City leaders want police to live here

Police say it's tough to find new officers, want to expand search area

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Police need to live in the community they serve, Garnett city leaders decided last week. The decision came after a lengthy debate with Garnett's top police officers at Tuesday's city commission meeting regarding their request to lift a residency requirement that insists city police officers live in Anderson County or Garnett. Garnett Police Chief Kevin Pekarek and Lt. Kurt King asked city commissioners to allow them to hire patrol officers who live outside the county. Currently, officers must live within Anderson County; officers in supervisory positions must live within three miles of Garnett city limits. Anyone hired who lives elsewhere is given time to move. But it's difficult to find qualified candidates, particularly candidates who are willing to live in Anderson County, Pekarek and King said. It took about three months to fill the last job opening, they said. Only five people applied, and only one of those met qualifications and passed a background check. Many qualified candidates within a 60 mile radius have said they are not willing to relocate.

City conducts review of its utility systems

Five-year capital outlay plan motivates need to take stock of systems

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - City leaders want to take a good, hard look at utility systems in the city in order to make a sort of inventory and improvement list for the future. Engineers will examine various parts of the city's electrical, water and sewer systems in the next few months, city manager Joyce Martin told city commissioners during their regular meeting Tuesday, Nov. 25. The goal is to see where the city stands so officials can work on a five-year capital improvement plan. Over the next few weeks, city staff and engineers will conduct various examinations of the systems. Part of the examinations are because of routine maintenance; part are because of improvement projects like a major upgrade to the city's electrical system to make sure it meets the needs of the new Anderson County Hospital; and part of the examinations are for future planning.

All those people staying up all night protesting at Ferguson and setting businesses on fire and breaking out the windows and stealing everything. I guess they can stay up all night raising all kinds of hell without any problem. I would have loved to stay up late and watch it all on TV, but unlike them I had to get up and go to work the next morning.

Try to wrestle a cop for his gun and you're probably going to get shot, and you should be, no matter what color you are. If you want to change people's attitudes, you can start with having some respect for the police who are trying to protect your (deleted). Thank you.

Yeah, I think it's pretty pathetic that Anderson County couldn't provide a turkey for the poor. But if you went to church and listened to someone give you a sermon and tell you how they need money and bring your family to church they would give you one. Come on people, don't push it to them, just give it to them. Bye.

Hey, isn't there anybody out there that delivers firewood anymore? I'm not physically capable of doing it and the fellow that used to cut my wood has passed away. I just was hoping somebody wanted to make a little money hauling firewood. My number is (call Review for details). Thank you kindly.

I think if your kid has head lice, take care of it.

Another beautiful Christmas parade in Garnett. Thanks to our local Chamber of Commerce for organizing it and to all the floats and entries that participated.

Feuerborn

Shewasborn on February 17, 1935 to Helen (Udovitsch) and Joseph Lloyd Meyers in Missouri Valley, Iowa.

Visitation services will be held Thursday, December 4, from 5 to 8 p.m. with rosary said at 5 p.m. at St. Catherine of Sienna Catholic Church, 4101 East 105th Terrace, Kansas City, Missouri 64137. Then between the ages of three and six years she lived in Tulsa, Oklahoma, before spending the rest of her life in Kansas City, Missouri.

She attended Blessed Sacrament Grade School and Loretto Academy High School and graduated in 1952. After graduation, Joan spent the next few years working as a clerk at a downtown Kansas City grain company. She participated in bowling leagues.

Joan met her future husband, Ivo Feuerborn, at a Redemptorist Social Club dance mixer. They were married at St. Louis Catholic Church, on Swope Parkway, on November 26, 1960. They moved to the south Kansas City suburbs and lived there ever since. Her husband

She served as President and Vice President of the PTA, and coached several grade school girls' basketball teams, including winning two City Parochial League Championships. Joan enjoyed her weekly golf league during the summers.

When her children were becoming more independent, Joan started working as a greeter at conventions held at Bartle Hall. Then she worked with her friends at ABWA (American Business Women's Association) for about twenty years. Joan enjoyed traveling on cruises and going to Las Vegas.

Joan always had a special joy babysitting and spoiling her grandchildren. Throughout the years, she laughed and played cards with her lady friends as well as sitting outside in the evenings joking and talking with her neighbors. She also enjoyed her weekly visits to the Kansas City area casinos.

