Rural rollover wreck injures Garnett men

Driver was going too fast for conditions on curve, sheriff says

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A Garnett man was listed in serious condition at a Kansas City hospital after a one-vehicle rollover wreck early Saturday morning southeast of Garnett. Another Garnett man also was injured in the wreck, while a third apparently escaped injury.

Joseph Strobel, 28 of Garnett, was listed in serious condition Monday morning at the University of Kansas Hospital, where he was taken by air ambulance after the wreck. Brogen Katzer, 26 of Garnett, also was injured in the wreck and taken to Anderson County Hospital, where he was treated and released that same day. A third occupant, Blayne Keith, 28 of Garnett, was not injured.

Strobel was driving eastbound on 1600 Road near Oregon Road, and apparently was traveling too fast for the conditions, according to a report from Anderson County Sheriff Vern Valentine. Strobel lost control of the vehicle around a curve, causing it to spin sideways and roll on the gravel road at about 2:20 a.m. Saturday, May 3.

Strobel and Katzer had to be extricated from the vehicle, Valentine said.

Girls hurt in ATV wreck

Iola girls, ages 12 & 9, taken to Allen County Hospital after wreck

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY — Two young girls from Iola were injured when an ATV flipped over in a ditch near Colony Sunday, April 27.

Breanna D. Brockman, 26, of Colony, was driving an ATV eastbound on Jefferson Road at about 5 p.m., with two children riding on the vehicle.

She apparently was driving too fast for conditions when she attempted to turn south onto East County Road, according to a report from the Kansas Highway Patrol. The ATV turned over in the ditch, and Brockman and the two girls flew from the vehicle and struck a metal fence.

One of the girls, Elizabeth Crawford, 12 of Iola, was taken to Allen County Hospital with serious injuries. Another girl, Hanna Smith, 9, of Iola, also was taken to Allen County Hospital with injuries. A report on their condition was not immediately available.

Brockman was not injured. The patrol's report said Brockman was not wearing a helmet, but did not specify if the girls were wearing helmets.

New law makes info for search warrants public

Kansas makes affidavits available after search warrants completed

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA — Kansas Legislators Friday night passed a new law that makes public the court affidavits used to base arrest warrants, and makes affidavits for search warrants available to the owners and residents of the property's being searched.

Those affidavits have been sealed in Kansas since the late 1970s, leaving Kansas as virtually the only state in the union to keep such records hidden from the public eye.

The law affects various members of the public seeking information about arrests, from family members of those arrested and those detained themselves, to crime victims and their families as well as the media, which frequently uses such reports to get information in news reporting.

Kansas newspapers and broadcasters had been lobbying for the opening of those records for years, but it took a search warrant case in Johnson County two years ago to rally legislative support. In that case, a Johnson County couple — former agents with the CIA who had federal security clearances

Nobody wants county's top zoning job

County still looking to fill part-time zoning director position

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — It seems to be a job no one wants.

Anderson County Commissioners are advertising, again, for the position of part-time zoning director after no one applied the last time they tried to fill the position. The previous zoning director moved for a job in Nebraska, after serving the post for only a few months.

In fact, over the past few years it has been difficult for the county to find anyone to serve the position for very long. Deputy Zoning Director Michelle Miller, who serves as interim zoning director when the position is vacant, doesn't want the job. Neither does anyone else, it seems.

Anderson County Clerk Phyllis Gettler said she isn't sure why no one applied for the position when it was advertised a few weeks ago. Although the position requires its director to understand zoning regulations, it would not be difficult to learn those regulations, she said. At times, the zoning director could encounter resistance from someone who disagrees with zoning rules, and that might intimidate potential candidates. As a part-time position, the county pays $15 per hour without benefits like health insurance. The previous zoning director's had office hours from 9 a.m. to noon on Tuesdays, and attended zoning board meetings on Monday nights, although his hours increased during busy periods.

Weekend packed with activities

Square Fair, Second Saturdays, Air Fair among the events

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — This weekend, tradition will be piled on top of tradition to combine the 42nd Annual Square Fair with a new event that harkens back to a bygone era in downtown Garnett.

Second Saturdays will bring back a tradition from Garnett's heydays, when the community gathered downtown to shop, socialize and participate in a drawing for silver dollars. If your name was drawn, you won the pot. But if your name was drawn and you weren't present, the money was put back into the pot for the next drawing.

This year, that tradition will return for the first Second Saturdays event on Saturday, May 10. Shoppers at participating businesses will offer golden tickets to customers in advance of the drawing. At 6 p.m. Saturday on the courthouse lawn, a ticket will be drawn and the winner will receive $50 in gold dollar coins. The ticket-holder must be present to win, or the money will be added to the next Second Saturdays drawing.

Second Saturdays also will offer a variety of entertainment in the downtown area.

