County brings in 'great' wheat harvest

Cool, wet spring helped farmers pull in 'best ever' wheat harvest

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

If last year was a good year for wheat, this year could be called "great," and it will mean millions of dollars for local producers and the regional economy.

Local farmers are bringing in some of the best wheat in recent history, with reports of yields as high as 85 to 100 bushels per acre. That's about double a normal year.

Farmers are saying this year's crop is the "best wheat they've ever had," Jim Mechnig with Valley R Agri-Service said Monday morning. He has seen a couple of fields yield 85 bushels to the acre, but estimates the average is between 55 and 65. Valley R has brought in 145,000 bushels of wheat so far this year, and Mechnig said it appears the harvest is about 90 percent complete in his coverage area.

A representative with LeRoy Coop at Westphalia said he has seen yields as high as 100 bushels per acre, and as low as 40. Westphalia's co-op brought in 180,000 bushels this season, significantly higher than last year's 107,000 bushels of wheat.

The bountiful crop will be an important economy stimulus to the regional farm economy, which suffered through a burn-out of the corn and soybean crops last year. Wheat prices have been under harvest pressure much of the past week, which means the price has been declining as more and more supply came onto the market, but both the Kansas City and Chicago Boards of Trade quoted wheat prices closing from $6.58-6.77 per bushel on Friday.

In a typical year, Anderson County's wheat crop is considered a success if it averages about 50 bushels per acre, Shannon Blocker, agriculture agent with K-State Research & Extension in Anderson County, said.

"In general, I think it's going to be very, very good," she said. "It ended up a whole lot better than I had feared."

Field owner reportedly pulls gun after truck driver dumps crop over non-payment

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY — An apparent dispute in a wheat field southwest of Welda on Friday ended with a local farmer's wheat crop dumped on the ground and the man himself under arrest for pulling a shotgun on the truck driver who dumped it there.

Tim Starr, 74, was arrested Friday, July 5, after calls were received by Anderson County dispatchers that he had produced a shotgun during an altercation with hired custom harvesters working a field just west of the intersection of 800 and Indiana roads in southwest Welda Township. Unconfirmed reports say Starr hired a custom harvest company to cut his wheat but refused to pay the workers after the wheat was

Delinquent tax sale set for September

County moving forward with first delinquent personal property tax sale since 2004

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Anderson County officials plan to organize a delinquent property tax sale in September after years of delays, aimed ultimately at putting properties back on the paying tax rolls that presently pay no taxes at all. The last delinquent property tax sale was nearly a decade ago, in May 2004.

The county has the right to seize properties against which taxes are due and sell them to recoup those unpaid amounts.

The next delinquent property tax sale is set for September 2013, although a specific date has not yet been announced.

Anderson County counselor James Campbell updated county commissioners on the status of the tax sale a couple of weeks ago. Campbell said the first draft of the petition listed 91 properties that were eligible for the sale, but some property owners have paid past due amounts and were taken off the list. At the time of Campbell's update June 24, the list had been winnowed down to 68 properties.

Campbell estimated another 10 to 20 percent of the properties likely would be taken off the list after the county officially publishes notices of the sale. Property owners are motivated to pay taxes when the sale becomes

4A split could help ACHS sports

Change made to fix enrollment disparity in large 4A Class

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Local high school athletes could have a better chance of success in post-season competitions starting this year, after 4A principals voted last month to divide Kansas Division 4A into two divisions to reflect enrollment variances.

Anderson County High School principal Kenny Kellstadt voted for the change, saying he hoped it would allow the district to be more competitive. Under the change, the 64 schools in the 4A class would be separated into two separate divisions, with the 32 largest schools in Division 1 and the 32 smallest Division 2 for postseason and state competition in football, volleyball, basketball, baseball and softball. The change will take effect in 2013 for each of those sports except football, and in 2014 for football.

The goal of having two divisions is to eliminate a large enrollment gap — the largest disparity in all of the 6 classifications. Because of that disparity, ACHS teams frequently found themselves competing against much

Local unemployment rises slightly

State says jobs keep growing, despite summer slowdown

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA — Anderson and other counties in the area reported a slight increase in unemployment after months of a brightening jobs picture. Overall, however, state officials say the number of jobs in Kansas are growing.

Unemployment in Anderson County grew to 6.2 percent in May, up slightly from 6.0 the previous month. Compared to the same time last year, the county's unemployment rate is basically steady. It was 6.3 percent in May 2012.

The Kansas Department of Labor (KDOL) said the labor market posted a healthy increase in jobs over the month. Seasonally adjusted private sector jobs grew by 8,700. This is in line with the Kansas Index of Leading Indicators (KILI) which continues to forecast positive employment growth in Kansas.

Not seasonally adjusted data showed an addition of 10,300 private sector jobs from April to May and a gain of 14,400 jobs from May 2012 to May 2013. The manufacturing industry has seen con-loaded and before it was delivered to a local elevator. The truck driver refused to transport the load, and after words were exchanged with Starr, dumped the load of wheat on the ground, reports said. Starr then allegedly produced a shotgun as the argument intensified. There were no reports of shots fired and no injuries.

Law enforcement officers were called to the scene and Starr was arrested. Sheriff Vern Valentine was not available before The Review's press time Monday to discuss details of the incident or the arrest. It was not immediately known what charges Starr was being held on or if a bond had been set by district court.

Bob Chase, SEK Mental Health, and Alan Hauser, Financial Director, met with the commission. They presented the 2014 budget request with a 3% increase in their funds.

TEFRA Hearing

A TEFRA hearing was held on the bond issuance for the hospital construction. Since the hospital is a 501C3 the hearing is a requirement for the bond issuance. Commissioner Johnson moved to open the public hearing. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. No comments were made by the public. Commissioner Johnson moved to close the hearing. Commissioner Johnson seconded. Approved 3-0. David Arneberry, George K. Baum & Company, informed the commission of the different types of ratings that are issued for bond sales and what the current interest rate is looking like. Dortha Riley, Kutak Rock, presented a resolution pertaining to the issuance of the bonds. She explained the steps and procedures that will have to be done now and in the future for the issuance. James Campbell, County Counselor, suggested waiting a couple of weeks to see what the interest rate does before passing the resolution.

