Hangin' in the Heat

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 09-03-2013 / Vickie Moss

Area avoids dangers from heat; crops vulnerable

Rain, storms could hit soon, would be welcome in area
soybean, corn fields

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Ninety-degree temperatures are not unusual in Kansas in August. It is unusual, however, that those hot temps didn't hit the area until the month was nearly over.

Local residents saw the first real heat wave of the summer last week, as temperatures soared into the mid-90s and a summer that had previously been abnormally wet and cool turned hot and dry seemingly overnight.

Despite the sudden heat wave, most area residents seemed unaffected by the hot weather. Garnett Police Chief Kevin Pekarek said there had been no heat-related incidents or accidents.

At Garnett Elementary School, students benefited from air conditioning throughout the 1-year-old building. Even so, students still were able to enjoy recess every day. Principal Krista Hedrick said recess is only 15-minutes long, and even though it may be hot, it's still good for kids to get out in the fresh air.

Temperatures were expected to remain hot throughout the Labor Day weekend, but with a chance of thunderstorms that could bring some relief to the area. Temperatures this week were expected to be in the mid-80s, but could increase toward 90 by the end of the week, according to forecasts from the National Weather Service in Topeka.

Rain could really help local crops right now, especially soybeans, Shannon Blocker, agriculture agent for K-State Research and Extension in Anderson County, said. Local soils need a good soaking rain at least every two weeks, and they've dried out after a wet summer. The lack of moisture and high heat could be troubling for soybean crops, depending on where they are in their growth cycle. Soybeans have the ability to sort of shut down until they get enough moisture, but temporary periods of drought can damage the crop at some stages of development.

The outlook is more promising for corn fields, although again it depends on the corn's development. Most of the corn is past the danger zone, and the recent heat wave won't affect it much. She said some farmers may start harvesting the corn as early as this week if rain doesn't fall this week.

"Every year, we go through periods of temporary drought," Blocker said. "If we can get that rain, I won't worry too much."

Jail seeks to reduce health care costs

Sheriff's new plan would make inmates reimburse county for medications

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Local inmates who need medical treatment with prescription or over-the-counter drugs likely will soon have to reimburse the county for the cost of those medications.

Sheriff Vern Valentine last week asked county commissioners for a resolution that would allow him to assess the costs of medications against jail inmates. Many other jails have similar policies, he said, and it would help the jail recoup some of its considerable health care expenses. Perhaps even more importantly, Valentine said, the new policy might deter some inmates from taking advantage of the system and using the county as a source of free health care.

The new policy would charge the cost of prescriptions and other medications to the inmate. The jail currently submits those and other health care claims to the inmate's health insurance company, if the inmate has coverage. But many inmates do not have health insurance or coverage for prescription medications, and the county is stuck with the bill for any care needed during incarceration. Under the new policy, if an inmate fails to pay the county for the expenses, the bill can be sent to a collection agency.

City finalizes plans for street repairs

A handful of streets
picked over expensive
Park Road repair

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - And the winners are: Eighth Avenue, Walnut Street, Oak Street, Lake Ridge Road ... and maybe 12th Avenue and Park Road.

City staff and commissioners revealed their plans for street repairs this fall, agreeing to spend about $80,000 more than expected in order to fix more streets. But not everyone will be happy with the streets that made the cut, Garnett City Manager Joyce Martin said.

"These are the worst streets right now," Martin said. "But I know that's open for discussion. We'll never get (all bad streets) done in one year."

The cost to repair the streets will be about $223,000. The city initially budgeted about $150,000 for street repair this year, so the projects will be about $80,000 more than expected. Martin said the city can cover the additional cost by using money from a sales tax passed more than a decade ago to construct the baseball complex, remodel the library, and improve streets.

Martin said Eighth Avenue and Lake Ridge Road from U.S. 59 to Lakeview Drive were in very bad shape. Walnut Street, from Park Road to First Avenue, also needs repairs because it was damaged by large trucks during demolition of the former Garnett High School. That's also part of the reason Oak Street needs repairs, but crews will repair it all the way from Park Road to Fourth Avenue. Twelfth Avenue is a very short

Rec center fees to increase Oct. 1

Daily use fees up to $3, monthly fees up by $5 in each category

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Now that the "new" has worn off the Garnett Recreation Center, city leaders decided to increase user fees to make up the difference left by decreasing donations.

In its third year of operation and with the recent addition of air conditioning throughout the building, the Garnett Recreation Center collected just about $1,000 in gifts and donations. Aside from the initial start-up donations, the center collected about $9,000 in donations each of its first two years in operation.

