58 properties to go on tax sale auction block

March 24 sale could help county recoup some of $373K owed

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Fifty-eight properties with more than $373,000 in overdue taxes will be on the auction block March 24 when the county conducts its first delinquent property tax sale since 2004.

The complete list of properties offered in the sale is published on pages 3B to 5B of this newspaper. The list includes a variety of properties ranging from an old nursing home to small lots. Some of the owners also have court cases such as foreclosures, bankruptcy, or other situations like condemnation proceedings. Most of the properties, however, appear to be from estates of property owners who are deceased.

The property with the largest amount of overdue taxes is the former Arkhaven Nursing Home, which has $184,849.23 in overdue taxes. The smallest amount in past due property taxes is $143.

Tax sales allow the government to recoup unpaid personal property taxes. Even if the property is sold for less than the amount of taxes owed, the county will recoup some of the money and the transfer of ownership is expected to at least bring the properties back onto the county's tax rolls. The last delinquent personal property tax sale was May 2004, although the county had a delinquent mineral rights sale in May 2010.

County Treasurer Dena McDaniel previously said property owners benefited from an extra three or four years to get caught up; county officials have been trying to organize a delinquent tax sale for the past few years but the process has faced numerous delays.

During the 2004 tax sale, 18 properties were sold for a total of $17,234. At the time, officials said the county collected more money than was owed as back taxes, but the amount was still less than the total taxes, fees and other interest owed on the properties. Several properties sold for as little as $16, which barely covered the cost to transfer the title. The highest price was $6,500 for several lots in Kincaid.

The tax sale is expected to begin at 1 p.m. Monday, March 24, in the front lobby of the Anderson County Courthouse.

AWOL county attorney a topic for commissioners

Residents say cases aren't progressing, complain to leaders

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Continued complaints about a lack of legal work coming out of Anderson County Attorney Brandon Jones' office was a topic at Monday's county commission meeting, when the commission chairman sought legal advice on what, if anything, commissioners could do to coax more work out of the county's part-time prosecutor.

"What's happening is that somebody steals something, and they're still out running around loose," Johnson said, paraphrasing complaints he's received from residents.

"My question to you is," he posed to county counselor James Campbell, "is this our business, how much of it is our business and is there anything we can do about it?"

Jones was not present for the discussion.

He was elected to local office in November 2012, disclosing up front that he intended to also seek re-election to his former post of county attorney in Osage County. The plan

Two school districts seek new leaders

Crest, Central Heights superintendents resign for new job, retirement

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Two of three area school districts will be on the hunt for new superintendents this spring and summer.

The Crest school district will need to find a new superintendent and high school principal after the recent resignation of Jerry Turner, who led the district for the past three years. Turner has accepted a position as superintendent of the West Franklin School District, which he said is closer to his home in Overbrook.

Central Heights also will be looking for a new superintendent, after Jim White announced he plans to retire - again. White initially retired from the Baldwin City school district in 2006, but came out of retirement to serve as interim superintendent at Central Heights in 2010. He has stayed with the district since then, but announced at the Feb. 17 school board meeting that he plans to

County expected to join Extension district

Joining multi-county district could offer specialized services

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Most people probably won't notice an immediate difference when the Anderson County Extension Department joins a multi-county district July 1, which is expected to happen barring unforeseen setbacks.

But over time, people who use Extension services will find better answers to their tough questions, and can benefit from a variety of programs and events not currently offered by the county-run district, organizers say. The change will not affect the Anderson County Fair, which is organized by a separate entity.

Anderson County Extension is expected to join the Frontier Extension District July 1 pending final approval from the Kansas Attorney General's office. Frontier was formed in 2010 by departments in Osage and Franklin counties, and when combined with Anderson will offer a total of seven agents. Nearly all of the agents have at least 10 years of experience, giving the district a variety of experts in numerous fields including agriculture, 4-H, family and consumer sciences, and more.

The consolidation of extension districts has become a trend since the 1990s as counties have sought to save money and increase opportunities by combining resources. Staff members can specialize in par-

New jail meals could save $25K

Local woman offers to provide meals at county jail at low cost

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Anderson County Commissioners hope a plan submitted by a local woman for meal services at the county jail will save the county some $25,000 over the current contractor.

Donna Kellerman, an employee of CMB Managed Services which provides inmate meals at the county jail, submitted a plan to commissioners that outlined a cost estimate of $72,000 per year compared to CBM's contract price of $97,000 based on 32 inmate meals per day.

Kellerman's proposal included taking her and a part-time weekend assistant onto the county's payroll, with those payroll costs included in the $72,000 estimate. Kellerman said she has two jail trustees who also help with meal prep and serving.

Drafty courthouse windows cost county

Energy consultant says courthouse windows are just 42% efficient

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — When it comes to wasting energy at the Anderson County Courthouse, the primary culprit appears to be the 110-year-old building's windows, an energy consultant said.

Dan Harden, with BG Consultants, Inc., updated county commissioners last week about an energy efficiency study of the courthouse. He said the building's windows are just 42 percent efficient, allowing a great deal of heat to leak out of the building in the winter, and vice versa in the summer. He cited a variety of concerns, including the window issues, holes in the outside of the building and window air conditioning units.

BG Consultants tested the windows and doors and found

He served in the 24th Infantry and later served in the Yukon Defense Force in Fairbanks, Alaska, receiving medals of two Purple Hearts, Bronze Star, Good Conduct Medals, and Master Musician Medal.

After stationed in Fairbanks, Alaska, his family moved to Sedalia, Missouri where he started selling life insurance. They moved around several places before moving to Humboldt, Kansas. While there, he started his crop dusting company, Baker Flying Service, Inc., in Chanute. Roy married Carol Uhrman on September 11, 1954, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. This union was blessed with four sons and one daughter. They later divorced. Roy was a member of the Garnett V.F.W. Post#6397, Shriner's in Kincaid, Kansas, and the Garnett Lions Club. He loved to travel with his best friend, Marguerite Ryman, spending much time in Branson, Missouri, Ireland, Scotland, Hawaii, England, and New Zealand.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Roy Lee and Violet Baker; infant daughter, Melody Baker; five sisters, Mildred Drennen; Edna York; Eva Willard; Pearle Kellogg; and Edie Stockard.

was to basically split his time between the two county courts, which Jones proceeded to do after he won both races. But the amount of time Jones spends in the local office has become an issue among some quarters. Johnson said he understood initially Jones planned to spend two days a week in Anderson County.

