Drought still takes toll on local economy

Local retail activity hampered by drought since last summer

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA - The state's sales tax collection reports show the economic impact of a two-year drought on Anderson County and Garnett, with collections declining significantly starting in the summer of 2012. The Kansas Department of Revenue recently released a report on local sales tax collections for the end of the fiscal year that began in July 2012 and ended in June 2013. The report shows how much sales tax was collected from local businesses and sent back to the counties and cities to be spent as part of their budgets, particularly on capital outlay projects that are earmarked for sales tax collections like the Anderson County jail or street repairs in Garnett. Anderson County's sales tax rate is 1.5 percent, which means for every dollar spent in Anderson County, another one-and-a-half cents is collected and returned to the county. The City

Paper continues to press CA for names

Publisher asks county commissioners to file suit against Jones

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - A newspaper publisher in Garnett is continuing to press county officials for the name of someone who sent illegal election propaganda related to a spring bond issue on whether to build a new hospital. Dane Hicks with The Anderson County Review sent county commissioners a letter asking them to file suit against Anderson County Attorney Brandon Jones. In the letter, Hicks asked commissioners to force Jones to release the name of an individual Jones says violated state election laws during a contentious hospital bond issue in April.

Jones reported to county commissioners June 24 he had investigated a complaint

Thieves hit library

DVDs, arrowheads stolen from public library; help sought

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Staff at the Garnett Public Library are asking for the public's help after someone stole the library's DVD collection last week. Staff members are asking anyone with information about the theft to call police, and also are asking for donations of DVDs to help replace the lost collection so patrons can check out movies.

Someone stole the library's entire DVD collection and a collection of Native American arrowheads that was loaned to the library for display. The public was notified of the theft Monday, July 15. Anyone with Justin Masri of Indiana screws in a wood plank for a wheelchair ramp at the home of Chris and Diana Bowen on Sixth Avenue in Garnett. Masri and his fellow workers were part of a home repair mission trip that spent last week in Anderson County. About 400 volunteers painted houses, repaired porches and built wheelchair ramps.

GAPP wraps up projects

Home repair mission results in big help for area residents

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Now that a group of teenagers built a wheelchair ramp at her house, Diana Bowen has a list of places she wants to visit. At the top of the list is church.

Bowen has been homebound for most of the past year. She has COPD, a chronic lung disease that makes it difficult to breathe. She has a motorized wheelchair, but without a wheelchair ramp it is difficult to get the wheelchair in and out of her home. She has only left the house once since Thanksgiving.

Last week, a group of teenagers and adult volunteers built a wheelchair ramp at Bowen's house. It was one of about 60 projects completed by the volunteers over the course of one week, as part of Group Workcamps home repair mission trip. The Colorado-based mission program brought about 350 teenagers and another 60 to 80 adult volunteers and camp staff members from 10 states to Garnett last week to paint houses and buildings and construct some projects like wheelchair ramps and porches. The project was named the Garnett Area Paint Project, or GAPP, and was sponsored by the Garnett Ministerial Alliance, local governments and businesses.

Bowen and her husband, Chris, were among a few dozen Anderson County residents who benefitted from the work. Diana Bowen said her brother, Howard Williams, learned about GAPP at his church and suggested she apply.

"I told myself if God let's me have it (the wheelchair ramp), that's wonderful,"

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS JULY 8

Chairman Eugene Highberger called the meeting of the Anderson County Board of Commissioners to order at 9:00 a.m. on July 8 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Eugene Highberger, Present: James K. Johnson, Present: Jerry Howarter, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Road and Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor, and Dan Hardin, Engineer, met with the commission. Dan explained how the state receives money for off system bridge repair. Since the state does not have any off system bridges the money is filtered down to the counties to apply for. He has looked at the bridges in the county and feels the Morgan Bridge would be the best choice to submit for replacement. Commissioner Johnson moved to apply for the funding for the Morgan Bridge with the county share to be approximately $180,000 out of special bridge. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. Lester talked to the commission about the training they had on the lay down machine. The material was too thick and had to be thinned down. The crew had to continually manually adjust the machinery for dips in the road. There is an electronic eye that is available which would automatically adjust the machine. Commissioner Johnson moved to purchase an electronic eye from Mauldin at an approximate cost of $10,000. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. He is looking at trading in a trailer to a tilt trailer that would make loading the lay down machine easier. He would like to look at a tilt trailer to see if it would work for other machinery as well. Commission approved.

Zoning

Jay Velvick, Zoning Director, met with the commission. Commissioner Howarter moved to appoint Ike Mader to the Anderson County Zoning Board. Commissioner Johnson seconded. Approved 3-0.

Discussion was held on the property by Lone Elm. Jay will proceed with sending the owner a letter to clean it up.

County Counselor

James Campbell, County Counselor, met with the commission. Commissioner Johnson moved to sign a letter of engagement with George K. Baum as underwriter for the hospital bond. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. Commissioner Johnson moved to recess into executive session for 10 minutes for the discussion of attorney client privilege with County Counselor James Campbell in attendance. Open meeting to resume at 10:10. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. No action after executive session. Commissioner Johnson moved to approve the 2014 ambulance contract. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0.

Health Insurance

Stephen Euston and Phil Drescher, Bukaty Co., met with the commission on the county health insurance. Aetna presented a 39% increase. They presented other options for consideration. They will be working with the clerk's office to set up enrollment interviews with the employees to get rates from other companies.

GAPP

Scott Rogers met with the commission to inform them of the events that are happening with the painting project.

