More Winter Fires

The home of Craig and Carol Brallier burns Tuesday evening on East Third Avenue in Garnett. Fire also destroyed a home near Westphalia earlier that same day.

Two families displaced by back-to-back fires last week

Cold challenges crews fighting fires in two cities in 24 hours

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Two area families were displaced by two unrelated house fires in less than 24 hours last week.

Fire severely damaged the homes of the Wayne Bowman family near Westphalia and the Craig and Carol Brallier family in Garnett Tuesday, Jan. 7. Both families lost most of their belongings, and the American Red Cross as well as community groups and individuals are assisting.

The first fire claimed the home of the Bowman family at 23402 NW Arkansas Road near Westphalia. The fire was believed to have started in the chimney and went into the attic with severe damage to the attic and roof, according to Dave Faries with the fire department, who was speaking on behalf of Anderson County Emergency Management.

The homeowner said he woke up in the early morning hours and smelled smoke. He was able to get everyone out of the home safely and no one was injured, Faries said. All fire departments in the county - Garnett, Westphalia, Welda, Greeley, Harris and Colony - were called to help fight the fire, and Faries commended the crews for stopping the blaze without allowing more damage to the home, especially considering bitterly cold temperatures that dipped GARNETT - Two people were injured in a head-on collision between Garnett and Westphalia Monday, Jan. 6.

Irene Kay Miller, 37, of Garnett, was taken by air ambulance to a Kansas City-area facility and Christopher Lee Nicols, 31, Ottawa, was taken by ambulance to Anderson County Hospital for injuries they received in the wreck. The injuries to Miller were not believed to be life-threatening.

Miller was headed west on 1600 Road, driving a 2000 Ford F150 pickup owned by Carl Nichols of Westphalia, at about

Enrollment spike pleases district

New elementary school helps draw people to community

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Enrollment at Garnett Elementary School has continued to climb since the school opened in the fall of 2012, an encouraging sign for the future of education in USD 365, board members said last week.

As of Monday, enrollment at the school was 461, principal Krista Hedrick said. That's 11 more than the 450 students reported on Sept. 20, the official "count day" for schools across the state that is used to calculate financial aid based on enrollment. When GES opened in the fall of 2012, enrollment was 415 but dropped to 405 by the end of the school year.

"It's always a good thing when your elementary enrollment is higher than your secondary enrollment," Superintendent Don Blome said. Enrollment at Anderson County Jr./Sr. High School was 459 on Sept. 20.

In recent years, USD 365 had faced declining enrollment and officials expected those numbers to continue to be lower year after year. But in a surprising reversal, enrollment numbers for the 2012-2013 school year and the 2013-2014 school year were steady or slightly higher. Increased enrollment is good for the district because the student receives state aid based on the number of students; more students equal more money.

Much of the credit for the increased enrollment is given to the new elementary school in Garnett. The new building makes the school district more attractive to newcomers, and to people who live in the district or

District could replace 'port-a-potties'

Track facility could get restroom upgrade after nearly a decade

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - "Port-a-potties" aren't exactly a port-a-potty when it comes to promoting schools, USD 365 Board of Education members said at their regular meeting Thursday, Jan. 9.

Board members said they would like to build a restroom and concession facility at the Anderson County High School track and stadium, but the reality of adding such a building could be well into the future. The board told Superintendent Don Blome to begin preliminary steps toward a facility, such as finding out how much it would cost and what would be required to extend utilities to the area. Blome said he couldn't even provide a "ball-park estimate" because of the many unknown factors related to such a facility.

The current track and stadium does not have restrooms or a concession stand, but portable restrooms commonly referred

Cheerleaders protest cutting routine

Board says cheerleaders can't "dance" during winter homecoming

GARNETT - "Cheerleaders cheer and the dance team dances."

USD 365 Board of Education members stuck to that refrain at their meeting Thursday, Jan. 9, in an attempt to avoid taking sides in a dispute that started sometime last year. It was not clear how the dispute started, but the end result was prohibiting Anderson County Cheerleaders from performing a routine during winter homecoming festivities.

About a dozen cheerleaders and several of their parents attended last week's board meeting to ask the board to reconsider and allow cheerleaders to perform a routine they learned during cheerleading camp. It

City of Garnett crews work to repair a water main break near the U.S. Post Office on South Oak Street Wednesday morning, Jan. 8. The cold weather led to two breaks in a main city water line, leading city crews to shut off water in four blocks for several hours and ask some customers to conserve water until the problem was fixed. Water seeped into the front entrance at the post office. The break likely was not related to fire-fighting efforts nearby at the same time. It took crews nearly 12 hours to fix the problem, and they returned Thursday to clean up the area.

ACH to open Colony clinic

COLONY - An expansion of the Anderson County Hospital to a clinic location at Colony was confirmed this week by ACH Chief Executive Officer Denny Hachenberg.

The move comes on the heels of the recent groundbreaking of a new $25 million hospital facility at the former ACH location in Garnett, and the announcement in March 2013 that the T.O. Osborn Clinic would close its Colony location and move to Iola.

Hachenberg said yesterday ACH's Family Care Center South will be located in downtown Colony and will be staffed by providers from the ACH Family Care Center in Garnett.

"The start date for the clinic has not been set," Hachenberg said. "We plan to have an official announcement in the near future."

has been a tradition for several years to allow the cheerleaders to perform the routine they learned at camp during winter homecoming. The cheerleaders said they were surprised to learn recently that a decision was made about a year ago not to allow them to do it anymore.

Board members said the issue was discussed last year and they would stick by the decision made at that time. They said winter homecoming activities tend to run too long, anyway. They suggested, however, that if the cheerleading sponsor and dance team sponsor could work out a deal they would allow it.

Cheerleading sponsor Trish Wittman did not attend the board meeting and later deferred comments to the cheerleaders' parents, saying she told the squad about the rule and they rallied on their own behalf at the school board meeting. Wittman said the cheerleaders and dance team do not have issues between them. Dance team sponsor

Eileen Burns said she did not want to comment because she was not present at the meeting and was unaware of what was discussed.

Cheerleader captain Tara Myers said the cheerleaders and dance team members are friends, but she worried the dispute over performances would drive a wedge between the groups and put them at odds.

Parent Kerry Nickell read a prepared statement to the board, saying parents paid $300 to send their daughters to camp and the winter homecoming performance was an opportunity to see a return on their investment. She argued that although the cheerleaders' routine looks like a dance routine, the movements are quite different. She also said that the dance team gave a performance during the fall homecoming game that included stunts and pom-poms, but no one complained about them using moves and props that traditionally are staples of cheerleading.

"It's not like the girls are doing a dance to take away from the dance team. It's not a competition between the two groups. The techniques are different," Nickell said.

"I've watched enough cheerleading to know it is different," board member Sonia Martin said.

In the end, however, board members were not swayed by their arguments.

"Unless you two groups work something out, officially my statement is, 'Cheerleaders cheer, the dance team dances,'" board president Gary Teel said.