Johnson said he was concerned about what may be a growing backlog of cases.

"I'm hearing that maybe he isn't here two days a week," Johnson commented to counselor Campbell. State law sets up local county attorney offices to function as prosecutors for the state judicial system, and basically removes county attorneys from any accountability to other elected officials in the county much like any other county elected office. Campbell explained that the only authority county commissioners have in regard to the prosecutor's office is budgetary.

"We approve his budget," echoed commissioner Jerry Howarter. "That's the only authority we have."

Sheriff Vern Valentine, who previously requested the would become advisory committees without budgetary responsibilities. Four Anderson County residents will join the district board to oversee management of district activities and budget. The names of four people - Nancy Horn, Robert Miller, Joel Sprague and Teena Lutz - have been submitted to Anderson County Commissioners for approval to serve on the district board.

Anderson County Extension Agent Shannon Blocker said it is too early to know specifically how the district will impact Anderson County residents, but she expects over time people will see the advantages. For the most part, people will continue to see similar staff and programs locally.

She offered some examples about how joining the district could impact programs, like the Master Gardener program. Neither Osage nor Franklin County has a Master Gardener program, and Blocker operates a small program to teach volunteers how to provide horticultural information and run programs in their communities. With the opportunity to specialize in some areas, it's possible the Master Gardener program could be expanded to include residents of Osage and Franklin counties.

Commissioners discuss Jones' absence, said he has been fielding similar questions from county residents and also from defense attorneys due to face Jones in court.

Campbell noted that there was no such thing as a lower priority case when a local resident is involved in one, but he defended Jones, saying between Anderson and Osage county courts Jones was probably handling 2/3 to 3/4 of what Franklin county handles "and Franklin County has four attorneys," Campbell finished.

"I'm just concerned with Anderson County," Johnson responded.

Campbell said there may be any number of problems in pursuing criminal cases, not the least of which is faulty addresses given by suspects. Campbell and Valentine estimated that at any one time there may be as many as 300 outstanding warrants for Anderson County suspects.

Jones did not attend a Monday morning county department head meeting that preceded the discussion about his office, nor was he present for the ensuing comments. Commissioners asked Campbell to pass along their concerns to Jones.

"We'll have more time to dedicate to it, plus more citizens could be involved," Blocker said.

Although no one filed a formal complaint during the official protest period, Blocker said some confusion remains about how the district will affect the county fair. She stressed the fair will not be affected because it is organized by a separate county fair board, and not the Extension office. However, the Extension office does organize the 4-H portion of the fair, and likely will continue to do so.

that, typically, window areas registered a temperature between 25 to 48 degrees. Doors registered an average of 25.4 degrees.

County Clerk Phyllis Gettler said she was concerned there isn't much the county can do about the situation because the courthouse is listed on the Kansas Register of Historic Places, and any renovations must meet standards set by the state's historical society. Harden said historical societies and boards have become more understanding about the need to improve historic buildings so they are more energy efficient and comfortable for those who work there.

The courthouse underwent a major roof renovation project in 2008. That same year, Gettler advised commissioners they would need to improve heating, cooling and electrical systems in the building over the next several years.

Commissioners asked Harden if they could make smaller improvements while they consider what to do about the windows and doors. Harden suggested they could use sealants, caulking and insulation as a quick and inexpensive solution, and advised the commission to carefully consider making improvements to the doors and windows when they work on the county's 2015 budget. He also suggested a heat pump that would allow hot and cold air to circulate through the building more efficiently.

retire effective June 30.

Turner said Monday the primary reason for taking the job at West Franklin was because of its proximity to his home in Overbrook. The new job will shorten his commute from about an hour to just 15 minutes.

"The Crest people have been very good to me," Turner said. "Unfortunately you can't pick up a district and move it north. I've met some really good people here, some really good kids that will always stand out in my mind. It's a good community."

Turner's resignation will be effective June 30. Although the West Franklin district is similar to Crest in that it is a consolidated district serving multiple communities, it is significantly larger than Crest. West Franklin has about 600 students; Crest has about 200. While Turner served as both superintendent and high school principal at Crest, he will serve only as superintendent at West Franklin.

School superintendents in recent years have faced significant financial challenges in light of a difficult economy and cuts in state funding. West Franklin board members told an Ottawa newspaper they picked Turner over two other candidates because of his experience working with budgetary restrictions as well as his experience in consolidated districts. They also praised his versatility in education issues like transportation and food service.

Central Heights school board members said they planned to begin interviewing replacement candidates as early as this week. It was not known when Crest would be interviewing candidates.

A study by The Anderson County Review conducted several years ago showed most school superintendents in Kansas stayed in any one position just a little over five years on average.

Too long a wait for Amber Alert

There has to be a solution to delays like the ones that stalled the broadcast of last week's Amber Alert for Hailey Owens, the 10 year-old Springfield, Mo., girl snatched in broad daylight from a neighborhood street and later found murdered a few miles away in the suspect's home.

This should have been one of the times the good guys won. Witnesses saw the abduction take place, got a vehicle description and a license plate number and even gave chase until the gold colored pickup outran them. Police got the call at 4:48 p.m. Tuesday, yet it was 6 p.m. before Springfield police issued a news release to area media and posted social media information about the abduction including a description of the victim and vehicle information. It was after 7 p.m. when the Missouri State Highway Patrol issued a statewide Amber Alert.

Under these circumstances two hours is a long, long time. No one wants to make a bad situation worse at this point by pointing fingers at the police and the highway patrol, but the question remains: what took so long to issue the Amber Alert?

Residents of Anderson County got a new perspective on this abduction from any other in the past because it was the first time most of us were personally notified - most every cell phone within the area of the Amber Alert received a text message listing the city, license number and the vehicle description. It was the first time the federal Wireless Emergency Alert system, rolled out a year ago to notify cell phones in any given geographic region of national or local emergencies including Amber Alerts, was used in our local area. It's an amazing system that will no doubt save lives and property.