It will coincide with the annual Square Fair, a staple of the community for the past 42 years. Square Fair was introduced by the local chapter of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and now is presented by the Garnett Business and Professional Women. It offers a combination craft fair, business booths, food vendors and farmers' market and traditionally has been held the second Saturday in May, the day before Mothers' Day, on the courthouse lawn.

This year, many of the activities surrounding Square Fair

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONER APRIL 21

Johnson, Present; Eugene Highberger, Present; Jerry Howarter, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as presented.

Road and Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor, met with the commission. Bob Hiner was also present. Bob stated that he does not agree with the determination on the road by his barn. He does not feel the barn was in a flood plain when the county built the road up. Lester stated that the work on the road was done over 20 years ago and there has not been a problem since until the recent rain. The options allowing more water drainage would be to put in a span bridge, or another box culvert which would run about $35,000. Bob would like the road cut down 6-8 inches. He feels the rip rap that has been put in the ditch is cutting off the relief for the water coming up to the box culvert that is there now. Lester stated that if he cut the road down it would cause a dip that people driving the road will not like. He also does not feel the county should have to do anything since there has not been a problem until this one rain. Commissioner Highberger moved to sign the agreement for sharing public works department equipment if needed. Commissioner Howarter seconded. Approved 3-0. Commissioner Highberger moved to sign an agreement with KDOT to lay dust control in front of the homes on 2100 Road and 2200 Road and Chase Road in conjunction with the detour for the bridge on Hwy 31. - were detained and their home searched in what turned out to be a marijuana growing investigation by local law enforcement. The raid on the property found no growing operation, and it took the property owners over a year and $25,000 in legal fees to finally convince a judge to release the "probable cause" affidavit to them.

The initial bill was written and brought to the House floor by Representative Paul Rubin of Shawnee.

Once released, the couple found out they were targeted because the man had visited a hydroponics store for watering equipment for his indoor greenhouse, and his wife had thrown out leafy specialty tea refuse in their garbage. No evidence for charges was found as a part of the search.

Under the new law, prosecutors and courts will have up to five days to "redact" or edit out certain information that's exempt under the Kansas Open Records Act, such as names of confidential informants, undercover officers, etc. Search warrant affidavits will still be sealed from public view, but will be provided to residents or property owners of the searched properties.

Kansas closed the records after a 1978 controversy in which Topeka Daily Capital reporter Sherry Pigg used affidavit information to publish a story that Shawnee County officers were seeking to arrest two men. The county prosecutor at the time asked Pigg not to publish the story until the men were arrested for fear it might hamper law officers ability to find them. The newspaper published the names, and one of the men was never found.

The newspaper was charged and found guilty in district court of unlawful disclosure of a warrant, but the verdict was overturned in the Kansas Supreme Court when it was found the disclosure was legal and that Kansas had no laws against truthful reporting.

Vernon Miller, Kansas Attorney General at the time, became incensed over the incident and convinced the Kansas Legislature to seal the records to keep them away from newspapers and the media. The new law was opposed by Kansas prosecutors and some law officers, and at one time was killed in the Senate Judiciary Committee after passing the House by a large margin. The compromise bill eventually passed both houses with no opposing votes.

The Kansas Press Association led the lobby effort on behalf of Rubin's bill, with broad support by newspapers across the state. An editorial cartoon drawn by Garnett's Fred Campbell and a piece written by Review publisher Dane Hicks were published in multiple newspapers across the state in support of the new legislation.

"This is a great day for open government in Kansas," said Doug Anstaett, executive director of the Kansas Press Association. "The citizens of our state can now know more about what law enforcement and prosecutors are doing when arrests take place."

ZONING...

"It's an important position," Gettler said. "You have to keep everybody in the county operating under the same zoning regulations so you don't have disagreements between neighbors."

She cited some examples about the importance of zoning regulations. Zoning rules determine what types of buildings can be built and where, in order to prevent situations like a building that blocks line of sight for motorists on rural roads. The rules could prevent someone from setting up a business that would introduce noise, pollution or other hazards in an area not designated for such a use. The two people who served as zoning director most recently worked hard to enforce cleanup of a former Welda business that burned, Gettler said. Without someone to enforce the rules, such eyesores may go untouched.

"People don't always agree with it, but that's how we know what's going on out there," she said.

Historically, zoning regulations were handled for many years by the county's extension agent. In the 1990s, Larry Walrod was hired specifically to establish better zoning laws for the county. He left in the late 1990s for a position in Franklin County.

Miller, the deputy zoning director, said the period of instability in zoning began about two to three years ago, after two full-time employees

- the county engineer and then-county zoning director - left the department. What had been a three-person department dwindled to just one person, Miller, except during short periods of time when the county hired a zoning director. Miller juggles a variety of roles including responsibilities with the road and bridge department, sanitation, landfill and the Welda sewer department as well as zoning. County commissioners recently voted to pay Miller an extra $250 per month to handle interim zoning responsibilities.