To make up the difference, city commissioners approved increasing admittance fees between 25 and 50 percent. City manager Joyce Martin said the goal of city staff always has been to make the recreation center support itself, without relying on taxpayer money. The past two years, the center was able to avoid using taxpayer money because of a combination of user fees and donations. Now that donations have slacked off, the center will rely more heavily on user fees. Martin and Recreation Director Phil Bures said that is a better long-term strategy, because staff won't need to rely on the fickle nature of donations.

Martin said the Garnett Community Foundation Board

considered a letter-writing campaign to encourage more donations, but decided against it because fall is a busy time for events and activities that rely on donations from local businesses. The board members didn't want to ask too much of local businesses, Martin said.

REC CENTER...

Bures said staff continue to seek donations and grants.

Recreation center fees will increase to $3 for daily use of the facility, up from the current rate of $2. Monthly fees will increase by $5 across the board: for people ages 11-18, fees will be $15 instead of $10; ages 19-54 will increase to $25 instead of $20; seniors (55 and older) will increase to $15 instead of $10, and the monthly fee for a family pass will increase to $35 instead of $30. Annual passes will increase by $50.

The increase is expected to generate between $3,000 and $4,000 from October to December, and should generate an additional $8,000 next year. Memberships have been steady or growing since the facility opened, and attendance tends to peak when temperatures are really hot or really cold, Martin said.

Annual expenses at the rec center tend to be between $45,000 to $50,000, mostly because of staff salaries, Martin said. Now that the facility is three years old, some of the equipment has aged to the point of needing to be repaired or replaced, Bures said. The additional money generated by the fee increase should cover those needs as well, he said.

City commissioners said they were reluctant to increase fees, but agreed that the increase was necessary for the center's long-term viability.

"I hate raising rates, but spreadsheets don't lie," commissioner Preston Peine said.

Martin originally asked the change to be effective Sept. 1, but commissioners said they would like to give loyal patrons an opportunity to purchase memberships at the lower rate. The change will take effect Oct. 1. Until then, rec center memberships can be purchased at the lower rate. Mayor Greg Gwin said he hopes the extra month will encourage people to purchase annual memberships; if someone purchases an annual membership before their current membership expires, the new membership will begin at the end of the current one.

stretch of road with just three residences, but it is in such disrepair that it practically has reverted back to a gravel road, Martin said.

City staff initially planned to make repairs to Park Road, but estimate to fix that road alone came to $138,000. Martin said she would rather see more streets get repaired. Staff with Killough Construction, which will do the work, said they probably could repair some of the bumpy spots with leftover millings.

Some residents had asked the city to include Cleveland Street on its list of repairs, but Killough said the street wasn't in very bad shape and its crews could show city street crews how to do temporary repairs until the city can afford to fully fix the road, Martin said.

Campbell said there didn't appear to be a downside to instituting such a policy, because even if the bill is sent to collections the county likely will recoup some of the expense. Under the current system, the county pays the full amount not covered by the inmates' insurance.

Skyrocketing health care costs have plagued many governments, but the county jail especially has come under fire in recent years because of inmates in need of expensive health care. In 2012, 46 year-old Connie McCormick claimed to have a diagnosis of liver cancer while she was incarcerated on charges relating to the traffic death of her teenage niece. Her efforts for a reduced sentence never included firm proof of the diagnoses, and after $6,000 in initial bills McCormick finished her year-long sentence without major additional expense.

Last month, Anderson County Attorney Brandon Jones warned commissioners of possible expenses related to the sentence of an 84-year-old sex offender, Donald Tipton, who was sentenced for his third conviction of lewd and lascivious behavior for exposing himself to a woman in his neighborhood. Jones told commissioners there were few sentencing options for Tipton because of the health care cost risks Tipton and inmates like him could mean to the county. Tipton was given a 6 month jail sentence, but it was suspended and he was placed on probation and ordered to seek treatment for his sexual obsession.

What would Dr. King say about violence, abuse, victimhood in black culture?

Last week's 50th anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's "I have a dream" speech brought hours of wistful remembrance but little in the way of critical dissection of the ails that still plague black culture in America.

Those under the age of 60 in this country don't remember a nation of the kind of prejudice that King and his contemporaries stood against in the 1950s and early 1960s.

Dr. King would indeed be justifiably amazed to see the leaps blacks have made in the U.S. in 50 years — the second term of the nation's first black president; blacks in places of prominence as CEOs of major companies, politicians, professional sports, teachers, lawyers, engineers, doctors and medical professionals, movie stars and news anchors, to name only a few. Moreover, King would celebrate the general level of tolerance and inclusion practiced by whites in the new millennium not just of blacks but other races as well.

Without doubt, many were the transgressions. Without doubt, much has been gained.