Erica was an animal lover, especially giraffes; she collected teapots that she would use to enjoy Sunday tea with her children; she also enjoyed camping. Her family will always remember her as a very giving person, and her greatest joy was her children.

Erica is survived by her husband, Jason Mills; their children, Garrett, Piper, Wesley and Samantha, of the home; her parents, Larry and Sandra Deines of Derby, Kansas; three sisters, Jennifer Lagana (Mike) of Ellicott City, Maryland, Aimee Lagana (Ted) of Fallston, Maryland, and Kristin Whitmer (Steve) of Tampa, Florida; two brothers, John Yeager (Dawn) of Belair, Maryland and Tony Lagana of Crozet, Virginia; and numerous aunts, uncles, cousins and other relatives and friends.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, December 2, 2014, at the First Christian Church in Garnett. Family will greet friends following the service at the church. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorial contributions be made to Children's Mercy Hospital and left in care of the funeral home. Condolences may be left for the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com for the show, Garnett City Manager Joyce Martin told city commissioners at their regular meeting Tuesday, Nov. 25. They include artists from Kansas, Pennsylvania, California, Wisconsin, Virginia, Washington and Texas.

Entries will be accepted until Jan. 30, 2015, through www.callforentry.org. Register and search for 1st Annual "At the Walker" Open Exhibition and follow application instructions. Artists will be notified by Feb. 27, 2015, if their entry has been accepted. Artwork will be returned starting June 12, 2015. Any artwork not claimed by Sept. 15, 2015, becomes the property of the Garnett City

Art Collection.

All works must be offered for sale, and the Walker Art Committee will retain a 30 percent commission on all sales made as a result of the exhibit.

The art exhibition and contest is made possible by a multi-organizational grant from the Kansas Department of Commerce's Creative Economy Project Support program. The program is aimed at stimulating the local economy while strengthening the role of arts and culture, promoting regional identity and enhancing the quality of life for citizens. The art show was part of the grant, which also included downtown art benches, architectural plans for a community theater, children's art classes and a sound system in downtown Garnett.

The city is working with electrical engineers for a circuit upgrade from the city's power plant along Walnut Street to the alley between Fourth and Fifth avenues. Plans are about 75 percent complete, and the project should be presented to commissioners in mid-December. Bids will be taken for the project, which should be completed this spring. The upgrade will allow the city to better serve electrical needs in the area, particularly as a new hospital comes online in January.

Martin said the project has given city electrical crews an opportunity to better assess its system and inventory.

Engineers also will review the city's water and sewer plants in the next few weeks. They'll examine problems in some areas of the water plant, which hasn't been thoroughly examined since 1999. The city is increasing the amount of water it sells, and needs to make sure it has the capacity and adequate distribution systems for the future, Martin said.

They also will develop a plan for the city's sewer plant. Martin said the sewer plant is in good shape, but the city needs to study sewage lines throughout Garnett.

"We'll look at everything at one time," Martin said.

The approach will give city leaders a plan to address major infrastructure improvements over time, Mayor Preston Peine said.

Martin said the current review also will help city leaders plan for the future. She said members of the city's Planning Commission are interested in knowing about the location or extension of utilities for future development.

The Garnett Public Library's winner of the Kansas Reads to Preschoolers "Is Everyone Ready for Fun?" Basket was Camden Bettinger, son of Meghan Bakken and Jesse Bettinger.

Bakken wins library preschool prize

The 2014 Kansas Reads to Preschoolers had volunteer readers reading "Is Everyone Ready for Fun?"

KansasReadstoPreschoolers is a statewide reading initiative supporting early childhood literacy and a one-book/one-state intergenerational reading project to highlight the importance of reading to children. This year's chosen book was "Is Everyone Ready for Fun?" by Jan Thomas. Chicken has some unexpected and exuberant cow visitors who have exciting plans for jumping, dancing, and wiggling on his teeny-tiny couch, and Chicken is none too happy about it. That is until the fun concludes with a quiet, cozy and delicious nap for all!

