Veterans Day quiz

Are you smarter than a seventh grader?
Find out below

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

It's quiz time:

- Who sewed the first American Flag?
- Who wrote the "Star Spangled Banner"?
- Name the first four presidents.
- Name the 13 original colonies.

If you know the answers to these questions, there's a good chance you learned the material in school. But Steve Newland, who represents the Garnett American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6397, was surprised by the answers he got when he gave the quiz to Anderson County Junior High Students.

Most of the seventh graders knew the answers. Most of the eighth graders didn't.

The difference, Newland believes, is a new program that features the flag and U.S. history. A group of VFW and Legion members have been working with elementary schools in USD 365 - Westphalia, Greeley, Garnett Elementary Center and St. Rose - to teach children about flag etiquette and facts about the founding of the United States. This year is the first year junior high students were added to the program.

Seventh graders had the program last year. Eighth graders didn't.

"This is stuff I learned in school during the late 30s and early 40s," Newland said. "This is not what they are taught in school anymore."

The program generally is brought to the schools in the fall. A small group of VFW and Legion members visit the school and tailor the program so that

Sunday liquor sales show mixed results a year later

Businesses weigh in on impact of law change

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

It's been a little more than a year since Garnett voters and county commissioners approved alcohol sales on Sundays, and for local business owners, it's not so much about how much beer and liquor is sold on Sundays. It's about meeting a need for customers.

"It's just beneficial for customers. I didn't like the idea of turning people down and sending them down the road," Sandra Zook, owner of Sandra's Quick Stop near the roundabout at the intersection of U.S. 59 and U.S. 169, said. She said she doesn't track alcohol sales for any given day, so she couldn't say how much liquor was sold on Sundays.

Other Garnett area liquor stores report mixed results from Sunday sales, but they continue to offer hours on Sunday to accommodate customers.

Mike and Cathy Barnes led the push for Sunday liquor sales after they took over the liquor store that became

October rain nearly double over average

Warm and wet weather likely to end soon

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Most of us have heard the refrain: "Rain, rain, go away. Come again some other day."

Last week, it was time for that "some other day." About 4.61 inches of rain fell last week in the local area, with 3.12 inches of rain reported during the 24 hours preceding the morning of Oct. 31. About 6.53 inches of rain fell during the month of October, almost double the amount of rain that typically falls for the month according to state precipitation records.

The rainy weather is expected to clear up this week, however, with temperatures and precipitation likely to be around "normal" levels throughout the first half of this month and possibly through the winter.

October was unseasonably wet and warm, with temperatures averaging a high of 67.7 degrees and an average low of 46.4. The normal amount of rainfall in October is 3.61 inches, but this year brought nearly a full 3 inches more than that. It also

County mulls storage issues at landfill after supervisor's request

Storage building could allow for more efficient use of recyclables

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - A little organization can go a long way - and save money.

That's the message Scott Garrett, supervisor for the Anderson County Solid Waste Department, wants to send to county commissioners. Garrett has asked them to consider building a 40x40x16 storage shed at the county's landfill at a cost of between $31,000 to $45,000.

But with the storage shed, Garrett estimates he could save the county between $350 to $500 each month, and the building would pay for itself in less than 10 years.

The key to the proposed savings would be the county's ability to organize its recyclable material in a way that maximizes the amount vendors will pay for recyclable goods. Some material, like cardboard, is more valuable and vendors will waive fuel costs to pick up a truckload full of cardboard. But other material, like glass, isn't worth the trip and the county must pay to have it removed.

If the county has a place to store its recyclables, it can organize a truckload full of valuable $350 to $500 in transportation costs each month. Under the current system, the county has no way to store the material and must load it all in one truck, mixing less valuable material with the stuff that could actually be worth something.

"Plus, we just don't have anywhere to store anything," he said.

If Garrett's request is approved, the building would offer a storage facility that could be locked, as well as a workshop and office.

Garrett made a presentation to county commissioners at the Monday, Oct. 28 meeting. Commissioners said they would need more time to discuss the matter, and they had budgeted for a storage facility next year, not this year. Although Garrett sought preliminary estimates for the project, County clerk Phyllis Gettler said the county would need to seek bids for any project that cost more than $10,000. No decision on the building was made at last week's meeting.

County correspondent Rhonda Rogers contributed to this report.

