National art contest results revealed Saturday

Variety of art, music, events planned in Garnett this weekend for Second Saturday

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Artists from across the nation will learn Saturday if they have won part of $3,000 in prize money from an art contest and exhibition in Garnett.

The "At the Walker" Open Exhibition is a national multi-media juried art contest. A distinguished artist, Steven Greenwall, of Iola, has judged the contest and results will be announced at a reception from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 11, with music and refreshments. Some of the artists may attend, and the public is invited to attend as well. A grand prize award of $1,000 will be given for the "Best in Show," and other cash prizes will be given for the top three places in each of three categories for a total of $3,000 in prizes.

Greenwell, an instructor at Allen County Community College who has earned national and international attention for his artwork, reviewed 840 pieces of art submitted by 210 artists over the past few months. Of those, he selected 51 pieces as finalists. A full list of finalists is published in a story on 1B of this newspaper.

Several local and regional artists submitted works, and some local entries made it very far into the final selection process, Sonia Reeder Jones, a board member for the Walker Art Committee, said.

Finalists included artists from Parker, Paola, Louisburg, Topeka, Lawrence and Overland Park, while others are from as far away as New York, New Mexico, Oregon and other states.

The goal of the show is to increase awareness of local art and art in general, Reeder Jones said.

"We felt it was important to open it up nationally to draw attention to the Walker Art Collection, which is

Don't forget to vote

Low voter turnout expected, except maybe in southern areas

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Polls are open until 7 p.m. today to give voters a chance to decide school board and city government positions. Results will be announced later this evening, and can be found on The Review's Facebook page tomorrow morning.

Low voter turnout is expected, which is typical for spring elections without any significant issue or race to draw voters to the polls. The highest voter turnout likely will be in the southern parts of the county, particularly for the USD 479 Board of Education. Three of four seats up for election on the school board are contested.

The City of Kincaid also could attract some attention to the polls. The city features a contested mayoral race, as well as six people vying for five seats on the city council.

Other races are unlikely to draw much attention. The City of Garnett, for example, features only incumbent city commissioner Preston Peine on the ballot to retain his seat. The last time a Garnett city commissioner ran unopposed, in April 2014 when incumbent Gordon Blackie retained his seat, only 86 people, less than 4 percent of registered voters, turned out to vote. At that time, the commission position was the only item on the ballot for city voters. This year, four USD 365 school board seats will be up for

Despite money woes, schools must go on

USD 365 likely won't follow districts' example in closing schools early

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Money woes will force two Kansas school districts to close the semester early this year, but USD 365's superintendent warns students not to get too excited about something like that happening here.

It won't. At least, it probably won't.

There still are a lot of questions about how much money the state will provide to schools, both this year and beyond. Gov. Sam Brownback signed a legislative plan last week that would provide "bloc grants" that will give districts a set amount of money over the next two years while they retool the school financing formula. The plan will provide an additional $300 million to the level allotted in the 2013/2014 school year, and follows cuts announced in February of 1.5 percent to public schools and a 2 percent to public universities. The February cuts would have taken about $51 million from what schools had expected to receive this year.

Bloc grants are expected to restore those funds, though dis-

New standards mean new math books

USD 365 spends $102K
on new math books to teach Common Core

BY VICKIE MOSS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Students in USD 365 will have more than $100,000 in new math textbooks next year aimed at following new Common Core teaching standards, and high school students will have the benefit of electronic versions of those books on their tablets.

USD 365 Board of Education members last week approved spending $102,700.98 on a comprehensive series of math textbooks for students from kindergarten to 12th grade. A committee led by Stacey Hedges, curriculum coordinator, spent several months examining proposals for the new books, which will teach a curriculum based on the new Common Core Standards. The books are expected to have a lifespan of about six to seven years.

Hedges updated board members about the math books a couple of months ago. The board waited to see what if anything Kansas legislators would change in the Common Core Standards, which would make the books less relevant. That didn't happen, so they moved forward with plans to introduce the series from Houghton Mifflin and McGraw Hill. The district has enough money in its textbook fund to pay for the books.

The books will teach a consistent program of math from kindergarten through 12th grade. Hedges said the program is set up to ease students into more difficult math by teaching some concepts earlier. The committee was very impressed with how the system flows together year-to-year, she said. The series did not include calculus and pre-calculus, though, so the district purchased books for those programs from McGraw Hill.

The biggest advantage of the

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS MARCH 23

Chairman Jerry Howarter called the meeting of the Anderson County Commission to order at 9:00 AM on March 23 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Jerry Howarter, Present: Eugene Highberger, Present: Leslie McGhee, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as presented.

Road and Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor met with the commission. He has received plans from BG Consultants to replace Morgan Bridge, Project 14-1250AL. Lester questioned if the commission wanted him to get bids for a new shop building. Discussion was held on how he would fund the building and still have the budget to operate for the rest of the year. Lester reported he had budgeted for a new building and could also take some money out of his various funds.

Space Needs

Dan Harden, BG Consultants met with the commission. He had given the commission, for their review, a recommendation for the space needs of the county offices. Discussion was held on different options for moving offices around and being able to fund any remodeling that would be involved.

Noxious Weed

Vernon Yoder, Weed Director met with the commission. He has advertised for a part time secretary. Vernon has received two applications for the position and presented them for commission review. Commissioner Highberger moved to hire David Stone as a part time secretary for the weed department. Commissioner McGhee seconded. Approved 3-0.

KCAMP

Larry Sharp, KCAMP met with the commission. He updated the commission on the county liability insurance.

Emergency Management

JD Mersman, Emergency Management Director met with the commission. Discussion was held on options for paying the firemen. The commission requested the auditor be contacted to see how everything can be handled. The county counselor was present and stated he felt all rural fire should be paid and if they did not want the money they could write a check to the department, however, if the auditor feels differently he would defer.

Health Walk

Commissioner Highberger moved to fund two teams for the Healing for Health Walk.

Commissioner McGhee seconded. Approved 3-0.

Custodian Apps

Commissioner Highberger moved to offer the job of custodian, full time for two months, to Kirk Soman. Commissioner McGhee seconded. Approved 3-0.

Abatements

Abatements B15-260 and B15-261 were presented and approved.

