ACH to mark milestone

Ceremony will recognize final beam for structure, if the weather cooperates

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A special ceremony tentatively planned for Wednesday will mark a significant milestone in construction of the new Anderson County Hospital.

The "Topping Out" ceremony will take place Wednesday with hospital officials and construction crews as they place the final beam in the steel structure that will become a new hospital and long term care unit. The beam has been on display near the current long term care facility, and people connected to the project have signed their names on it. Also signing names on the beam have been kindergartners and high school seniors, who will know that a little bit of their personal influence has become part of the new hospital, ACH CEO Denny Hachenberg said.

"It's a really neat story with a lot of significance," Hachenberg said of the Topping Out ceremony.

The ceremony traces its roots to Europe before the adoption of Christianity. Trees were worshipped for the shelter and food they provided, and Scandinavian folklore suggests man originated from a tree and the soul of man returned to the trees after death, giving each tree its own spirit.

According to legend, when a man wanted to construct a shelter, he would ask the forest to grant use of a tree for his home. When the house was completed, the topmost leafy branch of the tree used would be set atop the roof so the tree spirit would not be rendered homeless.

Patrol car 'held hostage' in city police debate

have image problem,
tries to delay purchase

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A Garnett city commissioner said he wants to take the city's police force to task, but refused to elaborate on any complaints that may be lodged against the force. Instead, he asked his fellow commissioners to postpone the purchase of a new patrol car, which he said might not be perceived well by the public.

In the end, however, the other commissioners said the patrol car is needed and voted to buy the car.

Gordon Blackie, who is running unopposed for re-election in April, said he would like to organize a meeting between the commissioners and police chief Kevin Pekarek to address a "public confidence" problem with the force. He said several city responsible residents have complained to him about the force, but he would not reveal the nature of the complaints. He said he was frustrated that any discussion about the police force would need to take place in an open meeting and would be subject to public scrutiny. He said he was concerned about the safety of the officers if specific details about their job was brought to light.

Then, he turned his attention to the matter at hand - whether the city should purchase a new patrol car. The city postponed purchasing a new patrol car last year because of budget concerns, but city officials said previously one would be needed this year.

"One thing is sure, buying a new car isn't going to help (the police's public image)," Blackie said. "We may well need a police car, but in the interest of doing what's right, I think we need to address this other problem, public confidence."

Snow expected to follow ice

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 02-04-2014 / Dane Hicks

On top of lingering ice from a freezing rain event last week the local weather outlook is calling for 5-10 inches of snowfall mostly falling today and into Wednesday. Cold temps and blustery conditions will follow and the expectation is for today's snowfall to last a while, as winter reminds us it's only February.

Will CHHS grad make it past Hollywood Week?

Television show has audition rounds for Richmond native

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Fans of American Idol contestant and Richmond native Eric Gordon could get their next chance to see him on the popular television talent contest this week.

Gordon made it through the first round of auditions to advance to the next round in Hollywood. This week the TV show will air highlights from "Hollywood Week - Hollywood or Home" on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and the pool of about 200 contestants will be cut to 30 or so.

Gordon is prohibited from saying whether he makes it through Hollywood Week, but he said from his home in Osseo, Minn., that he is overwhelmed by the support and encouragement since his audition aired

Gordon

Jan. 22.

"Social media has just blown up," Gordon said. "It's weird to go out in public and be recognized. I've never had this happen before."

Gordon grew up in Richmond and graduated from Central Heights High School in 2005. He moved away soon after high school, bouncing around at a couple of colleges before deciding to move to Minneapolis at the suggestion of his brother. He dove into the Minneapolis music scene and attended college, where he met his wife, Rachel.

This isn't Gordon's first foray into television talent shows. He first auditioned for American Idol when he was still in high school, but didn't make the cut to audition in front of the judges. He also auditioned for a gospel television show, Gospel Dream, and X-Factor.

Gordon said he learned a lot from his first audition for American Idol back in Season 2, when he was just 16. He took the rejection pretty hard, but recognizes that fear played a big role in his first audition. He battled crippling anxiety and had to learn how to work

Storage shed approved to help recycling program

Shed will help county save some costs to transport recycling

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A new storage shed soon to be constructed at the county's landfill is expected to pay for itself in less than 10 years thanks to the ability to better organize the county's recyclable materials.

Anderson County Commissioners last week accepted a bid of $38,089 from Miller Brothers to construct a 40 by 60 foot building. Construction is expected to start soon.

Scott Garrett, supervisor for the Anderson County Solid Waste Department, asked commissioners late last summer and early fall to consider adding the storage shed. He estimated the building could save the county $350 to $500 each month because he could better organize recyclable material to maximize the amount vendors will pay. Some material, like cardboard, is more valuable and vendors will waive fuel costs to pick up a truckload of cardboard. But other material, like glass, isn't worth the trip and the county must pay to have it removed.

By having a place to store recyclable material, Garrett can organize a truckload of valuable material and save the county $350 to $500 in transportation costs each month. Under the current system, the county has no way to store the material and must load it all in one truck, mixing less valuable material with the stuff that might actually be worth something.

Commissioners postponed Garrett's request until this year, when they had budgeted for the expense of a storage shed.

Blackie to elaborate on the complaints, but Blackie would not discuss specific details.

"I have never received a ticket I never earned," Gwin said. "You can't knock these guys for doing their job."

"I'm not knocking them for doing their job. I'm not knocking them for writing tickets," Blackie said. "It's not over a ticket. It's inappropriate handling of situations."

Commissioner Preston Peine asked Blackie if the problem was related to an individual officer, and if he had spoken to City Manager Joyce Martin or Pekarek about his concerns. Blackie said he felt the issue needed to be addressed in a group meeting, but outside the public purview.

Peine said he was afraid postponing the purchase of the patrol car would cost the city more money in the long run, and he wasn't sure if it was relevant.

"I'm curious why we want to hold this car hostage in this conversation?" Peine said.

In the end, Blackie said he would speak to Martin and Pekarek about his concerns. Commissioners agreed to go ahead and purchase the patrol car.

Eventually, the legend was modified and instead of leafy branches, paper, painted eggs or flowers were placed on the house. Immigrants to the United States brought the tradition with them, and the legend was integrated into culture during barn raisings and housewarmings.

Today, ironworkers continue the custom by having a "topping out" ceremony to mark the completion of a structure. Hospital officials and Board of Trustees members will take part in the ceremonial hoisting of the final beam. Although the ceremony is tentatively planned for 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, it will depend on weather conditions. If the beam is icy, it cannot be put into place. Forecasters are calling for several inches of snow today, which could delay the event.

Otherwise, weather has not caused any delay in construction of the new, $26 million hospital facility. Utilities have been put into place and the basic frame of the structure is nearly complete. Construction was expected to take between a year to 18 months, translating to a targeted completion in the late fall.

through the fear.

"They said at the time I was ready vocally but I lacked stage presence. I didn't know what kind of performer I wanted to be," he said.

After that, Gordon's music took a gospel turn as he translated his love of Christ into his career. Eventually, he came to a crossroads and realized he could be more effective pursuing a more popular genre. He said he sees himself as more of an urban pop or R&B pop artist now.

By the time Gordon auditioned for this season of American Idol, more than a decade had passed since that first, fearful attempt. This time, he had more realistic expectations about what it means to make it in the music business, especially via television talent shows.

