Know the rules: Sheriff cracks down on off-road vehicles

Cities, counties all have different laws on whether to allow ATVs, UTVs, golf carts

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - People who drive recreational vehicles on city streets and county roads beware: A new county-wide law enforcement effort will more strictly crack down on violators. Because the rules vary from city to city and between cities and counties, and state and federal highways, it's important to understand just what is allowed and what is prohibited.

In recent years, more and more people prefer the convenience and fuel-savings offered by driving alternative, recreational vehicles like ATVs, utility vehicles and golf carts. The proliferation of such vehicles on area roads has prompted Anderson County Sheriff Vernon Valentine and others to ask, "Are those things allowed?"

The answer depends on where such vehicles are operated. For example, the City of Garnett allows utility vehicles, also called side-by-sides, and golf carts but not ATVs, like three- and four-wheelers. On county roads, you can drive side-by-sides and ATVs but not golf carts.

And all those vehicles are illegal on state and federal highways.

Valentine is collecting information about the various rules in each community in the county, with the intention of informing the public and better enforcing the laws regarding use of such vehicles on public roads.

"This is a fair warning," Valentine said. "I'm trying to help citizens. If they wreck and the city doesn't have an ordinance allowing (the vehicle), they'll get a ticket for having an unauthorized vehicle in the roadway."

He's especially concerned after seeing recreational vehicles driven by children, who obviously are too young to have a driver's license. Even on roads where such vehicles are allowed, driver's must have a valid operating license. In the City of Garnett, recreational vehicles like golf carts and side-by-sides also must be covered by liability insurance.

Here are some tips to keep in mind if you drive recreational vehicles:

- You must have a valid driver's license in order to drive any motorized vehicle - including ATVs, golf carts and side-by-sides - on public roads.
- Cities must pass an ordinance to of motor vehicle homicide and one count of driving without a license.

It appears alcohol or another substance could have been involved, according to media reports from Nebraska.

Esperanza Lara, age 9, was a student at Garnett Elementary Center and lived in Garnett with her mother and other relatives. Her brother, Jose Lara, age 10, reportedly lived in Council Bluffs, Iowa, with his grandmother, Connie Fauzae,

Local ethanol plant CEO testifies on fuel standards

EKAE's Oestmann says EPA shouldn't lower fuel volumes again for 2017

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, MO. - At a hearing last week, the CEO of Garnett's ethanol plant encouraged the Environmental Protection Agency not to pull back on its commitment on renewable fuels like ethanol. The EPA listened to feedback from the public Thursday, June 9, in Kansas City, Mo., about its recent proposals to adjust blending requirements for the 2017 Renewable Fuel Standard. The Renewable Fuel Standard (RFS) requires oil companies to blend gasoline with alternative fuels like ethanol. The original intent was to reduce greenhouse gas emis-

Former church furniture factory demolished

Long-awaited demo reduces former longtime business to nothing but a pile of rubble

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - And the walls came tumbling down.

Crews finally demolished the site of a crumbling, run-down former church furniture factory that was once the site of Garnett's oldest manufacturer.

The building that once housed Garnett Church Furnishings at Ninth and Oak streets in Garnett had sat vacant for more than a decade. Its rock walls were nearly all that still stood, the roof having collapsed years ago.

Legal wrangling after a previous owner's bankruptcy and environmental concerns like asbestos removal caused the long-expected demolition to drag out for years.

Eventually, local economic development leaders hope to revitalize the site for industrial use.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 6-14-2016 / Vickie Moss

The former Garnett Church Furnishings building was demolished last week.

Last week's demolition of the original building ends the saga of a business that once was nearly as old as the city itself, and for years carried the distinction of being the city's oldest manufacturing interest. Only the City of Garnett, by its 1855 charter, and The Anderson County Review by affiliation with previous publications dating to 1865, were older local entities.

The Garnett Church Furnishings company opened in 1879 and mostly was a family business until owner Don MacAfee retired in 1993. New owners moved the business to a state-of-the-art $1.3 million factory in the Golden Prairie Industrial

ANDERSON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS MAY 31

Chairman Jerry Howarter called the meeting of the Anderson County Commission to order at 9:00 AM on May 31, 2016 at the County Commission Room. Attendance: Jerry Howarter, Present; Eugene Highberger, Present; Leslie McGhee, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as presented.

Windfarms

Ed Wolken met with the commission. He stated he has talked to several people who are opposed to the windfarm. He questioned if the test tower is going to be replaced and if so will they have to go through the proper channels by applying for a special use permit. Discussion was held on whether Calpine had dismantled the tower or was it vandalized. The local papers have reported it was vandalized. Commission stated they felt Calpine should have to apply for a special use permit. Marvin Slyter was present and stated he felt the same way as Ed. Burt Peterson stated the windfarms are a temporary business that make money for a short time and then go away. There are too many negatives for the few positives. Mike Burns joined the meeting. Discussion was held on whether Calpine can rebuild the tower without going through the zoning board. Mike felt the county needs to file a cease and desist order to make sure things are done correctly. He stated the fact that the tower was vandalized does not benefit their opposition group as they do not want the black eye. Loren Sayers joined the group. Burt stated he had talked to the zoning director and was told that one special use permit would be done for the whole project. Burt feels our zoning laws do not allow for one permit for the whole project and it should be looked at parcel by parcel. He recommends the county counsel or look at the laws. Loren stated he was approached several years ago when there was plans for a windfarm by Kincaid. He did not sign up then but was thinking about it. He has since seen the windfarm by Burlington. He is concerned with the impact it has on the view of the land.

