Grain sorghum interest grows

Lack of local market biggest deterrent to crop
that's similar to corn

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - As you drive around Anderson County, crisp, yellowing corn stalks line field after field, broken sometimes by fields of thick, green soybean plants.

They're the Big Two of crops in this area, but an underdog is slowly raising its shorter, courser head. It's grain sorghum, also called milo, and it's seeing renewed interest especially as more people seek a gluten-free diet or attempt to farm in drought conditions.

Locally, more farmers are trying grain sorghum in fields that missed the deadline for planting corn this spring due to heavy rains, said Shannon Blocker, county extension agent with the Frontier Extension District. She isn't sure how many farmers planted grain sorghum this year, but said she expects to see more of the crop this year compared to previous years.

Grain sorghum plant.

"There seems to be a little uptick of interest in grain sorghum," Blocker said, but added the biggest deterrent for sorghum is the lack of a local market to sell the crop. Most area co-ops don't take it because there is so little of the plant grown in the area, and it takes up storage space reserved for the much more popular, and similar, corn crop.

But grain sorghum is especially popular in Africa because it can be grown in dryer, hotter climates and can serve as a food

Jobless numbers slightly higher

450 people jobless in Anderson County; state says jobs grew slightly

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA - Unemployment rates were up slightly in July in Anderson and surrounding counties, according to the state agency that tracks job information. Jobless numbers were higher in July compared to both the previous month and the same time last year.

Despite the trend, though, the Kansas Department of Labor said the state has gained 8,900 private sector jobs since last year, or 0.8 percent. The state's July seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 4.6 percent, up from 4.5 percent in June and up from 4.4 percent in July 2014. The not seasonally adjusted unemployment rate in July was 5.1 percent, up from 4.7 percent in June and unchanged from one year ago.

In Anderson County, there were 450 people unemployed out of a labor force of 4,155, an unemployment rate of 5.9 percent. That's slightly higher than the previous month, when rates were 5.7 percent, and com-

Fire claims longtime family home

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 9-1-2015 / Photo Submitted

Fire crews work to contain a house fire that appeared to be started by a lightning strike. The house, owned by James Tush of Garnett, is about 2 1/2 miles south of Garnett. No one was home at the time of the fire, which was spotted by someone driving along U.S. 59 nearby.

Lightning blamed for house fire

Owner says home has been in his family since 1944; fire leaves house a total loss

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - James Tush, Garnett, credits local fire crews for their work to save a few family heirlooms from a fire last week that destroyed a home that has been in his family more than 70 years. A lightning strike is being blamed for the fire.

No one was home when fire started about 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 27, at the house on Morton Road about two-and-a-half miles south of Garnett,

Anderson County Fire Coordinator Mick Brinkmeyer said. Derrick Nelson, who lives nearby, spotted flames shooting from the residence and ran to bang on the doors and windows to alert anyone inside before it was determined the home was empty. By the time fire crews arrived, the second story of the home was engulfed. Crews were able to get the fire under control at about 11:45 p.m. Thursday, and remained on the scene until 1 a.m. Friday, Aug. 28.

Tush said he was notified about the fire by a neighbor. The property had been owned by his family since 1944. It was insured.

The cause of the fire was determined to be a lightning strike; evidence of a lightning strike was shown by burn patterns on an electrical box on the home, Brinkmeyer said. The fire mostly was contained to the upper floor, with some damage to the downstairs portion of the home.

Tankers and crews from Garnett, Greeley, Welda, Colony and Westphalia fire departments responded to the fire.

Tush said he appreciated the work of firefighters who responded and worked to minimize damage.

"Had it not been for their hard work and professionalism there would have been no family heirlooms left. Most were gone but each one left is to be cherished," he said. "Also to the many friends, family and neighbors who have pitched in, thank you and God bless you."

Lake clear of dangerous algae, reopened

Problem went away
without treatment, lake
no longer poses danger

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - A problem with dangerous algae at a popular Garnett lake has disappeared, and the lake has reopened.

Blue-green algae, which can be toxic to humans and animals, has dissipated at Crystal Lake, state health and city officials said last week. The algae typically isn't treated and goes away on its own, in time. Garnett City Manager Joyce Martin said there was just a small amount of the algae in Crystal Lake, and officials believe a series of rain storms over the past week or two likely helped combat the problem. The algae is believed to be caused or worsened by such problems as chemical runoff from farmland, heat and rain.