"It doesn't come down to just vocal ability. It's a business," he said.

Still, even his knowledge and experience didn't stop him from being afraid during the audition. American Idol this year introduced "The Chamber," a holding cell for contestants before they face judges Harry Connick Jr., Jennifer Lopez and Keith Urban.

"I was really scared in that moment. I thought, I can translate to the judges that I'm scared, or I can just go out there," he said.

The audition was a bit of a blur for Gordon, who said he didn't remember much about it so watching his audition on television made it practically new for him as well as for the rest of the viewers.

During the televised audition, the judges praised his vocal performance but also commented on his hair and 80s-retro-style "Members Only" jacket. Gordon said he has always liked wearing vintage clothing, including the jacket.

Gordon joked about Connick's fascination with his Members Only jacket, saying "He kind of has a crush and that's fine. Out of all the judges, he seemed to take to me the most."

After the audition aired, jacket manufacturer Members Only sent Gordon one of their iconic racer jackets. It arrived last week, he announced on his Facebook page.

Even before the show aired, the number of Gordon's Facebook followers on his fan page doubled. It has continued to grow since then, and it took him about a week to get caught up with the messages and comments.

"I've heard from thousands of people. It's amazing how they come out of the woodwork," he said. "I love that feedback."

Because he is restricted from talking about the results of the show, Gordon couldn't say much about what his future may hold. Before he auditioned, he and his wife had discussed moving to Nashville or Los Angeles to pursue his music career. Whatever happens on American Idol this week, the exposure from the show likely will help his career.

"It's overwhelming. It just hasn't sunk in yet," he said.

Coumo saves Randy $5,000

New York Governor Andrew Coumo just saved my step brother-in-law about $5,000.

Randy and his wife and college-age son and a friend were in the midst of planning a week-long stay in The Big Apple in the spring, after things thaw out, and they were going to do it up right.

"We've been planning it since last summer," Randy told me last week. "I've been there once, but Jennifer and the kids have never been. We had the money so we thought this would be the year."

They had the cash in hand – profits made from selling one of the houses Randy buys cheap, rehabs and resells down in Springfield, Mo., after lower interest rates finally started real estate moving again down there. They planned to splurge – Randy said between airline, hotels, Broadway shows, sightseeing and other expenses they'd drop nearly $1,000 a day for a week. But he estimates Coumo probably saved him $5,000 out of what would have been a $7,000 trip with the comments he spouted a week or so ago:

Who are they?" Coumo asked, speaking of Republicans who may run against him in the upcoming election. "Are they these extreme conservatives, who are right-to-life, pro-assault weapon, antigay, is that who they are? Because if that is who they are, and if they are the extreme conservatives, they have no place in the state of New York. Because that is not who New Yorkers are."

Obviously, Randy was mistaken. He figured after the rest of the nation locked arms in a figurative and literal protective circle around the City of New York after 9/11, the political narcissism that divides New York from the Red States had at least been put aside for cultural pursuits. We may not agree with all New Yorkers, Randy said, but the country still loves New York.

But to be assailed by the state's governor in such a way was more than Randy could swallow.

If I'm an "extreme conservative," Randy said, "in other words, if I take issue with the way liberals are stagnating the economy and running up deficits our kids will have to pay strangling industries and giving benefits and citizenship to people who haven't earned them, then I'm not wanted there."

"That's fine," he said. "I'll just go to Branson. A guy can live like a king for a week in Branson for $2,000."

Unfortunately, Randy's right. We've known for years New Yorkers were liberals (they elected Hillary Clinton to the U.S. Senate before her

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

carpet bagging suitcases were even unpacked from Arkansas) but most conservatives were willing to look past that in the interests of culture and history and Americana – and New York City wraps that up no matter your politics.

But Coumo's words were clear:

- If you're in New York and you believe marriage should be between a man and a woman, get out;

- If you're in New York and you don't believe a woman should be allowed to kill her fetus, get out;

- If you're in New York and you think a qualified person should be able to own whatever firearm he wants, get out;

- If you're in New York and you think either you or your local or state-elected government is better at spending your money instead of a monolithic, over-arching, probably unconstitutional federal government, get out.

And if you hold those beliefs and you're planning on vacationing there, you're not welcome. Got it?

Now, nobody's kidding anybody here. Randy's $5,000 isn't a flea on a drop in the bucket of NYC's economy. They'll never miss him. But if there are thousands of Randys – conservative business owners and industrialists and entrepreneurs and managers of charitable foundations and real estate investors, etc., across the country who cling as tightly to their own convictions as Governor Coumo does to his own, then it might very well make a difference.

But the worst part is that Coumo's comments injure the personality of New York and stir bitterness where before there was tacit détente. Coumo didn't just drive further divisions between conservatives and liberals, he used it to cordon off New York as well.

Ironically, Branson may end up loving him.

Why is it that whenever a surrounding city or town or county gets something new like a jail, a school or a hospital, that Garnett thinks they have to have one too. But these surrounding towns and counties have good drinking water. Why doesn't Garnett follow suit? Thank you.

Hi, I wanted to recommend everyone go to the new eye doctor out on the highway. I just got my new glasses there and had my exam there a couple of weeks ago. They were very professional and the staff was very helpful. Thank you.

Colorado legalized pot and Denver went to the Superbowl. Washington legalized pot and Seattle made it to the Superbowl too. This isn't the Superbowl. It's the Bowl Bowl.

Hey Review, awesome picture of the Central Heights band rocking out. Thanks for noticing us.

Yes, I've called and suggested this before but since nothing's happened I thought I'd drop a little hint again. In the town where we used to live before coming to Garnett the town clubs like the Kiwanis and the Rotary and the Historical Society and so on would get together once a year and have a reception as a recruiting event for new members. We did ours at a restaurant on a Saturday morning and had free donuts and had the school band play and it was a kind of thing people looked forward to each year and it was a way for our town clubs to educate people about the things they do and the things they stand for and yes, they managed to even recruit a few new members. People were always moving in and out of town just like they are in Garnett and they don't have any idea who's involved in the clubs they may have used to have been a part of and they can't get involved until they do. Just my two cents worth Garnett.

To the person concerned about the deer carcasses poisoning the drinking water in Garnett, you need to remember that the water treatment plant in Garnett mixes all kinds of chemicals in the water to purify it, so there's not any danger of being poisoned by those rotting carcasses unless you drink untreated creekwater.

To the person trying to move the sofa at the house on Fourth Street this afternoon. I would have stopped to help you, but I'm Catholic and I wouldn't have wanted to block anybody's driveway with my car.

The person who thinks the 14 deer carcasses in the river makes our water tastes bad, you need to go check out the 200 geese on the south lake.

Hello, I wanted to inform The Anderson County Review and the community at large that I absolutely enjoy Henry Roecker's columns in the newspaper. His stories about his excavations and other history are insightful and educational and I believe, quite interesting. I think he's the best columnist in your paper. Thank you.

I hope the city is keeping an eye on the dog west of the Catholic church parking lot locked in that chicken coop. He only has water when it thaws and seldom has food.

Wendy Davis, unplugged and revealed

Perhaps the slogan of the Wendy Davis campaign should be that behind every successful woman is a good man.

The Texas gubernatorial candidate needs no introduction. Her filibuster of a bill to ban abortion in Texas after 20 weeks made her an instant star for progressives and much of the media -- because few things are as stirring as a principled stand in favor of near-infanticide.

