Snakes on a lake: Mostly harmless

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 06-03-2014 / Vickie Moss

A water snake, possibly a plainbelly water snake, slithers through the water at Crystal Lake Sunday afternoon, June 1. Water snakes in Kansas are typically not venomous species.

Wildlife official says snakes should be avoided, but there's little danger

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A woman who says she and her children have been run off of city lakes because of snakes is right to be cautious but shouldn't be fearful, a local wildlife expert says.

That's because all, or at least nearly all, water snakes in Kansas are non-venomous, Josh DeHoux, Anderson County's Natural Resource Officer from the Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks, said.

Melissa Wilson said she is relatively new to Garnett and frequently takes her children fishing at either Lake Garnett in the northern part of the city, or Crystal Lake (commonly known as the South Lake), in the southern end of the city. But she said the family has abandoned Lake Garnett because there are too many snakes, and her children won't go fishing at Crystal Lake without first picking out a "snake whacking stick."

"They'll come right out of the water at you," Wilson told Garnett city commissioners at a meeting last week.

Snakes don't appear to be anymore or less frequent this year compared to typical years, DeHoux said. He spends quite a bit of time near local lakes, either for personal or professional reasons, and said snakes always are quite common in the spring and summer.

"This time of year, all the snakes are out," he said.

It's not surprising that people who like to fish often see snakes near established fishing spots, he said. That's because fish and aquatic animals have learned the spots are frequently filled with food from bait and other fish. Fish often return to the site for an easy meal, and snakes likely think that means it's dinnertime, too.

Most water snakes eat aquatic creatures like other snakes and amphibians. There are three common types of water snakes in Kansas: the plainbelly water snake, northern water snake and diamondback water snake. The plainbelly water snake can travel quite a distance outside of the water, too. Because they resemble their venomous cousins like the cottonmouth, people often are afraid of them.

But the cottonmouth, or water moccasin, is likely not found in this part of

Local election races set, few surprises

Incumbent Jim Johnson runs unopposed, few file for local positions

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Anderson County Commissioner Jim Johnson likely will be unchallenged in the November election, as no other Republicans or Democrats filed for his District 1 seat.

Only a handful of people filed for more than 50 other ballot positions for precinct committee men and women, or township clerks in the county.

Even though the low number of filings will make for a slim local ballot, several key state and federal races likely will draw voters to the poll during the mid-term elections.

Locally, only two people have filed for township clerk. They are Paul Holman in Welda and Terry Jasper in Lincoln. Other township clerk positions likely will be decided by write-in votes during the election.

The ballot also will include positions for precinct committee men and women who represent each party, Republican and Democrat, at the most basic, grassroots level. Precinct committee posts are most important in the event of a vacancy in an elected office, as they decide who should be appointed to fill

City targets junk in cleanup effort

Police help identify properties in violation of city junk laws

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Efforts to remove junk and eyesores from properties in the city limits of Garnett so far have covered about a quarter of the city, and revealed at least one issue — disposal of old tires — that hinders their efforts, officials reported last week.

Garnett police recently have been inspecting properties for junk, disabled vehicles and tall grass at the request of City Manager Joyce Martin. Officers are hand-delivering notices to people about city rules requiring removal of such items, and so far they've checked about a quarter of the city, Martin and Police Chief Kevin Pekarek reported to commissioners at their regular meeting Tuesday, May 27.

The work is part of ongoing efforts to improve the appearance of properties in the city. It followed a recent change of duties, in which the city's recreation and zoning director took over all city recreation duties, including those handled in a position that no longer exists. Zoning responsibilities were doled out to other employees.

"I don't want to say it's been neglected, but it's gotten ahead of us," Martin said.

Pekarek said so far the response from residents was

Cable investing $1.2M for Garnett system

Company official says system upgrades will be finished soon

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Officials with the City of Garnett's cable and Internet provider say the company plans to invest $1.2 million on infrastructure and upgrades in Garnett, and provided a new timetable for long-awaited changes in the system.

Shawn Beqaj, a vice president with Vyve Broadband, asked Garnett city commissioners and customers to be a little more patient about continued problems with the system, and said they should expect to see major improvements within six months. The company bought the beleaguered Allegiance

Communications system more than a year ago, and in February 2013 Beqaj promised improvements within a six month timeframe. But more than a year later, problems remain and city leaders questioned if the company could still hold up their end of the deal.

Vyve, formerly known as BCI Broadband, encountered several unexpected problems and issues with their plans for Allegiance, Beqaj said. The system itself was in poor shape, and they faced numerous delays obtaining permits for some of the right-of-ways.

"This kind of a stumble is something we're, frankly, unaccustomed to dealing with. It doesn't mean we've changed our plan," Beqaj said.

Because of the problems, mostly positive. One of the most common problems police had encountered was disposal of old tires. People must pay a fee to dispose of old tires, and depending on the facility the fee can range between $2 to $12 per tire.

"A lot of people say it's too expensive to get rid of them. I say tickets (for violating the city's junk removal policy) can be more expensive," Pekarek said. "Tires have always been a problem to get rid of."

City officials discussed the possibility of finding a program that would take the tires at a low cost. During citywide cleanup efforts twice a year, tires are not accepted because it also costs the city to dispose of them.

Pekarek said another common problem was junk cars. Owners often say they've been meaning to fix the cars, but they don't have the time or money to do so.

CABLE...

