Hey kids: There's plenty to do this summer

Review offers guide to summer activities in Anderson County

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Certain phrases can make parents grind their teeth in frustration.

"I'm bored."
"There's nothing to do."
In reality, there are plenty of things locally that can keep your kids occupied this summer.

From Little League to the library, activities abound in Anderson County and the surrounding area.

The Review has compiled a list of some of those activities to kick off the summer. Although most of the activities are geared toward kids, there also are several things that will appeal to adults, as well.

Play Ball

Today marks the first day of Little League games through the Garnett Recreation Department., with most games played at the city's ball complex and some at the diamond near the Garnett Recreation Center. Communities throughout the county have Little League teams as well.

Teams were formed several weeks ago and practices already have begun, so it's probably too late to sign up for a team. But games typically will be played until mid-July, so there's plenty of time to head out to the ballfield to watch kids play. And there aren't many things quite as cute as seeing T-ball players spend more time playing in the dirt than watching for the ball.

Just Keep Swimming

The Garnett Swimming Pool opened Saturday, May 24, and this summer will bring several new events and activities at the pool.

Sunday Fun Day will be one of the new activities. One Sunday each month starting June 21, the pool will offer a themed pool party to encourage families to attend. Admission will be lowered so the whole family can better afford to attend, Garnett Recreation Director Phillip Bures said. Sunday Fun Days will feature music, special concessions and various games.

The pool also will offer three "Free Swim" days this summer. Dads can swim free on Father's Day. Everyone can swim free on July 4 and on the last day the pool is open, which has not yet been announced.

The pool offers swimming lessons for area kids, but adults will have a chance to learn how to swim or improve their skills this year as an adult class is added. See pool staff for details.

A popular water aerobics class returns Monday, June 2, at the pool. The classes are offered from 5:30 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. and cost $4 per session. Anne Marie Strobel is the instructor.

When the weather warms up a bit, the pool could expand its hours to include a morning swim. Bures said some people in the community have

Only four people have filed for more than 50 county-level posts

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — With less than a week to file for election, a flood of last-minute filings may be the only thing that saves the local election from being a non-event.

The deadline to file for election is noon Monday, June 2. A primary election will be Aug. 5, followed by the general election Nov. 4.

So far, only incumbent Jim Johnson has filed for his District 1 seat on the Anderson County Commission. That's the only major local race on the ballot.

In addition to little interest so far in the county post, lower level political positions also have seen few filings. Only three other people have filed for any of the 54 lower-level positions.

The ballot will include races for committee precinct positions and township clerks. Each of the two major political parties, Republican and Democratic, will elect a man and a woman to represent the party in each voting precinct. Those are the grassroots political positions, the most basic

City writes off few delinquent accounts

Staff make efforts to recover unpaid utility bills for city

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — It's not easy to get out of paying your utility bill from the City of Garnett.

City commissioners agreed to write off about $4,824.46 from 23 previous city utility customers who failed to pay their bills between April 2010 and December 2013. The city collected about $17,000,000 in utility bills during that same timeframe, which translates to less than two-tenths of one percent in uncollected bills.

The low amount of write-offs were credited to city staff and

Jobless rate stays low

Anderson County has largest decrease in unemployed in area

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA — Unemployment in Anderson and surrounding counties dropped significantly in April, according to statistics released recently from the Kansas Department of Labor. Locally, the jobless rate dropped a full percentage point compared to the previous month and nearly a percentage point compared to the same time last year. Other counties in the area reported similar improvements, but Anderson County had the largest decrease in unemployment of the surrounding area. Unemployment in Anderson County in April was 4.7 percent. That means only 195 people were jobless in April out of a civilian labor force of 4,185. In March, the unemployment rate

Lester will check on shelving.

Marion Johnson, Appraiser, met with the commission. He presented an appraisal for land on the south side of the road on 1000 Rd by Welda that will be used as a by-pass when the state repairs Hwy 169 by Welda. There is a bridge on 1000 Rd that will have to be replaced prior to the highway repairs. Commission questioned Marion on his feelings on Neighborhood Revitalization. Marion informed the commission it has its pros and cons. At the present time there is only about eight properties using the program but he is also working with Doniphan County and they have started county wide NR with about 120 participating.

AC Republican committee wants members

GARNETT – If you're a registered Republican living in Anderson County and interested in local, state and national politics, the local county party is looking for you.

The deadline to file for county precinct committee positions is June 2 at 12 noon. Presently, only 9 of the 36 party positions available are filled, and Anderson County GOP Chairman Dane Hicks says the local party hopes to strengthen its ranks for the upcoming election seasons by re-staffing its committee.

"There are Republicans out there who feel strongly about the state of their country and their state," Hicks said. "We want them to know that serving a precinct post is the primary, grass roots way to become involved and work for what you believe in."

Local political party organizations fulfill a number of functions, such as making appointments to fill unexpired vacancies to elected offices when an elected official of that party leaves office before his/her term is expired. They also serve as the vital grassroots network for national and state office candidates looking for various campaign assistance during elections, and as constituent contacts for officeholders after elections are decided.

County party committee organizations are made up of a committeeman and committeewoman in each of Anderson County's 18 voting precincts. Hicks said committee members typically meet only annually unless specific projects or election plans are underway.

"Generally, being a committeeman or committeewoman is pretty low-impact," Hicks said. "But when we need people there, we really need them there."

Local committee members of both the Democrat and Republican committees have convened numerous times in years past to fill vacancies in the Anderson County Attorney and Anderson County Sheriff's Department, and county Republicans two years ago helped select Independence attorney Jeff King to fill the 15th District Senate post left vacant when Sen. Derek Schmidt was elected attorney general.