Meeting adjourned at 12:10 PM due to no further business.

new books will be the ability for high school students to access the material electronically on their personal tablets, Hedges told the board. Classrooms will have a set of textbooks, but the books will be readily available to students at all times via the tablets.

The new Common Core Standards, which have been adopted by 45 states, outline what children should know at each level. The goal is to provide a more standardized education so that students who move from one district to another, and even from one state to another, should be able to study and understand at about the same level. Critics say states were "forced" to accept the program in order to take advantage of federal financial incentives. Critics also say the concepts are inflexible, difficult to learn and abandon some traditional teaching methods, including a de-emphasis on classic literature in favor of complex, non-fiction informational texts. Supporters, however, argue those criticisms are untrue and schools can adopt curriculum that best fits their needs within the standards.

Much of the focus of Common Core discussion has revolved around the new math standards. Under the new Common Core Standards, kindergartners will need to learn how to count to 100 by 10s, solve simple word problems and learn to use written numbers to describe something less than, greater than or equal to something else. First graders will learn more about geometry. Many math concepts will be introduced at an earlier age, in order to prepare students for more difficult math later.

Students in USD 365 began taking a new set of standardized tests this spring based on the new standards. Hedges previously warned board members to expect a delay in results because the process is still new.

a great collection, and also to allow local artists to compete with national artists," she said. "We wanted to bring the best of contemporary art to Garnett so people can see the different styles and techniques."

Art including 3D, paintings, photography and more is on display at the Walker Art Gallery's West Wing Gallery and Community Gallery, within the Garnett Public Library building. Art will be displayed at the library's gallery until May 29.

The show was made possible by a multi-organizational grant from the Kansas Department of Commerce's Creative Economy Project Support program. The program is aimed at stimulating the local economy while strengthening the role of arts and culture, promoting regional identity and enhancing the quality of life for citizens. The art show was part of the grant, which also included downtown art benches, architectural plans for a community theater, children's art classes and a sound system in downtown Garnett.

The Walker Art Collection includes 70 pieces from the Mary Bridget McAuliffe Walker Art Collection, established in 1951 by Maynard Walker and given to the City of Garnett. It also includes another 140 pieces in the "Garnett Art Collection." The gallery is open during the library's regular hours. To learn more, contact the library at (785) 448-3388 or e-mail garnettlibrary@yahoo.com.

The art show reception will coincide with the return of the Second Saturdays event and Garnett Citywide Garage Sales. A drawing for $100 will take place at noon at the gazebo on the courthouse lawn. Enter for the drawing from 10 a.m. to 11:45 p.m. at the gazebo. The Life Assembly of God Church will have children's games from 10 a.m. to noon.

Later that day, from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce and Walker Art Committee will have "Taste and Talents Art and Tasting Tour," where participants can visit 16 places to view art and sample various wines, brews and margaritas, along with appetizers. Tickets can be purchased in advance for $20 at local banks, the Chamber Office (131 W. 5th) and the Garnett Public Library. Tickets can be purchased the day of the event for $25.

That evening, music will be provided by The Tone Benders at the Donna Harris Park at 7 p.m.

districts are unsure how much the particulars of the new funding plan will increase or reduce their individual budgets.

Two school districts, Concordia and the Twin Valley School District, which includes Bennington and Tescott, announced last week they each will end the school year about a week early because of financial concerns.

USD 365 Superintendent Don Blome said his district has no plans to follow that action, but added he can't predict what might happen if the governor makes more cuts similar to those made in February.

Blome said he is considering asking the board to close school buildings during the summer in order to save money on utility costs, but does not anticipate any need to close the schools early.

Crest schools were closed Friday and Monday, so no one was available for comment in the county's southern district.

Blome said previously the February allotment cuts would cost the district about $67,000. With other cuts anticipated, he has estimated the district could lose a total of anywhere between $168,000 to $225,000 by the end of the school year.

He and other area superintendents said local districts have enough money in general reserve funds to weather the financial storm this year, but are concerned about continued cuts. The situation at the legislative level continues to change on almost a daily basis, Blome said, which makes it difficult for superintendents and school board members to know what financial adjustments to make.

Attack of the gay Nazis

BY LARRY PHILLIPS THE LIBERAL (KS) LEADER & TIMES

The newest attack by leftists on Christian values has gone literally insane this week after Indiana Governor Mike Pence signed into law the state's Religious Freedom Restoration Act.

The radicals that run the Democrat party and their abettors, the lame Stream Media, are on all-out, shock-and-awe war against a law that was hailed by their great chief "Bubba" (President Bill Clinton) in 1993, and oh by the way - Senator Barack Obama voted "yes" on.

It's absolutely astonishing that the Lesbian Gay Bisexual Trans gender gang is using this Nazi-like assault on Indiana and its governor.

Wasn't it the gays for the last couple of decades begging America's citizens to just be "tolerant" of their lifestyle?

Now they turned into "If we perceive any kind of threat from Christians, we will persecute you, intimidate you, castigate you, call you every derogatory name we can think of and use fascism if need be to stop you."

Where's the tolerance now?

Nineteen states have passed similar laws to the 1993 federal Religious Restoration Act, and even the Supreme Court ruled in favor of Hobby Lobby in its case against being forced-coerced - to give up its religious beliefs.

This totalitarianism is a selected war on Christianity, and don't believe it's not for one second.

I don't see any gays asking a Muslim tailor to make them a shirt with printing that defames Mohammad. Do you?

I'd like to see a gang of those tough, brave LGBT thugs walking around wearing T-shirts with "Allah likes little boys" plastered all over them and see what happens then.

This ever-growing anti-Christianity is hitting closer to home, too.

In a Tuesday AP article by Nicholas Clayton, he reported the Kansas Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union is pressuring Kansas Legislators to halt passage of a bill that would "... prevent universities and colleges from denying benefits to student organizations that require members to comply with the groups' 'sincerely held religious beliefs' or 'sincere religious standards.'"

Similar bills like this are being passed by numerous states since the Hobby Lobby ruling, and ACLU Executive Director for Kansas Micah Kubic testified Monday in Topeka that the bill would allow student groups to have discriminatory policies toward women, sexual minorities and other groups.