Her personal Horatio Alger story also was catnip for the press, thrilled by the trajectory of the former teen mom who lived in a mobile home and eventually earned a law degree at Harvard.

Given her enormous wave of positive coverage, it's remarkable that Wendy Davis felt the need to gild the lily, but so she did.

"By 19," her website said, "Wendy was a single mother." Actually, as Wayne Slater of The Dallas Morning News reported, she didn't get divorced from her first husband until age 21. She lived in a mobile home alone for a few months after the two separated, before moving in with her mom and then into her own apartment.

According to her website, she got through school "with the help of academic scholarships and student loans." This is true, but elides the fact that after she married Jeff Davis, a successful lawyer 13 years her senior, he paid for her last two years at

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Texas Christian University, and cashed in his 401(k) and took out a loan to put her through Harvard.

The marriage eventually hit the rocks. He tells Slater: "It was ironic. I made the last payment, and it was the next day she left." When they divorced, Jeff Davis was awarded parental custody of the kids, rare in Texas.

None of this need necessarily be damning -- in any case, it's not unusual for ambitious politicians to take advantage of supportive spouses -- but it wasn't the story Davis told about herself.

In a profile last month, the "Today" show accompanied her back to the mobile home as if it were taking Abraham Lincoln back to his log cabin. Of course, there was no visit to, let alone mention of, the "historic home in the Mistletoe Heights neighborhood of Fort Worth" (in Slater's words), where she was living with Jeff Davis by age 24.

When the Abbott campaign naturally seized on the Dallas Morning News story, Davis fumed on Twitter, "These attacks show that Greg Abbott's completely out of touch with the struggles that I faced and so many Texans face."

To suggest that Abbott is unfamiliar with struggle is offensively stupid. When he was a law student in his 20s, he was out jogging when a tree fell on him, shattering his spine. He spent months recovering in the hospital and has been confined to a wheelchair ever since.

Supporters of Wendy Davis have risen to her defense on the novel theory that it is sexist to demand that a newly minted feminist icon avoid misleading people. For them, all that really matters is her abortion extremism. Everything else is a detail, including her life story.

Where do legislatures come up with these bills?

You have to wonder, sometimes, where these ideas come from that become bills printed up for the Kansas Legislature to consider this election-year session.

That's part of the wonder of the building, seeing ideas, good or bad or just surprising, that show up.

Like the one that gives property owners the first right of refusal of deer antlers seized from illegal hunting on their property.

Or the one that would allow podiatrists, who are, of course, foot doctors, to also treat problems in the ankle. Which is probably a little like farming on some health care professional's property.

Or one that would exempt motorcycles from Turnpike tolls.

And, of course, the bill that would prohibit re-ticketing of an illegally parked car more than once each four hours.

If there's one relatively charming thing about the Kansas Legislature, it may be that its members come up with ideas for—or maybe to end a grocery store aisle conversation with a constituent agree to introduce—some relatively novel legislation.

Now, of course, there are serious bills introduced, lawmakers have to approve a budget and deal with criminal activities and protect the children and the poor and such, but then, there are those bills that legislators who are paid $88.66 per day introduce.

But part of the fun of the Legislature—for those who aren't all fussy about lawmakers just dealing with earth-moving ideas, cutting taxes, paring expenditures and guaranteeing enough rain for the crops—are those little bills that probably aren't going anywhere but are fun to listen to for a little while.

STATE COMMENTARY

And remember that most folks who don't live in the Statehouse have little reason to know details about the wide range of issues that are brought to the Statehouse for decision, or at least consideration. Why would a downtown legislator know about agricultural fence law, or a rural legislator have much background about urban zoning technicalities?

The melting pot of backgrounds and specialties, the regional differences, the level of education—remember, you don't quiz out for a seat in the Legislature, you just get elected—probably means on most issues that common sense prevails...as long as it isn't a campaign contribution killer.

Somewhere, in even the bills that sound a little flaky, there's an attempt to accomplish something.

If illegal hunters don't get to keep the deer antlers, maybe they'll make sure they have legal permission to hunt on some farmer's land, or maybe it's not quite right for an illegal parker to get a new ticket based on how fast parking police can circle the block and discover...that car is still there.

Still wondering about the toll-free Turnpike for motorcyclists, but we're getting an idea of why no one has come up with a bill that would authorize distinctive license plates for members of the Kansas Legislature...

Wools, Day engaged

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 02-04-2014 / Photo Submitted

Allison Dawn Wools and James Merle Day, both of Topeka, have announced their engagement and approaching marriage.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Leonard & Debbie Wools of Colony.

She graduated from Crest High school and from Allen County Community College, and earned a Bachelors of Science in Elementary Education from Emporia State University. She is a teacher at Perry-Lecompton Elementary School and coaches Girls on the Run.

The groom-to-be is the son of Dean & Maria Day of Hesston.

He graduated from Hesston High School, attended Hesston College and obtained an Associate of Arts degree. He completed a Bachelors in Marketing from Kansas State University. He currently works at Payless Shoe Source World Headquarters in Topeka as a merchandise distribution analyst.

The wedding is planned for 5 p.m. March 15, 2014, at Countryside United Methodist Church, Topeka.

Have you found the one?

Weekly Devotional by David Bilderback

In John 1:45 we read, Philip found Nathanael and told him, "We have found the one Moses wrote about in the law, and about whom the prophets also wrote-- Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph." It is interesting to note that Philip did not say we have seen the one. To Philip this was more than eye contact. To have found would mean that there was an expectation that this one would come.

In the Old Testament we find many scriptures relating to the coming Messiah. In Isaiah 7:14 we read, "Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: The virgin will be with child and will give birth to a son and will call him Immanuel."

In Isaiah 9:6 we read, "For to us a child is born, to us a son is given and the government will be on his shoulders. And he will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace."

It is very evident that

Philip had good reason to be looking for the Messiah. The question I have is what did Philip find that so many other people failed to find. Philip found a man who could feed 5,000 with five small barley loaves and two small fish. He found a man who could calm the sea and walk on water. He found a man who could restore sight to the blind and raise the dead. In John 1:45 Philip found the one that Moses and the prophets wrote about--Jesus of Nazareth.

When Jesus came and gave his life on that cross he provided a way for man to have direct communion with God. One of the best examples of this is found in Job 9:32-35 where Job has to face God and he says, "He (God) is not a man like me that I might answer him, that we might confront each other in court. If only there were someone to arbitrate between us, to lay his hand upon us both, someone to remove God's rod from me, so that his terror would frighten me no more. Then I would speak up without fear of him, But as it now stands with me, I cannot."

Job asks for an arbitrator or mediator to be between him and God. In 1st Timothy 2:5 we read, "For there is one God and one mediator between God and man, the man Christ Jesus."

In Matthew 7:7-8 Jesus gives us a simple pattern to find him. "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you." When you open the door you will find the Savior himself waiting for you.

PEO plans another Daddy-Daughter Dance

P.E.O. Chapter Y sisters enjoyed getting together after a break for the holidays for a soup supper at Becky Solander's home on Monday, January 20. Diane Doran, Jessica Klein, Sheila McCoy and Cheryl Harris were co-hostesses for the evening. The meal offered a choice of several varieties of appetizers soups, breads and desserts as well as a wonderful time of visiting.