The goal of this project was that every Kansas child from birth to age five, be read to during Kansas Reads to Preschoolers Week, November 16th-22nd, 2014. Anderson County volunteers read to over 120 children at 10 daycares and preschools, and The Garnett Public Library, and were able to hand out 150 copies of the book. The library had a "special" story time reading the book and letting children create their own chicken and cow puppets.

There was also a special drawing for a basket of items that went along with the story including books, crayons, a coloring book, a teddy bear and blanket, and many other items. The winner of the basket was Camden Bettinger, son of Meghan Bakken and Jesse Bettinger.

The library could not have done this without the generosity of the sponsors and the many volunteers that were willing to donate their time reading to young ones during this worthwhile project that highlights the importance of reading to children.

Sponsors this year's project were: Bonnie and Donnie Lile, BPW, Chapter Y P.E.O., DAR-Four Winds Chapter, Friends of the Library, Garnett Lions Club, The Optimist Club of Garnett, Patriots Bank, Rockers Insurance Agency, and Garnett Rotary Club.

Ice wasn't always so easy to come by, as this old tool proves

How many of you recognize this early iron tool? If you guessed ice tongs, you're absolutely correct.

Before electricity came to Anderson County, practically every rural home, plus many town residents owned a pair of ice tongs. Why? Because everyone had block ice, ice boxes.

I had a local gentleman who told me that he and his father helped cut (saw) large slabs of ice from Lake Joy (which was located southwest of the old Furniture Factory) and also from Crystal Lake (South Lake) in the very early 1900's.

I have a few memories of my own that I will share with you. I remember my parents stopping by the Garnett Ice Plant for a block of ice for our ice box. (This plant was located directly behind our present Brummels Feed Store). I loved to watch the blocks of ice being cut on the front porch and the water drip down thru the tall cooling tower.

I also remember the residents of Garnett placing signs in their windows saying "ICE" letting the ice wagon man know where to stop on ice delivery days. As for the one horse drawn ice wagon, I also have a few memories, I'm sorry I can't remember the name of the colored man who owned the wagon and ran the ice route. I can remember some of us kids (when in town) running along beside the wagon and he would chip off small chunks of ice and toss down to us.

As for his horse, it's name was "Dobbin." Old Dobbin was so smart, that all the iceman had to do was say "Stop" and "Go" without ever touching the reins.

Note: This pair of old tongs were found during an excavation project of an old farm homestead near Garnett over six years ago. The reason they appear so dark is because I have treated and applied preservative to them.

1994: Newly remodeled county jail deemed a success

Nov. 30, 2004

Kansas Department of Transportation officials Tuesday agreed to forward a plan for an upgrade of U.S. Highway 169 near Garnett up the chain of command for approval, but local officials haven't yet determined how they plan to pay the $400,000 in cost match KDOT would require for the project. The project would come with a $1.2 million grant to reconstruct a portion of the highway near the East Kansas Agri Energy Plan project to make for better access to the plant by semi truckloads of grain that will be delivered.

When Henry Gatlin bought the Rocky Roost property in Welda several years ago, he thought he was buying a property that was signed up to be part of the Welda Sewer District. But the project engineer says the property was, then it wasn't. If it isn't, that fact could save several thousand dollars in construction costs. That's because the property would require its own lift station. But more significantly, including the property would require an extra 1500 feet of sewer line. The extra sewer line could possibly be used by new homes sometime in the future, but each home would still require its own lift station. Six other properties currently included in the plan require their own lift stations, at a cost of about $7,000 each.

success. Take a look at some of the numbers. According to the Anderson County Sheriff's Department, about 55 people have been booked into the jail by deputies. These people have stayed a total of 317 prisoner days. It cost the jail $22 for one prisoner for one day, so a total of $6,974 has been spent for county arrests. The costs to house those prisoners out-of-county would be at least $9,750, not including the cost and expense of transporting them.

The announcement Wednesday that a group of Garnett citizens were sponsoring a special water discussion meeting apparently came as a surprise to Mayor Claron Cole and City Manager Rick Doran. The meeting will be held to discuss the results of a water survey conducted by Water Test Corporation of New London, N.H. A company spokesman said the meeting is not to sell anything to the public. The speaker is the owner of a nutrition and water research laboratory. Cole suggested anyone concerned about water quality come to a city commission meeting to discuss their information or complaints.

