Former Kincaid treasurer charged with fund misuse

Crime occurred between Jan. 2012-May 2013, court records say

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A former Kincaid city official has been accused of misusing $1,428 in city funds.

Joyce Sue Sipe of Colony, who previously served as the Kincaid treasurer, was charged in Anderson County District Court with one count of misuse of public funds last week. According to court documents filed by Anderson County Attorney Brandon Jones, Sipe inappropriately used $1,428 of the city's money during Jan. 4, 2012, and May 31, 2013.

A Kincaid city council member reached for comment said she could not discuss the matter.

If convicted, Sipe could face between five months to 17 months in prison and a fine up to $100,000.

District moves forward on stadium project

Project could cost $1 million to add new facilities at track

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Plans for what could be a $1 million upgrade for new bleachers, restrooms and concession facilities at the Anderson County High School track stadium took a big leap forward last week, as USD 365 Board of Education members approved architectural and engineering work, and appointed a general contractor for the project.

Although the project is still in its preliminary stages, more details were revealed at the board meeting Thursday, Sept. 4. A new grandstand and concession building would be built on the west side of the school's track and field. The grandstand is expected to be an aluminum structure about 7,500 square feet, with a footprint of about 150 feet by 50 feet. The concession building is expected to be underneath the new grandstand.

The project could cost

ACJH parents unhappy with text book sharing

Parents protest policy that keeps books in junior high classrooms

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Traci Hill of Garnett thinks it's unfair that Anderson County Junior High School students must share text books, despite paying a $40 book rental fee to the district.

Hill addressed USD 365 Board of Education members at their regular meeting Thursday, Sept. 4, about concerns over the book rental situation. She said her son was not able to study for a social studies test because he did not have a book to bring home.

Superintendent Don Blome and ACJSHS principal Kenny Kellstadt told Hill and other parents that each classroom has a specific number of

Electronic sign headed to front of ACJSHS

District approves $30K for new sign at high school entrance

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Construction of a new electric sign at Anderson County Jr./Sr. High School was given the green light by USD 365 Board of Education members last week, at a cost of about $30,000.

The cost is about what board members expected, and about $11,000 of that will be paid by donations from the USD 365 Endowment Association in honor of the late Steve Doering, a longtime attorney for the school board who died suddenly in February 2013. The Endowment Association had long wanted to replace a sign that sits in front of the school and serves as sort of an announcement board for special events

The new sign is expected to be installed by November. The board approved a $30,443.84 bid from "Kansas Tin Man" Philip W. Smith of Kincaid. There were just two bids submitted, Smith's and a bid from Star Signs, LLC, of Lawrence. Star Signs bid $52,380.

Old-fashioned games, comedic hypnotist among fair events

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

KINCAID — This year's Kincaid Fair Parade is honoring a couple who helped make the fair one of the premier events in Anderson County.

The theme of this year's fair parade is "School Daze" and will begin at 1:30 pm. in downtown Kincaid. Grand marshals for the parade are Tom and Frances Herynk, who have been residents of the Kincaid and Lone Elm areas since they married in 1946. The couple has been very active in the community. Frances is a former school teacher. Tom Herynk is a 54-year member of the Kincaid Lions Club, and his wife has made an estimated 350 pies for the Lions stand during the fair.

Tom Herynk also previously served as president, treasurer and various committees for the fair board. He was fair board president when he and another fair board member were responsible for bringing in one of the staples of the fair, the carnival provided by Toby's Amusement Company for about 50 years. According to information in this year's fair book, the "Gentleman's Agreement" between the board and Toby's was sealed with a handshake, and Toby promised the Kincaid

Tom and Frances Herynk

Fair would have a carnival as long as he was alive. Although Toby is now deceased, the family continues to honor that promise. Herynk said the agree-

The date of turn over to the hospital board has been moved from November 18th to December 5th. This is not the occupancy date and at this time that date will still be the end of January. The security access of the hospital was discussed. The front door of the hospital will be open from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. After that time the doors will be locked and there will be security cameras and buzzers that will be used to allow access. The security will also be monitored by St. Luke's in Kansas City. They are planning an open house January 17th with patients being moved January 29th. Vicki presented the financial report on the hospital project.

Budget Hearing

Treasurer

Harold DeForest, Deputy Treasurer, and Steve Markham, Assistant Appraiser, met with the commission. Harold reported the Treasurer is out due to an injury and he may be looking at hiring a temporary person to come in and assist in the office. He informed the commission that if we are looking at relocating the office for the updating of the heat and air in the courthouse, there is a permanent internet line with the state that will have to be set up to make sure that all communication with the state continues. He feels it might be beneficial to get new servers for the temporary position and they could be used for backup in the future.

Abatements

Abatements B14-210 and B14-211 were presented and approved.

Employee Concerns

George Bennett, Recycling Coordinator, met with the commission. He informed the commission that he has another health insurance since he retired from his previous employment. Since he is now employed through Anderson County the county insurance is his primary insurance and the other policy is secondary, however, it is a better policy. He questioned if the county would consider compensating him the amount the county would save if he did not take it. Commission did not feel that was an option at this time.

Sheriff

Sheriff Valentine, County Counselor Campbell, and Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor, met with the commission. There has been a report of a farm truck using a road and doing damage to the road. Lester reported he goes out and fixes the road when it needs it. Discussion was held on the fact that there is numerous other heavy vehicles using the roads. Bridges are rated for weight and if a truck goes over it and breaks the bridge the truck owner will be responsible for repairing the bridge.

Meeting adjourned at 11:55 a.m. due to no further business.

Mark Henry Kleinsorge, 84, formerly of rural Westphalia, passed from this life on September 5, 2014, at Plaza West Care Center in Topeka, Kansas.

He was born on July 2, 1930, at Westphalia, to William H. and Philomena (Bettels) Kleinsorge. He grew up on the family farm and attended country school.