VEHICLES...

allow recreational vehicles on their streets. Without such an ordinance, it's illegal to drive those vehicles within the city limits. Most cities also restrict the hours such vehicle can be driven, such as only between sunrise and sunset.

Valentine is in the process of collecting information from each city in Anderson County to better understand and educate the public about the rules in various communities, but said he has not yet received copies of ordinances from any city except Garnett. It also was difficult for The Review to find ordinances from the various cities for this article. However, here is what is known:

The City of Garnett in recent years updated their ordinances to allow side-by-side work utility vehicles and golf carts on city streets and at city parks, after requests from residents. The city always has prohibited ATVs, including four-wheelers; debate over the types of recreational vehicles allowed indicated city leaders do not plan to allow ATVs in the future. The only exception is at Cedar Valley Reservoir, which allows the use of ATVs but only with a permit.

The city also requires the vehicles to have a triangular "Slow Moving Vehicle" warning sign on the back, and prohibits use before sunrise and after sunset.

Garnett City Manager Joyce Martin said police occasionally stop and remind motorists driving alternative vehicles that they must have the triangular sign on the back, but otherwise they have few problems related to the use of recreational vehicles.

The City of Colony allows for the use of ATVs, golf carts and lawn mowers on city streets with a valid driver's license, but prohibits all other off-road vehicles, according to an ordinance passed in August 2005. The ordinance doesn't specifically reference utility terrain vehicles (also called UTVs or side-by-sides), which emerged more recently, but it can be assumed from the language of the ordinance that they are prohibited.

Other types of prohibited vehicles in Colony include go-carts, dirt bikes, mini-bikes, dune buggies and more.

There is some confusion over the City of Greeley's status, Valentine reported. He said he was told the city passed an ordinance in recent years, but current council members were unaware it existed.

The status of ordinances in other incorporated cities, such as Westphalia and Kincaid, is not yet known.

You cannot drive ATVs, golf carts or side-by-side work utility vehicles on state or federal highways. Such vehicles can cross highways, though, in order to reach a city street on the other side, but you cannot travel on the highway.

Drivers in Garnett at times appear to violate that law, as such vehicles are seen traveling to businesses on Maple Street. Because Maple Street also serves as U.S. 59 Highway, it is illegal to drive golf carts and work utility vehicles on the highway even inside the city limits.

You can drive ATVs and side-by-side utility vehicles, as well as tractors that are used as transportation, on county roads. In all cases, though, the operator must have a valid operating license. An exception is allowed for someone using a tractor to conduct farm operations who must travel on a public road to get from field to field.

Keep in mind, though, that if your license is suspended, you cannot drive any motorized vehicle, not even a tractor used strictly for farm operations.

Also keep in mind that golf carts are not allowed on county roads.

Motorcycle drivers need a class M driver's license, insurance and registration to operate on any public road, including county roads.

sions, replace imported fuels with domestic products, and drive investment in development and production of biofuels.

The EPA sets the volume and types of fuel required, and in recent years has set lower volumes than the standards passed by Congress in 2007.

More than 100 biofuels supporters attended the hearing, including East Kansas Agri Energy ethanol plant CEO Jeff Oestmann and others from EKAE.

Oestmann argued the EPA should not cut back on the Renewable Fuel Standard as set by Congress in 2007. The standards have helped the EPA and industry develop advanced biofuels, he said.

"I have seen America keep more of its energy dollars at home instead of sending them to countries that simply don't like us very much," Oestmann testified. "After spending more than a decade serving in the Marine Corps around the world, I can tell you that I'd much rather do business in the Midwest than with the Middle East."

Congress in 2007 established a Renewable Fuel Standard for 24 billion total gallons to be blended into the gasoline supply with a potential 15 billion gallons of corn ethanol. In May, the EPA proposed allowing 18.8 billion gallons in renewable fuel volume in 2017, with up to 14.8 billion gallons from traditional corn ethanol. The EPA can limit the supply by granting a general waiver based on "inadequate supply" if the biofuels industry lacks the capability to produce the required volume of renewable fuel.

But biofuels supporters say there is plenty of supply, and that more than $200 million in new ethanol pumps and fuel infrastructure have been added in the last year.

Not everyone likes the fuel standards, though. Critics, which include the American Petroleum Institute and the American Fuel and Petrochemical Manufacturers, would like to see the standards further reduced. They argue the standards essentially amount to a farm subsidy, that older engines cannot tolerate higher ethanol-gasoline mixtures, and that 40 percent of U.S. corn crops go to ethanol, which increases the price of corn and other food products.

Oestmann testified about the successes at EKAE, including the nation's first renewable diesel production as part of an ethanol facility. He called renewable diesel "a true drop-in fuel that represents the next generation of advanced biofuels."

"The fact that we will be producing both ethanol and renewable diesel in one facility creates new jobs and economic vitality, and provides further proof that our nation is on the path toward the continued evolution of advanced biofuels," Oestmann testified.

Such technological advancements would not have been possible without the Renewable Fuel Standard, he said.

"When it comes to domestic renewable fuels, we don't need less. We need more. And that's exactly what the RFS passed by Congress has outlined," he argued. "Advanced biofuels are coming fast, but we cannot hamper this growth by reducing our nation's commitment to the traditional ethanol industry that has created these opportunities for all of America."

Park in the early 2000s, with the county and City of Garnett financing the structure. But a series of new owners couldn't save the business and it closed in 2007. The new building was later purchased by East Kansas Agri Energy.

GCF's original home now is owned by a private development company, which took it over after a former construction company housed at the structure, TL Enterprises, filed for bankruptcy.