Sheriff/Dispatch

Sheriff Valentine, along with two employees from TFM Comm., and Dawn Moody, Head Dispatcher, met with the commission concerning a new console system for dispatch. Commissioner Howarter moved to accept the bid from TFM Comm. for updating the dispatch consoles at a cost of $83,327.00 out of the Equipment Reserve Fund. Commissioner Johnson seconded. Approved 3-0. Dawn informed the commission they are in need of replacing at least three of the dispatch chairs. Commission recommended they check into pricing.

Landfill

Scott Garrett, Landfill Supervisor, and Vernon Yoder, Noxious Weed Director, met with the commission. Scott stated it was his understanding that thistles that are brought in are dumped on the floor. Scott stated that anything put on the floor there is a minimum $4.00 charge. Vernon stated he had received calls that if they had to pay for disposing of the plants they would dump them in the road ditch. Vernon would like to see them go to Allen County and be buried. It was discussed that possibly in the past they were taken free of charge and put on a compost pile. This was stopped due to the possibility of the seeds spreading. Now that they are putting them on the floor they are taken to Allen County and we have to pay to have them disposed of. Discussion was held on some people are pulling the whole plant and some are just cutting the head. Commission agreed that at this time policy for charging will remain as is.

Courthouse Lawn Use

Commission approved the use of the courthouse lawn and bathrooms on July 11th by the Chamber of Commerce from 5:30-7:30 and August 3rd from 5:00-9:00 by the Garnett Cruisers.

Meeting adjourned at 12:20 p.m.

Bowen said she thought as she filled out the application. "If not, that just means somebody else needed it more than I did."

Bowen's family met with the workers as they constructed the wheelchair ramp.

"They are wonderful kids," Bowen said "Every time I go down that ramp I will praise God and thank them."

While in town, the GAPP participants undertook projects in each community in Anderson County, although the majority of work was constructed in Garnett. Teams of workers could be seen on nearly every street in Garnett from about 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day last week. Some projects were finished early, while some left teams scrambling to complete the work on time. As teams finished their assigned project, some joined other teams that hadn't yet finished. In their off time, they visited local attractions and patronized area businesses. Temperatures for most of the week rose to the upper 90s, so some volunteers cooled off at the Garnett swimming pool. The Garnett Fire Department brought a truck to the Anderson County Jr./Sr. High School, where the volunteers stayed, and sprayed water to provide a cool break.

Abby Avery, an adult volunteer from Indianapolis, Ind., said the community had been very welcoming. She said most of the groups were able to meet with the residents of the property where they worked, and others in the community stopped to thank them for the work.

Scott Rogers, one of the local organizers who helped bring Group Workcamps to Anderson County, said previously he hoped the project would provide an economic boost to the county. He estimated the labor value would equal about $130,800. Organizers collected about $20,000 in donations to purchase supplies and materials that were bought from local businesses. Rogers said other local businesses likely received a boost from the 400 or so people who stopped in for food, fuel and supplies last week. He also was optimistic that homeowners would be motivated to continue the home improvement work started by the group, and that it would create a sort of "ripple effect" of good feelings and good works throughout the community.

Now that the work is complete and the campers have returned to their homes, organizers will review the project. Organizers said if the project was successful, they may try to bring it back in a few years.

Rogers said he heard many compliments about the community from the campers, volunteers and staff. GAPP organizers have some projects that will need to be finished, but overall the event went well, he said.

"It was just an awesome week. Everything really came together," Rogers said.

regarding a postcard mailed by opponents of the bond issue which did not include a "paid for by..." line to attribute who funded it, as required by state election laws.

Jones told commissioners his probe required a search warrant of a smaller printing company, and led to a person who admitted to the mailing but claimed not to have known the action was illegal and said a third person actually provided the funds. Jones told commissioners he would not pursue charges against the individual because no criminal intent was involved.

Hicks, in his letter to commissioners requesting the legal action, said Jones' action conflicted with the spirit of state election laws which demand openness and accountability in political campaigns, Hicks said whether or not charges were filed the individual should still be forced to file a state-required contributor's report with the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and that his/her name should be public.

"It's hard to understand the justification for a county attorney out-and-out allowing election laws to be violated," Hicks said. "What message does this send to others in the future who may want to violate these laws?"

Hicks suggested to county commissioners that they investigate having their own legal counsel file suit against Jones to produce the name, so that the county election officer could instigate action against this individual to ensure the proper forms eventually got filed.

Commissioners were expected to discuss the Review's request at Monday's county commission meeting.

of Garnett has a half-cent sales tax that is collected in addition to the county sales tax. The State of Kansas also collects sales tax of 6.3 percent.

The reports can be a good indicator of economic activity, because they show if businesses bring in more or fewer retail sales year after year. Locally, the largest collector of sales tax typically is new and used car dealerships, because they collect sales tax on large purchases like cars and trucks.

Anderson County and Garnett had a good year in 2012. Sales tax collections were up by 2.6 percent for the City of Garnett and by 7.2 percent for the county as a whole by the end of June 2012, showing that businesses reported more activity than the previous year.

But the bubble burst in the last half of 2012 and the first half of 2013, with Garnett's sales tax collections for the fiscal year falling 4.7 percent. Anderson County as a whole fared somewhat better, collecting 4.3 percent more in sales tax than in 2012.

The total amount of sales tax collected in Anderson County by the end of the 2013 fiscal year was $560,207.39, up from $537,089.35 in 2012. The City of Garnett collected $114,536.08 in 2013, down from $120,199.60.

Much of the loss of sales tax in Garnett could be attributed to the drought, particularly because of the shutdown of the East Kansas Agri-Energy plant in October. The plant was the city's best utility customer, purchasing a significant amount of water for its production process. The City of Garnett showed sales tax increases through the first half of 2012, and sales tax collections began to drop slightly in July. The drop in sales tax collections became more pronounced by the fall of 2012, and have continued to decrease since then.