President Lucille Holderman conducted the business meeting. Twenty-one members attended. Sandra Moffatt has transferred from another chapter and was welcomed as a new member of Chapter Y.

The Ways and Means Committee announced the theme and plans for the second annual Daddy-Daughter Dance. The tentative date is in early May. The dance was very successful and well-attended last year with many requests to repeat the daddy-daughter date night. More information will be available soon.

Due to an unexpected scheduling complication, Janay Blome and Ruth Lee Haster had traded hostess times for our February meetings.

Ruth Lee will be hostess for the Feb. 3rd meeting, 7:00 p.m. at her home. Dixie Schettler is the co-hostess. Connie Fagg will be presenting our Founders' Day Program.

Janay will be our hostess on Feb. 17th, 7:00 p.m., at her home. Holly Reeder is her co-hostess.

Janay's program will be "Through a Lens".

Carlsons continue streak at Garnett Duplicate Bridge

For the third week in a row Peggy and Charles Carlson of Savonberg won the duplicate bridge match in Garnett. Anita Dennis of Garnett and Steve Brodmerkle of Neosho Falls tied with the Garnett team of Norma and Jim Johnson for second and third.

The Garnett Duplicate Bridge Club plays each Wednesday at 1 p.m. at the Garnett Inn. Everyone is invited to attend.

Dynamite 4-H Club to take part in fundraiser

The Dynamite 4-H club met on January 19, 2014, under the direction of President Samantha Nickel. Samantha led the club in reciting the Pledge of Allegiance. The song leader, Amie Weisner, lead the group in singing "Yankee Doodle". The Secretary, Miranda Akes, took roll call by asking each member to state what they did over Christmas break. Thirteen members, seven parents, and two leaders were in attendance. After roll call the minutes of the December 15th meeting were read. The President approved the minutes with no corrections or additions.

The meeting business started with reports from club officers and leaders. Due to the absence of the Treasurer, President Nickel gave an update on the monthly income and expenses. All balances were recorded and approved. Club leader, Tanya Ewert, informed club members of some upcoming events. The club will participate in a county wide fundraiser. The club will sale Blue and Gold sausage, bacon, and chicken strips. Part of the money earned will go to the 4-H Council and the club will get to keep part of it. All money and forms are due back March 9th. The next item Tanya discussed was fair ads. Each club member will need to take a fair ad to sale. All ads are due back on March 10, 2014. Tanya reminded the group about County Club Days on February 19th. All members who plan to participate in a County Club Day event must sign-up by February 3rd. The final business item was about the February and April club meeting dates. The group decided to change next month's meeting date to February 9th and the April meeting will be on the 27th.

At the conclusion of the meeting business, the President passed the gavel to

Vice-President, Austin Ewert for the presentation of talks. Matheu Egidy gave a demonstration talk on how to make a blueberry cheesecake. Abbie Weisner gave a talk about her Chihuahua/Terrier mix dog named Bella. After the talks, the gavel was passed back to the President. The recreation leader, Claire Hasty, lead the group in a game of charades. After recreation was completed, Samantha announced the next meeting will be held on February 9, 2014, at the Greeley Fire Station.

After the announcement, the President asked for a motion to adjourn. Austin Akes made the motion and it was seconded by Morgan Egidy. The motion was taken to a vote and approved. The meeting was adjourned by reciting the 4-H pledge. After the meeting the group enjoyed the refreshments that were provided by the Egidy family.

State senator gives first legislative update of 2014 session

K-12 Funding, State Sovereignty, & Corporate Farming
 Several news sources have claimed the State legislature has made recent cuts (some go as far to say, 'drastic cuts') in K-12 funding. They couldn't be more wrong. The legislature for the past three years has not cut K-12 state funding. The legislative cuts were made in 2009 under Governor Mark Parkinson's watch. There have been increases since the cuts made in 2009-2010. However,

Legislative Update
 by Sen. Caryn Tyson
 District 12

the increases are not enough to offset the cuts made prior to the 2010 election cycle. K-12 funding comes from state, federal, and local sources.

According to the Kansas Department of Education (KSDE) total expenditures were $12,776 per-pupil for the 2012-2013 school year. If you have internet access, school expenditures can be found at <http://www.ksde.org/Agency/FiscalandAdministrativeServices/SchoolFinance/ReportsandPublications.aspx>. You may also contact me or the KSDE to get copies of information on school funding and expenditures. As you know, myself and many legislators have been attempting to fend-off the over-reach of the Federal Government. Last week in the Natural Resources Committee, we heard conferees testify in support of a bill that would give Kansas the sole authority to manage the population and habitats of the Lesser Prairie Chicken. The bill would restrict any federal regulations adding the Lesser Prairie Chicken to the endangered species list. The bill is a positive step in protecting our state sovereignty. Last year there was an effort to allow foreign-owned agriculture mega-corporations to operate in Kansas. Current law restricts these large operations from existing in Kansas unless they have county approval. The word in Topeka is that the bill will not be worked this year. Instead of letting the issue be put off until 2015, we need to strengthen the law to support county approval. The county residents should decide if they would want a facility with over 10,000 head in their county. Please contact me with any questions or comments via phone 785.296.6838; email Caryn.Tyson@senate.ks.gov; or by mail, at Kansas State Capitol, 300 SW 10th St., Topeka, KS 66612. It is an honor and a privilege to serve as your 12th District State Senator. Caryn Tyson represents District 12, which includes Anderson County.

Jones reports on first house vote, activities

Normally the second week of session is when things really start to get busy, but this year it was cut short with Martin Luther King Jr. Day on Monday, the mid-week funeral of a colleague's spouse (Rep. Marvin Kleeb's wife Nancy), and the start of the State GOP convention in Wichita on Friday. Here is a quick note on what took place.

Legislative Update
 by Rep. Kevin Jones
 District 5

would double, maxing out at $800, while fees for test refusal convictions would be raised by 50 percent, to a maximum of $1,500. A portion of the revenue generated by these fees goes to the Kansas Department of Health and Environment, who provides breath alcohol testing equipment, frequently called "breathalyzers", to most law enforcement agencies across the state. Each machine costs about $6,000 and lasts 5-7 years. It is important for all law enforcement agencies in Kansas to have equipment that is properly working and is standardized. Some of the current machines are getting old and need to be replaced. As I mentioned during floor debate, the increased fees "allow" those who need to use the machines (persons who choose to consume alcohol and then get behind the wheel of their vehicle) to pay for them so other taxpayers don't have to.

Additionally, the bill designates 33 percent of the revenue from the fees to provide raises for non-judicial court employees (clerks, stenographers, etc. - not judges). These employees are valuable to the judiciary and haven't had a raise for several years. Again, since the revenue comes from fees, the state budget is not impacted and no additional appropriation is needed.

Notable Statistic
 The Kansas Department of Labor (KDOL) reported the December seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 4.9 percent, down from 5.1 percent in November and 5.5 percent in December 2012. "The state's unemployment rate continued its descent, dropping below 5 percent for the first time since 2008," said Lana Gordon, Secretary of Labor. "For the second consecutive year, Kansas saw over the year growth of more than 10,000 jobs. This is all good news for Kansans."

