Sheriff warns about increased use of marijuana edibles

Recent examples show influx of dangerous new edible drugs, sheriff warns

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - A local law enforcement official is warning citizens, particularly those who have children, to be on the lookout for marijuana edibles.

Anderson County Sheriff Vernon Valentine said last week his officers have seized packages of marijuana edibles twice in the last month. Valentine said he is concerned about the safety of people, especially children, who consume products infused with THC. Not only is it illegal in Kansas, it also can be dangerous.

Recreational marijuana use is legal in four states and the District of Columbia, and is approved for medical use in dozens more. Last year, the CDC warned about the dangers of consuming marijuana edibles, which includes things like cookies and candies infused with tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the main psychoactive ingredient in marijuana.

While it's still common for people to illegally consume marijuana the old-fashioned way - by smoking it in rolled cigarette paper or a pipe - the increasing use of edibles is particularly dangerous for children, Valentine warned. Brands like Cheeba Chews contain a pack of eight pieces of chewable candy, each piece infused with 10 mg of THC.

"What we are seeing looks like candy and comes in a blister pack," Valentine said. "Here is your nightmare. It is a

Youth work to improve skate park

Youth-led effort built park 10 years ago, inspired current effort

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - More than 10 years ago, a group of young skaters lobbied the City of Garnett to build a skate park. Now, a new group of about 10 youth are working to continue and improve upon those efforts.

A group of high-school aged youth are working with city officials to upgrade the surface of the city's skate park at Lake Garnett park, and add several features to enhance the skateboarding experience.

But it won't be an easy project. They'll need to raise more than $5,000 - likely, much more than that - in order to get what they want.

Kyle Lamb, a senior at Anderson County High School, has been skating since he was 10. He was too young to remember much of the details about the original effort to build a skate park in the city, led by a

Jobless rate rebounds

August rates lower than those posted in July in local region

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA - Unemployment dropped in August in Anderson and surrounding counties, rebounding after a dismal month in July. The state, however, posted a slight increase in its jobless rate.

There were 198 unsuccessful job seekers in Anderson County in August out of a labor force of 4,097, according to the Kansas Department of Labor. That translates to an unemployment rate of 4.6 percent. That's better than July's unemployment rate, which was 5.2 percent. It's also a little better than the same time last year, when unemployment was 4.9 percent.

The state's August seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 4.3 percent. This was up from 4.0 percent in July and up from 4.1 percent in August 2015.

The preliminary seasonally adjusted job estimates from the Kansas Department of Labor and Bureau of Labor Statistics indicate Kansas nonfarm jobs decreased by 2,600 from July. Since last month, Kansas private sector jobs increased by 600. The largest private sector over the month job decrease and his friends modeled their efforts after the success of those skaters.

Starting in October 2005, a group of about 15 skateboarders asked the city to build a skate park. They had been criticized for riding skateboards on downtown sidewalks and private property, and even had their boards confiscated by police. Eventually, the group of skaters raised money to help the city establish a skate park at the site of an old tennis court near the stadium at Lake Garnett Park. A petition for the park was signed by 343 people. The group had fundraisers and sold T-shirts, and a relative of some of the skaters donated money for their effort.

"I didn't really know them. I just looked up to them. And now I know where they were coming from," Lamb said. "This is a younger generation of skaters. As our experience and our skill level goes up, we need to have better equipment."

Lamb and his friends grew up using the current skate park. They know it well, and they know it needs help.

The top priority is improving the surface. Grass grows from multiple cracks in the pavement, and an attempt to fill those cracks with sand and tar only made the situation worse.

And while it helps to practice their skills on a few key pieces of equipment, they're pretty much gotten used to them. They need to be challenged by new ramps and grind rails. They'd really like to add a half-pipe, but such an item is likely to cost more than $25,000.

The skaters took their concerns to Jeremy DuPont, who serves as a student representative to the City of Garnett. DuPont arranged a meeting with Garnett City Manager Joyce Martin in late July, and together they took their request to the city commission. Commissioners set aside $5,000 to help improve the skate park, asking the group to raise money that would match or exceed their contribution, for a total of at least $10,000. The city's portion of money for the park will come from a special fund paid for by sales tax to improve city streets and parks, and to pay off renovations to the Garnett Public Library and the ball complex.

But it will take much more than $10,000 to accomplish the group's goals. The group picked out eight "wish list" items that cost about $17,000. That price doesn't reflect the cost of resurfacing the old tennis court. Martin said she expects to receive an estimate this week from Killough Construction, which repairs and replaces asphalt streets for the city.

Martin said it seemed interest in the skate park waned for a few years, and she was glad to see the younger group step up to revive the park.

"These are good kids and they have a big interest," Martin said. "It's great they understand they have a responsibility for this park."

The youth plan to organize a skating club, sell T-shirts and have other fundraisers.