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONER OCTOBER 21

Chairman Eugene Highberger called the meeting of the Anderson County Commission to order at 9:00 a.m. on October 21 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Eugene Highberger, Present: James K. Johnson, Present: Jerry Howarter, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Road and Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor, and Michelle Miller, Secretary, met with the commission. She presented a proposal for a new computer for her office that will allow her to be able to access GIS also. There will also be a charge for the license for GIS. Lester reported he had heard at the district meeting last week that some counties pay overtime for their road department when they have to work overtime due to storms and their employees have had off for sick and vacation or holidays. Lester would like to change the county policy to allow the overtime reimbursement when his employees have not actually worked the 40 hours. Phyllis Gettler, County Clerk, pointed out the same scenario also comes up on election weeks and the sheriff's office would also question this. Commission stated they would take it under advisement. Lester reported he has a grader that is starting to use oil. He is trying to decide whether he wants to trade this one in or try to rebuild. Commission approved going ahead and getting bids. He has a mower that is using oil also. He would like to rebuild the motor this winter but he would like to add another new mower and have one for use part time. There are several bridges that are full of drift wood that needs to be cleaned out.

Emergency Management

JD Mersman, Emergency Management Director, met with the commission. They are really going to have to look at getting some trucks. With losing the pumper truck at Kincaid they are really short on pumps. Commission recommend he create a plan for acquiring pumps for the different locations in the county. He would definitely like to get a tanker for Colony and Kincaid before the end of the year. JD has found a couple of trucks online that are available. He questioned if the commission would prefer a straight purchase or a lease purchase. The truck is in Alabama and he would like to take a trip there and look it over. Commission advised looking it over and seeing what price they would take for the truck if it meets what we need. He presented a quote for replacing five self-contained breathing apparatuses. Commissioner Johnson moved to approve the purchase of five SCBA from Jerry Ingram Fire at a cost of $5202.60 out of the Rural Fire Fund. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0.

Sheriff/Jail

Sheriff Valentine and Keith Finney, Head Jailer, met with the commission. Commission signed a grant application for the sheriff's office to reimburse the department for wages if they participate in the click it or ticket program. Sheriff Valentine reported that when the jail was built it included an exam room which has an exam table in it. They would like to arrange for a PA to come to the jail to see inmates instead of taking the inmates to the doctor's office or the hospital. They could go through Advanced Correctional Healthcare or the local hospital to see the patients. Advanced Correctional Healthcare takes over all the liability of seeing the patients. The cost of seeing the PA would be taken out of the inmates commissary account. Sheriff Valentine would like to talk to judge Goddard about adding medical costs to the inmate's restitution.

Executive Session

Commissioner Johnson moved to recess into executive session for 20 minutes for the discussion of non-elected personnel with James Campbell, County Counselor, and Tom Young in attendance. Open meeting to resume at 11:00. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. No action after executive session.

JOHNS

January 19, 1925-October 31-2013

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW
Published November 5, 2013

Ella Maye Johns, age 88, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Thursday, October 31, 2013, at Kansas City Hospice House, In Kansas City, Missouri.

Johns

She was born January 19, 1925 in Montgomery County, Iowa, the daughter of George Gunnar and Lillie Amanda (Larson) Westerlund. She attended school in Grant, Iowa, graduating in 1942. She worked in Norfolk, Virginia during WWII, in Hampton Roads Port of Embarkation and later at Mutual of Omaha and Union Pacific Headquarters in Omaha.

Ella Maye married Daniel F. Johns on December 31, 1954 in Papillion, Nebraska, raising two sons, Michael George and Randall Lane Johns. The family moved to Lone Elm when Dan's father died as a result of a tractor accident, taking over the farming operation that Dan's family had built.

She enjoyed gardening, canning, crocheting, and embroidering. Ella Maye loved to watch sports, especially baseball; she played girls basketball and softball in high school. She was also an avid bowler, traveling many places for bowling tournaments. Ella Maye spent many hours refinishing furniture for many people in the area.

She was an excellent cook and loved planning many family dinners. Family was her focus and she enjoyed any time she could spend with friends and neighbors. Ella Maye's grandsons were her pride and joy; the times spent with them were treasured. She enjoyed re-telling stories about them when they were growing up.

Ella Maye loved cats and enjoyed the farm life including taking care of the cows and raising baby pigs.

She was preceded in death by her parents, George and Lillie Westerlund; her sister, Nadine Ruhl; her husband, Dan Johns; and son, Randall Johns.

