Five arrested in drug bust

Three suspects head to court today on various drug charges

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — First court appearances were set for this morning for at least three of the five people arrested in a recent drug bust in Westphalia.

Charges of possession of drugs and drug paraphernalia were filed last week against three of the five people arrested Nov. 8 at a Westphalia residence. Officers recovered methamphetamine, marijuana and about $3,800 in cash during a search of the home.

Anderson County Sheriff

Vern Valentine said a search warrant was issued on the Westphalia property as the result of a joint investigation involving the sheriffs' departments in Anderson and Coffey counties and police departments in Garnett and Burlington. Valentine did not say what led authorities to the property, and the case remains under investigation.

After the drugs were seized, three women and two men were arrested on suspicion of possession of drugs and drug paraphernalia. They included: Rachelle Lynne Robertson, 21, Leroy; James Alan Myers, 57, Iola; Bonnie Rae Shively, 21, New Strawn, Heather Faye

City changes rules after unusual zoning request

Zoning rules get more flexible for properties that don't fit the area

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — When property owners first began to build houses along Seventh Avenue in Garnett about 100 years ago, city leaders expected the area would be an upscale residential neighborhood on the edge of town.

But things don't always go according to plan, especially in the days before zoning regulations. Sometime in the 1920s or 1930s, a gas station and shop was built at the corner of Seventh and Kings Hwy. Over the years, the building has changed ownership and for many years was used as an automotive repair shop. Most recently, the building and a metal shed behind it were used for storage. Essentially, it has been a business surrounded by residential homes for decades.

That's what's known as a "non-conforming" zoning use, city attorney Terry Solander told city commissioners in a brief history on the area at Tuesday's commission meeting. The city is sprinkled with those types of zoning irregularities, Solander said, where an existing property is essentially "grandfathered" into a zoning area where it doesn't belong. Eventually, those non-conforming uses will expire, Solander said, because the property likely will change hands and new zoning regulations won't allow the new owner to continue the

Loans could help with lighting upgrades

City considers state program as new bulb standards take effect

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — City leaders took the first step last week toward a program that would allow utility customers to obtain loans to install energy-efficient lighting and pay for it through their monthly utility bills.

If Garnett commissioners agree to participate in the program, utility customers could apply for a loan program offered by the Kansas Corporation Commission. Residential property owners could apply for a maximum amount of $20,000 in improvements; small commercial and industrial structures could be eligible for a maximum of $30,000 in improvements. The loan is attached to the property's utility meter and is repaid as an additional charge on the participant's monthly utility bill. Interest rates could range between 5 percent to 8.5 percent. Participants must be in good standing with their utility payments and have been a customer for at least 12 consecutive months.

The city approved a reso-

Fourth Ave. sidewalk repairs continue despite late start

Property owners take advantage of offers to help fix sidewalks

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Despite a late start, property owners on Fourth

Avenue likely will complete a sidewalk project that will wrap up 2013 commitments for the city's comprehensive sidewalk replacement program.

City leaders were late in notifying about 26 property owners that they needed to repair or replace sidewalks at their expense by the end of November. The Fourth Avenue sidewalks are needed to make sure the city complies with a sidewalk improvement plan to meet requirements of the Americans With Disabilities Act. The owners were given only about six weeks notice, despite city officials knowing about the need to repair those sidewalks for at least the past year, if not longer. After Commissioner Gordon Blackie brought up the late notice in October, City Manager Joyce

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW
Published November 19, 2013

Nina L. Brown, age 88, of Garnett, Kansas passed away, Monday, November 4, 2013 at St. Luke's Hospital, Kansas City, Missouri.

Brown

She was born on June 10, 1925 at Garnett, Kansas. Nina was the sixth of eleven children born to C.H. "Pop" and Ruby Visalia (Wilson) Kent.

She grew up in Garnett, attending school there, before graduating from Garnett High School in 1943. She had the distinct honor of being the second ever Homecoming Queen of Garnett High School. Nina, like the majority of her generation was shaped by the depression, and those lessons remained with her throughout her life. As a young lady she helped take care of her younger brothers.

Following school she worked at the Western Auto Corporate office in downtown Kansas City. During this time she would stay at a female boarding for the week then she would return Garnett via the train for the weekends.

On January 30, 1946 she married Elmer C. Hobert. They had four children, Janeen, Kent, and twins, Cindy and Christy. They began their married life in Topeka, living there a few years before moving to Garnett where they lived until divorcing.

Nina was always a devoted and supportive mother, while her children were young she made sure to make it to all of their activities and she was constantly busy sewing and making their clothing. After her children were out of the house she worked in the meat department at the Garnett Food Mart.

On May 23, 1971 Nina was united in marriage to John W. "Sonny" Brown. They made their home in Waverly. Nina later began working at the Waverly Public Library and continued to do so for many years. Sonny passed away in 2003.

Nina moved to Parkside Place in Garnett in 2011. She made many friends and she especially enjoyed working on jigsaw puzzles there. Throughout her life she enjoyed sewing, crocheting and playing the organ. She was a country music fan; she was especially fond of Vince Gill's music. She loved to play penny bingo and was always fond of a good party, but her children and her grandchildren were her greatest joy.

Nina was preceded in death by her parents; her second husband, Sonny; infant sister, Bonnie Mae Kent; 3 brothers, Homer, George and Jerry; 3 sisters, Roannah McDonald, Ruth Brown, and Mary Jean Adams; and step-son, Lyle Brown.

She is survived by her children, Janeen Walker and husband, Steve, of Overland Park, Kansas, Kent Hobert and wife, Nedra, of Shawnee, Kansas, Cindy Ecclefield and husband, Gary, of Garnett, and Christy Hobert and husband, David Peters, of Independence, Kansas; 6 grandchildren, 4 great-grandchildren; step-son, Clyde Brown of Waverly, Kansas; sister, Helen Folk of Richland, Washington; 2 brothers, Charles Kent and wife, Aubra Ann, of Webb City, Missouri and Jim Kent and wife, Barbara, of Hoyt, Kansas.