Nickell said she was disappointed by the result of the board meeting, and the girls were upset the board dismissed their request. She said she was proud that the girls attended the meeting and stood up for themselves.

Nickell said she didn't think it was fair the cheerleaders needed to ask the dance team for permission to perform, but they would see if they could work out some sort of compromise with the other group.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW Published January 14, 2014

George A. Frank, 88, of Westphalia, Kansas passed away Saturday, January 4, 2014 at Vintage Park in Ottawa.

Frank

Funeral Mass was at St. Teresa's Catholic Church, Westphalia, Friday, January 10, 2014.

Interment was at St. Teresa's Cemetery, Westphalia, Kansas.

George was born on November 9, 1925 in Montrose, Colorado, the son of Joseph Sr. and Elizabeth (Kippes) Frank.

He lived in Crook, Colorado, graduating from Crook High School with the class of 1943. He then moved to Denver, Colorado where he attended Regis College and Colorado Tech University for Horology, learning the watchmaking trade.

He joined the United States Army in 1946 to 1947 and faithfully served his country. He attained the rank of Private and received the World War II Victory Medal.

On May 1, 1950 George was united in marriage with Mary C. Blaufuss in Westphalia, Kansas. Mary survives of the home.

George was a lifelong farmer and in his younger years worked on the family farm, topping beets and operating irrigation systems. He also worked as a watchmaker and package deliverer while in Denver.

Survivors include his wife; nine children, Georgene Caoile and husband John of Raymore, Missouri; Dr. Mary Frank of Lawrence, Kansas; Stephen Frank and wife Jean of Colony, Kansas; Dorothy Wittry and husband Alan of Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam; Loretta Rowland-Kitley and husband Ralph Kitley of Summerfield, North Carolina; Dr. Donna Richardson and husband Dr. Norbert of Columbia, Missouri; Fr. Paul Frank of Red Cloud, Nebraska; Barbara Penn and husband Stephan of Leawood, Kansas; and Dr. Kenneth Frank and wife Shelly of Ottawa; twenty-eight grandchildren; six great grandchildren; two sisters, Barbara Coster of Montrose, Colorado and Clara Martin of Los Angeles, California; and sisters-in-law, Shirley Frank; Marilyn Frank; and Carol Frank.

He was a member of the Lions Club and Knights of Columbus. In his 88 years of life, George was passionate in his love for his wife and family, his Catholic faith, song, farming, sports, and telling stories. George never met a stranger and he loved giving to others. He will be greatly missed.

The family suggests memorial contributions to George Frank Memorial Fund c/o Dengel & Son Mortuary, 235 S. Hickory, Ottawa, Kansas 66067. An online Guest Book is available at www.dengel-mortuary.com.

WEBER

August 22, 195-January 7, 2014

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW Published January 14, 2014

Dorothy Weber, age 88, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Tuesday, January 7, 2014, at Golden Heights in Garnett, Kansas.

Weber

Dorothy was born August 22, 1925 on a farm in Miami County, Kansas, to Elmer and Nancy Ruth Sterling Gillogly, the first of nine children.

She attended school in Linn County before moving to Anderson County in 1935, where she finished grade school at Cedar Head. She attended Welda High School three years and graduated from Garnett High School in 1943 with a "Normal Training Certificate". She immediately began teaching in rural schools in Anderson County. She taught at Greenfield, Pleasant Valley, Oak Grove, Bush City and Centerview. She enjoyed teaching; she loved children and could hardly wait for the weekend to be over so she could go back to school. She attended Emporia State Teachers College several summers and took some extension classes in education and accounting. She played on Garnett girls' softball team several summers.

On April 25, 1952, she married Dale Weber and came to live in his farm home with him and his little son, Gary. Three more children blessed their home, Larry, Judy and Shirley.

Dorothy thoroughly enjoyed being a mother, wife, and homemaker. She especially enjoyed evenings with family around the supper table. She was an avid gardener, enjoyed canning, sewing, hand work and crafts, quilting and painting.

After Larry's birth in 1955, she began to feel drawn to The Lord and in January of 1956 made a decision to follow Him. In 1961, she became a charter member of the newly formed Nazarene Church in Garnett. Through the years she was a Sunday school teacher, board member, pianist, teen leader, Missionary president, janitor and church treasurer.

Dorothy and Dale were foster parents to over 25 children in a period of 16 years. In 1974, they joined the Gideon's International and were very active in this organization for many years.

She was preceded in death by her parents; brother, Lloyd Gillogly; sisters, Velma Gillogly, Pearl Messick and infant sister, Lucille.

She is survived by her husband, Dale Weber; her children, Gary Weber and wife Dianne of Edmond, Oklahoma; Larry Weber and wife Dena of Westphalia, Kansas; Judy Ryman and husband Kerry of Garnett, Kansas; Shirley Fischer and husband Jon of Quito, Ecuador; brothers, Dale Gillogly and wife Nancy of Ottawa, Kansas; Wendall Gillogly of South Carolina; sisters, Evelyn Gillogly of Garnett, Kansas; and Edna Finley and husband Byron of Hume, Missouri; eight grandchildren, Keith Weber, Kelly Mattix, Karissa Ryman, Julie Cottrell, Glenn Ryman, Galen Ryman, Michelle Gould and Krista Fischer; eight great grandchildren; many nieces and nephews.

Graveside services were Saturday, January 11, 2014 at Bethel Cemetery, in Westphalia. Funeral services were at the Garnett Church of the Nazarene in Garnett.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Gideon International. You may send your condolences to the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

to as "port-a-potties" serve as temporary restroom facilities during events. Concessions are sold from a garage near the track. The stadium mostly is used publicly during track and field events; a football field at the stadium is used for practice while home games and commencement activities take place at an older stadium at Lake Garnett Park.

When the track facility was built about 10 years ago, the portable restrooms were intended to be a temporary solution. But after nearly a decade, it's time to look at more permanent, board members said.

"This has been a hot button of mine," board member

Dwight Nelson said. "If you're going to have events, you need to have adequate facilities. Having to use port-a-potties when you come here doesn't sell a school."

Blome said it likely will take some time to gather information about the project, and it likely would not be completed until next school year at the earliest. In addition to costs like building construction, he also needs to research whether the building could tap into the school's water and sewer lines or if they would need to extend such utilities to a main city line. He planned to talk to other districts in Humboldt and Central Heights that were undertaking similar projects.

below zero. The cold temperatures and negative windchill temperatures made it difficult for firefighters and equipment, Faries said.

"Anderson County fire crews made an excellent stop on the fire in severely harsh conditions," he said.

Later that day, fire crews were called to the home of Craig and Carol Brallier on East Third Avenue in Garnett. The house had been having electrical issues Tuesday evening, and residents discovered a fire between the first and second floors at about 11:25 p.m., Garnett Fire Chief Pat Tate said. Everyone evacuated the home and no one was injured.

The house had been remodeled several times, and the fire took hold between roof lines, Tate said.

"We couldn't get caught up with it," he said.

In addition to the Garnett fire department, crews from Greeley, Colony, Welda and Harris were called to assist. Tate said a couple of firemen overextended themselves, but there were no serious injuries caused by the firefight.