Ella Maye is survived by her son, Michael Johns and wife Jean; their son, Eli Michael Johns; of Lone Elm, Kansas; Randy's very special wife, Eileen Johns and their four sons, Jeremy Daniel Johns of Emporia, Kansas; Heath Randall Johns of Atlanta, Georgia; Andrew Jacob Johns and wife Jessie of Mountain Home, Arkansas; soon to be born daughter, Avery Grace Johns; and Seth Johns of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; and other valued relatives and friends.

Memorial services will be held at 11:00 a.m., on Tuesday, November 5, 2013, at the Feuerborn Family Funeral Service Chapel, Garnett. The family will greet friends at the funeral home in Garnett at 10:00 a.m., one hour prior to service.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Lone Elm Community Building or to the Allen County Rescue Foundation.

Barney's in early 2012, asking Garnett city commissioners the following spring to reverse decisions made several years ago. The matter eventually went to Garnett voters, who approved Sunday sales by a slim margin of just 22 votes in August 2012, and stores began offering Sunday hours soon after that. Cathy Barnes said the goal wasn't just to increase liquor sales. It was to keep Garnett residents from traveling out of town to buy a product that could be offered locally. Before Garnett approved Sunday sales, residents who wanted alcohol on Sundays typically drove to liquor stores in Greeley and Princeton.

"A lot of people told me my Monday sales would probably decrease but that didn't happen. My Saturday and Monday sales have stayed the same," Barnes said.

But at Greeley Quik Shop, manager Rosalie Rockers said she has seen a significant decrease in Sunday sales since Garnett began offering the service. Until Garnett approved the measure, Greeley's shop was the only place in the county that sold liquor on Sundays for the past five or six years.

"It's hurt us. It was significant," she said, adding that she cut staff from two people to one during the four hours the store is open on Sundays.

Carol Beller, who owns Askins Beller Liquor Store in Garnett with her husband, Pat, said Sunday sales have been erratic. She believes some customers don't realize they are open on Sundays. Unlike Barnes, Beller believes Sunday sales do take away from sales on other days.

"It's pretty much equal. I think the difference is probably on Saturday," she said.

Both Beller and Barnes said they plan to maintain their Sunday hours unless sales decline to a point where it's not worth the expense.

"I have a goal I hope to meet on cold winter Sundays, and as long as I get there, it's worth my time being open," Barnes said.

A paranormal investigation

The search is on for the paranormal investigators who no-showed the Garnett Friends of the Library annual meeting last week. As things go in the investigative world of ghosts, specters, apparitions, UFO sightings, teleportation and bread landing buttered side down, I fear the worst.

I say 'no-showed' knowing full well that it was only with my own natural senses – and those of 70 other folks who showed up for the spooky program as part of the Friends' meeting – that I was interpreting the investigators' absence. It may be that they really were there; that I was only perceiving through my limited human means and without the aid of one of the whiz-bang "Ghost Box" radio receivers (available used online for $59.90, of course) or an "EVP" (electronic voice phenomena) recorder, priced between $109.95 and an even scarier $219.95.

But none of us were properly outfitted to survey beyond the dimension we were sitting in – which was a crowded one, being that the Archer Room at the library isn't big enough to accommodate that many people. Kudos to the Friends group and the library staff for coming up with a great idea for a program that, whether they were all believers or not, had a solid core of interest in the community. It was the biggest crowd ever at a Friends meeting and one of the biggest among most library events in recent memory.

Organizers tried calling the ghost hunters but to no avail. Wherever they were, no earthly means could reach them. Leaving the event, I got an eerie feeling....

So I put my own best investigatory skills at work to try to find them. It was a considerable effort, and was only cut short last Thursday by the job of getting my kid into her Halloween costume for GES' annual spook parade that afternoon.

My messages went unreturned despite my best incantations; neither Kansas nor Missouri's secretary of state's office databases had any reference to "Kansas City Paranormal Investigations" despite the website's claim that the group is a "non-profit organization based in Kansas City, Mo." A lecture listed on the organization's website at Longview Community College Oct. 5, which also listed the Garnett near-appearance on Oct. 28, was also a mystery to administrators at the college to whom I spoke. Even the room scheduler had no record or could find any proof that the lecture actually took place. Their website listed an "investigation" in Oklahoma the same day as the Longview lecture.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

Did they get to Oklahoma? Did they ever return? Has anybody heard from them since? If I was going to get sucked into another dimension I don't know if I'd want the jumping off place to be Oklahoma, and besides, who'd feed my goldfish?