Appraiser

Steve Markham, Assistant Appraiser, met with the commission. He presented a proposal from Esri Company to acquire two licenses to make changes to the maps on the new GIS system. Commissioner Johnson moved to purchase the mapping software from ESRI at a cost of $2,924.10 out of the Reappraisal Fund. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0.

Department Head Meeting

Dena McDaniel, Treasurer, informed the commission they have received the training on the RPI program and may receive more if they feel they need it. They are set to start operating it on July 8. Sandy Baugher, Register of Deeds, informed the commission she has received two bids for shelves for her vault. James Campbell, County Counselor, stated the bond sale is progressing. It looks like we should be able to have the tax sale in September. He informed the group that the county has to make some kind of a stand on conceal and carry. We either allow citizens with conceal carry permits to bring them into the courthouse or we will have to shut off access doors and have someone there to monitor those entering. It was the consensus to try for a one year exemption. John Louk, Shop Foreman, stated they are getting ready for chip seal. JD Mersman, Emergency Management, stated he is working on the storm shelter registration. Brandon Jones, County Attorney, stated he put on training for all law enforcement concerning what is required from them. There are surplus computer supplies and laptops in the basement storeroom if any of the departments are interested. Commissioner Johnson informed the group the interest rates may be slightly higher than expected. He also stated they had received a good report from Austin Peters on the salary survey. Phyllis Gettler, County Clerk, stated the auditors are here and inventories are needed. They are working on the estimated valuations and should be completed in the next few days.

County Attorney

Brandon Jones, County Attorney, informed the commission he has done research into the complaints that were brought up during the hospital election. He has gotten a search warrant to find out who paid for the mailing that was sent out. He did not find that there was any violation for the commission regarding the letter to the editor as the letter was prepared by the hospital and sent to each commissioner individually. He has discovered that there is a contract for West Law that is $400 per month and was set up on a three year contract. He would just like to use the West Law that is procured through the law library.

Emergency Management

JD Mersman, Emergency Management, met with the commission. He presented the commission the job description for an assistant. He informed the commission he feels an assistant is needed to cover when he is out of town and on vacation. He is also getting behind on several projects that have been started.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW
Published July 9, 2013

The Rev. H. (Henry) Wayne Fink, died June 13, 2013, at Mercy Regional Health Center. He was born to Carl and Kathleen (Leitzman) Fink in High Point, Indiana (near Martinsville), lived in Martinsville for about 10 years until the family moved to Gary, Indiana, which he called his hometown.

Fink

Wayne graduated from Froebel High School (Gary), worked in the steel mills, and entered the Air Force during the Korean Conflict, serving primarily in Nagoya, Japan, (2 1/2 years) and Lincoln (NE) Air Force Base (1 year). His service to his country took an interesting turn in Japan as he was assigned to the 5th Air Force as a clerk typist (with security clearance and met President Eisenhower's plane) and as softball player as the general wanted to win the championship and needed an outstanding 3rd baseman. Wayne helped achieve that championship as "Hustling Hoosier Hank," who performed his position well.

In his journey back on the troop ship, he realized there was more to this life; and when assigned to Lincoln, he immediately found First Baptist Church (Pastor and wife, Dr. Gordon and Ruth Schroeder, who became his spiritual mentors). He made the commitment to the ministry, graduating from Ottawa (KS) University in 1958 and Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, PA. in 1961.

He met and married Beverly Ann Clinton of Garnett, Kansas, at Ottawa University. While students at Ottawa, they raised two of his brothers fulltime, Richard and Harry, as well as also taking care of his sister Doris Ann and another brother Glen part time. They later had 2 children of their own, Jan and Dan.

Wayne was ordained in September 1961 and served churches in Kansas (Sterling; Meridian Avenue Baptist, Wichita; and Manhattan First Baptist) as well as churches in the Detroit area (Redford, Detroit; Bethany Baptist, Pontiac); Pennsylvania (Kittanning); and Colorado (Lamar). He believed strongly in the local church and spent 36 years in the full time ministry as well as 12 years as interim. Eighteen young people from his churches committed themselves to the ministry. He was an active member in local community ministries wherever he pastored. For example, in Manhattan he helped in the birth of Hospice, Meadowlark Hills, Riley County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse and Shepherd's Crossing, First Baptist Church Pre-School. He believed strongly in his denomination (American Baptist Churches/USA) and served in many capacities in the states and regions in which he served as well as on national-level committees and task forces. He especially enjoyed his service at state, region, and national level of the Minister's Council.

He is survived by his wife Beverly of the home; Son Dan of Denver, Colorado; Daughter Jan Fink Call, Esq. (Jeff), Huntington Valley, PA; Grandchildren Kellye Call Atlanta, Georgia and Brian Call, Huntington Valley, PA and Univ. of Texas. He is also survived by his brothers: Bill (Marilyn), TX; Hughie (Ethel), IN; Glen, IL; Richard (Carol), TX; Rev. Harry (Barbara), Salina, KS; and a sister Doris Ann Barron, MI.

He was preceded in death by his parents; a sister Betty Pierson, a brother Conrad, and a half brother Kenneth.

His body was cremated and burial with military honors will be at the Kansas Veterans' Cemetery with Committal Services on July 12, 2013, at 2 p.m.

A Service of Celebration will be held on Saturday, July 13, 2013, at First Baptist Church of Manhattan.

'Apology Tour' yielded squat

Had Obama's world apology tour of 2009 been effective, Snowden would be in U.S. jail

As U.S. secrets leaker Edward Snowden ping-pongs around the world unrestricted in his global campaign to undermine U.S. security, one thing that has become clear is that President Obama's famed 2009 "Apology Tour" for U.S. transgressions during the Bush Administration did little to win friends and influence among our world neighbors.

EDITORIAL

by Dane Hicks, PUBLISHER

From this point in time then, it is hard to see exactly what Obama's statements of contrition yielded or were even designed to yield in the early months of his first presidential term. Had the newly-elected president succeeded in 2009 in somehow making the world love the U.S. again after apologizing for our sins in Afghanistan, Iraq, Guantanamo Bay, Abu Graib, et. al., apprehending Snowden would have been as easy as a phone call to any of the nations the traitor has hop-scotched through in recent weeks.

Instead, the most valuable man in the world to our enemies remains at large, no doubt being courted behind the scenes by every spy from every government, friendly or not, which can profit from the information Snowden can provide them. The fact that so many nations have allowed Snowden free passage as he seeks an outlaw nation in which to hide is nothing short of an outrageous slap in the face to the United States.