Beqaj said he was reluctant to give a specific timetable for improvements. However, he said customers should see changes within another six months.

The company has about 300 customers in Garnett, or about 19 percent of the market share for its services. Beqaj said the company's goal was to increase that market share to 50 percent, and Vyve was investing a lot of money toward that goal. It was expected to cost about $1.2 million to install fiber optic cable between Ottawa and Garnett, which would improve Internet speeds up to 105 megabytes per second and all-digital, high-definition television.

"Imagine spending $1.2 million on 300 customers," Beqaj said. "This isn't a pie in the sky scheme. We've done this in many states and cities."

Beqaj also addressed some common complaints among local customers, such as poor customer service at the company's call center and recent loss of popular television channels. Locally, customers find they have better response by calling staff at City Hall, who then forward their complaints to Vyve officials.

The call center was based in an Oklahoma city that for some reason has a limited pool of qualified employees, Beqaj said. The company improved technology and doubled the size of its call center, but it has been difficult to find and train qualified employees, he said. Continued problems with the system, outages and loss of popular channels also have increased call volume.

The company recently lost several channels as a result of failed negotiations with Viacom. Beqaj said Viacom simply wanted too much money, and keeping the channels would have required a significant rate increase to customers. Because Vyve is trying to entice new customers with low rates, company officials do not want to increase rates, he said. Vyve has since replaced seven of the eight lost channels with similar programming from other providers.

"The value wasn't there. It was a difficult choice to make, and we didn't make it lightly," he said.

He pointed out that the company would face even more difficult negotiations in the near future, with local stations and popular providers like ESPN and Disney.

"The paradigm is different with them than Viacom. We value their programming more," he said.

Commissioners thanked Beqaj for coming from New York to discuss the issue with them. Mayor Preston Peine cautioned him against making promises he couldn't keep, such as introducing a reward program for established customers. Beqaj said he was very concerned about that and assured the commissioners that customers would be pleased when the upgrades were made.

"I rarely get too excited," Commissioner Greg Gwin said. "The last time we spoke, I was very excited for our local customers. ... I was excited by your plan and I was let down when it didn't bear fruit."

"Coming in and asking for forgiveness is not something we're used to doing," Beqaj said, citing other cities where the company had been very successful. "A lot had to do with the company we bought. Perhaps we were a little too confident in our ability to turn that around."

"I think in this community you inherited a great deal of ill will," Peine added. "There was a new company going to come in and solve this problem, and it wasn't solved. ... Delays, we can deal with. If this is as good as it's going to get, it's not acceptable. ... Apology accepted on, at least on my part."

Beqaj suggested the company's Kansas representative, who was also present and introduced herself to the commission, could communicate more frequently with city staff about continued progress on the system.

the post. On the Republican side, filings include:

- Dane Hicks, Monroe.
- George Alvin Peters, Garnett Precinct III.
- David Patton, Lincoln.
- Carl Nichols, Westphalia.
- Grant Corley, Reeder.
- June Cooper, Garnett Precinct I.
- Arlene Patton, Lincoln.

On the Democratic side, filings include:

- Bill Feuerborn, Monroe.
- John Fuhrman III, Garnett Precinct 2.
- John Fuhrman Jr., Colony.
- Cleon Rickel, Garnett Precinct 1.

There will be a number of state and federal races on the ballot. Federal offices include U.S. Senator and U.S. Representative for the 2nd District. State offices up for election include governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer, insurance commissioner, 4th District State Representative, 5th District State Representative and 9th District State Board of Education.

The most notable state race will see Gov. Sam Brownback challenged by House Minority Leader Paul Davis. Although Brownback is heavily expected to win re-election, the race is expected to be heavily watched because of Democratic criticism of Brownback's staunchly Republican agenda.

Another race expected to receive attention is for Lynn Jenkins' 2nd District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives. Jenkins will be challenged in the primary by fellow Republican Joshua Joel Tucker of Pittsburg. If she successfully holds off the challenge, she will face Margie Wakefield, a Democrat from Lawrence, in November.

The primary election will be Aug. 5, followed by the general election Nov. 4.

Her father, Cleon Rickel, serves on the USD 365 Board of Education and has filed for a precinct committeeman post as a Democrat in Garnett Precinct 1. Her older brother, Andrew Rickel, ran unsuccessfully in 2008 for the Kansas 12th Senate District. Like his sister, he also was a sophomore at K-State during his bid.

Jones, a pastor who served as a Green Beret in Iraq with the U.S. Army, was elected to represent the 5th District in 2010, defeating longtime Democratic representative Bill Feuerborn of Garnett. Feuerborn has filed for a precinct committeeman post as a Democrat in Monroe Township.

the state. In fact, only one official record of a cottonmouth in Kansas has been recorded, in Cherokee County in the extreme southeastern part of the state, according to several websites about snakes in Kansas.

Yet even though water snakes may not be poisonous, it's still a good idea to be cautious around them, DeHoux said. A bite or scratch likely will hurt and bleed a lot, and wild animals can carry germs and diseases like salmonella.

Even outside the water, most snake species in Kansas aren't venomous. A presentation put together for the City of Lawrence said 38 snake species can be found in Kansas, and only five are venomous.

Of those, only two or three venomous species are found in this part of Kansas, DeHoux said. They mostly include the copperhead and massasauga rattlesnake. Even less common is the intimidating and large timber rattlesnake, which also is a protected species meaning it is illegal to kill it. Venomous snakes are more likely to be found in wooded areas.