The algae, or cyanobacteria, first was spotted by city staff Aug. 7 and the lake immediately was closed. Kansas Department of Health and Environment officials later confirmed the dangerous algae bloom was present. KDHE officials returned Aug. 24 to take new water samples, and those samples revealed the algae was gone. Garnett leaders were notified Friday, Aug. 28, and the lake was reopened that morning.

During the time the lake was closed, barricades were erected around the body of the lake. People could continue to enjoy recreational features at the lake property, such as picnic tables and playground equipment, but were prohibited from using the lake water. Even so, soon after it was closed some people knocked down barricades to access the lake, Martin said. Those who were found removing barricades could have faced a fine, but Martin said no one was cited for such action.

Since the lake reopened, minimal activity was spotted there. Martin said she did not know how many people may have returned to the lake for recreational purposes after it was reopened.

City staff likely will continue to keep an eye out for a recurrence of the algae bloom, but Martin said she doesn't anticipate a continuing problem because the amount of the outbreak was small.

"It's something you really can't control," she said.

Crystal Lake no longer is used as an impoundment for the city's water; a few years ago, new lines and a pumping station were constructed to bring water directly from Cedar Valley Reservoir into the water plant. Water from the lake is used to cool power plant equipment but doesn't come in contact with the city's drinking water, which remained safe

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS AUGUST 13

Chairman Jerry Howarter called the meeting of the Anderson County Commission to order at 2:00 PM on August 13, 2015 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Jerry Howarter, Present; Eugene Highberger, Present; Leslie McGhee, Present.

Road and Bridge

The county commission met with Randy Beachner, B&B Bridge Company and Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor. Randy reported they have discovered the bridge is in worse shape than what originally thought. It is needing approximately 200 square yards patched which is double from what he bid. Commission would like to check with the county liability insurance to see if a claim could be made. Randy will get a new cost estimate to Lester Monday morning.

Meeting adjourned at 2:25 PM due to no further business.

August 17, 2015

Chairman Jerry Howarter called the meeting of the Anderson County Commission to order at 9:00 AM on August 17, 2015 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Jerry Howarter, Present; Eugene Highberger, Present; Leslie McGhee, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as presented.

Road and Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor and Dan Harden, BG Consultants met with the commission. Gaylene Comfort was also present. Lester reported he sent the person who has the lease on Swank Park a copy of the contract. It states in the contract that he is to control the noxious weed on the property. Lester talked to the commission about a request from a citizen to blacktop a road at the citizen's request. He would also pay to maintain the road in the future. Commission was not in favor of approving the project as then other people could also request this. At some point in the future the county could end up with a lot of extra black topped roads to maintain. Gaylene questioned the possibility of putting dust control down on the Kiowa Rd. detour for the safety of kids driving to school. Lester stated they are planning on watering the road down a couple times a day to reduce the dust. Lester has talked to the dust control company and to bring a load down would cost approximately $18,000 however they would not bring a partial load unless they had someone else wanting a partial load. Dan Harden presented information for specs for the shop building. Discussion was held on the bridge over Cedar Creek. It is in worse shape than what was originally thought however it will cost more to repair than what was bid. Commission agree to proceed with the repair and cover the extra cost which is not known at this time.

Lake Region

Don Stottlemeier, Lake Region, RC&D met with the commission and updated them on what RC&D is involved in.

Kincaid Fair

Liz Drennan, Kincaid Fair President, met with the commission. They had to take down one of the buildings they used for the fair and are planning on extending the building beside it. She questioned if the county would be willing to increase their donation to the Kincaid Fair to help defray costs. Commission stated they would consider the request. Commissioner Highberger moved to donate $5,000 to the Kincaid Fair Building Fund out of the Courthouse General Fund. Commissioner McGhee seconded. Approved 3-0.

County Wide Cleanup

Commissioner McGhee moved to hold a county wide cleanup September 14th through the 19th. Commissioner Highberger seconded. Approved 3-0.

Meeting adjourned at 12:00 PM due to no further business.

NORRIS

NOVEMBER 2, 1950-AUGUST 28, 2015

The loving hand of God has gently cradled our Jackie and taken her to prepare for our glorious reunion in heaven.

Jacqueline Sue "Jackie" Harris Norris, age 64, Branson, Missouri and Blue Mound, Linn County, Kansas passed away on Friday, August 28, 2015 at her Branson home due to cancer.