Without a zoning director, Miller estimates about 25 percent of her time is spent on zoning issues. Spring typically is a busy time of year for zoning, as more people start to think about building projects after winter. She pointed to a recent zoning issue that took a considerable amount of time. Someone purchased land intending to establish a business, but 10 of 18 neighbors attended a meeting to protest the matter. The zoning board recommended county commissioners deny the permit, and they did.

"It gets tricky," Miller said. "Not everybody's happy when you tell them what they can and can't do on their property."

Miller said she believes the lack of interest in the position could be attributed to the fact that it is only a part-time job. She said the position could be ideal for someone who is retired or semi-retired with a zoning background, but she's not sure there are many people like that in the area.

De-Kremlin-izing Kansas arrest records

In late March I wrote about a bill that had been torpedoed in the Kansas Senate Judiciary Committee that would unseal the affidavits upon which arrest and search warrants are based. My judgment was that, hey, if the cops lock up your kid or your grandma but end up not charging them with a crime, you or them or anybody for that matter ought to still have a right to know the reason they were arrested in the first place.

Up until last Friday night, the county prosecutor or sheriff or police chief or district judge didn't have to tell you. Literally, in Kansas, you or a loved one could be arrested, detained and released – even multiple times – and you had absolutely no right to find out why if charges were never filed.

It was a lot like the way the Russians handle things, you know. A car pulls up and two guys haul your husband off with no explanation.

Well, Kansas legislators repealed that law Sunday night with some new provisions that make the situations surrounding arrests more open in Kansas. The story around it strikes me with just how important elected officials can be – either for or against – the idea of and the pursuit of open government.

“Probable cause” affidavits – the written reasoning given by prosecutors for search warrants and arrest warrants – were open in Kansas until the late 1970s. The Topeka paper published a story with info from those affidavits after a county prosecutor asked them to hold publication until cops could arrest the guys. One of them got away, and newspaper was charged and convicted by the local judge of unlawful disclosure of a warrant.

Of course there was nothing “unlawful,” – they were public records, after all – and the conviction was overturned by the state supreme court. But it was enough to convince Attorney General Vern Miller to pop out of a car trunk and into the Legislature to get those affidavits sealed. So for 40 years, as other states repealed laws that restricted the public's right to know, Kansas built walls between government records and the public eye – to the point that Kansas became the only state in the union to seal those affidavits.

Of course, if you asked Vern Miller, he would have told you he was 100 percent in favor of open government. Yessiree-bob. This is 'Murica, and the public's got a right to know. Most all of your elected officials probably tell you the same. I've been in the news biz here nearly 30 years and I've never heard anybody run for office and say something like, “Open government? We don't need no stinking open government!”

Of course it's easy to get mad at the newspaper or TV station, because us scum only want to sell papers or win awards or get advertisers – not to mention make the lives of all those well-meaning elected officials more difficult – so it's easy to understand why a tiff between the Topeka paper and the local prosecutor would have motivated the complete censoring of an entire class of government document that used to be public record. Yeah, makes lots of sense, especially since everybody agrees open government is good, right?

Ah, there's always an “unless.” And it's up to the public and to the media to constantly hammer at the people we elect to make them understand that there's no “unless,” – you either have open government, or you don't.

We have a right to know how our government operates; we have a right to know what reasoning it uses to justify jailing us or taxing us or charging us with a crime or making laws that bind us or how it spends the money it takes from us. Anything that impedes that is wrong, and your elected officials will always tell you they believe that – right up to the point they need to cover their behind or their buddy's.

I'm proud of the way Kansas newspapers and Rep. Paul Rubin of Shawnee pushed for this new law, and I'm proud of the roll the Review and cartoonist Fred Campbell – a former Anderson County prosecutor – had in driving the point home statewide. When the law takes effect in July, there will be a little more light shining on government in Kansas.

Thank you to all the busy young people who made time to donate blood.

Yeah, I just wanted to say I think there's something wrong with the system when a repeat offender commits another crime just to get put back into the county jail so that he can he can have his medical services taken care of for free at the expense of the county. I don't know how this tradition got started but that's just ridiculous. That's just a criminal seeking to continue to fleece the county and not be accountable for his own health care. That's all I've got to say. Thank you.

Seriously? A grown man can't ride his bicycle around town in Garnett, Kansas, to try to beat the gas prices without people thinking he's got a DUI? Please. Give me a break.

Challenge to Hillary is Democratic win-win

Hillary Clinton is in a formidable position to win the Democratic presidential nomination in 2016, should she decide to run. But someone else also is in an enviable position: Whoever challenges her.

The dynamics of the Democratic 2016 race so far feel more like an incumbent president clearing the primary field of any potential spoilers prior to a re-election bid rather than a wide-open nomination contest. At this early juncture, the question is not so much who will be her opponent(s), but whether she will have any, or even one.

She certainly should. Any serious Democrat with some gumption and ambition would be a fool to pass up the race based on the forecast of a Clinton coronation. Running against Hillary in 2016 is the greatest growth opportunity in the Democratic Party.