Snakes get a bad rap, DeHoux said. Most species are beneficial, and bites are not common.

"A lot of people hate snakes, but they have a value in their ability to control the rodent population," DeHoux said. "Even though the likelihood of a poisonous snake is low, don't mess with them."

The classic mantra applies, he said: Leave them alone, and they'll likely leave you alone.

The bitter truth about local cable

Garnett's cable TV situation has been the focus of cussing and discussing for more than 20 years. The down side is the industry trend of TV viewing just doesn't support cable TV in small towns anymore, and the situation with cable here won't get any cheaper and won't get any better.

It's a far cry from the old days. Cable TV companies were a lot like the old Ma & Pa phone companies that started up in the area in the 1920s. Cable companies literally started up as small businesses in a lot of communities the size of Garnett in the late 1960s and 1970s, with local operations or small multi-city operations arising out of private investment. They cut deals with the cities to string cable on the city utility poles and could go to any house or business with electrical service. In those days you knew the guy who ran the local cable TV office and you probably knew the guy who drove the bucket truck and serviced or installed your lines.

Beyond the initial start-up costs, it was phenomenally profitable. When dad got used to a clear picture of the ball game, without having to have one of his kids stand by the TV with one hand on the antenna and one holding a pie plate to boost the reception, the cable industry exploded. Millions of subscribers and advertisers who wanted that captive cable audience gave birth to private programming companies that re-sold programming you couldn't get with your antenna - remember when HBO came out? The rise of cable and the profitability of it meant TV stations were a hot commodity and more licenses were granted for them, and big companies started buying up all the Mom & Pops and combining them.

Suddenly the local cable office closed. You rarely saw the guy in the truck. The mergers made the media monoliths like Time-Warner Cable billions upon billions of dollars and fueled the entertainment industry.

But the advent of the small satellite dish spelled doom for small town cable. Now, people who wouldn't have thought of having one of those giant car-sized satellite dishes of the 1980s killing the grass in most of their yard could have satellite programming at cable competitive prices without the monstrosity. Cable subscribers in Garnett began to wane, as did the value of the local franchise and the cash flow that supported its maintenance, not to mention the value of the local franchises. Complaints about quality of service began to grow.

Then came digital signal output from TV stations, which means you can get generally good reception with a digital TV receiver - not to mention channel offerings that are quadruple the old antenna stations. If you're not a specialty TV junkie, you can get by with just an antenna, paying zilch, and still get local TV news, weather and sports along with the traditional TV network channels. The latest punch is Internet-available programming and jockeying among the mega corporations to decide if they can afford to "unbundle" programming, continue to charge way too much for Internet and wireless phone service in the U.S. and in so-doing kill off the cable systems most of them already own.

In the early 1990s the local cable TV system boasted 1,100 or so subscribers. Now, according to info from last week's meeting with a company official, only about 300 local subscribers remain.

Unfortunately for the city's franchise fee paid by the cable company, that level of subscribership doesn't support re-investment in the system unless some major cost-saving methods are realized. The future of cable programming in Garnett - in any small town for that matter - is financially bleak.

City commissioners, administration and the few remaining customers should accept that fact and plan accordingly.

Last week a group of us was visiting with an ex-city commissioner and this article was brought up about the Park Road sidewalk. He agreed the sidewalk should have been on the south side, but since the person who requested it was on the north side. Sounds like the idea was to get back at the person that proposed it because nobody was going to tell them at that time how to run the city. I thought that was pretty interesting. Thank you.

Think twice about your assisted living facility. They eavesdrop better than the FBI.

I'm out decorating graves at the cemetery and there's a girl and a guy out jogging around the cemetery and in the cemetery with no shirt on and everything. You're the most disrespectful people I've ever seen. That is real class there.

Again this year Curtis and Mary Ann have done a fantastic job taking care of the Springfield Cemetery. Thank you.

The Square Fair was not the proper place to be promoting guns and accessories. Also, it was not the proper place to be carrying a gun in a crowd. There are gun shows for promoting and selling guns. The Square Fair is for arts & crafts only.

We the seniors that built this community are now being deprived of what's going on at our city commission meetings because we don't have computers. In the years past it's always been in the newspaper, and it's no longer in there, at least it hasn't been the last month or so. We're the ones that do the voting and we want to know what is being discussed at these meetings. Why are we paying for subscriptions to the newspaper when there's nothing in there we're concerned about? I think this new technology you have down there is trying to leave us old people out. We have a right to know what's going on at the commissioners meetings. Thank you.

If you want any good news in Garnett whether it's true or not just go to the tallest commercial building on 5th Street. They'll tell you all the gossip they know whether it's true or not and you might even get a bargain or two.

It's real saddening about our veterans, thousands and thousands of them not getting medical help, waiting in line and dying and we've got a low-life scumbag in Garnett who got booted out of the National Guard for being militarily unfit. I think he ought to be real proud of himself because he's drawing VA benefits and ain't hardly worked a day in his life. Thank you.

The VA health care's Socialist Paradise

For the left, the Department of Veterans Affairs is how health care is ideally supposed to work. No insurance companies, no private doctors, no competition -- just the government and the patient.

The VA is an island of socialism in American health care. It generally provides adequate care -- to a limited universe of people and for only certain conditions -- but has long been plagued by scandal. It is perhaps the worst bureaucracy in the federal government. As with all such single-payer-type systems, the cost of the notionally free health care is in the rationing, in this case the wait times that have had desperately ill vets hung out to dry for months.