Here is what Michael Schuttloffel, executive director of the Kansas Catholic Conference, said during his testimony Monday, "The sad truth is that universities use these policies to punish religious students whose beliefs they do not like."

That "is" the sad truth.

These leftists are now espousing that "you yokels can have your religious freedom, except when we say so."

How does 7 to maybe, maybe 8 percent of the nation get to dictate what Christians should or should not believe?

This country was founded on religious freedom, but those beliefs are threatening to the LGBT groups, so they try to destroy those threats - by any means possible.

This leftist push is a real threat to the very core of our republic, and conservatives and Constitutionalists can't just keep sitting idly by and not fight back,

This threat is proving to be deadly, too.

In Colorado, it was reported last Thursday a woman accused of cutting the unborn baby from an expectant mother's belly will not face murder charges.

Seems the leftists in that state do not have a death penalty for those killing a fetus. You see, in Colorado, the leftists that run that state - and a majority of its voters - don't believe a fetus is a human being, because they see it as just a glob of innate slop while its in the womb. That way they can abort it without any spiritual or legal consequences.

In the gruesome attack, a woman lured an eight-month pregnant woman to her house for baby clothes and then stabbed the mother to death, cut the baby out of the womb and then the baby died.

"Even though the baby girl died, legal experts say the case is complicated by the fact that Colorado is one of 12 states that do not have a fetal homicide law. State lawmakers in 2013 voted down such a measure over fears it would interfere with abortion rights, and voters overwhelmingly agreed when they rejected a similar ballot measure in 2014," the AP story reported.

The leftists are threatening to boycott Indiana, but I'd be happy to go there.

It's Colorado I won't step foot in again.

Q. When Will Hillary Announce for 2016 ?

Religious Bigotry

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

What is it about religion? Even in these modern times where we are exposed to a world full of ideas, how can what presents itself as the ultimate force for love bring out the absolute worst hate in people?

In the state of Indiana there was a law passed, purported to be a protection for religion, yet motivated by a desire to humiliate human beings whose only "sin" is choosing a member of the same gender to love. Under this legislation, religious reasons can be cited as legal justification to discriminate against gays, meaning that the bigot can deny a potential customer professional services, for instance, because he or she objects to the customer's sex choices.

Indiana has become the latest state to enact a so-called a religious objection statute. Condemnations are pouring in; major business, organizations, individuals and even the NCAA have complained, which is notable because the men's college basketball tournament concludes March Madness with the Final Four in Indianapolis.

Of course, the religious zealots in the Indiana Midwest don't compare with the fanatics in the Middle East, which is, and please pardon the technical diplo-speak, going kabloobie. When we unravel all of the geopolitical complexities - allies siding with bitter enemies in one country and then waging war against one another in a neighboring nation - there is really just one consistent factor: religion.

BOB FRANKEN, King Features Syndicate

Specifically, it's Sunnis versus Shiites seeking Islamic dominance. That's the biggest reason why Saudi Arabia, a U.S. ally even with its disgraceful human-rights record, is facing off against its historical adversary Iran. Each has a supporting cast of other nations in the region and other terror groups. Add the complication of Israel's own biblical justification, and the Mideast becomes a massive explosion that's been waiting decades to happen. So, when compared with those guys, the extremists here in the U.S. of A. aren't all that extreme.

Perhaps that doesn't count a West Coast man who is doing his level best to take California's easy path to the state ballot and put before the voters a proposition called the Sodomite Suppression Act. In part, it reads: "The People of California wisely command, in the fear of God, that any person who willingly touches another person of the same gender for purposes of sexual gratification be put to death by bullets to the head or by any other convenient method."

After a year, it would allow any individual to carry out the execution.

State officials are trying to block the proposal, and obviously it wouldn't stand a chance of passing. But let's be honest, there are millions in this country who want to, in the name of their religion, deny the normal rights of Americans to people whose only "sin" is same-sex whatever.

Less extreme but ugly nonetheless are those who insist that marriage and all the rights attached to it are extended only to those who follow the traditional he-she model. It's so important to remember that we have religious freedom in this country as long as that freedom doesn't block someone else's freedom. It's not that hard to understand. Still here, and throughout the world, throughout our history, religion is the source of our problems, not the salvation.

Oppose sales tax on utility bills

We understand that current budget problems have forced the Kansas Legislature to examine a number of revenue options. Among the proposals under consideration is Senate Bill 261 which would repeal the current state sales tax exemption for residential and agricultural energy bills.

Lyon-Coffey Electric Cooperative is a not for profit, member owned utility serving parts of 9 Kansas counties. Kansas electric cooperatives serve some of the most disadvantaged Kansans. Those members often live in less efficient housing and pay disproportionately higher utility bills. As electric rates have risen, we have been encouraging our members to conserve energy and invest in efficiency improvements. These laudable efforts will be undermined by a 6.15 percent sales tax increase on their energy bills.

We urge our State legislators to consider the daily impact that raising utility bills by applying a State sales tax will have on each and every Kansan. The elderly, the student, the single parent will all face additional hardships each month their utility bill is due.

Our motto here at Lyon-Coffey is "Neighbors Serving Neighbors". Please help us help our neighbors and oppose any attempt to remove the sales tax exemption on residential and agriculture energy uses. Contact your local State representative in Topeka today and ask them to oppose this initiative.

Regards,
The Board of Trustees and Staff
Lyon-Coffey Electric Cooperative, Inc.

In defense of Indiana

Indiana is experiencing its two minutes of hate.

Indiana's sin is that its Legislature passed and Gov. Mike Pence signed into law a Religious Freedom Restoration Act, setting out a legal standard for cases involving a clash between a person's exercise of religion and the state's laws.

To listen to the critics, you'd think the law was drafted by a joint committee of attorneys from the Ku Klux Klan and the Westboro Baptist Church.

The enlightened are stumbling over themselves in their rush to boycott Indiana. Seattle and San Francisco are banning official travel, and Connecticut is following suit. The anti-Indiana backlash is a perfect storm of hysteria and legal ignorance, supercharged by the particularly censorious self-righteousness of the left.

All the Indiana law says is that the state can't substantially burden a person's exercise of religion, unless there is a compelling governmental interest at stake and it is pursued by the least-restrictive means. The law doesn't mandate any particular outcome; it simply provides a test for the courts in those rare instances when a person's exercise of religion clashes with a law.