Temperatures had warmed up Tuesday, and the evening fire took place in about 30 degree weather.

"We didn't have the ice build up. We had snow to contend with, but not the ice like we had at Westphalia," Tate said.

In addition to the two house fires, area fire crews were busy last week with a false alarm at the hospital Sunday night and an injury accident Monday morning. Bitterly cold temperatures at the time made it more difficult for firefighters, he said.

"It wears you out so much quicker," Tate said.

The Bralliers were renting the home from owner Mary Martin. The damage to the house was severe enough that it likely will be considered a total loss. just outside of the district but who had chosen to send children to another school. Hedrick said most of the new students are coming from families that moved into the area for a job or to be close to family, or they are coming from families where the parent grew up in the area and returned.

The new GES building replaced two older schools, Irving Primary Center and Garnett Elementary Center, that had many infrastructure problems.

The building was constructed with a capacity of more than 500 students, so the school can easily handle the unexpected boost in enrollment, Hedrick said. Classrooms are designed to have about 24 students at the most to maintain appropriate teacher-student ratio, but could have more students; the sixth grade classes are nearly maxed out at that 24-student level this year, Hedrick said. The school has about three rooms that could be converted to full-time classroom use if enrollment continues to grow, she said.

The worm in KCPL's wind power apple

I hate to pop KCPL's bubble in the wake of the glowing Kansas City Star editorial from last week touting new initiatives at the utility to be greener and teach people to use less electricity, but when it comes to KCPL's group hug with wind power there's still a great big worm in this shiny apple.

Apparently bowing to pressure from the Sierra Club (except for Lawrence and Columbia, does the Sierra Club actually have any Kansas or Missouri membership?), KCPL last week released a new plan claiming it would increase its use of "clean wind energy" (quoting the Star and with an accompanying herald of cartoon trumpets) and help start programs to teach customers how to set timers on their thermostats and turn out the light in the bathroom when they're done, etc. The benefit of this is all sort of couched in the language of the press release: What KCPL says is that this will reduce their rates by a billion dollars over what they would be the next 20 years if the changes weren't made.

Hmm. Putting myself in KCPL's shoes, let me see if I have this straight; reduce the sales of my product by teaching folks how to use less of it, while replacing some of my firm, guaranteed production with generation that only works when the wind blows, and hope that makes me able to reduce the amount of my future rate increases?

Yep. Now all they have to do is have some guy in a black top hat put KCPL Chairman of the Board Terry Bassham in a box, saw it in half, and put him back together unscathed - and I'll swallow it all hook, line and sinker.

This all came with a pledge that the utility wouldn't seek a rate increase for two years. It did however ask for a rate increase in December 2012, and at the time the company was much more forthcoming about why it needed a rate hike - in part, because the corporation commissions in Missouri and Kansas were forcing KCPL to purchase part of their total power load from wind farms.

And that kids, is where magician's trick is revealed.

The logic is pretty simple (even though a company public relations person I chatted with by email this week didn't seem to grasp it) that utilities have to have dependable

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

power supplies from coal or natural gas or nuke or hydro to service their customers dependably. (Everyone would like his/her power to work whether or not the wind blows.) The government can force them to purchase wind power to the Sierra Club's heart's content, but the fact is that when the wind doesn't blow, the windmills don't make electricity. Power companies can't reduce coal or other fueled production by any amount due to wind power because they have to service their customers whether the wind blows or not.

Which is why a shutdown of any of KCPL's conventional coal or gas generating stations and a layoff of those expensive employees was not included in last week's grand announcement.

For this reason KCPL doesn't save a nickel, or a single piece of coal, by being forced to buy wind power. In fact the only discernible impact of wind power is to increase the utility company's costs, which are eventually passed along to customers.

To change it requires action by legislators in both states who have the backbone to stand up to the environmental lobby. Apparently so far, neither one of them fits that bill.

In the mean time, KCPL and other utilities in the country which are extorted into purchasing ridiculous windmill-generated electricity have to come up with these smoke-and-mirror publicity stunts to make it look like they're playing ball with the likes of the Sierra Club. In the end run neither the environment nor any money is saved; all we do is pay more.

Hey, good job you jack-booted Nazi regime also known as Garnett Law Enforcement. You sent a clear message to the thieves out there that they don't have too much to worry about. And for the rest of you dregs and boils of humanity, what comes around goes around.

I want to speak about the (deleted) company in this town. This guy that talked to city hall is so full of it it's not even funny. This (deleted) company is thieves, liars and morons. I have had trouble for two years on my Internet. They still don't have it fixed. Last month my bill was $134, today I opened my bill... $190- $60 raise and they have no reasoning for it. They told me to go ahead and disconnect my (deleted) if I didn't like it. I hope eventually nobody uses their service in this town.

I have a question for our school board and for our community in general, and I don't mean to sound mean or anti-gay or anything but I think it's a very legitimate question for the safety of our kids. My question is, how long does a student who is known to be a threat to other students get to stay in our junior high school? Yesterday the students got to witness our infamous television victim slam his food tray into the face of another student in the school cafeteria. No one knows what's going to happen here, of course, because discipline issues are all private, but if that obviously messed up child is allowed to stay in school with the rest of the population I am seriously considering removing my children from this school for their own safety. Do you suppose after the school shootings at Columbine and other schools that people said later 'gosh I wish we had only seen the signs?' Thank you.

Yes, I read with interest in the Anderson County Commission meeting minutes published in this week's Review our county treasurer coming up with ideas to increase fees on the local taxpayers. Since when is it the county treasurer's job to come up with revenue enhancements for the county so the county can soak the taxpayers, residents and the citizens for more money? I don't think that's the job of a county treasurer. I'd like to see if that's in the statute somewhere that states their duties. Thank you.

Yes, I'm wondering how long it will be before we start hearing it will be more feasible to build a new courthouse than to spend thousands of dollars on upgrades? Surely Anderson County taxpayers can afford a new building. Thank you.

What would the school do with out paras. Why don't they think that out.

Yet again when I go to (deleted) I'm practically ignored while the staff spends time chit-chatting with off-duty employees and friends who are just visiting. The cashier never even looked at me when she finally found time from her conversation to wait on me. Perhaps some customer service training is in order for some of our businesses.

Obama vs. Nuns over Obamacare contraception

It takes some doing to get embroiled in a court fight with nuns who provide hospice care for the indigent. Amazingly, the Obama administration has managed it.

Its legal battle with the Little Sisters of the Poor is the logical consequence of Obamacare's conscience-trampling contraception mandate. The requirement went into effect Jan. 1, but Supreme Court Justice Sonia Sotomayor issued a New Year's Eve injunction against enforcing it on the Little Sisters.

They are Catholic nuns who follow the doctrinal teachings of the church and therefore oppose contraceptive and abortive drugs and sterilization, all of which Obamacare mandates that employers cover in their insurance plans. Given the ongoing delays, waivers and exemptions associated with the law, it would seem natural simply to let the Little Sisters go about their business of pouring out their hearts for the sick and dying.