Funeral services were Friday, November 8, 2013 at the Garnett First United Methodist Church. Burial followed in the Garnett Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Garnett First United Methodist Church or the Anderson County Hospital Foundation. Condolences to the family may be left at www.feuerbornfuneral.com

Martin apologized and assured commissioners that city staff would go out of their way to help homeowners.

Those assurances apparently worked, Martin told commissioners at their regular meeting Tuesday, Nov. 12. She said most of the homeowners have fixed their sidewalks or submitted a plan to fix them. In some cases, the city paid for the repairs and the homeowners will make payments. As an incentive to replace sidewalks, the city pays $2 per square foot to ease the burden on homeowners, and also hauls away old sidewalk debris at no charge. The city typically selects a contractor for the sidewalk project, but homeowners can do the work themselves or hire their own contractor.

Other homeowners on Second, Third and Fifth avenues also are taking advantage of the incentives and have fixed their walks, even though it was not required under this year's comprehensive plan, Martin said.

The latest round of sidewalk improvements is part of the city's ongoing effort to make its buildings and sidewalks handicapped accessible. After complaints filed by a city resident several years ago, Garnett has come under state and federal scrutiny to comply with ADA requirements. The city outlined a plan detailing what work would be done each year until 2014, but that plan can be amended as necessary. In 2011 and 2012, the city completed a U-shaped route of sidewalks along First Avenue between U.S. 59 and Oak Street, along Oak from First to Park Road, and along U.S. 59 from First to Park Road. Sidewalk improvements in other parts of the city were scheduled to be completed in 2013 and 2014, but the Fourth Avenue phase apparently was overlooked until the deadline approached.

But there are exceptions to every rule, and city commissioners agreed to allow zoning officials more flexibility on unusual cases. They approved changes to an ordinance that would allow the zoning board of appeals to grant a continuation of non-conforming uses under certain conditions, such as if the new owner plans to continue doing pretty much what has always been done at the property, or if the neighbors don't object.

The issue came about after a request from Reuben Fueborn, a local funeral director who recently purchased the former Gene's Automotive at Seventh and Kings Hwy. Fueborn wants to tear down a metal storage shed on the property and build a larger metal storage shed to rent space for boats and small recreational vehicles. Fueborn initially requested a zoning change from residential to light industrial, but zoning board members rejected his request.

Solander said the zoning board did the right thing, and changing the zoning would be a mistake. He is opposed to such types of "spot zoning"; even if the proposed use is not objectionable, it would allow a subsequent owner to establish a business that might be a bad fit for the neighborhood.

Neighbors weren't opposed to Fueborn's plans, and zoning board members thought it wasn't a bad idea, either, Solander said. Although the property is a non-conforming use and changed ownership, the new owner planned to make only minor changes. He planned to replace a metal storage building with another, slightly larger, metal storage building. But the rules didn't allow for exceptions on non-conforming uses, and the only way to fix the problem was to change the rules.

The new ordinance, which was approved unanimously by commissioners, would allow the zoning board of appeals to weigh each non-conforming use request on a case-by-case basis. The board would consider a variety of factors, such as the impact on the neighborhood and the type of proposed use, before allowing or denying the request.

replaced with bulbs that meet the standards. The old bulbs won't necessarily be "banned," but they won't be sold in stores because they don't meet the standards.

Because the old light bulbs will no longer be available for sale, some homes or businesses may need to upgrade lighting equipment as well. The new bulbs typically cost more to install, but over time are expected to save users money in conserved energy and electricity costs.

The standards already have begun to take effect, although most customers won't notice a change until they go to buy lighting in 2014. Standards to replace traditional 100-watt bulbs took effect in 2012; standards for 75-watt bulbs took effect in 2013. But the majority of household bulbs, 40 and 60 watt, won't be affected until the new standards on those bulbs take effect in 2014.

Schodorf vs. Kobach: Where's the beef?

Former state senator Jean Schodorf is running for Kansas Secretary of State against incumbent Kris Kobach, apparently basing her campaign solely on her opposition to the idea that before people can have their vote counted in a Kansas election, they should be able to prove they're actually citizens of the United States.

What Schodorf hasn't exactly made clear since her announcement a few weeks ago is what she thinks is wrong – and what we should think is wrong – with that very basic idea of enforcing existing voting law. To channel the famous 1980s burger commercial: "Where's the beef?"

It seems, after all, an undefendable premise based on current state law and common sense; like arguing that no action should be taken to enforce the voting age of 18 as well.

Girding the issue is Schodorf's abhorrence of a bill Kobach authored and legislators adopted which specifically requires voters to prove their citizenship with some form of identification in order to register to vote and to produce a driver's license, passport or some other applicable form of ID at the poll on voting day. They are measures designed to enforce the original voter requirement that you be a U.S. citizen and a resident of Kansas. The logical question is and should be: "What's wrong with that?"

The inability to prove citizenship has produced a backlog of some 17,000 suspended voter registrations across the state since the law went into effect. A big chunk of those is believed to be instigated by administrative and/or software issues within the state's Department of Motor Vehicles, whose effort to register voters at the time they apply for or renew their drivers licenses is supposed to provide citizenship confirmation to county clerk's offices in the state. Somehow the citizenship line on the confirmation for some registrations isn't printing either due to glitch or actual non-documented proof. An estimated 30-50 suspensions are in force right now right here in Anderson County.

That's a mechanism that should work – proving residence and identity at the time of license renewal should dovetail with confirmation of voter registration requirements. Something somewhere isn't connecting, however, and it's up to the Kansas Department of Revenue to fix it.