The Garnett Jaycee Women are conducting a search for the "Outstanding Young Woman" in the Garnett area, between the ages of 18-35 years of age who contribute the most to the community in effort and involvement in professional fields (business), church work, social service and social activities.

After counting the greater part of Saturday night, checking and rechecking the subscriptions turned in by the candidates during the special prize period, the Review's contest editor found that two of the candidates were tied for the Victor Victrola. Because provision was not made for this contingency in making the rules for awarding of this special prize, it was found the only fair way to deal with the candidates tying was to award each of them a Victor Victrola. The fortunate ladies are Miss Thusie West and Miss Imo Day. Several other young ladies have been working steadily and it is very probable that they will figure with the leaders when the grand prizes are awarded. The results of the special prize contest will give the public an idea of how closely bunched the candidates are, and will give the "dopesters" an opportunity to start all over speculating on the final outcome. This much can be said, however, that never in the experience of the contest manager has he seen as close a race as is being run by the candidates.

ACH Long Term Care changes name to Residential Living Center

GARNETT—Along with a new hospital coming in early 2015, changes also are in store for Anderson County Hospital's Long Term Care Unit. A new name, The Anderson County Hospital Residential Living Center (RLC), reflects the expansion of services that will be given to its residents. Long Term Care, as it has been known for the past 45 years, provided nursing care for residents who were no longer able to live independently in the community. As services have evolved in health care, the facility has adapted to become more versatile in the array of services provided and the lifestyle now offered to its residents.

In the past, Anderson County Hospital's Long Term Care Unit has been a prime example of exceptional care delivery for many years. It has been recognized by U.S. News and World Report for five consecutive years as a top nursing facility in Kansas. The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid consistently gives it a five-star rating for outstanding residential care. It is also a participant in a quality initiative from The Kansas Department for Aging and Disability Services. The Promoting Excellent Alternatives in Kansas Nursing Homes program (PEAK) challenges nursing facilities to achieve goals of resident choice and empowerment in their daily programs and service delivery.

The new RLC will continue and expand on these accolades as the staff evolves its services, but keeps its priority of providing quality residential care. The Center will provide nursing care services to help residents enjoy life in a beautiful new setting with care delivery and a lifestyle that is tailored to each resident.

The beautiful new RLC facility provides comfort and privacy in a home-like environment, and features a walk-out garden area, outdoor sitting area, easy-access kitchen, family room, large activity area, and dining room. The residents have a designated care team to ensure consistent care in a trusting environment.

RLC provides services for residents on a long-term basis, and transitional services for residents with a recent injury, illness, or for a post-hospital stay to help ensure full recovery before returning home. RLC has a full service staff with 24-hour nursing care, an activity director, social services, restorative services, dietary consultation, and a medical director. For more information, please contact Mary Gedrose, RN, RLC director at 785-204-4017 or mgedrose@saint-lukes.org.

KDOT begins field survey for bridge replacement on K-31

Starting Monday, Nov. 24 and continuing for six weeks, weather permitting, the Kansas Department of Transportation (KDOT) began conducting a field survey at the North Fork Little Osage Drainage Bridge on K-31 in Anderson County. The bridge is 2.09 miles east of the U.S. 59/K-31 junction. The approximate length of the survey will be 2,900 feet at the bridge site.

The survey is taking place to gather information necessary for a detailed design of a proposed project to replace the bridge. Activities will include the use of survey instruments on the ground to determine locations of existing features within the corridor. A member of the survey crew will first contact property owners and/or tenants for permission to enter private property. Martin Long with the consultant firm of Coder Engineering is in charge of the survey.

Is the phone your friend or enemy?

A phone is like an x-ray machine. Customers use it to see if they want to do business with you.

If they see the right things conveyed by your voice, your helpfulness, your legitimacy and your competence, you may have a customer for life. If they don't, one of your competitors probably will.

Depending on your type of business, the telephone may be your number one or at least the number two means of interaction with customers. Whether or not your customers are satisfied with that experience may have everything to do with the general success of your business.

It's simple enough to remember: When you had a bad phone experience with a company, a receptionist at a doctor's office, city hall, etc., did you feel like giving that organization your money? On the other hand, a good experience makes paying a bill or setting up your dentist appointment much more bearable.