Whoever runs against Hillary will, for at least some period of time, be the hottest thing in American politics. On the cover of Time. Interviewed on all the Sunday shows. A figure of fascination whose every move is followed obsessively by every political outlet in the nation.

All of this happens right out of the gate. It would be a massive barrage of free advertising in exchange for the act of showing up. What politician with national aspirations wouldn't want such a prominent platform?

What he or she would do with it is anyone's

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

guess. That would depend on the proficiency and message of the challenger's campaign, but history suggests that it would more likely than not get some traction.

As much as politics abhors a vacuum, the media hate a stale political narrative. Watching Hillary Clinton march unopposed to the Democratic nomination would be nightmare of tedium for journalists who thrive on conflict and drama. The rooting interest of the press will be for someone to run against Hillary, and to make a real race of it.

As a presidential campaign, Hillary Clinton 2.0 so far looks as though it will be like Hillary Clinton 1.0, only more so. Her campaign will operate on the basis of sheer blunt political force and cold hard cash. Its rationale will be inevitability and the history-making prospect of the first woman president.

She is very unlikely to face anyone with the sheer political skill of Barack Obama, or with a narrative that fits the moment as precisely as his did in 2008. But she hasn't changed. Some of the same factors that accounted for her vulnerability last time haven't gone away: She lacks a deft political touch; the energy of the party is to her left; she has a resume, but not accomplishments; she is cautious to a fault.

There will be a tendency among some Democrats to want to see Hillary spared the rigors of a competitive nomination battle. This is a mistake. The only thing worse for Democrats than Hillary getting roughed up in the primaries would be her getting nominated without any chance to exercise her atrophied political muscles.

Whoever runs against her would in fact be doing her a kind of service, although surely an unappreciated one. And who knows? Hillary's prospective candidacy may look unbeatable, but she's been inevitable before.

Budget procedures were a little unsettling

The Kansas Legislature passed the state budget early Saturday, and while that's probably a good thing, there is this little procedural business in getting it passed that is troubling.

In combination with the clock and weariness of legislators, the state's budget for the coming fiscal year was essentially written by four people. Yes, just four people.

There are still 40 senators and 125 state representatives, and the House and Senate have budget committees that consider the budget bills they send to the full House and Senate for debate. Sounds pretty orderly.

But this year for the first time, the House passed a budget whose provisions never spent a minute being debated by the full House. The budget—as it was presented to the House—was assembled by two Republican senators and two Republican representatives, and sent to the full House for a simple up-or-down vote. That's it.

The Senate earlier this spring passed a complete budget bill that established the chamber's position on how to spend taxpayers' money. The House never did. Instead, the House agreed to a conference committee report—that's the product of what became two House and two Senate leadership-appointed negotiators' views on the budget. Democrats on the conference committee were jettisoned by an agree-to-disagree motion that made them unnecessary to pass the final conference committee report to each chamber.

Once the conference committee report

STATE COMMENTARY

reached each chamber, it was “yes,” pass it and go home or “no,” don't pass it and sit around while a new spending package is assembled.

Is this under-the-Dome stuff? Yes, but it's also Kansas government. Most Kansans' legislators didn't get a chance to propose amendments or spending that might be good for their constituents.

Seems a little less-than representative government, but in Kansas Republicans have strong majorities in both the House and Senate, and conservatives among the Republicans have strong majorities within their party in both chambers.

And, if Democrats, or maybe short people, had majorities it's hard to believe that they wouldn't use the same, if relatively unsettling, tactics to put together a budget they want. If you have the votes, you can pretty well determine what happens. No doubt about that.

And, this is the second year of a budget cycle and most of this budget bill was tune-ups to financing government that couldn't be foreseen last year. Things change and most of the new budget was making more than 100 small tweaks to the year-old budget.

But there is this business about the House approving on a take it or leave it basis a budget that most of the members didn't have any chance to offer amendments to, or at least to debate in a manner that might see their views included.

Now, the dollars and cents probably got to agencies and programs that need the money but the process was a little unsettling for long-time Legislature-watchers. House members who wanted little changes didn't get a chance to propose them on behalf of their constituents.

Not-quite schoolbook representative government, but it worked, and the budget is passed, the legislative session was adjourned faster than any in the past 40 years and legislators are back home again. That may be good enough...

Cindy Ecclefield, County Coordinator for Anderson Co. Farm Bureau, Garnett, announced winners in the Kansas Farm Bureau Safety Poster Program for Anderson County.

Adults agree that child safety is an important topic; the trick is getting the kids to agree.

In an effort to reduce accidents by developing "safety-minded" youth, Kansas Farm Bureau has sponsored the KFB Safety Poster Program for over 50 years.

Each year thousands of youth in grades 1-6 participate statewide. Posters are judged on the county Farm Bureau level with the winning poster from each of the three divisions submitted for judging at the state level.

Those posters were narrowed down to the top 10 in each division then judged by a team of volunteers to determine the winning posters.