Remember, all those suspended registrants can still vote; they just have to show up at the poll, show a photo ID, and vote a "provisional" ballot which is accepted but held for confirmation between election day and whenever those ballots are canvassed. If they can prove citizenship in the interim or take care of whatever other issue might have held up the counting of their ballot, their vote still counts.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

Schodorf favors an end-around play that's easy to cheat – she says the law should be amended to allow those registering to vote to simply sign an affidavit that promises that yes, I really am a citizen.

Can we bank on that? Folks sign their name to checks all the time pledging that they really have money in the bank and they don't – just ask your local bank.

Again the logic is simple: Non-citizens don't have the right to vote, and they certainly don't have the right to affect the outcome of elections in Kansas or anywhere see.

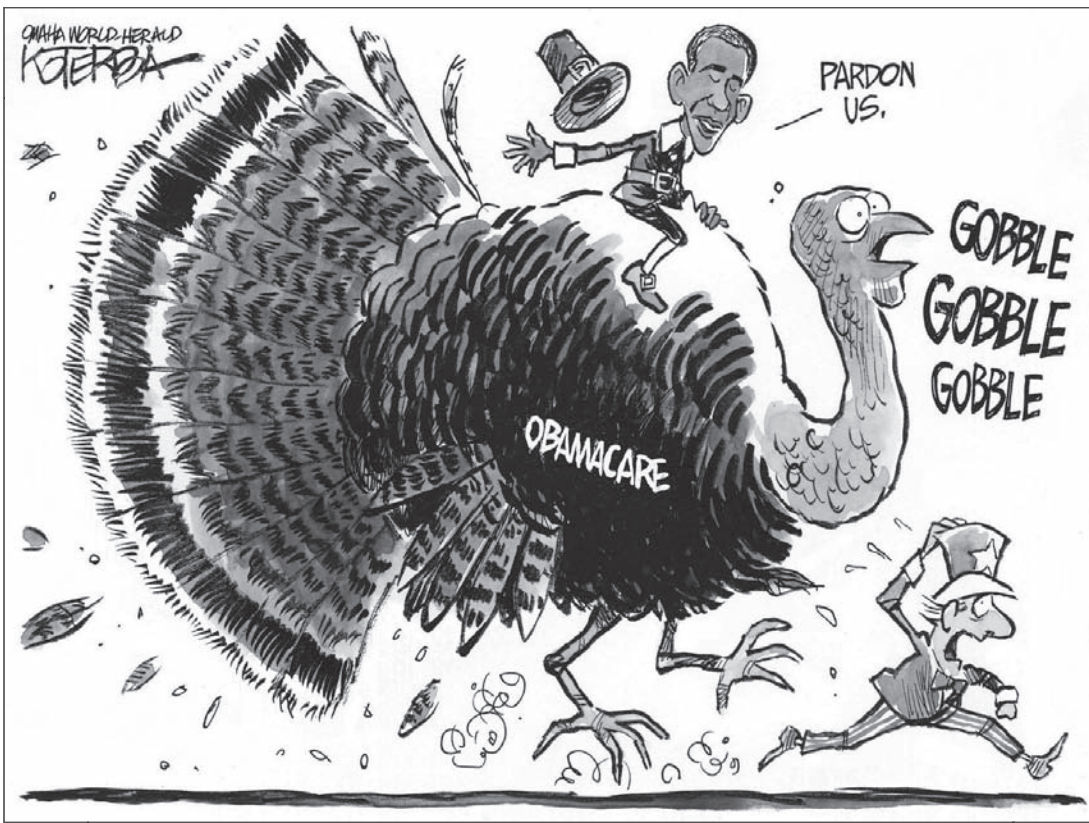

So the question becomes: Why is Schodorf so bound and determined to short-cut laws that ensure only qualified people get to vote?

It has more to do with Kobach's "brand" as a conservative than with voter registration. Schodorf, a former state senator from Wichita, is one of the moderate Republicans who got tossed out of office in the Tea Party purge in Kansas in 2010. She was upset enough to change over whole-hog to a Democrat, Kathleen Sebelius style, and has stood in opposition to various dominant fiscal and social conservative principles in the state headlined by Governor Sam Brownback.

Kobach's enforcement of citizenship requirements to vote is in keeping with his efforts across the country to strengthen anti-illegal immigrant measures in various states. It's a conviction that Kobach holds dear: That's another bee in Schodorf's bonnet and one which begs the question in reverse: By attacking Kobach's efforts against anti-illegal immigration and viewing them as a "black eye" to the sensibilities and reputation of Kansas, is she saying somehow that she supports illegal immigration?

If these are the only issues Schodorf has with Kobach, she's going to have a pretty thin campaign.

Ensuring and executing the voting laws of the state is one of the paramount responsibilities of the Kansas Secretary of State. Schodorf has started her campaign suggesting she opposes that principle more than she supports it.

I thought the article in yesterday's paper was fair and nicely researched. Vickie did a great job covering the follow-up. I wish more news outlets had dug deeper and stayed with it longer than the initial "omg, let him carry a purse." It would be nice if the administration and our whole community got an apology for the misrepresentation. I won't hold my breath.

Hey KCTV 5- Garland, Ks.? Are you kidding me? It was even spelled out for you on that great big sign north of town. Idiots.

I cannot believe that boy is making such a big fuss over not being allowed to carry his Vera Bradley purse to school. Now if it was a Georgio or Gucci or Chanelle, it would be one thing. But Vera Bradley? Really?

Kudos to the local paper who didn't publish anything about the purse fiasco that has drug Garnett's name through the mud.

Come on, we're retirement age. For God's sake, if we'd have come home and had that kind of an incident our our parents called to the school, when we did get home we would have had our you-know-whats blistered to where we couldn't sit down. Thank you.

