Ruling: DUI drivers still subject to blood tests

State Supreme Court says it's not a crime to refuse breathalyzer test

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Supreme Court decisions that found it unconstitutional to punish someone for refusing to take a breathalyzer test, according to local and state authorities.

Locally, no one has been convicted since a law went into effect in 2012 punishing drivers for refusing to submit to a breathalyzer or other forms of blood-alcohol test, Anderson County Attorney Brandon Jones said. And local law enforcement officers routinely obtain search warrants to draw blood for any driver who refuses to take a preliminary blood alcohol test, which is still allowed under the ruling.

In addition to those local precautions, Kansas Attorney General Derek Schmidt last week asked the Kansas Supreme Court to put a hold on its decisions until the U.S. Supreme Court decides a similar case later this spring.

The Kansas Supreme Court ruled Feb. 26 that breathalyzers and other forms of blood-alcohol tests constitute "searches" and are subject to the Fourth Amendment's prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures. The court also said that police can no longer warn drivers that refusing to take such a test can result in stiffer penalties.

Before the decision, it was believed that when someone drives on a Kansas road, it is implied that the driver gives up consent for DUI testing. But the court said drivers can withdraw that consent, and can't be punished simply for refusing to take a test. Warnings of stiffer penalties from law officers if someone refuses to take the test could be considered coercion, the court found.

But law enforcement still can seek a search warrant and require the driver to take a blood test.

That's how Anderson

ers, picked challenger Bernie Sanders over presumptive nominee Hillary Clinton.

State leaders in both parties claimed record turnout for the caucuses, which in most years are sparsely attended. At the Anderson County caucus site at Town Hall Center in Garnett, 293 ballots were cast. The turnout was larger than expected, and organizers had to print more ballots mid-caucus. Of those votes, 95 went to Cruz, 77 to Trump, 45 to Marco Rubio and 32 to John Kasich; the rest were uncommitted or went to candidates who have dropped out, or were voted on a provisional basis because they at a cost of more than $164,000. The decisions to spend the money for textbooks but wait to decide about the boiler were made as attempts to save money, in spite of various factors that could impact either decision.

Board members plan to study additional options that could save money related to the new boiler. And after a lengthy debate over the textbook purchase related to uncertainty surrounding Common Core,

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 3-8-2016 / Vickie Moss

Workers with Belger Crane of Kansas City, Mo., repaired the cable on top of the Anderson County Courthouse Thursday, March 3. A rope that had a metal cable inside it had been used to allow workers to change the flag for the past four years, but the rope broke along with a grommet that helped hold the flag on two sides. Metal shingles that were recently installed on the roof wouldn't allow for someone to scale the cupola roof to fix the problem, so a crane was needed to fix the problem. The cost of the repair was about $4,000, and the rope was replaced so the flag can be changed as needed. A hatch in the roof was used at some point, but is now covered by the roof and likely couldn't be used again without major modification.

WESTPHALIA - A Westphalia man has filed for a seat on the Anderson County Commission, the latest in a handful of early filings before the June 1 deadline.

Dave Pracht has filed for District 3 on the Anderson County Commission, a seat currently held by Eugene Highberger of Westphalia. Highberger, a Democrat who has sat on the commission more than 20 years, hasn't filed and hasn't publicly announced his intentions.

Two seats on the county commission are up for election this year. District 2 incumbent Jerry Howarter, a Democrat, has filed to retain his post. No one else has so far filed for commission seats.

Other incumbents who have filed to retain their positions include Anderson County Clerk Phyllis Gettler, a Democrat; Sheriff Vernon Valentine, a Republican; Register of Deeds Sandra Baugher, a Democrat and Treasurer Dena McDaniel, a Republican. The only other incumbent, Anderson County Attorney it would bring an unsavory element to the area. Rapists. Robbers. Drug dealers. They weren't here when trail proponents promised wonderful economic development opportunities - expanded retail, bike shops, café's.

They weren't around for the ensuing legislative fight, when state funding for building various parts of the trail seemed always in jeopardy.

And they weren't around when the Santa Fe Depot in Garnett was shuttered, in need of a new roof and tens of thousands of dollars to restore its interior back to its original condition, and to add restrooms.

What they see, now, are 52 miles of well-maintained biking and walking paths, paved within the city limits of the various communities through which the trail passes. And free for residents to use within those city limits.

More crime? No, unless you count vandals breaking trail lights in Garnett. No rapes, murders, no bulls goring trail users who strayed into neighboring pastures.

And no major economic benefit either. At least one supporter said he is disappointed that promises of an economic boom from the trail never materialized.

Twenty years later, the best and the worst of the trail - never came true.

But newcomers do see wildlife along the trail's rural areas: Deer, turkeys, birds, snakes and turtles. Wildflowers. Bridges over peaceful streams and rivers. Farms and gently rolling fields. Rarely do they see other people once past the city limits. They see the health benefits that come with using the trail. And they see the various events and activities that bring people to their communities. They also see, if they looked deep enough into the Kansas budget, an ongoing expense for the trail borne by taxpay-

NEWS IN BRIEF

PI(E) DAY CELEBRATION

Pi(e) Day will be celebrated at the Garnett Public Library on Monday, March 14. Pi Day is an unofficial holiday commemorating the mathematical constant Pi. Pi Day is observed on March 14 (or 3/14 in month/day date format), since 3, 1 and 4 are the most significant digits of pi in the decimal form. Celebrate the mathematical Pi Day, by eating PIE, all kinds of pie! The library will sell slices of pie from 10-2 at the library on Monday, March 14. All proceeds benefit the Friends of the Library.

VFW BREAKFAST

The Garnett VFW will have a breakfast from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. Saturday, March 12. Menu includes biscuits and gravy, Belgian waffles, bacon, sausage and eggs.

EASTER EGG HUNT

The Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce is planning an Easter Celebration Saturday, March 26, at 10 a.m. at the Courthouse Lawn. It will begin with live local music featuring Holy Cows and Sara Lott, as well as games, balloon animals, magic tricks, egg toss, lunch food vendors and more. The annual Easter Egg Hunts will begin at noon.

COUNTY FAIR SURVEYS

High school and junior high students at ACJSHS: please pick up an Anderson County Fair Survey at the school office, complete it and return to the office before March 10. This is your chance to help determine what happens at the fair carnival.

CITY WIDE GARAGE SALES

April 9 has been designated as Spring City Wide Garage Sales by the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce. Persons interested in participating in the City Wide Garage Sales promotion are encouraged to sign up their garage sale by visiting the Chamber office located at 131 W. 5th Avenue (inside City Hall), or by using the online form and mailing in the $5 registration fee to P.O. Box H, Garnett, KS 66032. The participation fee includes a garage sale listing on the official garage sale map, social media blasts and local newspapers. All registrations and payments are due no later than March 22. Garage sale maps will be available beginning April 4 at the Chamber Office, banks and online at www.garnettchamber.org. For more information, please contact the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce at 785.448.6767.

County officers routinely handle such cases, Jones said. If someone refuses to take preliminary blood-alcohol tests such as a breathalyzer, the officer will obtain a search warrant and the driver's blood will be drawn at the local hospital, he said.

Because of that process, the state Supreme Court ruling shouldn't have much impact on previous or future cases.

But pending cases could be affected by the "implied consent" ruling, Jones said, because evidence collected during those traffic stops was based on drivers giving such implied consent, and likely with law enforcement officers warning of the potential for stiffer penalties for refusal. Jones said several pending DUI cases in Anderson County could be affected, and he is waiting to see if the state court's ruling is put on hold pending the Supreme Court decision.

Jones said most drivers suspected of DUI do not refuse the breathalyzer or other blood alcohol tests, estimating it was probably fewer than 20 percent who refuse such tests. Immediately after the state Supreme Court ruling, though, he spoke to Anderson County Sheriff Vernon Valentine and Garnett Police Chief Kevin PeKarek about proper procedures for suspected DUI cases. PeKarek said the changes will not significantly affect traffic stops by his officers, although it will take time to obtain a warrant if someone refuses a preliminary test.

"It's just a lot more time consuming. More work for us. We're used to that," he said.

Jones said he has charged people under the 2012 law for refusing to take a blood alcohol test, a misdemeanor with a sentence of up to six months in jail and a fine of up to $1,000 for the first offense and a one-year suspension of driving privileges on the first offense; a two-year suspension on the second offense; and a three-year suspension on the third offense. But typically he considered that a "throw-away charge" as part of plea agreements in DUI cases, and he believes no one has been convicted of criminal refusal in Anderson County. The court's decision about the law is not retroactive, even if it had applied to cases in Anderson County.