Think about these points in defining your businesses' telephone persona:

- 1) Grammar: If you question your grammar or that of the folks you have answering your phone, go to Youtube and look for grammar tutorials. The basics: "ain't" isn't a word; you didn't "seen" something on television last night, you "saw" it; you will visit a college campus to get "oriented," not "orientated." Speak intelligently and people will treat you intelligently.
- 2) Identify both your company and yourself when you answer- in that order. Don't make a potential customer guess with whom he's speaking. Answer slowly - it isn't a race to see if you can speed-talk your greeting. Take a breath before you answer or make a call so you're not "short-breathing" to the customer.

3) Be attentive and sincere: Don't try to check email, surf the web or sip your coffee while talking on the phone. Devote your full attention to the call as if the customer was standing in front of you. Listen closely and think like a problem solver. Put the customer's need ahead of your own.

4) And my personal peeve of peeves. When someone says "thank you," the proper response is "you're welcome," not "yup." Grrr!

The telephone is a huge part of building your brand. Do it well and you'll sell more stuff.

Pavement marking begins on U.S. 169 near Colony

Pavement markings are being placed on U.S. 169 from the U.S. 54 junction at Lola north to approximately one mile north of the U.S. 169/K-58 junction. The work is taking place during daylight hours with a pilot car operation guiding traffic through the one-lane work zone. Travelers can expect delays of 15 minutes or less through mid-December.

In October the Kansas Department of Transportation (KDOT) began a deep mill and overlay project on this section of U.S. 169. The road work has been suspended over the winter months and will resume in the spring of 2015. Bettis Asphalt & Construction, Topeka, is the project contractor. Donna Schmit, construction engineer with the KDOT Garnett Area Office, reminds drivers to use extra caution in the work zone, reduce their speed and "Give 'Em a Brake!" Those with questions may contact Schmit at (785) 448-5446, or Priscilla Petersen, 1-877-550-5368.

Follow God's Law: The Ten Commandments

The Ten Commandments are the ten laws given by God as guidelines for daily living. They are part of a covenant between God and his people. The commandments are listed in Deuteronomy chapter 5 as follows.

1. You shall have no other gods before me.
2. You shall not make for yourself a carved image.
3. You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain.
4. Remember the Sabbath day and keep it Holy.
5. Honor your father and your mother.
6. You shall not murder.
7. You shall not commit adultery.
8. You shall not steal.
9. You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.
10. You shall not covet.

God gave the Ten Commandments to his people through Moses at Mount Sinai more than 3,000 years ago, yet they are still relevant today. About 1300 years after God gave the laws Jesus upheld them calling them the "commandments". In Mat.19:16-22, when the rich young ruler asked him, "what good thing must I do to inherit eternal life"? Jesus answered "obey the commandments". Jesus actually placed these laws on a higher plane by demanding that the spirit as well as the legal aspects of the law be kept.

God never intended for the Ten Commandments to be a set of regulations by which the people of Israel would earn salvation. God intended for his law to function in three ways which Calvin clearly defined for the church's benefit as the laws threefold use.

Its first function is to be a mirror reflecting to us both the perfect righteousness of God and our own sinfulness

and shortcomings. The law is meant to give us knowledge of sin. (Rom. 3:20) and by showing us our need of pardon and our danger of damnation to lead us in repentance and faith to Christ. (Gal. 3:19-24)

A second function, the civil use, is to restrain evil. Though the law cannot change the heart, it can to some extent inhibit lawlessness by its threats of judgment, especially when backed by a civil code that administers punishment for proven offenses. (Deut. 13:6-11)

Its third function is to guide the regenerate into the good works that God has planned for them. (Eph. 2:10) Calvin summarized, "The Christian is free from the law as a system of salvation, (Rom. 6:14) but is under the law of Christ as a rule of life." (Gal. 6:2)

God has created man in a way that grateful obedience will bring him the highest happiness. If you know Christ you will love the law and want to keep it. This is accomplished through the Holy Spirit who will lead you into a degree of obedience that was never yours before this. Thus the highest happiness one can achieve.

Until the law of God confronts us with our sin and our need of a Savior, in whom we then trust, any explanation of the Ten Commandments will fall on deaf ears.

David Bilderback: A Ministry on the Holiness of God.