That outrage comes home to the families of U.S. servicemen and foreign service officers everywhere – even to U.S. government contractors and government office staff – who may now find themselves at risk due to information Snowden has already or will release. The attack on the U.S. Embassy in Bengazi in September 2012 should be a reminder: Even after Obama's Apology Tour and in what for most Americans is a "lull" in the War on Terror fronts of Afghanistan and Iraq, for some reason, there are still people out there, particularly in the Muslim world, who want to kill us.

And there are leaders in the Cocaine Republics of Nicaragua, Bolivia and Venezuela who have offered Snowden asylum from U.S. prosecution, as opposed to simply allowing him safe passage like China, Hong Kong and Russia. We can only hope that their reluctance to cooperate on a matter of such security to the U.S. is remembered by U.S. foreign aid decision makers when the next earthquake, or other disaster threatens the stability of those governments.

And so the fitful embarrassment of our nation continues, and our security further damaged.

"There is nothing more likely to start disagreement among people or countries than an agreement."

Justice Anthony Kennedy's contempt

BY RICH LOWRY

NATIONAL REVIEW

Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy has contempt for a swath of his fellow citizens.

If you disagree with him about gay marriage, indeed, if you merely think the federal government should continue to define marriage the traditional way while the states define it however they want, then you are a bigot. Your views deserve no political representation.

Lowry

They should be ground underfoot by the five mightiest and most broad-minded people in the land, presiding from their temple of rationality and tolerance at the United States Supreme Court. Kennedy wrote the majority decision striking down the 1996 Defense of Marriage Act, which defines marriage as a union between a man and a woman for purposes of federal law. The decision declared a position that had been held by President Barack Obama until the day before as being a relic of barbarism, and set the predicate for the court -- in its wisdom, nay, in its heightened state of enlightenment -- to enshrine its view of marriage as the law from sea to shining sea.

The majority held that DOMA inflicts an "injury and indignity" on gay couples so severe that it denies "an essential part of the liberty protected by the Fifth Amendment." It is motivated by a "bare congressional desire to harm a politically unpopular group." There is, in short, nothing to be said for it or the point of view of its supporters. Period. Full stop.

In the end, Kennedy simply declares the supporters of DOMA hateful people. The members of Congress who passed the act and the president who signed it are morally no better than members of the Westboro Baptist Church who picket military funerals with their heinous "God hates fags" signs. Bill Clinton, apparently, despised gays. So did 342 members of the House and 85 senators.

Bill Clinton now wishes he hadn't signed it. Like so many others, he changed his mind on the issue. Fine. There is nothing to stop Congress from overturning what Bill Clinton considers his mistakes. It did it with "don't ask, don't tell." It could have done the same thing -- eventually -- with DOMA.

But Justice Kennedy and his colleagues don't want to wait for the democratic process to play itself out, not when they have such immense power to do whatever the hell they want.

Properly understood, the court's role here is minimal, and the decision could have been rendered in a sentence. To wit, as Scalia wrote, "It is enough to say that the Constitution neither requires nor forbids our society to approve of same-sex marriage, much as it neither requires nor forbids us to approve of no-fault divorce, polygamy or the consumption of alcohol."

The court stipulated that it still permits the states, if not Congress and the president, to debate and decide the issue themselves. This is a false assurance, though. Once the high court has declared that the traditional definition is a product of irrational animus, over time it won't be allowed to stand anywhere.

It is Anthony Kennedy's country. We only live in it.

State gives us a 'haircut'

It's time to take a look at that new tax policy wrinkle thought up by the Kansas Legislature last session. It bears the most benign name: Haircut.

Amid the contraction of tax brackets from three to two ends in 2012, and the lowering of those rates last year...there is this haircut business.

What it means is that some of those deductions we've all grown cozy with—say the portion of your mortgage payment that is interest on the loan or the property taxes you pay—are no longer a dollar-for-dollar reduction in your taxable income.

They get a haircut.

The whole idea was that in 2012—remember, that was an election year for the House and Senate and most voters would rather read about a tax cut than stand by the curb and hope a politician tossed their kids hard candy—lawmakers gave away too much money in tax cuts.

They gave away too much to suit the governor, and they gave away money that they never thought would actually make it into state law. It was just, well, too big for anyone to believe would actually happen.

So, this year we got the haircut—that harmless, almost cute sounding little word—to fix things.

What it means is that when you total up all the deductions you can claim on state individual income taxes—the biggies are home mortgage interest and property taxes—you give them a haircut, a 30 percent haircut for this tax year.

Now, that means if you've paid $5,000 in interest on your home mortgage, and if you are in the early years of paying off that mortgage, most of what you pay is interest; that $5,000 you didn't pay taxes on last year becomes $3,500 that you don't pay taxes on.

The math applies to every other deduction you claim, except for charitable contributions because lawmakers were smart enough not to mess with charity: While we're used to writing off from taxable income those deductions, they also go to churches and to social services and such that are noble and wind up meaning that in many cases, the state doesn't have to finance those social services. It's a tax break that helps charities and probably saves the state money, too.

So, what is this haircut business worth on a statewide basis? More than $100 million in money that will roll into the State General Fund.

Now, the haircut wasn't the only tax deal this year, that 6.3 percent sales tax was scheduled to drop to just 5.7 percent—worth more than $200 million in lost state revenue—but that didn't happen, did it? The sales tax was rejuvenated, at a rate of 6.15 percent, still a little drop for those who count their pennies, but almost imperceptible to most folks who buy anything.

But the clever part was the haircut.

And the name for that procedure, well it sounds a lot nicer than a "comb-over," doesn't it?

On the comment made about the road in Lakeview Estates I think they are missing one thing and that is the eyesore of their entrance sign. Over planted and overgrown and the weeds have also taken over. I think the lights no longer even work to light up the sign. It seems like Lakeview Estates is busy worrying about keeping everybody away from their lake and forgot about their sign.

Hey, Garnett: Your road to the reservoir is very dusty. Couldn't you pave it? Do something about it, it's awful.

Who are you that likes beer and wants to tell everyone? Why would you call the Phone Forum to just say you like beer? That's just stupid and you're just abusing the privilege of the Phone Forum. I like wine but I don't feel the need to tell everybody. Thank you.

Would the family of the 102 year-old male that lives in Garnett please take his car away from him. He's going to kill somebody, and then what?