But can we imagine King's disdain at the plague of black on black violence that scourges his people in our day? How would King react to the predominance of unwed motherhood within America's black culture; to the celebration of abuse and objectification of women through the pornography of rap music; to the default to victimhood in lieu of personal responsibility kept alive by the race-baiting likes of King's one-time contemporaries Al Sharpton and Jesse Jackson; to the neglect by Sharpton, Jackson, et. al., in addressing black culture's overall nemesis — anemic rates of school attendance and education?

Those points didn't escape moderate black journalist Juan Williams in an interview with Bill O'Reilly last week. Williams called out Sharpton and Jackson and as well as the special-interest organizations that fund them like the NAACP, the American Federation of Teachers and the National Education Association. Instead of sending a blunt message of personal responsibility, Williams said, Sharpton and Jackson would rather count dollars and come up with excuses.

"It's about courage, and sometimes courage requires that you speak to people who you love in ways that challenge them," Williams said. "What we're seeing now is that the civil rights leadership is all too happy to take the money and shut up and then pretend somehow they are speaking to the interest of those children or to the community. In fact, they are not. In fact what they are doing is selling out and allowing money to shut their mouths. And that is corruption and it's corruption of a great movement."

Williams is right in that the civil rights movement has acquired far more in terms of rights than it has embraced in responsibility. Dr. King would have challenged that course; would have challenged the "content of their character" among the likes of Jackson and Sharpton and confronted the thugery of black culture.

How sad that there is no one left to wear that mantle.

NOTHING TO AGENDA HERE.. MOVE ALONG.

Ted Cruz, traitor to his class

BY RICH LOWRY

NATIONAL REVIEW

Henry Adams said that politics is the systematic organization of hatreds. For the left in the past year, it has seemed at times to be the systematic organization of hatred of Ted Cruz.

The freshman senator is not the first Texan to be so honored. In fact, the state isn't holding up its end if, at any given moment, it isn't throwing onto the national scene at least one Republican reviled by the other side.

Lowry

The party's highest-profile Texans, George W. Bush and Rick Perry, tended to match inarticulateness with cowboy swagger and lend themselves to mockery as intellectual lightweights. Bush went to Yale and Harvard Business School, yet no one naturally thinks of him as an Ivy Leaguer. The two Lone Star State governors played into the left's stereotypes so nicely that if they didn't exist, the New York Times editorial board would have had to invent them.

Cruz is different -- a Princeton and Harvard man who not only matriculated at those fine institutions but excelled at them. Champion debater at Princeton. Magna cum laude graduate at Harvard. Supreme Court clerkship, on the way to Texas solicitor general and dozens of cases before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Cruz is from the intellectual elite, but not of it, a tea-party conservative whose politics are considered gauche at best at the storied universities where he studied. He is, to borrow the words of the 2008 H.W. Brands biography of Franklin D. Roosevelt, a traitor to his class.

Democrats and liberal pundits would surely dislike Cruz no matter where he went to school, but his pedigree adds an element of shocked disbelief to the disdain. "Princeton and Harvard should be disgraced," former Pennsylvania Gov. Ed Rendell exclaimed on MSNBC, as if graduating a constitutionalist conservative who rises to national prominence is a violation of the schools' mission statements.

One of the left's deepest prejudices is that its opponents are stupid, and Cruz tramples on it. At hearings, Cruz has the prosecutorial instincts of a ... Harvard-trained lawyer. Watching Attorney General Eric Holder try to fend off Cruz's questioning on the administration's drone policy a few months ago was like seeing a mouse cornered by a very large cat.

Cruz hasn't played by the Senate rules that freshmen should initially be seen and not heard. At another hearing, as Cruz says that the highest commitment of senators should be to the Constitution, another senator can be heard muttering that he doesn't like being lectured. Chairman Pat Leahy (probably the mutterer) eventually cuts him off and informs him he hasn't been in the Senate very long.

None of this is to endorse all of Cruz's tactical judgments or to deny he can irk his own side at times. His push to defund Obamacare this fall is a grass-roots-pleasing slogan in search of a realistic path to legislative fruition.

It is no secret that Cruz has presidential aspirations. Even if he ascends no higher, though, he will be a force in the Senate. He could spend decades making liberals recoil at what Princeton and Harvard hath wrought.

Kepler helps scope things into perspective

BY BOB FRANKEN

KING FEATURES SYNDICATE

By now you've probably heard the sad news: NASA's awesome Kepler space telescope is ending its mission. No longer will it be peeping into the far reaches of the universe trying to find other worlds and giving new meaning to the exclamation "Faaaaaar out." It has had a gyroscope failure, which means it can't aim its lenses in the minutely precise way necessary to chart the cosmos. So the guys back at headquarters are soliciting ideas for ways to continue using Kepler.