How many of you people out there think our children in grade school are being prepared properly for junior high and high school? Just curious.

A lot of time and money was spent on running a new water line from the reservoir to the water plant. That was supposed to cure our water problems so we don't have to draw water out of that infested Chyrstal Lake. But why is it that still today our water still smells and tastes terrible? If we bring it up to the city we're told we should buy bottled water. Well that's not quite right because of the fact that we're paying for our water every month with our utility bill and we should be able to drink our tap water. So are we big bottled water for all the city employees and their families? If they're drinking this water they should know there's something not right about it. I guess our only option is we're going to have to call the state water bureau and see if we can get something figured out down here. There is something definitely wrong and somebody's not doing their job.

Can Christie be the GOP's Bill Clinton?

Chris Christie couldn't have been any more obvious about his 2016 intentions if he had begun his victory speech earlier this month with the words "My fellow Americans" and ended it with a balloon drop.

He offered New Jersey as an example for national healing. "Tonight," he said, "a dispirited America, angry with their dysfunctional government in Washington, looks to New Jersey to say 'Is what I think's happening really happening? Are people really coming together?'"

Trenton, a nation turns its lonely eyes to you. None of this was subtle, but Christie had certainly earned it. Almost every decision he's made -- sometimes shamelessly so -- has been geared to making the rubble bounce in his re-election and then using his crushing victory as a credential in an incipient national campaign. He succeeded brilliantly on his own terms.

In a state President Barack Obama won by 17 points in 2012, Christie won 60 percent overall. He won Latinos outright and took 21 percent of the black vote. He won women and men. He won high-school graduates and people with advanced degrees. He won people making more than $200,000 and people making less than $50,000.

These numbers are eye-popping. But as Henry Olsen of the Ethics and Public Policy Center points out, essentially uncontested races against badly overmatched opponents aren't a predictor of anything. William Weld won 70 percent of the vote and every county in Massachusetts in his 1994 re-election as governor, then lost by 7 points to John Kerry in a 1996 Senate race in which the map of Massachusetts snapped back to its natural state.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Christie's implicit pitch to the national GOP will probably be that he's to Republicans in the 2010s what Bill Clinton was to the Democrats in the 1990s. In other words, he offers a different kind of politics that can potentially unlock the presidency after a period of national futility for his party.

Like Clinton when he was governor of Arkansas in the 1980s, Christie is operating on hostile partisan and cultural territory, and managing to thrive by co-opting or neutralizing natural enemies.

Like the "explainer-in-chief," Christie has a knack for public persuasion. The New Jersey governor's relentless town halls during the fight for his public-sector reforms were model examples of making an argument fearlessly and effectively.

Like Clinton, who so famously felt people's pain, Christie connects. His response to Hurricane Sandy was, in part, a great act of empathy.

What Clinton had that Christie evidently lacks is a well-thought-out approach to his party's predicament. As a "New Democrat," Clinton had a different governing philosophy, expressed in a raft of new policy proposals. Chris Christie has an affect and a style of governance.

For Christie truly to capitalize on his opportunity, he will need a conservative reform agenda, geared to the bread-and-butter concerns of ordinary voters. As Henry Olsen writes, Christie's potential is in matching that Everyman appeal with substance. He could set out to make himself a Republican by and for the middle class in a departure for the contemporary party.

Congratulations on the big win, governor. Now show us what's next.

Deflating the myth: Connally was Oswald's target

What possesses the American public still to believe there was a conspiracy behind the murder of John F. Kennedy 50 years ago?

In a History Channel poll last year, the astonishing figure of 85% of those polled subscribed to the belief. Lee Harvey Oswald must have been a "patsy" of a Mafia organization, people think, or the agent of a foreign government such as Cuba or Russia, or even the tool of a sinister CIA. Surely there had to be a vast and evil empire behind so well-planned and orchestrated a plot.

It's a comfortable notion for Americans. There's only one problem: Conspiracy theories are nonsense. There is no credible or convincing evidence of a conspiracy, not by Mafia gangsters or foreign governments or even by U.S. intelligence agents. And yet the rubbish keeps spilling out in print and celluloid. It appears very likely that these fantasies will dominate the American commemoration of Kennedy's death on Friday.

Of course, wild stories about nefarious bad guys are entertaining. There's money to be made in conspiracy trafficking.

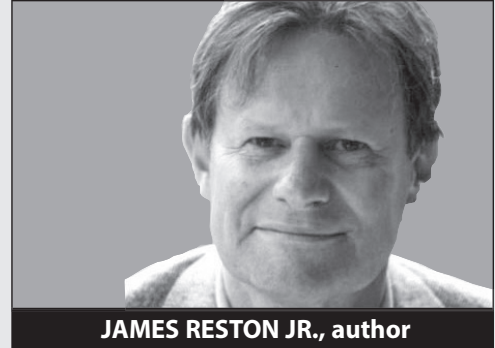

I had hoped, vainly I suppose, that serious historians might take charge of the commemoration and bring us back to the known facts about Dallas. A 50-year remembrance is useful for discarding the falsehoods that have grown up over the years. But will it happen? I doubt it.

Perhaps it's simply too hard to swallow the idea of a lone assassin perpetrating so awful a crime out of his own obsessions. It's even harder to accept that the assassin had no animus whatever toward JFK, indeed, that he admired the president.

Oswald's mindset

The mindset of Oswald is the key to this tragic event, and Oswald had no motive to kill the president. People say, oh well, he was a Marxist. But there are millions of Marxists who are not pathological killers. Well then, they say, he had grandiose ideas. But we all have grandiose ideas from time to time, and that doesn't make us murderers. Ah then, as a Marxist, full of grandiosity, he wished to decapitate the government of the United States by killing its head. That's what the Warren Commission argued.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

JAMES RESTON JR., author

Really? A confused and tormented, 24-year-old with a ninth-grade education has this big, intellectual idea? Power figures in Washington can relate to that. But I doubt it. The truth about Oswald's motive lies in his psychology, not in his politics.