This topic is on the Garnett Police Department. Seems to be that there's a select few police officers who like to pull over young women and harass them while they have not done anything wrong. This topic is of concern. I'm sure there are other people that live in Garnett that have had the same thing happen to them and I am sure that they feel the same way. I am a Garnett resident and taxpayer and we are announcing that we do not tolerate this any longer. Thank you.

I attended the tractor pull that the Anderson County Fair put on and we were talking in our group how much of a shame we think it is that the fair has no carnival for kids any more. The tractor pull is great and I think it's well attended by the area people and everyone seems to enjoy it, but the carnival thing just sticks in a bunch of people's craws. And so we were talking about it and how Kincaid has such a nice carnival but that's about all you hear out of the Kincaid Fair is the carnival and it is good, it is a really good carnival and people come from all over the area to go to it. But Kincaid doesn't have much of a fair besides the carnival. So we're thinking, why not put the two of them together? You've got a good fair with all the kids animals and projects and what-not but no carnival and then on the other hand you've got a really good carnival but no real fair to speak of. Seems like a no-brainer to me. Thank you.

God will deliver us

In Psalm 34:4, David says, "I sought the Lord and he answered me; he delivered me from all my fears." In every trouble David went straight to God in prayer and after every deliverance he went instantly to God in thanks and praise. I believe this is a very good approach for each of us to take. Our heavenly Father waits patiently for us to come to him with our problems. As earthly fathers and mothers we hate to see our children struggle with problems and often in order to protect them we must intervene in the situation. God does not do this. We have a choice, we can go to him with our problems or we can try to handle them ourselves. If we try to handle them ourselves and fail then our troubles often become fears.

Some of the more common fears are for our health, our job and our families. God does not promise us the outcome we desire every time we go to him with a problem. What he will do is give us the strength to endure. If we develop a relationship with God through his Son Jesus Christ he has a way of making big problems look smaller.

As this relationship grows we begin to gain more confidence as we see God handle situations for us. One of the toughest things to do sometimes is to stay where God puts us and do what he wants us to do. What we have to realize is if we stay the course we will receive the best God has for us rather than the best we can get for ourselves. I believe the reason we have so much trouble putting our trust in God is we live in such an age of distrust. We live in an age where people don't trust the government, business or each other. There is a sentiment that if you can't trust what you see how can you trust what you can't see, namely God.

The answer to this is given in John 1:1; "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." If you by faith accept this then you begin to realize the only one to trust is God. God has always been there for man but we have done as Isaiah states. "We all, like sheep have gone astray, each of us has turned to his own way." We have disconnected from God yet he has not abandon us. We buy all kinds of insurance car, home, health, accident and even life insurance to try and protect ourselves in every way. God wants us to accept his eternal insurance where we may dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Someone has said, "Thank God for the starlight and he will give you the moonlight; thank him for the moonlight and he will give you the sunlight; thank him for the sunlight and by and by he will take you where he himself is the light."

Metal detector work continues

Continuing on with my trip to Hays. At 8:00 a.m. we received our morning field briefing and then began excavating more metal detector targets. Wow! Exciting finds for all of us: canteen top, mule shoes, military buttons, picket pins, gun parts, bar iron, lead bullets, Henry, Spencer and Sage shell casings, etc. etc. We did take our usual break at 10:00, but recovered targets until lunch time.

After lunch, each detector operator had one or two trainees assigned to them to learn detector operation and target recovery techniques. After our 3:00 p.m. break time we split up in recording teams, so that all of us got some recording experience. Out of the field at 4:30 p.m. 87 degrees and very windy. Supper was at McDonalds. It was after I had finished eating and was leaving that something crazy happened. Well, when I opened my truck door, there went my visitor's parking pass and all my daily field notes, flying out down Vine Street. I felt so foolish and there was absolutely no way I could recover anything and no way to get another parking pass until the next morning at 8:00 a.m. I took a chance and parked on campus for the night in my regular space. Tired and just a little upset at myself, I was off to bed at 9:30 p.m.

Tuesday June 4, 2013: Up at 6:00 a.m. and it is showering - so nice and cool. My new Christian friend Kent Burch from Alma left for home. After breakfast I stopped by campus security in Custer Hall and got my new parking pass. On the way to the field I passed the wheat test plots which were beautiful, as several varieties were ripening. I also noticed that their oil wells must be awfully deep, as they have huge horses pumping on them.

After morning field brief, each metal detector operator had a student assigned to them as a trainee. I actually had a seventh grade teacher, Sonya Czarnniki from Lawrence, assigned to me. We metal detected and recovered targets until lunch break. Found were: mule shoes, a wide variety of lead bullets, and shell casings, etc.

After lunch we metal detected a new area. Wow! Targets galore. Started recovery after 2:45 p.m. break. Artifacts found: percussion caps, unfired bullets, early shell casings, flint, etc. Out of the field 4:30 p.m. Broken clouds 80 degrees. On the way home I saw my first rattlesnake on the road. After a shower and visit to McDonalds, I went to Rarick Hall, where Professor Rob Channel gave a great talk entitled "Dynamic Distributions." Off to bed at 9:45 p.m. During the night, a thunderstorm with beating rain moved through.

Wednesday June 5, 2013: Up at 6:10 a.m. Cloudy and really chilly. Breakfast and out to the site by 7:30 Cool 43 degrees. Everyone in jackets. We really did get some much needed rain last night.

1913: 'Oil Belt Road' proposed through county

July 15, 2003

What may be a bonus corn harvest for Anderson County farmers is coming down to a dire need for rain in the next week or so. The patchwork of storms which have crossed Kansas in recent weeks dumped a bounty of moisture on some areas, but since the storms have been sporadic as opposed to a carpet-like covering in eastern Kansas, there are holes in the country - and Anderson County is in one of them.

A former Garnett man was awarded the Purple Heart last week for injuries he suffered during a combat mission in Iraq several months ago. Army Ranger Staff Sergeant Kurt Sayers, a 1990 graduate of Garnett High School, and a member of the 3rd Battalion 75th Ranger Regiment based in Ft. Benning, Ga., was injured in mid-April when his vehicle patrol was hit by what was most likely a rocket-propelled grenade attack in an undisclosed location in Iraq.