The Southeast Kansas Prosperity Foundation and the NetWork Kansas E-Community group in Garnett joined forces to buy the property, clean it up and develop it for use as a light industrial or manufacturing business site. Because of the bankruptcy, it took a significant period of time to transfer ownership to the group.

Once those legal ownership issues were resolved, the company expected demolition to move quickly. Those plans, however, were put on hold when asbestos was discovered in the collapsed roof material. Asbestos abatement typically is an extensive, expensive process.

Dennis Arnold, economic development director for the city and county, said previously the site is ideal for industrial development because it already has sufficient utilities. Typically, the biggest obstacle in establishing an industrial area is building the infrastructure that can support such use, such as electricity, sewer lines and water lines big enough for industrial sprinklers.

"The cost of ground is nothing," he said. "That's why we liked that site out there. It's already zoned that way and has been for 120 years, and it's cheaper than having to bring utilities all the way to another site."

The site also includes a 7,000 square foot building with shipping docks that was mostly hidden by the rubble, but now is visible. Once the area is cleaned up, that building could be usable. Arnold estimated it would cost about $200,000 to construct a building of similar size and amenities.

age 57. All three were killed in the wreck; Esperanza and Fauzae died at the scene, and Jose was taken by life flight to Mercy Medical Center where he died Thursday afternoon.

The vehicle was driven by Christopher J. Cox, 45, of Council Bluffs. Cox was driving on Highway 20 west of Jackson at 3:40 a.m., and told authorities he swerved to miss a deer and left the road. The car traveled off an embankment into a creek. Cox escaped from the vehicle and was treated and released from the hospital.

A Nebraska sheriff told media there that Cox did not have a valid driver's license and an early toxicology test suggested alcohol or another substance could have played a role. Cox was arrested Thursday afternoon and taken to the Dakota County Jail in Dakota City, Neb.

Personal protection debate echoes in Orlando club shooting

As expected, those in the media and other domestic anti-gun proponents have already begun misconstruing this past weekend's murder of 49 people at a gay nightclub in Orlando as being something other than the latest attack on our nation by Islamic terrorists; and our enemies are counting on just that.

The familiar refrain began only hours after the shooting. It was widespread and from the usual sources. One of the most presumptive came from some ubiquitous liberal millennial blogger writing for the women's fashion website Bustle.com. whose attack on the National Rifle Association's "response" to the shooting was already published even before said "response," had even been made.

Without the benefit of a response to criticize, the young woman, who claims to have obtained her journalism degree "from the University of Georgia without once attending a football game" attacked the 4 million strong organization for what she assumed would be its counter to the Orlando shootings based on its general policies and statements after previous mass shootings.

After all, per the best practices manual of the modern media when approaching conservative arguments – why wait for viewpoints on the right to coalesce before attacking them?

That's because it doesn't matter the circumstances of the incident or the motivation of the shooter; to the short-sighted anti-gun lobby, the gun is always to blame.

Not that gun advocates would have expected any less, but it is the confusion of the issue that is most frustratingly treacherous to our nation. While Hillary Clinton and the gun control camp scream for tighter restrictions on all manner of firearms, Islamic terrorists who pursue their fanatical suicide missions against American culture as well as the psychotic killers in our population who yearn to go out in a blaze of media attention, revel in the argument of liberals who would disarm more Americans and enrich the target environment.

Sandy Hook Elementary School; Omar Mateen aimed his ISIS inspired rage at a gay nightclub in Florida banking on the bet no one there would be carrying concealed, even though it's legal in Florida. These killers aren't stupid. They seek troves of victims who can't, or for whatever reason won't, protect themselves; schools and businesses displaying "no gun" signs; corporate offices; work places. Let's face it, even with gun laws that allow qualified Americans to carry firearms in many states, most of us don't.

Though police agencies in Orlando are praising each other for their heroic action in taking down the shooter and ending a hostage situation, the fact remains that even though Mateen had crossed the FBI's terrorist alert radar, neither it nor any other local or state agency stopped him in time to save the bulk of those lives. Depending on the government to protect you in the wack-a-mole world of domestic terrorism is not the bet on which to stake your life or that of your friends or family. The last line of defense in Orlando would have been an armed civilian at the club.

Apparently, there wasn't one.

Eventually the dialogue on personal accountability and practical personal defense to these acts of violence will be accorded the same credence in America's marketplace of ideas as the anti-gun philosophy enjoys; but it will have to gasp out its message over the chokehold liberal America has on it.

Yeah county, which year was it that you were wanting to have the road going to the reservoir chipped and sealed? At the rate it's going I think it will be another five years. We've had all sorts of good weather. What are you looking for? After while it's going to be too dry. It's going to blow away, you're going to be hauling water. Let's get with it. These boats keep getting chipped.

Yes, I think that Dane Hicks needs to worry about learning about how to write the newspaper than worrying about what the county attorney is doing in Anderson County, trying to find someone to replace him when he's doing a fine job.

Does Garnett employ anyone to take care of our ball field? The diamond by the Rec Center has grass growing on the infield. No one drags the field to prep for a game, and right now they also need to wet down the field to control dust. It costs $30 for each child to participate in the ball program. You would think we could hire someone to make this a good experience for the kids instead of having them stand out there and have to battle to see through the dust.

Every flag that was taken down at the cemetery was allowed to drag on the ground through grass, mud and standing water, before it was wadded into a ball and thrown into the back of a city truck. The crew of city workers handled the flags with total disregard to the sacrifices they represent and the respect they deserve. There were at least six guys there and they could have worked as a team to take down, fold the flag without letting them touch the ground, and placing them in the truck. Maybe these guys don't want to put any effort into their jobs and show pride and respect for their country. Therefore, maybe they need to find different jobs.