District Activities
 On February 8 I will be at Holy Trinity in Paola for the Miami County Legislative Breakfast starting at 7 a.m. If you have a concern, question, or just want to know your Kansas Legislature Representative better, my intention is to be available to you. Feel free to forward copies of this newsletter to friends, neighbors, and family. The Playground is my brief periodic report of pertinent information taking place here in our Kansas Capitol. Much of the content of my future reports will rely on the concerns and questions you bring to me through your correspondence. I look forward to hearing from you! # Koch breaks 100-wins in a season

The AC Bulldogs were again off this weekend due to weather, this is the second time this year that the AC wrestling team has had a tournament cancelled because of weather. Now is the time to do a little house cleaning and report on a few past events.

On January 16th the Bulldogs were at Osawatomie to dual them and Burlington. The Dogs came out on the losing end of both duals but were very competitive in both, losing to Burlington 57-24 and to Osawatomie 42-41. Winning both matches that night were Caleb Andregg, Blade Marmon, Storm Pracht, and Lee Koch. The Dogs had a few open weight classes missing Caleb Belshe, Dallas Cox, and Shiloh Sutton due to injury and illness.

On January 17th and 18th the AC team traveled to the 2-Day Wabunsee Invitational in Alama finishing 10th with 79.5 team points out of 20 teams. Once again the team had quite a few holes in the line-up because of illness and injury but wrestled extremely well all weekend. Finishing in the top spot and remaining undefeated on the year was Lee Koch who defeated Wright of Atwood in the finals with a pin in the first period. Blade Marmon, wrestling at 113lbs, finished second at the tournament losing in the finals but going 3-1 on the weekend. Storm Pracht finished fourth wrestling at 145lbs, going 3-2 on the weekend.

Wrestling at the Parsons Dual Tournament on the 24th of January, the Dogs went 3-2 as a team placing fourth out of ten teams. The Dogs defeated Diamond (Mo) 60-23, Central Heights 58-18, and Cherryvale 48-32. The Dogs lost to Louisburg 30-52 in the semi-final match before finally losing to Independence 42-36 in the 3rd and 4th place dual. Going 5-0 on the weekend were Lee Koch and Dallas Cox with Storm Pracht, Blade Marmon, and Keith Sears all going 4-1. Preston Cornett, Kyle Lamb, and Tyler Belshe were all 3-2 as well.

With this opportunity to catch-up on some stats Coach Brown did some research on AC Wrestlers and found that Lee Koch broke the 100 win in a season mark at the Burlington Tournament earlier this year with his victory over Kody Smallwood of Mission Valley in the finals. Lee is 70-7 over the last two years and is currently 27-0 in his Sr. campaign. Several Bulldogs have great records heading into the home stretch this February. Blade Marmon, So. Wrestling at 113lbs, is 22-6 on the year, Sr. Dallas Cox, wrestling at 170lbs, is 19-4, and Sr. Storm Pracht, wrestling at 145lbs, is 21-8.

The next wrestling meet is the Silver Lake Invitational this coming weekend, and then a two week break before the big showdown in Burlington for Regionals.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 06-29-2010 / Photo Submitted

Lee Koch remains undefeated on the year and is one of several AC Bulldog wrestlers who are performing well this season.

Viking boys hang on for 62-59 victory

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Central Heights nearly let a 9 point fourth quarter lead slip away before toughing out a hard fought 62-59 win over rival West Franklin.

The Vikings and Falcons played a back and forth first quarter resulting in a tie at 12 heading into the second quarter. Central Heights would step it up offensively in the second as they put 20 points up on the scoreboard to open up a 32-24 lead at intermission.

Central Heights kept the Falcons at arm's length in the third period as they pushed their lead out another point.

The Vikings outscored the Falcons 12-11 in the period. As a lot of rivalries do, this game got much more interesting in the fourth quarter. West Franklin kept chipping away at the lead but came up just short despite outscoring Central Heights 24-18 in the final quarter.

Central Heights coach Rusty Cannady said, "It was a great Franklin County rival game. We were fortunate to come out with the win."

"Coach Spencer does a great job with his kids. They never quit and played hard until the buzzer sounds. I have a lot of respect for his program," Cannady stated.

The Vikings relied on the inside presence of Jordan Horstick and Tanner Erhart as they combined for 40 points.

"Offensively we kept feeding the ball inside. Our post players combined for 57 of our 62 points," Cannady said. "Great win for our kids."

Erhart led the way with 25 points and Horstick added 15 points.

Box Score

Central Heights (62) – Erhart 25, Horstick 15, Hendron 9, Pryor 8, M. Brown 3, Davis 2
West Franklin (59) – Duda 14, Altic 12, Gray 12, Short 8, Homer 5, Rogers 4, Lacy 5

Viking girls struggle offensively in loss to WF

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Central Heights and West Franklin were in a real dog-fight until West Franklin finally seized control in the fourth quarter for a hard fought 37-27 victory.

Despite their offensive struggles in the game, the Vikings got off to a good start in the first quarter as the West Franklin Falcons led just 11-10 after the first quarter. Both teams struggled in the second period to put the ball in the hole as each team scored just 6 points to keep the game close, heading into half-time 17-16.

Coming out of the locker room, both teams knew if they could put together a small run it just may be enough to win the game. Once again, they fought each other hard as they each scored 9 in the third quarter to put the Vikings down just 26-25 heading into the fourth quarter.

Finally the Falcons were able to get that little spurt they were waiting on. They clamped down defensively, holding the Vikings to just two fourth quarter points as they pulled away slightly by adding 11 of their own.

Box Score

Central Heights (27) – Kraus 14, Meyer 6, Hayward 4, Markley 3
West Franklin (37) – Shaffer 12, Reed 5, Flory 5, Ryan 5, Yelland 4, Steele 3, Whittington 3

AC Girls finish 5th in tournament

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

The Anderson County girls traveled to Wellsville this week to compete in the Top Gun Tournament. In the first round game, the seventh seeded Bulldogs squared off with the number two seed Piper.

Piper imposed their will early on as they outscored the Bulldogs 18-11 in the first quarter. The backbreaker was a 3 pointer at the buzzer for Piper. Piper rode that momentum to open up a 30-15 at halftime.

The girls played a much more competitive second half, but it wasn't nearly enough to cut into the 15 point halftime cushion that Piper had. Piper had a slim 15-13 advantage in the third quarter. The Bulldogs fought hard in the fourth, but it wasn't nearly enough as they lost 55-41.

Samantha McCullough led all scorers with 24 points.

In the second round game, the Bulldogs squared off against sixth seeded St. Mary's. The ACHS girls used a strong first and third quarter to cruise to a 58-39 victory.

The Bulldogs jumped up early on St. Mary's and led 13-5 after the first quarter. The two teams played back and forth in the second quarter as they each scored 14 points to make the score 27-19 heading into intermission.

The AC girls came out of the locker room ready to play.

They put 23 points on the board and held St. Mary's to 14. With the score 50-33 heading into the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs slowed the pace down. They only scored 8 points, but held St. Mary's to just 6 in the final period.

Once again, McCullough led the way with 16 points for the Bulldogs. Reagan Jirak was the only other player in double figures with 12 points.

In the fifth place game, ACHS met up with fifth seeded Wellsville. Once again it was a decisive third quarter that helped pace the way to a 47-39 victory. The AC girls led 13-8 after the first quarter and 26-23 at halftime.

The game turned in the third quarter as Wellsville was only able to muster 3 points. The Bulldogs tallied 11 more to extend their lead to 37-26 heading into the fourth quarter. The girls held steady in the fourth as Wellsville did chip away slightly at the lead, but it was much too little as they outscored AC only 13-10.