There is no filing fee to file for a precinct post but forms must be obtained from the county clerk's office. Those who file are then placed on the ballot for their party primary in August and voted upon by party members in their precinct.

For more information contact Hicks at (785) 304-3870 or the county clerk's office at (785) 448-6841.

Pool attendance depends on the weather, Bures said. Last year, rain kept attendance down but Bures said he is hopeful the new activities will entice people to take more advantage of the local pool.

Get Cooking

Anderson County K-State Research and Extension offers several summer camps, including three cooking and one baking camp. They include a pizza cooking camp June 4-6, June 9-11 and June 18-20 for students entering third through entering sixth grade. Camps are from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The baking camp will teach students how to prepare a variety of yeast breads. Campers must be entering third through seventh grade. The camp is from 9 a.m. to noon July 1-3.

The cost is $10 per camp and includes a recipe booklet. Pre-registration and a permission application are required. For more information, call (785) 448-6826.

The Extension department also offers something for the adults this summer. A canning workshop will teach people how to use a pressure canner. The workshop is from 8:30 a.m. to noon May 31. Cost is $5 per person. Participants will receive a notebook of up-to-date research based recipes and information; and go home with a jar of canned carrots.

The Extension office also will have other summer activities to be announced later.

Read All About It

Summer reading programs are a staple at area libraries such as Garnett, Colony and Richmond. Each library sets their own program and activities, but they tend to be based on a national theme. This year's theme is science based, with some libraries across the nation calling it "Fizz Boom Read," "Literary Elements" or "Spark a Reaction."

Summer reading programs are designed to keep kids reading during the months they are out of school. Activities make going to the library fun and rewarding.

"A lot of studies show kids who don't read over the summer lose much of what they learned in school the past year," Andrea Sobba, Garnett librarian, said. She added that the program also makes kids more comfortable using the library, so they are more likely to continue going to the library after the program ends.

About 200 kids attend summer reading activities at the Garnett Public Library. This year, the program kicks off with free ice cream Monday, June 2. But kids who miss that date still can sign up at any time during the program.

The Garnett library is planning several events for children pre-school through eighth grade. The library will have camps for specific age groups and a Teen Scene for older kids. The reading program ends July 25. Find a complete list of events on page 5A of this newspaper.

The Richmond Library will kick off its summer reading program with the annual Seed Spitting Contest at 3 p.m. Wednesday, June 4. The library has a flyer with a complete schedule of events. Richmond's summer reading program also includes an adult category.

There is no charge for the summer reading programs, although some special events may require a small fee.

Take a Hike... Or a Bike

Not every activity is organized, and some children may prefer solitude and tranquility. For those who enjoy taking a walk or bike ride, either alone or with friends, the Prairie Spirit Rail Trail offers 51 miles of hardpacked limestone with scenic trails from Ottawa to Iola. The trail is paved through part of Garnett, and there is no charge to city residents within the city limits.

Have a Fair Time

There's a buzz around the county that has been stirring for months. It's the long-awaited return of a carnival to the Anderson County Fair. The county's fair board has laid out big bucks in a cash guarantee to bring a carnival back to the county fair, which had seen declining attendance over the years. Organizers said the success of this year's carnival will help determine if such an event can continue, and they are banking on advance sales to help pay for expenses.

The county fair will be a week later than usual this year. It starts with a music show Aug. 2, and the fair itself will run Aug. 4-8 with the theme "Country Pride County Wide." The carnival, from Fun Times Carnival Rides, will be Aug. 5-8. The fair will feature the traditional tent night and pie eating contest, as well as other fair staples. New events include an exotic petting zoo, "Two Girls and a Zoo." The annual Demolition Derby wraps things up on Aug. 9.

In addition to the county fair, several communities offer their own fairs and special events. Dates for those events include:

- July 10, 11, 12: Richmond Free Fair (featuring American Idol contestant Eric Gordon).
- Aug. 30: Colony Day Celebration.
- September 5-6: Greeley Smokeoff.
- September 11-13: Kincaid Free Fair, with carnival from Toby's Amusements.
- September 27: Cornstock festival and concert with Jerrod Niemann, the Casey Donahew Band and Travis Marvin.

Let's Get Physical

The Garnett Recreation Center is a great place to cool off while working out during the summer. In addition to aerobic workout machines and weight training equipment, the center offers a basketball court, walking track and other recreational activities- and the newly installed air conditioning keeps you cool during your workout.

City staff are working on a new aerobics room that will open soon. In mid-July, a popular "core and cardio" class will return with two sessions, usually at 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Stacy Crane teaches the classes, and Garnett Recreation Director Phillip Bures said the classes tend to fill up fast. Space is limited to about 15-20 people per session. Watch for details about those classes, which will be announced soon.

No secret what Republicans believe

Wichita State University government professor H. Edward Flentje, writing for the poli-academic think tank Insight Kansas, last week, lamented the difference between the modern Republican Party in Kansas and his wistful memories of the one from decades past. Citing a number of examples of alleged modern Republican misdeeds in the Sunflower State, Flentje asks incredulously "What do Kansas Republicans believe?"

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

If he really questions that, he hasn't been paying attention. He's right in a respect. The modern Kansas Republican Party - for that matter the party nationwide - isn't the party of his grandfather, and for good reason: Today's Kansas is not the Kansas of his grandfather. You know, like when someone says "This is not your father's Oldsmobile." Kansas Republicans have changed for good reason - because they don't want to see Kansas go the way of the Oldsmobile - and the dinosaur.

for style points instead of solutions to continuing economic woes.