"An effective safety poster displays one main idea says, "Cindy Ecclefield, Anderson County Farm Bureau Coordinator. "We've seen some great posters over the years. It's always interesting to see what safety topics the kids choose for their posters."

There were 213 entries from Anderson County.

Winners in Division I (Grades 1-2) were: first place, Zeke Brown, Garnett Elementary; second place, Rhett Davison, Garnett Elementary; third place, Caleb Yoder, Mont Ida Grade School and honorable mention, Sophia Jones, Greeley Grade School.

Winners in Division II (Grades 3-4) were: first place, Morgan Sumner, Garnett Elementary; second place, Khloe Utley, Crest; third place, Reggi Lickteig, Greeley Grade School; honorable mention, Karyn Yoder, Mont Ida Grade School.

Winners in Division III (Grades 5-6) were: first place, Teresa Yoder, Mont Ida Grade School; second place, Kegan C. Katzer, Garnett Elementary; third place, Baylee Blaufuss, Garnett Elementary and honorable mention Heather Holstine, Garnett Elementary.

Cindy is proud to announce that Teresa Yoder was awarded Honorable Mention in the state for Division III. Teresa is the daughter of Laverne & Liz Yoder, Welda and is a 5th grader at Mont Ida Grade School. Her poster was about being safe around grain silos. Teresa received a certificate of achievement from Kansas Farm Bureau.

On the county level first, second and third place winners will receive a personalized medallion & certificate and honorable mention will receive a ribbon & certificate.

Simple question: 'Do you believe?'

In John 9 Jesus heals a man born blind. The disciples ask Jesus, "Rabbi who sinned this man or his parents that he was born blind?" Many Jews believed that every physical misfortune was God's punishment for some specific sin. Jesus dismisses this as an improper explanation of what occurred. Jesus' answer to their question was this man was born blind so that the works of God might be displayed in him.

Jesus spat on the ground and made mud with the saliva. He put the mud on the man's eyes and told him to go wash in the pool of Siloam. So the man did as he was told and came back seeing. This creates a stir among the neighbors who knew the man. Some of them were convinced that this was indeed the beggar who was blind. Others believed it was someone who looked just like him. He kept saying "I am the man." They then questioned him about how his eyes were opened and he related how Jesus had made mud and applied it to his eyes and he then went to the pool of Siloam and washed and received his sight. They ask him where Jesus was and he said "I don't know."

They then took him to the Pharisees the governing body. They were angry because Jesus had healed the man on the Sabbath. When they questioned him he told them how Jesus had made mud and applied to his eyes and he had gone to Siloam and washed and received his sight. They ask him, "what do you say about him since he opened your eyes." The man said "He is a prophet".

The Jews then called the man's parents because they did not believe the man was born blind. Out of fear his parents confirmed he was born blind and they knew not how he had received his sight. The Jews called the man a second time and mandated that he give the glory to God for receiving his sight. They then accused Jesus of being a sinner. The man said, "Whether he is a sinner I do not know. One thing I do know that though I was blind now I see." When the man answered them by saying, "We know that God does not listen to sinners, but if anyone is a worshiper of God and does his will, God listens to him." They then cast him out.

When Jesus heard that they had cast him out he went and found him. Jesus then asks the man "Do you believe in the Son of Man?" The man answered, "and who is he sir, so I may believe in him?" Jesus said, "You have seen him and it is he who is speaking to you." The man said "Lord I believe." The progression of this man's faith started with him saying a man gave me sight. As his spiritual eyes are opened he then refers to Jesus as a prophet and then as Messiah. I don't know where you are at in your faith journey but at some point you will have to answer the same question. "Do you believe?"

LAND & HOME REVIEW

How to scout out the best place to call home

Once you've become pre-qualified for a loan, you should be ready to put your house-hunting efforts into full gear. But don't skip the important step of scouting out neighborhoods before you start your search for the perfect house.

The neighborhood in which you live will heavily dictate your whole way of life-things like walking to a nearby park with your kids, knowing your kids are attending good schools, feeling safe when your children play outdoors, being close to restaurants and shopping, enjoying a short commute, and knowing your home will appreciate at a healthy rate.

Of course one way to get started in your neighborhood search is to get in your car and explore, especially if you're unfamiliar with the area. Get an idea about the neighborhoods by driving around and seeing which areas appeal to you. Walk around, explore, and talk to some of the residents.

Take note of the general appearance of the homes. Are they well maintained? Are they nicely landscaped?

If you have children, you might be looking for a neighborhood with plenty of children around, as opposed to neighborhoods that attract more seniors or young singles.

Other factors you'll want to consider are the schools, crime, your family's specific needs, and appreciation - as in how much the value of the home is likely to increase.

A good Realtor will be very familiar with all the neighborhoods in the area and should be able to tell you about the strengths and weaknesses of the specific neighborhoods you're eyeing.