McCullough led the way with 24 points, which include her hitting 16 of 20 free throws for the game. Paige Scheckel chipped in with 12 points.

Box Scores

'What the Cat Saw' will be discussed

The Garnett Public Library will hold a book discussion on Wednesday, February 26th at 7 p.m. This month's book is "What the Cat Saw" by Carolyn Hart. Leading our discussion will be Paulabeth Henderson.

National bestselling author Carolyn Hart has written an original new novel about a woman with a curious ability that drops her headfirst into a world of intrigue and murder.

Ever since the death of her fiancé, Nela Farley has found herself plagued by a sixth sense: she understands the thoughts of cats when she looks into their eyes. Nela knows that what she's experiencing is completely irrational and tries to convince herself that she is simply transferring her own thoughts that she doesn't want to face.

The books are available for checkout at the library. The discussions are held the fourth Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Archer Room at the library. Notification is posted in case of cancellation.

'Century Farm' program seeks farm, ranch entries

MANHATTAN - Tradition and heritage is a big part of what makes agriculture such an attractive way of life for so many Kansans. The lifeblood of our existence, the farms and ranches in Kansas, provide food, fuel and fiber for the world.

The history of these farms and ranches is rich, with many stories to tell. In that spirit, Kansas Farm Bureau, the state's leading agriculture advocacy organization, is launching the fifteenth year of its program for the new millennium to honor those family farms that have passed down this heritage for more than a century.

The Kansas Farm Bureau "Century Farm" program will recognize family farms whose current owner/operator is related to the owner/operator of the farm in 1914 or before. Qualifying farmers will receive a farm sign designating "Century Farm" status and recognition from Kansas Farm Bureau.

"As farmers and ranchers, we are proud of our legacy and heritage," said Steve Baccus, Kansas Farm Bureau president. "The Century Farm program will help others better appreciate the strong family ties and tradition that we hold so dear."

During the first fourteen years of the Century Farm Program, more than 2,200 family farms qualified for the Farm Bureau Century Farm designation.

The deadline for consideration is May 15, 2014. Complete details for qualification and an application can be obtained at county Farm Bureau offices across Kansas or on the KFB web site, <http://www.kfb.org/getinvolved/centuryfarms/>

Brilliant add-on sales idea

I was in a Best Buy store lately and I took note of the gauntlet they run you through in order to get to the register to pay for your purchase. It was brilliant!

If you've been to a Best Buy lately you know what I mean. Before you can pay for your item you have to twist through this planned "route" to the register. The "route" is lined with last-ditch impulse purchases: batteries, etc., capped off by... wait for it... an entire rack of candy and snack foods.

Brilliant! Now most people in business have known for years that add-on sales work great near the counter or cash register.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

Best Buy took it a step further - they actually control the route in which customers move to the register. That way, they don't have to clutter up their sales positions but can still walk customers past a whole host of possible purchases - even candy, for cryin' out loud!

If your business does retail in some fashion, I'll bet there's something you can use from that idea. Like I said, it's brilliant!

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 06-29-2010 / Photo Submitted

This historic photo shows Idyle Wild Park when it was a resort with cabins in the 1920s. The center island provided a place for activities as well. The property is now a private home, and owners Richard and Judy Brummel will talk about it Feb. 9 at the Richmond Museum.

Idyle Wild topic at Richmond Museum

The Richmond Community Museum invites the public to hear Richard and Judy Brummel tell the history and story of Idyle Wild, the former resort and recreation area where they now live. The Museum's annual meeting will be Sunday, February 9, 7 p.m. at the Museum which is the former lumberyard on Richmond's main street.

The Brummels purchased the Idyle Wild property at the bottom of Pottawatomie Hill in 1977 and have rebuilt the lake that was there for years, worked at clearing the land, later built a house and now enjoy sharing the story with visitors.

Starting in the 1920s and until 1956 when the present U. S. Hiway 59 was built, Idyle Wild was the location of a gas station and tavern with a dance hall near by. In earlier years cabins were available for rent and the place was a popular get-away.

The Museum will open at 6 p.m. for visitors to see the more than 1,000 artifacts and many albums of photos and news stories from and about Richmond area residents.

Call Dennis Peters at (785) 835-6170 or Pat Vining at 835-6598 if you have questions or have anything from the Richmond area you would like to donate or loan to the Museum.

The Richmond Community Museum is a 501(c)(3) organization which opened in June 2008 and is open on weekend afternoons through the summer months and anytime on request. It operates wholly on donations.

This scale was made between the 1870s and 1890s and identified as a Buffalo Hide Weighing Scale.

Scale weighs in on history

What in the world is this old contraption? Does anyone want to take a guess? I was told what it is, when it was given to me over 25 years ago by my father-in-law T.W.Roberts (now deceased) and thru my research efforts. It is an 1870s-1890s Early Frontier "BUFFALO HIDE WEIGHING SCALE".

These scales were used primarily by buyers of buffalo hides to weigh the hides and thus being able to tally up the price. It's very likely these scales were purchased at trading posts and used out on the frontier for weighing numerous items when a standard scale was not available, other animal pelts, meat, grain sacks or anything else weighing 0-40 pounds and if you hang the scale using the larger ring, the large hook hangs down for weighing 20-350 pounds. The brass scale plate is held in place using a curved metal plate and two screws.

This scale has its very own little place in history. It is a known fact that it traveled from Chadron, Nebraska to Missouri and then back to Anderson County, Kansas by covered wagon in the very early 1900's. The very same covered wagon that my Father-in-law T.W.Roberts at the age of 5 came to Kansas in.

This scale is well over 100 years old.

It doesn't take a fire to burn a child

Topeka -- During National Burn Awareness Week (February 2-8), Safe Kids Kansas reminds parents and caregivers that fire is just one cause of burn injuries -- children can also be seriously injured by hot foods and beverages, heating appliances, hot pots and pans, electrical currents and chemicals.

Hot water scalds are the leading cause of burns to young children and can be caused by hot liquids or steam. Hot tap water accounts for nearly 1 in 4 of all scald burns among children and is associated with more deaths and hospitalizations than any other hot liquid burns. Young children are particularly at risk because they cannot recognize heat-related hazards quickly enough to react appropriately. "Children's skin is thinner than adults' and burns at lower temperatures and more deeply," says Cherie Sage, Safe Kids Kansas. "A child exposed to 140-degree Fahrenheit liquid for five seconds will sustain a third-degree burn."

Safe Kids Kansas urges caregivers to:

Check to Make Sure the Water Temperature Is Just Right

Set your hot water heater to 120 degrees Fahrenheit. Always check bath and sink water with your wrist or elbow before placing your child in it.

Blow Out Candles and Store Matches Out of Reach

Playing with matches and lighters is one of the leading causes of fire deaths to young children. Keep these items locked up out of sight and out of reach. Discuss good fires and bad fires and how matches and lighters are to be used responsibly. Explain these items are not toys. Keep burning candles safely out of reach of children.

Prevent spills

Cook with pots and pans on back burners and turn handles away from the front. Don't place containers of hot food or liquid near the edge of a counter or table and remove tablecloths so children don't accidentally pull hot items down onto themselves.