Cops running the suspect tag number were at Craig Wood's home when he arrived there in the truck about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. By now, it's been nearly four hours since witnesses saw the girl abducted. At around 2 a.m. Wednesday officers executing a Green County Court search warrant of Wood's home would find the girl's body stuffed in two trash bags and concealed in a plastic tote in his basement.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

Clearly, if Wood alone is guilty, the girl was dead well before 8:30 Tuesday night.

There are necessary but time-consuming safeguards built into the Amber Alert system designed to cut down on false calls - "crying wolf" if you will - so the public doesn't hear so many unwarranted Amber Alert calls that we get desensitized to their critical nature. Local law officers have to determine if their situation matches Amber Alert criteria, including 1) confirming if an abduction has taken place; 2) the child is at risk of serious injury or death; 3) there's sufficient descriptive information of the child, captor, or captor's vehicle to issue an alert; and 4) that the child is 17 or younger. Once that's determined, local officers contact their state Amber Alert coordinator (in Kansas that's the KBI, in Missouri the Missouri State Highway Patrol) which kicks off the Amber Alert and notifies the U.S. Department of Justice, which helps notify other states and may utilize the WEA system. Since the program's inception some 679 children have been saved as a direct result of Amber Alerts.

In the Hailey Owens case, it seems those criteria were met quickly and unarguably. The question remains: What took so long to issue the alert? The other question: Would it have made any difference? - is tortuously apparent as well.

Hopefully a review of the procedures followed in Missouri will yield solutions to the delay, and that information decimated to better Amber Alert programs elsewhere.

I wonder who's hair-brained idea it was instead of putting money into our streets and our sidewalks and our sewers and so on to build an awning over the bleachers at the ball park. You know we only use those ball parks a few months out of the year and you can't even play ball when it's raining anyway. There's some city leaders down at city hall that need to be replaced.

Republicans need to stop talking about sex. Two 2012 U.S. Senate candidates; Akin in Missouri and Mourdock in Indiana, blew winnable races when they offered unsolicited and ignorant opinions on gynecology. The Kansas Legislature, with no other pressing issues to debate, offered to immunize private businesses if they discriminated against same-sex couples in the name of "religious liberty." We already have religious liberty; it's forever in the Constitution. What we don't have, and government can't give us, is a right not to be insulted by anyone at anytime. The GOP likes to couch such silliness with a religious reference. They end up sounding like The Church Lady. Since the glory days of the Moral Majority, evangelicals have sought moral guidance from politicians. From politicians? They will never find it. From contraception to sex education in schools to evolution to gay marriage, these intolerant latter-day Puritans are sending young people, people of color, and independents fleeing from a solid GOP platform of tax cuts, spending reductions, personal responsibility, an entrepreneurial spirit and Constitutional principles. Let's look for moral guidance from the pulpit, not from the podium. We have a separation of Church and State for a reason.

Is it just me, or is it kind of crazy that when a restaurant says family restaurant up in the city, and you go in and it's really not a family atmosphere at all, it's all about looking at the girls in their skimpy outfits- I just think there's something wrong with all of us thinking that this is okay. And then the food's not all that good and its really expensive. I'm really confused. Thank you.

I cannot figure out how they plan to attract more people to Garnett by making it more expensive for those who decide to come by raising the transient guest tax. It's absolutely insane. Maybe following this same logic we could promote celibacy by placing a tax on condoms. Thank you.

The UAW's worker problem

The activist Florence Reece wrote the union ballad "Which Side Are You On?" in the midst of Kentucky's so-called Harlan County War in the 1930s.

Posed this question by the United Auto Workers, employees of Volkswagen's Chattanooga, Tenn., plant answered that they don't want to be on the side of a union that is slipping into irrelevance. Once a 1.5 million-member behemoth, the UAW has seen its membership decline to a fourth of what it was in the late 1970s.

Everything had lined up for it in Chattanooga. Not only was VW officially neutral, it tilted the playing field in favor of the union. The company allowed it to campaign in the plant -- a major advantage -- while opponents were excluded. The media was praising Volkswagen's enlightened European attitude toward organized labor and celebrating imminent victory for the union.

Then the workers had their say. The UAW reportedly spent $5 million in the course of a campaign that lasted two years, and lost by a 712 to 636 vote.

The motto of the old American Federation of Labor was "a fair day's wage for a fair day's work." VW workers felt they already had it. Wages in Chattanooga are comparable to those of new hires of the Detroit automakers, roughly $20 an hour.

The unionization of the workforce would make it possible for VW to form a European-style "works council" of management and workers to make decisions about the plant. But workers already felt amply consulted by management. Even UAW Secretary-Treasurer Dennis Williams attested, "Volkswagen's a class act."

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

This is hardly the "Battle of the Overpass," when company thugs beat UAW officials trying to organize Ford in the 1930s. This is a car company putting out a welcome mat for union organizers who still couldn't manage to organize.

Florence Reece wrote, "Come all of you good workers/Good news to you I'll tell/Of how the good old union/Has come in here to dwell." But the workers in Chattanooga didn't consider it such good news.

Bob King, the head of the UAW, thinks they are guilty of false consciousness. If only they weren't so viciously misled by outside agitators, like Tennessee Sen. Bob Corker, the former mayor of Chattanooga who helped to woo VW to the city in the first place. He rightly said that the UAW is in a "death spiral."

King's union was found alone in a room in 2009 with two nearly dead car companies. After the UAW did so much to chase automaking out of Detroit with unsustainable labor costs and ridiculous work rules, it is no wonder that workforces haven't welcomed it into the South, where right-to-work states have become alluring destinations for foreign car companies.

For the longest time, the business model of the UAW has been to take its members' dues and funnel them to friendly Democratic politicians. Unless it breaks into the South, the union knows it's all but doomed. It may feel this institutional imperative keenly, but workers in good manufacturing jobs who owe nothing to this self-serving dinosaur from the 20th century don't. They can be forgiven for wondering which side the union is on.

Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

Republicans want goodies just like Dems

Let's figure that you probably don't want to see a lobbyist, or maybe a corporate chief, handing a legislator a check for his/her campaign fund before the legislator goes into the House or Senate to vote on a bill.