The disappearance of the ghost hunters from the Garnett program did, however, give the gathered crowd a chance to enjoy each other's ghostly tales for a half hour or so as we waited. Did you know there's an old rectory that's part of the catholic church at Westphalia that many people swear is haunted? Did you know odd things happen at the Garnett Recreation Center – punching bags move for no apparent reason and photographs taken inside the gym show bizarre orbs in transit that are invisible to the naked eye?

Yep, there are spooky happenings around here, and I'm not just talking about that unidentifiable substance in the container in our refrigerator at the Review that's believed to be part of Leonard McCalla's lunch from 1961.

Me? You might guess I'm at best "iffy" on the whole ghost, spook, haunted house bit. I am concerned however, if not suspicious, about the disappearance of those paranormal investigators from KCPI. I'm reminded of the famous line from my favorite spook flick of all time, "Ghostbusters" from 1984, in which an attentive Dr. Ray Stantz (Dan Ackroyd) queries:

"Listen... do you smell something?"

Hey ghost man, if BS was gold you'd be a millionaire.

In the past people have complained that when the city or businesses or anything in this town decide to do something they look outside of the community instead of shopping here first. So what does our junior class turn around and do? They go somewhere else for a fundraiser to raise money instead of contacting the local businesses to do fundraisers.

When was there ever a vote for a new swimming pool? I see in the article in the paper the word 'they' used a lot. Who are 'they'? I'm sure all the retired people of this town would sure use a new pool.

I just wondered what the requirements are to ride a Gator on the street? I know a golf cart has to have a slow sign and insurance to drive on the street and I wondered if the Gators have to have a similar requirements or any regulation. I know I see them a lot riding on the streets after dark and they have no tail lights, that's what made me wonder about this.

A couple of years back Bob Mills did a fine job of building that bridge from Parkside Place to the Prairie Spirit Trail. So why isn't the city maintaining it? It needs a paint job on the lumber and the wood. And this winter is going to be hard on exposed lumber and I suppose that rather than spend $10-$20 now on paint they'd rather wait a couple of years and spend a couple of hundred dollars to replace it when the boards are rotted out. This was reported to the city five or six months ago and still nothing gets done. It's just a shame that we can't maintain and take care of stuff.

In regard to Mr. Mark Powls letter addressed to the city commissioners, he hit the nail on the head. He wrote the facts. It's all about using common sense, which it seems not many people have.

Isn't it funny how Nixon had to be impeached because the people in Congress said he lied. But he did not go on TV every day for four years like Obama does and lie to the American people day after day, and then when he gets caught he claims 'well, he didn't know anything about it until he read it in the newspaper.' You know its funny how bias is real strange both in the media and in our congress. The current president should be impeached, but I sure don't hear nobody out there saying he needs to go for lying to the American people. And look what its costing the American people.

We think the school superintendent should do some explaining on how they budget their money. My child's high school teacher is having to buy his textbooks out of his own money that he makes yet we can afford to buy a fancy Bulldog bus? We're small town Kansas, not a fancy college. It's almost embarrassing because no other small towns around here have a fancy bus like that. They take a regular school bus to events. We would just like some answers. Thank you.

Come to the rec center

Charlie, Cecilia and I would like to invite people to come out to the recreation center to view all our new equipment and, better yet, become a member. In order to meet the requests of people wanting to exercise, our hours have expanded from 5:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday. Saturday hours are 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Due to the increased hours of operation, we had to raise our fees to cover labor costs and to purchase additional equipment. All of our members and daily visitors have accepted the increase with no negative comments.

LETTERS

In comparing September 2013 and September 2012, our daily visitors and membership numbers have increased dramatically. Added to that is the new After School Program that has 21 students enrolled during the school year. Rochelle McGee coordinates this program for the city. Donna Brummel does adult exercise classes each Monday and Wednesday, and Anne Marie Strobel teaches Yoga classes on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Add Little Goalies Soccer, Bidy Basketball and youth volleyball in the mix and this is a busy, busy place. Recently we set a new daily visitor total with 97 people coming in on a Monday.

We are very proud of the recreation center and all the services it offers to people. We commend the city commission and city staff for their vision and willingness to take a chance on this venture.