West Franklin sweeps Vikings

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

POMONA - The Vikings continue to struggle as they were swept 9-3 and 8-5 in a doubleheader on Monday, April 28.

In the opener, the Falcons jumped up early and never looked back as they cruised to a 9-3 victory.

Merrick Brown led the club offensively with two hits and two runs batted in.

In the final game of the evening, the Vikings came up just short by a score of 8-5.

"We can't get that key hit or key defensive play we need to get us over the hump," Vikings head coach Jason Brown said.

This was especially evident as the second game of the night was tied at five late in the game.

"We had a bad seventh inning and then they picked up a key hit," Brown said as he hopes his guys keep their heads up despite the struggles. "We are playing hard, but we are just not getting the results we want," he says.

Jacob Pryor was 3-4 and scored a run to lead the club offensively. Jacob Anderson was 1-2 in the second game and scored twice.

ACHS Drama Club to have annual Demy Awards

The Anderson County Drama Club is proud to announce the 11th annual AC Demy Awards to be held Friday, May 9, at 7 p.m. in the ACHS Auditorium. "This is our version of the Academy Awards," states Vicki Markham, Drama Club Sponsor. "It's a lot of fun to get together and recapture all the fond memories from this year's productions." There will be 17 awards presented, including Best Actor in a Leading Role, Best Actress in a Leading Role, Breakthrough Male and Breakthrough Female. Any student who has participated in any production was eligible for an award. Local patrons who attended the plays were given the nominees and each category was narrowed down to the top five. Drama Club members and the public then voted on their favorites and that is how the winners were determined. Two special awards will be handed out at the end of the night: Big Dawg Thespian Award, awarded to the senior who has contributed the most to theatre during his/her high school career, and Outstanding Performance, an award given out by Mrs. Markham to the top performance of the year according to her.

Each winner will receive a D-O-G, the trophies that are provided by the Friends of the Arts. There will be entertainment provided by ACHS students. This is the seniors' final good-bye to ACHS. This is free and open to the public. Come support the Arts at ACHS and join in the fun!

Lions Club has good program

The Garnett Lions hosted the annual Farmers Night, Monday, April 21, at the Garnett VFW with the largest crowd in several years. A meal prepared by the VFW was enjoyed by Lions and Farmer guests.

The program was on the NBAF (National Bio & Agro-Defense Facility) campus being built in conjunction with Kansas State University.

Here to present the program were Ron Trewyn and Sue Peterson. Ron is Chief Research Officer of KSU and director of NBAF. Sue is his assistant and the liaison for KSU to the legislature and congress.

Ron presented slides and talked about the research campus located near and associated with KSU. He told of the selection of Manhattan over six other sites, three finalists. Construction has started with some research to start in 2016. There are six major diseases in animals, three of which can be passed to humans, they will be researching to find treatment for them. He stressed the safety measures being taken in construction and for workers. This was a very informative and interesting presentation.

What's your spiel?

So you think you know your product, your service and your business.

Oh yeah? Then tell me about it.

"Well, uh, we sell carpet, and, well....uhhhm..."

Wow. You just got me so excited I thought it was my junior year prom night all over again.

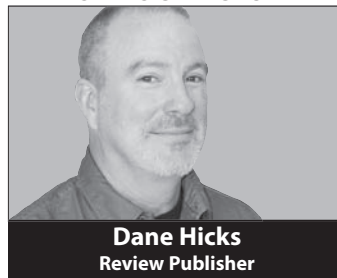

Come on. If you're at a cocktail party or the golf course or your kids' soccer match — anywhere — and somebody you've just been introduced to says something like "now, what is it again that you do?" you should be locked and loaded with your 60-second spiel.

They used to call it an "Elevator Speech" — the idea being that you condense a synopsis on your business to the point that you can deliver it start-to-finish to someone on an elevator as you ride between floors. They used to figure it should be no more than two minutes in length, but in these days of sound bytes and Internet impatience, two minutes seems long enough to grow your own turnips. Make it 30-45 seconds- one minute tops.

1) Define your schpeel from your customers' standpoint. Think of a time a customer praised you and remember why it was important to him/her. For instance, you didn't just do someone's hair at your salon; you made someone feel attractive and confident and noticed for the first time in years. Think about the sizzle, not the steak.

2) Put the "hook" up front. In the news biz we say "don't bury the lead" and you shouldn't either. The strongest point of your business is... what? It should be first out of your mouth. My business is publishing, so do I sell ads? No, "I use

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Review Publisher

everything from newspapers, social media, Google Ads and printed pencils to bring you an audience of customers."

3) After the hook, throw in some history. Everyone knows Steve Jobs started Apple Computer in his folks' garage — how did your business start? People like a little trivia, so use it.

4) Who do you serve? What problem do you solve? What's your price range? Ever win an award?

5) Wrap it up by going back to the beginning and restate part of your hook, and finish up as you hand this person your business card.