The two-year drought ended earlier this year, thanks to a series of spring and early summer rain showers and storms. But the drought was particularly devastating last summer, especially for agriculture-related businesses. Last year's corn crop was virtually destroyed, and the soybean crop fared only slightly better for farmers. The ethanol plant scaled down production before shuttering its doors Oct. 1; the plant is scheduled to reopen soon.

Not every city collects an additional sales tax. In Anderson County, Kincaid also collects a 1 percent sales tax, which brought in $2,158.92 in 2013, down from $2,579.89 in 2012.

Richmond, in southern Franklin County, collects a quarter-cent sales tax. It brought $16,849.25 in 2013, up more than 13 percent from 2012's collections of $14,817.94.

Detroit's message to Kansas City

KC leaders should be wary of Detroit's downfall

With the burgeoning crime and murder rate in Kansas City, the city's leadership should be paying close heed to Detroit as an example of what not to become.

With the advent of video surveillance cameras Kansas City's problem with crime becomes more apparent. The beating and stabbing of a public transit bus driver by two men last week brings the issue home to all our television sets: Considering recent troubles on the JC Nichols Plaza and the loss of Westport to rampant thuggery after midnight, the question begs: Just how mean is Kansas City going to get?

The message should be simple: Stem the scourge of crime that assails the streets of Kansas City; develop ways to include suburban areas into the culture and life of Kansas City to keep it vibrant, or risk the population decline and property devaluation that has destroyed Detroit.

News last week that Detroit had filed bankruptcy to save it from some $18 billion in debtors was no particular surprise to those close to the city who have watched it decline steadily – for telling reasons – for the past 50 years. Detroit sprang to life with incredible growth in the auto business in the first half of the last century, only to begin a steady decline in population since 1950 that saw population dwindle from 1.8 million in the city in 1950 to around 700,000 today.

The city became the case study among sociologists for “white flight” after racial tensions exploded into the 1967 riots that killed 43 people and started decades of exodus of Detroit whites, who took their money, sales taxed purchases and assets to the suburbs. Twenty disastrous years of mayorbship by left-leaning union organizer Coleman Young seeded graft and incompetence in Detroit's City Hall, ignoring issues in the critical decades of the 70s and 80s when Detroit had a fighting chance to right its own ship. Graft and criminality continued with mayor Kwame Kilpatrick, who is due to be sentenced.

Last year, predominately black murders killed 411 Detroit citizens who were themselves mostly black, with an estimated 65-70 percent of homicides in the city narcotics-related. The city has been renown for years as one of the most dangerous in the country, with resurrection attempts like the reorganization of its police department coming decades too late.

Like Detroit, Kansas City has a political reluctance to discuss the aspects of race as it relates to crime and its impact on growth and sustenance in the city. Invasions of criminal element have destroyed million dollar retail properties like Indian Springs Mall and Banaster Mall, and now problems assail the city's metropolitan crown jewel of J.C. Nichols Plaza.

Kansas City should read the future in the smoke of what is left of Detroit.

RACE BAITING IN FLORIDA HITS A SNAG.

Wendy Davis, abortion extremist

BY RICH LOWRY

NATIONAL REVIEW

Wendy Davis is the country's most prominent defender of late-term abortions. What Rosa Parks was to desegregation, what Eunice Kennedy Shriver was to respect for the disabled, what Elizabeth Cady Stanton was to women's suffrage, the Texas state senator is to abortion after 20 weeks of fetal development.

Texas just passed a law banning abortion after that point, a measure supported by the public and by common sense, but not by the stalwart Davis. For her trouble, she has been accorded fawning media coverage and showered with $1 million in donations, showing that abortion radicalism sells in America -- so long as it is pro-abortion radicalism.

A ban after 20 weeks, near the end of the second trimester, represents a minor restriction on abortion by any reasonable standard. Many European countries, which we tend to consider laxer on such matters, ban abortion well before 20 weeks. In Belgium and France, abortion is banned after 12 weeks.

Davis likes to say that less than 1 percent of abortions in Texas take place the 20th week or later, without realizing how that damns her own case. By her own admission, she is not even willing to give up 1 percent of abortions.

The 20-week benchmark isn't arbitrary. By then, the latest research suggests that fetuses feel pain, respected University of Utah expert Maureen Condic recently testified before Congress. It is her view that fetuses “deserve the benefit of the doubt regarding their experience of pain and protection from cruelty under the law.”

The public basically believes the same thing. In Texas, a University of Texas/Texas Tribune poll found 62 percent of people support the ban. Nationwide, even a recent HuffPost/YouGov poll found that 59 percent support a ban after 20 weeks.

There is nothing outlandish or -- assuming its supporters don't make suicidally stupid rhetorical mistakes -- politically risky about the Texas law. It includes an exception for the health of the mother and for extreme fetal abnormality.

Wendy Davis always couches her position, of course, in terms of reproductive “health.” In the very same breath, though, she opposes a provision of the Texas law requiring that abortion clinics meet the same standards as outpatient surgical centers. Since abortion involves outpatient surgery, this would seem an uncontroversial measure, especially given that Democrats favor the strict regulation of practically every other business and activity in America. The provision is drawn from the recommendations of the Gosnell grand-jury report that wanted tighter controls to prevent the kind of butchery that it had investigated from happening again. The requirements, like wider hallways, aren't frivolous. One of Kermit Gosnell's “patients” bled to death because his clinic couldn't properly accommodate a hospital gurney. Whistle-blowers from an abortion clinic in Houston have told horror stories reminiscent of Gosnell's unspeakable practices.