Mark married Beverly Gordon on October 13, 1956 at St. Teresa Catholic Church in Westphalia. From this union, they had three girls and one boy. Mark was very active in preserving and maintaining his farm ground and pastures. His family received the Kansas Banker's Association for Soil Conservation Award. Mark also served two terms on the county committee board of the FSA - Farm Service Agency.

Mark enjoyed square dancing with Beverly as members of the Prairie Promenaders, and in his spare time he liked to play cards, shoot pool and attend country music shows. Mark took pleasure in showing the ways of farm life to his grandchildren when they came to visit. He was a long-time member of St. Teresa Catholic Church.

books, such as 25 social studies books. Teachers use the books and other resources for their lessons, so the books are not always the primary reference source. They pointed out that students can check out the books, either on a nightly or permanent basis. They also mentioned that the process makes it easier for kids, who don't have to keep track of their books on a daily basis and don't have to haul backpacks full of heavy books to and from school every morning and night.

But Hill wasn't satisfied with their answers. She said the district charges a $40 annual book rental fee, but that fee didn't seem justified if students don't actually "rent" the books and only look at them during class.

She also said if 30 students needed to check out books to complete homework or study for a test, five of them would be left out.

"You can't pick and choose who gets good grades. Every kid deserves to be treated equal," Hill said.

Kellstadt said if too many students requested the books, the district would simply order more textbooks.

Hill and other parents present said they would request to permanently check out a book for each class, but Hill said she still is concerned that some students who weren't as proactive in forcing the issue might be left out.

roughly $1 million, although officials won't know the actual cost until more formal architectural design and engineering are completed and bids are received, Superintendent Don Blome said.

Board members approved a proposal from Kleinfelder, Inc., of Lenexa, to perform subsurface exploration and geotechnical engineering at a cost of $5,950. Hollis + Miller Architects of Overland Park will prepare architectural drawings for the project. The board also approved hiring Nabholz Construction as construction manager. Nabholz served as construction manager when the new Garnett Elementary School was built a few years ago.

Nabholz will seek bids for the project. The bidding process is expected to be completed by October. It's more cost effective to bid such projects in the fall, rather than in the spring when companies are busier and costs go up, Blome said.

Blome said the completed project would be similar to a grandstand at Prairie View High School.

Money to pay for the project would come out of the district's capital outlay fund, which is about $1.6 million. About $900,000 of that was added in the past two years thanks to additional state funding provided because the district built a new elementary school. Blome said the additional money was added to the capital outlay fund rather than the general fund because it was only a temporary boost. Because the money is part of the capital outlay fund, it cannot be used to pay for general operating expenses of the district.

Board member Gaylene Comfort said that by building the new elementary school, in a sense, the district was able to afford the grandstand project.

"It's kind of an added benefit from doing the new building," she said. "That building benefits more than just those (elementary) students."

Even after the stadium project is completed, the capital outlay fund still will have about $600,000 to be used toward other projects, Blome said. The district needs to maintain about $300,000 in capital outlay, he said.

Lizzie Borden version of school finance

We all know what Lizzie Borden did, right? The children's poem recounts it well... "Lizzie Borden took an axe and gave her mother 40 whacks; When she saw what she had done, she gave her father 41."

Impressed on the minds of Americans in folklore and legend for more than 100 years, the facts speak for themselves. Except of course that they are not really facts, and the narrative is completely false.

For as much forensic examination as there was in 1892, the coroner's reports from the murder of Andrew and Abby Borden state that Lizzie's father was struck 11 times and her mother received 18-19 blows. But what's most amazing is that Lizzie Borden's legend grew after she was found innocent by an hour-long jury deliberation at trial. She was never convicted of anything and lived out her years in her hometown. There was no evidence to convict her in those days before Johnnie Cochran, yet in our minds and due wholly to popular myth, she's always been guilty.

It's a similar story with school finance in Kansas.

We all know, of course, that devastating funding cuts in recent years – since conservative Republicans took over the Legislature – have crippled public education in Kansas. At least that's the popular myth. But the reality, taken in whole and from actual numbers instead of political spin, paints a very different picture.

In fact, figures from the Kansas Association of School Boards compiled by former KASB board member Dennis Depew of Neodesha show that funding for public education in Kansas has gone up consistently since the depths of the recession in 2010. Total dollars committed by the state to K-12 funding in 2010 was $5,589,540,000. Each year subsequent that figure has expanded to $5,940,258,000 in 2014 – that's a net gain of $504 million over four years. In 2015, spending on education in Kansas is budgeted at over $6 billion.

Not exactly as Oliver Twist-esque as we're being led to believe.

What's more, the Kansas Legislative Research department recently uploaded its Fiscal Facts publication which gives an overview of the state budget. One telling point – that in FY 2015, 68 percent of the state's expenditures will be directed to K-12 and higher education. That's nearly 70 cents out of every single dollar the state spends.

There are those who will say those figures are misleading because portions of that funding like bond and interest and capital outlay funds and set asides for teacher pensions aren't really education funding – that those dollars don't really get into the classroom. But of all the valuable accoutrements of any classroom – beyond the cool projection chalkboards, the newest Macintosh computers, awesome wifi internet connectivity – nothing's more important than the teacher. How can his/her payroll and benefits be subject to question? So too for the hard assets within which education is conducted – how can there be a sensible argument that the funds that build and maintain classrooms are not impacting classrooms?

There is, however a problem in school finance in Kansas. But it rests in the maelstrom of funding in which local, state and federal influences all vie for control. There's no disconnect among the taxpayers – taxes are paid at every level and education dollars are budgeted and spent. Teachers fight tangles of bureaucracy and try to teach. If there is a loss of effect, it isn't on either of those ends of the spectrum.