The U.S. Supreme Court is scheduled this spring to hear cases from other states that present similar constitutional questions. A decision on those cases, known together as Birchfield v. North Dakota, is expected by the end of June.

"The final word on the meaning of the U.S. Constitution rests with the U.S. Supreme Court," Schmidt said. "In this case, that final word is near, so it makes sense to put the Kansas decisions on hold until

FOXX

AUGUST 30, 1927-MARCH 3, 2016

Georgetta Browning Foxx, age 88, lifelong resident of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on March 3, 2016, at Overland Park Regional Medical Center, Overland Park, Kansas.

She was born August 30, 1927, the daughter of Ernest and Alveta (Hermion) Browning in Garnett, Kansas, the last of three daughters. She went to school at Garnett and was a member of the Class of 1945.

On September 16, 1944, Georgetta was married to William J. "Bill" Foxx at Mound City, Kansas. To this union were born three children, Ronald E. Foxx of Ottawa, Kansas; Donna Kimmell and husband Terry of LeRoy, Kansas; Bryan Foxx and wife Cindy of Fort Scott, Kansas.

Georgetta was a homemaker most of her life. She loved to bowl and went to several state competitions. She also enjoyed playing cards, dancing and debating political issues. She was also an avid baseball fan of Garnett's many teams, as anyone who knew her could always hear her even if they couldn't see her. She served as a den mother for both of her sons and served as a Bluebird mom for her daughter. She also served for many years on the election board.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband William Foxx on March 29, 2001; foster daughter, Betty Smith; two sisters, Dorothy Todd and Evelyn Liddle.

Georgetta is survived by her three children; eight grandchildren, Robbyn Hines, Travis Foxx, Rustin Kimmell, Garrin Kimmell, Dacia Clark, Shanna Albright, Tara Floor, and Todd Foxx. Also surviving are 14 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3:00 p.m., Friday, March 11, 2016, at Feuerborn Family Funeral Service Chapel, Garnett, Kansas. The family will greet friends at the funeral home on Thursday evening from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Memorial contributions may be made to American Legion Baseball or Little Peoples Learning Center.

AUGUST 20, 1936-MARCH 4, 2016

Rita R. Wilper, age 79, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Friday, March 4, 2016, at Richmond Healthcare Center, Richmond, Kansas.

She was born August 20, 1936, at Harris, Kansas, the daughter of Clyde and Ester (Roecker) Burroughs. Rita graduated from Williamsburg High School with the Class of 1954.

Rita was united in marriage to Charles Augustine Wilper on July 17, 1954, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Emerald. This union was blessed with eight children.

She was a homemaker and enjoyed gardening, canning, painting and quilting. She took pride in making quilts for her entire family. Rita helped her husband Charlie operate the family farm. She was a member of the St. Patrick's Catholic Church serving on various committees over the years. Rita served on the Reeder Township Election Board and was very active in 4-H.

Wilper

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband Charles Wilper on April 26, 2011; two brothers, Rex Arnold Burroughs and Billy Eugene Burroughs.

Rita is survived by her children, Rose Wilper of New Smyrna Beach, Florida; Rex Wilper and wife Debbie of Garnett, Kansas; Billy Karl Wilper and wife Dianne of Garnett, Kansas; Charles Anthony Wilper and wife Angie of Wellsville, Kansas; Lee Wilper and wife Monica of Emerald, Kansas; Mary Ann Morgan and husband Tim of Westphalia, Kansas; Julie Holloran and husband Marty of Garnett, Kansas; Paul Wilper of Wellsville, Kansas; and a daughter she loved as her own, Michelle Meiwes of Moran, Kansas; 17 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, March 8, 2016, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Emerald, Kansas with burial to follow at St. Patrick's Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Patrick's Church building fund.

You may send your condolences to the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

TRAIL...

ers. "This was something that - 20 years ago - was controversial. But people had the forethought to think down the road, to think of the future. And now we're really starting to see the benefits from that," said Trent McCown, who has served as the trail's manager since it opened in March 1996.

History

The Prairie Spirit Trail, commonly known as "The Rail Trail," was built on the abandoned rail-bed of the old Leavenworth, Lawrence and Fort Gibson Railroad. The first phase, from Richmond to Welda, opened March 30, 1996; the second phase, from Richmond to Ottawa, opened in 1998 and the last phase, from Welda to Iola, was completed in 2008. An extension from Iola to Humboldt called the Southwind Trail was completed in 2013.

The trail is managed by the Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks. It later was designated as a state park.

Although it was not the first rail bed to be developed as a trail, it was the first such major project of any real length for the state.

When it was first proposed, landowners adjacent to the trail protested, arguing according to the original leases the land should revert back to the landowners if the railroad was done with it. They warned of the dangers of cutting a public pathway through private farmland, citing the danger of vagrants moving through the area or rapists, robbers and drug dealers hiding along the path. People could trash the area, destroy land and property, and threaten the safety of those who live nearby.

Those fears proved not only to be unfounded, McCown said, but the opposite has happened. The people who use the trail tend to be active, concerned with their health and the environment. They appreciate and protect the trail, he said.

Most of the loudest voices against development of the trail have since passed away. Orville Cole of Garnett was one landowner who opposed the project, but said he has since sold the land in question and is no longer opposed.

"I really don't care at this stage. It's all over with," Cole said. "But at the time those of us landowners along trail were quite upset. If they had asked, I'd have sold the land to them But they stole it."

Early supporters continued to push past the many obstacles, both legislative and otherwise, to see the project through to its completion in every phase. The first trail committee at the time included McCown, Janice Hodgson of the Garnett city commission; Joyce Martin, then-Garnett City Clerk; Rick Doran, then-Garnett City Manager; Donna Umbarger; Dane Hicks, Review publisher; Rich Bailey, executive director of Kansas Wildscapes; Mike Engeman, planning assistant with KDWP and Mike Murphy, then head of Garnett's Friends of the Trail. Development Corporation of Anderson County Executive Director Dan Benjamin and former 12th District Senator Doug Walker also were instrumental in fighting for the trail.

"Now, it's just part of the community," McCown said.

But Hicks, one of the trail's earliest supporters, said he is disappointed the trail never brought any economic boost to the area.

"No trail-keyed developments. No jobs, unless you count KDWP agents posted here to patrol the trail. Garnett's commercial downtown is in worse shape now than before," Hicks said.

"I have resented being duped into thinking this was a big deal. I keep waiting for it."

Susan Wettstein, Community Development Director for the City of Garnett, credits McCown for his efforts to smooth hard feelings over the trail.

"He's built a lot of fences and mended a lot of fences," Wettstein said. "He's been a good listener to people who own property adjacent to the trail."

It hasn't always been easy to develop and maintain the trail. Like other state-funded projects, the availability of money is always a question mark. The trail's biggest obstacle, after construction, came via floods in 2007 that washed out sections of trail and destroyed a bridge over the Pottawatomie River north of Garnett. That bridge has since been rebuilt.

Trail Use

Bill Ratliff has traveled all parts of the trail, from Ottawa to Iola, during the past 10 years. He's also a member of the Friends of the Prairie Spirit Trail, a group of trail supporters who help spruce up the trail with beautification and security projects, and help organize events to encourage more people to use the trail.

"The greatest satisfaction I have experienced is meeting people biking from all over the country, who have expressed positive comments about the trail," Ratliff said. "I have been able to offer help by giving them directions to businesses in Garnett. Many have expressed that they will surely return to ride the trail again."

Steve and Donna Benjamin are frequent users of the trail for biking and running.

"It is so great to not have to worry about the car traffic," Donna Benjamin said. "I have, not all at once, ridden from one end of the trail to the other. I see it being used more and more all the time. It is such a great asset to our community."

Randy Rosa of Iola is another face seen frequently on the trail. He uses it primarily for recreation and exercise, although it parallels his route to the grocery store so he sometimes uses it as an alternative to go shopping.

"It's great to have the PST and other trails available to provide safe and scenic off-road routes," Rosa said. "The last two summers I've also bike toured using the PST as part of the route. In both cases if made for an easy stress-free way to start the trip, and the wildflowers along the trail were wonderful."

It's common to see people biking and walking along the trail through Garnett, especially in the mornings or after school. Students at Garnett Elementary School in the northernmost part of Garnett use the trail as a safe route home.