The usual Obamacare excuses don't apply here. The existence of the VA isn't politically controversial. No one is trying to repeal it, or "sabotage" it. What we're seeing is simply unaccountable bureaucracy in action.

When the benchmark was created for VA facilities to get vets appointments within 14 days, meeting the goal was easy: All it took was logging appointments dishonestly to hide the wait time. This is how poorly performing government bureaucracies have met goals from time immemorial; it's why, on a much more vast and monstrous scale, Soviet five-year plans were always such runaway successes on paper.

The VA system worked for everyone but the patients -- and the whistle-blowers. The

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

daughter-in-law of a Navy vet in Phoenix who died after never getting follow-up for his "urgent" case was told, in lines that perfectly capture the spirit of socialized medicine: "It's a seven-month waiting list. And you're gonna have to have patience."

But the bureaucracy acted with alacrity when its reporting scheme was at risk. In St. Louis, the former chief of psychiatry says he was put under administrative investigation when he complained about wait lists. A whistle-blower who worked in Fort Collins, Colo., alleges that she and a colleague were transferred when they refused to hide wait times.

So far, the VA affair is running the usual course of Obama administration scandals, with the requisite denial and lack of accountability. VA Secretary Eric Shinseki has referred to the incidents as "isolated cases" (even though 26 facilities are now under investigation). He now takes his leave.

The White House has reverted to its default position of maintaining that it doesn't know much about what's happening in the vast government it always wants to make bigger. Spokesman Jay Carney, now also taking his leave, seemed to suggest that the president first heard about the scandal on CNN.

Of course, the problem with wait times and the trustworthiness of the VA's own reporting wasn't news. The Government Accountability Office has been warning of it since 2000. It headlined a December 2012 report, "VA HEALTH CARE: Reliability of Reported Outpatient Medical Appointment Wait Times and Scheduling Oversight Need Improvement."

The VA obviously isn't going anywhere, but the scandal should be the occasion for making it more transparent and accountable, and giving vets more choices. As of now, it represents a case study in how a bureaucracy tends to its own interests, even at the expense of veterans relying on it for matters of life and death.

Get ready for a summer of finger pointing

OK, we got the news, Kansas revenues are down about $300 million from estimates in the past two months, and that's not good for the budget that has just been passed and for the upcoming fiscal year which starts July 1.

And, we have an election-year summer ahead of finger-pointing and casting blame for the massive reduction in state revenues.

Democrats point at Gov. Sam Brownback for his tax cut program. Republicans point at President Barack Obama, who scared the wealthy back in 2012 when he proposed allowing those tasty President George Bush-era tax cuts to expire—but they didn't.

Oh, you can further dissect the revenue drops: The then-moderate Republican Kansas Senate in 2012 loaded up the governor's tax cut proposal with more cuts and less revenue-enhancers than he had proposed, sending him a bill with outrageous revenue implications—but he signed it anyway.

Or, you can take the tack that the entire national economy was shaken, not stirred, by the possibility of federal income tax changes in 2013 (which didn't happen), and it took a year for canny federal taxpayers to square up their investment decisions. Oh, and then there's always Obamacare and federal spending and the national deficit and whatever you want.

But the key for us folks who spend too much time in the Statehouse is that there is going to be a lot less money floating around the state treasury than anyone feels comfortable with.

STATE COMMENTARY

Estimates—and it's just estimates now—are that the Legislature and the governor are going to see for the fiscal year that starts July 1 and for which appropriations have already been approved at least $300 million less in the bank.

It's enough of a reduction in receipts that you can count on whoever is governor next year and the Legislature to spend much of the session cutting budgets that agencies have already been handed.

It is starting to look like that Republican-estimated ending balance for the upcoming fiscal year—$288 million—isn't going to happen. And it's starting to look like a Democratic projection of ending balances is going to be closer to right—at maybe $70 million.

And then, whoever is governor is likely to have to make budget allocations—essentially cuts in spending already promised—single-handedly. Former Gov. Mark Parkinson had to do that several years ago during the national recession just to keep the government running...and he came under heavy criticism from nearly everyone.

So? The politics of this revenue drop are going to be bitter this election cycle. A canny candidate for reelection will hold off on those cuts until after the election and a smart challenger will wail that the governor is delaying those allotments for purely political reasons. Both, of course, are right.

Makes the upcoming election campaign more interesting. Nobody's talking about the obvious fix: Raising taxes... And nobody's talking about the other option: Cutting spending...

Tristan Davis of Central Heights High School received a State FFA Proficiency Award in Swine Production Placement at the state at the 86th Kansas FFA Convention May 29.

Central Heights FFA member wins state award

MANHATTAN – A member of the Central Heights FFA Chapter was recognized May 29 for having one of the best career development programs in the state at the 86th Kansas FFA Convention.

Tristan Davis received a State FFA Proficiency Award in Swine Production Placement during the convention for outstanding accomplishments he has made in developing programs that will prepare him for a career in agriculture. This award is sponsored by the Kansas Pork Association.

The proficiency award program recognizes students for exceptional accomplishments and excellence in a Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) program. This program allows students to set goals and gain real-world experience in a chosen area of the agriculture industry.