Another case of cattle mutilation has turned up in Anderson County, making it the third such incident to have been reported in the county since January 1993. The first and second incidents occurred in the Mont Ida area. The last incident was discovered by a Kincaid farmer when he went to check the pasture a quarter mile from his home. This time a 1,100 pound red and white mixed breed cow was killed, her reproductive organs, milk bag and teats removed with a bladed instrument. The other two incidents had similar mutilation.

The city's recent policy of enforcement regarding building ordinances has claimed its first casualty among downtown businesses, and has made at least one former downtown proprietor wonder if enforcement efforts should be directed against building owners who rent the substandard properties, and not the renters themselves. A pet store and grooming business in the basement of the IOOF building on the northwest corner of Oak and Fourth streets closed last week because of the building's electrical work did not meet city codes.

July 11, 1983

The wheat harvest is nearing completion in some areas of Anderson County, according to area grain dealers and yields are reported to vary from 30 to 60 bushels per acre in the county. Kincaid reported that the harvest was one-half to two-thirds complete in that area, and that averages were from 30-45 bushels to the acre. They had taken in over 60,000 bushels of grain, and that moisture percentages were from 12.5 to 13.5. The amount of wheat was down from 1982 levels. With wheat prices at $3.29 per bushel Friday, many farmers were opting to store the grain.

The Helen Gadelman Memorial Mammography Fund is less than $1,000 away from the goal of $16,000 needed to purchase mammography X-ray equipment for the Anderson County Hospital.

July 11, 1913

Yesterday's Topeka Capital contained the following sad news of the death of a former honored citizen of Garnett and Anderson County: "W.J. Brinckley, a veteran of the soldiers' home, was instantly killed this morning when he was struck by a Chicago Great Western passenger train on the Missouri Pacific track near Leavenworth. The dismembered body of the veteran was found by a track-walker shortly after the accident." Mr. Brinckley was highly respected wherever known. He was one of our leading teachers. His friends here greatly regret the tragic manner of his death.

An enthusiastic good roads meeting was held at Iola yesterday, attended by over 200 men, mostly those especially interested in automobile travel. The purpose was to establish a route from Winfield to Kansas City, Mo., and then make a good road over that route. The route was officially named "The Oil Belt Road." The Ottawa delegation was not present, and so but little difficulty was found by delegates who were interested in locating the route from Garnett through Greeley, Lane, Osawatomie and Paola, all of which towns were represented by strong delegations.

Remember to report planted acres to FSA

Area farmer and ranchers should remember that filing an accurate acreage report for all crops and land uses, including failed acreage and prevented planting acreage, will prevent the loss of benefits for a variety of Farm Service Agency (FSA) programs. Failed acreage must be reported within 15 days of the disaster event and before disposition of the crop. Prevented planting must be reported no later than 15 days after the final planting date for the applicable crop. The final planting date for Anderson County corn was May 25th and the final planting date for grain sorghum and soybeans was June 25th.

July 15, 2013, is the final date to report CRP, corn, grain sorghum, soybeans, sunflowers and grass crops. Please contact the Anderson County FSA Office at (785) 448-3128 once your crops have been planted and before the deadlines noted above. USDA is an equal opportunity employer and provider.

Do homework before storm with grab-and-go box

MANHATTAN – Recent weather has caused widespread destruction and billions of dollars in property damage.

And, while those who are affected can be anxious to put the experience behind them, the re-building process can be slowed by a lack of essential information.

“In times of loss, law enforcement officials typically require identification before allowing homeowners to inspect their property,” said Elizabeth Kiss, K-State Research and Extension family resource management specialist.

“Insurance companies and emergency management teams also will require identification, proof of ownership, insurance coverage, etc., to begin the claims process,” she said.

If such documents are stored in damaged property such as a home, garage or shed, the documents may be gone; if in a safe deposit box with a financial service provider that experienced storm damage, a vault may not be immediately accessible.

A disaster may limit access to the Internet, said Kiss, who advised organizing important documents and making copies for a grab-and-go box to simplify the recovery process.

According to Kiss, an ideal grab-and-go box should be fireproof and waterproof, big enough to store important documents, but portable enough for members in the family (older children, if parents are not at home) to pick it up and carry it to a storm shelter or a neighbor's basement.

To begin, Kiss advised gathering (and copying) documents that will be most difficult to replace first.

Examples might include birth certificate; Social Security, Medicare and health insurance cards; marriage certificate; homeowner's or renter's insurance policies, as well as policies for vehicles and other assets (boat or camper); and copies of credit cards and passports.

Copies of financial records (account numbers and a recent statement) and cash also should be included.

The amount of cash will depend on personal spending patterns and the number of people in the household, said Kiss, who also advised including prescription medications for three days, an extra pair of eyeglasses, and digital (or duplicate) copies of family photos.

“Let family members know that you are compiling the information in the box,” said Kiss, who urged families to practice an evacuation as they would a school fire drill.

“Everyone in the family should know where the grab-and-go box and emergency supplies are stored,” said Kiss, who also encouraged families to plan where they will gather if separated during a storm and how they will get in touch with each other once the crisis has subsided.

Pending local conditions, she suggested it may be wise to agree to call a relative who lives in another area (not affected by the storm).

Kiss also advised insurance customers to review their policy and coverage prior to annual renewal, and again, prior to seasonal weather-related events.

“Discuss questions and concerns with your insurance provider to adjust coverage before storm season,” she said. A home should be insured for no less than 80 percent of replacement value on the structure and contents.

Insurance companies will require documentation before compensating policy holders for a loss, said Kiss, who added, “That's why a household inventory is important.”

While the thought of inventorying everything in your home can be overwhelming, Kiss suggested taking photos of each wall in each room, with additional photos of special items and cupboard and closet doors open (to show contents).

Taking a video in (or around) each room can be a quick and easy start, she said.

For a more detailed list, which is recommended, Kiss suggested starting with one room – or one wall – at a time, with a goal of inventorying one room a month to complete a household inventory in a year or less.

Once an inventory is completed, it becomes a fluid document, meaning that if you replace a piece of furniture, appliance, home computer, winter coat, etc., a quick notation will be all that's needed to update the inventory, she said.

Add a copy of the inventory to the Grab-and-Go Box, and consider sending a copy to a relative who lives elsewhere, she said.

Debt collection scams rise

Every day, dozens of Kansans call our office to report scams or potential fraudulent activities. In the past few months, we have received an increasing number of complaints regarding debt collection scams.