She was born on November 2, 1950 at the family farm near Blue Mound, the daughter of Warren K. and Julia Mary Gotheridge Harris.

She graduated from Blue Mound High School in the Class of 1968. She then attended Fort Scott Community College and graduated from the American Institute of Banking and the Missouri Auction School.

She was a member of the Tri Lakes Board of Realtors, Missouri Association of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors. She was a dedicated realtor with ERA Table Rock Realty in Branson, Missouri for twenty plus years. She was a bright light who quickly rose to fame once she entered the real estate business and became a consistent top producer for several years due to the love of her career.

Jackie loved the challenge of working the competitive home industry and finding just the right home for her client. More than anything though she always wanted to be known as being more than fair to all those she came in contact with. She always attempted to make a difference, not only to her customers, who she became friends with, but also to everyone who worked around her.

She was full of life, funny, focused and had a very quick wit and humor. To those who had the pleasure of knowing her personally, she was much loved for willingness to share her knowledge to any new realtor or anyone that would ask. She was very passionate about her business and her clients and set a high standard for customer service.

Prior to her real estate career she was in banking in Ponca City, Oklahoma, Santa Maria, California, and Houston and Dallas Texas and rose from teller to Vice President.

Jackie despised the "Can't Do" attitude as she was a "doer" and would do her best to overcome most obstacles that got in her way.

She was an avid Kansas State University sports fan, and loved to decorate her homes in unexpected ways. She dearly loved her family and friends and rarely met a stranger. She loved practical jokes from time to time, her quick smile and wit were continual, and loved to entertain her family and friends. She also had a great love for animals and the less fortunate.

She married twice, first to David S. Huber and later to Frank D. Norris.

She was also a member of the Blue Mound United Methodist Church, Order of Eastern Star, active Blue Mound High School alumni member and former officer and president of Cozy Cove Homeowners Association where she lived for many years in Branson, Missouri.

Jackie goes to meet her father, Warren, grandparents, John and Beulah Harris, and Daniel and Lula Gotheridge, and great nephew Jaden Terry.

She is survived by her mother Julia Mary Harris, brother, beloved older brother, Denny Harris, niece, Angie Terry, great nephews, Brandon and Austin Terry and great niece Jenna Terry.

Funeral service will be held 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, September 2, 2015 at the Blue Mound School. Burial will be in the Sunny Slope Cemetery.

Memories are one of the most important treasures we share and she was known for her hospitality and generous spirit welcoming so many to her home for so many special events. Therefore, visitation, lunch and a time to fellowship will be held at the school after the graveside committal. Please all attend as these were "Jackie's wishes".

Money fears define new politics

It used to be abortion that defined liberals and conservatives on the nation's political scene. It's not anymore. It's fear. Last week's plummet in investment markets gave a stark reminder of what it is that primarily separates conservatives and liberals in the modern political era and what it is that has so solidified both their philosophies regarding the direction the country should be taking. It's not so much about right and wrong or even how you look at ethics from the position you're in; it's more about being afraid of money - where it is, and where it's not.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

Last week's fall in the stock market was the first really clear reminder of the crash of 2008, when an over valued U.S. housing market crumbled and took over a trillion dollars in investments with it. Last week investors took a switching compared to the clubbing of Fall 2008, but the illustration and the political illumination was inescapable.

initiative and revenue realization are the Holy Grail of hiring. Making a living is tougher and meaner.

We remember that Barack Obama ran for president the first time not as a socialist, but as an anti-Iraq War, anti-Guantanamo Bay, anti-Hurricane Katrina, anti-George W. Bush outsider; it was only later - after the Fall of 2008 and its financial turmoil - that his claim of centrism gave way to the far-left-leaning ideals he truly embraced. The crash of 2008 didn't help elect him that year, but it reopened unvarnished American Socialism in a way perhaps never seen before. That, along with a Republican candidate choice that played to the nation's newfound aversion to evil rich white guys - sealed Obama's re-election in 2012.

So the black hole of socialism has opened to attract those looking for absolute answers in a time of non-absolutes. If private industry can't guarantee it will take care of workers - any and all workers - then socialism will fund government with the earnings of the "haves" in order to ensure it. It is a thought more defined and pervasive now than at any time since Reagan.

Since 2008 it has been monetary fear that has driven the country to its extremes of philosophy - how else does one explain Donald Trump and Bernie Sanders running for president of the same country at the same time?