"We're gung-ho and we're going for it," Lamb said. "We want to keep improving this so kids 20 years from now have an awesome park."

smokeless and odorless chewable so your child could be consuming it right in front of you and you will never know it."

Marijuana edibles take longer to start working, and the effects typically last longer than smoking marijuana. An overdose can lead to unpleasant and even dangerous side effects, including paranoia, lack of coordination and hallucinations. In 2014, a 19-year-old man died when he overdosed on a marijuana edible and jumped from a hotel balcony in Colorado. The CDC reported the man initially consumed the dose recommended by a store clerk - just one-sixth of a single cookie - but later consumed the rest of the cookie when he didn't feel any effect.

It is believed much of the illegal marijuana, including edibles, that is brought into Kansas comes from neighboring Colorado, where legal, recreational marijuana stores opened in 2014. Medical marijuana use has long been legal in Colorado.

But the use of marijuana for any reason - medical or recreational - remains illegal in Kansas. Valentine warns that anyone who sells or gives marijuana - even marijuana-infused products - to another person could be arrested and charged with distribution of marijuana. Anyone who is caught with any type of marijuana product can be charged with crimes including possession of drugs or possession of drug paraphernalia.

A parent or guardian who is concerned about a child potentially using drugs like marijuana can purchase a drug-testing kit from pharmacies and some general market stores. Such tests can be done in the privacy of home without involving the authorities, Valentine said. Be sure to check the label to make sure the test will detect the appropriate drug and follow directions, he said.

Barnes finishes 3rd at Chanute

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

CHANUTE - Another golf tournament and another solid day for the Anderson County girls' team at the Chanute Invitational last Monday.

Senior Abbey Barnes led the way for the Bulldog women, finishing in 3rd place with a score of 92. Barnes score was 7 strokes behind Maggie Moody from Fontenac, who finished first on the afternoon.

Pittsburg high school, with a score of 385, won the invitational with 4 of the top 6 finishes individually. Frontenac and Anderson County tied for second as both teams shot 419, but finished in 3rd because they didn't have a fifth player to use as a tie breaker score. Girard (442) finished in 4th place among the teams that had enough golfers to qualify for team scoring.

Sammy Joe Walter (101) finished in a 3-way tie for 7th. Miranda Akes (106) finished 15th and Sydney Holloran (120) rounded out the Bulldog golfers in 23rd.

"Today was a very hot and long day," head coach Nicole Wiehl said. "I couldn't be more proud of these girls for working so hard to accomplish our goals."

Kansas voters must fix broken court

It's hard to tell if the groundswell of opposition to retaining Kansas Supreme Court justices this November is due to the court's liberal political leanings, its lack of attention to fundamental justice or its desire to expand its authority.

Whatever the fuel for this fire, it's clear that more people with a wider range of "beefs" are lining up against the justices on the Kansas Supreme Court this election year than at any time in the past, and the case for non-retaining them is being heard by an embarrassed, chagrined and outraged public statewide.

The case against this court is compelling. Just last month Iowa's Foundation for Accountability and Civic Trust filed a complaint with the Kansas Commission on Judicial Qualifications over a 2014 fundraiser for Democrat gubernatorial candidate Paul Davis which was held at the home of Justice Carol Beier. Beier has said her husband held the fundraiser and that she took care not to be present.

State Supreme Court Justices - any judges for that matter - are expected by the judicial code of conduct to engage personal behavior that maintains the perception of impartiality of the court. That means, among other things, no expression of politics. Those very authorities opined in 1990 that a spouse's sponsored event for a candidate at a home shared with a justice did indeed cast aspersion on the judge's impartiality - it was like the Beier incident was foretold two decades beforehand. The FACT complaint is still under review.

That the court has drifted liberal - and that this fact has become a demonstrated threat to Kansas - is the contention of a number of practicing and retired attorneys who have watched from a perspective separate from we layman. One former lawyer, Orville Cole of Garnett, said he watched court rulings become increasingly skewed to the left from the time he started his career in the 1950s until retiring a generation later. Those rulings have directly or indirectly affected nearly every aspect of life in the state, he says.

That's an observation that dovetails with what may be the best-worst example of this court's ruling ability. The Carr brothers raped, abused, robbed and murdered four people on an icy Wichita night in 2000. One woman miraculously survived the horror and testified against them prior to their conviction in 2002, but the Kansas Supreme Court overturned the Carrs' death sentences and all but one of the capital murder judgments against both of them - on technicalities. The United States Supreme Court ruled against the Kansas Supreme Court's disaster, resulting in a national embarrassment for the court but a victory for justice in the Sunflower State.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

An incompetent ruling is one thing - gall and arrogance are another. Just last summer this court threatened to prevent Kansas schools from opening for the 2016-17 school year, because state legislators had not yet satisfied the court that they were funding an "equitable" education for all Kansas school kids. It was, to say the least, a novel judicial concept - that a court, which has no standing regarding education in the Kansas Constitution whatsoever - could assert its authority to shut down public schools that had already been funded, staffed, managed and even constructed by their district patrons outside any jurisdiction of the state supreme court.