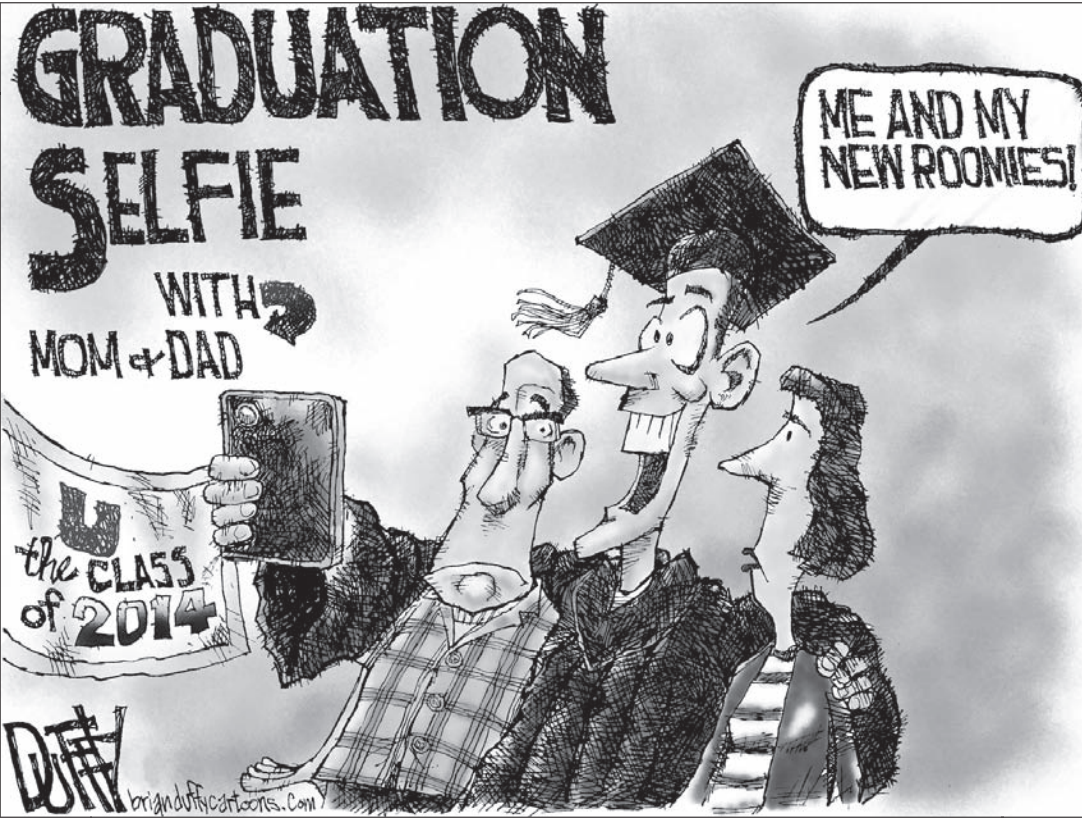

These are not the problems of Grandpa's Kansas. But they are the problems of Republicans grappling with them in the Kansas Legislature and elsewhere in the country.

Flentje surely knows Kansas law mandates a balanced budget; the only question in a lingering recession is whether you balance it by raising taxes, cutting expenditures or stealing from tomorrow's money. Republicans, as well as Democrats in Kansas have no choice but to believe this. It's the law.

"Fair and balanced taxation?" Show me someone who thinks a tax is fair and I'll show you someone who isn't paying it. Here again there is no question about Republican beliefs: That private sector jobs - not growing government - are the silver bullet to recession. Tax cuts to businesses and individuals who pay lots of income tax put cash back into the hands of those most likely to either spend it for products or invest it for profit. Both grow jobs, payrolls and the economy for everyone in the process. That is a core Republican belief about which there should be no question. It's a key plank in the platform that makes Republicans pro-business and small-government.

And no matter how big a tent you profess, there's still no room for skunks. Reagan's big tent speech in fact qualified the differences among Republicans while establishing the pledge that "unity does not require unanimity of thought." In these dire times of economic scarcity and leadership incompetence, Republicans have grown beyond the hot-button Democrat-imposed litmus tests of gay rights and abortion. As a Republican, if you can't look past my opinions on those whatever they may be and join me at the altar of constitutional rights, pro-business and small government, then you belong in another tent.

To answer Prof. Flentje, Republicans believe what they have always believed, and they're applying those principals to an entirely new and threatening set of state and national problems. Stop listening to the accusing definitions of the leftists - and pay attention.

Family appreciates community support

Where Angels Remain. Who's to understand...I'm not sure we ever will. For where angels reside, there is beauty. Too many times we consider beauty to be defined according to appearance; height, weight, hair, etc., but if you have ever been blessed with the opportunity to get to know her, and become her friends, you would have found a beauty that is beyond understanding. This gentle natured woman-child would find a hug for you that is unforgettable and you would soon find that she is always willing to love the unlovely and those who truly do not deserve her love. She knows not a stranger and you are always welcome.

LETTERS

Angels have been among us for many years. Once again our community, family and friends have gathered and stepped up to the challenge- with prayers, moving her out of her rented home and staying in touch as she fights once again to hold onto this life. She has told me she is not afraid to die because she knows what is beyond this life.

This has not been our first experience with the wings of heaven brushing softly against our spirits with gentle love sent from God. For you see He sent her back to us twice before, for He told her "Your work is not done." I have watched her grow the last few years. I have seen how she has touched you, her friends, her family, her community. Very seldom does she speak against another and I see her freely give of herself; a willing hand, a smile, her love. I knew she was special from that first moment, that first breath! For you see, she was the third angel God chose to entrust to me; a gift indeed! I've always tried to be a good example failing miserably at times, but I have always believed and always treasured my children and grandchildren as the sweetest gift from God. I know I am the richest woman in the world, so I always treasure their voices, their gifts and their lives- for an original is priceless. The infectious smile of a child, mine as well as yours, is a blessing each and every day.