The caller will often make repeated calls – sometimes even to your workplace – claiming to be from a collection agency trying to collect money owed on a payday loan. In some cases, the scam artist has somehow acquired a list of past payday loan customers. But, in many cases the person being called has never taken out a payday loan. Even after informing the caller that you do not owe the debt, they keep calling.

Usually, the caller will tell you that you need to make a portion of the payment immediately, or you will be arrested. The caller will ask for your credit card or bank account information to process the payment. This is just a trick to get you to give the scammer access to your accounts.

Our Consumer Protection investigators have traced most of the calls to overseas. Unfortunately, that means that it is difficult for law enforcement officials to find them and shut them down. The best way to avoid becoming a victim of this scam is simply to ignore the calls. Here are a few other ways you can stay safe:

- Don't answer calls from numbers you do not know. If you have caller ID, only answer calls from people you know. Legitimate debt collectors will leave a message about how to return their call.

- Ask for verification in writing. Federal law requires debt collectors to send you written notice, including how much you owe, the name of the creditor and what action to take if you wish to dispute the debt.

- Report the number to your phone company. If you receive repeated, harassing phone calls from the same phone number, call your phone company and ask them to block that number from contacting you.

- Never give out personal information over the phone. Keep your credit card and bank account numbers safe, and never share them over the phone with someone you do not know.

- Check your credit report. If you receive calls to collect a debt you do not owe, there's a chance your identity has been stolen.

Richmond Free Fair

Richmond Fair opens Thursday

BY PAT VINING Special to THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

The Richmond Free Fair is Thursday through Saturday of this week, and there's always a flurry of activity to make sure everything is ready.

President Sarah Peters and vice-president Todd Mildfelt have been busy getting prizes for children's games and the Silent Auction. Others are setting up the livestock tents and show ring and making other preparations, including at the Steinberger farm.

There are 4-H, FFA and open class entries, but it's usually the younger ones who get most excited about fair time.

Jayden Lee, 12, will be busy with a market pig named Roger, two Black Old English game roosters and one hen, his racing homer pigeons, woodworking and possibly flowers and a peacock.

He and his sister, Reagan, 9, are members of Golden Achievers 4-H Club. Even with a broken arm in a cast, Reagan plans to enter five chickens, pigeons, a duck, cupcakes, gardening, a crayon holder she made in woodworking, and a short set in buymanship.

It will keep the kids busy, said their parents, but having the responsibility of preparing, entering and taking care of their entries is a big part of being a 4-H member.

Amanda Raby of Berea Boosters 4-H Club will also enter chickens, probably 11 of them, a Chinese goose, three Cornish hens, some baking and canning. That sounds like a well-rounded 4-H member!

Even though Faith Mildfelt is just 10 years old, she's an experienced fair exhibitor and this year will enter gardening, a matching leggings and dress with scarf set she made and a dress in buymanship.

The Burrows 4-H'ers -- Seth, Eli and Cass -- will have chickens, market pigs and other entries when they arrive at the Richmond Fair.

There will be foods by the McCurry members, woodworking by Shelby Cardell and a wide variety of about any project you can name. And the list goes on for members of Berea Boosters and Golden Achievers 4-H Clubs from the Richmond area and members who will come from other clubs in Franklin and Anderson and maybe other counties.

As for the rest of the fair, the night programs are especially entertaining this year, said President Peters, and include Old Time Games as nail driving, pie eating, egg toss and similar on Friday evening, followed by the Big Sugar Band.

Athletic events are at 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 4 p.m. Saturday. The parade starts at 6 p.m. Saturday with the theme of “Happiness Is . . .”

Saturday's program includes a new activity, a barbeque meal served from 11-2 that will benefit Canines for Kids. Country gospel singer Rusty Rierson is sure to be a crowd-pleaser at the 8:15 finale of this year's fair.

Meet your friends at the Richmond Free Fair for good food and entertainment, friendly competition for kids and adults, meaningful learning experiences and a great time!

Mini Ferris wheel makes first public appearance in 52 years

BY PAT VINING Special to THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

This miniature Ferris wheel is making its first appearance in public since it was retired in 1961 from being in the window of the Roeckers-Sigler Insurance Agency on Richmond's main street during the fair.

It was made by the late John R. Roeckers in the early 1950s from an Erector set and a small motor for power. The celluloid dolls were dressed by Mrs. Roeckers at that time and Sr. Mildred Katzer made some new clothes this year.

With a poster that said HI-HO, COME TO THE FAIR, it was a major attraction in Richmond, especially in its early years.

Sr. Loretta Roeckers is taking the Ferris wheel, two styles of band uniforms that her dad wore when he played in the Richmond Municipal Band for 30 plus years, and some other memorabilia to the 10th anniversary of Open Doors at the United Methodist Church.

The church is open 4-8 each day of the fair . . . come in and enjoy the displays!

Colony seeks state loan for water treatment

(Published in The Anderson County Review, July 9, 2013)

ORDINANCE NO. 422

AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE EXECUTION OF THE FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE LOAN AGREEMENT BETWEEN COLONY, KANSAS AND THE STATE OF KANSAS, ACTING BY AND THROUGH THE KANSAS DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND ENVIRONMENT FOR THE PURPOSE OF OBTAINING A LOAN FROM THE KANSAS WATER POLLUTION CONTROL REVOLVING FUND FOR THE PURPOSE OF FINANCING A WASTEWATER TREATMENT PROJECT; ESTABLISHING A DEDICATED SOURCE OF REVENUE FOR REPAYMENT OF SUCH LOAN; AUTHORIZING AND APPROVING CERTAIN DOCUMENTS IN CONNECTION THEREWITH; AND AUTHORIZING CERTAIN OTHER ACTIONS IN CONNECTION WITH THE FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE LOAN AGREEMENT.

Quilt block one of new items at museum

BY PAT VINING Special to THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Just a short distance west of the Community Building, the Richmond Community Museum will be open for visitors from 2-9 each evening, offering a cool place to browse and learn about the area's history and heritage.

The newest attraction at the Museum is the Richmond Star quilt block on the outside of the building which beckons you to come in and see the full quilt made by Edith Hornberger in 2000 as part of a nation-wide project.

The 4ft.X 4ft. block was recently attached to the east peak of the building and is part of the Franklin County Convention and Visitors Bureau Barn Quilt project.