But this is a fight the administration won't walk away from. For it, it is a matter of principle. And the principle is that the state trumps the convictions of people with deep-held religious beliefs.

When the contraception mandate first caused an uproar, the administration contrived a so-called accommodation for religiously oriented groups (actual churches have always been exempt). But whoever crafted it had a sick sense of humor. The very same document by which a group registers its moral objection to contraceptives and abortifacients also authorizes the insurer to cover them for the group's employees. What the accommodation gives with one hand, it takes away with the other.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

The Little Sisters refuse to sign such a document. They happen to be in an unusual situation because they get their insurance from another religiously affiliated organization opposed to contraceptives and abortifacients, so it may be that these drugs don't get covered no matter what. But the Little Sisters can't be sure of this -- the regulations are complicated and subject to change.

Regardless, they don't want to sign. They want no part in authorizing coverage of contraceptive or abortive drugs. Enthusiasts for the mandate scoff. What the nuns are objecting to, they insist, is just a piece of paper.

Just a piece of paper? So is a mortgage. So is a wedding certificate. So is a will.

The Little Sisters deserve deference. Their religious sensibility is different than that of the mandarins of President Barack Obama's administrative state. In a dispute over what their conscience tells them to do or not to do, the Little Sisters are better positioned to know than anyone else.

Besides, who is harmed if the Little Sisters don't provide contraception coverage? They are a voluntary organization. They aren't imposing their views on anyone. Who, for that matter, is harmed if a secular organization run by people with moral objections to contraceptives and abortifacients refuses to cover them? Employees are still free to go out on their own and get contraceptives, which are widely available. If this sounds like an outlandish imposition, it is what people managed to do throughout American history all the way up to last week.

Instead of respecting the moral views of the Little Sisters, the administration hopes to grind them under foot by force of law. For shame.

In the War on Poverty, Poverty won

This week marks the 50th anniversary of Lyndon Johnson's "War on Poverty," and as the joke goes, "Poverty won." Five decades after a blizzard of programs began descending on the American people, the poverty rate remains essentially unchanged.

That's a little unfair. What counts as poverty today would not have seemed so impoverished 50 years ago, when many of the poor lived without electricity and were no strangers to hunger. Today, the biggest health problems of the poor are more likely to stem from obesity than anything approaching starvation. Defenders of the war on poverty -- and the massive bureaucracy that has built up around it -- insist that underfunding is to blame.

That's a tough sell. The Heritage Foundation's Robert Rector estimates that we've spent $20 trillion on these programs -- not counting Medicare and Social Security. We spend $1 trillion to $2 trillion more every year, depending on how you do the math. But apparently for liberals, that's still too stingy. Perhaps the problem isn't how much we're spending, but how we're spending it.

If you drew a Venn diagram of where the hard left and the libertarian right agreed, the overlapping shaded part would include a bunch of social issues -- gay marriage, drug legalization, etc. -- but almost no economic issues. Save one: the Universal Basic Income.

The UBI is a pretty simple idea. Everyone gets a check from the government. (Actually,

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

JONAH GOLDBERG, National Review

it's a little more complicated than that depending on how you implement it, but you get the idea.)

Charles Murray, my colleague at the American Enterprise Institute and a legendary libertarian social scientist, wrote a wonderful book a few years ago, "In Our Hands," in which he proposed an annual grant from the federal government of $10,000 for every American over 21 who stayed out of jail and still had a pulse. He was building on arguments made by two titans of libertarianism, Friedrich Hayek and Milton Friedman, who also supported some version of a UBI.

On the left, the idea has been popular for generations as a way to instantaneously alleviate poverty and to defeat the ol' devil of income inequality.

So what's the catch? Why aren't we getting a fat check from Uncle Sam every month? Some cite the cost, which obviously would be hefty. But that's a secondary problem. The real sticking point is that the libertarian argument is largely an either/or proposition, while the left-wing version is a both/and deal. The libertarians want to liquidate much of the welfare state and convert it into cash payments. The left's version is that the money would, for the most part, augment the welfare state.

New York University professor Lawrence Mead identified the chief flaw with both the libertarian and left-wing approaches to fighting poverty, either through existing welfare programs or through a UBI: the "competence assumption." This is the presumption that the intended beneficiaries of government anti-poverty programs always "behave rationally enough to advance their own self-interest." We all know enough people in our own lives (never mind what we know about ourselves) to realize this isn't always the case. Lots of folks are determined to do things that aren't in their long-term self-interest.

The problems afflicting many poor people are often of their own making, at least in part. Having children before getting married, dropping out of high school, etc., are presently bad choices that millions of people make. (Also, some anti-poverty programs create incentives that make bad decisions seem rational.) But many poor people have just

Beta-agonists, the Environment and Cattle Fatigue

MANHATTAN, Kan. - In agricultural production, maintaining a level of excellence that includes environmental sustainability, animal welfare and food safety, while keeping food affordable for consumers is top-of-mind for many farmers and ranchers, as well as the researchers looking to help them find solutions to ensure this level of excellence.

As consumers shop at their local grocery stores and markets, they might notice that beef products are double or triple the price of other protein sources, and rightfully so, might hold beef to an even higher standard of excellence, said Dan Thomson, Kansas State University veterinarian, professor and director of the Beef Cattle Institute.

"Beef is one of the purest, most wholesome and most humanely raised forms of protein that we produce worldwide," Thomson said. "As a beef industry, we are being asked day in and day out to take a holistic view of technology."

The use of beta-agonists in cattle feeding is among the modern feedlot technologies making waves in the beef industry. K-State researchers, including Thomson, are among the many researchers who are examining how beta-agonists affect cattle performance and how the feed supplement might cause cattle, particularly in the summer months, to be slow-moving and stiff-muscled once they arrive at packing facilities.

"We're going to learn more about the last 30 days on feed," Thomson said of research on beta-agonists. "Do we have heat stress mitigation plans in place at the feeding facilities? Are we pushing that boundary of having too heavy weight carcasses? Are we using low-stress cattle handling techniques? How far away from the load out facility are the fat cattle being moved? Are we shipping them during the afternoon in the heat of the day, or are we shipping them at 2 a.m.? Are the truckers trained to properly transport these animals? How long do they wait at the slaughter facility? All of these different risk factors are going to have to be bundled in."

History of beta-agonist use

Feedlots have used beta-agonists, a cattle feed supplement approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and considered safe from a food safety perspective, to improve the cattle's natural ability to convert feed into more lean muscle.

Zilmax, formally known as zilpaterol hydrochloride, is one of only two beta-agonists approved for cattle feeding on the market. However, Merck Animal Health, manufacturer of Zilmax, voluntarily suspended sales of the product last September when major U.S. meat packer Tyson announced it would stop buying cattle fed Zilmax due to an animal welfare concern, which questioned if the product affected the ambulatory ability, or movement, of cattle.

Thomson said that because the slow-moving cattle reports were more consistent during the summer months, he has questioned how heat stress and feeding beta-agonists might together create what he calls "cattle fatigue syndrome."