Conservatives' fears are apparent as well. The 2008 recession taught perhaps the toughest lessons to those who "had" more to lose: The free economy is tough enough to operate in without government's predominant appetite to meddle, restrict, raise costs and tax profits which may not be there one year to the next. Expanding government, from city hall to school districts to the Environmental Protection Agency casts new spending on a table proven rickety by recent economic history. Sometimes, there just isn't enough money to pay for all the promises already made. Backing those promises with borrowed money at the federal level is even worse when hard times purge private business holdings and creditors start looking for non-existent government assets to make good on its debt.

Liberals, their ranks reinforced by a burgeoning glut of economically despondent millennials, look out onto a U.S. economy which doesn't suffer poor judgment, bad decision making and college debt the way it once did. Technology has devalued low-end labor, and companies constantly twitch with the nervousness that comes from the threat of more economic upheaval; job offerings are made only after determining merging a post with another to save payroll doesn't work; ideas, Conservatives are despondent too; many believe the nation's debt is inescapable because government hasn't the will to say 'no,' and the economy is too twitchy to ever outgrow the problem.

Would that these times could generate philosophy based more from courage, but those once bitten are twice shy.

My kid came home from school today and she said all she had for lunch was a bread stick, a salad and a fruit. Really? If I'm paying that kind of money for those meals they better be fixing something good to eat or get rid of the person who's doing it. My kid deserves some good meals if you're going to raise the price.

Responding in regard to the Phone Forum article on Lakeview Estates, according to the covenants and bylaws there is no restriction on how many vehicles can be parked in a driveway. As far as people selling their houses on Lakeview Estates, we have 52 lots; right now there is only one house up for sale. In the sales of previous house this spring, the owners were approached by the buyers - they weren't put on the market. So put that in your pipe and smoke it. Have a great day.

Come on Garnett. We're missing a huge opportunity for our transient guest tax fund and local economic development. We should be making Arthur Capper action figures, bobble heads and Pez dispensers and selling them to all the tourists coming to Garnett to get their Capper on. Need to do it before someone else beats us to it. Remember, the early bird gets the worm.

If you're going to use the washers at the local laundramat, clean out the dog hair, horse hair, dog poop or whatever it is after. It's nasty. Have a little respect and clean them up when you're done.

Yes, pander to Trump on immigration

Donald Trump's rise in the polls is inextricably linked to the issue of immigration. He probably wouldn't have achieved liftoff without it, and now that his campaign has entered a new phase of semi-attempted seriousness, it is fitting that an immigration plan is the first policy proposal he has committed to paper.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Amid the bar-stool bombast about deporting all illegal immigrants already here is the core of a program that is more sensible than the "comprehensive" solution offered by the political establishment.

Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents, an end to catch-and-release at the border, and a crackdown on sanctuary cities.

What Trump offers is an entirely different framework for considering the issue. It is populist rather than elitist, and nationalist rather than cosmopolitan. It rejects the status quo rather than attempting to codify it. It puts enforcement first and dares to ask whether current high levels of legal immigration serve the country's interest. In short, it takes a needed sledgehammer to the lazy establishment consensus on immigration.

They aren't accompanied with any assurances of various pathways for illegal immigrants, and this is as it should be. Enforcement of our laws should come first, so any eventual amnesty of current illegals doesn't draw yet another population of illegal immigrants.

First, at the beginning of the Trump plan is a statement so uncontroversial that it should qualify as pabulum: "Real immigration reform puts the needs of working people first - not wealthy globe-trotting donors." Who could disagree?

Finally, the written plan calls for allowing "record immigration levels to subside to more moderate historical averages." This is an aspect of the immigration debate that almost no one else will touch. But why should we blithely accept historically high levels of legal immigration with almost no discussion?

Second, at the heart of Trump's written immigration-plan policy are enforcement measures that should be the lowest common denominator for Republicans: E-Verify, more Conventional wisdom assumes that the Trump plan is a political train wreck. The thrust of it isn't.

Byron York of the Washington Examiner points to an academic paper that recounts the public reaction to a full gamut of seven possible immigration policies, ranging from open borders to a shutdown of the border coupled with deportation of illegal immigrants.

As York notes, the largest plurality, about a quarter of people, favor the strictest option. If you add in those favoring the two next most restrictive options - basically allowing high-skilled immigration but building a wall or deporting current illegal immigrants - you get a majority of 55 percent.