First of all, thanks for asking, NASA. I know I speak for all Americans in saying that. Actually, they were seeking input from scientists and engineers, but surely they will welcome suggestions from those of us who are not experts ... us Dumbos. And sure enough, here's one that is ridiculously obvious: Why not turn the whole thing over to the National Security Agency, spin it around and point the powerful lenses not at other planets, but at our own -- specifically at the United States, where it can spy on us. Consider it a supplement to the existing programs, detailed by Edward Snowden.

For that matter, it also can be rented to major league baseball as it goes where every other sport has already gone before with instant replay. What? You haven't heard? MLB is proposing a huge expansion of its existing but very limited program to allow for video second-guessing the umpires. It won't be used for balls and strikes, but for most other calls. Whatever, if you rely on a recording, you will need a camera. Kepler, taping overhead, would be the perfect fit. It's a match made in the heavens.

You know who probably has some brilliant suggestions for utilizing Kepler? Newt Gingrich, of course. This is the man, after all, who as a presidential candidate pledged that if he was elected, there would be a lunar colony established by the year 2020. Ultimately, he projected that there would be 13,000 Americans living on the moon. At that point, he went on, "they can petition to become a state." That probably frosted all the people here in Washington who have unsuccessfully fought for District of Columbia statehood, but Newt himself says we need "grandiose" ideas, such as his. So using a space telescope equipped with a recording device to keep track of his every comment on "Crossfire" makes sense.

It's easy to make fun of Gingrich, but his "grandiose" thinking has gotten him a gig co-hosting the program, which not only will pay him big bucks but also will position him for another presidential run. It's just one of our unofficial revolving doors, like the one that departing members of Congress use to get lucrative lobbying work or the one that spins finance guys between the big banks and the Treasury Department. Similarly, failed presidential candidates gravitate to TV and keep their name recognition high until it's time to make another run.

Clearly, using Kepler to observe this country is an appropriate new assignment. It has been trying to scope out worlds way out there, so why not focus on our leaders here, who are definitely from some other planet.

Last week's caller about the limbs growing into the alleyways to where you can't get through, who's responsible, I don't know that either but I do know that the trees growing in the easements in the city is the city's responsibility and there's limbs hanging down to where if there is a halfway decent sidewalk to walk on you can't get through. Also it blocks the signs to whether there's a stop or yield sign up ahead. We have more employees at city hall but less is getting done. It must be in the management. We keep paying out and paying out and nothing seems to be getting done. It's a mess.

Thank you MTV for a new high in your intellectually challenging caliber of programming. A breeding baboon dance act featuring Miley Cyrus. Besides the pointlessness of so much Hollywood bilge in which sluttiness and bad behavior supplants talent and hard work in competition for the publicity machine, I have to wonder what has happened to the fathers of this country that allow their children and especially their daughters to behave in such a fashion? Had I ever entertained the thought of such a performance, my father would have jumped onto the stage and pulled me off by my hair, no matter how old I was. I take heart that such uncleanness of spirit is a pop culture aberration and not the norm, but I challenge the fathers of our community to discipline your children as to right and wrong and lead lives worthy of example for them. Our nation depends on it.

I have a couple of things I'd like to talk about. First I see the city storehouse down by Holy Angels is gone, it needed it. I'm real happy about that. But I'd like to know why they have not done something about that house right before you get to the ethanol plant. It's a fire trap, it's a hazard place and a banker used to own it so maybe that's why.

Hey what's the deal? Is there Viagra in the water fountain down at the Garnett Police Department?

I recently noticed a Jayhawk, as in the KU mascot, on top of the Welcome to Garnett sign on highway 59. If it is to remain, I'd like to see equal representation as in a K-State Wildcat or a Pitt State Gorilla or an Emporia State Hornet, etc.. Otherwise replace it with the Kansas state bird, the meadowlark, or perhaps a Bulldog. Thank you.

Quartet to perform at Greeley

4 His Love, a Southern Gospel quartet based in Kansas City, MO, will be appearing at Greeley Elementary School, 101 South Mary Street in Greeley, Kansas on Saturday, October 26th at 7:00pm, sponsored by the Greeley United Methodist Church.

4 His Love first took shape in the mind of tenor Dan Roberts after the dramatic changes God made in his life as a young man in his 20's in Lodi, CA. That first group toured the west coast for 1 1/2 years before Dan followed the call of God to relocate to the Midwest. Settling in the Kansas City area, Dan sang with veteran baritone Bob Smith in a local quartet. The two later joined forces to recreate the ministry of 4 His Love in 2009.