A variety of events take place on the trail and at the Santa Fe Depot in Garnett. Most popular is the annual Halloween "Haunted Depot" event, which brought 700 kids last year. In the past 20 years, 11,431 kids have visited the depot on Halloween night.

Bike rides and 5K runs are popular events, including races known as Ultra Marathons with events that span 50 or 100 miles. One such event is scheduled April 2-3. In 2015, the spring Ultra Marathon participants came from 25 states and Great Britain. The fall event brought participants from 22 states and the District of Columbia.

The Anderson County Hospital's annual Women in Training event each spring encourages women to use the trail to get healthy.

Other counties also use the trail for various events. Allen County Thrive organizes a variety of events, as does Ottawa and the Franklin County Health Department.

The trail tends to draw a lot of visitors from larger cities like Kansas City. Even though there are similar trails in those cities, they like the Prairie Spirit Trail because it is very rural and isolated, allowing them to escape from the hustle and bustle of the city, McCown said.

Garnett is in a particularly advantageous spot, Wettstein said. Many visitors like to stay overnight in Garnett so they can ride north to Ottawa and back one day, and south to Iola and back the next.

Although the trail is popular for organized groups, including cross country runners from various schools and other groups, it mostly is an opportunity for people to enjoy peace and quiet, as well as a safe route, while they walk, run or bike, he said.

"There's just a tremendous number of people that are trying to better their health," he said. "It's a place they can go and walk that's free of crossings and traffic."

But even with the traffic and activity, economic promise of the trail never bore fruit. Garnett's downtown has continued to decay in the 20 years since the trail was constructed; retail businesses have closed and some of the many buildings in disrepair actually have fallen down - or met the wrecking ball before they could become a nuisance. Though some businesses have benefited sporadically and slightly from trail traffic, economic hopes of the project fell short of reality.

The Future

The Prairie Spirit Trail has served as both a benchmark and a template for other trails in Kansas, McCown said.

The Flint Hills Trail now under development will run from Osawatimie to Herrington, roughly 117 miles, and connects with the Prairie Spirit Trail in Ottawa south of the Marais des Cygnes River. A section near Pomona is now open, and various sections will open over time.

As the Flint Hills trail is completed, Wettstein anticipates use of the Prairie Spirit Trail will increase. The two trails will give riders nearly 200 feet of trails, which is becoming more appealing to many bicycling enthusiasts. At some point, she expects the Kansas trail system will link to the Katy rail trail system in Missouri, further increasing opportunities for the local communities.

Celebration

The Friends of the Prairie Spirit trail will have a 20th anniversary "birthday bash" on Wednesday, March 16th at the Anderson County High School in the Commons Area. The evening will begin with a silent auction at 6 p.m., followed by a buffet meal at 6:30 p.m. Guest speakers will give presentations on the history of the 51-mile hiking and biking trail, along with updates on trail projects and upcoming Friends activities. Representatives from communities along the trail and the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks and Tourism have also been invited.

Tickets for the event are $10 each and can be purchased from various Friends members, also at Garnett City Hall or at the door that evening.

ELECTION...

Brandon Jones, a Republican, said he plans to file for re-election in April or May.

Julie Heck, a Republican who works at the Franklin County Clerk's Office, has announced her intention to challenge Gettler for the clerk's position. She said she is collecting signatures for a petition to file and intends to formally file before March 15.

The City of Garnett has changed its elections from the spring to the fall, in anticipation of a state mandate to move all city and school board elections to the fall. So far, Paula Scott and Travis Wilson have filed for a position held by Greg Gwin, who has not yet filed and has not announced his intentions.

There's still time for more people to jump into the race; the election filing deadline is noon June 1 at the Anderson County Clerk's office at the Courthouse in downtown Garnett. The election will be Nov. 8; if a primary is needed, it will be Aug. 2.

Voters also will decide township treasurers and township trustees, as well as Democrat and Republican county committee precinct positions. USD 365 and 479 will elect positions 4, 5, and 6. Third class cities will elect Mayor and Council. Precinct Committee people will be elected at the primary. Offices in the Kansas Senate and House and U.S. Congressional seats from Kansas, and state school board districts also will be up for election. Then, of course, there's the Presidential election, which already has proven to be hotly contested races in both of the major parties.

At the state level, Caryn Tyson, R-Parker, who represents the 12th Senate District, which covers all of Anderson County, has filed to retain her seat.

Incumbents who have not yet filed include Kevin Jones, R-Wellsville, who represents the 5th District House of Representatives, which covers most of Anderson County; and Marty Read, R-Mound City, who represents the 4th District House of Representatives, which covers the southeastern part of the county.

Arlyn Briggs, a Republican from Kincaid, and Rick James, a Republican from LaCygne,

Price of wind farms may be health

She's a mom who's spent the last several weeks running to and from her daughter's high school basketball games, and she finds Waverly's windmills unnerving.

"They look like something you'd see in a science fiction movie or something," she said. "I can't imagine what it's like living next to that."

True, there's a lot not to like about wind farms — especially the 100-unit, 15-mile long armada of 500-foot towers Texas-based Calpine Corporation wants to run in a diagonal along the eastern side of Anderson County. There's the imposing presence of these giants; there's the limited use and utility of the land if a landowner leases Calpine a site; there's the fact that wind farms in general are a political farce designed to provide tax credits to their owners more so than provide "green" power that only works when the wind blows; there's the damage to the land during construction and subsequent drainage problems.

But a growing concern about wind farms has to do with the health threats being reported by some who live near them.

The College of Family Physicians of Canada has been studying health reports from wind farm neighbors both in Canada and elsewhere in the world since 2007. Most of the problem in humans has to do with noise and "cavitation" — the vibrations given off by propeller blades as they cut through the air. Cavitation is the phenomena that makes boats and submarines able to track other boats and submarines from cavitation produced by their props in open water — it's expensive to minimize and nearly impossible to get rid of.

"In Ontario and elsewhere, some individuals have reported experiencing adverse health effects resulting from living near IWTs (industrial wind turbines)" reads the CFP report.

"A 2006 Académie Nationale de Médecine working group report notes that noise is the most frequent complaint. The noise is described as piercing, preoccupying, and continually surprising, as it is irregular in intensity. The noise includes grating and incongruous sounds that distract the attention or disturb rest. The spontaneous recurrence of these noises disturbs the sleep, suddenly awakening the subject when the wind rises and preventing the subject from going back to sleep.

"Wind turbines have been blamed for other problems experienced by people living nearby. These are less precise and less well described, and consist of subjective (headaches, fatigue, temporary feelings of dizziness, nausea) and sometimes objective (vomiting, insomnia, palpitations) manifestations.

"A 2009 literature review prepared by the Minnesota Department of Health summarized case reports by Harry (2007), Phipps et al (2007), the Large Wind Turbine Citizens Committee for the Town of Union (2008), and Pierpont (2009). These case studies catalogued complaints of annoyance, reduced quality of life, and health effects associated with IWTs, such as sleeplessness and headaches.

"In 2010, Nissenbaum et al used validated questionnaires in a controlled study of two Maine wind energy projects. They concluded that "the noise emissions of IWTs disturbed the sleep and caused daytime sleepiness and impaired mental health in residents living within 1.4 km of the two IWT installations studied."

"Reports of adverse health effects and reduced quality of life are also documented in IWT projects in Australia and New Zealand.

"A 2012 board of health resolution in Brown County in Wisconsin formally requested financial relocation assistance for "families that are suffering adverse health effects and undue hardships caused by the irresponsible placement of industrial wind turbines around their homes and property."17

Like the basketball mom noted, the science fiction-esque appearance of a nearby wind farm may be off putting, but it may be nothing compared to the sleep deprivation and general disturbance of the serene Eastern Kansas environment we all love. Seems like a lot to give up just so some corporation can skip out on paying its income taxes.

Laura Ingraham delivered the most incisive commentary of any pundit so far when she offered: 'If only the GOP establishment in Congress had been as aggressive on Obama as they have been on Trump.'

So it has taken 20 years but the chickens have come home to roost. The rails to trails in Garnett was paved as I recall with generous assistance of the State of Kansas, who was so very excited to have a trail here. Now the pavement is cracking and the city has to find the money to make repairs. The government gives big presents, but it leaves you to clean up and pay for the mess.

I'd like to thank the Boy Scouts for their clean up of the shrine over at Mound

City. Thank you everyone for all of it.

Get the money and the (deleted) out of congress by putting term limits on Congress, so they say. Then the problem is every term or two you have a whole bunch of new congressmen who don't know anything and they have to rely even more on the lobbyists to tell them what to do. That won't work either.