Now, that would be a little...unseemly, wouldn't it?

Well, if it was that simple, we'd be done. That's illegal.

Lobbyists and corporations and unions—really anyone except individuals—can't contribute to anyone's legislative campaign funds after Jan. 1 of each year and before the formal adjournment of the Legislature for the year, called sine die, usually in late May or early June.

Now, that sounds fair.

But...Democratic leadership in the House and Senate have special campaign committees that can accept money during the legislative session that will later be used for financing their members' campaigns.

Republicans in the Senate used to have one of those during-the-session fundraising vehicles but it is now out of play (long story), and House Republicans more than a decade ago never started that special fund when they had the chance.

So...Republicans want to even the score. If Democrats can raise campaign money during the session from lobbyists and corporations and unions and such,

STATE COMMENTARY

MARTIN HAWVER, At The Rail

Republicans want to, too.

There are two ways to do this. Republicans have the votes to just shut down the Democrats' ability to raise money through their special leadership funds so nobody could raise campaign money from anyone but pedestrians during the session. It's not the fault of Democrats that Republicans don't have special leadership funds, but that's not much of a consideration for Republicans.

The way Republicans want to level the fund-raising ground is to allow political parties to designate one leadership committee for each party in each house that is allowed to accept campaign contributions during the legislative session.

That evens things up. That way House and Senate Republicans have the ability to raise money that Democrats can now.

It might be a little unseemly, but the ground will be level if Senate Republicans who are pushing—and have the votes to pass—the bill that House Republicans, that again, they have the votes to pass, would like, too.

Now, you've probably guessed that neither Republicans nor Democrats are bashful about pushing big-money contributors to cough up campaign funds before that Jan. 1-through-adjournment drought. They may even remind those donors that they supported issues important to those business checkbook owners.

But during-the-session solicitation of contributions would be done by a leadership committee and not by individual lawmakers.

Good bill? Bad bill? Talk among yourselves...

Holt, Lowe married

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 02-25-2014 / Photo Submitted

Miss Caitlin Alysse Holt and Mr. Colton Miller Lowe, both of Overland Park, exchanged wedding vows Saturday, Sept. 7, 2013 at 5 p.m. at an outdoor ceremony at Deer Creek Country Club in Overland Park.

Reverend Gary Benjamin of Garnett, cousin of the groom, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The retired minister officiating made the occasion even more memorable because he had also married the groom's parents 32 years earlier.

The bride is the daughter of Steve and Carol Holt of Overland Park. The groom is the son of Kenny and Cindy Lowe of Garnett, grandson of the late Gerald & Virginia Miller of Garnett, great grandson of Lois Miller of Garnett, who was in attendance, the late Frank Miller, and great grandson of the late Ruth Huggins of Kincaid, and the late Jesse Thompson of Garnett.

The ceremony took place amongst the lush foliage and pine trees next to the water with beautiful panoramic views. The altar was adorned with draping swags of white tulle with large cascading all white bouquets of roses, hydrangeas and assorted flowers affixed at the top corners. The rows of white chairs were marked with large white tulle bows on the aisle.

The scripture reading was 1 Corinthians 13:1-8. The "Wedding Song" played for the seating of the grandparents and mothers. The processional song was "Variations on the Canon", the bride's processional song was the "Bridesmarch" and the couple chose for their recessional "Signed, Sealed, Delivered" by Stevie Wonder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a strapless lace wedding gown with a sweetheart neckline and a full A-line skirt of soft tulle with scattered lace motif. The dropped waist corseted bodice of lace and chiffon ruching featured a pearl and Swarovski crystal belt motif at the waistline. The gown's train was bustled for the reception. Her hair was styled in an elaborate up do where her floor length bridal veil was attached. She carried an all white bouquet of roses and hydrangeas with the stems wrapped in white satin ribbon and tied with a large bow. Crisscrossed over the white satin was a length of baby blue satin ribbon with a dangling chain of Swarovski crystals ending with a large blue Swarovski heart. The bride wore a pearl necklace belonging to the groom's late grandmother.

Miss Haley Hutchinson of Overland Park, friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a floor length strapless navy gown featuring a sweetheart neckline with a corset back. She carried a bouquet of brightly colored roses, hydrangeas, and assorted colorful flowers with the stems wrapped in royal blue satin tied with a large bow. Kelsey Pulley of Kansas City, Mo., Lindsay Abbott of Kirksville, Mo., Megan Jaeger of Kansas City, Mo., and Courtney Dubbert of Overland Park, friends of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to that of the honor attendant with matching flowers.

Flower girl was Miss Lindsey Avila of Raytown, Mo., cousin of the bride.

The groom wore a medium grey tuxedo with a white shirt and a light grey vest and light grey tie. His boutonniere was a white rose and he wore his late grandfather's silver cufflinks.

Chance Lowe of Manhattan served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Travis Lowe of Lawrence, Cody Lowe of Overland Park, brothers of the groom, Alex Holt of Sigourney, Iowa, brother of the bride, and Brogen Katzer of Garnett, friend of the groom. The best man wore a medium grey tuxedo with white shirt and light grey vest and navy tie. His boutonniere was a yellow rose. The groomsmen attire and boutonnières were identical to the best man, as were the fathers of the bride and groom.

Ushers were Josh Sutton of Olathe; Jeremy Sutton of Olathe; JD Whiteside of Seattle, Wash.; Charlie King of New York City, N.Y.; and Tony Dowling of Houston, Texas, friends of the groom. They were attired in black tuxedos with white shirts and light grey vests and grey ties. Their boutonnieres were a yellow rose.

Ashley Holt and Caroline Holt of Eden Prairie, Minn.; Brenna Holt of Bonner Springs; Annie Hermesen of Overland Park; and Amanda Wynn of Spring, Texas, cousins of the bride, presided at the guest book and registered the guests.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a knee length navy dress with ruching and featured a navy lace neckline and lace cap sleeves with elaborate beading detail on the lace and scalloped edging on the neckline, sleeves and hemline.