Come see us whenever you have the chance.
Sincerely,
Howard Purcell, director

Obamacare's false promise of freedom

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Until now, Obama hasn't been pressed to square what he said with the reality of those cancellation notices. But the dam is breaking. Former adviser David Axelrod has refined the Obama promise to say that "most" people can keep their insurance, which doesn't have quite the same ring as the president's sweeping statements of yore. White House spokesman Jay Carney conceded under questioning that some plans are being axed.

It may be true, per Axelrod, that "most" people with insurance in the country are keeping it, but "most" people in the individual market are losing it. Robert Laszewski of the consultancy Health Policy and Strategy Associates estimates that 19 million people are covered in the individual market and 16 million of them have plans that don't pass muster under the exacting new Obamacare rules.

This is a problem of a different order than the travails of healthcare.gov. The website will presumably get fixed; its failures are a bug, not a feature. Throwing people off old plans, in contrast, is central to Obamacare's remaking of American health insurance. Carney justified the cancellations as the shedding of "substandard" policies, by which he means policies that are more affordable and less comprehensive than allowed under the law.

Many of the people who found that those policies suited them will now be forced to buy different, more expensive policies. Sen. Ron Johnson, a Wisconsin Republican, is planning to offer legislation grandfathering those plans so people can really keep them. Johnson's bill would force Democrats to choose between defending the law and standing by Obama's frequently repeated promise. They will, of course, choose the law.

The line about how "Americans must have the freedom to keep whatever doctor and health-care plan they have" isn't operative, and never was. Welcome to Obamacare.

Covert health care: Why the NSA should take over the system

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

BOB FRANKEN, King Features Syndicate

NSA have accomplished this with so little effort, they were unobtrusive -- or they would have been were it not for Edward Snowden. Thanks to Mr. Snowden, we now know that these guys can add this to their portfolio without raising a sweat.

First of all, they wouldn't even have to rebuild the troublesome structure aimed at confirming the accuracy of information applicants provide to the insurance exchanges. The spies already know everything there is to know about each and every one of us, so what's to verify? For that matter, filling out the forms becomes automatic. So, too, could be the selection process. The computers could be ready with recommendations for exactly which insurance policies would best fit the details of your finances, medical records and even the most sensitive parts of your personal life. It's such child's play, maybe that part could be subcontracted to Amazon or Google.

It's entirely possible that this approach also could solve the political problem presented by all those Republicans trying to gut health-care reform. "It's time," declared the president, "to stop rooting for its failure." Fat chance, unless some creative action is taken. If it was folded into the intelligence community, many of the right-wingers would be far less willing to engage in their acts of sabotage. Thinking really big here, maybe the entire Affordable Care Act could become just another section of the Patriot Act, which most of the actors in Congress have blindly supported for years.

That's why an NSA takeover is so appealing. It'll be classified. All the decisions will be taken out of our hands, our coverage determined by algorithms. Healthcare.gov can be shut down, saving billions of dollars. It would be replaced by a secret collaboration between the National Security Agency and the insurance companies. We all know how each of them cares about our rights and welfare. The very idea should make us all faint with joy.

In Matthew 28:19-20, Jesus issues the Great Commission to the disciples. Jesus came to them and said, "Therefore go and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age."

It is from these humble beginnings that the church was born. These disciples as well as Paul fully empowered by the Holy Spirit blazed a trail across the known world at that time baptizing Jew and Gentile into the kingdom. What made these disciples so effective was their sensitivity or commitment to religious values and sacred matters. In a word it was their spirituality.

Paul in his letter to the Philippians expresses the confidence he used to have in the flesh but he then explains, "But whatever was to my profit I now consider loss for the sake of Christ. What is more I consider everything a loss compared to the surpassing greatness of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord for whose sake I have lost all things. I consider them rubbish that I may gain Christ and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which is through faith in Christ." Paul realized the necessity of a life dedicated to Christ.

With such a great beginning one has to wonder why the church has failed to fulfill the Great Commission. I believe it goes back to what the disciples had and what we in the church lack, spirituality. In the Methodist church we hold tightly to two sacraments Baptism and Holy Communion. We have numerous outreach programs and follow a consistent biblical order of worship and preaching. This is all as it should be.

The only other variable is you and I. The problem is our heart. In Ezekiel 11:19 God says concerning Israel, "I will give them an undivided heart and put a new spirit in them; I will remove from them their heart of stone and give them a heart of flesh." "As believers if the church is to fulfill her commission then our doctrine must be seen in our deeds and our beliefs must transform our behavior. When this kind of truth stirs and changes our heart then the world outside will begin to take notice and the church will grow." (Alistair Begg, TFL Ministry)

The First Christian Church of Garnett is planning a medical mission trip this spring to help people in Haiti.