Our brilliant school district USD 365 spent a million dollars in capital outlay money on Myers-Blome Field out here west of the high school, and now we don't have enough money to replace a furnace at one of the district's schools? Shame on you USD 365 school board for letting the monkey run the zoo. Don't we have school board meetings for a reason?

The Trump presidency: Welcome to Europe

Donald Trump will never be mistaken for a cosmopolitan, but he will bring a distinctively European flavor to the 2016 presidential election, should he win the Republican nomination.

As in continental Europe, the two parties in a Donald Trump-Hillary Clinton race would accept the basic parameters of the welfare state, and the debate about the size of government — so central to American politics for decades — would fade to the background.

No matter how appalled the left may be by Trump, his prospective takeover of the GOP would be a watershed for progressives. For 80 long years, they have demagogued and shamed the GOP in a forlorn attempt to get it to give up on fundamentally reforming the welfare state. How much time and energy have been devoted to depicting Republicans as shoving elderly people off cliffs and as hell-bent on destroying Social Security. And here comes Donald Trump to finally cry "uncle." The mogul is adamantly — and apparently sincerely — opposed to entitlement reform. He thus is perfectly content to accept the status quo on half the federal budget. Never mind that the programs are built on badly flawed New Deal and Great Society assumptions and, if unreformed and unconstrained, will make it impossible to deal with the debt over the long term. These are details beneath Trump's notice.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

What has made American politics so distinctive for so long is the presence of a mass party committed to limited government, thanks to the conservative movement. In most European countries, there is nothing like such movement, and the limited-government tendency is relegated to think tanks and small political parties, where it usually has no real influence.

Trump as the leader of the Republican Party would, in effect, reject limited-government conservatism and instantly make the GOP at the presidential level more like an accommodationist center-right European party in which a Ted Cruz would have no home.

Of course, mainstream European political parties tend not to be nationalist or anti-immigration. Here, Trump bears a closer resemblance to Europe's outsider parties on the right. He is less the candidate of American exceptionalism — which has a keen appreciation of our national creed as enunciated in the Declaration and the limits on government power set down by the Constitution — than a robust nationalism of a blood-and-soil variety found nearly everywhere else in the world.

Trump's understanding of the Constitution — the most valuable American contribution to the art of self-government — runs somewhere between attenuated to nonexistent. He has lately been making noises about loosening libel laws so that he can more easily sue publications for printing things he doesn't like. On "Fox News Sunday," he complained that "in England, I can tell you it's very much different and very much easier." Yes, it is — because England doesn't have a First Amendment. The United States happens to have a bulwark of free speech written into its foundational law, although Donald Trump apparently can't fathom why.

You can say this about a Donald Trump-Hillary Clinton race: It will be more nasty, personality-driven and entertaining than anything we've seen in decades. It will also, in important respects, be less American.

Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

The Gitmo debate and gun checks

Sometimes us folks who spend way too much time watching the Legislature have to wonder how many different political layers there are to virtually everything that happens here — especially in an election year.

Take last week, when the House was debating an all-Republican sponsored concurrent resolution dealing with the possibility of Guantanamo Bay detainees — presumably from the Mideast — being moved to the United States, possibly the military prison at Leavenworth.

Now that's pretty simple, and there aren't many Kansans of voting age who if they think about it want those terrorist suspects moved into the state, even though Leavenworth has a pretty stout military prison where we're probably safe from them. But, then their families might move into the state, or to the United States wherever those prisoners might be moved if President Barack Obama closes Guantanamo as he's wanted to do for the last seven years and still wants to do as his term wanes.

So many political bubbles emerging from this stew.

The resolution itself tends to anger Democrats as disrespectful. "Whereas this president has continually sought to weaken our standing in the world..." is one of the phrases that rubs Democrats the wrong way.

But Republicans, especially those from the Leavenworth area, don't want those Gitmo folks coming to town, even into a high-security prison, which some feel might be targeted for terrorist activities. Fairly simple stuff.

Republicans were reminded, though, that if the Gitmo folks wind up in this country, and even at Leavenworth, Kansas might be slighting its duty to the nation by refusing to hold

STATE COMMENTARY

those prisoners. Lots of mention of German war prisoners held in Kansas during World War II, and if Gitmo is closed, Kansas has the patriotic duty to hold those prisoners and keep Kansans and the rest of the nation safe.

While the debate was heating up, Democrats offered an amendment to get rid of that Gitmo stuff and instead make the resolution about prohibiting folks on the national terrorist watch list from buying guns. Another not-bad idea, but sharply different than a resolution that slams Obama.

It did have a cultural problem, though, because what if that terror list was wrong, and some upstanding Kansan couldn't buy a gun because he/she was mistakenly on the list? It's always politically tough to mess with guns. Kansans like their guns, don't want terrorists wandering around with guns, but what if someone wound up on that watch list accidentally who ought to be able to carry a gun?

See how this goes both ways?

But it gets more complicated. The House rules committee rejected that Democrat gun amendment because it didn't deal with the same topic as the original resolution. And, that decision went to a vote, too.

Vote for the rules committee decision which maintained the original resolution, and you're against moving those Gitmo prisoners and maybe their friends who might be sympathizers or terrorists into Kansas. Vote against the rules committee decision and you're for the gun check and not-so-much the Gitmo language.

Replace the Gitmo language with the "watch list" gun prohibition? It didn't happen. The House's rules panel decided that the amendment to substitute the gun stuff was not germane to the Gitmo stuff, so it came to a vote. And, the Gitmo stuff won, but it required supporters to vote against prohibiting terrorists from buying guns and carrying them around the state.

Now, many people are against both the gun checks and the Gitmo transfers, and can play their votes however they think their constituents want...and put it on their websites and campaign cards.

Or, they might just leave it alone. The effect of either resolution would be printing it out nicely and sending copies to President Obama, Vice President Joe Biden and the six members of the Kansas congressional delegation.

That ought to keep the Gitmo folks out of Kansas.

Someone recently mentioned that the courthouse flag is a pitiful string. I agree that a worn or damaged flag should be disposed of properly and replaced. However, when I see a damaged flag my first thought is not to criticize someone because that flag is still being flown. My first thought is to recall the many well-worn flags I have seen in my military career. I think of the flag from the Battle of Stony Point New York in 1779, the garrison at Fort Sumter, the 4th Calvary flag at the Clay Center Courthouse that flew in Iraq. Thanks for pointing out the problem, but don't replace it too soon. I want to see it before its replaced by one with less character.

According to the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America, Dane Hicks can print whatever he wants or doesn't want in his newspaper. If you want opposing political views, read the Iola paper.

Yes, I certainly hope that the Republicans or the Democrats or the Independents or the Libertarians or someone run someone for Anderson County Attorney who gets to take over the new $10,000 desk our county attorney bought for himself on the county's dime some time ago. This is the man who first off let the gentleman go who shot up his son with steroids, who prosecuted someone for having an outdated prescription for pain killers and made everyone believe he was a drug addict and just a few weeks ago let the child molester off on a deal where he only got 13 years or some such. I hope someone runs against him. Thank you.

I wanted to say congratulations to head coach Steve Lyon and the Bulldog basketball team making it to state. Good job guys.

Kansas Farm Bureau Annual Meeting Attendees

Delegates and members from Anderson County were a part of more than 850 who attended Kansas Farm Bureau's Annual Meeting Dec. 7-8 in Manhattan. Pictured here are Gail Kueser, Debbie Kueser, Amy Strobel and Jacob Strobel. More than 350 delegate members wrapped up important business for their farm organization after debating and adopting policy statements for 2016. These policies will now become the roadmap for the organization during the current legislative session.

Kansas voters should get final say on hunting rights

Saturday, March 5th, was when both major political parties in Kansas had caucuses to help select their party's presidential nominee. There were 102 locations for Republicans to attend and Democrats had 47 locations.

Some have asked why we hold party caucuses rather than a state-run primary. Simply speaking, a primary election would cost Kansas taxpayers $2 million, while the expense for caucuses is borne by each party - there's no cost to the State.

An Opportunity for Kansas Citizens to Vote (HCR 5008)

A few weeks ago I wrote about HCR 5005 - a bill to allow Kansas citizens to decide if they want to change the way State Supreme Court Justices are selected or keep the current process. I supported the citizens' right to vote, but HCR 5005 didn't receive sufficient support in the House; thereby denying voters the opportunity.