"This isn't a new phenomenon," Thomson said. "We've seen this in other species. The swine industry 15 to 20 years ago discovered pig fatigue syndrome. It occurred about the time they started feeding beta-agonists at a very high level to pigs. Market hogs would arrive at the plant, and they were stiff, open-mouth breathing, had blotchy skin, muscle tremors and were going through stress."

Thomson said many in the swine industry started calling these pigs "NANI" pigs, meaning non-ambulatory, non-injured.

"So these pigs show up (at the packing facility), and they don't have any clinical signs of injury besides that they don't move," Thomson said. "(Researchers) did diagnostic tests to look at the difference between non-ambulatory pigs and pigs within the same truckload that were able to move. They found elevated serum lactate and creatine phosphokinase (CPK) levels, which are both indicative of depletion of muscle glucose or muscle damage in these big, heavily muscled animals."

Regardless of beta-agonist use in feeding pigs, Thomson said, the swine industry went from having about a 250-lb. average out weight to a 300-lb. average out weight on market hogs. So the hogs had more weight to carry around at the packing facility.

To see if beta-agonists played a role in the movement concerns, researchers did a series of tests on market hogs that were not fed beta-agonists. They put some through a stressful situation prior to shipping them to slaughter, while the others did not experience any stress.

"They were able to recreate the same syndrome that we're now seeing in some cattle,"

Thomson said. "Generally, physical stress, whether they were on a beta-agonist or not, showed clinical signs of fatigue in these market hogs."

Still, the swine industry has since cut the dose of beta-agonists in feeding by about 75 percent, Thomson said.

A closer look at cattle fatigue syndrome

The beef industry has a really good start on understanding what cattle fatigue syndrome is, Thomson said, but the reason more research must be done is that, like the NANI pigs, the syndrome has shown up in cattle that were fed a beta-agonist and cattle that were not fed a beta-agonist.

"In our research, when we've looked at cattle that are not stressed and they're on one of the beta-agonists on the market, we've not seen anything but an increase in heart rate by about 10 beats per minute and no difference in lactate or CPK levels," Thomson said. "However, we have to understand that when we have seen the issues with this fatigue cattle syndrome at packing facilities, it's during the summer months when we have heat stress."

Moving forward, Thomson said the industry needs to better-understand the clinical and physiological responses of beta-agonists in cattle, if dosages in cattle feeding rations might need to be altered and if there is a potential genetic component to it as well.

Advice for feedlot operators

Thomson said that he is very pro-technology. While Merck recently announced that it is too early to determine when Zilmax will return to the market (Merck Animal Health Shares Progress on Zilmax and the Five-Step Plan for Responsible Beef), many feedlots might have switched to using a competing beta-agonist called Optaflexx, or ractopamine.

As long as beta-agonists are available, approved by the FDA, accepted by the consumer and work in a particular management system to improve efficiency of animals and profitability, then it is fine to use them, he said. But, the industry must always look at ways to improve and make sure technologies are continuously helping.

"We're given a job, task and responsibility, and we don't take it lightly," Thomson said.

This story is part 1 of a two-part series on how beta-agonists and environmental factors potentially play a role in cattle fatigue and feed efficiency.

Dynamite 4-H Club learns about Boer goats, plays game

The Dynamite 4-H club met on December 15, 2013, under the direction of Vice-President Austin Ewert. Austin led the club in reciting the Pledge of Allegiance. The song leader, Amie Weisner, lead the group in singing "Jingle Bells". The Secretary, Miranda Akes, took roll call by asking each member to state their favorite Christmas song. Fifteen members, eight parents, one guest, and one leader were in attendance. After roll call the minutes of the November 24th meeting were read. The Vice-President approved the minutes with no corrections or additions.

The meeting business started with reports from club officers and leaders. Treasurer, Jo Dorrell, gave an update on the monthly income and expenses. All balances were recorded and approved. Club leader, Tammy Egidy, informed club members of some upcoming events. The county wide movie night will be held on December 30, 2013. County Club Days will be on February 15, 2014, at the Anderson County High School. Tammy noted the Regional Club Days is on February 22, 2014, at the Allen Community College. Finally Tammy thanked all member for bringing food items and presents for the family the club adopted for the community service project. She will deliver the items next week.

Vice-President, Austin Ewert, finished the business part of the meeting with discussion about sending a thank you card to the Bank of Greeley for their recent donation to the club. Morgan Egidy made the motion to send the card and it was seconded by Jo Dorrell. The Vice-President called for a vote and the motion was approved.

At the conclusion of the meeting business, the Vice-President called for the presentation of talks. Austin Ewert gave talk about Boer goats. After the talk recreation leader, Stephen Dorrell, lead the group in an ornament exchange game. After recreation was completed, Austin announced the next meeting will be held on January 19, 2014, at the Greeley Fire Station.

After the announcement, the Vice-President asked for a motion to adjourn. Miranda Akes made the motion and it was seconded by Morgan Egidy. The motion was taken to a vote and approved. The meeting was adjourned by reciting the 4-H pledge. After the meeting the group enjoyed the pot-luck dinner that was provided by all the families.

AG Schmidt: Record number of concealed carry applications received in 2013

TOPEKA - The number of Kansans who applied for concealed carry handgun permits last year exceeded the previous one-year record by 50 percent, Kansas Attorney General Derek Schmidt announced last week.

More than 24,000 Kansans applied for concealed carry handgun permits in 2013.

"Record numbers of Kansans are exercising their Second Amendment rights and taking advantage of the Kansas concealed carry law," Schmidt said. "We're working hard to provide them top-quality customer service in the permitting process."

The 24,181 applications received by the Attorney General's Concealed Carry Licensing Unit during the 2013 calendar year was more than had been received in any previous calendar year since the program began in 2006. The previous record for a calendar year was 15,707 applications received in 2012.

During the month of December, the Attorney General's Office received 1,036 applications. There were 75,099 active permits as of January 2. The applications are being processed in an average of 30 days.

The concealed carry licensing program was enacted by the Legislature in 2006 over the veto of then-Gov. Kathleen Sebelius. By law, the program is administered by Attorney General Schmidt's office. More information about the concealed carry licensing program is available at www.ag.ks.gov.

Bulldog girls fall 58-38 to Spring Hill

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Heading into the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs were trailing by just 8 and still had a realistic shot at the victory, but a strong fourth quarter by Spring Hill leads to a lopsided result.

The ACHS girls fell behind 18-10 after the first quarter, but played the second and third quarters even as both teams scored 21 points combined in the two quarters.

With the girls facing a 39-31 deficit heading into the fourth quarter, there was still hope that a quick run would put the pressure on Spring Hill. Spring Hill seized the momentum though by dominating the fourth quarter as they outscored the Bulldogs 19-7 to cruise to a 58-38 victory.

Ten different players scored for the Bulldogs. Leading the way for the team was Samantha McCullough and Maci Rockers with 8 points each.