So our heartfelt love and thanks are given this day to you, our friends and neighbors and community.

Love, as always,
The family of Katrina J. Kichler

Rove is right to raise concerns about Clinton

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

It was inevitable that attacks on Hillary Clinton would be deemed sexist. We now know that they will be called ageist, too.

A report in the New York Post's Page Six that Karl Rove told a recent conference that Hillary Clinton might be brain-damaged after a 30-day hospital stay during her illness at the end of 2012 caused a volcanic eruption of denunciation aimed at the Republican strategist. Rove was accused, among other things, of dealing the age card from the bottom of the deck.

thing we've heard about Clinton's condition in December 2012, it was frighteningly serious. The clot, according to The Washington Post, "can cause permanent brain damage, coma or death if not detected and treated in time."

News accounts say it was caught early, and Clinton is performing as ably as ever. But politicians have a long history of lying through their teeth about their health -- see Woodrow Wilson, John F. Kennedy and Paul Tsongas, for example. So Clinton will have to provide a full accounting of the 2012 incident and her overall health.

And as for her age, of course it will be an issue. The problem with being an old candidate in American presidential politics is that people use it against you.

U.S. News & World Report had an item in April 2008 titled "Obama Campaign Plans to Hit at McCain's Age." The Bill Clinton re-election campaign in 1996 feasted on contrasts between the new and old in its lopsided bout with the septuagenarian Bob Dole.

Of course, age is hardly dispositive. Ronald Reagan was the oldest president at age 70 in 1981 and embodied an invigorating optimism despite his years. But age was an issue for him in 1980 and 1984.

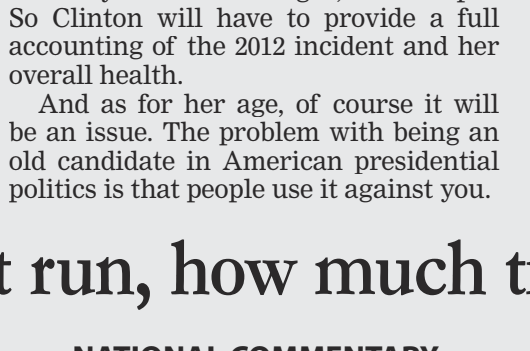

Hillary can potentially trump all this with openness about her medical records, and with an energetic and future-oriented campaign, should she run. Her supporters, in the meantime, hope to deflect any questions with cries of ageism and sexism. It will be a nice change of pace to move on from racism as the Democratic rejoinder of choice to other "-isms" neglected during the past eight years.

But Rove is right: Hillary will have to deal with these questions.

Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

If Hillary doesn't run, how much time was wasted?

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

BOB FRANKEN, King Features Syndicate

I'll tell you what: If Hillary Clinton doesn't run for president, a bunch of people will have wasted a whole lot of energy. Why else would Vanity Fair resurrect Monica Lewinsky so we could revisit the tawdry case that blemished the family's first White House go-around?

There is a wide body of thinking that has it that rather than being Monica's Revenge, the article by "that woman" actually will help Hillary when she runs (yes, the word "when" was intentional), because it will put an end to discussion of the dark period once and for all, declare it "old news" and remove it from the campaign plate.

As someone who covered that awful scandal for more than a year, and struggled during live TV shots to keep a straight face while using euphemisms about the infamous blue dress, I certainly hope the story finally does move into the "who cares?" zone. Nobody would give a hoot now, were we all not convinced that Hillary had risen from her mortification as first lady to making a run at the big prize.

Republicans certainly are convinced that she'll be their opponent. They have made it absolutely clear, with the formation of their select committee on Benghazi. I don't need to remind you who was secretary of state at the time. And if there ever was a sure thing, it would be that former Secretary Hillary Clinton will be called to testify. And even if there's another missing plane, the news networks will take it live.

The GOPs can protest all they want that they are strictly motivated by a desire to present the "truth" about the tragedy in Libya, but this is really just a transparent effort to stick it to the Dems, particularly the one who will be their 2016 standard-bearer.

Actually, it's a risky strategy. When it comes to brawling, Hillary Clinton is no slouch. When her hearing is all said and done, it may be the Republicans who are left bleeding, exposed as shameless bullies who got a whuppin'. However it turns out, it'll be the TV blockbuster of 2014 or 2015.

We already know what it will be in 2016. As hard as they try to control the GOP debates, the Republican National Committee will not succeed in its effort to add some dignity to their comedy shows. The party leaders are insisting that they will control the format and, by implication, even the questions to be asked, but they are courting a PR disaster the first time they tell one of their candidates who has not been preordained that he or she will not have an equal chance at television glory.

And that's the Republican blessing and curse this time around. The party doesn't have a real leading light. While the ones we always hear mentioned are spread out from establishment to rabble rouser, the leadership wants to rein them into a cluster that extends only from right to extreme right.

Usually, it's the other way around; it's the Democrats who are turning on one another. But it looks like they already have their candidate. If Hillary bails, then they don't have one.

ELECTION...

and most fundamental positions in politics.

Local political party organizations fulfill a number of functions, such as making appointments to fill unexpired vacancies to elected offices when an elected official of that party leaves office before his/her term is expired. They also serve as the vital grassroots network for national and state office candidates looking for various campaign assistance during elections, and as constituent contacts for officeholders after elections are decided.