The groom's mother selected a knee length dress of dusty blue chiffon with a corset sequin bodice and matching short sleeved lace jacket with sequin detail. She wore a vintage necklace in matching blue stones that had belonged to her late grandmother Ruth.

Both mothers wore wrist corsages of white roses and colorful flowers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a cocktail hour with hors d'oeuvre was provided at the country club for the guests while the wedding party was photographed. The bride's parents were hosts at a wedding reception dinner and dance in the Sunset room. The round reception tables were covered in long white tablecloths with an overlay of shimmering sheer light grey tulle edged in wide grey satin. Tables were decorated with candles and alternating tables featured either an elaborate centerpiece in a two foot tall mercury vase filled with white hydrangeas, orange tiger lilies, snapdragons and extreme heights of various green foliage from which tea lights hung, or a wide wreath of colorful assorted roses and flowers encircling a mirror centered with 3-tiered cylinders filled with floating candles. The chairs were covered in white cloth and tied at the back. The wedding party table was decorated with candles and rose petals scattered on top of the white tablecloth with the bridesmaids bouquets displayed in clear vases along the length of the long honor tables. The five tiered wedding cake of chocolate and strawberry centered a round table of sheer grey tulle edged in wide grey satin over a white tablecloth. The all white icing details of lace and a wide flowing icing ribbon draped one side from the top tier to the base. Brightly colored fresh flowers and rose petals were scattered on the table surrounding the cake and the cake was topped with fresh rose buds and assorted colorful flowers.

The reception featured a full buffet of prime rib, teriyaki salmon, pasta with chicken, and an assortment of side dishes. An open bar and candy buffet was featured with music provided by a DJ for dancing. After a wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, the couple resides in Overland Park.

Groomsmen were Tim Cavanaugh, friend of the groom, Toowoomba, Queensland, Australia; Sam Condon, friend of the groom, Dalby, Queensland, Australia; and Matthew Butler, friend of the groom, Armidale, New South Wales, Australia.

Hosts were Aaron Dunbar, brother of the bride, Princeton; Anne Hayden, sister of the groom, Brisbane, Queensland, Australia; and Anthony Hayden, brother of the groom, Richmond, Queensland, Australia.

Music was provided by the Ottawa University Suzuki Strings quartet.

A rustic arch, pots of mums, and aisle decorations with fall leaves decorated the setting.

A cocktail hour followed the ceremony in a tent on the farm grounds. A catered family-style candlelight dinner featuring Dunbar Farms beef tenderloin was served, followed by dancing. Emcees were Danielle Cupryk, friend of the bride, Kansas City, Mo., and Ashley Frazier, friend of the bride, London, England.

Jones defends controversial 'Religious Liberties Bill'

February 19, 2014
House Bill 2453

There has been noise over the recent passage of House Bill 2453 (Religious Liberties Bill) out of the Kansas House last week and with that, a substantial amount of wrong information.

Put simply, this bill protects personal liberty of conscience.

HB 2453 was written specifically to safeguard individuals, nonprofits, churches and small businesses from being sued or placed under legal obligation if they, due to issues of conscience, feel they cannot offer marriage-related services, including adoption and foster care, to someone.

Proponents of same-sex marriage have brought this issue to the fore in many states by requesting same-sex marriage-related services from individuals, churches, nonprofits and small businesses which they identify as not supportive of legalizing same-sex marriage. By suing them for declining to provide these services, it allows proponents to bypass public debate and fast track the issue to the courts.

Once these cases reach the courts, those decisions set precedent.

Legislative Update by Rep. Kevin Jones District 5

For example, Catholic Charities agencies in several states are being placed in a position of either shutting down or acting contrary to their core values in providing adoption services to same-sex couples. A florist in Washington State, who had a cordial rapport with regular customers, even as he knew they were in a same-sex relationship, was sued when he declined to serve as florist for their wedding ceremony. His legal battle has been untenable.

The ultimate goal of this non-legislative strategy is, of course, to overturn state statutes by winning in the courts through unelected judges rather than work through the legislative process.

The one and only provision HB 2453 offers is protection for individuals, churches, nonprofit and small businesses from being forced to choose between court, conscience, or closing up shop.

The bill is a preventative measure to keep this strategy from taking hold in Kansas as it has in other states. The state employee proviso protects someone from losing their job if, in the future, a federal court ruling were to supersede state law—a justice of the peace, for example.

In all cases, kindness and consideration trumps everything, but kindness should be a two-way street. Why would anyone who cares about tolerance wish to force others to act against conscience? If the goal is a wedding venue or flowers, there are florists aplenty; but that's not the endgame. The goal is to ignore separation of powers and push agendas through the courts rather than by rule of law—similar to what took place with Roe v. Wade.

HB 2453 provides no right for anyone to deny general services to, or otherwise discriminate against, anyone based upon sexual orientation or identity. The bill passed the House, 72 to 49, including "yes" votes from several Democrat legislators.

Suggestions that the bill would allow a restaurant to turn away customers or permit law enforcement officers to renege on their duties or restrict anyone from getting "their dog licensed or the water turned on in their home" are red herrings which derive from three camps: Those who understand the bill, but hope to advance the endgame of overturning Kansas' legal definition of marriage; those who do not understand the bill, but continue to pass along inaccuracies; and a third group—who know better, but prefer to sway with the wind rather than take a stand one way or the other.

Text of HB2453
The entire text of this bill can be found on the Kansas legislature website. Visit http://kslegislature.org/li/b2013_14/measures/hb2453/ and go to the "Bill Versions" section. In the table, click on the "As Amended by House Committee" pdf file in the "Documents" column.

Senate bill would keep lesser prairie chicken from fed's endangered list

February 14, 2014

Protecting Our State Sovereignty, and Capitol Murder Sentencing

Are you aware there is a state endangered species list and a federal endangered species list? The Senate passed Senate Bill (SB) 276 on a vote of 30-10. This bill would restrict the lesser prairie chicken from being added to the federal endangered species list. I support this effort. This is just another example of how the Federal Government is trying to micro-manage the states. If listed, the Federal Government would place restrictions that are invasive on land owners. It would restrict farmers in the way they plant or harvest and limit where we put our power lines and roads. We heard testimony in committee that the lower number of the lesser prairie chickens is related to the drought in Kansas and that they are a resourceful species. The birds are considered non-migratory and so the bill is challenging the Federal Government's jurisdiction.