The current group represents more than 75 years of experience in Christian music. They have shared the stage with Brian Free & Assurance, Karen Peck & New River, The Dove Brothers, The Nelons, Jeff & Sheri Easter and many others. Together, they bring excitement and enthusiasm to every performance without giving up a heart for true person-to-person ministry of the gospel. As they share their testimonies and the stories of what God has done in the lives of 4 His Love, audiences will be challenged to believe for what God WANTS to do in THEIR lives. Whether you are a fan of Southern Gospel music or not, you will certainly enjoy 4 His Love! Their ministry bridges all generations, bringing enjoyment to traditional settings as well as contemporary ones. Their song selections will always have a current sound, including original compositions from within the group while still showcasing vintage favorites. Come to this very special event, listen to what they sing and what they say, and you will quickly become a fan of one of the true up-and-coming quartets in Southern Gospel today - 4 His Love.

There is no admission charge for this concert; a free-will offering will be received.

City committee plans summer photo contest

The City of Garnett Branding Committee is hosting a Summer 2013 Photo Contest. Deadline for photo entries will be September 16th with public viewing of the entries to be held during the September 28th Anderson County Corn Festival. Display location: Community Building.

- About The Photo Contest: The Committee is looking for the perfect city/county photographs to compliment our new brand identity for Garnett and Anderson County. The photos can range from cultural, atmospheric shots to sporty, historic or exotic; just show us what living in the city/county means to you and submit your best photos! A jury will select the twenty best photos. The winning entries will become part of the Garnett Brand Identity and will be used for marketing of the City of Garnett and Anderson County.

- Summer Spectacular: From farms & forests, historic downtown and trails, lakes and recreation . . . photographers are requested to search out the best and most beautiful "summer" locations for the award-winning submissions! The photographs should capture our distinctive regional heritage and showcase the living landscape of natural, cultural and historic treasures that define the City and County.

The 20 winning images will be exhibited for all to see and will be used in any/all of the Garnett Brand Identity program.

- Eligibility: Anyone with images of the City of Garnett and/or Anderson County. You need not live here to participate (although preferred). Individuals, who are at least 18 years old at the time of participation, are entitled to take part.

Possible Categories

- People & Places. People make places special, and special places matter to people for different reasons. Photographs submitted to this category are of people engaging with our City/County.

- Experiencing the Prairie Spirit Rail Trail. Photographs that represent the best of what users experience along the Prairie Spirit Trail.
- Green Spaces. Images that represent the varied green spaces and natural resources - from picturesque parks and the woodland trails of the area, to the rolling pasturelands and open fields of rural farms that help to define the character of our region and provide sanctuary to residents, visitors, and wildlife.

- Award: The selection of your photograph for use in the Garnett Brand Identity program will be honored by the use of your image in numerous marketing materials and your credit will be acknowledged when/wherever possible.

Roeckers family has reunion

About 80 descendants of the Henry J. and Lena (Steinbach) Roeckers family gathered Aug. 18, 2013, at the Richmond Community Building for the family's biennial reunion.

Those attending enjoyed a potluck lunch and then honored military veterans of the family, Vernon and Evelyn (Roeckers) Pickert for their 60th wedding anniversary, and Kyle Bures and Amanda Domnanish for their upcoming wedding.

Keyboard entertainment was provided by Lauren and Lindsey Hart, and all joined the Roeckers Reunion Choir in singing God Bless America and The Battle Hymn of the Republic. Family updates were given by a descendant of each of the five children who reached adulthood. Those five were Clara (Roeckers) Wolken, Hilda (Roeckers) Hart, Emma (Roeckers) Wiesner, John H. Roeckers and Arnold Roeckers.

A great deal of visiting followed the organized program. Planning of this year's reunion was headed by Joe Hart, with assistance from Louis Hart, Louise (Hart) Miley, Loretta Sobba and others. The next reunion will be planned by the descendants of the Arnold Roeckers family.

Many of the attendees visited the Richmond Museum before returning home.

Richmond history is a part of the family's history as Henry and Lena owned and operated Roeckers' Red & White Grocery Store in Richmond for many years.

Kansas State Fair begins Sept. 6

HUTCHINSON - The Kansas State Fair is having a birthday party you don't want to miss. Named one of the American Bus Association's top 100 events, the Kansas State Fair celebrates its 100th birthday with special events - from birthday cakes to presents - that offer something for everyone. The 2013 Kansas State Fair takes place September 6-15 in Hutchinson.

Don't bother bringing presents to this party. The Kansas State Fair is the one giving the birthday gifts. The first 500 fairgoers each day will receive a commemorative 100th birthday collectible at the Fair's Information Center, so get there early. But if you still want to bring something, donate non-perishable food items at the Information Center. Your donation will enter you to win the daily $100 giveaway at the Ron Diamond performances at Bretz & Young Lawyers Arena, 5 p.m./5:30 p.m. shows. If you're feeling lucky, pick up a commemorative 100th birthday Kansas Lottery ticket at participating locations or at the Lottery Building during the Fair.