The largest of the more than 1,000 artifacts in the Museum is a huge Phillips 66 emblem donated by Ed Wolken of Garnett and the smallest are probably salt and pepper sets that belonged to Henry and Oliva Feuerborn and Etta Blanche Smith-Dahlgren.

The newest piece is a wheel that is believed to be a replacement part for the spinning wheel that was in the Dietrich family log cabin that is now in Ottawa's City Park. This wheel was given to the Museum by Todd Mildfelt. The Museum has a miniature of the Dietrich spinning wheel which was given by by Virginia Gault Cunningham.

Marvin and Pat Gretencord's collection of old-time toy tractors 'matched' with the men who owned and used them is at the Museum through Labor Day. Each of the 30 plus tractors has the name of the owner and his years of birth and death.

See if you recognize tractors used by Jim Kueser, Gun Benus, Melvin Stockard, J. Frank Cox, Lank Gretencord....and others.

This display was a crowd pleaser at the United Methodist Church during last year's fair and is now at the Museum so more folks can see it.

There is no admission charge at either the church or Museum and there's always a host to welcome you and answer any questions you may have. Come in, cool off, enjoy and learn at the same time. The museum will be open from 2-9 p.m. each day of the fair.

This year marks 10th year for Open Doors at church

BY PAT VINING Special to THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Across the street from the Richmond Free Fair at the United Methodist Church, members are starting to arrange Fellowship Hall for the 10th anniversary of Open Doors.

The church opens its doors each day from 4-8 so fair-goers can have a drink of cool water and enjoy the air-conditioning while viewing, reading and enjoying a variety of displays of hobbies and collections. This is non-competitive and there are no sales --it's all for sharing and enjoyment.

Really special this year will be some banner-size antique tapestries designed by the brother of Mary Hall, David Laughlin, of Tucson, a professional artist and sculptor.

The tapestries have religious themes and art work and were commissioned by a Catholic Parish in Chicago 50 years ago. Church members used these as patterns to make much larger wall hangings of different fabrics. Laughlin recently 'found' the patterns which had been in storage for many years and gifted them to his sister, Mary, knowing she would find a way to display them.

The United Methodist Church's Open Doors will be the initial showing for David's works since they were 'found.' What a great display for Open Door's 10th anniversary!

Other displays include Friends of the Richmond

Library, St. Therese Church and John R. Roeckers items by St. Loretta Roeckers, "Little House" books by Lorene Stockard, Lego figures by Ethan Engle, gravy boats by Pat Hutchinson, photography by Pamela Peters, quilts by Arlen Hall, Dolls and Books by Richmond Community Museum, wood craft from Mexico by Mary Sue Cox, elephant figurines by Clair Blackburn, paintings by Ottawa Art Guild members, miniatures by Rhonda Frank, Franciscan Ware by Pat Vining,and others that will appear at fair time.

Call Arlen and Mary Hall if you would like to add some of your favorite things to this year's Open Doors.

Open Doors is the result of a comment made by lay speaker Dennis Peters when he said in a message that the church building should be used more to benefit the community, Mary Hall then designed Open Doors to fit a need for fair-goers. The name is part of the world-wide slogan of the United Methodist Church.

Displays may be put in place Wednesday afternoon, July 10, or Thursday morning, July 11, said Hall. Tables are furnished but those who bring items are asked to furnish everything else, including signs to identify themselves and their display.

You're invited to visit Open Doors at the U. M. Church from 4-8 p.m. each day of the Richmond Free Fair.

The Richmond Star quilt block welcomes visitors to the Richmond Community Museum from 2-9 p.m. each day of the fair. There's no admission and it's a trip to an earlier time to see the many local historical items, photos and read the stories. The quilt block replicates the pattern of a quilt made by the late Edith Hornberger in 2000 that included Richmond Star blocks made in various color combinations by quilters in 30 some towns named Richmond. The block on the Museum's east peak is part of the Franklin County Convention and Visitors Bureau Barn Quilt Project.

The fate of this year's wheat harvest depended largely on a cool, wet spring. While the weather conditions made for good growth, it also increased the danger of disease. Blocker kept a close eye on disease threats, but said it appears the yield potential of this year's crop allowed many farmers to treat their wheat with fungicides and insecticides.

"There was disease, but some of the best yields I heard were in fields that were treated," she said.

The sporadic rainstorms throughout the spring and early summer delayed the wheat harvest slightly, but recent hot, dry weeks allowed the crop to finish its growth cycle and gave farmers a good chance to get the wheat cut. Even so, farmers were scrambling to get wheat cut and soybeans planted before crop insurance deadlines, Blocker said.

Wheat prices have dropped slightly in recent weeks, but as of Monday remained about $6.44. Despite the success of the local wheat crop, farmers in other parts of the state are not as fortunate. Western Kansas, for example, expects to have a very poor crop, with estimates that it will be just 20 to 35 percent of a normal crop. That's quite a bit different than Anderson County, where Mechnig said he thinks this year's wheat will be about double a normal year.

Even though this year's wheat harvest will have a positive impact on the local economy, Blocker cautions people to remember that wheat is only the county's third most popular crop. It accounts for just 10 to 15 percent of the county's total crops. Soybeans and corn are the county's top crops, and their fates remain to be seen. The weather delayed those crops this year, and Mother Nature has yet to decide how well they can continue to grow.

Last summer's drought destroyed the corn crop and much of the soybean crop, leaving wheat as the county's only success. Blocker said she hopes that pattern isn't repeated again this year, but the success of the wheat crop is still a bright spot.

more of a reality, he told commissioners. Anderson County Treasurer Dena McDaniel said property owners benefited from an extra three or four years to get caught up; county officials have been trying to organize a delinquent tax sale for the past few years but the process has faced numerous delays.

County officials sold mineral rights for delinquent taxes on May 1, 2010, bringing many of those properties back onto the county's tax rolls.

But the last sale of personal properties for delinquent taxes was in May 2004, when 18 properties were sold for a total of $17,234. At the time, officials said the county collected more money than was owed as back taxes, but the amount was still less than the total taxes, fees and other interest owed on the properties. Several properties sold for as little as $16, which barely covered the cost to transfer the title. The highest price was $6,500 for several lots in Kincaid.

sistent increases in the number of hours worked by production workers which has been above 40 hours per week for several months. This typically is followed by increases in employment, as seen in this month's report.