Use the Back Burner and Oven Mitts

Make the stove area a "kid-free zone" (3 feet is a good distance). Never leave your child alone in the kitchen. Don't hold children while cooking or while carrying hot foods and beverages.

Be Careful With the Microwave

Taste cooked foods and heated liquids to make sure they're not too hot for children. Never microwave a baby's bottle; heat bottles with warm water and test them before feeding your child. Understand that drinks and food heated in a microwave may be much hotter than their containers.

Keep Flammable Materials Away From Space Heaters

Remember to keep space heaters at least three feet away from anything that can burn. Make sure you turn them off when you leave the room.

Childproof Your Electrical Outlets and Appliances

Tie up electrical cords, especially cords connected to heating appliances such as coffee pots, curling irons and deep fryers. Make sure electrical cords can't be pulled or snagged into a bathtub or sink. Don't leave a hot iron sitting on an ironing board unattended.

Install Smoke Alarms and Carbon Monoxide Alarms

You need a smoke alarm on each level of your home and in every sleeping area. Test your smoke alarms once a month and replace the batteries once a year (except for lithium batteries that are longer lasting; refer to manufacturer's instructions). A working smoke alarm reduces the risk of dying in a fire by about 50 percent.

Actively supervise

Simply being in the same room with a child is not necessarily supervising. Safety precautions are important, but there is no substitute for giving children your full attention.

What if my child gets burned?

If a child is burned, the burned area should be placed in, or flushed with, cool water. Keep the burned area in the cool water for 10 to 15 minutes. Never use ice, ointments or butter. If the burn is severe, immediately seek emergency assistance.

Crest FBLA students place at district conference

Three students of the Crest FBLA chapter competed at the FBLA District I Competitions held at Cherryvale, KS at Cherryvale High School on January 24th, 2014. They were Alyssa Boeck, Trevor Freelove, and Rene Rodriguez.

These students competed against students from sixteen other schools in various competitive events.

All three placed for Crest in the following: Alyssa Boeck-5th in Business Law; Rene Rodriguez-4th in Accounting I and 6th in Business Calculations; Trevor Freelove-2nd in Business Calculations and 5th in Computer Problem Solving.

These three as well as other Crest FBLA members will be attending the Kansas FBLA State Leadership Conference in Topeka, KS on March 25th and 26th to compete and participate at the state level competitions and conference.

Three generations continue conservation tradition

Three generations of Millers continue to improve the grassland thanks to the work of a farming family that stretches even further back in history.

Richard Miller said his grandfather started farming and the tradition continues today as he farms with his mother and son on about 700 acres about four miles southwest of Garnett. His parents purchased their farm in 1960, and Richard and his wife, Dorothy, bought theirs in 1964. Their son, Tom Miller, bought one of their farms several years ago. Together, they continue to find ways to improve the land.

Conserving the land for future generations is a familiar idea, but it's a new idea, Richard Miller said. It doesn't take a farmer long before he can see the need to take care of the land.

"It's not hard to see the soil washing away. We farmers recognized a long time ago that if we don't do something to prevent the soil from washing away, we're not going to have any dirt left," Miller said. "Just being on the land and seeing what happens to the soil, it's pretty obvious you have to do something."

His father began initial conservation efforts on the farms, building terraces and farms at a time when technology to do such things was limited. Their land featured a large ditch running through the middle of it, so Richard's father had to fill in the ditch and built a terrace in its place.

Since then, the family has taken advantage of various programs and improvements that will allow them to properly care for the land. Most of the 700 acres is pasture; about 250 is farm ground. All of the farm ground has been in CRP for 20 years, and Miller recently signed up for another decade in the CRP program. Miller rents the land and previously used a minimal tilling approach, but he's shifting to a no-till management system. He said many farmers did not believe no-till would work, but attitudes have changed as farmers have seen the benefits of a no-till approach.

Last year, the family cleared overgrowth around the property to improve the grassland.

Their efforts have earned a Grassland Award from the Kansas Bankers Association. The award will be presented Feb. 5 at Anderson County High School in Garnett.

Miller, who has worked in the agriculture business managing elevators, saw the difference good conservation practices can make.

"All the successful farmers are very concerned about conservation," he said. "You see pretty quick the successful farmers are taking care of their land and resources. The ones that aren't, you can tell. Luckily there aren't many of them anymore."

Planting calendar can be useful when starting vegetable seeds indoors

MANHATTAN - With daylight lasting a bit longer day by day, avid gardeners are hankering to plant. One way to satisfy that wish is to start vegetable seeds indoors, according to Ward Upham at Kansas State University.

"If you start vegetable plants indoors, it is often helpful to list seeding dates on a calendar so that plants are ready for transplanting at the proper time," said Upham, who is director of the K-State Research and Extension Rapid Response Center in the horticulture, forestry and recreation resources department. "To do this, gardeners should choose their transplant date and count back the number of weeks necessary to grow their own transplants."

For example in Kansas, cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower are usually transplanted in late March to early April. It takes eight weeks from seeding to transplant size, he said, so those plants should be seeded in early February.

Information on how many weeks it takes to grow transplants is available in a Jan. 8 K-State newsletter at Horticulture 2013 Newsletter.

Upham provided a list of common vegetables grown for transplants and a recommended date for seeding, adding that the dates are Saturdays because that's when many homeowners have the most free time.

• Cabbage, Broccoli and Cauliflower - Seeding Date: Feb. 8 and transplant date: April 5.

• Lettuce - Seeding date: Feb. 8 and transplant date: April 5.

• Peppers - Seeding date: March 22 and transplant date: May 17.

• Tomatoes - Seeding date: March 29 and transplant date: May 10

"The dates are not set in stone," he said. "A week earlier or later will not ruin the plants. Gardeners may want to seed a week or two earlier if they are in southern Kansas and possibly a week later if in northern Kansas."

He also suggests growers keep notes on how well the transplants did so they can tweak the planting schedule.

"Depending on location in the state, local conditions may result in plants that need a bit more or a bit less time," he said.

Millers want to be good stewards of the land

You have to stay one step ahead of the ground, Greg Miller says.

He, his brother, Brad Miller, and father, Garland Miller, take an aggressive approach toward conservation, Greg Miller said. They see taking care of the land as a responsibility and an obligation.

"When you hear the word 'sustainable,' it's not just sustainable for today," Miller said. "We have a responsibility to our next generation, to our community, to everyone. If we aren't good stewards, no one else is going to be."

The brothers work in partnership with their semi-retired father and have a hired employee who has been with them for six years. They have about 2700 acres of tillable land northwest of Harris. They primarily grow corn, soybeans and wheat, but have added a system of cover crops like rye or turnips to hold the soil during winter months. They also have pasture land for about 200 cows as well as some land reserved for hay.

Garland Miller began conservation work on the farm, and Greg and Brad continued the tradition. They implemented no-till farming about 20 years ago, after seeing the damage done by erosion after a flood in the mid-1990s.

"We saw a lot of erosion, even with terraces," Greg Miller said. "We investigated ways to slow that process down, and that led us to no-till."

The switch to no-till led to a significant improvement with less erosion, and Miller said the greatest benefit has been economic. As the land takes care of itself, there is a greater pay off for those who rely on it.

After seeing the improvements from no-till farming, the family continued to look for ways to improve their farming practices and make the land better.

"We continue to try to be one step ahead and try to be aggressive with conserving the soil," Miller said.