I find it really interesting that some of the very same people who were in favor of the new hospital and the new jail and the new school because of all the industry it would attract to town are the very same people who are against the wind farms. Is maybe the money not flowing to the right pockets? I don't know.

Why is the city so selective on who they pick on? That mess down there at the old gas station across from Napa, that's disgusting. Stuff laying all over. Somebody's going to get hurt there but the city ain't making them clean it up. If you drive by, it looks just like another dirty town. It's been reported and reported to them, but there it is, still a mess. I don't care who owns it they really need to clean up that property. The city needs to make them like they do everybody else.

Yes, for all of you who don't believe that signing up with the wind farm people will destroy your property values or destroy your neighbors property values, you need look no further than the recent land auction over in Coffey County close to the Waverly wind farm. They tried to auction 140 acres, mixed ground just like any other ground around here, should have brought what, $1,800 to $2,200 an acre. There wasn't even a wind mill on it, it was just close by. Not a single bid at that auction. Not a single bid. A no sale on that property auction. When is the last time that's ever happened in this area before wind farms?

Students need a safe space from Chaucer

Yale English majors are demanding a safe space from Chaucer.

In a petition to the English department, Yale undergraduates declare that a required two-semester seminar on Major English Poets is a danger to their well-being. Never mind that the offending poets, Shakespeare, Chaucer, Donne, Milton, Wordsworth, et al., are the foundational writers in the English language. It's as if chemistry students objected to learning the periodic table.

The root of the complaint against the seminar is, of course, the usual PC bean-counting, where prodigious talents who have stood the test of time and explore the deepest questions about what it means to be human are found wanting. The petition whines that "a year spent around a seminar table where the literary contributions of women, people of color, and queer folk are absent actively harms all students, regardless of their identity."

This is a variation on the widespread belief on campus that unwelcome speech is tantamount to a physical threat. In this case, the speech happens to be some of the most eloquent words written in the English language. One can only pity the exceedingly fragile sensibility it takes to feel assaulted by, say, "Lines Composed a Few Miles Above Tintern Abbey."

The petition's implicit contention is that the major poets are too circumscribed by

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

their race and gender to speak to today's socially aware students, when, in point of fact, it is the students who are too blinkered by race and gender to marvel at great works of art.

The poet Maya Angelou said in a lecture once that as a child she thought, "Shakespeare must be a black girl." It was because, growing up in the Jim Crow South, a victim of unspeakable abuse, Sonnet 29 spoke so powerfully to her.

Yale's petitioners must consider Toni Morrison a traitor to her race and gender. She had an argument with a theater director years ago in which she defended "Othello," and went on to write a production based on Desdemona, the play's doomed female character. Or how about Derek Walcott, whom a Yale professor sympathetic to the petitioners suggests adding to the required course? He told The Guardian newspaper a few years ago it would be absurd to say, "Don't read Shakespeare because he was white."

Anyone reading widely in the English canon will encounter supremely talented female, black and gay writers. In fact, many other Yale courses feature them. But the creative stream began with so-called dead white males. It is their genius that their words transcend their time and place and have given us phrases, characters and stories that are still vital today.

An official description of the Major English Poets seminar says the classes seek to create a heightened "curiosity about the way language works," as well as "a confidence in engaging with historically and formally diverse literary texts." This is a reasonable enough academic goal -- unless the students involved are willfully incapable of curiosity or confidence.

There is an easy solution to the dilemma of the aggrieved petitioners: They shouldn't study English, or anything else that might challenge their absurdly small-minded ideological hobbyhorses.

School funding fix seems simple... or not

Things got pretty simple last week on this school finance foul-up.

Remember, Democratic leaders stood outside Gov. Sam Brownback's office threatening to have legislators petition to call a special session of the Legislature to begin Monday, June 20, to fix the portion of the school finance formula that the Kansas Supreme Court has held unconstitutional—and so egregious that the high court would shut down schools on July 1 if it isn't fixed.

That was good for some photographs and news coverage... except that just Wednesday, Brownback called the special session on his own order...signing a piece of paper telling the Legislature to show up, presumably in clean shirts... at 8 a.m. Thursday, June 23, to knock out whatever is needed to prevent the court from closing schools.

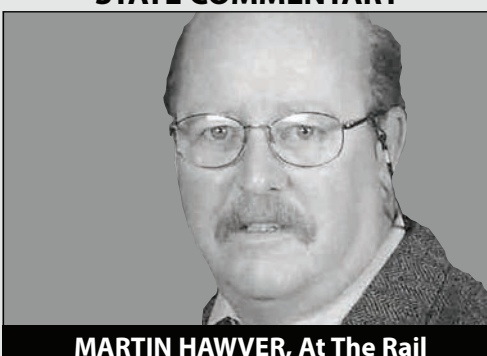

Look at it from the long view, and Brownback probably made the right call.

Instead of starting on Monday, start on Thursday and hope the Legislature wants to get home and members restart their re-election campaigns.

Now, that all seems pretty simple. Get a committee or two in early, have them assemble a bill that will meet the court's demands, and on June 23 bring back legislators, or at least as many as will come, and knock out the bill.

Practically, the bill has to do just one thing: Send another $38 million to $43 million to school districts that would see reductions in state matching for their Local Option Budgets. It's complicated, that LOB formula. Lawmakers earlier this year passed a school finance bill that used not the Supreme Court-blessed LOB formula, but another formula for state aid for capital outlay support which apparently is OK for capital outlay, but not for LOB.

STATE COMMENTARY

So the fix is relatively simple. Get the language that the court has already approved for LOB, toss in the money, and... see how the votes go.