Nineteen other states have similar protections, and they are all modeled on a federal version of the law that passed Congress with near unanimity in 1993 (Indiana's law is arguably a little more robust than the federal version, since it applies to private suits). If these Religious Freedom Restoration Acts were the enablers of discrimination they are portrayed as, much of the country would already have sunk into a dystopian pit of hatred.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

The religious-freedom laws once were associated with minorities that progressives could embrace or tolerate - Native Americans who smoke peyote as part of religious ceremonies, Amish who drive their buggies on the roads, and the like. That was fine. It is the specter of Christian small-business people - say, a baker or a florist - using the laws to protect themselves from punishment for opting out of gay-wedding ceremonies that drives progressives mad.

Why? The country has an enormous wedding industry not known for its hostility to gays. The burgeoning institution of gay marriage will surely survive the occasional florist who doesn't want to provide flowers for a same-sex wedding for religious reasons

As a practical matter, such a dissenting florist doesn't make a difference; the affected couple might be offended, but can take its business elsewhere. But for the left, it's the principle of the thing. For all its talk of diversity, it demands unanimity on this question - individual conscience be damned. So it isn't bothered when religious wedding vendors are sued or harassed under anti-discrimination laws for their nonparticipation in ceremonies they morally oppose.

It's not clear that Religious Freedom Restoration Acts will shield these kind of business people (they haven't, to this point). It might be that more specific exemptions are necessary. But the mere possibility that the Religious Freedom Restoration Act might protect a baker opposed to gay marriage is enough to create a furious, unhinged reaction.

Yes, there is intolerance afoot in the debate over Indiana, but it's not on the part of Indianans.

Welcome back, Legislators, now put together a tax plan

Legislators are at home on Spring Break—that's when they have to buy their own food and drinks—until April 29, when they must put together a tax plan to finance the state budget.

And this year, they'll face for the first time the real effect of tax policies adopted in 2012 and 2013 that sharply reduced state income tax receipts. Last year, and the year before, there were general fund ending balances that could be tapped or what around the Statehouse is generally called the "Bank of KDOT"—the Kansas Department of Transportation funds; those are now running low.

It's the real face-off. There is little left in the cupboard, state spending has been cut about as far as most legislators are willing to go, and it's now up to deciding what taxes to raise.

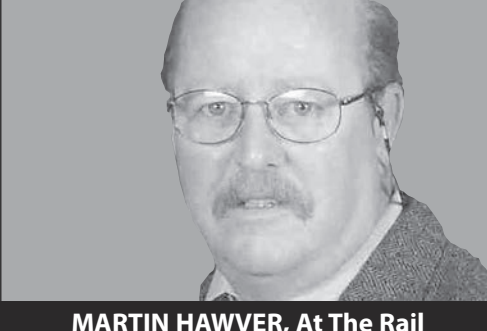

Or, to just reduce spending to the level that local units of government have to pick up the costs of programs they haven't had to shoulder in the past. That shifting of responsibilities for programs and their cost to cities and counties is what they call "local control" at the Statehouse, a good thing because it sounds nice, and saves the state money.

But...it all comes down to taxes...and who levies and pays them.

It's that simple.

Legislators, being grown-ups, of course aren't much interested in making their friends or campaign supporters pay higher taxes. That's not hard to understand. And, if the state just reduces support for social programs and such, well, the local units of government are going to have to decide whether to continue them—with local property tax dollars.

STATE COMMENTARY

So, legislators are facing the problem, and rather than increasing taxes, they might just tap folks who aren't paying taxes now.

That's where it becomes interesting.

Put back the sales tax on residential utilities? It would hit everyone who doesn't sleep in the park or in their cars. But, it can be jiggled so that something less than the full 6.15 percent tax is levied.

The jiggling? It's utility companies doing the billing and can be done easily rather than having every cash register in the state reprogrammed if there was a general sales tax rate change. It might mean the utilities will have to buy protective clothing for meter-readers, though.

Put back the sales tax on agricultural machinery and equipment? Might look good in cities, but not where properties are described by how many acres go along with

One set of flowers on this button has been identified as echinacea. The other set of flowers remains a mystery.

Flowers on old button identified, but its other mysteries remain

Remember me writing about finding a very nice old button on my trip to Wilson County. Here are the facts I know about this button thus far. It is made of solid brass, it is a dome in shape, it has a soldered wire shank indicating it dates between 1820-1890 and is decorated with flowers.

I recently sent a photograph of this button to a friend of mine who works as a Midwest Cultural Resources Consultant to identify the flowers. Here are the results of that study. If you look closely at the flowers you will find there are only two different species (two pairs). They were unable to identify one set, but the other set are Echinacea's or what we know as Cone Flowers.

The Echinacea genus has 9 species, which are commonly called Cone Flowers. These flowering plants and their parts have different purposes. Some species are cultivated in gardens for their showy flowers and some are traditionally used to treat and prevent common cold, flu and other infections.

Echinacea angustifolia was widely used by the North American Plains Indians for its general medicinal qualities. The Kiowa used it for coughs and sore throats, the Pawnee for headaches, the Cheyenne for sore throats and many tribes including the Lakotah used it as an analgesic.

The questions I have that mostly likely will never be answered about this button are: Who owned it? Who wore it? When was it lost? How old it really is and is it a Spanish button?

County leaders were looking at delaying the patching of chip and seal roads this summer, a move they think would save $55,000 as they try to navigate a $486,000 budget shortfall due to a corporate tax appeal.

Father George Matz, pastor of Holy Angels and St. John the Baptist churches, reacted to the death of Pope John Paul II on Saturday afternoon by saying, "He was one of my heros."

Anderson County Commissioners learned Friday that they have a long way to go before the Anderson County Landfill can be considered closed. A team of experts from the Kansas Department of Health and Environment met with commissioners Friday to discuss construction of a building at the Anderson County landfill transfer station. State officials said they require a signed set of engineering plans before they will approve the building. State officials also toured the landfill. They suggested that the area currently used for construction and demolition waste disposal be made smaller.