Tristan works for J/L Show Pigs, a family-owned, 50 sow, farrow to finish operation. Tristan helps sell the top end hogs as show stock and the lower quality animals are fed out. As a young farmer, Tristan enjoys seeing others have success in the show ring with hogs he has produced. He plans to continue his show pig operation even after college, eventually selling show stock on a national level. In the future Tristan plans to attend Kansas State University to earn a degree in animal science.

Kart Enduro races return

The first of two Kart Enduro races is scheduled for June 7 and 8. As always, many racers from several states are entered for this karting event. Kart racing has been held on the lake road for 55 years and as in the past, the North Lake Road will be closed to the local traffic from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on June 7 and 8.

The community is welcome to watch the races free of charge at the south end of the lake road, which is known as the Flat Iron Corner. If one wishes to enter the pit area, a fee pass is required.

The Garnett Kart Club invites the community to come out and view and support the racers. Local racer Bryan Norman will be racing each day.

The Garnett Kart Club thanks the public for their support and understanding as this sporting event takes place on the lake road.

Congratulations on making it to State!

Crest sprinter medals at state

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WICHITA - Junior track star Rene Rodriguez was the lone Crest Lancer to qualify for the Kansas High School State Track & Field Championships in Wichita, Kansas that took place on May 30-31 on the campus of Wichita State University.

Rodriguez not only qualified for state, he actually qualified in three different events as he competed in the 100-meter, 200-meter and 400-meter dashes.

Rodriguez earned his lone medal in the 100-meter dash. He finished third in his heat with a time of 11.75 seconds. Kurt Van Der Merwe from Linn won the heat in 11.46 seconds.

The top two finishers of each heat automatically qualified for finals, but Rodriguez got in because his time was one of the next four fastest times of the non-automatic qualifiers.

He capitalized on his opportunity as he ran an 11.53 second time in the finals, which was good for fourth place. The state champion was Jordan Hoffman from Otis-Bison as he crossed the finish line in 11.25 seconds.

In the 200-meter dash, Rodriguez also advanced to the finals thanks to a fourth place finish in his heat with a time of 23.43 seconds. The heat was won by Evan Zabokrtsky, from Hanover, with a time of 22.85 seconds.

Rodriguez ran a nearly identical time in the finals of the 200 meters, but it wasn't quite good enough to medal. He finished in seventh place with a time of 23.46 seconds. Hoffman from Otis-Bison, once again, brought home the gold with a blazing time of 22.28 seconds.

The 400-meter dash wasn't quite as successful for Rodriguez. He finished his heat with a time of 53.36 seconds, which was good for 13th place overall. Hoffman from Otis-Bison won his heat with a time of 50.45 seconds and went on to win the gold medal with a slightly better time of 49.72 seconds.

Gwen Sibley, ACHS track contestant, qualifies for 4A pole vault competition at the Pleasanton Regional. Sibley finished 13th in the pole vault with a vault of 8 feet.

ACHS track well represented at state, but fail to medal

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WICHITA - Last Friday and Saturday, May 30-31, the ACHS tracksters that qualified for state competed at Wichita State University.

The Bulldog women sent six different athletes to state to compete in seven different events. Unfortunately for the girls, they finished without a medal but they did gain some valuable experience for future seasons as the youngsters will be hoping for a return trip to state again next season.

Sophomore MaKayla Kueser qualified for state in the 100-meter, 200-meter, girls' high jump and as part of the 4x100 relay.

She failed to bring home a medal, but will no doubt cherish the experience and use it as motivation to get back with better results next season.

Kueser finished the 100-meter dash in 13.29 seconds, good for sixth in her heat. Tristan Davis from KC-Piper won her heat with a time of 12.75 seconds. The state champion was Devin Cosper from Field Kindley High School with a time of 12.34 seconds.

Kueser finished eighth in her heat in the 200-meter with a time of 27.68 seconds. Kelly Wycoff from Scott Community won the heat with 25.36 seconds. State champion was Cosper with a time of 25.16 seconds.

The 4x100 meter relay team finished in sixth place in their heat. The team is comprised of sophomores Reagan Jirak, Ellie Lutz, Kueser and junior Jessica McCullar. Their time was 51.49 seconds. Field Kindley brought home the gold in 49.93 seconds.

Kueser jumped 4'10" in the high jump, which was good for 12th place. Madi Rollins from Chanute won the event with a jump of 5'4".

Sophomore Gwen Sibley finished in 13th place in the pole vault with a vault of eight feet. Jannell Clappitt of Desoto vaulted 10'6" to win the gold.

McCullar competed at state in both the long jump and triple jump as well as running a leg in the 4x100 relay. She placed 15th in the long jump with a leap of 14'3.75" and finished 11th in the triple jump with a jump of 32'3.75".

Amy Suenram from McPherson won the long jump at 16'6" and Courtney Lies of Andale jumped 38'9" in the triple jump to win the gold medal.

Walter finishes 18th

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

MAYETTA - On Tuesday, May 27, Spencer Walter traveled to Mayetta to compete in the 2014 KSHSAA 4A State Boys Golf Tournament. The tournament was held at Mayetta-Firekeeper Golf Course.

Spencer Walter capped off a solid career with another trip to the state tournament in golf, his fourth in four seasons. He didn't get the finish he was hoping for as he finished just inside the top 20 at 18th place. His score of 78 was nine strokes behind the winner.

Marc McClain from Bonner Springs won the individual title with a score of 69.