Lastly, write this down. Hand write it, don't type it, and practice it with a friend or staff member. It may feel silly, but it will help you sell stuff.

Second Saturdays begin May 10

GARNETT - Some remember the good ole days when families and friends gathered in the business districts on Saturday and those gatherings lasted into the night. People did their shopping, but for many it was a time to socialize and maybe enjoy what entertainment was available. Back in Garnett's hay day, the children, now grown adults, remember a special drawing that was held on the town square on Saturdays. You had to be present to win. If you were and your name was drawn you won some silver dollars.

If you weren't present, the dollars were tossed back into the pot to accumulate for the next drawing. The Creative Business Partnerships Committee, Garnett Tourism and the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce have teamed up to help foster a series of events they hope will take root in Garnett called, "Second Saturdays". Similar to First Fridays, art walks, or other such events held in other cities, Second Saturdays is designed to bring fulfillment and enjoyment to the community. The Second Saturdays project is funded by the participating businesses. The idea to have Second Saturdays came from Tami Hiestand, chairman of the Creative Business Partnerships.

Second Saturdays will be held May 10, June 14 and July 12, and will serve as a testing ground to see how locals and visitors alike will embrace an atmosphere of shopping, eating, music and art. This is a profound collaboration between the businesses, restaurants, local/regional talent, and the general public. Participating businesses will be creating their own "house warming" environment. "This is the opportunity for restaurants and businesses to develop relationships with those who step foot in their doors," says Susan Wettstein, one of the event organizers. "Second Saturday businesses are looking forward to having a great time and that's what it is all about. Being in business should be fun." Some businesses will have gatherings, tastings, and their own contests and promotions, while others such as a participating salon will offer mini nail polishing, haircuts, and other specials to give friends a reason to get together for a little pampering and chat session!"

Second Saturdays entertainment is being scheduled and includes a variety of bands, individual singers, artists and authors, including bands such as Honky Tonk Legend, The Tone Benders, The James Webster Band and the Garnett Area Community Band; singers such as Bert Peterson, Ethan Mitchell and Max Hopkins, and art by famous artist/muralist

Jim Stukey and artist Sonia Jones, face painting and art by Nell Stockdall, and some blacksmithing by Mike Hill and friends. Special appearances and book signings by local authors are also in the works. The entertainment will provide a docent tour where people can stroll and mingle from the courthouse lawn and Harris Park to street corners and inside businesses and restaurants to enjoy a variety of art and culture that abounds locally in the Garnett area.

A Golden Ticket Give-Away is designed to capture the public's attention. Shop participating Second Saturday businesses and restaurants throughout the week leading up to and including the Second Saturday of the months of May, June and July to receive a golden ticket for a special drawing to take place at 6 p.m. on the courthouse lawn. The winning ticket holder will win $50 in gold dollar coins. You must be present to win or the prize money will be added to the next Second Saturday drawing!

A brochure/flyer outlining the participating Second Saturday businesses and restaurants will be available at all participating businesses. Visit www.ExperienceGarnettKS.com to view the brochure and get updates on specials, entertainment dates and times, and some added surprises.

Notice of air quality operating permit for Southern Star

(Published in The Anderson County Review Tuesday, May 6, 2014)

Notice Concerning Proposed Kansas Air Quality Class I Operating Permit Renewal

Notice is hereby given that the Kansas Department of Health and Environment (KDHE) is soliciting comments regarding a proposed air quality operating permit. Southern Star Central Gas Pipeline Inc. - Welda Compressor Station has applied for a Class I operating permit renewal in accordance with the provisions of K.A.R. 28-19-510 et al. The purpose of a Class I permit is to identify the sources and types of regulated air pollutants emitted from the facility; the emission limitations, standards and requirements applicable to each source; and the monitoring, record keeping and reporting requirements applicable to each source as of the effective date of permit issuance.

Southern Star Central Gas Pipeline Inc., P.O. Box 20010, Owensboro, KY 42304, owns and operates the Welda Compressor Station, a natural gas compressor station located at Section 34, T21S, R19E, Anderson County, KS.

A copy of the proposed permit, permit application, all supporting documentation, and all information relied upon during the permit application review process are available for public review during normal business hours of 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM at the KDHE, Bureau of Air (BOA), 1000 SW Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka, KS 66612-1366 and at the Southeast District Office (SEDO), 1500 West 7th, Chanute, KS 66720. To obtain or review the proposed permit and supporting documentation, contact Cathy Richardson, 785-296-1947, at the central office of the KDHE or Doug Cole, 620-431-2390 at the SEDO. The standard departmental cost will be assessed for any copies requested.

Please direct written comments or questions regarding the proposed permit to Cathy Richardson, KDHE, BOA, 1000 SW Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka, KS 66612-1366. In order to be considered in formulating a final permit decision, written comments must be received no later than noon on June 9, 2014.