ACHS Boys fall just short in 75-69 defeat to Spring Hill

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Spencer Walter had a game high 22 points, but it was spoiled as the Bulldogs fell short against Spring Hill. The second quarter doomed the boys as they were outscored 21-11 on their way to a 75-69 loss.

The Bulldogs jumped up quickly and led 19-15 after a strong first quarter, but it was that second quarter that spelled doom for the Bulldog team that was after a much needed victory.

Spring Hill wasn't able to put away the boys though in the 2nd half. Both teams scored 16 points in the third. That put ACHS down 52-46 heading into the final period. Spring Hill just wouldn't allow the Bulldogs to get that elusive first victory on the season. They kept AC at arm's length as they outscored the Bulldogs 24-23 in the 4th.

- Brandon Brallier (SO) – Honorable Mention Linebacker

Crest rolls over Marmaton Valley

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

The Lancers weren't gracious hosts to the Marmaton Valley Wildcats as they cruised to an easy 39-19 victory at home.

Crest jumped out to a 10-0 lead after the first quarter. The Wildcats didn't fare much better in the second as they were outscored 10-5 to trail 20-5 at intermission.

The 2nd half was much more competitive, but the Lancers still added to their lead by outscoring the Wildcats 7-6 in the 3rd quarter and 12-8 in the 4th quarter to finish out the game.

Laurel Godderz led the balanced attack with 11 points. Madison Covey and Miranda Golden each had 7 points. The trio of Karlee Hammond, Emily Frank and Taryn Covey all contributed 4 points and Clareissa McCulley chipped in with 2.

Blue breaks tie to win 15-8

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – After battling to a 2-2 tie at half time, the Blue squad picked apart Pink's defense during 5th-6th grade girls Biddy Basketball action Saturday and came out with a 15-8 victory.

Lilly Spring led the Blue with 8 points; Madison Stevens had four, Kelcee Finn 2 and Jaxcen Farren added a free throw.

Kameron Simpson and Rylee Rockers both had 4 points apiece for Pink.

Bulldog golfer Bailey Rockers signs with Baker

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Bailey Rockers signed a letter of intent to play golf in nearby Baldwin City for the Baker University Wildcats.

Rockers competed in the high school state tournament all four seasons, finishing 10th her senior season.

This was especially gratifying since she had come up short her previous three seasons to earn a medal.

When asked why she chose to sign with Baker, Rockers easily answered. "I love that it's close to home. I love the team and the coach and also know others that go to Baker," she said.

Karen Exon, golf coach for Baker, was very excited to welcome Rockers to the team. "She is an excellent student, great citizen, has a solid family and knows a little bit about the game of golf," coach Exon stated.

Rockers will be joining a solid program as the Baker Wildcats haven't lost to conference competition in the past 3 semesters. Coach Exon feels Rockers will be a great fit as overall the team is very strong athletically and academically.

Lancer Girls fall to Northeast

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

The Crest Lancer Girls struggled mightily in the 1st and 3rd quarters in a 57-30 loss to the Northeast Vikings.

Northeast jumped out quickly to a 20-8 lead after the first quarter before Crest played much more competitively in the 2nd being outscored 14-12.

Unfortunately for the girls though, Northeast came out determined in the 3rd quarter and dominated the period pushing their lead to 51-23 thanks to a 17-3 advantage in the quarter. Crest outscored Northeast 7-6 in the fourth quarter to close out the game.

Leading the way for the Lancers was Miranda Golden with 10 points. Emily Frank and Laural Godderz added 8 and 7 points respectively.

'Cinderella Wore Combat Boots' among student-directed plays

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 01-14-2014 / Vickie Moss

Stepmother (Tyler Wolken) scolds Cinderella (Tessa McCown) while the ugly stepsisters (Becca Miller and Garrett Redifer) wait for Prince Charming to arrive and see if their feet fit the lost combat boot left behind at the ball during the audience-involved performance of "Cinderella Wore Combat Boots" in a series of one-act plays at Anderson County High School. Students performed five one-act plays Saturday, Jan. 11.

Travis Marvin to make special appearance at Chamber Banquet

GARNETT - Regional country music sensation Travis Marvin (www.travismarvin.com) will be performing an acoustic set at the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce Annual Banquet, courtesy of the Anderson County Corn Festival (www.acornfest.com).

The banquet will be held Wednesday, January 29th at the Garnett Knights of Columbus Hall located in Garnett's North Lake Park. Travis Marvin will perform at 5:30 p.m. and may sit for dinner at the Cornstock sponsored table if his schedule allows. T-Marv, as his fans refer to him, will also aid Cornstock board members in announcing the 10th Anniversary Lineup for the September 27 Cornstock Concert on the Hill.

The Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce Annual Banquet includes a social hour at 5:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. catered by Scipio Supper Club. A silent auction will be available during the social hour. Guest speaker at this year's banquet features Jeff Gill, successful business entrepreneur and owner of the famous Tallgrass Brewing Co. located in Manhattan (www.tallgrass-beer.com). Awards will be presented naming the Business of the Year and Volunteer of the Year.

Advance tickets are required are 9:00 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tickets are $22 for chamber members, $27 for non-members.

Senator King seeks legislative pages

State Senator Jeff King (R-Independence) is seeking students to serve as legislative pages. Under Senate rules, King is allowed 20 legislative pages during the 2014 session of the Kansas Legislature, scheduled to begin on Monday, January 13.

"The Legislative Page Program is a special opportunity available for middle school and high school students to experience the legislative process firsthand," said King. "I highly encourage interested students in Labette, Montgomery, Neosho counties to apply for this wonderful program."

Students who serve as legislative pages will shadow Senator King, meet with the Governor or Lt. Governor, and help with other Senate duties. Available openings fill up quickly, so students are advised to contact Senator King as soon as possible.

For more information please visit www.kslegislature.org and click on the "How do I become a Legislative Page" in the bottom, left hand corner of the page. Interested parties may also contact Senator King at (785) 296.7361 or Jeff.King@senate.ks.gov.

Kansas Senate Vice President Jeff King (R-Independence) was elected to represent the 15th Senate District in 2010. King won re-election to the Kansas Senate in 2012, representing all of Neosho County and a vast majority of Labette and Montgomery Counties.

2004: Ethanol plant short of $1.5M goal

Jan. 20, 2004

Less than a week from its "drop dead" deadline to sell securities in its $36 million ethanol production plant project planned for Garnett, East Kansas Agri-Energy was about $1.5 million away from its target equity goal as of Friday afternoon.

Old court records currently stored in a vault at the Anderson County Courthouse will soon be scanned and placed on compact discs. Kansas law requires that original records of court proceedings be kept for specific, lengthy periods of time, but the two vaults that house Anderson County's records are nearly full.

Garnett City Commissioners reacted coolly to a proposal by the area ECKAN agency last week which would construct a commercial building and several residential houses in the city's Barr Addition, a project city officials say would constitute spot zoning. The development would be located near Westgate Road, south of West Seventh Avenue.