Topeka-Hayden High School won the team title with an overall score of 314. That was 15 strokes better than the second place team from Buhler High School.

ACHS Competes at State Track

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 06-03-2014 / Dane Hicks

Anderson County's Regan Jirak tries to catch Basehor-Linwood's Sierra Smith during the second leg of the girls 4x100 relay at the Kansas 4A State Track Meet Friday at Wichita State University's Cessna Stadium. AC's team of Jessica McCullar, Jirak, Ellie Lutz and Makayla Kueser notched a time of 51.49 for 10th place.

Go nuclear in sales efforts

Want to blow through the conventional sales combat tactics that everybody, and I mean everybody else is using? Want to take your sales effort nuclear?

Write a note. Yep. You can obliterate the competition just by treating your best customers like they're deserving of something more than an email or a tweet or a Facebook post.

Sure, it's old-fashioned. It's archaic. It sounds like one of those History Channel stories where Sears meets Roebuck. But it is the intercontinental ballistic missile of selling, and anybody can do it.

I forget the numbers of how many electronic messages we get a day - emails, tweets, TV & radio ads, blah blah - but it's way more than Justin Bieber has mugshots, and that's a bunch.

You can make yourself memorable by stepping out of that fray and doing it old school with a hand written, old-fashioned, 48¢ postage-stamped note.

1) As I've already noted in this column many times before, your best clients matter most. I'm not suggesting you send a hand-written note everytime somebody buys a jaw breaker from the machine in your lobby. Deploy your Nuke Notes on that 20 percent of your customers that make up 80 percent of your business, as well as new prospects to join those ranks.

2) Next, go to your local printer and get some good-quality note cards with matching envelopes. No cheap stuff you run through your own computer printer - this should be every bit as good as a wedding invitation. Keep it simple but be sure you logo is there and your contact info somewhere, either on the card or envelope.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

3) Block out time to do it. You don't need enough time to write a novel, just a few lines of thanks or "hey did you see this" or congratulations or something, but you must have time to do it. Make it just before lunch, first cup of coffee, etc.

4) Be professional, but with a personal touch. Nothing sappy. Mention how much you appreciate his/her business, to contact you personally if there are ever any issues, or clip an article and send it or refer a web site link. Be aware of his/her interests and meet those interests.

5) For heaven's sake, check your spelling and grammar in advance, even if you have to type the note's text in Word (or something with spell/grammar check). If you're not confident in your writing ability, run it by someone else to see how it sounds. Remember this is more formal than electronic, so no text-speak or any of that nonsense.

Set yourself a goal to send at least one note a week. It will be the nuclear weapon of your sales arsenal, and believe me, it will help you sell stuff.

KDOT testing pavement strength in Anderson County

From now until Thursday, June 5, the Kansas Department of Transportation (KDOT) will run tests of pavement strength on the following routes in Anderson, Coffey and Greenwood counties: U.S. 169, U.S. 54 and K-58.

The testing crew uses a falling weight deflectometer (FWD), a device equipped with a series of weights that checks the strength of asphalt pavement. KDOT conducts FWD tests every year on different sections of the state highway system.

A pilot car operation will be used for traffic control at each testing site. Motorists will experience delays of 15 minutes or less. KDOT reminds all drivers to be alert and obey the warning signs when approaching and driving through the testing zones. Persons with questions about the testing can call Southeast District Public Affairs Manager Priscilla Petersen at 1-877-550-5368 (toll free).

The testing process began Monday, June 2.

Emergency loans available from FSA

"Farmers in Coffey and Osage Counties, who suffered crop or livestock losses due to drought occurring May 6, 2014 and on-going may now apply for Farm Service Agency (FSA) emergency loans," FSA Farm Loan Manager Stacy Kull, said today.

Anderson, Douglas, Franklin and Shawnee Counties also became eligible under existing legislation which provides that farmers in counties bordering on those which have been designated for disaster assistance, may also qualify for such assistance. Applications for assistance will be accepted by FSA until January 14, 2015.

"Loans covering physical and/or production losses are scheduled for repayment as rapidly as feasible, consistent with the applicant's reasonable ability to pay," said Stacy Kull.

FSA's Farm Loan Programs staff is committed to new and existing customers, FSA customer goals and our rural communities. FSA's service extends beyond the typical loan, offering FSA customers ongoing consultation, advice and creative ways to make your farm business thrive. At the Farm Service Agency, we want to be your lender of first opportunity to overcome these adverse weather conditions and rebuild your operation to get back on track. FSA's loan staff can refer customers to other public and commercial financing sources that can serve as a blend with FSA's farm loan programs.

FSA loans covering physical losses may be used to replace installations, equipment, livestock, or buildings (including homes), lost through this disaster.

FSA loans covering production losses may be used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, or to make payments on real estate and chattel debts. "Funds can also be used for other essential operating and living expenses," Kull said.

To be eligible for an emergency disaster loan, an applicant must be operating a family size farm or ranch, must be unable to get credit elsewhere, and must have suffered a qualifying physical and/or production loss from the disaster.

Farmers who suffered at least a 30 percent reduction to at least one cropping enterprise, may have a qualifying production loss. Emergency disaster production loss loans cover 100 percent of qualifying losses.