But out of 36 party positions available in each party, so far only one Republican and one Democrat has filed. Dane Hicks, the county's GOP chairman, has filed as male for Monroe Township. Bill Feuerborn, a Democrat, also filed to represent his party in Monroe Township.

Of the 18 township clerk positions, only one person, Paul Holman, has filed for Welda.

In order to file for local election, the county commissioner candidate must reside within the commissioner district for which they are filing - in this case, District 1. The candidate can pay 1 percent of the salary - in this case, about $156 - or can file by petition, which requires signatures of 3 percent of the party from within that district. The rules are a little different for someone not affiliated with a political party, or "undeclared." Undeclared voters have until noon Aug. 4 to file for office, and must do so by petition, which requires signatures of 4 percent of total registered voters in the district. Anyone who files for the position, whether through a party or undeclared, must pay a $35 filing fee.

Township officers must pay $1 to file, with no other requirements. Township officers only receive compensation for their service if the township has passed a resolution to pay officers. Any level of compensation is up to the township. There will be a number of state and federal races on the ballot. Federal offices include U.S. Senator and U.S. Representative for the 2nd District. State offices up for election include governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer, insurance commissioner, 4th District State Representative, 5th District State Representative and 9th District State Board of Education.

Typically, many people wait until the last minute to file for election.

Chamber Players duo returns to Tuna, Texas

Are you ready for a Texas-sized helping of laughter, love, and libation? (Well, laughter anyway?) Then come join the Chamber Players as they stage the hilarious dinner theatre production of "Red, White, and Tuna" at the Thelma Moore Community Playhouse for a two weekend run June 6th through 15th.

ety director Petey Fisk's platoon of misfit animals. And back to enjoy the fireworks, some watermelon, and his freedom, is the recently paroled Reverend Spikes who is only a spoonful of potato salad away from a trip to the here-after.

Chamber Players veterans, Ken Amaya and Gary Stapp, play the entire cast of over 20 eccentric characters of both genders and various ages. In 2007, the duo introduced the Garnett community to these Tuna, Texas denizens in the Chamber Players production of "Greater Tuna", the first of the saga of "Tuna" plays created by Jaston Williams, Joe Sears, and Ed Howard. A few years later, Amaya and Stapp brought "A Tuna Christmas" to the local stage. And now, in the CP's 23rd theatre season finale, they are pumped-up, dressed-up, wigged-out, and ready to entertain you again. They are, they are.

Amaya

Stapp

"I am once again in Tuna, Texas, and I am without a doubt either a slow learner or a complete moron. Quite possibly both. I can't speak for Gary, but obviously he is not any brighter than I am in this regard. This probably explains why we even get along, because if you want to know how the two of us carry on a conversation, you need look no further than R.R. and Petey together on stage. That's us in a nutshell. Joking aside, I am glad he is up here on stage with me. I would not have it any other way."

Stapp counters with "Before Tuna Christmas was even over, I had declared that I was retiring the dresses and the wigs and the set of 'feminine enhancements' and planned to never return to the stage in another Tuna sequel. Never say never. And never take a bribe from Ken! That said I really have had a lot of fun and laughs partnering with Ken on stage again in this madcap community of Tuna, Texas. However, I will never do the final sequel of Tuna. There, I said it, and it's in writing!"

Vicki Markham lends her directorial expertise to this fast-paced show that is a frenzy of costume changes and character switches.

Tickets are $22 for adults and $17 for students in high school or younger. Make reservations by phoning the theatre at 785.304.1683 or by email at ChamberPlayersGarnett@gmail.com. Advanced reservations are required.

"This is the first time a Tuna show has had a director. I cannot tell you how fortunate I feel to get to work with these two amazing men. They both bring their own unique perspective to each character and they bring them to life on the stage," comments Markham.

Both men appreciate Markham's involvement in this show. According to Amaya "Vicki really is one of the few who understands our stupidity and how best to hone it to a blunt butter knife edge."

And according to Stapp, "Vicki has a great sense for comedy and has really helped me bring more quirkiness and hilarity to these characters than what I would have otherwise thought possible."

Many fans of the regionally popular Chamber Players have already reserved their seats for "Red, White, and Tuna". If you missed the first two Tuna shows, don't miss this one. All performances include a catered dinner and advance reservations are required. Tickets are on sale now. Call 785-304-1683.

Bulldog golfer qualifies for state

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

EMPORIA - For the fourth straight season, Spencer Walter punches a ticket to state. Walter posted a score of 81 at the 4A Boys' Regional Golf Tournament at Emporia Municipal Golf Course on May 19.

His score was good for second place, trailing just Shane Walden of Iola, who shot a 78 to win by three strokes.

Walter is one of the 106 golfers that will be competing on Tuesday, May 27, at Firekeeper Golf Course in Mayetta for the 4A State Title.

Walter will tee off at 10:10 a.m. as part of a foursome that includes Marc McClain of Bonner Springs, Tanner Nelson from Labette County and Parker Waters of Wamego High School.

Others qualifying for state at the 4A Regionals in Emporia are the teams of Iola and Ottawa as they finished first and second as a team.

The top five best individual scores also qualified for state. Individual qualifiers include Walter (81), Laike Walters (84) and Tanner Thomas (88) both of Paola, Jordan Garrett (88) and Jesse Bittner (91) both from Burlington High School.

Spencer will be looking to improve on his 30th place finish from the 2013 season at state. Walter shot a 79, which was seven strokes behind winner Kaden Macha from Iola.

Walter shot a 91 as a sophomore for a 71st place finish and finished fifth in state as a freshman with a score of 75.