Hard to figure, because that minimalist $38 million to $43 million means some districts will see a reduction in state LOB aid—and make sure that the schools stay open—but it means some districts will get less money under the formula than they'd planned on. That brings up about $12 million in so-called "hold-harmless" money, which makes sure that no school district—or legislators campaigning for re-election in those districts—will lose state aid, or their legislators get blasted for bringing less money home to their districts.

The early arguments break out several ways. Just pass the bill that meets the Supreme court's demand, and let the governor come up with the money... or maybe even find the money to finance it.

Or, they could put in the hold-harmless agreement, and come up with another $12 million or so, or let the governor come up with the money.

It comes down to something that simple... unless there's some acting-out by legislators about the Supreme Court running the state, imposing on the Legislative and Executive branch powers and threatening to close schools.

There's an apparent interesting sideline to keep lawmakers from drinking at lunch or later...this proposed constitutional amendment that would allow voters a chance to strip the court of authority to close down schools if the Legislature finances them unconstitutionally. That's the diversion we talk about—you don't have to be much of a magician if your assistant is pretty because who'll be looking at you.

That blast the court, limiting its authority provision, will be good for debate that might make the simple fix-bill relatively easy to pass. Or not...

The special session? Could be two days, or stretch through the weekend and into the next week...against that June 30 deadline to pass a bill so the courts don't shut down the schools.

Could be simple... but we're trying to think of the last time the Legislature did anything easily...

ACHS FFA member vies for State Office

MANHATTAN — A member of the Anderson County FFA Chapter is among the 18 candidates running for a state officer position to represent more than 9,000 Kansas FFA members for the 2016-2017 term. Maci Rockers will complete an intense process of interviews, tests and public speaking demonstrations next week as part of the 88th Kansas FFA State Convention on the Kansas State University campus.

Rockers

An appointed nominating committee of former state officers and agricultural education instructors interviews the candidates. On Friday, June 3, the committee submitted its nomination of 10 candidates to the state convention delegates, which consists of two members from each of the 179 chapters in the state. After hearing the candidates present a final prepared speech, the delegates will elect the six members who will serve as the 2016-2017 state officer team. The new team will be announced and installed at the final session of the convention Friday afternoon.

The committee evaluates the candidates on their applications, a written test, writing exercises, and five rounds of interviews. These include one-on-one interviews, delivering a speech, facilitating a workshop, round-robin interviews and a personal interview round.

Once elected, the officers will travel across the state promoting agricultural science education and FFA.

A four-year FFA member, Rockers has served as Chapter President and East Central District President. Her Supervised Agricultural Experience Program (SAE) is in Wildlife Production and Management, which involves caring for 41,000 pheasants for 11 months out of the year. She plans to attend Kansas State University next fall and major in Food Science.

Maci is the daughter of Robert and Denise Rockers. Her advisor is Jeff Gillespie.

Two women who had saving faith

In the eleventh chapter of Hebrews faith is defined as "being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see." I believe the best way to understand this definition is to examine some examples of faith in the scriptures. One of the first examples to come to mind is the story of the Canaanite woman whose daughter suffered from demon possession. There are two issues to understand within this story. First the woman was a Canaanite, not a Hebrew. As far as the Hebrews were concerned she would have been an outcast. The woman cried out to Jesus, "Lord, Son of David, have mercy on me! My daughter is suffering terribly from demon possession." Jesus initially ignores the woman. When the disciples urge him to send her

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

By David Bilderback

away his response is, "I was sent only to the lost sheep of Israel." The woman then knelt before Jesus and pleaded for his help. The second issue now presents itself as Jesus tests her faith. Jesus answers her by saying, "It is not right to take the children's bread and toss it to their dogs." The woman answers, "Yes Lord, but even the dogs eat the crumbs that fall from their masters table." Then Jesus answered her, "Woman you have great faith! Your request is granted." And her daughter was healed.

The second example of faith is found in Luke 8:40-48 where a woman suffered from bleeding for twelve years and had exhausted all her resources without any relief. No doubt having heard of Jesus and his healing power the woman sought him out and found him surrounded by a large crowd. "She came up behind him and touched the edge of his cloak, and immediately her bleeding stopped." Now the crowd was pressing against Jesus. Jesus asks, "Who touched me?" Even though others were pressing against him Jesus felt power go out from himself. The point of the story now becomes apparent. The woman seeing she could not go unnoticed came trembling and fell at his feet. She then explains why she had touched him and how she had been instantly healed. Jesus then says to her, "daughter your faith has healed you. Go in peace."

Even though others were touching Jesus he felt no healing power go out from him until this woman touched the edge of his cloak. Most people can live a lifetime and never extract any power from Jesus, not because it is not available but because they lack the faith required. In both instances other people were present but Jesus helped only these two women. Both of these women by faith believed Jesus could help them. We can never tap into the power of Jesus until our faith matches that of these two women. We will just be part of the crowd around him.

1996: Passion Pit road closing mulled

June 6, 2006

School board members in USD 365 moved Thursday to solve the controversial issue of the district's new alternative school location when they voted to move a newly acquired modular classroom building to a site near Garnett Elementary Center. The modular unit and the plan for developing a special program to help at-risk high school students drew fire six weeks ago when the building was hauled onto the Irving Primary Center and footings poured on which to mount the building. The resulting uproar prompted the district to put a hold on the plan until protesters had a chance to address board members.

East Kansas Agri Energy will host the community during an open house celebration of the local ethanol plant's first year of operation. It was a productive first year for the $47 million plant. Underlying the plant's operational success since its start-up in June of last year has been a spike in the price of ethanol, which struggled at around $1.15 a year ago but since fall has jumped to nearly $3 per gallon, mirroring the spike in the price of gasoline.