Farmers and ranchers that think they may eligible should contact the FSA County Office in Ottawa, Kansas or call 785-242-3527 for additional information and how to apply. # 1914: Greeley considers $12K for new school

June 1, 2004

Civic leaders in Garnett will team up with a Topeka car club for a commemoration event this summer celebrating the Lake Garnett Grand Prix races of the early 1960s. City commissioners Tuesday approved the use of the Lake Garnett Park on July 24 of the event, which will use the venue of the old Grand Prix races to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Kansas Region Sports Car Club of America based in Topeka. Organizers are looking for memorabilia from the races to display in connection with the event. A movie filmed during the races will be available for viewing.

The company that plans to build an ethanol plant in Garnett's Golden Prairie Industrial Park executed its option to buy the property this week, another step toward the yet-to-be announced beginning of the plant's construction.

The City of Garnett will receive some $88,350 from the federal government to perform a comprehensive study of the municipal airport with hopes of designing a development plan whose actual project work might also be paid for by new federal entitlements.

The Anderson County Commission approved action taken by the county planning board that will allow a new 100 foot by 160 foot expansion to be built onto the west side of Bauman's Carpet and Furniture just north of Garnett along U.S. 59. The addition did not meet side yard and intensity-of-use requirements in the county zoning codes, but the planning board approved variances that would allow the building to be built.

Orville Cole, a former Garnett attorney, continued his assault on the Anderson County Economic Development Committee during the Anderson County Commission meeting Monday. For the second time in two weeks, Cole asked that the county pull its funding of one-half mills annually to the economic development group. Cole has pressed the commission to give up the half mill of county tax money paid to ACED since losing a bitter fight to stop state funding for the Prairie Spirit Rail Trail. ACED supported development of the trail. Cole provided information that he had read that indicated that each job created by economic development costs thousands of dollars to develop.

How satisfied are Garnett residents with the different functions within their community? What improvements do people foresee the community needs within the next few years? These questions were answered by 420 residential surveys returned in a house-to-house PRIDE Committee tabulation of need within the Garnett community. The top need, as listed by both the 91-item list of adequacy of various functions and also the opinions of citizens as to needs in the future, was a movie theater. Other things they said needed improvement were job opportunities for youth and job opportunities for others, followed by a taxi service and removal of dilapidated buildings.

A KDOT engineer presented photographic material to commissioners to help explain erosion problems at the 80 mile marker on K-31 northwest of Garnett. He asked the county commissioners to determine damages stemming from the erosion from the David Leitch property. Apparently KDOT has been fighting this erosion problem for over two years. The erosion not only appears to be washing out the Leitch land but is apparently washing out the K-31 highway surface, as well.

It was stated in Monday's Review, Greeley contemplates the building of a new and modern school building, as the present building is inadequate to house the growing school. The proposition is to vote bonds in the amount of $12,000, which sum should cover the cost of the grounds and the building, the grounds to occupy five acres. Greeley is certainly in need of more school room. Besides, the present building is a "back number" in more ways than one. The editor of The Review hopes the proposition will be adopted by the people of the districts. Greeley is a wide-awake little city and is one of the best towns in eastern Kansas. Good teachers are employed in the schools, but they need better equipment. This reminds us of the Greeley schools of the past. One of the original school houses was said to be a little log hut near the present bridge, across the street from John Lon's present home. D.W. Smith, we have been told, taught school there. There were other places, no doubt, where school was held, but the writer remembers no others until he went to school in this little old United Brethren church, which, at the time, was only partly furnished with regular seats. Some of the children sat on planks placed on logs. That was in 1868. A new frame schoolhouse was built that fall and winter, and the school was moved to it in January '69. This served as a school house a good many years. Then the present brick building was erected, about the year 1880. This building was the pride of the town a good many years.

Qualification for entrance into The Kingdom?

Weekly Devotional
by David Bilderback

In Matthew chapter 21 Jesus tells a parable about two sons who are ordered by their father to work in the vineyard. The first son refuses but later changes his mind and went anyway. The other son agreed to go but did not. Jesus is addressing the religious leaders and he asks them this question? "Which of the two did the will of his father?" They said, "The first." Jesus then said to them, "Truly, I say to you, the tax collectors and the prostitutes go into the kingdom before you. For John, (John the Baptist) came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him, but the tax collectors and prostitutes believed him. And even when you saw it, (the kingdom) you did not afterwards change your minds and believe him." Matthew 21:31-32

This statement by Jesus naturally angered the religious leaders because what he was saying is that these tax collectors and prostitutes were entering the kingdom of God ahead of the religious leaders of the day because they recognized their sinfulness and repented. These religious leaders did not recognize their need for God's grace. They were willing to stand on their reputation and their commitment to the Jewish Law. In their eyes these notorious sinners only made them feel better about themselves and their own righteousness.

Their religion was based on tradition, personal preference and convenience. The law provided the traditional background they sought and they added to it to include their personal preferences and any convenience they desired, tailoring it to please themselves. While this benefited them it limited other's ability to worship at all. The tax collectors and prostitutes could never meet the criteria of the religious leaders thus they were left out.

When Jesus arrived on the scene and offered forgiveness to them if they recognized their sinfulness and repented it offered a hope to anyone who had turned their back on God. This concept of forgiveness of sins based on the righteousness of Jesus instead of personal righteousness made salvation obtainable. The kingdom Christ offers is one where the qualification for entrance is a righteousness that can only be obtained as a gift from Christ. Those who refuse to recognize their need for the righteousness of Christ will never find their way into the kingdom.