Bulldog girls shutout in Regional game

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Anderson County (3-18) girls' softball played well, but just couldn't get the bats going in a 6-0 loss to Santa Fe Trail (14-3).

Santa Fe Trail jumped up early by scoring three runs in the bottom of the first after holding the Bulldogs scoreless in the top half.

In the bottom of the second, the defense made some good plays to get out of the inning. The catcher threw out a runner trying to advance to second on a passed ball and a short time after that there was a line drive to second base that was caught and thrown to second to double up a runner.

After a scoreless third inning, Bulldog head coach Marty Alley told his girls to just find a way to get the bat on the ball.

They did exactly that as they opened the inning with a single and then promptly stole second base. The threat was ended quickly though following a strike out, ground out and then getting picked off of second base to end the inning.

A combination of good pitching and solid defense kept both teams scoreless until the bottom of the fifth inning and Santa Fe Trail opened up their advantage.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 05-27-2014 / Kevin Gaines

Anderson County High School's Paige Schekel waits for the pitcher to release the ball so she can leadoff.

With the bases loaded, SFT doubled to deep left to score two runs and scored a third run of the inning following a wild pitch to open up a 6-0 advance.

tage. Santa Fe Trail advanced to the state tournament following a 4-0 victory in the next round against Burlington.

Vikings can't overcome early deficit

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

HUMBOLDT - Jayhawk-Linn used a huge 9-run first inning to put the Vikings in a hole that they couldn't recover from in a 14-4 defeat.

Fourth-seeded Jayhawk-Linn (18-2) scored two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to end the game early due to the 10-run rule against the fifth seeded Vikings (9-12).

It was an especially tough regional as it featured teams with records of (18-0), two teams with (18-2) records and Jayhawk-Linn at (16-2).

Central Heights actually got off to a promising start in the game. The Vikings loaded the bases with just one out and Davis hit a double to score two runs. Jayhawk-Linn ended the threat by striking out the final two batters of the inning.

In the bottom of the first, Jayhawk-Linn scored nine runs on just six hits. The first five batters reached base to set the tone. Three reached via hits, one walked and one reached on error to start the big inning.

Jayhawk-Linn went on to score at least one run in each inning to slowly expand the lead. They scored one run in each of the second, third and fourth innings before scoring two more in the bottom of the fifth to end the game early.

The Vikings just couldn't get enough going to mount any sort of comeback. They were held scoreless in the second and third innings before tacking on one run in each the fourth and fifth innings.

Jayhawk-Linn lost to Humboldt in the second round by a final of 7-1. Humboldt went on to advance to state by winning the championship game by a final score of 9-2.

Vikings baseball season comes to end

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

OSAGE CITY - The Central Heights' baseball team lost in the opening round of the regional tournament falling to Osage City 9-4 on May 19.

Osage City (14-6) entered the regional as the #4 seed and Central Heights (5-15) was the #5 seed.

Coby Robertson started the game on the mound for the Vikings. Despite being the best pitcher this season for his team, this wasn't going to be his day.

Robertson allowed seven runs in the first two innings before being replaced by Tristan Davis.

"Coby has been our best pitcher all year, he was just off tonight," Vikings head coach Jason Brown stated. "Davis did an excellent job," Brown said when speaking of the job done by Davis in relief. "He did exactly what we needed a senior to do to give us a chance."

Offensively, Merrick Brown and Ethan Shields picked up two hits each. Brown scored two runs while Shields drove in two.

Brown had nothing but good things to say about his squad despite the struggles this season. "It was not a good year record wise for us, but the boys kept their composure the whole year and played with class no matter what. That says a lot about their character as young men! I am proud of them. It was an honor to coach them," Brown said.

Bulldogs baseball loses to Burlington

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

BURLINGTON - The Anderson County baseball team came up short trying to extend their season with a 10-4 loss to Burlington to end their season.

Burlington (17-4) was the top-seeded team in the regional and went on to win the regional tournament and made it to state with a 7-6 win over Iola in the Championship. ACHS (4-16) was the fourth seed.

The Bulldogs took an early 1-0 lead, but Burlington jumped on with four runs in the bottom half of the inning to take a 4-1 lead. The Bulldogs did respond with another run in the top of the second inning to make it 4-2.

A scoreless third by both teams kept Anderson County in the game, but Burlington picked up three runs in the bottom of the fourth and again in the fifth to give them a commanding 10-2 advantage.

There wouldn't be any more scoring until the final inning when the Bulldogs rallied to score two runs, but it was much too little too late.

Senior Garrett Filbrun, junior Tyler Wolken and freshman Kyle Lamb all picked up two hits in the season finale.

Mason Skiles pitched all six innings. "He threw well and he hit his spots. Burlington did a nice job of getting timely hits with runners in scoring position to keep adding to their total throughout the game," head coach Jeremy Ball said of his starting pitcher.

"Offensively we hit the ball well overall. However, we did leave 11 base runners stranded which against a good team like Burlington we had to have a way to score those runs to have a chance to win," Ball stated.

Ball was happy with the attitude and looks forward to the guys returning, hoping they can build on their experience. "The boys worked well with each other all season and did whatever job we needed them to do without complaining. We should have a good group coming back for next year. We had young guys this year get valuable experience to carry over to next year," Ball said.

Congratulations on qualifying for State!

Ron and Jeannie Mitchell, left, of Colorado delivered this trunk to Shirley Roeckers and the Anderson County Historical Society. The trunk, which had been left unwanted on a street curb, was found to have once belonged to Arthur Capper, first Kansas born governor, who was from Garnett.