Yet the false impression remains that schools are the whipping boys of an ignorant batch of legislators bent on returning to classrooms that are pre-Scopes Monkey Trial. They choke a pittance of $3,800 per student out of the state budget and expect schools to work with that.

But look at the real spending in your school district. Get a copy of your local paper where the budget was recently published, and divide the total spending figure by your district's enrollment.

In USD 365, the budget recently approved authorizes $18.2 million in total spending. Presently 1,049 kids are enrolled in school, which can of course vary during the year by a handful or two. But as of Friday, USD 365 planned to spend $17,349 per kid this year.

But like Lizzie Borden's story, there seems to be more value in repeating the fairytale than in accepting the reality.

What is this county? You blow up the idea of all the asbestos in the old nursing home to scare off all the bidders so you can buy it cheap. The only thing I see leave, there's just truckload after truckload of debris and I've never seen any specialist come in there and remove any of the asbestos. What's good for the goose is good for the gander too, isn't it? Where's the proof that you've got it removed like you're supposed to just like you'd make us. Let's prove it. Let's all play by the same rules.

Salvage car lot at Fourth and Main? Not hardly. Sounds like somebody didn't get their regular free trail-side parking spot for the Farmers Market.

There's more to being a dentist than having a piece of paper hanging on a wall. Garnett is really going to miss John Ulenhake as their dentist. He was personable and caring. He's really going to be missed.

The History Channel special on the life of Harry Houdini included an interesting piece of Garnett history. In 1900 Houdini and his wife did a séance in Garnett to try to find the killer of a young woman who had been murdered here. The murderer was never found. How interesting. Thank you.

I would like to know why the Garnett paper is not doing a little bit of investigative journalism on all the damage being done in the cemetery. Tombstones busted and being scarred up and defaced, veterans' markers being mangled, all being done by the city's mowing crew. In the old days this would have been worth a report getting out of the air conditioning and going and checking on.

Lots to cheer about from Friday's Anderson County High School Football game, not the least of which was the music mix from the press box. Thanks, great job and keep rocking us.

The real rape culture of 'ethnic folkway'

There are no words for the horror of Rotherham.

More than 1,400 young girls have been raped and brutally exploited in the northern England town of roughly 250,000 over the past 16 years, while nearly everyone in authority did all he or she could to look the other way.

A newly released independent investigation says: "It is hard to describe the appalling nature of the abuse that child victims suffered. They were raped by multiple perpetrators, trafficked to other towns and cities in the north of England, abducted, beaten and intimidated."

In other words, the local government tolerated sexual violence on a vast scale. Why? In part, because the criminals who committed these sickening acts were Muslims from the local Pakistani community, and noticing their depravity was considered insensitive at best, racist at worst.

The victims were white and overwhelmingly from broken homes. They were groomed by young men who would ply them with cigarettes, alcohol and drugs, and, after initiating a sexual relationship, force them to have sex with other men and make violent threats to keep them subservient.

The New York Times interviewed a girl who was first gang-raped at age 13. Thereafter, it became a regular occurrence. To keep her in line, her torturers threatened to rape her mother and firebomb her house. Once, they carried out a mock execution with a gun clapped to her head.

Even though reports were reaching social workers of the crimes in Rotherham as far back as the 1990s, nothing of consequence was done for more than a decade. The police were pigheaded and clueless, and the fear of being called "racist" paralyzed the very social workers and local officials who were supposed to protect the girls.

In a BBC documentary, the author of a 2002 report to the Rotherham council on the scandal said her work was quashed. When she noted that the perpetrators were from the Pakistani community, a colleague told her "you must never refer to that again -- you must never refer to Asian men." She was sent to diversity training and, by her account, nearly fired.

The reports kept coming every few years, to no effect.

It should be taken as a given that a rapist is a rapist, no matter what his religion or ethnicity. But British multiculturalism isn't so simple-minded. The member of Parliament who represented Rotherham admitted that as a "liberal leftie" he didn't want "to rock the multicultural community boat."

And so the rapists did their vile worst, protected by the appalling assumption that violating and exploiting young girls is just another ethnic folkway that tolerant people have to learn to accept, or at least to ignore.

In this country, there is a feminist cottage industry in identifying nearly everything as part of "rape culture." In Rotherham, there was a terrifyingly real and endemic rape culture. Yet it hasn't prompted feminist hand-wringing about how multiculturalism effectively empowered a criminal patriarchy. It has barely caused a peep.

It is the wrong perpetrators, wrong victims, wrong narrative. Which is why so many young, innocent lives were allowed to be ruined in the first place. There are no words.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

At least they looked snazzy at Senate debate

You almost have to wonder whether those two appropriately dressed debaters at the Kansas State Fair at Hutchinson are dividing Kansas voters into two separate groups—those who are intimately familiar with the operation of Congress, and those who aren't.

That debate, of course, was between Republican U.S. Sen. Pat Roberts and independent candidate Greg Orman. They both wore sport coats with open-collared shirts, while at the earlier debate, Republican Gov. Sam Brownback was one of the only people in Hutchinson wearing a coat and tie on Saturday morning, and Democrat House Minority Leader Paul Davis apparently couldn't find his coat and was dressed like most of the hamburger vendors.

But this Senate race debate: It was Roberts campaigning against Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nevada, on the presumption that independent Orman would line up Reid if elected—rather than at least having the option to side with whatever is the powerful majority party in the Senate on behalf of Kansans.

Still gotta wonder whether most Kansans are looking that far into the race.

But Roberts is apparently convinced that Kansans are indeed looking that far into the politics of the Senate campaign on the Washington level, essentially looking beyond the candidate himself and at the institution of the Senate where he lives.

To Kansans, well, it's going to take several Republican wins for the Senate to move to Republican-tilted from its current Democrat-tilted, and most of those decisions aren't something Kansans can vote on. Orman, who maintains he has been a Republican and a Democrat and didn't care much for either in terms of getting federal government business done, says he'll look over the rest of the Senate and decide whether he'll line up with either party to get things moving. Or...he could just remain an independent, a potentially game-changing position from which he can issue-by-issue vote with whichever party he believes will solve problems—or maybe advantage Kansas in federal legislation.