A reconstituted plan to develop a rock quarry near Scipio has been denied by Anderson County Commissioners. They voted down the proposal from R&R Limestone on the basis of a planning and zoning recommendation. Area landowners were opposed to the project.

Some people are passionate about fishing and some people are passionate about partying. But two families who live on a dead end section of county road in Washington Township are passionate about having the road closed due to the nuisance and safety hazards of traffic to and from "The Passion Pit." The Passion Pit is actually a small teardrop shaped limestone quarry about 80 yards long by 40-50 yards wide located near the point that Cedar Creek begins to widen into Cedar Valley Reservoir. Abandoned years ago after its limestone was used for railroad construction, the pit has since filled with water and has become a favorite swimming and party spot, and a centerpiece of adolescent lore. A county road that is now flooded by higher creek water from the reservoir leads to the area. Problems associated with the pit have brought up the issue of closing the road for several years. Anderson County Commissioners opted against its closure several years ago, but recent incidents in the area have brought it once more to the county's attention. A fire originated from the area last spring during the height of a drought and burning ban. Cars stir up dust and gravel, and there have been various shenanigans by party-goers.

The Chamber Players community theater group has announced a new initiative for local theater in the area with a newly revamped organization and plans for several productions beginning this summer.

June 15, 1916

Dr. Thomas Kirkpatrick died Sunday. Dr. Kirkpatrick located in Westphalia in 1884, the first doctor there and the only one for a number of years. He engaged in the drug business and was also appointed postmaster. He then served as the secretary of the State Board of Health. At the expiration of his term of office he removed to Garnett and has made this his home ever since.

Tip: Make sure you get permission before going out into the field

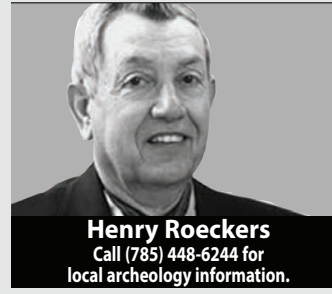

Now that you have picked out a site to walk and look over, the very next thing is to ask land owner, renter, etc. for permission to go onto their land. *** This is a must.***

You're almost all set to start your new adventure, but wait, what do you need in the field?

In hunting Native American artifacts, dress in light weight attire as possible, depending of course upon the weather conditions. Usually you will need a hat for protection from the sun, sometimes a good jacket is needed, if so make sure it has sufficient pockets, make sure you have a good pair of walking shoes or boots and perhaps there will be times you will need a pair of gloves. If you're going to be out for an extended time, carry water and perhaps a small quantity of food. A few other items you may choose to carry are: camera, notebook and pen, pocket knife, matches, compass, small first aid kit and a Geological Survey map of the area.

pockets to carry everything you find. A regular carpenter's nail apron may be tied around your waist and used very easily.

One last handy item to carry is a broom handle with a nail in the end of it or a long handled dandelion digger, for turning over artifacts on the ground without bending over every time. I myself use a stainless steel, very light golf club handle with a cork tip not to damage any artifact. It definitely saves time and wear and tear on my back.

We're ready, Lets go to the field and start hunting.

Next week's column will be, what do we do once we get to the field.

Smile, and sell more

You're facing a customer. By whatever means - the new signage you put up on the highway; the networking you did at a breakfast meeting; the fact that the guy's car broke down in front of your store - whatever brought him to you, this is your moment.

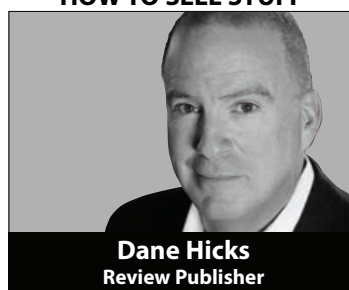

The most important thing you do may be the simplest - smile.

It's part of the weird psychology of approval - a legitimate smile makes us feel more comfortable and at ease. It establishes a positive connection. Smiling also releases endorphins, serotonin and dopamine - the feel-good chemicals that relax your body, lower your heart rate and actually boost your immune system.

More than what a smile does for you is what it does for your customer when you convey it to him. When you smile, you invite others to smile too. It's proven that customers buy based on a whole bunch of factors, but liking you are by far one of the biggest; one that can easily transcend minuses you might have in other areas. A smile is an offer to your customer that it's okay for him to like and trust you.

A study several years ago found that concession buyers at movie theaters got faster service and larger portions of popcorn and nachos when they smiled at concession stand workers. Savvy customers have always known that you catch more flies with sugar than with vinegar; it's a foundation element in the buying/selling relationship that works both ways.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

A smile should be sincere, but that's not to say sometimes we don't have to force a smile. The simple rule is this: the spontaneous "Duchenne" smile (Google it) involved the eye muscles and usually at least passing eye contact. It's the one people read as legitimate and unrehearsed and comes from the subconscious brain. A fake smile comes from the conscious brain and involves less or no involvement from your eyes - that's the one we're programmed to know is fake. Look at the difference between a Dolly Parton smile and any of the silicone-infused actresses on the red carpet on Entertainment Tonight.

So, if you have to practice smiling, practice doing it with your eyes. Nobody ever said a little acting doesn't come in handy.

No matter what you're selling you use certain tools to get the job done. A smile should always be in your toolbox.

Zig Zag Sewing Club has luncheon

Eight members attended the June 1 Zig Zag Sewing Club meeting held at Woodland Hills community room in Osawatomie. Jan Ouderkirk and Sylvia Kehoe were hostesses for the carry-in luncheon.