There had to have been something deeply personal within Oswald's emotional structure to animate his murderous rage. That anger was directed not against President Kennedy but against Texas Gov. John Connally. With Connally, not Kennedy, Oswald had had a personal grudge. It had to do with a change that was summarily made in his military discharge from honorable to, he thought, dishonorable, after his three years in the Marine Corps and his foray in the Soviet Union.

Oswald knew the change would be devastating to his ability to make a living once he returned to the U.S. And so he wrote a heart-felt appeal to Connally, then the secretary of the Navy, thinking a fellow Texan would be sympathetic. But Connally spurned the appeal in a classic bureaucratic brushoff. And the slight arrived in an envelope bearing the smiling face of Connally within a Texas star and hawking his campaign for governor of Texas. From February 1962 onward, Connally became the face of Oswald's frustrations.

Wife's testimony

Both to the Warren Commission in 1964 and the House Assassinations Committee in 1978, Oswald's wife, Marina, testified that Connally, not Kennedy, was Oswald's target on Nov. 22, 1963.

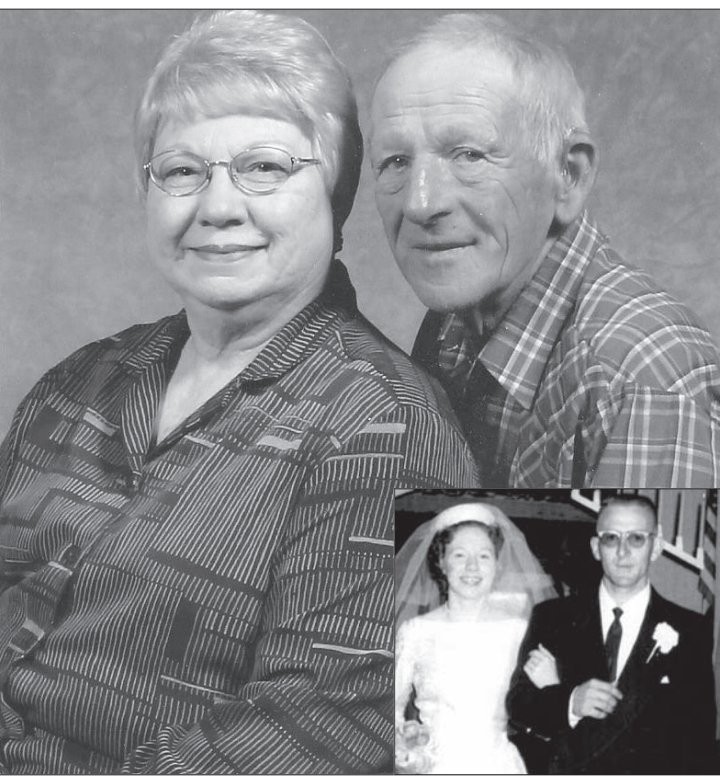

If I am right that the president was not the intended target in Dallas, does that trivialize Kennedy's death?

One might analogize the question to the situation where a soldier dies accidentally in a combat zone. What if friendly fire killed the poor fellow, or his helicopter crashed, or his humvee turned over in a ditch? When someone is "collateral damage" — to use that insidious modern phrase — does that make his death any less tragic? Is the victim less of a war hero? Should we have separate categories, separate grave stones, separate, lesser medals for soldiers who die in non-combat situations?

I don't think so. The strong likelihood that Kennedy was indeed collateral damage in Dallas does not, in any way, lessen the tragedy of his martyrdom, nor does it downsize the power of the Kennedy legacy.

James Reston Jr. is the author of The Accidental Victim: JFK, Lee Harvey Oswald, and the Real Target in Dallas.

2003: Historic schools burned as diversion for Garnett burglaries

Nov. 25, 2003

Four local individuals who apparently conspired to set fire to two historic schools in Anderson County as a diversion from their burglary of a downtown Garnett business were expected to be charged with related crimes as early as this week. The West Scipio School on U.S. 59 north of Garnett was burned to the ground in the Nov. 17 incident. Quick action by neighbors and passersby allowed Earnest School, located east of Garnett on 1750 Road, to survive with moderate damage. Both fires were reported within nine minutes of each other before 8 p.m. Monday night, Nov. 17. Both schools were historic markers in the county for nearly 100 years. West Scipio School was built in 1905 and was one of the first school districts to be formed in the county in the late 1850s. Earnest school was constructed in the mid-1880s after the district passed a bond issue for $700 for its construction. The former school at that site was noted because an earthquake occurred while masons were laying the stone for the original building. The Earnest School District was the site of the first political meeting in Anderson County in the 1860s.

A sheriff's deputy told the Anderson County Commission that an incident between him and an Ottawa Herald photographer was just bad judgment in a bad situation. That incident, plus other personnel issues, led to his 30-day suspension from the department. He allegedly threatened the photographer, who was taking pictures at a three car wreck that killed a woman and severely injured her 4-year-old daughter. The deputy said he believed the incident was blown out of proportion.

Though it's operating with surpluses in several key revenue areas, an $8,800 overall loss in the month of October

by Vickie Moss Staff Writer has brought the Anderson County Hospital's year-to-date loss to some $10,000 through the 10th month of the year. The culprit in October's loss, as has become the facility's general problem throughout the past several year, was a low volume of patients.

Nov. 21, 1983

"Finally." That was what Garnett City manager Rick Doran said while announcing Friday that dam construction for Cedar Creek reservoir had begun. The expected completion date is about one year or November 1984. The construction of the Cedar Creek reservoir for the Cedar Creek reservoir was originally to have taken place at an estimated date in 1981, but Doran said it "seems like we've had so many hurdles to get over that we never thought would transpire." Hurdles such as land acquisition, legal problems and bond issues have haunted the construction of the reservoir since the decision was made to build it in November 1980.