Fundraiser planned for mission trip to Haiti

Reaching out from the plentiful bread basket of the United States to a hurricane and earthquake ravaged third world country. Reaching out from Garnett to Haiti.

Imagine a toddler who sits listlessly at the edge of a dusty road, an inflammation in his ear and a wrenching feeling of an empty stomach each causing him pain and tears. His mother, fatigued by the long walk that has been edged with hunger and worry, lifts him back into her arms, anxious and apprehensive. The two are traveling to the town of Montrouis where she hopes to find help—help from a stranger, from someone of whom she has heard has traveled far from another place, a place not unknown in this Haitian community. A place they know is named Garnett, Kansas, located in a wealthy country recognized for its people who strive to reach out to others less fortunate.

Next spring, 10 local individuals from the Garnett community will be reaching out to the Haitian people as they participate in a medical mission sponsored in part by the First Christian Church in Garnett. In the hearts and souls of these humble, ordinary citizens is a light of hope they carry with them, a desire to show compassion to those in need, a spirit of humanity for those who are maybe sick, or hungry, or lonely, or spiritually lost. They also carry with them an extension of love and generosity from many others in the community who through their prayer and monetary giving also wish to reach out to Haiti, but are not able to make the journey there.

For some of those who have been to Haiti before, the most difficult thing to deal with is the hunger of the Haitian people. For most of us Americans, hunger is an annoying discomfort in our stomachs, its growl of impatience as it begins to feel neglected between two of our normal three daily meals. Gayla Corley, a local nurse and veteran FCC medical missionary from rural Westphalia, recalls an example of the hunger and malnutrition painfully evident in this poor Caribbean country. "One child I treated was about 18 months old and could not sit up because of starvation as the family had no way to buy food."

When March arrives, the mission team will be not be packing for a vacation in Haiti, but will instead be donating a week of their time to aid and assist with the most basic needs of a third world country. For those who are making this trip, say a prayer for them, or send with them a dollar, or both. Any amount given will be used to provide for the Haitian people, who are unfortunately accustomed to having very little with which to survive.

The FCC Haiti mission project is arranged in partnership with HOUSE OF BREAD, an interdenominational mission outreach headed by Jim & Gayle Durham, who's primary focus is to prepare children, ages 3-18, to change their country. This partnership helps perpetuate the House of Bread's commitment to the Haitian children, and offers the opportunity for individuals to grow spiritually by working with the Durhams in the mission field. More information about this ministry can be found at www.house-of-bread.org.

Several FCC fundraising efforts have been completed, and other events are planned to help fund the mission. On Saturday, November 9, a garage and bake sale is scheduled to take place at the quonset community building located on the Anderson County Fairground off Park Road. As the saying goes, one man's trash is another man's treasure. The mission team invites the public to stop by and purchase a bargain knowing that the treasure of your purchase will ultimately be realized as a smile, no matter how brief, upon the face of a needful Haitian child.

As Corley has discovered, "Children are the same the world around, no matter how bad things are they still laugh and want to play."

For others in the community who might be moved to help reach out to the Haitian people and aid the FCC mission team, heartfelt donations are welcomed.

Vikes alone in local post-season bid

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 11-05-2013 / Vickie Moss

Coach Ken Schulte parlays with his team during a time-out in a recent Central Heights Viking matcup. The Vikes take on Humboldt tonight in the opening round of the 3A District playoffs at Humboldt.

First-round playoff game at Humboldt tonight

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

OSAGE CITY - The Central Heights Viking football team emerges from the local fall sport scene as the only local team to make a post-season appearance, with an opening round 3A District matchup tonight against Humboldt at Humboldt.

The Vikes are 5-4, Humboldt is 7-2.

Central Heights comes into the opening round with a black eye from Osage City on Halloween night in which they were bombarded by OC's passing attack and lost a clencher 25-22.

"You would like to go into the playoffs with some momentum, but we have been good about bouncing back strong after a loss," said coach Kent Schulte. "I look forward to traveling to Humboldt with the opportunity to bounce back."

CHHS rushed for 227 yards on 47 carries and passed for 96 yards connecting 9/16 attempts. OC managed only 46 yards on 22 carries but hit 18 of 27 attempts for 241 yards.