The 100th Birthday Parade kicks-off the celebration on Sept. 2 at 3 p.m. The parade will begin at the Hutchinson intersection of 12th and Main, and end at the Kansas State Fairgrounds, followed with entertainment at the Lake Talbott Stage. Some of the many special Fair-time events include highlights such as the unveiling of the Centennial Icon on Saturday, Sept. 7 at 10:30 a.m. in the Oz Gallery. And mark your calendar for the Time Capsule Opening - Saturday, Sept. 7 at 3 p.m., located north of the Administration Building at the Information Center - as well as many other birthday-themed competitions, events and displays. While you're enjoying the corn dogs, funnel cakes and other favorite Fair food, make sure you grab a piece of deep-fried birthday cake.

To close out the Fair, attend the groundbreaking ceremony of the Lair White House on Sunday, Sept. 15 at 3 p.m. "Part of the Kansas Fairgrounds Foundation's mission statement is to raise funds for the renovation, preservation and beautification of the historical Kansas State Fair which perfectly exemplifies the Lair White House project," said Mary Alice Lair, for whose family the house is named. "Any foundation has to have a goal when they're raising money and this groundbreaking ceremony will be the first step in seeing that goal achieved."

2003: Forgotten dam plans revisited

Sept. 9, 2003

It's almost forgotten history now, but for two decades it dominated debate in rural America and in Anderson County. It was the great "Dam Debate." Early settlers on the Great Plains discovered that along with drought, tornadoes, prairie fires and wolves, they also had to deal with floods. During the 1940s, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, charged with maintaining navigation on the nation's rivers, completed a study on flooding in the nation's heartland. The report was controversial, calling for the acquisition of farmland and the construction of large dams to control floods. Then came the summer of 1951, and the floods that devastated large areas of Kansas and Missouri. Congress passed the Flood Control Act of 1954, authorizing construction of a series of dams on the Missouri, Kansas and Osage Rivers. The list of proposed lakes included one on Pottawatomie Creek in Anderson County.

The $768,000 new track facility which will be under construction this fall at ACJSHS won't solve glaring inadequacies and maintenance at some of the district's school buildings, and the USD 365 school board will begin a goal-setting process this semester, to which among other things, may outline a course of action on those problems.

Sept. 9, 1993

The Anderson County Commission approved spending $33,573 Tuesday during the regular commission meeting with Sprint/United Telephone to have a new phone system installed for the Anderson County Courthouse offices. The agreement calls for a one-time fee of $3,900 for the purchase of some 20 new touchtone phones, and a five year $29,583 contract for the service.

With just one month until the Anderson County landfill will no longer be of service to handle household wastes collected in the county, the Anderson County Commission anxiously awaits word concerning a possible extension for small landfills, such as the one operated by the county. The commission has not made final plans on what will occur if the extension is not granted or if it doesn't contain wording to allow for continued operation of the local landfill during the time extension.

An investigation meeting to start the process of finalizing construction on the ACJSHS will be set up in the near future to address the issue of water leakage at the facility. The water problems have been noticeable ever since the facility opened, and the district had hoped they would be solved before the second year of school was held.

Sept. 12, 1983

The drought that has left the area without significant moisture since July 4 has caused not only the loss of crops for farmers, but has caused a downturn in businesses that depend on agriculture sales. The full affect of the drought will be measured in October or November when farmers traditionally assess their yield and make the trip to the bank to either pay on loans or renew existing ones. An area banker said loans are down. Farm implement sales also are down, area dealers said. People in the feed and grain business, however, said that feed sales had increased because of the drought.

School for the USD 365 district ended early Friday because of the heat in the buildings. The superintendent said the heat would be monitored on a daily basis in the future to determine if school would be let out early. Temperatures in the buildings have been from 90 to 95 degrees.

This mid-1800s Bowie knife was uncovered after 150 years during the recent Kansas Archaeology Training Program Field School 2013 in Hays. The knife likely was used as a buffalo hunter's skinning knife.