A Vox analysis looked at the public-opinion data and concluded, "There is very little support for any policy that the public perceives as increasing immigration."

Trump is giving voice to a popular impulse almost entirely absent from the elite policy discussion. Other Republican candidates shouldn't seek to mimic his witless bravado, nor should they follow him down the rabbit hole of his ill-considered fixations (like getting Mexico to pay for a border wall, or revoking birthright citizenship).

But they should learn from his approach, which is a blunderbuss corrective to polite opinion.

grain for humans and livestock. The history of sorghum use dates back to 8,000 B.C. in Northeast Africa.

and Commission reported 30 to 35 percent of domestic sorghum is used for ethanol production.

In the U.S., grain sorghum mostly is used as a livestock feed although it also can be used for a food grain. Sweet sorghum is used to make syrup. It's quite similar to corn, and fell out of favor in recent decades as corn rose in popularity. Corn offers a bigger harvest, and bigger profits.

Two reasons for the renewed interest in sorghum are the scarcity of water and the demand for more healthful food grain options, according to a 2013 National Public Radio story.

Like corn, sorghum can be turned into ethanol. At one point, the East Kansas Agri-Energy ethanol plant in Garnett purchased grain sorghum as well as corn but a representative said Monday corn has been used exclusively for the past seven or eight years because so little sorghum is available in the local area. The Kansas Grain Sorghum Producers Association

Sorghum is naturally gluten-free, which makes it attractive as more people seek a gluten-free diet. A sorghum mill owner in Scott City said in the NPR story that demand for flour made from sorghum had increased 25 to 30 percent.

Locally, water - or the lack thereof - is the primary motivation to grow sorghum, Blocker said. Because sorghum is similar to corn, it's an attractive option when conditions are expected to be too dry or hot for corn. The current crop season is an excellent example of sorghum's potential as a replacement crop, Blocker said. This past spring, farmers prepped the soil for corn in late March and April, but frequent rains delayed planting. Some farmers took their chances and planted corn late; now, they're gambling on what likely could be a crop that varies considerably from field to field. Instead of taking that gamble, some farmers planted sorghum in their fields. It typically is planted about a month after corn, and harvested at nearly the same time or about a week later.

Some farmers who didn't get corn in the ground planted soybeans instead, but Blocker said if the ground was prepped with fertilizers for corn, those fertilizers may not be appropriate for soybeans. Sorghum, on the other hand, works well with nitrogen and fertilizers used for corn.

Sorghum is a more tropical plant than corn, which means it's a high-energy crop that can better withstand dry, hot conditions. Kansas produces more sorghum than any other state, followed by Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado and South Dakota.

Last year, the price of sorghum rose above corn for possibly the first time ever, Blocker said. Also, farmers last year found an area buyer at the BNSF Intermodal at Edgerton, where the grain could be loaded onto train cars and shipped to market. Typically, it's difficult to find a market for sorghum, and Blocker said the key to renewed interest in growing sorghum locally will be the ability to find a buyer.

Sorghum isn't likely to replace corn as the No. 1 crop in Anderson County, but Blocker said it's a

Library celebrates books, authors

The Garnett Public Library and the Friends of the Garnett Public Library are hosting the event "Celebrate the Book... a story for everyone". This is a free event that will be held at Garnett Elementary School on Saturday, Oct. 24th from 10-2. There will be authors, book character meet & greets and activities for all ages. One of the featured authors is Cheryl Unruh.

For 11 years Cheryl Unruh wrote a weekly column for The Emporia Gazette called "Flyover People." Many of her essays have aired on Kansas Public Radio. Her writing has won awards from the Kansas Press Association and the Kansas Association of Broadcasters. Cheryl's first book, "Flyover People: Life on the Ground in a Rectangular State," was selected as a Kansas Notable Book in 2011.

WRITING ABOUT PLACE - In Kansas, the land and the sky play a constant and dynamic role in our daily lives. Open land, an endless sky and tornado season are among the things that contribute to our identity as Kansans. Cheryl Unruh will read essays from her book and discuss writing about place, writing about Kansas.

A complete schedule of speakers and activities will be available at the library soon.