If the balance of the Democratic Party weren't invested in protecting abortion as a kind of secular sacrament -- “sacred ground,” as Nancy Pelosi calls it -- it would recoil from Wendy Davis in embarrassment. Instead, it lionizes her. And why not? She exemplifies its moral and political bankruptcy on this issue.

City Commissioners, please take time to drive out into the Hayden Addition, Lakeview Road, Lakeridge Road. Just drive on the roads and you'll see what I'm talking about. It wasn't even mentioned you're fixing everything but the right roads. We pay our taxes out here also. Thank you.

City employee Bob Mills did a great job of building and installing this walking bridge between Parkside Place and the Rails to Trails last year. But like everything it needs some maintenance, and the paint is coming off the lumber. I know the city has a problem with maintenance. This was mentioned to the city manger back in February. We can put up with that being closed for a day because it took them seven months to get it installed.

You know I found it quite ironic when I read in the paper that we had to bring in young people from Colorado to come in and help us clean up our city and county and we got all these kids here in high school and allowing them to walk up and down the streets with golf clubs breaking windows out of cars. Now just why didn't Mr. Rogers organize that with our young kids? Our young kids should be out there helping our Greatest Generation, they built this town. Help them rake leaves, do yard work, what have you. Why do we have to go to Colorado to get help?

I'd like to say something about the Farmers Market wanting tourism money. They don't deserve that. What do they got a whole four booths maybe five on a good day. They can advertise 'til hell freezes over, they're not going to get any more business than what they got. And two, they need to do something about the gas station across the street from the hospital. They are parking in the alley. I had to park clear down my alley because the idiots parking right in the middle of it. They got the air machine there and they're blocking the alley for that too. I wish the city would do something about that. Thank you.

We need to get a president of the school board that will listen to the people, the parents, the workers at the school, and get rid of some of these principals that are allowing all this bulliness to go on. Thank you.

State's view on gun laws trickles down

We have a few months before the single biggest trickle-down law in recent memory hits Kansans.

You know trickle-down. It's when the Legislature passes and the governor signs into law a bill that will have negligible effect on how the state does business, but requires local units of government and schools to take action.

The trickle-down now is that state government has decided that any of the thousands of Kansans who have concealed-carry licenses can pack their guns wherever they go in the state—into county courthouses, city halls, libraries, rural water district and township buildings—just about any building built with taxpayer dollars. That means that those local units of government, which probably in the past month have downloaded and printed an official state no-guns poster, have until the end of the year to decide whether they are going to allow guns in their buildings or provide enough security that they can reasonably assure the public that nobody but law enforcement will have guns in the building.

The thought behind the new law: People who will abide by no-guns signs aren't safe if there's no checking to make sure everyone abides by the sign, because the bad guys likely won't. If a building has enough security to keep guns out, then fine. If not, then licensed concealed-carriers should be allowed to have their protection with them.

The trickle-down to local units of government: Can they afford to pay for this?

Most local governing bodies are going to have to do the math to figure out whether they can afford to make sure that gun-carriers are flagged at the front door and told to take their guns back to their cars, or just let them in.

Do city halls install those metal detectors in the hallway and staff them with police to make sure that nobody in the building has a gun? Or, will the agency pat-down visitors, so that those who don't carry guns can be sure they are in a gun-free building?

Now, be sure, that most days, it won't really matter. Those people who carry concealed guns aren't going to cause a problem when they go in to pay their water or trash bills or license their dogs.

But what happens when, say, the city council is considering allowing a Walmart to be built in the town square or consider a stop sign that parents believe is important to their children who walk to school? Or when the local property tax mill levy has to go up in order to pay police or gravel the county road?

Do people feel strongly enough about those issues that maybe, just maybe, they ought to attend the council meeting bare-handed?

At the Statehouse it's a simple matter of deciding whether in the building, which has security officers and walk-through metal detectors, a concealed-carry prohibition can be reasonably enforced.

It's not like that at the local library or city hall or most county courthouses.

That's where the new state philosophy that concealed-carry is a right, not a privilege, trickles down to local units, which will have to decide how much, or whether, to spend money on the ability to ban guns from public buildings.

That's trickle-down. Gonna be interesting to see how those county commissions, libraries and small units of government respond.

More items recovered on trip

It's 8:00 a.m. Saturday, June 8, 2013, and I'm in the field getting ready for the morning brief. This morning we are all working on recovery of yesterday's targets. Noon, lunch break. A cool 66 degrees, cloudy, with a few sprinkles (near Colby, quarter-sized hail was being reported).

We continued recovery until 3 p.m. Approximately 3:30 p.m., a bad storm was approaching so we gathered up equipment and headed for shelter at Hays (wind, heavy rain and small hail). I saw my second rattle-snake on the road. A metal detector partner from several years ago arrived this evening. We had supper together at McDonalds and at 7:30 p.m. we attended an excellent talk entitled "Buffalo Hunters." 9:45 p.m., bedtime and still very stormy looking all around. Reports of large hail and damaging winds south of Hays. Sure hope it didn't damage our work site.

Sunday, June 9, 2013: Up at 5 a.m. to a very cool and nice Sunday morning. After breakfast, I drove to the "Our Lady Help of Christian's Church" in Antonio, where I met the rest of the detecting crew. After a short briefing, we drove to the site of the old "look-out" stage station which was attacked, burned to the ground and three men murdered. We spent the morning detecting. My, oh my, the targets we flagged. After our hour for lunch, we began the recovery. Really heating up, 98 degrees. Recovery items were once again, a variety of fired and unfired bullets, shell casings, buttons, harness parts, broken cast iron, and a little hand-blown medicine bottle was found during recovery of a metal target. My friend Wayne Donohue and I went to McDonalds for supper. From 7:30-9:30 p.m., we were given a tour of the Sternberg Museum. Truly wonderful. I called Kay before retiring for the day.