That sounds pretty advantageous—unless Republicans take control of the Senate, and Orman's independent status means to new leadership that he's a fair-weather friend that the chamber isn't likely to spend much time figuring out how to pander to. And it's not just pandering to independent Orman; it's pandering to Kansas' specific interests... Orman continues to talk about a do-nothing Congress—where Roberts has worked for much of his life—and which Roberts asserts that with the right votes in Kansas and several other states, he knows how to get moving. Roberts maintains that if Harry Reid can just be moved to the back row of seats, Orman's big issue dissolves.

Starting to sound like more insider politics than most Kansans have the time, or maybe the inclination, to puzzle out?

Might be, might not be, but that's where Roberts is taking his campaign, while Orman is talking about working with whatever crew is on salary next January and seeing what he can do for Kansas.

That's where this campaign is taking a fairly interesting tack.

It is not just electing the guy you like, the guy who says what you want to hear about health care, immigration, the budget, the economy and such. Based on the themes at the debate, it is a more complicated voter understanding of the operation of Congress if Roberts has his way or maybe a less complicated view if Orman gets the bus ticket to Washington in November.

At least the choice, from the initial debate, appears to be between two candidates who know how to appropriately dress for the occasion.

Garnett Lions wrap up busy summer

The Garnett Lions have had a busy summer, first with a fundraiser concession at the Square Fair, then in July the members enjoyed a picnic at the South lake in one of the three shelters built by the club during the last several years.

The following installation of officers was held at the picnic: president, Dave Branton; vice president, Bill Barnes; secretary, Delton Hodgson; treasurer, Richard Singer. Don Blome was recognized for his outstanding job last year as president.

Also in July and August, the Lions served breakfast and lunch for the four days of racing by the Garnett Kart Club at Lake Garnett. Coming up is the Lions chili and soup supper to be held Oct. 21. Tickets are now available from any member.

Annual projects of the Garnett Lions are an academic scholarship, Vo-Tech

Scholarship, Boys State, Girls State, Lions Band Camp, Kansas Lions Sight Foundation, Anderson County Hospital Foundation, Chamber of Commerce, and for the children Halloween at the Caboose (near the depot) and Christmas for the kids.

We also donated four flags for the cemetery's Avenue of Flags and many other projects that enhance the community.

Several members attended the 60th anniversary of the Colony Lions Club in June.

The Lions Club invite men and women in this community to join them the first and third Monday at the VFW in Garnett at 6 p.m. for dinner followed by a meeting and program. Come be a part of the community projects and enjoy fun and fellowship. For more information, call Delton Hodgson at (785) 448-6118.

ment between Toby's and the fair board was the best thing he ever did for the fair.

"So when you are sitting high atop the Ferris wheel or sinking your teeth into a juicy Lions cheeseburger or scarfing down a piece of juicy cherry pie, think of the work the Herynks have put into making the fair a success," the fair book says.

During the fair parade, the Kincaid Fair Queen will be crowned. The annual competition asks fair-goers to vote for a young lady to represent the city. Photos and information of the candidates can be found on Page 8B of this newspaper.

The Kincaid Fair features old-fashioned fun staples, such as a turtle race, frozen T-shirt contest and buffalo throwing contest. One classic event, the pie baking contest and auction, will change slightly. The contest will begin at 6 p.m. and is separated into two categories, the best cherry pie and the best two-crust "other fruit" pie. The pies will be auctioned during Bingo at 7 p.m.

This year's fair will conclude with a hypnotic comedy show by Crimson, The Queen of Comedy Hypnosis, at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Fair Board president Liz Drennan said she hopes people will come to Kincaid to enter fair exhibits. The fair will take exhibits from anyone; you don't have to be a Kincaid resident.

For more information about the fair, visit www.kincaidfair.com. A schedule and other information about the fair can be found on page 8B.

The color of selling

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

When I was a kid, my dad had a top water bass lure about the size of a pill bottle that was colored with the old red and white Budweiser can design. I inherited it and from time to time I put it on my line if nothing else is working. It's never worked, but the double treble hooks are good for clearing pond weeds and moss. Clearly the color of that lure was designed to hook my dad, not a fish. In that respect it was a huge success.

And scientists and media researchers tell us colors really do make a difference when we buy things. So naturally, it should play into your plans when selling things. In the same way a fish associates certain colors and hues with food, we associate certain colors with things like comfort, satisfaction, action, etc. Those can be important pieces of information when designing product displays for your business, packaging - even a logo design and interior retail area design.

Studies say as much as 85% of shoppers list color as a prime reason they bought a certain product. Consumers place visual appearance and color - at 93% - above factors like sound, smell or texture when shopping for new products.

Keep these color tips in mind:
 Yellow: It's upbeat and exudes youth; effective in window displays for its sense of vibrancy.
 Black: It's the color of luxury; conveys power and sleekness. Think of a sports car and you naturally think of red or black.

 Red: Conveys energy and literally increases heart rate in people when tested. Use it in clearance sales to communicate urgency.
 Pink: Obviously feminine, hints at romance. Pink is the color that talks to women and young girls.
 Blue: Demonstrates trust and security - look how many bank logos and motifs you see in blue.
 Green: Analogous in the mind to wealth, it is the color the human eye processes fastest. Conveys relaxation and contemplation.
 Tip: The human eyes' most recognizable color combination is not black on white; it's black on yellow.

Color fact: Shoppers in one study spent about 50% more on televisions that were posed in front of a blue display; In front of a red display, twice as many postponed their purchase.