On Monday February 22nd, the House voted on another measure, HCR 5008, to allow Kansas citizens to weigh in on adding a new section to the Bill of Rights in the Kansas Constitution to protect our natural right to hunt, fish and trap wildlife. Interestingly, and rightfully so, the vote on HCR 5008 was overwhelmingly yes; passing 117-7. The Bill now goes to the Senate for their consideration; where it should pass. If at least two-thirds of the Senate votes in favor of HCR 5008, Kansas voters will have the final say in November to make the change.

The exact wording of the amendment on the ballot will be: "Right of public to hunt, fish and trap wildlife. The people have the right to hunt, fish and trap, including by the use of traditional methods, subject to reasonable laws and regulations that promote wildlife conservation and management and that preserve the future of hunting and fishing. Public hunting and fishing shall be a preferred means of managing

KANSAS LEGISLATURE
By Kevin Jones,
House of Representatives,
5th District

and controlling wildlife. This section shall not be construed to modify any provision of law relating to trespass, property rights or water resources."

Hunting, fishing, and trapping are not only valued traditions; they are also an integral part of wildlife management and conservation. Unfortunately, extremist activists have been pushing to limit and even entirely banning these activities. If approved by a majority of Kansas voters, the amendment will guarantee that sporting traditions Kansans have enjoyed since statehood will still be around for future generations. If the proposed amendment is added to the state constitution, Kansas would join 19 other states that have already adopted a similar constitutional amendment.

Increasing the Speed Limit (HB 2643):

By a vote of 106-19, the House passed HB 2643; a bill giving the Secretary of Transportation the authority to increase the speed limit on highways outside of urban areas by five miles per hour (mph). The highways eligible for the increase, from the current maximum of 65 mph, are those that are not separated multilane (currently limited to 75 mph) or any county or township highway. The Kansas Department of Transportation will conduct an engineering study in these urban areas to determine whether speed limits should be increased prior to any increase.

Joining the Call for a Constitutional Convention:

While laying the foundation for our Nation in the 1700's, our founding fathers understood the possibility of an over-reaching federal government. Therefore, they created a method by which the people could rein in an out of control federal government - a constitutional convention - which is literally the 5th Article in our United States Constitution.

An increasing number of Americans are becoming aware of the fiscal mess created by the federal government and desire a remedy to runaway government spending and the increasing national debt. Because of that fact, the House attempted to pass legislation, HCR 5010, to have Kansas join with a number of other states in petitioning Congress for an Article V constitutional convention. Sadly, HCR 5010 failed to receive the 84 votes needed to reach the required two-thirds majority vote and failed, 77-47.

If 34 states make the same petition, the constitutional convention would be limited to proposing amendments to the US Constitution on three topics: imposing fiscal restraints on the federal government; implementing congressional term limits; and limiting the power and jurisdiction of the federal government. Any amendments proposed by a constitutional convention would require ratification by 38 states before the Constitution would be amended.

Tyson: 'Turnaround' and bills still under consideration

We reached "turnaround", the halfway point in which bills that have not been in an exempt committee (Tax, Ways & Means, and Federal and State Affairs) die if the bill did not pass the chamber in which it originated. I continually watch for bills that sound good but are not what they seem. For example, we had a bill in committee that looked like an ok water project on the surface but one that was not doable. The project would have allowed Kansas to start purchasing water from the Missouri River so that a pipeline could be built all the way out to western Kansas. The water aquifer there is slowly depleting but the pipeline is not a good solution.

Recommendations from the Kansas Juvenile Justice Workgroup took several months of research and input from stakeholders working to improve the outcomes for youth, families, and communities. As a result, Senate Bill (SB) 367 would re-direct resources toward keeping juvenile offenders in their community instead of taking them out of their homes. The

By CARYN TYSON,
Kansas Senate,
12th District

Workgroup concluded that Kansas has one of the highest rates of juvenile offenders placed in detention centers and that a majority of the youth are sent to state-funded residential facilities for misdemeanors. It was estimated the state spends over $53 million a year on home placement, which amounts to around $90,000 a year for each offender. SB 367 would allow for child offenders to stay in their home and undergo therapy and community service. The bill passed 38 to 2. I voted Yes.

SB 335 would increase vehicle registration fees by $3.25 per vehicle. Two dollars of the fee would be put into the newly created Kansas Highway Patrol and Staffing fund and the remaining $1.25 would go to update the Kansas Law Enforcement Training Center (KLECT), located near Hutchison, which serves as the central law enforcement training for Kansas, and is part of the University of Kansas Continuing Education system. While, I support our law enforcement and highway patrol, the increased funding for salaries should come from the State General Fund (SGF), not a fee increase and so I voted No on SB 335. The bill was sent to the House on a vote of Yes 24 to No 14.

The Senate passed SB 410 which would allow a foster care pilot program, CARE, to be established. The pilot program has very strict requirements that most families could not meet. The pilot program would have volunteer participants to help children who have great need. The pilot program doesn't impact current foster care programs in Kansas. Care families would not receive compensation. It is an attempt to provide an alternative for foster children in need. The bill passed 24 Yes to 15 No. I voted Yes for the pilot program.

It is an honor and a privilege to serve as your 12th District State Senator.

Roeckers to attend anthropology seminar

On Sunday evening Feb. 28th, I returned from a very informative and enjoyable two day archaeological Certification Seminar held in Topeka, Kansas.

I arrived at the Kansas Historical Museum on Saturday Feb. 27th at 7:45 am and at 8:00 I registered and paid my registration fee. At 8:30 Nancy Arendt the President of The Kansas Anthropological Association (KAA) Welcomed the 33 of us who were enrolled in this Seminar. Virginia Wulfkuhle Kansas Public Archaeologist introduced our instructor for this Seminar Robert Hoard State Archaeologist.

Our Seminar entitled Pre-Kansas History was an overview study of human culture over millions of years. Mainly concentrating on their aspects.

Saturday morning we began by learning the definition of five archaeological terms.

- Artifacts: Things intentionally made by people.

- Feature: Non-movable artifacts, such as house post molds, hearths, fire pits, etc.

- Site: Where artifacts or features are found.

- Survey: Testing, shovel tests, auger tests, metal detector surveys, excavations, identifications.

- Classification: Types, help date artifacts.

Next we went over the Kansas Cultural Sequence by studying the Generalized Physiographic Map of Kansas.

- Glaciated Region (NE)
- Osage Cuestas (SE)
- Flint Hills Uplands
- Smoky Hills
- Red Hills
- Arkansas River Lowlands
- High Plains. Note: Bison loved this "Short Grass" region.
- Cherokee Lowlands
- Ozark Plateau
- Chautauqua Hills
- Wellington-McPherson Lowlands

This was a very interesting presentation which brought us up to our scheduled lunch time 12:00-1:15pm.

they ultimately decided to spend the money for fear state legislators might take it.

Much confusion still surrounds state financing, especially in light of a recent state Supreme Court decision that found the use of "block grants" unconstitutional, USD 365 Superintendent Don Blome told board members at their regular meeting Thursday, March 3. The Legislature last year changed the way it provides money to school districts, issuing grants based on the previous year's funding for two years until legislators could revamp the school funding formula. But the state Supreme Court, which had already ruled the state was not funding schools at an amount that was fair and equitable, ruled the block grants were unconstitutional and gave the legislators until June 30 to fix the problem, or risk shutting down school districts statewide.

Because of decreased enrollment, USD 365 stands to lose about $400,000 if the state goes back to the previous funding formula, Blome said. He's also concerned the state will "swipe," or take money, from the district as part of an "efficiency study."

If the state were to swipe 10 to 15 percent from various funds, it's possible the money that was set aside for the purchase of textbooks would be vulnerable. That fund, which had about $140,000 can only be used to purchase textbooks, which is why board members ultimately decided to go ahead and authorize spending $164,113.26 for the purchase of new English/Language Arts textbooks.

But the decision didn't come lightly, as a bill currently being considered by the state Legislators would not allow for textbooks or anything associated with the Common Core, a nationalized set of education standards that apply only to math, English and language arts. School board members initially wanted to wait until April 15, the deadline to purchase the textbooks at a discounted price, to see if that bill moved forward. But their fears of losing money if the state swiped the textbook fund outweighed their concern about the bill. The textbooks say they were designed for the Common Core standards, but that was not the deciding factor in choosing those books, Blome said. He suggested they agree to purchase the books with an exception to withdraw the purchase if the Legislature passed the bill against Common Core.