"At least one very good applicant was going to accept the job until he found out he had to live in Anderson County," Pekarek said. "One gentleman had just bought a house in a nearby county and didn't think he'd be able to sell it."

It's likely the city will have two positions open in coming weeks or months, King said, as two officers have said they intend to leave but have not yet formally resigned.

Small police forces like Garnett tend to attract new, untrained officers looking to get a foot in the door before moving up to a larger force, King said. That means the city often must hire officers who need to complete certification training through the Kansas Law Enforcement Training Center, a process that takes 14 weeks. The city must still pay that officer's salary, while also paying for officers to cover shifts while the officer is at training. It's especially knowing the newly trained officer likely will move on after a year or two. Small forces like Garnett also have trouble matching pay scales of departments in the region, he said.

Other police forces in nearby cities, and even the Anderson County Sheriff's Department, do not have residency requirements, or allow officers to commute within a specified radius. Pekarek and King said they believed they could attract better police candidates if patrol officers were allowed to commute within a one-hour drive, or roughly a 60-mile radius. They were particularly interested in targeting southern Johnson County, because jailers at that county's detention center are certified through the state's law enforcement academy and often are looking to make the transition from jailer to officer.

The change would only apply to patrol officers, King said. Anyone looking to advance up the ranks, or even join a special response team, would be required to live in the county or city.

City commissioners initially were divided on the request.

Commissioner Greg Gwin cited financial reasons to require police to live locally. City tax dollars pay police salaries, he said, which means the city has an obligation to try to recoup as much of that money as possible.

"It'd be nice if maybe some of their wages went back into this area instead of traveling to another city," Gwin said.

Commissioner Gordon Blackie, however, seemed to support changing the residency requirement. He previously has talked about an "image problem" for city police, and said there were benefits from having officers who are not tied to the community and don't come with a local history that could be perceived poorly. Hiring better-qualified officers also could help with the police force's image problem, he said.

"In most cases I would rather see us create a job here in town. This might be the exception," Blackie said.

That left Mayor Preston Peine in the middle, and he said he could see advantages to both sides.

"We live in a commuter society. ... I get that," Peine said. "The flip side of that is there's a lot of value to employing local people. There's value to someone who lives in this community who is seen out, not in uniform, who is just part of the fabric."

The question remained, however, that if city leaders don't change the policy, how can they attract qualified candidates?

Blackie suggested waiting and examining each opening on a case-by-case basis, perhaps leaving the possibility open to allow someone from outside the area as an exception rather than changing the policy entirely. Gwin suggested offering a relocation bonus as an incentive for someone to move to Garnett or Anderson County.

Peine said it seemed the underlying problem is the city's pay scale for police. Perhaps if the city's wages were more competitive, they could attract better candidates. However, it will be at least eight or nine months - until budget discussions next summer and fall - before commissioners are willing to debate that issue, he said.

In the end, they made no changes.

"Ultimately, guys, there a number of things that are challenges in small towns. This may be one we face a little longer," Peine said.

Seekers Not Slackers adopt angels

BY HAILEY GILLESPIE 4-H CLUB REPORTER

The Seekers Not Slackers 4-H Club November meeting was held November 17th at the Lone Elm Community Building. Roll call was answered by "Your Favorite Thanksgiving Leftover". Song leaders Hayden Newton and Logan Walter led the group in singing "Albuquerque Turkey". There were four committee reports presented by the Christmas, 4-H Promotion, Community Service, and Fruit Basket Committees. During new business the club decided to participate in the Adopt an Angel program and adopt one boy and one girl. Members voted to pay $25.00 a month for cleaning supplies to Lone Elm Committee Building for use of the facility. Seekers Not Slackers also decided on a date for their Christmas meeting and ask club members to bring canned goods and toys to our December meeting to donate to the 4-H Council county community service project.

For the evening program, Tyler Gillespie read a poem titled "Pig Won't Let Me Watch TV." Brooklynn Jones then demonstrated how to make a Thanksgiving Cornucopia table decoration. After the program the recreation leader Brooklyn Jones led the group in playing Musical Chairs.

The meeting concluded with members stating the 4-H Motto, "To Make the Best Better". The next club meeting and Christmas Party will be December 14th at 12:30 pm at the Lone Elm Community Building.