God gave the increase

Weekly Devotional by David Bilderback

In 1st Corinthians 3 the Apostle Paul addresses some misunderstandings concerning his teaching. Paul wrote of the four parties into which the church had become divided: one following Apollos, one Paul, one Peter and one Christ. Apollos and Paul were servants or ministers through which the Corinthians had come to believe in the Lord Jesus.

Paul stated in 1st Corinthians 3:5-7, "What after all is Apollos? And what is Paul? Only servants through whom you came to believe - as the Lord has assigned to each his task. I (Paul) planted the seed, Apollos watered it, but God made it grow. So neither he who plants or he who waters is anything, but only God who makes things grow."

Using an agricultural example Paul shows the servant is after all very limited in what he can do. Paul himself could plant and Apollos could water but only God can give the increase. Looking at it from this point we can see that the planter and the sower are really not very important. They do not have the power from within themselves to bring forth life.

Paul was God's chosen instrument to take God's name before the Gentiles and their kings and the people of Israel. In 1st Corinthians 2:2, Paul says, "For I resolved to know nothing while I was with you except Jesus Christ and him crucified." Paul's point was men want to follow men. Paul's letter to the Corinthians was written in approximately 56 A. D. nearly 60 years after the death, burial and resurrection of Christ. False teaching had crept into Corinth and caused people to pursue men rather than God. Paul points out that even though this teaching might be pleasing to the ears it is man centered not God centered.

Preaching any message other than Christ will not yield any increase for God. Men's hearts will not be changed by following other men. Unless the heart is changed man cannot change. He will lose his way and end up in the same ditch he came out of. Jesus makes this statement in John 14:6, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me." Just as God gives new life to a dead seed and it sprouts he gives new life to men dead in their sins and trespasses through his Son Jesus Christ.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 09-09-2014 / Photo Submitted

This bottle was made between 1860-1880. It is an early Blown in Mold bottle.

What was in this bottle?

Take a good long hard look at this little bottle. Now can you tell me how old it is, how it was made and what its contents were?

Just by looking at it, there are a few visible facts. It was made sometime between 1860-1880. How do I know this. Here are several clues: Note the unusually wide mouth, with the applied lip, the mold seam lines only extend from near the bottom of the bottle up the sides reaching only to the shoulders, the bottom has been applied separately and doesn't even allow the bottle to set level. Also look closely and you will see millions of tiny air bubbles and whittle marks all throughout the glass. All these clues tell a person it is an early BIM (Blown in Mold) bottle.

Now have you guessed what the contents were? The MU actually spelled out the word MUSTARD.

Locating bottles was at one time a relatively easy chore. Because of the current interest in collecting by literally hundreds of thousands of people, old bottle locations are becoming scarce. There was a time when you could walk into an old area where people once homesteaded and, with a little researching, come up with a few choice bottles. Sometimes you were even lucky enough to find a community dumping site and could lug away hundreds of old bottles and other glass and metal relics of bygone days, however those days are rapidly disappearing.

Remember the identification of old bottles can be as exciting as the digging and finding itself.

SIGN...

Board members were concerned about the large difference between the bids.

"I don't want to look a low bid in the mouth, but when they're that far apart (I'm concerned)," Board member Cleon Rickel said, asking if Smith's bid was comparable to the more expensive bid.

Superintendent Don Blome said specifications for the project were very clear, and the lower bid was expected to meet those specifications. The sign will be a 4 feet by 8 feet, double-sided, full-color, LED message board with a computer to operate the sign and training for the software. In Smith's bid, the sign would come from a California company and it alone will cost $24,443.84. He will charge an additional $6,000 to install the sign and stone-like pillars. Star Signs would have installed steel uprights to hold the sign.

Board members unanimously approved Smith's bid.

The exact location of the sign still has not been determined. Board members said they would prefer to place it in a slightly different location than the current sign, which sits on the ground at the driveway entrance. The new sign could be placed in a similar location, or could be moved closer to the highway.

The current sign has been there since the school was built more than 20 years ago. The endowment group has wanted to replace it for many years, but found it was too expensive to upgrade it to an electronic version. Since Doering's death, the group has dedicated its annual 5K fundraiser to the project. Doering served as the district's attorney for about 35 years and was instrumental in the formation of the endowment group in 2007. The endowment association oversees three scholarships for USD 365 graduates, and also provides money for special projects and other needs in the district.

Tempo is king, new AC coach says

GARNETT – Bad teams are slow at everything.

That's the way new AC head football coach Greg Welch analyzes squads at practice and during games. So one of the concepts to winning is easy. Don't be slow.

"The difference that I've wanted to get across is tempo," the 33-year coaching veteran but AC rookie said last week. "I'm trying to teach tempo – in and out of the huddle and snap the ball in 12 seconds. We're moving and we're going at practice so we're rarely there over two hours. I think that transcends over to the playing field better than just camping out there at practice for three hours."

It's that sharpness of motion that Welch wants to become the mental philosophy of the Bulldogs on the football field – a pace that is rapid and deliberate and all about execution. It's a spark that was missing in last year's 0-9 Bulldogs, and the key difference Welch says the team needs to overcome.

"I tell them I'm coaching at the pace of teams that have won 10 games in a season," Welch said. "Everything needs to be move, move, move."

It's as much a turning point year for the body of the Bulldog team as it is for its coaching leadership. Moving in to their own now is a group of juniors with talent who've racked up some reputation in various sports since they were seventh graders, as well as some faces that are new to the team this year who've made some solid additions to the team's makeup.

Returning lettermen from 2013 include seniors Alex Dennison and Seth and Tyler Wolken, along with juniors Tim Comfort, Bryce Feuerborn, Devin Katzer, Derrick Nelson, Zane Phelps, Chase Ratliff, Jacob Rundle, Grady Schuster and Shiloh Sutton.

Then there are the additions. Sophomore Kyle Lamb broke his arm last year and had to sit out the season. Welch calls him a "natural filler," playing at wing back and linebacker.