Another Senate bill, SB 255, would require anyone convicted of attempted murder to be sentenced to life in prison and would not be eligible for parole for the first 25 years of imprisonment. This legislation would help ensure someone who attempted to commit murder is not given a lighter sentence because the victim survives the attack. The bill passed unanimously.

The Senate discussed House Bill (HB) 2389, which places a time limit on appeals for death penalty cases. The measure creates a three and half-year time limit for appeals to be heard and decided by the court. It also sets limits on the length of documents that can be filed in a death penalty appeal. The bill, passed by a vote of 27-13. I support the death penalty, however, I have concern over some of the limits imposed in this bill.

The House sent the Senate HB 2453, also known as the Religious Liberty Bill, for consideration. Since it is a House bill, I haven't had the opportunity to study the bill. I support the Kansas Constitution and the definition of marriage between a man and a woman. It is my understanding, the bill was introduced because of concern the U.S. 10th Circuit Court may rule on a law-suit in favor of same-sex marriage and possibly rule against our Constitution. (Again, the feds over-stepping). The intent of the bill is to protect religious liberties in our State. A majority of legislators support laws that define traditional marriage, protect religious institutions, and protect individuals from being forced to violate their personal moral values. It's important that all bills protect Kansas and that we avoid unintended consequences.

Editor's Note: Kansas Senate leaders said last week they will not consider the bill, effectively killing it.

Please contact me with any questions or comments via phone 785.296.6838; email Caryn.Tyson@senate.ks.gov; or by mail, at Kansas State Capitol, 300 SW 10th St., Topeka, KS 66612.

It is an honor and a privilege to serve as your 12th District State Senator.

Only Jesus proclaims living water

In John 7 we read of Jesus going to the Feast of Tabernacles. This is the longest festival of the Jewish year lasting seven days and is followed by the Jewish New Year and the Day of Atonement. It is a celebration of God's gracious provision for the Israelites in the wilderness and the completion of the year's harvest. There is a ceremonial water drawing commemorating the provision of water provided by God during the Israelites forty years of wandering in the wilderness.

It is in this setting that Jesus makes this proclamation. On the last day of the feast, the great day, Jesus stood up and cried out, "If anyone thirsts, let him come to me and drink. Whoever believes in me, as the scripture has said, 'Out of his heart will flow rivers of living water.'" (John 7:37-38)

In John 4 Jesus traveling through Samaria encounters a woman from Samaria. He asks the woman for a drink. When he engages her in conversation he says if she would have asked him for a drink he would have given her "living water." Initially the woman is interested because Jesus tells her that if she drinks of this "living water" she will never thirst again. As Jesus talks to her she realizes the "living water" he is referring to is the blessing of salvation.

By standing and making this proclamation at the climax of the feast Jesus repeated dramatically the message he had given the Samaritan woman. This is a powerful text. Jesus precludes no one from coming to him to quench their thirst. He states, "If anyone thirsts, let him come to me and drink." That is not for water to satisfy our natural thirst but for salvation. Even though the woman at the well desired to satisfy her urge for drinking water she realized that what Jesus offered was eternal not temporary. Jesus' point is all earthly pleasures are fading. Jesus issues an invitation. "Let him come to me and drink." Coming is the hard part. That is where we have to make a decision. That decision will change the direction of our life. It is an all or nothing decision. You cannot be partially committed to Christ. If you try to you will find you will be like the woman at the well was initially. Interested in the temporary not the eternal. Believers in Jesus receive the living water only he can give. Water that flows from the very throne of God.

AC girls win OT thriller over Central Heights

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - The Bulldogs rallied in the fourth quarter to tie the game and force overtime on their way to an exciting 37-36 win over the Vikings.

Central Heights started the game by outscoring Anderson County 8-6 in the first period.

The second quarter was just as close as the Vikings extended their lead slightly by outscoring the Bulldogs 9-8 to take a slim 17-14 lead at halftime.

Once again, in the third quarter neither team was able to get it going offensively as the Vikings again outscored the Bulldogs by just one to go into the fourth quarter leading 25-21.

The Bulldogs saved their best for the fourth quarter. The girls had their most productive quarter offensively as they scored 13 points, but a late three-pointer by the Vikings sent the game to overtime.

Neither team was able to do much of anything offensively in the overtime session. The Bulldogs did just enough as they outscored the Vikings 3-2 to pull out the victory.

The leading scorer for the Bulldogs was Paige Scheckel with 10 points and the Vikings were led offensively by Whitney Kraus who scored 11 points.

Box Score

Central Heights (36) - Kraus 11, Erhart 8, Hayward 8, Meyer 6, Markley 3
Anderson County (37) - Scheckel 10, McCullough 9, Porter 7, Rockers 7, Kueser 4

Central Heights rallies late to down Bulldogs

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Despite the final score, the game was much closer than it appeared. Central Heights pulled away late for a decisive 53-38 victory.

The Anderson County Bulldogs jumped up early on the Vikings taking a 13-10 lead into the second quarter.

The two teams played a back and forth second quarter as well. Central Heights chipped into the lead, outscoring the Bulldogs 12-10 in the period to make the halftime score 23-22.

Coming out of halftime, the Bulldogs appeared poised to upset the Vikings. Anderson County scored the first 7 points of the third quarter to jump on top 30-22.

The lead was short-lived though as the Vikings rallied to outscore the Bulldogs 15-5 the remainder of the third to take a 37-35 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

Viking head coach Rusty Cannady said, "During the third (quarter) we started with a little hiccup on both ends. We got anxious on offense and over aggressive on defense."

After the run by the Bulldogs to open the third quarter, Cannady told his team they just needed to refocus. "We have such great seniors, we knew they would regain their composure," he said.

Central Heights used the late third quarter run to gain momentum for a dominating fourth quarter. The Vikings outscored the Bulldogs 16-3, which was part of a decisive 31-8 run to end the game.

"We guarded extremely well in the fourth and broke their pressure for some easy buckets," Cannady said.