Postmaster General Barleson has learned an order to the effect that post office employees shall stamp Christmas parcels instead of post office patrons during the Christmas rush at the post offices. The order requires postmasters and their assistants to affix the stamps when required on mail. The plan is expected to prevent the great waste of time often experienced by post office patrons have when waiting to buy postage and mail their Christmas packages.

The so-called "Jew's Harp" has no particular connection with the Jewish people or Judaism. It is native to Asia.

'Jew's Harp' is one of oldest instruments

Can anyone identify this old iron artifact? I'll give you one clue. (One day it made beautiful music). If you guessed it was a JEW'S HARP, you are absolutely correct. I'm sorry it's only a large frame and has no steel spring or bamboo twangers, but years in the ground has taken its toll. This artifact was recently found at the site I'm working at.

The Jew's harp, jaw harp, mouth harp, Ozark harp, trump or juice harp is a "lamellophone" instrument, which is in the category of "plucked idiophones". It consists of a flexible metal or bamboo tongue or reed attached to iron or brass frame. The tongue or reed is placed in the performer's mouth and plucked with the finger to produce a note. The volume of the note (tone) can be varied by breathing in and out.

The Jew's Harp is considered to be one of the oldest musical instruments in the world. Despite its common English name, and the sometimes used Jew's trump it has NO particular connection with the Jewish people or Judaism. The Jew's Harp is native to Asia and used in all tribes of Turkic peoples in Asia.

The range of the instrument varies with the size of the instrument, but generally hovers around an octave span. As you can see by looking at the picture of this frame, it has been a very large instrument, but I have found frames the size of a nickel.

God will not change His nature!

One characteristic of God's nature is immutability, which means God does not change in his basic nature. James says; "In him, there is no variation or shadow of turning." (James 1:17) God does not change from being one kind of God to being another. In Hebrews we read Jesus Christ, "the same yesterday, today, and forever." (Hebrews 13:8) This validates the fact God that God's basic nature does not change.

God explains his plans for the nation Israel in Jeremiah 18:7-8, the word of the Lord came to the prophet Jeremiah. "O house of Israel. If at any time I announce that a nation or kingdom is to be uprooted, torn down and destroyed, and if that nation I warned repents of its evil, then I will relent and not inflict on it the disaster I had planned. And if at another time I announce that a nation or kingdom is to be built up and planted, and if it does evil in my sight and does not obey me, then I will reconsider the good I intended to do for it."

The mind of God is clearly illustrated in the book of Jonah. God calls the reluctant profit Jonah to go to Nineveh to preach against it because the wickedness of Nineveh had come up before God. Jonah went to Nineveh and proclaimed the message God had given him and the

Weekly Devotional by David Bilderback

Ninevites repented. In Jonah 3:10 we read God's response to this repentance. "When God saw what they did and how they turned from their evil ways, he had compassion and did not bring upon them the destruction he had threatened."

The salvation of Nineveh was conditional upon them repenting of their evil ways. According to Jonah's message Nineveh was 40 days away from being destroyed. We read that God had compassion on Nineveh. Had Nineveh not repented God would have been obligated to inflict on Nineveh the disaster he had threatened. Our salvation is no less conditional. We cannot transgress the law of God or live in non-conformance to the law of God and expect the blessings of God. God is patient, not wanting any to perish but ultimately we will either be blessed by God's compassion or receive his wrath. God will not change his nature for you or I.

Area resident publishes new historical novel

How do you fight the demons of your past? How do you face the ones you left behind to fight on opposing sides? Take the journey, as one man tries to cope with his past and rediscover himself in order to survive.

Pamela Peters, a college instructor and local photographer has released her first novel, "The War Within". The novel is the first of a three part series focusing on the psychological challenges soldiers can face when they try to adapt to life after fighting in a war.

Peters, a graduate of Pittsburg State University, is an instructor of Mass Communication at Lane College in Jackson, Tennessee and a co-owner, lead photographer, and lecturer of Wild Radiance Photography in Richmond. She has been recognized at the state and national levels as a collegiate broadcaster where she has combined her love of the visual arts with her knowledge of history. Her novel was created out of her experience interviewing war veterans for her collegiate documentary, "The USS Dumlap: Recollections of Those Who Served".

Set at the end of the American Civil War, "The War Within" follows Daniel Reed as he makes his way across the country as he struggles with rediscovering his life. He left the south to fight for the north, he watches helplessly as his best friend dies in his arms, and struggles to survive a horrific night on a battlefield only to find himself searching for meaning to his life when the fighting is over. Daniel must learn to trust his enemy in order to help him reunite with his family. In order to do that he must first face his inner most fears.

Lewis Kennard was presented a certificate of appreciation from Mayor Gwin following a letter from a citizen commending his actions during the construction of relocating a gas line for the USD 365 ACJSHS Access Project. The letter stated, 'Mr. Kennard had completed the trench on two properties and was finishing the trench on an adjacent property when the ACJSHS students were dismissed that afternoon. When Mr. Kennard realized the students were being directed in such a way that would require their crossing of the open trench, he immediately stopped the operation of the machine and quickly positioned himself to assist the students in crossing the open trench safely. He did not leave his position at the trench until the last student had safely crossed. It was only then that he resumed operation of the trenching machine.'