There's also senior Jacob Ruby, an Alabama export playing at fullback and middle line-

"He's pretty much the real deal," Welch said. "He's about 5'11", around 230, naturally physical. He's got some speed when we can get it out of him." D'Anthony Fredricks, a junior who previously played at Pittsburg High School, has moved into quarterback, slot back and I-back. The fastest kid on the team, Welch says.

Other Bulldogs out this season include sophomores Austin Akes, Caleb Anderegg, Michael Bachman, Spencer Guyett, Manny Jackman, Adam Kropf and Derek Nixon, as well as freshmen Zach Arvin, Dalton Duke, Austin Ewert, Hayden Hermann, Taten LeBlanc, Isaiah Levy, Matt McCullar, Alec McMullan, Caleb Null, John Rundle, Caleb Shane, Tanner Tush, Tyler Winterringer and Briley Wolken.

Welch said he's unsure about judging the schedule of competition for 2014.

"We can't really worry about that too much," Welch said. "At this point we're going to work hard, move fast, fix our mistakes and play football."

AC boys have potential to win League, Sibley says

GARNETT – Tenth-year head coach Mike Sibley sees some strong potential in the 2014 AC boys cross country team. The question, he says, is whether the team can extract it.

"This could be a great season for us," Sibley said, who thinks the AC boys can snatch a Pioneer League title this year even with the addition of Santa Fe Trail and Wellsville to the league. "Vincent Trujillo (senior) and Tyler Jumet (junior) need to emerge as team leaders and convince our runners they can compete for a league title."

Sophomores Josh McAuley and Trevor McDaniel round out the returning lettermen for 2014, and will be joined by some solid first-time freshmen runners including Owen Lutz, Garrett Mills and Nate Gainer. "We need those underclassmen to rise up to meet that challenge," Sibley said.

Last year the boys squad won its second-ever Pioneer League title, but lost the school's 8th-best all time record holder Tanner Wilson, as well as competitors Ian Comfort and Storm Pracht to graduation in 2013.

This year, Sibley hopes a solid foundation of younger runners will challenge the older athletes to be their best.

"But we will lack experience and have to learn how to run 5K races," Sibley said.

Sibley noted the boys squad will face tough competition in the Pioneer League, and as with the girls' team the landscape may change dramatically with the addition of Santa Fe Trail and Wellsville to the Pioneer League this year.

Additional runners this year include sophomores Jacob Null, Trevor Johnston and Caleb Belshe and freshman Eddie Gruver.

AC works to improve on 2013

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The AC Bulldog volleyball team returns to the 2014 season hoping to improve on last year's 17-19 record with a host of experienced juniors and two seniors intent on surviving the 4A Div. II substate this fall.

Burlington squelched AC's hopes for a state tournament appearance last year by topping AC 25-21, 25-21. The Wildcats went on themselves to fall in the state tournament which saw Santa Fe Trail emerge with all the cookies.

But in his 30th year at the helm of the Bulldogs, head coach Glenn Suderman hopes something sweet will be on the horizon for the 2014 Bulldogs, who return a lot of experienced players on this year's squad.

Back this year are All Pioneer League inductees from 2013 Jessica McCullar, a senior, and junior Reagan Jirak, along with 2013 letter winners Alexis Pedrow, Kinlee Jones, MaKayla Kueser, Cassidy Lutz, Madison Martin and Macy Rockers.

Pedrow was the team's number four attacker with 61 kills in 2013. McCullar was an all-Pioneer League setter last year with 1,174 sets and 92 percent accuracy. Jirak returns to the Bulldogs as the number one setter from 2013 with 224 kills and as the team's top passer.

Jones shows versatility as a setter and a hitter, notching 847 kills with 113. Kueser is a top all-around player who was second in team hitting, serving and passing last year. Cassidy Lutz, at 6 feet, lends her height to the Bulldog front line and was 2013's top blocker. Sophomore At 5'11" Madison Martin was AC's number two blocker as a freshman last year. Maci Rockers and Jasmine White, a sophomore, are both expected to see action in all six rotations this year.

AC girls back with strong runners

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The ACHS girls cross country team returns one of the strongest running blocks in years for the 2014 season – a group so solid head coach Mike Sibley expects intra-team competition to be a factor in their success.

“Our weakness will be keeping runners motivated if they do not make varsity each week,” Sibley said. “We can only run 7 and I have 10 girls who would be running varsity for any other team in the league every week.”

It seems like good trouble, with the girls' team returning six of the school's all-time best performers at the 4K distance in juniors Bel Sibley, Paige Scheckel, Gwen Sibley, Remi Hedges and seniors Eliza Sibley and Bailee Wilson. Lettermen Morgan Egidy and Paige Scheckel, both juniors, also come back to the team this year. Combine that with freshman Averi Wilson, who holds the school's 8th grade record in the 2-mile and fellow freshman Shylie Scheckel who's also a strong younger runner and Sibley's goals for an 8th consecutive Pioneer League title and a finish in the state meet somewhere in the top 10 seems attainable.

“This core could be a force at the state level if they choose to dedicate themselves to being the best that they can be,” Sibley said.

Baldwin and Paola are likely to field strong teams in 2014 to try to throw a wrench in that 4A state appearance plan, however. DeSoto won the girls cross country title in 4A last year.

Other members of the AC squad include senior Adriann Garbarino, junior Julie Hartman and freshman Emma Porter.

New Crest football coach pledges new Lancer attitude

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

CREST – The Lancers will try to navigate a head coaching change this season but will do so with a vast array of returning talent from the 2013 season, all boasting another year of experience and maturity.

Chuck Mahon wears a lot of hats at Crest – superintendent, high school principal and head football coach. He's spent 22 years coaching and 9 of those on the gridiron, but his premiere in the Lancer kingdom will bring with it not just a new face but new mechanics as well.