In the next few months, the Great American Cattle Drive is going to be receiving more attention. If you see the drive on television or see a photograph, look close and you might see one of the 47 head of Longhorn owned by Les McGhee of Greeley.

Henry and Kay Roeckers of Garnett were honored April 6 by the Anderson County Historical Society as this year's Outstanding Anderson County Citizens.

The Garnett City Commission settled an easement difficulty concerning the newly completed Garnett Cedar Valley Reservoir Tuesday by agreeing to pay Walter L. Adams $8,000. The need for the settlement arose after the recent melting of the winter snows and several rainstorms in the Anderson County area caused water to cover more of the Adams land than had been anticipated.

Greeley had no election Monday. The polling place was opened, and the voting begun, when it was discovered that an error had been made in preparing the ballot. One of the errors was the printing of a circle at the top of the ticket, when the new law had done away with the circle. The election could not proceed, and it was called off. Word reaches this office that another election will be called, but that this can be done is doubtful. They probability is that the present city elections will have to hold over till the next election.

Marshal Hempstead informs The Review that his "hotel" at the city hall is now closed. But he did a land-office business during the past three months. He failed to give the number of roomers he had in January, but there were 411 in February and 588 in March. Billy said he hadn't the heart to turn the poor fellows out into the cold when they applied for a place to spend the night. For awhile, he fed a good many of the down and outs, but they came too fast for him - he just couldn't feed them. Every humane citizen will say he did just right in allowing them to sleep in the city jail. Hereafter the city will probably adopt a different plan. Each applicant for board and lodging will be given a fixed amount of stone to break, and if he performs the task, he will be taken care of; otherwise he will have to move on. Thus, each deserving man will have a warm place in which to sleep, and he will not be compelled to walk out of town hungry. Other towns adopted this plan, and report it is going well.

Crest receives athletic grant

Crest High School, more specifically the girls volleyball program, was selected as one of the 2015 California Casualty Thomas R. Brown Athletics Grant Award Recipients.

Head Coach Abigail Hermreck applied for the grant last fall in hopes of using the money to improve her program by purchasing items specifically for volleyball.

"I was so excited and thrilled for the girls and this grant will help us in our pursuit of a successful 2015 season," Hermreck said.

Superintendent of Schools Chuck Mahon was contacted the last week of March about the award and said "Abby is all about kids and she proved it again by taking the initiative to apply for this grant. I am very proud of her and excited for our girls volleyball team." Hermreck received the check for $1,000 at a presentation in front of the entire Crest teaching staff on Wednesday April 1, 2015.

Gov. Brownback signs 13 bills into law

TOPEKA – The following 13 bills have been signed into law by Kansas Governor Sam Brownback so far in this legislative session.

- House Substitute for SB4, the rescission bill, was signed on Feb. 10, 2015.

Four bills were signed into law on March 25, 2015:

- House Substitute for SB7 – creates the classroom learning assuring student success act, commonly referred to as the education block grant.
- HB2053 - relates to the calculation of criminal history, crimes, punishment and criminal procedure.

- SB13 – allows notification to victims regarding the release of defendants from confinement, assignment to work release, or any other change in custody status.

- SB46 – the identification of domesticated deer and requirements for possession of domesticated deer.

Three bills were signed into law on March 30, 2015:

- HB2023 – legislative review of exceptions to disclosure of public records

- HB2066 – amends certain statutes relating to investments by life insurance and other insurance companies.

- HB2085 – contracts between the Secretary of Transportation and the Kansas Turnpike Authority, annual reports from the authority.

Five bills were signed into law on April 1, 2015:

- SB109 - creates the Kansas Disaster Utilities Response Act.
- SB150 – allows authorized representatives of a motor carrier to appear before the Kansas Corporation Commission for violations of $500 or less.
- SB21 – amends the economic and safety regulation of commercial motor vehicles operated solely in intrastate commerce.

- SB47 – establishes principle-based reserves and updates the standard non-forfeiture law for life insurance companies.
- SB73 – amends the definitions of all-terrain vehicles, recreational off-highway vehicles and work-site utility vehicles in a registration statute.

- SB43 – designates a portion of K-8 as the "Home on the Range Highway."
- SB45 – the Constitutional Carry bill.

By law, the Kansas governor has 10 calendar days to sign the bill into law, veto the bill or allow the bill to become law without his or her signature.

Second Saturdays returns with art, music and more

Second Saturdays kicks off with a bang this Saturday, April 11th with a variety of great community events.

It's up early to catch those bargains as the Garnett City Wide Garage Sales begins Saturday morning. Sales are happening all over town and throughout business districts, with added sales on the one-way parking south of the courthouse (Junk in the Trunk sales). The Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce will have garage sale maps available on Thursday to help treasure hunters plot their sale stopping strategy.

While out and about on Saturday, be sure to stop by the gazebo on the courthouse lawn to get in on the Second Saturday $100 Drawing. Enter the drawing for free from 10:00 a.m. to 11:45 a.m., with drawing at 12:00 p.m. (noon).

Free children's games are being organized on the Anderson County Courthouse lawn. Volunteers from the Life Assembly of God Church will have games and prizes for the kids from 10:00 a.m. to noon.

At The Walker - The prestigious juried art show is now on display at the Walker Art Gallery's West Wing Gallery and Community Gallery, all within the Garnett Public Library Building. Hundreds of arts entered this contest with the following selected as finalists:

- David Dugas of Blacksburg VA
- Steven Stanger of Baileys Harbor WI
- Kathryn Shriver of Alden NY
- Steven Ramsey of Kearney NE
- Lucas Pointon of Gibsonia PA
- Jan Nelson of Wauna WA

- Dale Jamieson of Shawnee KS
- Penny Winn of Forks WA
- Carol Maltby, CPSA of Hamburg NY
- Christine Everhart-Staten of Parker, KS
- Jane Flanders of Lawrence, KS
- Paul Mordetsky of Highstown, NJ

The public is invited to view the art, including 3D, paintings, photography and more, and meet some of the artists during a special artist reception held 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday. There will be music and refreshments.

Get your tickets now to be a part of the first ever Taste and Talents Art and Tasting Tour. This event is hosted by the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce and the Walker Art Committee and features 16 locations of which our participants can sample wines, brews and margaritas, along with appetizers. Tickets can be purchased in advance for $20 at local banks, the Chamber Office (131 W. 5th) and the Garnett Public Library. Tickets can be purchased the day of the event for $25.