"In May, Kansas recorded substantial growth in jobs and a reduction in continued unemployment insurance claims. Growth was led by the private sector, with the largest non-seasonal increases in Leisure and Hospitality, Professional and Business Services, and Manufacturing jobs," said Efuaf Afful, Labor Economist.

Much of the increase in the unemployment rate was due to employees affiliated with colleges, universities and Unified School Districts which closed for summer break. Examples of these are workers in occupations such as food service, custodial services and transportation.

"Over the past two months there has been an increase in the seasonally adjusted labor force numbers. The increase in the labor force suggests that Kansans have confidence in the ability of the economy to provide employment opportunities," said Lana Gordon, Secretary of Labor.

Unemployment for area counties included:

- Allen County: 6.2 percent in May 2013, 5.7 percent in April 2013, 6.0 percent in May 2012.
- Coffey County: 6.0 in May 2013, 5.0 in April 2013, 5.8 in May 2012.
- Franklin County: 6.7 in May 2013, 6.8 in April 2013, 7.3 in May 2012.
- Linn County: 8.5 in May 2013, 8.3 in April 2013, 7.3 in May 2012.
- Miami County: 5.5 in May 2013, 5.9 in April 2013, 5.6 in May 2012.

larger schools like Ottawa, Fort Scott and Chanute, USD 365 Superintendent Don Blome said.

"It's a positive thing for us," Blome said.

The largest school in the 4A Class is Topeka - Highland Park, which has 729 students in grades 9-12. The smallest is St. George - Rock Creek, which has 258 high school students. Anderson County falls in the lower half of enrollment, with 321 high school students in the 2012-13 school year. ACHS was ranked 45th out of 64 schools in enrollment size.

In its new division, Anderson County will be the 13th largest school out of 32. Other area schools in Division 2 include Iola, Osawatomie and Prairie View.

The change will not affect leagues. The Pioneer League, which includes ACHS as well as Central Heights, Iola, Osawatomie, Prairie View and Wellsville, sent a letter of unanimous support for the change.

77:1-2, 11-20, Matthew 6:1-4 and Luke 9:51-62. Pastor Leslie Jackson presented the sermon. This was her last day as preacher in Colony as she accepted the position of Youth Pastor at Louisburg. A farewell breakfast was held for her Sunday morning. She will be missed. The new pastor will be Dorothy Welch from Princeton.

Story Hour
 June 25 Story Hour's theme was "Dig into the Past". Charlotte Wallace was in charge. Debbie Wools read "Edwina, The Dinosaur who Didn't Know She Was Extinct" and a book about fossils. Charlotte had made play dough and had several fossils and interesting rocks and items the children could use to make prints in their play dough.

Juice boxes and Rice Krispie treats made by Charlene Tinsley were served. Sixteen children attended. Adult helpers besides Charlotte and Charlene were Delene Lindberg and Debbie Wools. Donna Westerman and LaNell Knoll help a lot also. Student helpers were Briana Scovill, Karlee Hammond, Makayla Jones, Cassie Bowen and Ridley Black. All help is appreciated. Next week they will go off the theme, as they will be doing things related to the Fourth of July.

Prasko Home
 The home of Bob Prasko was demolished June 20. A breakfast was held at 7:30 a.m. and work began at 8 a.m. Work was completed and hauled away in multiple dumpsters at work's end around 8:30 p.m.

A 100hp Kubota tractor was donated by Garrett and Shelly Strickler to pull the wall out from underneath the house using 250 ft. of grade 4 chains wrapped around the walls of which two of them broke. 60hp and 30hp Kubota tractors were used to clean small debris and large concrete footings. Rented from Folley was a 289c Caterpillar Compact track loader with a grapple to break the house into small pieces to fit into the dumpsters. They were rented from Boren's Roofing. Eight loads of debris with a total estimation of 80 ton were hauled away.

Prasko's son, Steve and family and daughter and family Shelly and Garrett Strickler are very grateful for the many volunteers that helped with this endeavor. Those on hand were Steve and Lynette Prasko, Garrett and Shelley Strickler, Russell Klaus, Larry Wittmer, Mark McCoy, Les and Arlene Gilliland, Danny Mattheis, Kloma Buckle and grandson Gabe Berry. Darren McGhee will be bringing gravel to help complete the task.

Around Town
 Rodney and Sandra Warren, David and Karen Warren have sold their late parents (Bob and Joan Warren) home and farm property on 500 Road near Lone Elm to Christopher and Kathleen Ivy of Iola. The Christopher's will live there. It was earlier reported that Dustin and Susan Ramsey purchased this property. That was in error. They purchased some of the late Warren land north of there.

City council sent a note with bill this month stating Colony has been upgraded from a "water warning" to a "water watch". Beneficial rains this year, thus far, have been a blessing from last year's drought. But customers in summer months should always be careful with water supply. We should not be wasteful.

One of Colony Lions Club's latest projects is the placing of a recycling drop-off bin for aluminum cans salvaged by community members. This is located on Broad Street at the triangle of Pine and Cherry Streets. Pictured in the background (on Pine Street) is the former Physicians Clinic building.

Colony Lions Club helps community

Colony Lions Club has improved the community in many ways throughout the years. This civic organization was chartered July 1, 1954 with 27 members on the roll. It has been a progress booster for Colony. Charter members have passed on, but one family member, Steven Weatherman, whose father and grandfather were charter members continue in this worthwhile club.

One of the larger projects of the club was the building of a committal building in the Colony Cemetery in 1991. The biggest project was the Community Park at Colony's northeast edge. It was a joint effort of the Lions, Ozark Township, the City Council and interested citizens of the community. Work began in 1976 with completion of a baseball field, lights and shelterhouse. The club has provided major repairs and maintenance also. They constructed a concrete block building in 1988 for use as a storage facility and concession stand.

They store hospital equipment that is available on a sign-out basis for community citizens. Each year they sponsor a student or students to the Kansas Lions State Band. Placement of street signs on Broad Street were made in the late 80's, traffic signal lights on each side of the Crest School crosswalk, the planting of Bradford pear trees along the business area streets and at the Community Park, and in 1966 they assisted in building the first fire barn and later purchased self-breathing equipment for Colony's fire department.

One of club's latest projects is the placing of a recycling drop-off bin for aluminum cans salvaged by community members. This is located on Broad Street at the triangle of Pine and Cherry Streets. Crest 4th grade class provided the winning slogan "First Step to a Cleaner World."