Library plans to discuss 'The Wedding Shawl'

The Garnett Public Library will hold a book discussion on Wednesday, September 23rd at 7 p.m. This month's book is "The Wedding Shawl" by Sally Goldenbaum. Goldenbaum is a sometime philosophy teacher, a knitter, an editor, and the author of more than two dozen novels. Goldenbaum is one of the guest authors that will be present for the Garnett Public Library's "Celebrate the Book" event, to be held at GES on Saturday, October 24th. Leading our discussion will be Paulabeth Henderson.

"The Wedding Shawl," the fifth book in Goldenbaum's knitting mystery series, pulls the reader into a pleasant and gentle community where ordinary people go about their calm and orderly lives. It's the unremarkable nature of the setting and characters that makes "The Wedding Shawl" such an approachable and hard-hitting tale - it could happen to us.

Izzy Chamber's heart is full but her stomach is in knots. She's about to marry Sam Perry, the love of her life, but much remains to be done before the big day arrives. The Seaside Knitters have pitched in to help, and, as a surprise, they're knitting Izzy a beautiful wedding shawl-an exquisite lace memento born of friendship. The wedding plans get complicated when Tiffany, the hairstylist for the wedding party, starts missing appointments. But when she disappears-and is later found dead - things begin to unravel. Rumors start to circulate about Tiffany's past and her connection to an unsolved murder. But with a killer among them, how can they know whom to trust?

The books are available for checkout at the library. The discussions are held the fourth Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Archer Room at the library. Notification is posted in case of cancellation.

Wohler 60th anniversary

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 9-1-2015 / Photo Submitted

Jerome "Jerry" and Jan Wohler were married in Topeka Sept. 3, 1955. Jerry had just returned from South Korea as a sergeant in the U.S. Army Artillery. Jan was working at SW Bell Telephone in the business office. She went to work for the Shawnee County Commissioners and eventually moved to the Kansas Expocentre as administrative assistant to the executive director.

Jerry retired from the Kansas Highway Patrol in 1983 with 27 years of service. His second career was security director for the Kansas Expocentre in Topeka. Jerry and Jan both retired from Shawnee County Expocentre in 1992. They moved to Garnett, bought farm ground and built four new homes on different farms.

Their homes were blessed with two children. Son Jon Wohler married Renee Coffindaffer in 1978 in Topeka. They have two daughters, JR and Rachel. Jon has retired as an air traffic controller and all live in Honolulu, Hawaii. Daughter Jean Wohler married Artie Coop in 1989 in Las Vegas, Nevada. They have a daughter, Nicole, and live in Topeka. Jean works as a dental assistant. Jerry and Jan have two great-grandsons.

They plan to celebrate their anniversary at their home in Garnett with family and friends.

God can use our weakness to accomplish His tasks

In Judges chapter 6-8 we read the story of Gideon. We are told in the opening verses of chapter 6 that Israel had again done evil in the eyes of the Lord and for seven years he gave them into the hands of the Midianites. The power of the Midianites was so oppressive that the Israelites had moved from their homes to caves and clefts in the rock. The invaders came into the land when the crops were ready for harvest and camped. They ruined the crops and destroyed all of the Israelites livestock.

The story opens with Gideon threshing wheat in a winepress to keep it from the Midianites. God has heard the cry of his people and sends an angel of the LORD to visit Gideon. When the angel of the LORD appeared to Gideon he said, "The Lord is with you mighty warrior." Gideon then begins to question the angel why this oppression has come upon Israel. The response of the angel was, "Go in the strength you have and save Israel out of Midians hand. Am I not sending you?" Gideon then offers up excuses why he is not qualified to lead Israel. The LORD answered, "I will be with you, and you will strike down all the Midianites together." Gideon, then at the order of the LORD destroyed his fathers altar to Baal and cut down the Asherah pole. He replaced them with an altar to the LORD and sacrificed a bull on it. He then summoned the people to follow him. Gideon then begins to doubt himself and asks the LORD for two signs to confirm that God was intending to save Israel by his hand. God in his infinite love and mercy obliges Gideon with his requests. Armed with this new confidence Gideon begins to implement a plan with God's help. God requires Gideon to reduce his army from the 35,000 who volunteered to 300 soldiers.

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL
By David Bilderback

Using trumpets and empty jars with torches inside of them the soldiers approached the camp and with the element of surprise blew the trumpets and broke the jars with the torches inside. The whole camp was thrown into a panic and turned on each other. When the Midianites fled the Israelites pursued them and took back their lands.