Second Saturdays outdoor entertainment brings back The Tone Benders to the Donna Harris Park. Music in the park will begin at 7:00 p.m. Bring your lawn chair, if you wish.

What's your customer type?

Everyone in business has different "customer types" that make up the sum of their sales revenues. Some are good, some are not so good, and it's a good idea to identify a strategy to best serve them all.

I Love You: These customers flat-out love you and just about any time they buy your product, they buy it from you. They're only about 20 percent of your customers, but are responsible for 50 percent or more of your sales. There may be different reasons they're loyal; you did them a really good turn once, they like your service or your store, or they really like one of your staff members. Regardless, I Love You customers want to know they are valuable to you, so you need to tell them that by providing special offers and even asking their advice. The more you do for them the more they will boost your word-of-mouth marketing with their endorsements. Your goal, after all, is to turn every type of customer into an I Love You customer.

Have To: These customers know what they need and they need it right now. They may be impatient, and if they don't find what they're looking for quickly they'll be out the door. Think of the plumbing section of a hardware store. When the toilet kit breaks, everything else in the house stops until it gets fixed. If the need is less urgent, Have To shoppers are more prone to buying online because of the selection and convenience - which is only trumped by being able to get what they want close by and in their hands immediately. Because of this urgency, Have To's need special care and attention from a skilled staff member. If you can satisfy them on their terms, you have an excellent chance of making a Salt of the Earth customer of them.

Looky-Loo: The Looky Loo isn't in a hurry, in fact for the Look Loo shopping is as much or more about interaction and experience than it is real need. For the Looky-Loo shopping is often a hobby. They can be a seller's majority traffic, depending on your location, and still be a very small percentage of sales. They can still be a positive or negative word-of-mouth force for you based on their experience however, so make them welcome but don't spend a lot of time with them.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

Cherry Picker: Cherry Pickers are always looking for the discount. They help you turn over inventory and as such are key contributors to cash flow, but not a good source of profit, and they're more likely to return purchases.

The "Oh, Yeah!": He sees the screwdriver, and he remembers yesterday he couldn't find one in his tool box. The "Oh, Yeah!" or impulse purchaser is a long-time favorite. She is who your endcaps and floor displays are targeted to, and particularly the last 3 feet before the cash register. The Oh, Yeah! Shopper buys on a whim, and it's your job to help satisfy him!

Your objective again should be to funnel all customers toward the I Love You realm, and you do that with outstanding customer service and attention that beats the convenience of the Internet, the mass of the big box store or the proximity of a competitor.

Model T Club to meet

The East Central Kansas Ford Model T club will meet Thursday April 9, 2015 at 6:30pm at the library in Burlington.

Each family is asked to bring a snack to share with all. The club shares stories of their Model T's, telling what they are doing to prepare for upcoming tours and day trips. Others will take their T's out to run errands or just a Sunday ride.

Everyone is invited to attend the meeting and make some new friends. You do not need to own a Model T to belong to the club. Hope to see you at the meeting Thursday evening.

If you have any questions about the meeting or the old cars please call Bud Redding at 785-733-2124.

RE/MAX balloon entertains Central Heights school students

The red, white and blue RE/MAX hot air balloon, 70 feet tall and representing the worldwide RE/MAX network's "Above the Crowd!" philosophy of service, tethered at Central Heights School, 3521 Ellis Rd. Richmond, on Tuesday, March 31st to illustrate the principles of thermodynamics (hot air rises) to students.

"The RE/MAX Hot Air Balloon Presentation was a great opportunity and experience for the students," said Mrs. Collins, Central Heights Elementary Principal and Mr. Welch, Central Heights Middle School Principal, "Sharon Hubbard, Owner of RE/MAX Connections arranged this "How Hot Air Rises" program for us, and the kids were really looking forward to seeing a demonstration of what we've been studying."

RE/MAX has the world's largest fleet of hot air balloons, scheduling appearances at community events, office openings, and educational activities across the globe. The most recognized symbol in real estate, and one of the Top 10 most instantly recognized corporate logos in the world, the hot air balloon is symbolic of superior

"How To" 3D printer workshop set for April 11

Garnett/Anderson County Economic Development is partnering with Neosho County Community College (NCCC) and USD 365 to sponsor a workshop on 3D printing.

This "how to" workshop will be held in the computer lab at Anderson County High School on Saturday, April 11th. The workshop is open to the public. Entrepreneurs and business owners are encouraged to attend. Class will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and is limited to 10 people.* The cost is $20 per person, payable in advance at Garnett City Hall. A rebate of $10 will be refunded at the door by NCCC prior to the start of class. Therefore, the actual cost of attending is actually only $10! There are two 3-D printers that will be in use for this workshop. These printers will be available for future use in the community as well. The workshop will be taught by representatives from Makerspace located in Kansas City.

Please contact Economic Development Director Dennis Arnold by email, dennis@garnettks.net to reserve your seat in this very interesting workshop or call Susan Wettstein, Community Development Director at city hall, 448-5496.

In the event there is an overwhelming response a second class will be scheduled at 1 p.m. the same day.

God has reconciled man to himself

We have just gone through Holy Week. This is a time when we are confronted with the cross and the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Christ laid down his life as an example of holiness for us. "God made him, (Jesus) who had no sin to be sin for us, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God." (2nd Corinthians 5:21)

So what does holiness look like in you and me? The only example we can turn to is Jesus. Who else can we say has never transgressed God's law or who has not failed to conform to the law of God. The Apostle Paul in Romans 7:14-20 reveals his own struggle with sin. Paul says, "we know that the law is spiritual; but I am unspiritual, sold as a slave to sin. I do not understand what I do. For what I want to do I do not do, but what I hate I do. And if I do what I do not want to do, I agree that the law is good. As it is, it is no longer I myself who do it, but it is sin living in me. I know that nothing good lives in me, that is, in my sinful nature. For I have the desire to do what is good, but I cannot carry it out. For what I do is not the good I want to do-this I keep on doing. Now if I do what I do not want to do, it is no longer I who do it, but it is sin living in me that does it."