President Grace Donham conducted the meeting and circulated the obituary of Loretta Carlton whom we shall miss greatly. Our club will be sending a contribution to her memorial fund. Another club contribution is in process to Greeley Fire Department for a memorial honoring Becky Roush's husband.

June birthday congratulations go out to Zig Zag members Margery Hunt and Pat McFarland.

In the absence of secretary/treasurer Jackie Leach, Virginia Russell presented May minutes and May and June treasurer's reports. All were approved as read.

Evelyn Gillogly volunteered today to host our December 7 meeting.

Mrs. Gillogly and Doris Rommelfanger won door prizes of large floral arrangements of supertunias.

A wide variety of items and interests were shared during show and tell time. Mrs. Donham showed a couple personal photographs she'll be recreating as painted portraits.

Mrs. Ouderkirk shared her enjoyment of adult coloring using books, gel pens, colored pencils, crayons and embellishments. She showed completed works now used as background pages for scrapbooking.

Mrs. Gillogly showed aprons, table toppers, and personalized dog scarves. Loretta Crozier showed a variety of hand made items from Hawaii.

The next meeting will be July 6. Location will be announced.

Madison Martin, second from right, took sixth place in the discus competition at the Kansas State Track Meet in Wichita May27-28. Madison attends Anderson County High School.

Ahring to compete at world's largest rodeo

DENVER — Trey Ahring, a 12th-grade student at Anderson County High School has earned a position on the Kansas state/provincial National High School rodeo team and will be traveling with fellow teammates to Gillette, Wyo., July 17-23 to compete at the 68th annual National High School Finals Rodeo (NHSFR) in the Bull Riding competition(s).

Featuring more than 1,650 contestants from 43 states, five Canadian Provinces and Australia, the NHSFR is the world's largest rodeo. In addition to competing for more than $200,000 in prizes, NHSFR contestants will also be competing for more than $350,000 in college scholarships and the chance to be named an NHSFR World Champion. To earn this title, contestants must finish in the top 20 — based on their combined times/scores in the first two rounds — to advance to Saturday evening's final round. World champions will then be determined based on their three-round combined times/scores.

Again, this year, the Saturday championship performance will be televised nationally as a part of the Cinch Highschool Rodeo Tour telecast series on RFD-TV. Live broadcasts of each NHSFR performance will also air online at NHSRATV.com. Performance times are 7 p.m. on July 17, and 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. each day thereafter.

Along with rodeo competition, NHSFR contestants have the opportunity to enjoy shooting sports, volleyball, contestant dances, family-oriented activities, church services sponsored by the Fellowship of Christian Cowboys, and shopping at the NHSFR tradeshow. To follow your local favorites at the NHSFR, visit NHSRA.org daily for complete results. For ticket information, call (307) 682-0552.

Pieces & Patches Quilt Guild makes donation to Senior Center

The Pieces & Patches Quilt Guild was called to order by President, Bonnie Deiter, with a quote on May 26, 2016 at 9:30am in the Anderson County Extension meeting room. Roll call was answered by 23 members and 2 guests, Jane Gorton and Joan Richardt. The minutes of the April meeting were approved as printed in the newsletter. Bonnie Deiter gave the treasurer's report in the absence of Terrie Gifford. Thank you notes were read from 2 individuals who received a charity quilt. Phyllis Gordon also thanked the guild for her special honor at the May quilt show.

Committee Reports:

• Program—Sandra Moffatt reported that the bus is almost full for the June 23 shop hop and members are to contact her if they need the information for the trip. Sandra reported that some guilds have their members present trunk shows so she passed around a sign-up sheet if any member is interested in presenting a trunk show for our guild. She also passed around some information on 6 possible programs for the guild and asked members to indicate which one they favor. The July meeting will be at the library.

• Scholarship—a Thank you was read from the Anderson County JR-SR high school for the guild's participation in the scholarship program. Remi Hedges won the Guild's scholarship this year.

• Charity quilts—There was discussion about the size of charity quilts and Joleata Kent will check with nursing homes about their preferred size and report back to the guild. Each charity quilt has a note indicating that it came from the guild and there was discussion about where Thank you's should be mailed.

• May Quilt Show—Bonnie Deiter & Lynda Feuerborn expressed their gratitude to the members of the quilt guild for their assistance at the May Quilt show. There were 60 quilted items entered in the show. Marcella Skidmore won the Opportunity quilt. Lynda Feuerborn won the People's Choice award. Phyllis Gordon displayed many of her quilted articles. Terrie Gifford constructed a quilt that day that was given away to a young person.

Anderson County Fair—handouts for the 2016 Anderson County Fair Quilt challenge blocks were available to those interested. The blocks need to be a 12 ½ inch unfinished square, blocks must have 2 colors used in the block-purple & green and use the theme of the 4-H pledge. Information for the block is available at the Extension office. The fair is August 2-6 and quilts and challenge blocks will be entered the morning of August 2.

• Block of the Month—Judy McArdle showed the May block,

Mosaic, and distributed the pattern. Several members showed their April blocks

• Challenge blocks—Cynthia Fletcher showed her table runner using 10 of her challenge blocks. Phyllis Gordon completed a lap quilt using all of her blocks.

• August Luncheon—committee chairman is Marilyn Lolley with members Rose Dennison, Carolyn Crupper, Sharon Bowman, Connie Hatch & Bun Miller.

• Nominating-Lou Ann Shmidl, Phyllis Gordon & Bonnie Deiter will meet after the meeting. Positions to be filled this year include Secretary, Treasurer and Historian.

• New Business—Lynda Feuerborn moved and it was seconded by Cynthia Fletcher that we donate $100 to the Senior Citizen Center for the use of the building for the May Quilt show. Motion carried. Judy Stuke moved & it was seconded by Lynda Feuerborn to donate $15 to the library for the use of their room for the July meeting. Motion carried.