Arthur Capper travel trunk finds its way to Garnett

Arvada, Colorado has an annual cleanup time, when citizens are encouraged to put all of there unwanted items on the street curbs for people to drive by and pick up and what isn't picked up would be hauled away.

Taylor Garza stopped at a curb and found an old trunk that she thought was interesting. She examined it and found that it had an ink stamp on the wooden top that read "Arthur Capper" and on the side was a small old scrap of an address label, addressed to "Senator Arthur Capper, Capper Bldg, Topeka" with a scrap showing a little of the government postage free address return. She took it home and showed it to her mother, Jeannie Mitchell, of Black Forrest, Co. They thought that the trunk was a unique historical artifact and decided to try to save it.

Jeannie searched on the Internet and found that Arthur Capper was the first Kansas born Governor of Kansas, who was born at Garnett. She then found our Anderson County Historical Society website, from which she found the name and phone number of Shirley Roeckers, as Vice-President. She called Shirley and began the process of getting the trunk back to Garnett, where Arthur Capper was born.

Shirley got approval from the Anderson County Historical Society Board of Directors to accept the donation by Taylor and Horacio Garza of the Capper Trunk to the Historical Society Museum.

Then Jeannie Mitchell began making plans to get it back to Kansas, so that it could be displayed and enjoyed by other Kansans. They decided in February, 2014 to make a binding trip through Kansas and deliver the trunk to Garnett and made arrangements with Shirley to deliver the Capper Trunk to the Anderson County Historical Society Museum.

Jeannie and her husband, Ron, ended up making reservations at the Kirk House and arrived in Garnett at the Kirk House on April 24. Then they made arrangements with Shirley to deliver the trunk on April 25.

While at the Kirk House they visited with Scott Rogers, of the Kirk House, and he volunteered to help deliver the trunk to the museum and was able to give them a tour of Garnett, made arrangements to meet them at the Prairie Belle Restaurant, along with Shirley Roeckers and Wanda (a Garnett birder) for an enjoyable breakfast.

The trunk is now on display at the Anderson County Historical Museum. The museum is open Tuesday-Friday from 1-4 p.m. or by contacting Kristie Kinney, president, Shirley Roeckers, vice president, or any of the Anderson Historical Society Officers or Board of Directors.

Quilt tour program hosted by Richmond Church Women

Thirteen quilts were attractively arranged in Richmond United Methodist Church's Fellowship Hall May 15th to welcome 33 guests to a luncheon served by the United Methodist Women, followed by a program about the Franklin County Quilt Block Tour.

Chris Campbell of Chris' Corner Quilt Shop in Ottawa told how the first quilt blocks were painted on barns in Ohio in 2001 to call attention to the agriculture of the area and to bring folks to see the barns and do some shopping along the way.

The idea spread quickly, especially in the Southeastern states, and now barn quilt blocks are in at least 45 states.

After being inspired by going to a memorable quilt show in Oregon in 2010, Campbell worked with the Franklin Co. Convention and Tourism Bureau to organize the first quilt barn tour in Kansas.

Now, there are quilt blocks on 35 agricultural buildings and two museums in the county, and the number continues to grow.

There are three quilt blocks in the Richmond area --- Richmond Star pattern on the Richmond Community Museum on main street, Feathered Star pattern at the Kenny and Portia Read farm at the corner of Hiway 59 and Cloud Rd., north of Richmond, and Double Wedding Ring pattern at the Ron and Elaine Dunbar farm at 2832 Ellis Rd. on Highway 59 near the Central Heights School sign.

Quilt blocks are financed by the landowners ($300 each) and the smaller ones at the Richmond and Williamsburg Museums are $200 each. Campbell puts the enlarged pattern on wood and does most of the painting; then the signs are professionally installed.

A brochure, "Discover Franklin County, Kansas, Quilt Block Self-Guided Tour," is available at Chris' Corner, the Visitors Bureau, Richmond Museum and other places in the county. One can follow the map and enjoy seeing all the blocks on farm buildings with the quilt pattern and information about the farm printed in the guide so it is an educational experience.

The Flint Hills Quilt Trail is the most extensive in Kansas with 22 counties involved, but there are quilts in numerous counties, including the ones surrounding Franklin County..

Quilts at the Richmond church were arranged and tables decorated by Mary Hall, Cathy Parsons and Peg Beach led group singing, closing with the song "The Quilting Party."

The luncheon was headed by Harriett Woods, assisted by Janice McIntosh, Sherryl Reiter, Lorene Stockard, Rosalie Schafer, Pat Vining, and the three women named above.

The Richmond United Methodist Women enjoy hosting a luncheon and program for women of the community every few years to foster fellowship and to offer enjoyable information to those who attend.

It's all about urgency

When I started my career an old-timer client told me he never ran sales at his men's clothing shop.

"Why?," I asked in my best still-wet-behind-the-ears earnestly.

"I've never been able to justify telling a customer that just because he came in today to buy something that he has to pay more than if he came in yesterday before a sale ended," he told me. I went home that night and saw about 15 commercials from JC Penney, Sears and Men's Wearhouse advertising one sale idea after another.

Maybe my client's philosophy eased his conscience, but it wasn't very compelling for his customers or in the long run, very good for his business.

After all, if you want to sell stuff, you have to motivate your customers with some sense of urgency. Otherwise they'll put off buying from you and end up buying from one of your competitors the next time they stop in a Wal Mart or a Target for deodorant. Simply put: If you don't motivate your customers, somebody else will.

That's why you can learn so much by watching "the big boys" ads on TV or in your area daily paper. The "urge to action" should always be a part of your promotional efforts.