At the end of the Sermon on the Mount Jesus makes this statement. "Not everyone who says to me, Lord, Lord, will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only he who does the will of my Father who is in heaven." That should give us pause for thought.

David Bilderback: A Ministry on the Holiness of God.

'Orphan Train' featured in library's book discussion

The Garnett Public Library will hold a book discussion on Wednesday, June 25th at 7 p.m. This month's book is "Orphan Train" by Christina Kline. Leading our discussion will be Paulabeth Henderson.

Rich in detail and epic in scope, Orphan Train is a powerful novel of upheaval and resilience, of second chances, of unexpected friendship, and of the secrets we carry that keep us from finding out who we are. This book is set in both the present day and the 1920s, 30s and 40s.

Kline delivers her most ambitious and powerful novel to date: a captivating story of two very different women: a 91-year-old woman with a hidden past as an orphan-train rider and the teenage girl whose own troubled adolescence leads her to seek answers to questions no one has ever thought to ask.

The books are available for checkout at the library. The discussions are held the fourth Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Archer Room at the library. Notification is posted in case of cancellation.

Lions Club-60th

The Colony Lions Club will be celebrating their 60th anniversary on June 14 at the Colony City Hall community room at 6 p.m. Area clubs have been invited to the celebration.

The Colony Lions civic organization was chartered July 1, 1954 with 26 charter members. The Garnett Lions had sponsored them. Dale Nichols was the first president. They are a progress booster for Colony. Larger and most evident projects accredited to them are building a community fire barn to house the rural fire truck they obtained which housed the city fire truck also, the building of a new shelter house, addition of a chain link fence around the ballpark, building a house for a disabled resident and the construction of a committal building in the southeast part of the Colony Cemetery.

Fund donations for numerous school events are made, the Colony Day event and many other contributions. Annually they hold a pancake/soup feed, provide treats for children in the Christmas Season, and usually send one or two students to the Kansas Lions State Band. An enjoyable memory was the eleven-year annual event when they held a concession stand at the Colony High Point Rodeo Arena event. Attendance grew from 2,000 to 7,000 paid admissions in that time frame. The biggest change was in 1989, when women became eligible for membership. They did not wish to until 2008. Women members now number four-Donna Westernman, Dian Prasko, Dee Dee McMullin and Sue Colgin.

Two members are third generation members: Steven Weatherman and Brian Ulrich. Steven's grandfather, Lloyd Weatherman was a charter member as well as his son Robert. Charter member Keith Ulrich, grandfather of Brian Ulrich and his father Bill, who has served 27 years as the club's treasurer (24 of them consecutively).

Colony is proud to have this civic club that works with youth and other community citizens for a better community for all.

Library

Library board met May 20 at the City Hall community room. Lola Webber was re-appointed to the board. All officers remain in their positions: Charlotte Wallace, president; Steve Wallace, vice-president; Charlene Tinsley, treasurer and Debbie Wools, secretary. Purchasing of large print western books was discussed.

Lions

The regular meeting of the Lions Club was held May 21 at the United Methodist Church with the United Methodist Women fixing and serving the meal. Fourteen members and a guest of Dee Dee McMullin, Cindy Patsman of Colony, who is interested in becoming a member were in attendance. A thank you card was read by President Richard Burkdoll from the Crest 2nd graders for the reading aides the Lions obtained for them. Burkdoll thanked everyone that helped grill hot dogs for Crest students the last day of school. Dee Dee McMullin reported she had invited Garnett, Humboldt and Kincaid Lions clubs to their 60th anniversary celebration. District Governor Jess Larson and Zone Chairman Terry Weldin will be guest speakers. Brian Ulrich will provide the evening's entertainment. Mary Scovill will cater the event.

Colony Lions are collecting used eyeglasses for the Lions sight foundation. They will be repaired and given to adults and kids throughout the world that are in need of them. # Richmond Library wraps up spring, readies for summer

May is a busy month for most. Mother's Day, Graduations and Memorial Day weekend and L. Frank Baum's birthday (he wrote The Wizard of Oz). Even with the busy schedules the library did manage to plan a few events this May.

First up was Mother's Day, the story time kids made Mother's Day baskets from paper plates and fake flowers and on Friday, May 9, the library had crafts for the kids to make their mother's and grandmothers.

Next up L. Frank Baum's birthday and 2014 is the 75th anniversary of the movie, so you know the library had to do something.

The story time kids were read two Wizard of Oz books and then made "Over the Rainbow" windsocks out of small milk jugs and ribbon on May 14.

The kids were invited to the library on May 15 to make "Tornadoes in a Jar" and "Broom Stick" dessert on May 15th.

The adults who were up it for checked out the "Cooking in Oz" cookbook and made a recipe from the book and brought it to share with others on Friday, May 16.

The Adults also took a Library "Field Trip" to Wamego to visit the Oz Museum and Toto's Taco's for lunch on Tuesday, May 20. They also went to the Dutch Wind Mill and Prairie Town Museum in Wamego and then off to Alma to the cheese factory. The group had a wonderful time!

The Modern Woodmen of America Tiny Tots club also planted the library flower boxes for us again this year. The little kids do a great job and it makes the front of the library look so pretty. Many thanks to them.

The library's 2014 Summer Reading program will kick-off with our annual "Seed Spitting" contest on Wednesday, June 4th @ 3:00. Flyers for each group will be on the desk for the rest of the summer events. There will be 5th grade and under, 6th - 12th grade and Adults. Come and join the fun!