Monday, June 10, 2013: Up at 5:50 a.m., another cool, beautiful morning. After breakfast, we are to meet at Look-out Station at 8 a.m. for brief. This morning we conducted a metal detector survey and recovery of targets. At 11:45 a.m. we drove to a new site called "Louisa springs." There is a nice little picnic area near the spring, so we all gathered there for lunch together. After lunch, we metal detected two fields. Very few artifacts.

Three "Henry" bullets were the main recoveries. I did manage to scare up a big buck and doe. Very hot, 107 degrees at 5 p.m. I ate at McDonalds before touring "Old Fort Hays." After the tour, several of us gathered in the Weist Hall lounge and visited until bedtime.

Tuesday, June 11, 2013: Woke up at 5:55 a.m. to a very warm, stuffy morning. Today we are going to the "Big Creek" stage station on the Smoky Hill Trail and Butterfield Stage route. We met there at 8:00 for our 8:15 field brief. Began metal detector surveys at 8:30 and recovery at 1 p.m. We took several extra breaks because of the heat. 105 degrees. We did recover several Civil War Army items, stage parts, wagon parts, etc.

AN OPEN LETTER TO AREA RESIDENTS AND OTHERS WHO SHARE OUR SUPPORT FOR EAST KANSAS AGRI-ENERGY

Dear East Kansas Agri-Energy Supporters:

The Discovery Channel teaches us how big cats pursue herds of gazelles. Wisely, they take down the slow-footed and frail rather than wasting valuable energy chasing the leaders. The more fleet-footed gazelles set a swift pace and understand acceptable losses as the "law of the jungle."

In the jungle that is the ethanol production industry, climatic and economic "cats" have had the same impact, idling a small minority of poorly managed ethanol plants whose management failed to demonstrate vision and decisiveness.

Sadly, East Kansas Agri-Energy has been among the frail in recent years. Foresight and alertness by East Kansas management could have prevented layoffs of skilled, earnest employees and dissatisfaction among members who invested trust, not just money, in the company.

A key question lingers: Why is management allowing East Kansas to be among the "frail in the herd?"

As a state-of-the-art production plant sits idle in Garnett, laid-off employees and members of East Kansas need and deserve answers to that question.

But waiting and waiting for answers doesn't get the Garnett plant up and running again. And status quo – which is what current management wants to preserve – won't restore East Kansas as a thriving ethanol industry leader.

Concerned Shareholders of East Kansas – many of us local residents – have progressive plans to revive the plant. An important first step is to make significant leadership changes at the top, adding board members with the expertise and contemporary thinking to lead East Kansas through today's market challenges.

Some of the small fraction of ethanol plants idled in recent years are rebounding. And not just in Corn Belt states. Even plants in Texas, California, Georgia and New York are bouncing back. Leaders at those companies have focused on fresh risk management strategies and board policies.

Why should East Kansas be left behind the rest of the herd?

Plants that remain out of the market, like the Garnett plant, are sending troubling signals to suppliers, buyers, lenders and potential new hires alike about the company's viability. If East Kansas doesn't act now, its future is at risk.

If you're an East Kansas member or if you know East Kansas members, please add support for the plans being proposed by the Concerned Shareholders of East Kansas at a special meeting in Lawrence on August 7, 2013. Revival of the Garnett plant – and soon – will be a win for everyone.

Sincerely,
Scott Brittenham and the Concerned Shareholders of East Kansas

1993: Hotel's history recalled

July 29, 2003

The City of Garnett may have run out of financial rope this year, which means tying together a budget for next year will be neither painless nor transparent to city residents used to getting their city services with little or no property tax bite. After dipping into its cash reserves for the past two years to the tune of $200,000 a year in order to replace lost interest on investments – money that used to help bolster the city's revenue ledger at budget time – city staff and commissioners are listening to the Ghost of Budgets Yet to Come and seeing the reality that will be the city's ledgers in 2005. And it isn't pretty.

How dry is it in Anderson County? Mighty dry. Blame it on June. The bonus corn crop-saving rain the county needed over the past two weeks hasn't come, and the lack of rain, particularly in usually sopping-wet June, has maintained better than a 25 percent deficit from normal through 2003.

amount in excess of $50,000 for the alleged wrongful termination of his employment in the county. He alleges in the suit that he was fired last March without cause and by means inconsistent with county personnel policies.

Garnett's Fourth Avenue Hotel is no more. Its demise gives many of us who remember the hotel in the happier days a feeling of nostalgic loss, even sadness. Although it had long passed its usefulness as a home away from home for travelers and visitors to Garnett and had become a danger and an eyesore, it was still a part of us and the City of Garnett. Always, as far back as memory goes, it had stood there, three stories tall, on the corner of Fourth and Oak, overlooking the Courthouse Square.

Five landowners and their attorneys met Thursday in the Anderson County District Courtroom with three court-appointed appraisers to discuss condemnation of land for the purpose of constructing the Garnett Reservoir. The attorneys and Terry Solander, representing the City of Garnett, discussed the results that they felt the construction of the reservoir would have on the land which the city is condemning and purchasing. The appraisers will report on Aug. 3 on the amount of damages they are awarding each landowner and the individual landowners or the city will have 30 days to appeal the amount of money.