He also went on to say, "These kids are so fun to coach. They love playing the game with each other. That's all we ask. We couldn't be more proud of these kids."

Jordan Horstick paced the Vikings with 21 points and Tanner Erhart scored 15.

The Bulldogs had just one player in double figures as Zach Hilliard scored 10 points.

Box Score

Central Heights (53) - Davis 3, M. Brown 3, Horstick 21, Pryor 5, Erhart 15, Hendron 6
Anderson County (38) - Woodard 2, Brailler 9, Lickteig 2, Ratliff 3, Hillard 10, Small 6, Rundle 1, Walter 5

Crest boys struggle offensively

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - The Lancers woes on the offensive end were way too much to overcome in a disappointing 53-39 loss at home to Jayhawk-Linn on Thursday night.

The struggles were most apparent in the first as Crest was only able to muster 2 points as they quickly fell into an 11-2 hole against the Jayhawks.

It appeared in the second quarter that Crest was able to get out of their shooting drought as they put 13 points on the board. The Jayhawks responded by scoring 10 and still held a 22-15 lead at halftime.

The third and fourth quarters would see much more of the same offensive struggles as the Jayhawks would end up pulling away.

In the third quarter Crest was outscored 17-6 and in fourth quarter they were outscored 14-8.

Brock Ellis was the lone bright spot for Crest offensively as he paced the team with 17 points.

Box Score

Jayhawk-Linn (53) - Brown 2, Morrell 4, Miller 10, Leach 2, Mark 22, Matthews 2, Dawson 5, McGrew 6
Crest (29) - Frazell 5, Green 3, Ellis 17, Ramsey 2

Lebo blows past Crest boys

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

LEBO - The Crest boys let Lebo dictate the game in the decisive third quarter to pull away for a 63-32 win.

The Lancers got off to a slow start in the first quarter against Lebo falling behind 14-7.

Crest played much more competitively in the second period and limited Lebo to just 10 points and scored 11 of their own to cut the lead to 24-18 at halftime.

In the decisive third quarter, Lebo embarrassed the Lancers by putting up a whopping 29 points in the period compared to just 7 for Crest. That blew open a close game, which put the Wolves up 53-25 heading into the fourth.

Lebo padded their lead slightly in the fourth by outscoring Crest 10-7 to finish off the dominating victory.

Box Score

Crest (32) - Ellis 14, Godderz 7, Stephens 5, Brallier 2, Strickler 2, Ramsey 2
Lebo (63) - Gould 16, Barker 13, Milota 10, Muller 5, Walford 4, Ott 4, Krause 3, Baldwin 3, Holmes 2, Gould 2, Holmes 1

Pink tops Red in final game

GARNETT-Pink edged the Red squad 11-10 in the last Garnett Rec Department Biddy Basketball matchups last week.

Pink jumped out to an early lead in the first half on scoring by Jessica Akes, Kameron Simpson and Addison Peine. Pink's defense held Red to a bucket by Jenna Fritz and a free throw by Audrey Gruver. Pink had a dwindling margin at the end of the half 6-3.

Akes put another two on the board in the second half for Pink followed by buckets from Simpson and Linda Lattimer, but Red's strategy of double-teaming Ryelee Rockers shut down Pink's inside game. Fritz banked two more baskets in the second half and Mara Lutz hit two as well, but the effort was just shy of overcoming Pink's early lead.

Pink's defense put the game away in the final seconds with tough play from Carly Hicks, Avery Sumner and Carla Williams.

Bulldog boys, girls sweep Prairie View at home

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - On Monday night, the Bulldogs and Buffaloes squared off for the first of two times for the week. It was a makeup game for an earlier game postponed due to weather. The two teams faced each other again on Friday night.

The boys won 43-42 in a squeaker at home Monday.

In the first quarter, the Buffaloes staked themselves to an early 17-14 lead. The Bulldogs fought back and knotted the game up at 24 at halftime.

The AC boys clamped down defensively in the third period, holding the Buffaloes to just 2 points. This led to a 34-26 lead heading into the fourth.

The Buffaloes didn't go down easily. They battled back and outscored the Bulldogs 16-9 in the fourth quarter, but fell just short as Anderson County held on for the narrow victory.

Spencer Walter led the Bulldogs with 23 points, connecting on 7 three-pointers.

In girls' action on Monday, they also pulled out a hard fought victory defeating the Buffaloes 32-30.

On Friday night when the teams met again, this time in La Cynge, the girls' results were nearly identical as they hung on for a 35-30 win.

The boys weren't as successful though. They fell 60-49 to the Buffaloes on the road.

Uniontown cruises over Crest girls

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

UNIONTOWN - A strong first quarter showing gave the Crest Lancer girls a glimmer of optimism, but a dominating second quarter led to the Uniontown Eagles pulling away for an easy victory, 62-29.

The Lancers played the Eagles tight in the first quarter as they were within 4 heading into the second quarter, trailing 10-6.

As Uniontown outscored Crest 25-5 in the second period, they also crushed the hopes of pulling off the upset.

The momentum continued in the third quarter for the Eagles as they put up 19 more points in the quarter, compared to 9 by the Lancers.

With the game out of reach, Crest outscored Uniontown 9-8 in the fourth quarter to close out the game.

Crest dropped to 3-12 on the season as Uniontown improved their record to 8-9 with the victory.

Miranda Golden scored 9 points to lead the Lancers.

Box Score

Crest (29) - Golden 9, Godderz 8, Hammond 6, Seabolt 4, McCulley 2
Uniontown (62) - Shinn 15, Herring 2, Harper 11, Stokes 4, Covan 9, Farra 4, Robinson 14, Ridge 3

ECKAN offers scholarship opportunity for seniors

The East Central Kansas Economic Opportunity Corporation (ECKAN) announces its annual request for applications for a $500 college scholarship. ECKAN will award a $500 scholarship to graduating high school seniors who reside within its service area of Anderson, Coffey, Douglas, Franklin, Lyon, Miami, Morris and Osage counties.

ECKAN offers services for low-income children, families, and individuals that range from the Head Start program; housing, weatherization, commodity food, and clothing distribution; programs for seniors citizens, at-risk youth, and migrant farm workers; to emergency and disaster relief assistance.