Bowie knife uncovered after 150 years

Do any of you remember when I started writing my articles on the Kansas Archaeology Training Program Field School 2013 and I mentioned finding a very special artifact. Well, here is a picture of that find. A mid-1800's Bowie knife. Most likely it was used as a Buffalo Hunters skinning knife. It's hard to believe this knife had been lost and became covered over with dirt and debris for over 150 years ago. I sure bet someone was hopping mad when they discovered it missing. I for one would love to know the history of this knife. A Bowie (Boo-ee) was originally made as a fixed blade fighting knife first popularized by Colonel James (Jim) Bowie in the early 19th Century. James Bowie was born April 10, 1796 in Logan County, Kentucky-died March 6,1836, San Antonio, Texas. He was known as a pioneer, soldier, smuggler, slave trader and a land speculator, who played a prominent role in the Texas Revolution, culminating in his death at the Battle of the Alamo. Bowie's daring and courage have become legendary through Western song and ballad. His name is associated with the Bowie Knife, a weapon (sometimes called the "Arkansas Toothpick") invented by either him or his brother Rezin. Col. James Bowie married Ursula de Veremendi, daughter of a Mexican Governor in 1831. Two children were born to this union. His wife and two children died in an 1832 cholera epidemic. Thus, there are no direct descendants of Col. James Bowie. I hope you have enjoyed my adventure to Hays, Kansas as much as I did and to me this was the hi-lite of my trip.

Doing what is right in the eyes of the Lord

Uzziah reigned as king in Judah from 792-740 B. C. At age 16 the people took Uzziah and made him king after his father Amaziah was killed in a conspiracy. Amaziah had foolishly engaged in a battle with Joash king of Israel and Judah was defeated.

Uzziah's 52 year reign was greatly blessed by God. Why was Uzziah so greatly blessed? We see the answer in 2nd Chronicles 26:3-5. In verse four we read Uzziah did what was right in the eyes of the LORD. God blesses obedience. Obedience to God really involves not doing what we know God does not want us to do. When we are continually in opposition to the will of God he can not bless us.

As with all things obedi-

ence to God begins a step at a time. We should not expect or worry that God will give us a task we are not equipped for. When we complete the task we may not be able to measure our success in any other way than the fact we know God wanted us to do a particular assignment and we did it to the best of our God given ability. The blessing may be entirely ours or others may reap the benefit as well. As we learn the blessing and reassurance that comes with doing what is right in the eyes of the LORD something else will happen. We will begin to seek the LORD. In verse five Uzziah set himself to seek God. It is important to understand here that God is not lost. We are. If we are not doing what is right in the eyes of the LORD we have lost our way. Uzziah by seeking God was able to get Judah back on track and he was blessed in international conflict, domestic affairs and military strength.

God is the sovereign ruler of the universe and as such may harden the hearts of those who refuse to do what is right in his eyes. God said to Moses, "I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion." Rom. 9:15 The assertion of God's absolute sovereignty is basic to biblical belief. The vision of God reigning from his throne occurs over and over in biblical text. God's dominion is total: He wills as he chooses and carries out all that he wills and none can stay his hand or thwart his plans. God will exercise his will in the form of blessing or curse depending on whether we are doing what is right in his eyes.

Bill and Barbara Ratliff, Garnett, celebrated their 50th anniversary Aug. 31, 2013.

Their children are Paula (Ratliff) Wilson and her husband, Paul Wilson, Sun City, Ariz.; Tom Ratliff and his wife, Miriam Ratliff, Heidelberg, Germany; Josh Ratliff and his wife, Susan Ratliff, Overland Park; and Beth (Ratliff) Novak and her husband, Nick Novak, Sun City, Ariz.

Local quilt guild recaps winners, prizes from fair

Minutes of the August 22, 2013 Meeting of the Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild

Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild was called to order by President, Judy Stukey, at 9:30 AM in the meeting room of the K-State Extension Office. Roll call was answered by twenty-two members. There were no guests. Judy Stukey reported that Delores Truelove provided the flowers for the tables.

The minutes of the July 25 meeting were approved as printed in the Newsletter.

The Treasurer's report was given by Lynda Feuerborn. Lynda reminded us that she is now accepting $15 dues for the new quilt club year.

Committee Reports

• Charity Quilts - Phyllis Gordon reported that she delivered six quilts to Golden Heights, 5 to Long Term Care and 5 baby blankets to Dr. Cederlind for a maternity ward. There is only one charity quilt that has not been distributed. It is a large quilt, too large for Nursing Homes or Assisted Living. It was suggested that Long Term Care might want it to use as a raffle fund raiser. There were several charity quilts donated at today's meeting; see the items later under Show and Tell.

• Audit Committee - Rose Dennison reported that she and Phyllis audited the books and found everything in order.

• 2013 Anderson County Fair - Members gave Joen Truhe a round of applause for all her hard work at the County Fair. Joen Truhe provided the following report.

Chairman: Joen Truhe
Committee members: Violet Holt, Carolyn Bennett, Marcella Skidmore, Rose Dennison, Pat Douglass, Oneda Grimes, Joyce Buckley, Jeannette Gadelman and Terrie Gifford.

I want to thank every one for all their hard work and long hours to make this years fair a success.

Thanks to all those who helped enter and display the quilts. Also a special thanks to all who set with the quilts. I know that can get very long. Since we had an extra day this year it made it even harder to cover all the times needed.