Second of two Kart races headed to Garnett Aug. 3-4

For more than 55 years, Enduro Kart racing returns to Garnett. The second of two Kart races for 2013 is scheduled for Aug. 3 and 4. Many racers from several states are entered in this karting event. The Lake Garnett road will be closed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. these two days.

The community is welcome to watch the races, free of charge, at the south end of the lake road, which is known as the Flat Iron Corner. If one wishes to enter the pit area, a pass fee is required. This being 56 years of continuous kart racing at Lake Garnett, we will offer a 50 percent discount on pit passes so you can enter the pit area and get a close-up view of the karts and other activities that take place. The cost for adults is $10 and for children under age 15 is $5. Concessions are available and the pass is good for one day.

The Garnett Kart Club invites the community to come out and view and support the racers. The club appreciates the public's support because this sporting event takes place on the lake road.

Lawnmower Demo

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 07-23-2013 / Vickie Moss

A group of youth competitors took to the mud pit for one class at the Anderson County Fair's Lawnmower Demolition Derby Saturday, July 20, at the fairgrounds arena. Storms just before the event made for an especially muddy pit, but put a damper on attendance.

Moss attends space camp

HUTCHINSON - Conner Moss, son of Vickie Moss, graduated from the Camp KAOS Mars Academy program June 30th at the Kansas Cosmosphere and Space Center. Conner will be entering 6th grade at Greeley Elementary School this fall.

Mars Academy is a three-day overnight camp for students entering sixth and seventh grades. Developed by Cosmosphere staff, the Mars Academy program engages students in the challenges of exploring the planet Mars, while emphasizing teamwork and problem solving in a fast-paced, science, technology, engineering, and math-based learning environment. As part of the program, Mars Academy campers learn the geology, climate and environmental conditions that exist on the Red Planet. Campers launch rockets, guide a programmed robot around an obstacle course and create a custom-designed mission patch. Campers also tour the Cosmosphere's Hall of Space Museum and experience educational presentations in the Cosmosphere's Justice Planetarium, Dr. Goddard's Lab, and the Carey Digital Dome Theater. The camp culminates with a simulated robotic mission requiring each team member to assume a critical role for mission success.

Moss

The Cosmosphere offers camp programs for students as young as those entering second grade, and on through high school. Camps are available for adults, including the Intergenerational Camp Experience for adults and their children or grandchildren. Additional camp experiences are offered for groups, and schools can custom-design curriculum based on state education standards. The Cosmosphere also has programs designed specifically for Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Webelos and the American Heritage Girls.

The Cosmosphere's Camp KAOS program features five progressive levels for students entering seventh grade. Campers begin with Space 101 and 201, which are held at the Cosmosphere and visit other nearby facilities. They move on to Space 301, which includes a trip to Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas, for a behind-the-scenes tour of NASA's astronaut training facilities. Those who progress to Space 401 travel to Kennedy Space Center in Florida, where campers experience NASA launch facilities. The most advanced campers in Space 501 focus on emerging space technology facilities in California.

The Smithsonian-affiliated Cosmosphere houses the largest collection of U.S. space artifacts outside the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum in Washington, DC. It also houses the largest collection of Russian space artifacts outside of Moscow. The Carey Digital Dome Theater proudly supports education. The Cosmosphere's education department provides field trips, assemblies, and the internationally acclaimed Camp KAOS summer space adventures, which utilize STEM principles to inspire explorers of all ages and build leadership and teamwork skills. Information about Camp KAOS can be found at www.cosmospherecamps.org. For more information about the Cosmosphere and the Carey Digital Dome Theater, visit www.cosmo.org.

Amos pronounces judgment on Israel

In chapter 7 of the book of Amos the prophet pronounces judgment on Israel. Amos was one of the shepherd's of Tekoa, a desert region which was five miles south of Bethlehem in Judah. Amos although he was from the southern kingdom performed most of his ministry in the northern kingdom. Amos ministered during the reign's of Uzziah in Judah and Jeroboam the II in Israel. This was a time of affluence, luxury and moral laxity in the northern kingdom.

The people had become affluent because Samaria had become a trade stop-off for caravans and these new found riches created a desire for more. The businessmen had become impatient with the limitations placed on them by the Sabbath restrictions. The rich had become oppressive and corrupt, the courts were unjust and the religious services consisted only of idolatry. It was into this atmosphere that the prophet Amos was commissioned to go north to Samaria and warn of judgment.

In chapter 7 Amos sees the Lord standing by a wall that had been built true to plumb with a plumb line in his hand. The Lord told Amos he was setting a plumb line among his people Israel and would spare them no longer. Amos then takes this message to the northern kingdom. The message was the Lord would rise up against the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

Weekly Devotional by David Bilderback

Amaziah the priest of Bethel accused Amos of being a traitor and not having the people's best interest at heart.

The northern kingdom was enjoying great prosperity and the last thing they wanted to hear was this lifestyle was wrong. The fact that the poor were being oppressed and corruption had invaded business showed that their concern was for the sanctuary of their earthly king not the sanctuary of the great king the Lord.

Amos answers Amaziah's charge. "I was no prophet, nor a prophet's son, but I was a herdsman and a dresser of sycamore figs. But the Lord took me from following the flock, and the Lord said to me. Go prophesy to my people Israel. Now therefore hear the word of the Lord." Amos prophecy points to Israel being taken away from their land into exile. In 722 B.C. Shalmaneser the Assyrian besieged Samaria and after three brutal years the northern kingdom came to an end.

David Bilderback: A Ministry on the Holiness of God.

Nomination period for FSA County Committee positions ends Aug. 1

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack recently issued an announcement emphasizing to the farm community that the nomination period for local FSA county committees ends on Thursday, August 1, 2013.