• Show & Tell—The following items were shown: Marvell Harris a table runner; Judy McArdle a purple & yellow quilt; Sharon Rich a quilt; Sharon Bowman her Block of the Month quilt; Jackie Gardner 2 baby quilts; Cynthia Fletcher a burp cloth and tulip quilt; Violet Holt 2 place mats, a table runner and 8 mug rugs. Jackie Gardner won the Show & Tell prize of 3 patriotic fat quarters.

The meeting was adjourned by Bonnie Deiter.

Sandra Moffatt gave a program on using 6 fat quarters to make a bag and she distributed the pattern.

Alumni

The Colony/Crest alumni held their 109th meeting May 28 at the Colony/Crest gym. C&S Traveling Kitchen, Chanute catered the meal to 51 alumni members and 27 guests, a total of 79 meals. Arvin Clemans, alumni president announced the Earl Clemans Crest scholarship winners for 2016 - Maya Piper, daughter of Katie Piper and Waylon Piper and Hunter Frazell, son of Craig and Sharon Frazell. Both will attend ACC then transfer to a four-year college. Both graduates and their mothers attended. Ashley Geary and Maria Rodriguez, 2016 seniors, were also guests. Entertainment for the evening was provided by "Country Class", Kathleen McCollum and Jim Taylor of Kincaid. They played and he sang several songs which were very much enjoyed. Clemans thanked members who had made donations to the scholarship.

Discussion of what to do with the 1919 Cornerstone from the old school building was held with a decision to proceed with more details later. The Colony/Crest Alumni will be held on Memorial weekend with a banquet every year until otherwise voted not to do so. New officers elected were president-Marie Goodell Plinsky; vice-president-Mary Beckmon Scovill; secretary-Thelma Sherwood Hise; treasurer, Ron Luedke.

The class of 1966 celebrated their 50th reunion. Ralph Bunnel, class of 1941 celebrated 75 years; Lula Threlkeld Paris and Twila Kelly Luedke celebrated their 70th. Ruby Davis was the oldest graduate, 83 years, graduating in 1933. Recognition was given to other classes also.

President Clemans gave recognition to the members that have passed on. Several door prizes and gold coins were given away as prizes. Winner of the 50/50 jar was won by Twila Kelly Luedke. She donated it back to the Earl Clemans Scholarship.

Next year's meeting will be May 27, 2017 at 5 p.m., banquet, 7 p.m. Everyone enjoyed visiting with friends and classmates.

Lions

Sue Colgin conducted the June 1 meeting following the meal cooked and served by the United Methodist Women. Nine members answered roll call. A discussion was held about having a "Spring Fling" for the members. It was suggested hot dogs, chips, etc. to be served for the members, their families, and guests. The date was set for July 30 at the ball field.

Al Richardson requested an inventory be made of the medical equipment the club owns. Lion DeDe McMullen volunteered to inventory the equipment. A cleaning crew will clean and cover the equipment. Gene Anderson recommended the cans be picked up and taken to the recycling center. DeDe McMullen will check with Butch Lytle about this. If he is not able, President Sue Colgin will do it. Kenton King mentioned the Pirate Ship in the park needs to be treated. DeDe McMullen will check with Tim Dietrich to see what the city is going to do. The next meeting will be June 15, at 7 p.m.

The little bin located at the triangle of Pine and Cherry Streets which the Lions Club set up a few years back was full. Kenton and Denise King delivered 12 pounds of pop tabs to the Ronald McDonald House in Kansas City May 27.

The Lions Club also collects eyeglasses and they may left at Goppert State Service Bank, Colony Branch. Their goal is 1,000 glasses, a very worthwhile cause.

Around Town

Sympathy is expressed to Steve Weatherman and family at the death of his mother, Virginia Weatherman, 91. She passed away June 4 at Allen County Regional Hospital. Visitation was June 8 at Feuerborn Family Chapel, Colony. Graveside services followed at Colony Cemetery.

Colony Class of '66 has reunion

May 27 and 28 the Colony High Class of 1966 held their 50 year class reunion. The group met at the City Hall community room in Colony evening of the 27th. Class members and two of their teachers Don Wilmoth (wife Kathy) and Betty Ramsey joined the class and enjoyed dinner at the Hi Point Cafe. They enjoyed listening to the band Diamond W Wranglers from Wichita.

On afternoon of 28th they enjoyed meeting Gary Hawk, artist, in his studio in Iola. It was wonderful to see many of his watercolor works, belt buckles, Christmas plates and ornaments. Thank You to Mr. Hawk for sharing his wonderful art and studio with the class.

That evening they were honored at the Colony/Crest Alumni. They enjoyed music and dinner at the Crest School building along with other alumni. This class was in the 8th grade when this building first opened. They were happy to have one more teacher join in the fun, Dan Neuenswander, Topeka.

Class members attending the weekend event were: Carol Bunnel Hall, Anchorage, Alaska; Bruce Calahan, Branson West, Mo.; Jerri Collins Henry, Gas; Richard Dickson, Wichita; Marie Goodell Plinsky, Topeka; John Hetzel, LeRoy; Gene Hiestand, Warrensburg, Mo.; Bonnie Hill Sutterby, Mapleton; Gary Reynolds, Dayton, WY.; Karen Settlemyer Allen, Wichita; Steve Spangler, Garnett.

Two other class members that attended some years with Class of 1966, but didn't graduate in Colony were Janice Smethers Feuerborn, Garnett and Ed Prock, Iola. They were happy to be joined by eight spouses.