The story of Gideon is an example of how God uses our weakness to accomplish his tasks. Until we as Gideon come to the point of understanding our total inadequacy we will be destined to live as Gideon lived in the Shadows. The world calls you weak if you are inadequate in any way. "In reality we will not realize the adequacy of God until we find out our own inadequacy." (Alistair Begg) When we realize the adequacy of God we will find joy in worshipping the one true God. Within that joy we shall find peace with ourselves as well as God.

David Bilderback: A Ministry on the Holiness of God.

Write your business' life story

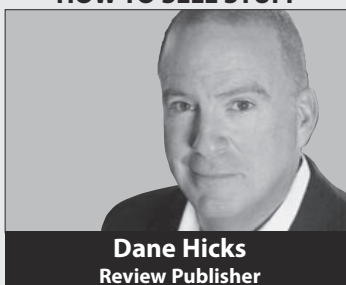

Okay, so you're no Mark Twain or Ernest Hemmingway or Stephen King, but you can still write the life story of your business in an exercise you will end up loving and which in the end, will help you sell stuff.

Lots of people get all freaked out when you tell them you want them to write - but don't sweat this - unlike all the bad grammar and misspellings and pictures of food you see on Facebook, no one ever has to see this but you.

How long? It doesn't matter. I just want you to tell your story. Stop when you feel like you've covered it. Approach it like you're telling this story to your grandkids, except continue through all the way to the end, or until you've gone as far as now.

I don't do this with the intention you'll publish it and sell a million copies or sell the movie rights to Hollywood and end up with Tom Cruise playing you in the lead role; I ask you to do this because its an exercise in concentration. It also reminds and reaffirms to you what makes your business good and illustrates ways to make it better.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

Just try it. Write single sentences if you want - they don't really even have to connect to the ones that follow. Shouldn't take any more than half an hour - an hour tops if you're really into it.

How did you get here? Did your car break down in front of a pizza place once, so you decided you'd open one of your own? Did your father pass away and you saw first hand the value of life insurance, so you opened an agency? Did you always have a knack for taking things apart and putting them back together? Somehow, there's a trail leading back from right now in your business and it leads to what you were; go back there, now with the advantage of later years perspective, and tell me what circumstances put you here.

Who helped you? Was it a teacher? A stranger? A mentor? A spouse? What did he/she do for you that you couldn't do or didn't know how to do for yourself? Why was it important, and how is it still important today?

What's changed? No matter if you just started in business two weeks ago or if this is your company's 50th year, something's not the same as it was when you started. You've probably seen numerous changes. Were they positive or negative? Did you react right or wrong to them? What lessons did you learn?

Why did you make it? You're still here, right? So you must have had some modicum of success in your business. Why do you think that is? How did you out-gun the competition? What was it that made you valuable? How did you tool yourself up to serve customers better? How did you make money materialize to pay bills when it seemed like the coffers were empty? What tricks did you have? What luck did you take advantage of?

What happens now? Are your customers going to remain the same? Will your product change? Will your product become obsolete? Who will the competitors be? What changes do you see a need for, but are avoiding? Based on facts, what is your hope for the future? What is your fear?

As you move through this exercise with your concentration focused on writing your answers, you no doubt will have revelations and brainstorming and ideas. It's like sharpening a knife, and in the end it will help you sell stuff!

Greeley church gets update

The Greeley United Methodist Church sanctuary building received new white vinyl siding last week from Miller Brothers Construction. Located at 204 North Main Street, the frame church was built in 1897 as a United Brethren in Christ church. In 1938, the United Brethren in Christ and the Evangelical churches combined to be called the Evangelical United Brethren denomination. In Greeley, the church was often referred to as the EUB church. In 1968, the Methodist and EUB churches came together to become the United Methodist Church.

In the early 1980s, instead of painting the building as had been done since 1897, the members of the church decided to side the church with white vinyl which was popular at the time. This week, the sanctuary was refreshed again with narrow board white vinyl.

Pastor Bill Driver and the congregation extend an invitation of welcome to visit this church. "Open Hearts, Open Minds, Open Doors" is a United Methodist emphasis. Services are 9 a.m. every Sunday.

Apache Tears hold deep meaning

Wow! What a bunch of BLACK rocks. Surely everyone knows what these are called.

They are Apache Tears and are a form of black obsidian found in the Southwest and Mexico. Apache tears are more than just a piece of black volcanic glass, they hold a much more deeper meaning. The legend is about the Coyote, Tonto and Pinal Indians who were all part of one Apache Tribe.