"We will run a lot of 'I' formation with some split back veer looks," Mahon said. "Fundamentally you have to be able to line up and run the ball and if you can do this you can control the game." Mahon said he'll cover the other side of the ball with 3-3 and 4-2 defenses, which Lancers and their fans have been familiar with for years.

The Lancers managed a tepid 4-5 season in 2013, with wins over Marmaton Valley, St. Paul, Elk Valley and Tyro Christian. They took a 62-18 thumping at the hands of rival Southern Coffey County and also fell to Chetopa, Waverly, Uniontown and Pleasanton.

But the high-side asset of the 2014 team is the return of 11 lettermen from 2013. Senior Austin Green and Evan Godderz return at quarterback and defensive back positions. Seniors Cody Vermillion and Braden McGhee at linebacker and running back along with senior Kyler Bowen and junior Brandon Brallier; senior Rene Rodriguez at running back and defensive back, junior Hunter Frazell at wide receiver and defensive back. Juniors Dylan Young, Will Star and Kellen Ramsey return to anchor the offensive and defensive line.

Mahon said he knows even with a returning wealth of experienced players the season will have its challenges.

"If we can come together as a team and grasp my coaching philosophy of being fundamentally sound and physically in shape, we will have success," he said. "We want to compete every game and play our best football in weeks seven, eight and nine."

Mahon picks Chetopa and Pleasanton to lead the Three Rivers League this season, both returning strong programs from 2013.

"I hope it will be a tough brand of football with kids running to the ball and setting the tone with sound defense and mistake-free football," Mahon said. "There will be a new attitude in Crest Lancer football."

Hopes high for Crest volleyball

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY – The Lancer volleyball team struggled with a 3-win season in 2013, but another year of maturity and a couple of new talented players has hopes running higher for the Crest girls in 2014.

"I'm very proud of the hard work the girls have been putting in," said third-year head coach Abigail Hermreck. "It is going to pay off. They're determined, fired up, dedicated team players."

The Crest lineup looks a little taller on average than 2013. At 6'0 sophomore middle hitter Miranda Golden has the best edge in altitude, though senior middle hitter Regan Morrison and outside hitting sophomore Kaitlyn Gonzales both stand 5'9" with senior OH Krystal Cooper, sophomore setter Shelby Ramsey, sophomore OH Laurel Godderz and freshman MH Savanna McCulley all come in at 5'7".

Returning lettermen include Godderz, Ramsey, Golden and Morrison along with seniors Madison Covey and Tiffany Jackman, and sophomores Karlee Hammond, Miranda Golden and Taryn Covey. Others making up the squad

AC golf team slim in numbers

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The AC golf team brings back three experienced golfers and a promising second-year player to the 2014 season, but that's about the size of it.

With only four members in 2014, AC fields the smallest team in recent history. KSHSAA rules allow six players with the top four scores combining for the team score. With just enough players to round out a team score, the pressure will be on each individual.

"That's a lot of pressure for a young team," said 7th year coach Nicole Wiehl. "All four of us will have to stay healthy and strong for us to have a team score at each tournament."

Last year's team finished in the top three at half its outings and qualified at its regional to make it to the 4A State Tournament – no small feat for a team with four freshmen. Bailey Rockers graduated last year with a golf scholarship to Baker University, leaving three sophomores and a senior for the 2014 squad.

Senior Samantha McCullough returns for her final season along with sophomore Sydney Holloran, Abbey Barnes and Miranda Akes.

"Samantha has already shown me what a great leader she can be and is team captain this year," Wiehl said. "Sydney is a very talented golfer and I know will do some great things – I just have to get her to come out of her shell and not put so much pressure on herself."

"Abbey will be another key player to just play her game right down the middle and I'm looking for her to shoot some of her personal best this year. This will only be Miranda's second year playing golf, but she is a hard worker and I think she is capable of dropping 8-10 strokes off her score from last year."

Wiehl said the team would like a replay of last year, with strong finishes in most tourneys and a return to the state tournament.

"Individually I think Samantha, Sydney and Abbey can make the top 10 at regionals and Miranda in the top 15," she said. "We have some more tough competition this year – the Chanute tournament and Basehor-Linwood are two more with tough competition and challenging courses."

CHHS runners young but solid

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND – The Central Heights cross country team is young and is only seven in number this year, but head coach Phil Pearson thinks it would be a mistake to write his team off in 2014.

"We are very young this year but have some solid freshmen that could compete on the varsity level by the end of the season and be strong runners," Pearson said.

The team lost Sheldon Cole to graduation last year and returns senior Dillon Welch as the only returning letterman back for the 2014 season. Scooter Kice is the squad's other senior, with junior

Central Heights will face some stiff competition this year as the Pioneer League expands to include Wellsville and Santa Fe Trail. Wellsville was 11th in state cross country last year in 3A.

Lancers throttle Blu-Jays in opener

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY – The Lancers made short work of the Pleasanton Blu-Jays in the Crest season home opener last week, hammering down a 45-0 win in barely three quarters of play before the scoring rule ended the game.

Crest easily controlled both sides of the ball from the opening kickoff. Austin Green put Crest's first TD of the season on the board early in the first period and then scored his own PAT to make it 8-0. Rene Rodriguez scored next on a short run with PAT by Brandon Brallier to make it 16-0.

Still midway through the first period, Brallier ran in from 12 yards and Rodriguez scored the PAT for 24-0. Green passed to Brallier a few minutes later for a 7-yard TD run. Rodriguez kicked the PAT to make it 31-0.

Brallier was the only score in the second quarter. Green threw a PAT pass to Tyler Bowen to make it 38-0. Green scored on a short run early in the 3rd with no PAT attempt to end the game.