Think "2 Day Sale," or "Saturday Only" or "Absolutely Ends March 25th." Here's why:

If you've done your job right, you've planned your sale with timing in mind. The time to sell hard on snow shovels is...class? That's right. When it starts getting cold. You're using the natural gravity of seasons, events (back to school, St. Patty's green beer special at your bar, etc.) to help drive sales. That's bound to help motivate customers as well, but you add more urgency by letting them know the value will be less if they miss the deadline.

So remember to make your sale worth it to the customer (10% off never sold a thing, so if that's all you're doing, don't waste money advertising it!), but put him under some pressure to perform!

city attorney Terry Solander, who spend significant time trying to track down delinquent accounts, City Manager Joyce Martin said. Solander cited an example of an account he refuses to write off: a former business owned by a couple who are both over-the-road truck drivers, and city staff occasionally track them down but have not yet been successful at recovering the significant amount owed. Martin said staff also allow people to make partial payments.

Many of the delinquent accounts occurred when someone moved and refused to pay the final utility bill. City staff send those unpaid bills to the Kansas Payment Center, which collects a fee to recover the bill. The center can seize income tax refunds and has other means available to recover the money owed. City staff also utilize police and others to help track down delinquent accounts.

"They (staff) do everything they can short of getting in a car and going out and finding them themselves," Martin said.

Some of the accounts written off by the city include one bankruptcy and at least two people who have died. A full list of the delinquent accounts was published in last week's Review.

was 5.7 percent. In April 2013, the rate was 5.6 percent.

The county also dropped below the state's overall unemployment rate of 4.8 percent. State labor officials gave no specific reasons for the lower unemployment, saying only that the state's private sector jobs had increased 1.5 percent since last year.

"The improvement in Kansas' labor market is quite comprehensive with positive growth recorded in nonfarm jobs and the number of people employed, with a decrease in the unemployment rate. Additionally, the number of individuals receiving unemployment benefits decreased substantially over the month and over the year," said Labor Economist, Efua Afful.

Unemployment in surrounding counties included:

- Allen County: 4.1 percent in April, 4.6 percent in March, 5.4 percent in April 2013.
- Coffey County: 2.5 percent in April, 3.1 percent in March, 3.2 percent in April 2013.
- Franklin County: 5.2 percent in April, 6.0 percent in March, 6.4 percent in April 2013.
- Linn County: 6.0 percent in April, 6.8 percent in March, 7.5 percent in April 2013.
- Miami County: 2.9 percent in April, 3.3 percent in March, 2.9 percent in April 2013.

What does it mean to excavate a site?

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roeckers
 Call (785) 448-6244 for local archeology information.

I think it's high time for me to explain the word "excavate." No! I don't own or use any heavy equipment such as bulldozers, backhoes, etc. My excavating tools consist of hand trowels and small shovels.

In fact when I conduct an excavation, these are the things I normally have in my possession. Two small light weight shovels, which I use for removing the top layer of sod or other debris, four well sharpened hand trowels (2 pointed & 2 oblong), measuring string and stakes, about a dozen small marking flags, a good pair of leather gloves (in the winter I wear brown jersey), either a ball cap or straw hat, a pair of comfortable work shoes, containers for the artifacts found, always some type of insect repellent and a "whole lot of patience."

Some people ask me. How do you discover all those sites you work at? Remember I do lots of research (particular during the winter months) and often people come to or call me about old sites on their land. My first step is "Always get land owners permission" regardless if you conducting an excavation of a walking sight survey.

I almost forgot the largest piece of equipment I often use is my trusty 14 year old 2000 XLT Whites metal detector. There again one must excavate (dig) those targets as well.

Note: 30 May-14 June I will be attending the 2014 KATP (Kansas Archaeology Field Training Program School) as a member of the metal detecting team. Hopefully I will have some interesting news of my adventure to share with you soon.

Sewing club to meet June 4

The Zig Zag Sewing Club met for a potluck and meeting May 7 in the meeting rooms at Osawatomie Court Apartments. Guests Judy Cole and Rosemary Wilson joined 13 members in attendance.

Vice President Nancy Machnicki conducted the meeting. Members offered suggestions for an upcoming monthly meeting with no designated hostess. This topic, as well as community service project ideas, will be continued at the next meeting.

Janet Dietrich and Wilma McIntosh won door prizes.

Following Show and Tell of recently completed sewing projects, members participated in a demonstration of hand sewing by Loretta Crozier. The lesson featured quick techniques for making fabric, hexagons for embellishment or Grandmother's Flower Garden quilt blocks.

Joyce Scovill and Tootie Russell will host the June 4 meeting. It will be a carry-in lunch at 11:30 a.m. at Woodland Hills Senior Living meeting room in Osawatomie.

Local student named Shepherd Scholar at ESU

EMPORIA -- Emporia State University celebrated both the promise of continued academic achievement and the family responsible for the scholarships helping secure the higher education dreams of 13 more students during a May 5, 2014, ceremony.

Among the recipients of Shepherd Scholarships is Taylor Huettnermueller, a Mathematics major from Garnett.

The Shepherd Scholarship, created in 1994 by a gift from Augusta Shepherd and her late husband, R. Hershel Shepherd, recognizes high-achieving students in their junior year at Emporia State.

"The Shepherd Scholars represent not only our best students, but also those students who demonstrate community involvement, creativity and commitment," said Dr. William Clamurro, professor of English, modern languages and journalism and chair of the Shepherd Scholar selection committee.

Shepherd Scholars are selected through a competitive application process led by Emporia State's Roe R. Cross distinguished professors. During the 20 years of the program's existence, 239 Emporia State students have received the plaques and cash awards that recognize them as Shepherd Scholars.