Following up to the August 2003 power outage that left parts of Garnett without electricity in 100-plus degree temperatures, an electrical consultant speaking to city commissioners last week proposed a coordination study of the system's relays and a computer model of the system which would show how the system would operate under different conditions and circumstances.

A recent inspection of the Central Heights school building by Kansas Department of

by Vickie Moss
Staff Writer

Health and Human Resources resulted in seven pages of recommendations. But some state and local officials believe that the extensive list of recommendations may be more of an indication of changes made in the inspection system than they are an indicator of safety problems at the school. The recommendations listed in the report on the Central Heights school included such things as replacing two-prong plugs on some electrical appliances with grounded three-prong plugs and installing guards around moving equipment.

A bill for police security at last year's Anderson County Fair from the City of Garnett to the county sheriff's department is still in limbo. The bill for $388 which was received several weeks ago by the Anderson County Clerk is for assistance the country received from the city police department to direct vehicle parking at the fair in August 1993.

Cold temperatures in the past week have led to some school closings in western Missouri, but most schools in Anderson County remained open through the burst of Arctic air that swept through the area. Temperatures Monday and Tuesday dipped into the single digits and wind-chills plunged well below zero, forcing area administrators to take a hard look at closing.

Parkview Estates, a 60-bed nursing home in Garnett, will be closing its doors as of Jan. 31. Negotiations for sale of the nursing home were not successful. About 34 to 35 residents would need to be moved. Empty beds at Garnett and Richmond and at other nursing homes had been filled, and they are attempting to relocate residents in nursing homes in Iola. The nursing home had been given a six-month redetermination period during proceedings in Anderson County District Court in which a sale could be negotiated for the home. The period expires March 1, at which time the nursing home building reverts to Garnett Savings and Loan and the building contents revert to Bob McLeod, Garnett.

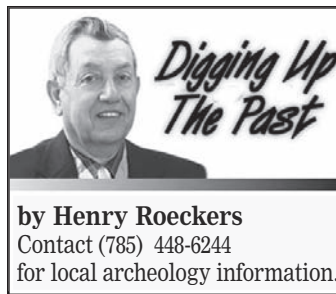

The Anderson County Commission opened bids on insurance, approved a health insurance plan for county employees and discussed a proposed elevator and fire escape for the Anderson County Courthouse.

Pioneer Hardware, 511 S. Oak, Garnett, will be closing at the end of the is week and will not reopen until at least the latter part of the summer. The co-owner said they had experienced a 25 percent increase at business at the Burlington Pioneer Hardware Store, and decided to close the Garnett store.

The racer on the left with driver is a die-cast metal Vintage 1930 Hubley. It was found while metal detecting several years ago. The little racer to the right without a driver is a die-cast metal 1930 Alfedda, given to me by a local friend almost 10 years ago.

The Hubley Manufacturing Company was first incorporated in 1894 in Lancaster, Pennsylvania by John Hubley. The first Hubley toys appeared in 1909 and were made mostly of cast-iron. Starting around 1940, the company shifted to die-cast alloy molding. Toy automobiles, trucks and airplanes became Hubley's main focus. The company also dabbled in plastic models, but the company was pretty much out of business by the mid-1970's.

Hubley made simple die-cast metal toys all the way through the 1970's. One popular toy was a late 1940's Cadillac Sedan that sometimes came decorated as a taxi. Another common vehicle up through the 1970's was the 1934 Ford Coupe.

Around 1980, Hubley was acquired by CBS TOYS which later sold many dies to ERTL and Scale Models, both of Dyersville, Iowa.

ERTL has now stopped production of all of the original toy dies and molds purchased from Hubley. As a result all remaining Hubley/ERTL toys are becoming rare. Actually Hubley toys range in collector values from $10.00 into the $1,000's.

JJJ Club plays cards

The JJJ Club met January 8 with Sharon Miller. There were six members present. Roll call was answered with "What did you do for Christmas?"

It was decided for each member to bring a quarter and it would be divided up between the high and low with high receiving the biggest percentage. The mystery gift is optional. Bert Jackson received high and Irene Wittman received low in cards.

Refreshments of angel food cake with whipped topping, peaches and coffee were served.

Next meeting is Feb. 12 with Bert Jackson.

Minutes of the December 19, 2013 Meeting of the Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild

The Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild was called to order by President, Charlotte Lutz, at 9:30 AM in the meeting room of the K-State Extension Office. Roll call was answered by twenty-seven members. There were no guests.

There were corrections to the November minutes. The minutes were approved as amended.

The Treasurers report was given by Lynda Feuerborn. Lynda has membership cards available, contact her if you have not received yours.

Committee Reports
Programs - Bonnie asked the members whether they wanted a trunk show or a workshop by Donna Lynn Thomas for the January meeting. After much discussion Bonnie made a motion that we have a workshop on "Shimmering Leaves" folded fabric technique where members will pay $10 for the workshop, the workshop would be offered to non-members for $15.00 (paying $15.00 would come with a one year membership if they so choose) and the guild would pay any remaining balance due to Donna for the workshop. The motion was seconded and passed. Bring a sack lunch, as the workshop will follow the meeting, possibly 11-3. Sign up information and the supply list for the workshop will be sent out in the next newsletter.

2015 Opportunity Quilt - Chairman Judy Stuke reported that several members of the committee met at Lou Ann's house and chose many of the donated Doris Null fabrics for use in the Opportunity Quilt. Nancy Kreibach took all the fabrics home and washed them. The pattern chosen for the quilt is called "Granny's Stars". Work will begin after the holidays.

Old Business - Lou Ann Shmidl offered the guild members a box of Doris' fabric that was left after the Opportunity Quilt Committee made their selections. A subset of Doris' fabrics which are red, white and blue, as well as a roll of batting, is now available in the storage room for use for Quilts of Valor or Charity Quilts.

Bonnie Deiter reported the results of her survey of the membership and will be using that to decide on programs for the year.

New Business:
There was no new business.

Show and Tell:
Kay Roeckers showed her completed Grandmothers Garden Applique bed quilt. Violet Holt made potholders for her granddaughter who is learning to cook. Sandra Moffatt showed a Wreath wall hanging that she made using a 9 degree wedge ruler. Marlene Walburn showed an Angel Applique wall hanging. Lou Ann Shmidl showed her completed 2013 Block of the month which was quilted by our member Sharon Bowman, and she showed many machine embroidered Christmas gift bags. Nancy Kreibach showed a hot pad she made by using fabric to cover clothesline and snap happy purses made with metal tape measure.

Charlotte adjourned the meeting to begin the Christmas Brunch, games and gift exchange. Violet Holt thanked everyone on the Christmas Brunch committee for all of their work: Judy Stuke, Marvell Harris, Marlene Walburn, Sharon Bowman, Roberta Norman and Delores Truelove. Judy thanked Terrie Gifford and Joen Truhe for the games that had been planned for the snowed-out 2012 Christmas brunch. And thanks to the Advocate for their donation of placemats held over from the snowed-out 2012 Christmas brunch.

Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild invites public to half-day workshop

The Pieces and Patches Quilt Guild of Garnett will host a half day workshop on "Shimmering Leaves" by Donna Lynn Thomas from Basehor. The workshop is scheduled for January 23rd from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Shimmering Leaves is one of Donna's new folded layers technique from her book "Flip Your Way to Fabulous Quilts". Come learn how to sew the striped rectangles and leaf stems that make the leaves shimmer. Machine piecing and rotary cutting experience required. For more information, go to www.donnalynnthomas.com and click on Workshops and go to Shimmering Leaves. Click on workshop description and supply list for the workshop. Precut your fabrics and bring to class enough fabric cuts to make 1-3 blocks. You can purchase a block of fabrics for $5 at the workshop if you don't want to bring your fabrics. Maximum of 20 slots available in the workshop.

Where: Anderson County Annex, 411 S. Oak, Garnett, KS
When: January 23rd, 2014, from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Cost: Guild members $10; non-members $15

Deadline to register and pay: January 17th, 2014

For more information, contact Bonnie 620-952-1522; deiterb@yahoo.com

After January 17th, call Bonnie to check on available spots.

Is your preference for light or darkness?

The New Testament presents Jesus as the personification of light or divine illumination. In John 8:12, Jesus speaking to the people says, "I am the light of the world, whoever follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life."

Light is all consuming. We put this to the test every time we walk into a dark house or room and flip the light switch. Where does the darkness go? Darkness in reality is just the absence of light. The darkness is consumed by the light.

In Matthew 4 we read where Jesus begins his preaching ministry. He leaves Nazareth and goes to Capernaum. This is to fulfill the prophecy of Isaiah the prophet. "The people living in darkness have seen a great light; on those living in the land of the shadow of death a light has dawned." The Christian sees this light and like a moth is drawn to an outside light at night so is the Christian drawn to Christ. The light reveals everything the darkness hides. In 1st Peter the apostle says, God called a chosen people out of darkness into his wonderful light. So where does this light dwell in the Christian. In 2nd Corinthians 4:6 we are told God has "made his light to shine in our hearts to give us the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus."

In the Christmas classic "A Christmas Carol" we see many attempts by his nephew and others to change old Ebenezer Scrooge's mind about Christmas. All attempts fail. However a visit by the three Christmas spirits changes Scrooge's heart which in time changes his thinking. Scrooge came out of the darkness into the light.

Just as a thief doesn't look for a policeman the unregenerate person does not search for God or feel the need for God. In John 3:19-20 we read, "This is the verdict: Light has come into the world, but men loved darkness instead of light because their deeds were evil. Everyone who does evil hates the light and will not come into the light for fear that his deeds will be exposed." Here Jesus gives the reason for the worlds rejection of him. He is the light which exposes whether a person is righteous or not.

There is an interesting parallel drawn between heaven and hell. In Revelation 22 we read concerning heaven "And night will be no more. They will need no light of lamp or sun for the Lord God will be their light and they will reign for ever and ever." And we read in Matthew 8 where hell is referred to as a place of "outer darkness". Absent of light or Christ.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 06-29-2010 / Photo Submitted

the Colony City Hall, community room for Ethel Beckmon. Everyone is invited to help celebrate the great day. She is the mother of Rose Samson, Mary Scovill and Bill Beckmon, all of Colony and Randall Beckmon, Kincaid. Ethel's actual birthday is Jan. 20. Cards may also be sent to Ethel at 304 South State Street, Iola, KS 66749.

Doris Church celebrated her 90th birthday Jan. 5 with a dinner at the home of her daughter Patty Jo and Deane Ramsey, Kincaid, her daughter Linda and Slug Ellis, LaCygne and daughter Susan and Jerry Luedke and Doris' son Jody Church and family, Colony. A total of twenty plus family members were in attendance.

Around Town
Christmas Day evening dinner guests of Thelma and Arden Culler were her son, Dr. James Smart and Emily, LaHarpe; Ben Smart, West Rapids, IA; Nathan Smart, Manhattan; Jerald Smart, Garnett; Dustin Smart, Iola and Rochelle McGhee, Westphalia.

Guests of Gareld and Shirley McGhee on Christmas Day were Darren, Cindy, and Rochelle McGhee, Westphalia; Dustin Smart, Iola; Derick McGhee, Baldwin; Joe, Vicki, and Chad Atwood, LaCygne and Tyler Atwood, Lawrence.

Morris, Allene and Mark Luedke spent Christmas Day together. Allene's brother, Wilmington, DE phoned her and the Luedke's daughter, Cheryl Luedke, St. Augustine, FL phoned them.

Leonard and Debbie Wools, Jerry and Stacy Jones and family attended the Johnston Christmas on the 28th. There were 49 family members in attendance. They rented the Six-week-old triplets born at the farm of Lewis and Janila Preston. They are doing well; now eating calf starter grain. There are two males and one female. Mom eats lots of grain daily. Lewis is the son of the late Lewis and Fredelene Preston. Janila is the daughter of Myrtle and the late Elton Francis. Lewis and Janila are 1965 Colony High School graduates.

Kincaid School, kids played in the gym. On the 29th Leonard and Debbie held their family Christmas at their home in Colony with all family members attended. Following day Debbie and Allison shopped and made future plans for Allison's wedding scheduled March 15.

Wallace and Delores Strickler were Christmas Eve guests of their daughter and husband Denise and Larry Gilmore at Iola. Other guests among the group were the Strickler's great grandchildren Erica and Kevin Richie, Emporia; Sydni Miles and Laurali, Austin, TX; Kari and Ben Clubine and Laney, Lake Charles, TX; Garret and Shelly Strickler and Amanda, Colony. The Stricklers received a phone call from their son, Darrell in California.

Dec. 21st Randy and Karon West spent Christmas gathering with her folks Aaron and Sandra Hosley, Iola. Others present were Eric and Shay West, Dustin, Dalton and Madison, Burlingame; Ryan West, Amy Chandler, Blake and Mason West and Sheri Seibert, Topeka; Kipp, Brooke and Chance Connell, Lenexa; Diane and David Bedenbender, Neosho Falls and Clyde Anderson, Iola. That evening they gathered at the home of Randy's mom, Roberta West. In attendance were Roberta and Ronda West, Randy and Karon, Eric and Shay West and family, Ryan West, Blake West, Mason West, Amy Chandler, Sheri Seibert, Kylie and Jon Moon and Piper, Lees Summit. Roberta was in St. Luke's Hospital in Kansas City a few days later with a bout of pneumonia. She has since been released and is continuing therapy on her broken ankle at Golden Heights in Garnett, with the goal of returning to her home in a month or so.

Jane Ward has returned home following a trip to Aurora, Ohio where she spent Christmas and New Year's with her son and family.

Clayton Haag, Sr., 86 passed away Dec. 24. He was born near Neosho Falls to the late Glenn and Martha Haag. Glenn was a Colony High School graduate in 1940. Memorial services for Clayton were held Dec. 28 in Haysville.

2014 arrived with wind, snow and colder temperatures by New Year's evening. We do hope all of you enjoyed quality time together this holiday season.