Green had 11 carries for 63 yards and 2 TDs to lead the Lancer rushing game. Evan Godderze was 1 for 7, Rodriguez for 30 with a TD, Brallier 8 for 73 with two TDs, Gage Adams was 6-41. Pleasanton passed for 37 yards connecting 7 of 16 attempts and rushed 17 plays for 54 yards.

Crest takes on Marmaton Valley at home on Friday.

Vikes seek to recapture zest

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND – The Vikings turned a corner last year at the Uniontown tournament, and 2nd-year volleyball coach Cadi Marcum hopes the momentum will continue to this season. “Going into the Uniontown tournament we were 5-12,” Marcum said. “We walked out of that tournament with our first tournament win and a record of 10-12. It was the point we started to become a team, and it was great to see.” The Vikes ended the season 18-16. Keeping that momentum may be tough due to last season’s losses, Marcum admits. The team lost Kenzie Hayward, Whitney Kraus and Madison Blevins to graduation, and junior Brianna Erhart transferred to Wellsville for her senior year. The changes left a leadership hole to fill, and Marcum said fixing that issue may be the team’s most important one. “My goals for the team this year are to have a couple of people step up and take those leadership roles and keep the level of play and motivation this season the same way it was when we ended last season.” The Vikings return four lettermen, including seniors Sydney Meyer (middle hitter) and libero Emily Miller along with junior Regan Markley (outside hitter) and sophomore Finnian Cody. They’ll be joined by seniors Lexi Griffin, Cheyenne Asbury, Krysten Baker, Kaye Cunningham and Mychaela Clissold, as well as sophomore Sarah Bell. With area competition always being a variable from year to year, Marcum said she doesn’t follow opposing teams closely, preferring instead to focus on her own team’s fundamentals and performance. CHHS fell to Rossville in the opening round of their 3A regional last year. Wellsville’s program had the best success of most local teams, eventually falling to Silver Lake for that regional’s title. Silver Lake went on to win the 3A state championship.

include senior Brianna Scovill, juniors, Ashley Geary and Lupita Rodriguez and freshmen Katie Brewer, Lexie Goldner and MaKayla Jones. Hermreck said a little new blood has also helped to reinvigorate the Lancers. “We have two newcomers that we are excited about,” Hermreck said. “Senior Emily Wyant and senior Krystal Cooper. We have great leadership in our senior class and our younger players have matured and are pushing everyone to give their best.” Coming off a year when wins were few, the entire field of competition in the Three Rivers League can look ominous for the Lancers. But Hermreck said her team will take it one game at a time. “None of the teams in our league can be overlooked,” she said. “We will need to play well all season, work together, stay mentally tough, keep positive attitudes and have fun.”

Bulldogs take over Vikings for first win of season

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – With more than 100 yards of penalties between both teams it wasn’t what you would call pretty, but ACHS bumped and grinded to success on both sides of the ball in a season opener at home Friday night to take a 27-8 revenge win over Central Heights. The Vikings dumped AC 27-12 last year, but the Bulldogs narrowly controlled both sides of the ball Friday night, mounting 284 yards of team offense and holding the Vikes to 136 yards of total offense. “For a minute there we were able to run our power running game,” said AC head coach Greg Welch. “We had a little difficulty sustaining it. They learned a lot tonight. We’ve just got a lot of things we’ve got to teach.” “The (CHHS) personal foul for targeting that negated the turnover and kept Anderson County’s drive alive in the third quarter was huge,” said Central Heights coach Kent Schulte. “I give Anderson County credit – they were a lot tougher than we were. I thought the teams were pretty even talent wise but they were a whole lot tougher than we were and that’s why they came out on top.” AC’s Chase Ratliff stoked up the Bulldog momentum by intercepting a Merrick Brown pass early in the first period near the 35 yard line, and a short drive later with 10:23 remaining in the period Ratliff scampered into the end zone on a 3-yard run. Jacob Rundle kicked the

PAT to give the Bulldogs a 7-0 lead. But Central Heights fired back with a 70-yard drive that diced up the Bulldog defense and consumed most of the next 7 minutes before Brown connected with Gavin Holler on an 8-yard touchdown pass. Brown kept the ball for the 2-point conversion and put the Vikes on top 8-7 with 3 minutes to go in the first period. Most of the second period was a mid-field battle and a confusing amalgamation of personal foul and other penalties. By game’s end Central Heights would give up 60 yards in penalties and AC 45. Central Heights forced AC to turn the ball over on downs and looked to be setting up another scoring drive, but AC’s

Kyle Lamb intercepted Merrick Brown’s pass at the 7:50 mark to put the ball back in the Bulldogs’ hands. AC made good on its final drive of the second period when Ratliff ran in from 7 yards out for a TD with 5 minutes to go, but a Bulldog penalty squelched his 2-point attempt. AC took a 13-8 lead into halftime. The Bulldogs opened the second half with a more organized look to their offense and a decisive early drive which saw Jacob Rundle score on a 4-yard run at the 8:49 mark. Rundle hit Devin Katzer on a short pass for the 2-pointer and it was 21-8. AC’s final score came with 8:14 to go when Ratliff broke free on a counter play for a 21 yard touchdown. Rundle’s pass attempt for the 2-point conversion failed, and AC’s defense contained the Vikes the rest of the period to the 27-8 final. Ratliff posted most of AC’s ground gains with 30 carries 140 yards and three touchdowns. Rundle had 13 carries for 73 yards and Kyle Lamb was 8 for 36. DeAnthony Fredericks was 2 for 6 yards. Lamb, Katzer and Ratliff each notched an interception. Tyler Wolken, Alex Dennison and Bryce Feuerborn boosted the tackling stats for the Bulldogs. Central Heights’ Chance Schooler massed 14 tackles to lead the Viking defense. Eli Davis had 9, Gavin Holler 8 and Zele Smith 6. Smith paced the Viking rushers with 26 carries for 89 yards. Merrick Brown was 9 for 13, Bryce Taylor was 2 for 12.