Paul's admission of failure to live a life that conformed to the law as well as his admission that he had transgressed the law is the first step required to begin to live a holy life. It is no different for you or I, what separates us from God is sin. Prior to Adam and Eve's transgression of God's command to not eat the fruit from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil God communed with man in person. This was possible because man was made in the image of God. The fall stripped man of his holiness thus a great gulf developed between man and God. One of the essential elements of God's nature, holiness was no longer present in man.

Job recognized this in Job 9:33 when he laments the fact that he cannot confront God, "If there were only someone to arbitrate between us." God sent Jesus, the very personification of holiness to take our sin, and through our faith to transfer his righteousness to you and I thus closing the gulf between God and man. Through the righteousness of Jesus Christ God has once again reconciled man to himself. Jesus makes a very important statement in John 14:7 when he says, "Anyone who has seen me has seen the Father."

Crest High School Play
Crest High School drama will present a matinee performance April 12 at 2 p.m. in the Crest gymnasium, with light refreshments provided by the CHS bakery class.

Veering away from prior years, this will be a full length theatrical production titled "The Birds That Stay" by L. Don Swartz. It takes place during the summer of 1969, five children are struggling with personal trials of their own in a nation at war. Helping them along is the cemetery caretaker, who serves as a father figure and friend. The play contains humor and grief, as well as some violence, implied and expressed. Younger children may not be able to distinguish the difference between false drama on a stage and real, making this play

Colony Little League
A league meeting was held March 29 in Uniontown. There are a few changes this year to the rules as well as changes to the age limits for Pigtail girls and Little League boys.

Prescott was voted back into the league and feel they may have enough kids to have a Boys T-ball, Girls T-ball and Girls Coach Pitch team. Girls Pigtail age requirements have changed from 12-14 yrs. old to 12-15 as of June 1. If your child is 15 as of June 1 she can still play Pigtail, also girls Pigtail now will have an 8 run or 3 outs per inning rule. The boys Little League requirements have changed from 11-13 yrs. old to 11-14 as of June 1, if your child is 14 June 1, he can still play Little League. Certified umpires need only get their certification once instead of annually. If you are certified, no need for recertification. Signup sheets were sent by children week of 30th.

Coaches thus far are: Girls T-Ball: Mika Maer, Chrissy Powell and Dasha Womelsdorf; Girls Coach Pitch: Macy Adams and Austin Green; Girls Pigtail (to be determined). Boys T-Ball: Seth Black and Angela Whitcomb Black; Boys Coach: Syd and Melissa Buckle Hobbs and Tadd Goodell; Boys Little League: J.D. Wilson and assistant coach to be determined.

Phone Angela Whitcomb Black if you have questions, 620-852-3287 or cell 620-757-6782.

Colony Little League Meeting
A Colony Little League Ball Association meeting will be held April 9 at 6 p.m. at Colony City Hall community room. Items to be addressed will be election of officers, budget, concessions and coaches. Everyone is welcome to attend and coaches are especially encouraged to be in attendance.

Around Town
Gareld and Shirley McGhee hosted their family Sunday for a pre-Easter and birthday celebration for Darren McGhee, Chad Atwood, and Rochelle Smart. Those present beside the hosts were Darren and Cindy McGhee, Westphalia, Dustin and Rochelle Smart, Iola, Joe and Vicki Atwood and Chad Atwood, LaCygne.

Colony rural route resident reached his 100th birthday in March. He didn't want his family to have a party or card shower. He is Colony's oldest country resident and we do hope he enjoyed his day.

Thelma Culler observed her birthday this year with evening meal at the bedside of her husband, Arden. He has been hospitalized since March 18. He is doing better at Allen County Regional Hospital. She received cards, her oldest son James Smart, LaHarpe gave her a monetary gift, son Jerald, Scipio visited her and her youngest son Joseph Smart and wife Lynn, Cincinnati, Ohio were scheduled to arrive March 31 for a visit.

Study: Understanding adolescent health needs

MANHATTAN - Many health professionals across the United States are currently concentrating on the increased health needs of baby boomers, an aging population of individuals born in the 1940s through the 1960s. While health care for seniors is important, just as important are the health needs of the younger generation.

"Right at the heels of our aging needs, we have this younger population that will soon be entering adolescence, ages 10 through 19," said Elaine Johannes, associate professor in the School of Family Studies and Human Services at Kansas State University.

Johannes said there are not enough health care providers to take care of people of all ages. In addition to this, health care providers are faced with unique health issues of concern in teens, issues such as self-injury prevention, reproductive health, stress management and developing meaningful relationships.

"To equip providers, they need to know about adolescents and their health needs," Johannes said. "If we have people in our communities who understand and work alongside teens, maybe give that health professional a chance to get familiar with how an adolescent thinks. Open the dialogue between adolescents and health care providers."

To increase the dialogue about adolescent health needs and potential barriers for receiving health care, Johannes and some of her colleagues on the Kansas Adolescent Health Project Team completed a study this spring, made possible by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment (KDHE), to further understand the issues.

A look at specifics

The study involved an online survey and focus groups hosted across the state, and respondents included more than 1,200 Kansans representing youth and adults. Findings from the survey showed the top health issues among adolescents were substance abuse, mental health, obesity or being overweight, and adolescent pregnancy and parenting.

In the focus groups, the top issues discussed were similar to those found in the survey, as well as concerns of not getting enough to eat at school lunch, overall stress, bullying, boredom leading to the use of technology, wanting real services and information pertinent to today's society, and wanting to confide in adults and mentors.

The research found the top barriers that youth faced in accessing health services included a lack of their knowledge about services available, cost and affordability of services, embarrassment or shame in seeking services, and adults being unaware of adolescent needs.

Bryant Miller, a K-State graduate student in marriage and family therapy and project manager for the study, said much of the issues were related to living in rural communities, which primarily make up the state of Kansas.

"A large barrier, one we were not expecting, was the factor of embarrassment or shame for adolescents in seeking services in rural communities," Miller said. "If you go somewhere (to seek services), you are going to see people you know."

In rural areas, finding something to do also becomes an issue, and boredom could lead to other health problems, he said.