Board member Gaylene

Comfort made a motion to approve purchase of the textbooks, "pending Legislative shenanigans."

Mont Ida Boiler

Only one company, Modern Air of Emporia, submitted a bid to replace a broken boiler at Mont Ida Elementary School. The school's 20 students were moved to Westphalia Elementary School in early January, when the boiler failure was discovered. Some have speculated it would be more cost effective to move the students to Westphalia permanently, and close Mont Ida.

The bid came in at about what had been expected, Blome told board members. The cost of the new boiler was about $24,300, and removal of the old boiler will cost about $1,800, for a total of about $26,100. The district also could add a related heating system to a downstairs classroom for $5,600, which would increase the costs to $31,700.

The district also will need a new propane tank and propane. Modern Air offered a used 1,000 gallon propane tank full of propane for $4,200, or a new tank and propane at $4,600. But board members were concerned the cost was too high, and wanted to look for local propane tank options with lower costs. They speculated they could save between $2,000 to $2,500 by finding a local propane vendor and either buying or renting a tank.

Board president Deanna Wolken said because of the desire to save money on the tank and because of uncertainty surrounding school financing and the court's threat of closing schools after June 30, she recommended the board table the issue for at least a month.

"I'm leaning to hold on this project until we know if we're going to be operational next year," she said.

The board agreed to table the matter, leaving the fate of the Mont Ida school unknown for at least another month.

Crest girls fall in second round

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

HARTFORD – The Lancer girls grounded the Altoona-Midway Jets with a 50-10 first-round sub state defeat before falling to Hartford in the followup.

After a sluggish first quarter, which ended with Crest leading 6-0, the Lancers took control and ran away with the easy victory. The Lancers' defense didn't allow a first half field goal and led 31-1 at the break. Miranda Golden scored 14 points and Laurel Godderz chipped in with 11, both topping AM's team score.

Hartford got a bye in the first round, and the Lancers gave them all they could handle in their opening game. Hartford would hold on for a hard fought 44-34 win. The score was tied after the first quarter but in the decisive second and third periods the Jaguars had a firm 21-11 advantage to lead to the victory.

Laurel Godderz would lead the way with 13 points for the Lancers. In the sub state championship game Hartford would drop a 51-36 decision to the Wetmore Cardinals.

AC girls season comes to an end

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

BURLINGTON – Thursday night the Bulldog girls (9-11) let an early lead slip away in a disappointing loss 44-38 to the Iola Fillies (8-12), making a short sub state stay for the Bulldogs.

Anderson County jumped on top early, doubling up Iola 8-4 to close out the first quarter. Iola flipped the script in the second period as it was their turn to double up the Bulldogs to take a 16-14 lead into intermission.

Both teams netted 12 points in the third to set up the exciting fourth quarter, but it just wasn't meant to be for the AC girls' as they couldn't get any closer than 5 points to make a serious run late in the game.

Paige Scheckel ended her high school career with a game-high 18 points for the Bulldogs. Iola was led by Ashlie Shields with 13 points. The Mustangs would go on to lose the sub state championship 40-36 to the Burlington Wildcats.

Frazell erupts for 43 points in Lancers victory

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

MADISON – Crest has had some impressive comebacks this season, but very few in school history will stack up to their 69-62 victory over Madison in the final week of the 2016 season.

The Lancers started off slowly in the first period and fell down 20-13. They bounced back nicely to cut the lead down to two points at halftime.

Madison edged their advantage back to five heading into the historic fourth quarter.

Hunter Frazell would put on a clinic in the fourth by scoring 27 of his 43 points to lead the Lancers to the win.

"Once we finally got our energy level where it needed to be, we were able to utilize our press and make a run in the fourth quarter," head coach Travis Hermreck stated.

The 43 points by Frazell is the second highest single game point total in Crest Lancer history. He hit 9 out of 18 from behind the arc and was also 10-11 from the free throw line to add to his total.

Evan Godderz also chipped in with 9 points, 9 assists and 4 steals.

"We knew going in that Madison would be a tough match up for us. For three quarters they did a good job of dictating the pace and flow of the game," Hermreck said.

CAUCUS...

didn't immediately qualify to be counted.

Cruz won the state with 48.2 percent of the vote and 24 delegates to Trump's 23.3 percent and 9 delegates, with Rubio getting 16.7 percent or 6 delegates and Kasich 10.7 percent with 1 delegate.

Democrats also turned out in record numbers, shattering the previous record-setting 2008 caucus when Clinton lost to now-President Barack Obama, according to a press release from the state party. Although many party leaders expected Clinton to easily cruise through the primary season, she is fending off a surprising challenge from self-described "Democratic socialist" Bernie Sanders. Sanders' appeal to young people, especially college students, is believed to be driving turnout.

The Democratic caucus process is different from Republicans, as it is more of a meeting format and voters must publicly declare their preference. Voters in the 12th Senate District met at Jayhawk Linn Elementary School in Mound City, including Democrats from Anderson, Allen, Linn, Franklin and parts of Bourbon and Miami counties. There were 396 voters at the site, and they split more than 2-1 in favor of Sanders, with 274 for Sanders and 122 for Clinton.

Voter counts for individual counties were not available, but it appeared about 20 voters from Anderson County attended and was the lowest turnout among the six counties. Franklin County brought the most voters by a significant margin.

Sanders won the state by 67.7 percent, picking up 23 of the state's 33 delegates to Clinton's 10.

The 2016 presidential election contests have dominated national media for months, driven especially by businessman and reality television star Donald Trump. Trump's bombastic style and comments that some describe as divisive and even racist have prompted longtime Republican leaders such as 2012 presidential nominee Mitt Romney to speak against Trump, while Trump's supporters turn out in record numbers at rallies, caucuses and primary elections. Cruz has recently emerged as a strong challenger to Trump, but some party leaders worry his uncompromising stance on issues, especially social issues, would make him vulnerable in the general election. In Saturday's contests, Cruz won Kansas and Maine while Trump won Kentucky and Louisiana. Rubio won Puerto Rico Sunday. So far, the delegate total is 384 for Trump, 300 for Cruz, 151 for Rubio and 37 for Kasich. It takes 1,237 delegates to win the Republican nomination; 1,585 are still available.

On the Democratic Party side, Sanders won three of four contests this past weekend, including Kansas, Nebraska and Maine. Clinton won Louisiana. Clinton leads the delegate count with 1,130 to Sanders' 499, but that includes super delegates, party insiders who are not "pledged" and therefore not bound to vote for any candidate. Clinton has 458 of about 700 super delegates, and Sanders has just 22. A Democrat needs 2,383 delegates for the nomination; 3,136 are still available.

More caucus and primary elections are scheduled this week. On the Democratic side, Michigan and Mississippi vote today, followed by Florida, Illinois, Missouri, North Carolina and Ohio Saturday. For the Republicans, voters decide today in Hawaii, Idaho, Michigan and Mississippi, and on Saturday in Florida, Illinois, Missouri, North Carolina and Ohio.

Crest falls in substate championship

HARTFORD – The Crest boys slipped past the Wetmore Cardinals 46-38 Thursday night before falling in the sub state championship game to Hartford 76-52.

Wetmore, the 3rd seed and (3-17) overall gave the 2nd seeded Crest squad (12-7) all they could handle and then some.

The first quarter the two teams went back and forth and finished the period tied at 9 each. The second quarter was all Wetmore as they shell shocked the Lancers crowd by taking control of the game and held a 23-14 lead at the intermission.

Crest came out of the break and took command of the game by picking up the intensity on the defensive end. During a decisive 17-4 third period run, they not only took the lead, but seemingly took the air out of the Cardinals.

The momentum continued into the final period with the Lancers putting a stamp on the victory by tacking on four more points to their lead late.

Garrett Sipe led the Lancers with 14 points and right behind him was Hunter Frazell with 13.

"We knew this was going to be a tough game for us. They are almost identical to the Argonia team that upset us last year (in postseason play)," head coach Travis Hermreck stated. "They slowed the game down and kept us off-balance all night."

Despite the struggles offensively and the narrow win, Hermreck was just happy to get the victory.

"I'm not sure how we won, but we did. I've said it before. During the postseason there are no such thing as ugly wins. Every win is beautiful," Hermreck said satisfied with just moving on to the championship game.

Saturday night was an inopportune time for the Lancers to go into a lull, but that's what happened. The Hartford Jaguars controlled all four quarters as they had little resistance in a dominating 24-point victory, 76-52.