We had 38 entries from 10 members and 8 non members. Non members who entered were Darissa Maley, Judy Ryman, Joann Richardt, Judy McGraw, Lorenza Stolle, Jo Tucker, Mary Fagg and Marikay Bures.

Prizes donated by the local merchants and the winners were:

- AuBurn Pharmacy-$25.00-Lorenza Stolle

- Schulte Bulldog CarWash-$20.00 worth of car wash tokens -Oneda Grimes

- Josephines-Bird Flower Water Indicator -Kay Roeckers
- Country Fabrics-2 bundles of fat quarters- Joan Reichardt/Marikay Bures

- Dairy Queen -Combo meal -Judy Ryman

- Subway- 3 dozen cookies-Tammie Schaffer, Sharon Bowman, Violet Holt

Visitors name drawing prizes were won by the following:

I think every one likes the idea of using the quilts racks on tables to display the quilts.

Awards were as follows:

- Hand Quilted Grand Champion-Judy McGraw, Hand Quilted Reserve Grand Champion -Kay Roeckers, Machine Quilted Grand Champion-Judy Ryman, Machine Quilted Reserve Grand Champion-Sharon Bowman

- Challenge Blocks: Phyllis Mundell-Grand Champion, Violet Holt- Reserve Grand Champion, Carolyn Donlop- 3rd place, Sally Crane- 4th place, Violet Holt- 5th Place, Arlynn Wawrzewski -6th place, Terrie Gifford- 7th place, Phyllis Mundell- 8th place.

Nancy Schuster would like to have any changes or suggestions discussed and I will hand them in to her after next meeting.

Kay Roeckers asked that we figure out a way to ensure that everyone knows they need to pick their quilts up by 4 PM on the last day of the fair.

- Opportunity Quilt 2014: The 2014 Opportunity Quilt was displayed at the July meeting after Carolyn Crupper completed the quilting. This meeting it was reported that Lynn Wawrzewski completed the binding. Carolyn will take it home and put on the label.

- Programs: Charlotte Lutz reported that Patricia Knoechel will be giving her Quilt in a Day presentation on Wednesday, September 11 at 1 PM at the Community Building at the North Lake Fairgrounds. Judy Stukey asked for a volunteer to help her chair the program. Marilyn McDonald agreed to help. Charlotte Lutz volunteered to be in charge of the refreshment table again this year. Judy and Marilyn will need help setting up starting at 11 AM. Cost to attend for members is one dozen cookies, $2.00 for non-members. The book featured this year is "Quilts from Els Kitchen" and the book contains recipes. We encourage attendees to bring any quilts made from a Quilt in a Day pattern for display; Patricia always likes to look at them. Carolyn Crupper will bring the 2014 Opportunity Quilt to display and raffle tickets will be sold.

- Old Business: Florence Milliman has asked for a 3 year subscription to our Newsletter in lieu of any contribution from us for her program on Miniatures.

- New Business: There was no new business.

- Secret Sister Gifts: Janie Paxton received a secret sister gift.

- Show and Tell: Show and tell began with the display of several new charity quilts: Carolyn Crupper donated one, Cynthia Fletcher donated 6 that she made from fabric squares that were donated to the club, Sharon Bowman donated 2 (one of which was this years Block of the Month). Then Ruth Theis showed a completed UFO that she began in a Femmaage class taught by Terry Thompson in 1995. It was a wallhanging collage using items representing the female side of her family tree. Charlotte Lutz awarded her the Challenge Traveling Trophy following the meeting. Joen Truhe showed two wallhangings that she is donating as prizes for next years Square Fair Quilt Show. She also showed two double wedding ring quilts that had been quilted by Neda Marvin. Charlotte Lutz showed some double wedding ring blocks made of actual 1930's feedsacks and fabrics that were found while cleaning out her Grandmothers home in Denton, Texas. Jan Elsass showed her progress on her Block of the month. Joyce Buckley showed a Log Cabin Quilt. Cynthia Fletcher showed a quilt she is making for a girlfriend she hasn't seen in 25 years. Violet Holt showed a purse, a 10-minute block with the addition of many hours of work to put applied flowers on it, a Snowman bag, and the block she made for Judy Stukeys Presidents Block. Phyllis Gordon showed a block she made to enter into the Parker Days Quilt Contest, and a pinwheel pattern quilt she made with her daughter Connie.

The meeting was adjourned followed by Installation of Officers and our Annual Luncheon.

Phyllis Gordon did the installation of Officers, keeping true to Nancy Kreibach's written words and instructions. It was a very inspiring and serious ceremony. Nice job by both the writer, Nancy, and the presenter Phyllis.

Minutes recorded by Terrie Gifford, Secretary.