OC scored first in the second period but the Vikes tied it at 6 on a Tristan Davis 3 yard run after a solid drive. But OC scored again in the second and made it 12-6 at the half. The Vikings scored early in the third to make it 14-12 when Jacob Pryor punched in from 10 yards out and made his own 2-point conversion to make it 22-12, but OC came back to take the lead 22-18. OC scored again midway through the fourth to make it 25-22 and Central Heights' drive stalled with a little over a minute left in the 4th period.

"Osage deserved to win," Schulte said. "They completed 11 straight passes to take the lead converting two third and longs and scoring on a 4th and five. We were never able to generate any consistent pass rush. They played harder than we did and coached better than we did."

Gametime at Humboldt is 7 p.m. The winner of the game takes on the winner of the Galena (8-1) and Cherryvale (6-3) game on Saturday.

You name it, we print it.

Spirit of Christmas effort begins

Last year over 125 families applied for and received gifts and food from the Spirit of Christmas effort. That number amounted to close to 275 individuals and half of them were children. Food baskets were provided to every household. Gifts were provided to every child through the kindness of many, many businesses, organizations and individuals in Anderson county.

This effort would not be successful without the help and donations from individuals, businesses, clubs, schools and churches that provide for others all year long, but especially during the holidays. Because of your kindness we were able to help all families that asked for assistance. Your help is needed again this year! ECKAN and the Spirit of Christmas Countywide Committee have begun plans for this season.

To support this effort, look for Angel Trees at Alco and City Hall in Garnett to adopt a child for Christmas. Angel Trees will also be available at the banks in Kincaid, Colony, Westphalia and Greeley. You can adopt an entire family if you wish. Many individuals, families and groups adopt each year. When you have purchased a gift or gifts please bring them to the ECKAN office in Garnett. Visit Arlene Talbert or Brandi Lopez, Anderson County Food Program and Human Service Coordinators, at the ECKAN office in Garnett if you would like to donate money, a toy or adopt a family. The Anderson County Office is located at 132 E. 5th. The hours are Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For further questions, the phone number is 785-448-3670.

2003: Councilwoman pleads to assault

Nov. 11, 2003

A former Wellsville High School student will return to the area as the newest physician in the Anderson County Hospital's Family Care Center. Dr. Wendy Belcher, a 1992 graduate of Wellsville High School, signed an agreement with ACH to begin her practice in Garnett July 1 of 2004. Belcher graduated from the University of Kansas before completing medical school at KU Med and is in the process of finishing her residency in Peoria, Ill. She and her husband, Chris, have twin sons.

A Kincaid city councilwoman pleaded guilty last week in Anderson County District Court to a misdemeanor assault charge in an incident in which she pointed a pistol at a city resident last August. She was sentenced to unsupervised probation, $117 in court costs and the gun she used in the incident was ordered destroyed. A Kincaid man reported she pointed a revolver at him and said, "I'll shoot you between the eyes." Anderson County Attorney Fred Campbell said there is a history of animosity between the two families that goes back several years, report-

Garnett is competing with other area communities for the hearts and homes of Wolf Creek Nuclear Power Plant employees who are being transferred from Wichita to the Burlington Plant. Garnett was one of several area communities invited to participate in a Community Fair today in Wichita to help the Wolf Creek transfers to decide where to live. A delegation of 10 people went to the Community Fair to help attract new families to the city.

Shortly after agreeing to keep Mont Ida and Greeley elementary schools open "as long as financially feasible" last week, the USD 365 School Board approved an outlay of $10,813 for a new heating system boiler at Greeley Elementary. The district has contemplated closure of the two schools since 1986, because the low number of students who attend them in the two communities does not justify the expense of keeping both buildings open.

Farmers in Anderson County will be among those in 35 counties that have been declared eligible for low-interest drought disaster loans because of crop damage in the 1983 years. Estimates on the crop damage across the state from the drought are placed at $320 million.

The area received its first snow and a total of 0.69 inches of moisture during the past week, and temperatures dipped into the 20s during the latter part of the week.

Through a massive local publicity campaign, smokers are being urged to quit smoking beginning Thursday, Nov. 17, which is American Smoke-out Day.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 11-05-2013/ Photo Submitted

This undamaged pottery pitcher, signed at the bottom with "Toehay," was found at an old dump in Anderson County about 15 years ago.

Toehay pottery grew from heritage

Thelma "Tin Can" Toehay Chapman, born Aug 6, 1928 the daughter of Tom Otis and Marie Chanino-Ahkeabo Toehay.

