greeley. Her two children are graduates of Garnett/Anderson County High School. It was Carol's wish that memorial contributions be used to establish a scholarship program. Lambda Beta of Greeley serves as trustees for the scholarships.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The following information is provided by Anderson County, Kansas (the "County") as required by K.S.A. 10-120a and K.S.A. 12-6,122. This information is derived from estimates and projections made by the County and its advisors and is based on information which the County and its advisors believe is reliable. These estimates and projections may not be accurate as of the date of the issuance of the bonds because of changes in the municipal bond market which may affect interest rates, changes in assessed valuation of the County, changes in the financial status of the County, or other matters which may not be predicted or are unknown to the County at this time. The estimated rates of property taxation shown below as necessary to pay the principal and interest on the bonds are based upon the current assessed valuation of the County and the projected principal repayment schedule and the estimated average interest rate to be paid on the bonds. The estimated interest rate to be paid on the bonds is based on the average interest rates of comparable recent bond issues. Each of the projections and estimates shown below may vary due to factors which the County cannot predict or control. These projections and estimates assume the issuance of $25,365,000 in a single bond issue.

Summary of Estimated Total Project Costs and Sources of Payment

Sources of Funds
Total amount of bonds	$25,365,000
Interest earnings <sup>1</sup>	16,000
Uses of Funds
Construction and equipment	$21,732,989
Professional fees <sup>2</sup>	2,257,923
Issuance expenses <sup>3</sup>	510,009
Interest on bonds during construction	880,079

<sup>1</sup>Estimated interest earnings on the investment of note proceeds during construction. Such earnings are expected to be applied to project costs, to the payment of principal and of interest on the bonds and to the payment of rebate to the United States Government, if required.

<sup>3</sup>Includes estimated financial advisory fees, legal fees, underwriting expense, official statement printing, bond rating and related costs.

Projected Principal and Interest Payments on Bonds

The County expects to spread principal payments on the bonds over approximately 30 years with an expected final maturity of August 1, 2013. The estimated average interest rate of 3.94% results in an estimated total interest cost on the bonds of $18,256,113. Based on these figures, the County projects that the average annual principal and interest payment on the bonds will be $1,454,037, which amount the County projects will be paid from the following sources:

Estimated portion of average annual principal and interest payments payable from funds from the management company for the hospital:<sup>1</sup> $1,024,000

Estimated portion of average annual principal and interest payments payable from County funds: $449,968

Estimated Average Annual Property Tax Mill Levy Rate for Principal and Interest Payments

Total estimated mill levy rate necessary without funds from the management company for the hospital: 17.339 mills<sup>2</sup>

Total estimated mill levy rate necessary with expected funds from the management company for the hospital: 5.299 mills<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup>The principal of and interest on the bonds are anticipated to be paid from a property tax levy at this estimated average mill levy rate.

The election officer conducting the election will be the County Clerk of Anderson County, Kansas, whose address is 100 E. 4th Avenue, Garnett, Kansas 66032.

Dated February 8, 2013.

Congratulations to Laurel Godderz, Crest 8th grade student who was Anderson County Spelling Bee winner. She is the daughter of Eric and Gerri Godderz, rural Colony. She will compete in the Topeka Capital-Journal Regional Spelling Bee at Topeka West High School on March 2.

Congratulations also to Brytton Strickler who was named Good Citizen by Four Winds Chapter Daughter of the American Revolution members in Garnett. They honor a student each year. They will honor her as a D.A.R. Good Citizen and other awards. Her papers will be judged in a district meeting, then could be further judged in State and National D.A.R. levels. Brytton is a Crest senior and daughter of Todd and Sammye Strickler.

Russell and Marge Bunnel have returned home after visiting their son Eric and Kristin Bunnel, Merritt Island, FL and their recently born son, Zackery Dean. They enjoyed the good weather and rocking their only grandson. The Bunnels have two granddaughters.

Emilio Lopez and Sarah Woods, both of Richmond, enjoy "Chocolate Day" at the Richmond Library in honor of Valentine's Day Feb. 14.

February at the Richmond Public Library has been busy

The Richmond Public Library has been busy in February. On Feb. 1, the library had the Kansas Reads Kick-Off. Participants showed the book discussed in the topic and had some snacks — can't come to a library event without snacks right?

February 8 was make a mini pie for your sweetie day. The adults were invited to come and make mini pies for their Valentine sweetie. The annual Library "Chocolate Day" was in honor of Valentine's Day. Kids, teens and adults all had their time for Chocolate Day.

Presidential Snacks

were provided in honor of President's Day. Staff researched what kind of snacks different presidents ate, made a test and set out the snacks. Kids and teens were asked to match the snack to the president, then they each got to try said snack.