The Legend of the Apache Tear:

One day a party of Apache Indians was ambushed by an enemy tribe. The Apaches fought bravely but were greatly outnumbered and driven to the top of a high bluff. Their arrows gone and unable to fight and unwilling to be taken captive, they leaped from the cliffs to their death. Their women were understandably grief-stricken and wept over their bodies. Their teardrops froze when they hit the ground to become the lovely stones we know today as Apache Tears. It is said that whomever owns one of these stones will never cry again, for the Apache women shed enough tears already.

When polished Apache tears become crystal clear. They are said to especially also can balance one's emotional state. They are good luck stones, said to bring good luck to anyone who has one. They are excellent meditation tools, especially for clarifying issues and gaining insight.

In the physical realm, Apache Tears are reputed to alleviate muscle spasms and eliminate toxins from the body.

Note, healing crystal meanings are spiritual supports to healing and are not prescriptions or health care information.

Already hammered by the high price of gasoline, Garnett residents may end up paying some 40 percent more $80 to $200 more per month - than they did last year for natural gas. The high price of petroleum products is beginning to put the price of natural gas in "big jumps," Garnett City Manager Rick Doran said. Doran foresaw the possibility of a 40-percent increase in the price of natural gas, with the worst of it landing when demand goes up during cold weather this winter.

Garnett commissioners declined a request by Casey's General Store Tuesday night to pen up Sunday alcohol sales in the county after the owners of Garnett's two liquor stores spoke against the option. While the option appears closed in Garnett, the state law allows either the county or any of its incorporated cities to approve the Sunday sales option, leaving the potential for one or more retailers in the rural area to gain the option for Sunday sales after Garnett declined it.

A study to determine how to best fix several areas with storm drainage problems in the City of Garnett was commissioned by the city commission last week at a cost of $10,900. It will entail civil engineering and land surveying services for several areas in the city, and if the projects are later completed the cost of the study will be charged back to property owners in those localities in the form of special tax assessments. The areas in question include a segment of U.S. 59 between the Garnett State Savings Bank branch and J.D.'s Retail Liquor an area that encompasses the Willow Street apartment complex; a drainage area between Spruce and Cedar Streets and an area from Main Street to Pine Street parallel to Fifth Avenue.

More than a year's worth of debate regarding the Prairie Spirit Rail Trail culminated this morning in ground-breaking ceremonies at Garnett's Old Santa Fe Depot. The $1.2 million first-phase project will extend 18 miles along the abandoned Santa Fe Railroad line from Richmond to Welda, and be paid for by $67,000 in private and corporate donations, and about $200,000 in state funds with the remainder matched by a federal transportation grant.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. announced recently the Bank of Bronson was insolvent. This, so called, failing placed the State of Kansas in the national number one position for banks becoming insolvent this year. Kansas ranks first in the nation with closing of 10 banks.

The Anderson County Commission approved a bid system for purchasing gasoline for the month for the county's needs. The Anderson County Clerk, Arlene Patton, said there had not been much interest shown by bulk sales agents before now; however, bid forms will be supplied to all bulk gasoline sales businesses in the future and the bid for sales of gasoline to the county must be submitted by the 25th day of each month.

August 28, 1915

About two months ago, a man calling himself Tommie Schmitz lit in Garnett and secured work in the barber shop under Wilson's hardware store. He attracted attention by spending his leisure time at the top of the stairway and watching women as they passed by. He became acquainted with Miss Hazel Stewart, who accepted his attentions and, a few days later, married him. Immediately they left on a train and stayed at several lodging houses. Hazel's sister soon received a letter that said, "For God's sake, come and get me. Hazel." Sheriff Southerland had been making every effort to find them and upon learning where they were, went at once. He found that Schmitz had got into trouble by causing the arrest of a young banker there, charging him with insulting his wife, at the rooming house where they stayed. Later, the two had a fight on the streets and the banker was badly injured. Schmitz was arrested, and the sheriff took him and Hazel back to Garnett. Yesterday, Schmitz escaped from custody by jumping from the train between Carlyle and Colony. It was learned Schmitz was already married and never divorced. His treatment of Hazel was brutal in the extreme, to the extent of severe beatings. She was kept in such constant terror of him that she did not dare to appeal to persons they met for rescue, and he always kept with her.

You name it, we print it.