Hartford led by 6 after the first period and with the strength of a 17-7 advantage in the second quarter they stretched their lead to 37-21 heading into the locker room.

The Lancers just didn't have any answers coming out of intermission. The Jags continued to pour it on in the third quarter by building an insurmountable 56-33 lead on their way to the victory.

Frazell led the team with 19 points, Sipe added 15 and Evan Godderz scored 11 points on the night to lead the Lancers. The rest of the team combined for just 7 points.

Buzzer beater sends Bulldogs to State

BURLINGTON – A buzzer beater by D'Anthony Fredricks stamped a ticket to the 4A Division II state basketball tournament next week for the AC Bulldog boys, and broke the hearts of Burlington Wildcat fans in a sub state upset.

Fredricks knocked down a huge three pointer as time expired for an explosive 61-59 win. Burlington came into the 4ADII sub state as the top seed at 13-7, AC was 8-12. AC topped Iola in the opening round 50-36 to start the run.

AC had split home-court wins with the Mustangs in the regular season, but AC seized control early in the sub state and held a 14-8 advantage and nearly doubled their lead at halftime 28-17. Iola chipped away slightly in the third before the Bulldogs stood strong in the fourth to finish out the 14-point victory.

Nick Levy led all scorers with 17 points, followed closely behind by Chase Ratliff with 15 points of his own.

It was a similar game on Saturday when Anderson County jumped out to another early lead and stretched their lead to 12 at intermission, 39-27. Two three-pointers by Justin Rockers and another by Mason Skiles added to the 7 first quarter points by Derrick Nelson that led to the quick start, and Nick Levy banked 10 of his team high 16 points in the 2nd period.

The second half saw the Bulldogs cool off a bit while Burlington made their run. Dalton Rankin of the Burlington Wildcats heated up after being held scoreless in the first half. Rankin knocked down two three-pointers and added a pair of field goals to finish the third quarter with 10 points to kick-start the rally. Anderson County still held a 49-40 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

With just over a minute and a half remaining in the game, the Wildcats had chipped away at the lead and cut it to 57-53. Burlington split a pair of free throws and hit a field goal to cut the lead to 57-56 with just 1:10 left.

After the Bulldogs split a pair of free throws themselves, they were clinging to a 58-56 lead with just 24 seconds on the clock. Burlington's Brogan Nordstedt picked a perfect time to hit his first field goal of the game by draining a three pointer with just 9.9 seconds remaining to give his Wildcats an improbable 59-58 lead.

Fortunately for the Bulldog faithful, D'Anthony Fredricks had an answer. He hit a three-pointer at the buzzer to break the hearts of the Wildcat players and fans.

Next up for the Bulldogs is the state tournament in Emporia where the 7th seeded AC Bulldogs (10-12) will face the 2nd seeded Hugoton Eagles (21-1). The game is Thursday night at 6:30. Hugoton is located in southwest Kansas four hours west of Wichita.

The winner will then play again Friday night at 8:15 pm against either Rock Creek (20-2) or Smoky Valley (10-12).

Humboldt Cubs run past Viking boys

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

HUMBOLDT – The top-seeded Humboldt Cubs (16-4) squared off against the #8 seeded Central Heights Vikings (3-16) and blew open a close game in the second half for a comfortable 62-47 victory.

The first half was much like the first times these two teams met back in the Pleasanton Mid-Season Tournament championship game. Humboldt won that game as well, but the Vikings took them to overtime. At halftime of this game, the score was 23-21 with the Cubs in the lead.

Humboldt took over in the third quarter and that momentum carried over into the fourth. The Cubs scored 22 and 17 points respectively to pull away for the victory.

Jake Haviland for Humboldt scored a game high 27 points, including knocking down 11 of 12 free throws. Merrick Brown and Matt Percy led the way for the Vikings as they each netted 15 points.

Humboldt would go on to advance to the championship game before falling 77-65 to the Wellsville Eagles.

Box Score
Central Heights 8 13 15 11 - 47
Humboldt 9 14 22 17 - 62

Wellsville dominates CH at substate

WELLSVILLE – The sixth seeded Central Heights Viking girls (6-13) traveled to Wellsville to face the third seeded Wellsville Eagles (12-7) and were sent home with a 53-35 loss.

Wellsville imposed their will early by racing out to a 28-14 halftime advantage.

Jasmine Clancy led the Vikings with 11 points. Sydney Dwyer paced the Eagles with 15 points on the night.

Head coach Scott North was disappointed the season came to an end, but as usual was proud of his girls' effort despite the loss.

"I thought we played very hard, especially on the defensive end," North stated. "We just couldn't consistently get into a shooting rhythm and we also struggled at times to break their press. We just made too many needless turnovers."

"I want to thank all of my players for their hard work this year. Unfortunately we have to say goodbye to Regan (Markley) and Lindsey (Folsom)," North said. "They are great people and will be missed a lot next year."

Wellsville advanced to the sub state championship game but was edged 34-31 by West Franklin.

Box Score
Central Heights 7 7 6 15 - 35

Wellsville 15 13 13 12 - 53

Thank you

God, the Father of Jesus, has poured His love upon us through the loss of His Own Son. Through Jesus, God's loss was our gain; now through baby Joel, God has shared that sometimes His gain is in part our loss. Yet even in loss there is so much to be gained and nothing to be wasted. God has made His presence very clear in this valley and so Joel's life and death is a beautiful story. God reminds us of the importance of every soul. We are encouraged to thank God and enjoy what we have while we have it. May every parent hug their child a little closer.

It is needful to thank those around us who have showered us with kindness and lifted us up in prayer. Thank you for every flower, every card and every prayer. We have truly been blessed with such a loving community. We thank Feuerborn Family Funeral Service for their kind care of Joel's earthly body. His ashes are on their way to the open sea and by God's grace, his spirit already rests in Heaven.

We are reminded of the eternal truth expressed in Psalm 84: "How lovely are Your dwelling places, O LORD of Hosts!...for a day in Your courts is better than a thousand outside. I would rather stand at the threshold of the House of my God."

Joel Stephanos Ford, Lost but not Wasted.

We miss you, but "That Will be a Glad Reunion Day".

Sincerely,
The Ford Family

Prospecting: Panning for new customers

We all love our customers. Well, we all love most of our customers.

But there comes a time when all good things come to an end and we have to say goodbye. No customer lasts forever. That's why some part of your effort needs to be pointed toward acquiring new customers on a consistent basis.

We call it prospecting, and the object of prospecting is to develop new customers to take the place of old ones you lose, or to add to your volume of business as a means of growth.

Good prospecting requires discipline and regular attention. Some small businesses allow prospecting to falter when times are good, and when sales go cold then everybody runs with their hair on fire to try to drum up new business. Being consistent and regular in prospecting, like most other facets of good planning, makes life easier.

So the first goal of prospecting is to do it regularly. The second goal is to make a good prospect list, and the last is to work the plan.

We've already talked about regularity, so the next step is to assemble a solid list of prospects. Consider these:

- 1) Referrals- personal referrals are usually the best qualified because this prospect has already talked to someone who liked your service, price, etc.;
- 2) What we call "walk ins," those who contact you by phone or by website traffic looking for information;
- 3) Network contact: Those you

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

determine through traditional social or social media channels; and lastly

4) Acquisitions: Those you target who are presently customers of your competitor or who are purchasing in a complimentary manner that makes you a possibility (someone who just bought a car will need car insurance, for example).

Executing on the prospect list you compile is the final motion. You need a series of questions that qualify the prospect as to need or desire, authority to buy and possibly even the ability to pay. Most of all you have to make the calls. You have to approach each telephone or personal call on a prospect like you're panning for gold - there will be sand for certain, but there's gold in that list as well.

Having a prospecting mentality will help your small business grow and replace the customers you lose by the natural course of business.

Guest Home Estates gets deficiency-free survey

Guest Home Estates VII assisted living facility in Garnett, has achieved a deficiency-free survey. In the most recent survey, held in February of 2016, the Kansas Department on Aging and Disability Services (KDADS) found that Guest Home Estates met or exceeded all state standards for assisted living facilities.

Assisted living facilities are inspected every 12-23 months to ensure that residents receive quality care. Surveyors arrive unannounced and spend several days examining the physical environment, speaking with residents, observing staff and checking records. Surveys are an intense, thorough review to ensure residents are safe and that their rights are protected.

If each of the standards are met or exceeded, the home is awarded a "deficiency-free" survey.