They started planting cover crops about seven or eight years ago, and have been using the process on a large scale for the past four or five years. After corn fields are harvested, for example, they plant rye, wheat or turnips or something that will keep the land covered in winter months.

They also use shoulder strips and buffers to help improve the land, and continue to look for ways to leave the land better than they found it.

The family will be recognized with a conservation award from the Kansas Bankers Association at a ceremony Feb. 5 at Anderson County High School in Garnett.

Woodland benefits at risk from poor management practices

MANHATTAN - According to the latest National Woodland Owners Survey, 23 million people own 283 million acres of woodlands in the U.S. The lack of proper management from most, or an estimated 21 million of these woodland owners, has put the benefits provided by these woodlands at risk.

"This holds true for the more than 100,000 private woodland owners in Kansas," said Bob Atchison, a Kansas State University forester for the Kansas Forest Service. "Even though there is a much smaller area of woodlands in Kansas compared to other states, the trees still provide important benefits like clean air and water, carbon storage, outdoor recreation, wildlife habitat and timber products."

Atchison said the effects of this mismanagement are being experienced first-hand in Kansas with the expansion of invasive species of plants and insects like bush honeysuckle, emerald ash borer and Osage orange. Drought, storms and wildfire are also taking their toll on the resource.

The survey also indicated that few woodland owners were aware of programs available to help them conserve and improve the health of their woodlands. "Three-quarters of those surveyed were unaware of financial assistance programs like the Environmental Quality Incentive Program," said Atchison, "which is able to cover up to 75 percent of the costs for planting trees, managing woodlands or renovating old windbreaks."

The Kansas Forest Service is taking action to address this issue in partnership with the Kansas Tree Farm Program. The Kansas Tree Farm Program actively engages Kansas woodland owners to manage their woodlands through thoughtful planning and by putting landowners in touch with Kansas State University foresters who provide management advice through on-site visits.

Kansas woodland owners also are encouraged to check out online tools to help them manage their woodlands and create their own plans, such as MyLandPlan.org and Forestasy.org.

For more information about Kansas woodlands or the conservation programs developed to help restore them, contact the Kansas Forest Service by phone at (785) 532-3310 or online at Kansas Forest Service.

CCPI to provide $684K to restore Kansas windbreaks, woodlands

MANHATTAN - Through the Cooperative Conservation Partnership Initiative (CCPI) the U.S. Department of Agriculture will provide $684,000 in financial assistance to Kansas landowners, farmers and ranchers who are interested in restoring shelterbelts, windbreaks or managing woodlands adjacent to streams and rivers during Fiscal Year 2014.

The funding will cover the majority of the costs of tree planting, thinning woodlands, removing old declining shelterbelt rows and the use of the heavy equipment to do it, said Bob Atchison, forester with the Kansas Forest Service.

Kansas Forest Service foresters are available to help landowners complete the technical parts of the application process including project plans.

CCPI fits nicely into renovation and restoration efforts because more than 44 percent of the 43,436 miles of shelterbelts in Kansas are in decline and are no longer providing the benefits they used to, said Larry Biles, state forester, Kansas Forest Service.

Biles said there is a significant percentage of Kansas streams that lack adequate management and forest cover, which directly contributes to bank erosion and advanced sedimentation of reservoirs, reducing Kansas' public water supply.

The initiative operates through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program otherwise known as EQIP. Any producers eligible for EQIP funding can participate in the program.

Sign up deadline to be considered for the CCPI funding is March 21, 2014. Producers and landowners need to contact their local Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office to sign up. Producers are encouraged to sign up as soon as possible to provide enough time for foresters to prepare project plans before the deadline.

For more information on CCPI projects and ways to restore Kansas woodlands visit the Kansas Forest Service website or give them a call at (785) 532-3300.

Ratzlaff takes 2nd in Patriot's Pen contest

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 06-29-2010 / Photo Submitted

VFW and VFW AUXILIARY sponsor a Patriot's Pen contest for 6th, 7th & 8th grade students. Adina Ratzlaff, daughter of Robert and Veronica Ratzlaff, Westphalia, won the local contest, the district contest and 2nd Place in the Kansas state contest. She is an 8th grade student of Westphalia Elementary School. Pictured above, Steve Newland (immediate past Commander and Trustee of Garnett Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6397) and Shirley Roeckers (Scholarship Chairperson and Trustee of Garnett Veteran of Foreign Wars Auxiliary Post 6397) present a check in the sum of $150 from the Department of Kansas Veterans of Foreign Wars to Adina Ratzlaff for her 2nd place award in the 2014 Patriot's Pen Contest.

Dec. 4 fire. Jeanie has operated Colony Foods for many years. She plans to have the same hours 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. QSI, Richmond will also do her construction work. Jeanie lives in Garnett, was in Colony Wednesday, Jan. 22 to dine with the senior citizens at the City Hall community room.

4-H
The Seekers Not Slackers 4-H meeting was held on Jan. 20. President Dal Lacey called the meeting to order. Tyler Gillespie and Trevor Church led the club in saying the flag salute and 4-H pledge. Roll call was answered by naming something you did for citizenship; sixteen members and three leaders answered it. Brooklynn Jones and Hailey Gillespie led the club in singing "The Itsy Bitsy Spider".

Community leader C.J. Lacey informed the club that fair ads are due March 10. She announced County Club Days would be on Feb. 15 at 12 p.m. She also handed out sale sheets for the club to sell Blue and Gold meat products. This is a county wide 4-H fundraiser. We will be selling until March 10. Community leader Stacy Sprague reminded the club that window clings are due Feb. 21.

The club decided to have an exchange meeting with the Allen County City Slickers. We paid C.J. Lacey for printer supplies. For program, Rebecca Sprague talked to the club about sewing and the supplies needed. In recreation, Jerrick Jones and Austin Louk led the club in playing "Dragon Tail". Members sang Happy Birthday to Codi Vermillion and Cassie Bowen. Meeting was adjourned by everyone standing and saying the 4-H motto.-Makayla Jones, reporter

Jolly Dozen
Eight club members met at the home of Twila Luedke Jan. 20. Roll call was answered with what they did for Christmas. A memorial gift was made to the United Methodist Church in memory of Vivian Barnett who also was a charter member of the Jolly Dozen Club. Wilma Goodell was the hostess gift winner. Delores Strickler in the City Hall community room will host the Feb. 17 meeting.

POP Tabs
The annual delivery of the community's aluminum pop tabs took place Jan. 24. Twenty-five pounds were delivered to the Ronald McDonald house. All are invited to participate with this annual deed. Drop your pop tabs in the bin located at the triangle point of Pine and Cherry streets. The Colony Lions Club set this up for the annual drive. Pop tabs may be left there throughout the year. Buckets are also placed so people may put tabs at City Hall and Rick's Halfway House. Once the new Colony Foods building is up and open for business, a bucket will again be placed there.

Around Town
Mrs. Gerald (Colleen) Pearmannowresidesat Windsor Place, 600 E. Garfield, Room 210, Iola, KS 66749. Gerald's, brother Mike Pearman and his wife, Hillsboro, visited her recently.

Colony Fire Dept. made two fire runs this week: one was a grass fire and Saturday evening they were called to a fire south of Lone Elm and into Allen County. This area is dry; the up and down temperatures and high winds are not good. That's a good setup for damage and losses of field crops, bushes and plants in yards. There could be damage to home foundations also if this continues.