A person may request a public hearing be held on the proposed permit. The request for a public hearing shall be in writing and set forth the basis for the request. The written request must be submitted to Cathy Richardson, KDHE BOA, 1000 SW Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka, KS 66612-1366, no later than noon on June 9, 2014 in order for the Secretary of Health and Environment to consider the request.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) has a 45-day review period, which will start concurrently with the public comment period, within which to object to the proposed permit. If the USEPA has not objected in writing to the issuance of the permit within the 45-day review period, any person may petition the administrator of the USEPA to review the permit. The 60-day public petition period will directly follow the USEPA 45-day review period. Interested parties may contact KDHE to determine if the USEPA 45-day review period has been waived.

Any such petition shall be based only on objections to the permit that were raised with reasonable specificity during the public comment period provided for in this notice, unless the petitioner demonstrates that it was impracticable to raise such objections within such period, or unless the grounds for such objection arose after such period. Contact Ward Burns, USEPA, Region 7, Air Permitting and Compliance Branch, 11201 Renner Boulevard, Lenexa, Kansas 66219, (913) 551-7960, to determine when the 45-day USEPA review period ends and the 60-day petition period commences.

1914: U.S., Mexico agree to end hostilities

May 4, 2004

It now appears East Kansas Agri Energy will not meet an early May groundbreaking date due to the lengthy continuation of finalizing the company's loan documents on its $20 million construction loan. The company is continuing to labor through the due diligence phase of the loan closing process, but some site planning work and surveying had begun on the plants location in the Golden Prairie Industrial Park.

City commissioners Tuesday approved $9,500 for a comprehensive review of the city's power system in view of the coming electrical needs of the East Kansas Agri-Energy ethanol plant. The estimated 7 megawatt per year requirements of the ethanol plant was such a huge additional load for the city's system that some system enhancements would be required if the city was to try to bring the plant on as an electric customer. The city uses about 9-10 megawatts per year now, most of it purchased from a direct feed from Kansas City Power & Light.

The renovation of the Garnett water plant is about 80 percent complete. The entire project should be done sometime in July. The work will increase the capacity of the plant from 1 million gallons per day to 1.3 million gallons per day. The plant also will be brought into new federal regulations in the Clean Water Act that require that trihalomethanes be removed from drinking water. These chemicals are produced by the reaction of chlorine with organic matter. To remove the byproduct, ammonia is added to the water after it is chlorinated.

U.S. 59 Highway will probably be closed Friday south of Garnett to divert traffic around a railroad overpass renovation project. Traffic that normally uses the highway through town will be redirected using Sixth Avenue in Garnett to U.S. 169 as the alternate route. The project is expected to take about five months to complete.

The fees for the attorney representing James Foltz, Garnett, were assessed to the city following a debate between attorneys representing the two parties in Anderson County District court. Associate Judge James J. Smith made a ruling that the city would pay $7,638.60 for attorney fees for the Burlington attorney representing Foltz during the appeal brought by the city. A jury awarded Foltz $24,000 for damage appraisals on 42.9 acres of property condemned for the Cedar Creek Reservoir.

The storm Sunday caused damage to farm buildings, knocked out power to some utility customers, and caused water to be left standing in low-lying areas. Television and radio stations issued a tornado warning at 2:39 p.m. Sunday, but whether the funnel cloud seen approaching west of Welda actually touched down has been a subject of debate.

May 1, 1914

General Huerta last night accepted the proposal that there be no more hostilities between the United States and Mexico pending the efforts of the envoys of Argentina, Brazil and Chile to bring about an amicable settlement of difficulties between the two countries. The three mediation envoys continued their private sitting through the day and evening. Their first move for an armistice was succeeded by a practical suspension of hostilities, or a truce, between the forces of the United States and the Huerta regime.

These old railroad spikes have Civil War history

Old railroad spikes! I know, I know, but this pair of R/R spikes have a history story to tell. Their not just any pair of R/R spikes, these are from the narrow Gauge tracks that were laid from Memphis to LaGrange, Tennessee during the Civil War. (1861-1865)

While I was in the U.S.Navy and stationed at NAS Millington, Tenn., two buddies and myself had the opportunity to metal detect a short section of this R/R bed near the old earthen fort near Germantown, Tenn. We not only found spikes, but several other small artifacts as well. We even uncovered a short section of narrow Gauge rail that had been abandoned and buried for years.

This R/R was used to transport Civil War troops, but mainly for carrying supplies to at least three earthen forts, plus the large field hospital located at LaGrange.

Did you know that the very first narrow Gauge tracks were used in the mountains, as they didn't need as wide of a track or area cut into the wilderness or to run ore cars into the early ore mines.

Narrow Gauge R/R spikes were sold in 200 pound kegs. They ranged from 360 spikes 5 1/2 inch lengths to 1,650 in 2 1/2 inch lengths per keg. A fact: A 4 1/2 inch spike driven into dry cedar required on average a force of 857 pounds and in seasoned oak 4,281 pounds to pull them back out.

These two spikes pictured here have a 4 inch shank length.