The letter stated, 'When construction workers inadvertently ruptured the gas line running across the west side of USD 365 property on North Cleveland Street, Mr. Rockers reacted quickly to the situation. While significant effort was required to close the valves, (City Power Plant employee Doug Mader assisted Mr. Rockers) these employees halted the gas flow without a fire, injury, or evacuation of ACJSHS students or staff. The damaged line was repaired that afternoon by Mr. Rockers with minimal impact

Quilt guild thanked for various quilt donations

Minutes of the October 25, 2013 Meeting of the Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild

Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild was called to order by President, Charlotte Lutz, at 9:40 AM in the meeting room of the K-State Extension Office. Judy Stuke read us a Quilters Poem. Roll call was answered by twenty-five members. There were three guests, all of whom became new members: Sandra Moffatt, Judy McArdle and Gayle Metobo.

The minutes of the August 22 meeting were approved as printed in the September Newsletter.

The Treasurer's report was given by Lou Ann Shmidl for Lynda Feuerborn. Lou Ann sent around a copy of the membership list for members to check their addresses and email addresses.

Committee Reports
Committee Sign Up Sheet
 President Charlotte passed around the sign up list for the new committee year.

Patricia Knoechel Show
 - Judy Stuke reported there were 98 attendees. Charlotte thanked Rose Dennison for the idea for a corsage for Patricia and Terrie for making it happen. Judy thanked Charlotte Lutz for the beautiful refreshment table and for wearing an apron in keeping with the new Quilt in a Day book "Els Kitchen".

2014 Opportunity Quilt
 - Carolyn Crupper reported that the quilt is now posted on Judy Martin's web page, address is www.judymartin.com/Viewer_Photos.cfm, then scroll down to "from Stellar Quilts" and select "Kyoto Gardens from Pieces and Patches."

Charity Quilts - Charlotte read a thank you note from Golden Heights. Phyllis Gordon reported that she distributed all of the quilts that had been donated. Charlotte also read a thank you note from Quilts of Valor - Kansas Inc for four quilts Nancy Kreibach had delivered made by our guild members.

Old Business: Someone delivered a Presidents Block to Judy Stuke's door. Her husband didn't think to ask who it was from and the block is not signed. Whoever made the block please let Judy know so she can sign your name to the block.

New Business: Terrie Gifford said she was contacted by Shirley Roeckers on behalf of the Anderson County Museum. Shirley wants ideas on how to protect and preserve the quilts. Suggestions were to refold and store in cotton pillow cases, or layer them on the bed. Carolyn Bennett suggested black cloths to cover them. The ideal situation would be to have them in climate controlled storage cabinets, don't allow pictures to be taken of them and no windows in the room they are displayed in (as someone saw in the Henry Ford Museum); not a possibility at our museum. Final recommendation is to open them up and layer them on the bed and cover with cotton sheets. Terrie asked for volunteers; Charlotte Lutz, Phyllis Gordon and Terrie agreed to help Shirley.

Carolyn Crupper made a motion to buy a portable quilt rack to be used for displaying the Opportunity Quilt at events like the Patricia Knoechel Show. Judy Stuke moved we buy one quilt rack. Delores Truelove seconded. Motion passed. Charlotte will order the quilt rack.

Carolyn Crupper also reported that she received a complimentary copy of "Els Kitchen" book from Patricia Knoechel and it will be in our library.

Secret Sister Gifts: Ruth Theis, Violet Holt, Marvella Harris, Rose Dennison, Terrie Gifford and Lou Ann Shmidl received secret sister gifts.

Show and Tell: Nancy Kreibach showed her completed "Glacier Star". Her longarm quilter wants to put the quilt in the next LongArm quilt show in Wichita April 2-5. This is the paper pieced quilt Nancy started in 2010. Nancy also remarked about a quilt she saw at the State Fair which had been bound with a crocheted edge.

Judy Stuke showed a quilt top made of Sun Bonnet Sue blocks she purchased at the Ethel Poovey sale. She showed her completed Presidents Block quilt from her term as president from 2003-2005.

Delores Truelove showed a Stack and Whack.

Janie Paxton showed a completed UFO, Log Cabin blocks made by her daughter in the 1980's, who gave them to Janie to complete. Janie put the blocks together but then the project languished. Janie's sister-in-law Mary Luney to the rescue who completed the quilt.

Joel Truhe showed and donated 10 charity quilts made by her classmate Jim White who lives in Minnesota, and bound by Joel. Joel showed a scarecrow wall hanging she made. Joel was asked about her escapade making capes that was written up in the newspaper. This was a Super Heroes of Kindness cooperative program between the rec center and the Elementary school. Joel ended up making about 70 capes and expects the request again next year, so maybe anyone wanting to help could join her in a work-day next year. If anyone wants to donate fabric she used 26" by WOF print for one side and plain for the other. Any type of fabric works. Joel also showed five chemo caps she made for our local hospital.

Rose Dennison showed a 3D turkey wall hanging and a quilt she made using the 10-minute block pattern.

Bonnie Deiter showed a table runner made of Sunflower fabric and a quilt made in a Modern Log Cabin pattern that she plans to quilt with the zentangles technique that she taught the club last February.

Ruth Theis showed a T-shirt Quilt.

Oneda Grimes showed a Pink and Green Log Cabin she is making for a Friend in Colorado.

Marlene Walburn showed a Sweatshirt Sweater she made with a Snowman applique. She also showed and donated a charity quilt with frogs on the back.

Marvella Harris showed Xmas Placemats and table runner and a block for Judy Stuke's second Presidents quilt.

Phyllis Gordon showed a pinwheel tabletopper and 2 of 8 placemats she is working on.

Lou Ann Shmidl showed a 5-minute block quilt she donated to charity.

Terrie Gifford showed her pieced Block of the Month now ready for applique and a geometric quilt top made from 2-inch strip blocks from the book "More Strip Clubbing."

Lynn Warzewski showed tablemats with appliqued leaves and echo quilting she did on her sewing machine. She also passed around Pink WINGS Goppert State Savings Bank pens for everyone.

Charlotte adjourned the meeting.

A short program was given by Vice President, Bonnie Deiter, demonstrating how to make the 5-minute quilt block. She showed different variations of ways to put the blocks together.