"If they don't have anything to do, whether it's because they don't have money or don't have time, that boredom factor leads to risky behaviors," Miller said.

Another item that stuck out to the researchers was how systemic the issues were in specific adolescents. For example, many of them would say, "I overeat after school, because I'm not getting enough food in school and also because I don't feel good about myself."

"They recognized (overeating) as a negative coping strategy and not helpful for them, which impacts school, home and all systems that are involved," Miller said.

"We could find a link to most of the issues back to mental health," said Michelle Washburn-Busk, a project assistant on the study. "We could even find a link that kids who were depressed were overeating or under eating because they weren't feeling fulfilled in their family lives or social lives."

Johannes said more federal funding has become available for states to suppress concerns in adolescent health, so examining their unique health issues is important. The other reason Kansas needed an adolescent health needs assessment is that adolescence is a crucial time for development in a person's life.

The report from the study was recently submitted to the KDHE, and the researchers hope parts of it will be funded to help Kansans.

Historical society to recognize Dorans, Archers; learn about Review history

The 47th Annual Anderson County Historical Society Banquet will be held on Thursday, April 16, 2015, at 6:30 p.m., at the high school commons area. Rick and Diane Doran and Doug and Sue Archer were chosen to receive the 2015 Outstanding Couple of the Year award. They were chosen for this recognition for their dedication and hard work for the Anderson County Historical Society. For the past several years, they have hosted one of our monthly meetings at Willow Branch Schoolhouse. Their family has been long-time supporters of the

Rick and Diane Doran

Hicks

Anderson County Historical Society, going back to Doug and Diane's parents, Bob and Marilee Archer.

The program will be provided by Dane Hicks on the 150th anniversary of the Anderson County Review. The Anderson County Review is the longest running business in Garnett.

Tickets are now on sale from any of the following officers and directors of the historical society: Kristie Kinney, Richard Miller, Ruth Lee Hastert, Terry Solander, Shirley Roeckers, Zella Teter, Paul Phares, Ivan Mader and Kenny Kellstadt.

Rick and Diane Doran

Rick Doran was born in Wichita, Kansas, the son of C.H. Doran and Thelma Drum Doran. He spent his early childhood living in several towns in Kansas as his Dad was a construction foreman. His family moved back to Garnett in the summer of 1956. He graduated from Holy Angels Grade School in 1959. Rick attended Garnett High School where he lettered in football, basketball and track. He also was a member of the American Legion baseball team for 3 years.

In 1963 he graduated from Garnett High School. Rick graduated from Pittsburg State University in 1968 with a degree in Business Administration.

He started working for the City of Garnett in 1970 as City Clerk. He was promoted to City Manager in 1978. He represented the City as a director on the executive joint board of the Kansas Municipal Gas Agency and Municipal Electric Agency. He served many years as a Board of Director and then President of the Kansas Municipal Utilities. He also served as President of the National Gas Consumers Association. He served on the Anderson County Planning Commission for 25 years. He retired from the City of Garnett in the spring of 2007.

He has been active in the community as a past member of the Garnett Booster Club, Optimist Club and Garnett Rotary Club. He is currently a member of the Garnett Country Club, Anderson County Historical Society and Friends of the Prairie Spirit Rail Trail.

Early ancestors of Rick's came from Ireland to this area settling in the Westphalia, Kansas area in 1857.

Diane Archer Doran was born in Garnett, Kansas, the daughter of Bob and Marilee Archer.

She attended Irving Grade School, Garnett High School graduating with the Class of 1962 and Emporia State University.

Diane married Richard Doran June 20, 1964, in Garnett. They have two sons, Eric Doran of Lenexa and Evan Doran of Garnett.

Diane was employed in her family insurance business for 38 years. She was a licensed insurance agent with the State of Kansas.

Diane has also been active in the community. She has contributed to the Garnett Public Library as a member of the Friends of the Library and organized Story Hour and was the storyteller for 13 years. Rick and Diane celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last year. Their greatest joy is spending time with their two sons, Eric and Evan, and their four grandchildren, Cassidy and Jenna Doran, Aaron and Adam Doran.

Early ancestors of Diane's came from Marietta, Ohio to Anderson County Kansas on April 4, 1870.

Doug and Sue Archer

Doug Archer was born to Bob and Marilee Archer in Garnett, Kansas in 1955. He was a 1977 graduate of Kansas State University and worked in the marketing and advertising field full time in Kansas City from 1977 to 1984 when he purchased Archer Insurance Agency. Doug continued freelancing through a rep in New York City while at Archer Insurance Agency, working for a gamut of clients such as The Kansas City Royals, Discover Magazine Chase Manhattan bank and many more until 2013 when he became Senior Creative Director for AuBurn Pharmacy.

Sue Archer was born in Corpus Christi, Texas. She spent her childhood moving throughout the U.S. Her father was in the Navy and later worked for North American aviation and those jobs required frequent transfers. She graduated from Willowbrook High School, Villa Park, Illinois in 1974 and attended Kansas State University. Sue earned her Bachelor's in history from K-State in 1977. She went back to K-State for her Master's and graduated in 2011 with a degree in Curriculum and Instruction, with an emphasis in Educational Computing, Distance and Online Learning.

Doug and Sue were married in 1977 and are the parents of three children; Erin, David and Cory. Erin, a nurse, is married to a Garnett native Eliah Bures and has one son, Augustus. They reside in Madrid, Spain. David, a Navy pilot, is getting married and fiancée Lauren and her son, Keagan, will join the family in May. Currently, David is stationed in Norfolk, Virginia. Cory teaches English and lives in Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam.

Doug served on the Library, Parks and Recreation, Rotary, Veterans Memorial and Walker Art Committee boards. Twice Doug served as Rotary President where he has been an active member since 1986. He was a member of the Optimist Club of Garnett and coached recreation league sports while his children were involved. Sue served on the Anderson County Economic Development committee.

Sue has been a long time educator in USD 365, starting in 1984 as a substitute teacher. She subbed while her children were young and eventually returned to work full time once all three kids were in school. She taught At-Risk and Social Studies before moving into the business department. She taught multiple computer classes including graphics and web design. Sue has been the yearbook advisor for eleven years and also served as newspaper advisor. She is currently the Secondary Technology Integration Specialist.