She attended Riverside Indian School, where she taught sewing.

Thelma was proud of her Kiowa-Apache heritage and was knowledgeable in the language of her tribe.

On Sept. 22, 1969, she married Art Chapman in Wichita Falls, Texas. He preceded her in death in May of 1990.

Thelma had worked at Indian City, where in the early 1970's Peter Jones, a Seneca Indian from New York was commissioned to teach the art of "throwing pots." He taught both the electric wheel and the foot wheel methods, along with designing techniques.

That's when Thelma fell in love with the art of pottery. She also studied painting at the Caddo-Kiowa Vo-tech school.

Thelma became a well known potter and artist, known not only for her pottery, but also her bead work and buckskin dresses.

by Henry Roeckers

for local archeology information.

Her specialty was clay pots, vases and pitchers in many different shapes and painted in her distinctive free hand art work. Her pots were unique in often having bead work attached and other ornamental designs. She also discovered that her great-grandfather ZO Tum, was well known for his miniature tepees, as she was for her clay ones.

Thelma was recognized by the Smithsonian Institute in Washington D.C. as the first Indian female to paint a scene on a buffalo skull, and the skull is now hanging in the Smithsonian Institute.

She very much enjoyed demonstrating her pottery wheel techniques in area schools. She attended arts and craft shows in Oklahoma, Indiana, Kansas, New Mexico and Texas.

Thelma loved meeting the people who bought her pottery, which was made in her own pottery plant located at the west edge of Anadarko, Oklahoma.

Wake services for Thelma were held on April 9, 2002 in the Smith-Hackney Funeral Chapel with funeral services on April 10, 2002. She was laid to rest in the Memory Lane Cemetery Anadarko, Oklahoma.

About 15 years ago while digging through an old dump here in Anderson County, I found this undamaged pottery pitcher. It wasn't until this fall while preparing for our garage sale that I discovered the name Toehay on its base. This immediately started me researching and the above tells you the results of my research efforts.

Yesterday on eBay a pitcher exactly like the one I found was listed for $89.99. There's a saying that goes something like this: "One person's trash is another person's treasure." Happy hunting!

Farm Bill debated this week

MANHATTAN - "Kansas farmers and ranchers need the certainty of a completed farm bill in order to make business decisions for next year," said Kansas Farm Bureau President Steve Baccus. "A strong, affordable crop insurance safety net will help crop producers develop individual risk management plans. Reauthorizing livestock disaster programs will protect Kansas ranchers from catastrophic losses such as those suffered by our South Dakota friends after the recent blizzard."

Baccus said Congress must fund all titles in the new farm bill to avoid abandoning important conservation, research and trade programs to the mercy of the appropriations process. He also called on lawmakers to preserve traditional rural-urban cooperation on nutrition issues. "A farm bill without a meaningful nutrition title will make it difficult, if not impossible, for the House and Senate to reach agreement on a bill that can be signed by the President," Baccus said. "Congress must pass a unified farm bill that continues the partnership between the nutrition and farm communities and their constituents."

Hyatt Social Club celebrates birthdays

On Oct. 12, Shirley Benjamin and Ruth Ann McDonald hosted a luncheon at Durango's Mexican Restaurant for 11 members of the Hyatt Social Club. Several members have October birthdays. Hilda Lankard received a glow-in-the-dark yard ornament. Janis Hightower was gifted with soap, three flexible cutting boards and a lovely scented candle. Rose Marie Miller was unable to attend, so Mary Ann Umbarger took her birthday gift to her. President Dorothy Miller announced that Richard Miller will speak to the Historical Society Nov. 7.

The Christmas party will once again be held at the United Brethren Church, tentatively on Dec. 7. Each member is asked to bring a gift for themselves and one for their guest. The gifts will be designated whether it is something for either a male or a female and will be distributed as prizes during a Bingo game. The members of the Hyatt Club will not exchange gifts but instead will bring donations for ECKAN's pantry. Janis Hightower guessed the contents of the mystery package, a pumpkin dish filled with candies. Becky King won the hostess gift of a candle in a ceramic bowl. Terry Cain will host the next meeting scheduled for Nov. 16 at the Garnett Library.

The ACHS Junior Class would like to thank the following businesses for their donations to our Haunted Hospital and Asylum. We also want to thank everyone who attended and supported it. We enjoyed putting it on for you and we hoped you enjoyed the scares. The community's support made this a great success. Thank you all!