Charlotte Lutz continued the tradition of awarding the Traveling Trophy by giving the trophy to Mary Luney for being the one to finally complete the Janie Paxton family UFO. She was asked to add a decoration to the trophy and return it at the next meeting.

Minutes recorded by Terrie Gifford, Secretary.

Becker talks about trip to Boston at Four Winds DAR meeting

The Four Winds Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met on November 7, 2013 in Garnett with Alice Walker as hostess. The meeting was opened with the Opening Ritual led by Regent Alice Walker and Chaplin Agnes Carr, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance and the American's Creed. There were nine members present.

Agnes Carr read the President General's message; Judy Carr gave the National Defense Report on Military Working Dogs who are trained at Lackland Air Force Base. They have proved to be very helpful to the military. One dog serving in Afghanistan located a mine that was six inches under the ground. There are about 2500 dogs that are trained each year and about 400 who enter retirement each year.

The minutes of the October meeting were read and approved as read. The treasurer's report was given.

Correspondence was read from the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution reporting the new resolutions, the plight of so many increased numbers of homeless veterans and how job training and outreach needs to be developed for returning veterans.

"Minute" reports were given on the Constitution by Ruth Allen, American Indians and DAR Schools by Alice, Good Citizen by Juanita Kellermann, Flags and Veterans by Iona Sweers.

The slate of officers brought forward by the nominating committee was elected and will take over in June.

The Kansas Society of NSDAR convention is May 1 - 3, 2014 in Topeka, KS. The delegates were chosen and approved by the members as follows: Connie Becker, Caitlin Jackson, and Louise Stites, with alternates being Donna Roberts and Iona Sweers. Since Alice Walker is an Honorary State Regent she has an automatic vote and is not a chapter delegate.

The Christmas luncheon potluck was discussed and planned.

The program was given by Connie Becker on her recent trip to Boston, Massachusetts. She shared pictures of her trip and told interesting facts about Boston's past and present. The visit to the John F. Kennedy Library was one of many highlights as this year is the 50th anniversary of his assassination. She told of the visit to the Old North Church where the lanterns were hung to announce the arrival of additional troops from England and how there were other riders along with Revere who rode throughout the countryside to alarm the Minute Men and Militia Men to take up their arms and head to the Lexington Green. Walking on the Battle Green of Lexington and Concord brought chills to think that this is where our forefathers fought for freedom to make American the great nation she is today! She told many other stories of how the Revolution wasn't just about the Minute Men and Militia but, how women and children played important roles. Being on the deck of The Constitution, "Old Ironsides", and seeing many other important sites made American History come alive. Seeing the home of the 2013 World Series Champions the Boston Red Sox was another highlight. This area of Massachusetts has a lot of interesting places to see and many stories to tell.

The meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be the Christmas Potluck on December 5, 2013 at 12:30. Members are also asked to bring their estimated hours of service for the past year.

The Daughters of the American Revolution is a non-profit, nonpolitical women's volunteer service organization dedicated to promoting historic preservation, education, and patriotism. Any woman who can prove descent from a man or woman who gave military or civil service during the American Revolution is invited to join. Please contact one of the following members for information about joining: Iona Sweers or Juanita Kellerman in Garnett, Louise Stites of Centerville, or Alice Walker of Blue Mound.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 11-19-2013 / Photo Submitted

Guest Home Estates celebrated Veteran's Day with patriotic songs, food and smiles. The residents enjoyed music performed by resident Ardena Kilet, nurse Sharon Warbritton, and soloist Jim Craig. Then each resident enjoyed a patriotic lunch of roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, carrots and apple pie alamo. Finishing the day the veterans at Guest Home were honored with a new flag that is hanging in the dining room with a plaque that notes their name, military division and the date. From left, Jim Craig-National Guard, Coach Ray Meyer-Air Corp, Guy Gillespie-Army, Bob Young-Air Force, Bill Brooks-Army Calvary, and Joe Sample-Air Force.

Christian Church Women

Colony Christian Church Women will host a fundraiser Nov. 22 at the church from 5-7 p.m. for a Christian Mission called "Rahab's Rope". This story is found in the Bible, about a woman whose name was Rahab. The story tells of a rope that represents Rahab's rescue, physically and spiritually. Rahab's Rope's home base is in Gainesville, GA whose mission is to help women in India. About 200 girls and women are forced into the sex trade daily. They are used for a few years, then thrown to the streets to survive. The ministry of Rahab's Rope embraces these girls and women with the love of Christ. Rahab's Rope works in the areas of direct intervention, aftercare, and prevention. Through basic education, life skills and vocational training, women are empowered and quipped for a better quality of life. Just as Rahab's Rope represents her rescues, so do the products that will be available to purchase Nov. 22. Many products made by women are available for purchase. All monies collected will be sent to the mission. What a blessing for all and it's a good time to start your Christmas shopping. To find out more go to the website www.rahabsrope.com

This duplex, a first in Colony, is located on First Street. Work is nearly finished on the inside. It was built by Danny Womelsdorf. He is the third generation 'Danny' in his family, the son of Danny and Rene Womelsdorf, rural Welda. The middle name of his father and late grandfather was 'James', but young Danny's middle name (unlike theirs); is 'Henry'. Danny, wife Carolyn and child live on Colony's GAR Street.

event, which hereafter will no longer be held. Those who wish to remember their loved ones that have passed away or fight this disease may do so with the "Community Cares" event.

We appreciate all those who have donated to the American Cancer Society and may continue to do so at the Relay for Life event or Love Lights a Tree event held at Iola.

They also visited their cousin, Sandy French in Idyllwild.

Sympathy is expressed to Kathy Schulte at the death of her father, Robert Hiestand, 88, Garnett. He passed away Nov. 8 at Golden Heights.