"Deficiency-free surveys are uncommon," explained Sheila Wilson, Operator at Guest Home Estates, "because a facility must meet or exceed the standard of care in many different areas. It requires professional, dedicated staff with careful attention to resident safety. We pride ourselves in the care we offer residents at Guest Home Estates, and commend our staff for their excellent work."

Guest Home Estates is an assisted living in Garnett. Since 2007, the facility has been owned and operated by Lightning Creek Investment Group out of Nowata, OK.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 3-8-2016 / Photo Submitted

Mona Blevins, above, was the winner of the grand prize for the Adult Reading Program at the Garnett Public Library. There were 51 participants and 466 books were read.

At right, the winners of the Friends of the Garnett Public Library Puzzle Contest were Louann Hermreck and Paula Lybarger. They completed the 500 piece puzzle in just under 90 minutes.

Duplicate bridge played

Faye Leitch and Lynda Feuerborn won the duplicate bridge match March 2nd in Garnett. Norma and Jim Johnson came in second. Anita Dennis and Steve Brodmerkle were in third place.

The Garnett Duplicate Bridge Club plays each Wednesday at 1 p.m. at the Garnett Inn. All bridge players are invited.

Hyatt Club welcomes new member Lowe

The February meeting of the Hyatt Club was held at Casa Grande Restaurant, hosted by Cindy Lowe. Cindy introduced her daughter-in-law, Caitlin Lowe of Overland Park, as a new member of Hyatt Club. Caitlin also served as her co-hostess. Hilda Lankard introduced her granddaughter, Trenity Marshel, as her guest.

Coloring Books with Coloring Pencils were awarded as prizes to two winners of the drawing for the Hostesses Gifts. Rosemary Turner and Phyllis Callahan were the lucky winners. Members enjoyed the Mystery Gift contest. The winner, Trenity Marshel, correctly guessed and won a purse sized umbrella. Pat Mosher shared copies of a Washington School student newspaper for members to read. The newspapers were produced in 1943 by students attending the one room Washington School. Several Hyatt Club members shared their memories of attending the school. Officers for the year 2016 were announced: Co-Presidents Becky King and Diane Hastert, Vice-President and Assistant Secretary/Treasurer Hilda Lankard, Treasurer Janis Hightower, Reporters Dorothy Miller and Pat Mosher.

Dorothy Miller will host the March meeting and will announce the date later. Members were reminded to let the hostess know when they will be unable to attend a meeting.

Zig Zag Sewing Club meets

Zig Zag Sewing Club had a carry-in luncheon meeting March 2, 2016 at the home of and hosted by Judy Wiederholt and Laura Sutton of Princeton, KS. Ten members and three guests attended. Guests were: Virginia Pine, Wilma Atchison, Denise Woods of Princeton and Evelyn Gillogly of Garnett.

Birthdays were recognized for Jan. Feb. and Mar: Jan Ouderkirk, Tootle Russell, and Becky Roush.

President Grace Donham conducted the meeting. Jackie Leach, Sec/Tres read the minutes from last month and gave the Tres report.

Discussion of the 2016 projects were discussed. The following were offered up: Making and collecting of scarves, hats, and gloves throughout the year then distributed in December. Secondly, making more walker bags.

Thank you notes were received and read for the walker bags and the money gifts, given at Christmas due to no meetings in January and February.

Door prize was won by Jackie Leach and Marilyn Lolley.

A variety of show and tell were shared including quilt tops, pot holders, button babies, pin cushion purse, a variety of dolls and cup and saucer pin cushion. Judy Wiederholt did a demonstration of how to quickly fold a tee shirt. Next months meeting will be held at the Pizza Hut in Garnett on April 6.

There can be no higher calling than the service of God

Abraham was the first great patriarch of ancient Israel. The accounts of Abraham are found in Genesis 11:26-25:11. Abraham's story begins with his migration with the rest of his family from UR of the Chaldeans in ancient Babylonia to Haran several hundred miles to the northwest. While living in Haran, at the age of 75 Abraham received a call from God to go to a strange unknown land that God would show him. The Lord promised Abraham that he would make him and his descendants a great nation. The promise must have seemed unbelievable to Abraham because his wife Sarah was childless and beyond child bearing years. But Abraham obeyed God without any doubt or disbelief and went to the land that God would show him.

Moses was a Hebrew prophet who delivered the Israelites from Egyptian slavery and who was their leader and law giver during the years of wandering in the wilderness. God appointed Moses to appear before Pharaoh to free the Hebrews from slavery. However Moses presented four objections to God concerning what he felt was his inability to appear before Pharaoh as God's representative. God provide a solution for each of his objections and Moses was able to build a nation from a race of oppressed and weary slaves.

Abraham became the father of the great Hebrew nation. When he died Abraham had one son and the only land he ever owned was the cave of Machpelah where he buried his wife Sarah. This would seem too little for such an important figure as Abraham. However Abraham had faith in the promise's of God and it was credited to him as righteousness. He is an example of the faith required for the Christian believer today.

Moses died without entering the Promise Land he had so diligently led the Hebrews to. Perhaps no one other than Jesus Christ was more esteemed than Moses. The New Testament shows that Moses teaching was intended only to prepare humanity for the greater teaching and work of Jesus Christ. What Moses promised, Jesus fulfilled. "For the law was given through Moses, but grace and truth came through Jesus." (John 1:17)

God calls some men to live their lives in service to others. Such were the lives of Abraham and Moses. There can be no higher calling than this. God can do amazing things with your life and my life if we will cooperate with him. All you have to bring is a willing heart.

David Bilderback: A Ministry on the Holiness of God.

Dar Good Citizens recognized

Four Winds Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution awarded Good Citizen pins to the two students from our county's two High Schools Saturday, February 6.

Those two were Macy Davison, ACJS High, daughter of Lynn and Valinda Davison; and Emily Webber, of Crest High, the daughter of Heather and Richard Webber.

To qualify for the contest, students had to reflect qualities of Dependability, Service, Leadership, and Patriotism, & were Senior students. And each had to write an essay "Our American Heritage and Our Responsibility for Preserving It" that to focus on Of our American rights and freedoms, which one would you choose to celebrate and why?

Donna Roberts, Chapter Regent, presided at the ceremony. Making the presentation was the Good Citizen chairman, Juanita Kellerman.

Four Winds Chapter has sponsored this contest each of the past 46 years. Originally the contest was for girls only, but now either a boy or girl with the necessary qualities can be selected. Those selections are made at the schools and can be made by staff, teachers or by vote of classmates. Each chapter forwards the student's completed papers, including two non-DAR person recommendations, their essay, their grade summary and more to the State GC chairman. They have opportunity to win other awards should their entries be judged winner in the other steps - district, state and national levels. Those judging's will take several weeks.

Davison

Four Winds Chapter was organized in 1969 and with the minimum of allowed memberships - 12. Membership has gradually increased with a current number of members as 30. There are others with their applications pending, or ready to be sent to National for approval. Of the organizing members, Juanita Kellerman is the only surviving member. Four Winds has always been an active Chapter. Any female aged 18 or older who can prove their lineage to a patriot who served in the American Revolutionary War is welcome to submit their application for approval. You can contact Juanita Kellerman at 785-304-5881, or Donna Roberts, 913-271-4230, or any of the local members.

Mid-America Nutrition Program plans trail ride for Meals on Wheels

Mid-America Nutrition Program, Inc. will host its 15th Annual Trail Ride on Saturday, April 2, "Rain or Shine". Location for the ride is at Cedar Park at Lake Pomona. Registration begins at 8 a.m. with ride beginning promptly at 10 a.m. The registration donation is $25 with BBQ lunch and 1 ticket for a drawing of a new saddle from R-Bar-B Saddle, Tack & Trailer in Topeka.

There are opportunities for riders to get sponsorships to cover their ride. The first $50 sponsorship covers the ride, lunch and 2 drawing tickets for the saddle. Each additional $25 equals additional entries in the saddle drawing. If a rider gets $1,000 in sponsorships, they will get a free saddle. More than $1,000 in prizes were donated from various businesses throughout the area. Raffle prizes will be drawn after lunch the day of the ride.

Sponsors of the ride include, Beckman Motors-Garnett, Blackhawk Horse Camp-Pomona Lake, R-Bar-B-Topeka, Bank of Osage City, Vanderbilts, Beachner Grain, Quality Structures, Inc.-Richmond, Ottawa Coop, and the Kansas State Bank of Overbrook.

Check out the event page at Facebook.com/mealsonwheelsottawaks. Money raised will help the group's mission in supporting seniors throughout the six counties served.