The guiding philosophy behind all of these programs is to challenge the cycle of poverty through education and case management after basic needs have been met. ECKAN believes that by offering a college scholarship to a deserving low-income Kansas youth, the ascent from poverty can be strengthened through higher education.

The ECKAN scholarships are awarded annually each spring. The student's family income level must be 125%, or less, of poverty level guidelines (these guidelines are available at the ECKAN office) and the family must live in one of ECKAN's service areas. Applications must be received no later than April 4, 2014 for consideration.

To receive an application and additional information contact ECKAN central office at 1320 S. Ash, P. O. Box 40, Ottawa, KS 66067, phone #785-242-7450, your local ECKAN office or contact your school principal/guidance counselor.

ECKAN, one of eight community action agencies in Kansas, has been in existence since 1966 serving low-income persons in East Central Kansas. ECKAN's mission is to identify and focus available resources that enable eligible families and individuals to attain critical skills, knowledge and attitudes necessary to achieve self-sufficiency. Kansas book writing contest offered TOPEKA – Kansas First Lady Mary Brownback announced today the start of the Kansas Book Festival Writing Contest. The contest begins now and runs through April 30, 2014. Winners will be contacted by July 31 and announced at the 2014 Kansas Book Festival on September 13 at the Kansas State Capitol. The contest is open to students in grades 3-12 in the state of Kansas.

"The writing contest is in its third year and is thriving as we see the talent level of our future Kansas authors continue to grow," said Mary Brownback. "It is our hope that this writing contest will help spark a love for reading and writing among children across the state and inspire them to use writing as a creative outlet."

The theme for this year's contest is "My Journey on the Kansas Plains." The theme asks students to think back to what life might have been like for their friends and family in the early years of Kansas' statehood and to write a creative story depicting that life. There will be a first and second place winner in each grade level division, per congressional district. Divisions consist of the following: grades 3-5, grades 6-8, grades 9-12.

Of course I'd love for all of you to run a full page advertisement in this paper (charging!), but I know most of you never will. But I'll guarantee you if you sit down and design a full page ad for your business - one you never intend to publish - it'll help you sell more, nonetheless.

It's the same reason you remember more items on your grocery list if you write it down on the back of an envelope or something than if you just try repeating it to yourself as you drive to the grocery store (and, oncoming drivers won't think you're talking to your imaginary friend in the seat beside you). The two-dollar psychology word for it is elaborative encoding - increasing the number of ways and the effort you engage in experiencing a bit of information helps you encode it better in your brain.

So take a piece of paper and sketch your "pretend" full page ad. What headline would you use to punch out those main selling points? What is it you're trying to convey? What's the urge to action for the customer? Is this price specific, or more designed to communicate an important concept about your business like service or commitment to customers and the community? Does every customer get a free blueberry muffin if they come in on Tuesday?

Write it down right there on the paper the way you'd do it if you were really running the ad. Draw a picture of your product or the main art element of your ad and then make fun of your stick people - the important thing isn't any art award you may win, but the fact that you have exercised your brain with a workout focusing on your business and how to sell its wares.

A precedent-setting decision by the Kansas Supreme Court in a case involving the manufacture of methamphetamine in Anderson County could end up reducing the sentences of up to 420 felons serving time in Kansas prisons. The case involved a conflict between two Kansas laws, which considers the manufacture of methamphetamine a class one felony and one, which considers the compounding of methamphetamine a class three felony. Class one felonies carry much longer sentences than do class three felonies. In the case of Kansas vs. Brian Keith McAdam, the Kansas Supreme Court ruled that compounding and manufacturing are the same crime, and ordered a re-sentencing hearing for McAdam.

The taxes had been assessed on the club following a State Board of Tax Appeals ruling that the clubhouse was not exempt from taxation. Solander reported the taxes were $420-430.

These bean pods are from a huge mesquite tree in Blanco (White) Canyon, Texas.

Now you're cooking, with mesquite

How many of you can identify these bean pods with the worm holes in them? Well if you guessed MESQUITE, you're absolutely correct. Now we all know they're not exactly artifacts, don't we? They certainly do have a historical background, however.

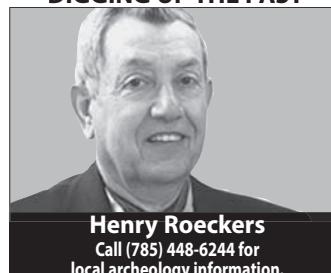

I picked these bean pods up from under a huge mesquite tree on the campgrounds of Francisco Vasquez de Coronado (1542) in Blanco (White) Canyon, Texas.

Mesquite is a leguminous plant. These deciduous trees can reach a height of 20-30 ft., although in most of their range they are shrub size. Some common species of mesquite are honey, velvet, creeping and screw bean. The new growth has needle-sharp thorns up to 3" long. The spines are tough enough to penetrate the soft soles of sneakers or similar footwear, and can easily puncture tires.

Mesquite is extremely hardy, drought-tolerant plant because it can draw water from the water table through its long tap root (longest ever recorded: 190 ft. deep).

The trees flowers produce a nectar source for bees to produce mesquite honey.

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roekers

Call (785) 448-6244 for local archeology information.

A little something extra

The bean pods can be dried and ground into flour, adding a sweet, nutty taste to breads, or used to make jelly or wine. Mesquite flour is used in breads, pancakes, muffins, cakes and even cookies. Mesquite powder is high in calcium, magnesium, potassium, iron and zinc, and is rich in the amino acid Lysine. It is unwise to eat these beans raw; they should be cooked to destroy harmful proteins.

Mesquite wood is very hard, allowing it to be used for making furniture and implements.

Mesquite-wood roasting or grilling is used to smoke-flavor steaks, chicken, pork and fish. Mesquite smoke flavoring can be added to vegetables stir-fries, scrambled eggs, soups and even ice cream.

A big thank you goes out to Shirley Roekers for sharing this photo of their tiny Frozen Charlotte Doll. Shirley's husband Richard found this little doll while conducting an excavation here in Garnett about three years ago. If you look closely you will see both of her little hands are missing, other than that she is perfect. Please note she only measures 1 3/4" long.