"I encourage all eligible farmers and ranchers to participate in this year's county committee elections by nominating candidates by the August 1 deadline," said Vilsack. "County committees are a vital link between the farm community and the U.S. Department of Agriculture and provide an opportunity to farmers and ranchers for their opinions and ideas to be heard. We have been seeing an increase in the number of nominations of women and minority candidates and I hope that trend continues."

To be eligible to serve on an FSA county committee, a person must participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a county committee election and reside in the local administrative area in which the person is a candidate.

Farmers and ranchers may nominate themselves or others, and organizations representing minorities and women also may nominate candidates. To become a candidate, an eligible individual must sign the nomination form, FSA-669A. The form and other information about FSA county committee elections are available online at www.fsa.usda.gov/elections. Nomination forms for the 2013 election must be postmarked or received in the local USDA Service Center by close of business on Aug. 1, 2013.

The Local Administrative Area in Anderson County hosting this year's election is LAA1 which includes the townships of Reeder, Putnam, Jackson, Monroe and Walker.

An informational meeting will be held at 9:30 A.M. at the Anderson County FSA Office at 111 N. Maple about the upcoming election. Any questions concerning USDA/FSA program participation will also be addressed.

FSA county committees make decisions on disaster and conservation programs, emergency programs, commodity price support loan programs and other agricultural issues. Members serve three-year terms. Nationwide, there are about 7,800 farmers and ranchers serving on FSA county committees.

FSA will mail ballots to eligible voters beginning Nov. 4. The voted ballots are due back to the local county office either via mail or in person by Dec. 2. Newly elected committee members and alternates take office on Jan. 1, 2014.

Merrill to celebrate 90th birthday July 28

The family of Helen (Page) Merrill invites the public to join them on Sunday July 28th, 2013 for cake and punch at the Garnett United Methodist Church, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. to celebrate Helen's 90th Birthday.

Please no gifts, but cards are encouraged.

She would love to see former students and teachers along with her fellow softball players, bowlers and horseshoe pitchers.

Spacetech Community Youth Activity at the County Fair

Looking for something fun and FREE to do with kids at the Anderson County Fair? On Wednesday, July 24, meet at the fair tent at 1:30 PM to construct and shoot paper rockets with a pop bottle launcher, watch a LEGO Mindstorms NXT programmable robot demonstration and even get the opportunity to remote control the robot yourself! 4-H membership is not required and we hope this is a fun community youth activity associated with the fair.

Spacetech is a "non-traditional" 4-H project that youth with interest in science, construction and computers may love. It is divided into four different sections: astronomy, robotics, rocketry and GPS/GIS. Spacetech is part of a nationwide "4-H Science" focus. To address increased demand for science and technology professionals, 4-H set out to reach a bold goal of engaging one million new young people in science programs by 2013 - and we've met it.

Anderson County 4-H received a grant from the Kansas 4-H Foundation to purchase two programmable robots in 2013. Each Anderson County bank

(GSSB, Farmers State Bank, Bank of Greeley, Citizens Bank, NA and Patriots Bank) made grant-matching donations to make this educational opportunity a reality. Local 4-H members will be participating in the team robotics challenge at this year's Kansas State Fair and we will continue to offer Spacetech day camp and workshop opportunities for all local youth during school breaks in the new year.

For the latest information, we encourage you to "Like" Anderson County K-State Research and Extension on Facebook.

Attention Livestock Growers:

Moran Locker wants you to compare processing prices and save on costs. For only 50¢ per pound your handraised livestock is cut to your specifications to fit your needs, double-wrapped (the best way and most freezer stable way) and frozen. Locally owned and operated, we are a home-owned business with the experience of four generations of meat processing and butchering. Keeping our prices as low as possible for over 25 years. Slaughter fees are still only $35 per head for average size beef and hogs. With the economic slump you need to know where to go for the highest quality processing and slaughtering at the lowest prices. That's Moran Locker, where you actually get the quality processing you expect at the lowest price you deserve.

PLANNING TO PURCHASE A FAIR ANIMAL?

If you are planning to purchase a fair animal for slaughter, contact Mitch or Sharon for prior arrangements or see us at the Anderson County Fair and we will do all the work, including free hauling from the fair.

Card of Thanks

I want to thank everyone for the cards and especially the prayers for the time I spent in the hospital with Guillian Barre Syndrome. A special thank you to Fr. Matthew who came to see me and administered the sacraments. Also to Hoeger House Rehab Center in Olathe for my 3 weeks stay for physical therapy. Their kindness and care was wonderful and greatly appreciated.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 06-29-2010 / Photo Submitted

Rolling Cruise Night brings back good ol' Saturday night

GARNETT, KS: Remember the "good ole days" on Saturday nights in Garnett, Kansas, when everyone came to "town" to socialize, shop and maybe just watch the cars go by?

The Lake Garnett Cruisers invite you to Garnett's town square on Saturday night, August 3rd, for a "Rolling Can-U-Cruise Night". This is the community's opportunity to recreate the "good ole days". Bring the family, your favorite vehicle and join the Cruisers on the square. The car club has invited all classic and custom cars and motorcycles in the general area to the town square from 5:00 to 9:00 p.m. Local favorite deejay Everett Cox will be playing tunes in the courthouse bandstand, and free special entertainment will be provided by the band, The Tone Benders, in the Donna Harris Park.

and the public are welcome to be a part of the frozen t-shirt contest for their chance to win a cash prize.

The "Can-U-Cruise" part of the event offers both the public and participants to bring canned goods and non-perishable items to the cruise night registration table to be given to the local food pantry. This is the third such "Can-U-Cruise" event the Lake Garnett Cruisers have coordinated to benefit local families in need.

The car club encourages the local retailers to be open, restaurants to promote their specials, and the public to venture out on Saturday night, August 3rd to support this effort to bring back some nostalgic fun to the center of town. Bring your lawn chairs, if you wish.

Please note: The cruise night will not be a formal, organized event. There will be no barricading or designating of specific parking areas for cruise night participants or the public. Just like the "good ole days", everyone is encouraged to come together and respect each other's property. If this event is well received, similar future events may follow.

For more information please visit www.lakegarnettcruisers.com.

Unlike other cruise nights or car shows where the vehicles sit in a static display, the vehicles will be encouraged to "circle the square" and cruise Garnett so that the public can enjoy the sights and sounds.

Those bringing classic or custom vehicles to the square will receive free Cruise Night dash plaques and are eligible to win door prizes. Both participants

Backpack donations now accepted

Church Services
July 14 Darren and Cindy McGhee reported their inspiring experience at North American Christian Convention in Louisville, KY July 9-12. Scripture presented was James 1:19-25. Pastor Mark McCoy's Series "40 Days in the Word"; sermon title-"Building My Life on the Bible-Motivation". Men's Bible study at the church 7 a.m. Tuesdays; 9 a.m.-every Sunday morning Prayer Time; 9:30 a.m.-Cross Training Bible Study; Aug. 4-church potluck dinner and meeting following morning services at the City Hall community room.

Pastor Mark McCoy and missionaries Phil and Tabita McAfee also attended the North American Christian Convention together with the McGhees this past week in Louisville. This is the national gathering of the nondenominational Christian Churches. The theme was "Victorious," a look through the book of Revelation at how Jesus sustains His church. They found it amazing!

Scripture presented at the United Methodist Church July 14 was Colossians 1:1-14 and Luke 10:25-37. Pastor Dorothy Welch presented the sermon "Who Are We?"

Shower
A bridal shower for Westin Holloway and Elaine Tastove will be held at the Lone Elm Community building August 3. A potluck supper will begin at 5:30 p.m. with the shower beginning at 7 p.m. All friends and family are invited to attend.

quet and meeting is August 31 at the Crest High School auditorium. Doors open at 5:30 p.m. for registration and visitation. Banquet will be served at 7 p.m. followed by the meeting. Admission fee for banquet and meeting is $15 in advance, $16 at the door per person.

Invitations were mailed July 15. If you did not receive an invitation or know of someone who did not receive one, notify Linda Barnett Ellis, 1871 Haskell Road, Ottawa, KS 66067 as soon as possible. You may phone her at 785-272-1338 or e-mail her sister, Debbie Troxel who serves as president of this year's alumni at dtroxel55@yahoo.com.

Backpacks
Melissa Hobbs and her mother Kloma Buckle are again working on backpacks for Crest elementary student's kindergarten through 5th grade that need them. The school hands out the backpacks with some school supplies included to qualifying students. A small supply is kept in the elementary school office for those who enter the school during the year. Over 70 bags are prepared every year. Donations to help finance the project are collected through an account that is set up at Garnett State Savings Bank, Colony branch.

Backpack points are given to Garnett Country Mart customers, which helps this project. They would appreciate those also.

City Work
August 2011 Colony city council members applied for a $274,725 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) from the Kansas Department of Commerce for improvements for the Sanitary Sewer System. Phase I grant was awarded February 2012. This work is being done on the north edge of Colony.

The Phase II Sanitary Sewer Community Block Development Grant will be work on city lines throughout Colony. A time on that has not yet been set. Colony seeks a state loan through the Kansas Department of Health and Environment not to exceed $452,125 for rehabilitation of portions of the wastewater collection system and wastewater treatment system.

Story Hour
This week's theme was "Under the Earth". Delene Lindberg was in charge. Debbie Wools read "The Creature in Wide Mouth Cave" and "The Gold Miner's Daughter." Eighteen children attended. Magic salt crystal gardens were made. Charlene Tinsley made individuals dirt cakes with gummy worms, which were enjoyed for the snack. Five children won prizes for completing eight of the activities in the Incentive Game.

They were Peyton, Jaycee and Hanna Schmidt, and Brooklynn and Kamryn Jones.

Next week's theme is "Burrowers".

Around Town
Colony welcomes new residents Rick and Brandon Cerruti. They live at 420 Oak Street. Rick is Olive Kresge's oldest son. Brandon is her grandson. Rick's sister is Gina Veerkamp, Senior Meal Site

Manager and Iola Register carrier for Colony.

An updated address has been received concerning Wanda Reiter Billingsley (Howard Reiter's mother). If you sent a birthday card, it will be forwarded. She is in failing health and her new address is: Quaker Hills, 8675 SE 72nd Terrace, Baxter Springs, KS 66713.

Saturday, July 13, 73 descendants of the late Mary O'Dell McGhee and her brothers and sister met at noon at the Colony Community Center for a family reunion. They came from Missouri; Arkansas; Kansas; Utah; Quebec, Canada; and Georgia. Gary, Shirley, and Dorothy McGhee were hosts. On Friday night 40 of them met at the Riverside Park in Iola for snacks and watermelon.

Sympathy is expressed to Harold and Patsy Payne for the loss of their granddaughter, Aleah Sutterby, 16, Redfield who lost her life from injuries suffered in an automobile accident July 9. She is the daughter of Rachel (Payne) Sutterby and Mark. Funeral services were July 12 in the Uniontown High School commons area where she attended school. Burial followed in Uniontown Cemetery.