It was a resounding signal of the birth of a kryocracy: The Kansas Supreme Court, not you, will be making the decisions regarding educating your kids, thank you very much.

Laying out this and other evidence makes a clear case that Kansas voters must act to fix this broken court. It is a bellwether moment. In Kansas history, no judge anywhere has ever been removed from the bench by non-retention. But the act of communicating the grievous trends of this court has never been more effective than in the Internet age; and never have there been more interests so aligned.

Kansas needs to change the way it selects its judges to prevent courts from being over-influenced by lawyer-dominated committees, like in Kansas, which select those future judges. It needs legislators who will lock arms to see that happens in the future.

For now, Kansas voters have the responsibility to fix the court with the only legal means allowed them - the vote to non-retain.

I'd like to compliment the Garnett Fire Department when they answered that house fire on Fourth Street. Unfortunately lives were lost, but the Garnett Fire Department did an excellent job. I wanted to say congratulations, you got there quick and did what you could do. There was even a fireman that came ahead of the fire trucks to start looking for those kids. I thought they all did a very good job and I know you tried your best. Thank you.

I want to thank the city for taking care of the majority of the weeds and trees on the southeast corner of Seventh and Elm. There is still tall grass along the berm on Seventh Avenue. If it had been done at the beginning of the growing year it would look a lot better. Again, thank you for the work that was done.

Hopefully, when Donald Trump becomes president, he'll give the order to police and national guard to shoot, and shoot to kill, those idiots and scumbags that decided to go on a rampage. Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition. Thank you.

You know city wide clean up is a great thing for the elderly to get rid of their limbs and trash and stuff like that. But the street foreman who's been working there for thirty-odd years, thinks he knows how to run a loader... no. Just go down Kaw Street and look at the real estate he took away from that. That's my rant. Thank you.

About a year and a half or two years ago somebody put in the Phone Forum that when it came time for the city manager to have to retire because of her age that rule would be done away with. Looks like that's exactly what happened.

This is to the county boys that have been doing such a great job on Seventh Street. You've done an awesome job the last several years it seems like. When you have to patch a spot you have a good ramp up and ramp down, no bump. I like it. Keep up the good work.

How come no rioting in Tulsa after a white officer killed a black man, but Charlotte was on fire after a black officer killed a black man? How about Oklahoma and its 7 electoral votes are reliably Republican, while North Carolina's 15 are up for grabs? Obama won there in '08, Romney in '12. As at Mizzou last fall, BLM is a fraud. It doesn't give a rip about the plight of black folks; it's all about politics.

I can understand some of the old guard Democrats in Garnett wanting to support some of the Democrats running for office in some of the elections, but I absolutely cannot understand how even a Democrat could have a Hillary Clinton sign in their yard. Is that really the character example you want to witness for anybody who drives by your yard? That you support someone running for the highest office in our land who'd rather lie to you even when the truth makes a better story? Someone hooked up the Saudi Arabians with this crooked charity foundation? Someone who wants to take away our Second Amendment rights? If you think so little of your country to support someone like that, what do you think your neighbors and the people driving by think about you?

I went to the Garnett political forum and I was disappointed. All the Democrats have to say is they want more tax money. Read between the lines folks that means a tax increase. Throw more tax money at it and you can fix the problem. I never saw a problem that couldn't be solved if you just threw more money at it.

Letter trashing housing director was inappropriate

Letter to the Editor
A few weeks ago a dear acquaintance of mine and a dear friend of my late Aunt Virginia wrote a stinging Letter to the Editor on the Housing Authority. After pondering over this letter for many days I decided I just have to respond to Robert Cugno's letter published on August 30.

Robert, how could you do this to the director? You trashed her in a public forum just like today's politicians. That was just cruel. If you were unhappy with your dealings with the Housing Authority then so be it. But my God, why tell the world in such an atrocious manner. Looks like to me you asked for more than the normal renter and then when told no, you didn't pick up your toys and leave, you threw a fit. A little boy fit. That's not the Robert I thought I knew. You did rent the Villa, not buy it. Why, Robert? I thought you were better than that.

I'm very happy being a Parkside II renter for the last five years and they all are very pleasant and accommodating.

By the way it's Joyce Benson, not Benedict.

Trump is a big, beautiful black swan

If you aren't seriously contemplating the biggest black swan event in American electoral history, you aren't paying attention.

Fifteen months ago, Donald Trump was a reality-TV star with a spotty business record and a weird penchant for proclaiming that he was on the verge of running for president. Now, he's perhaps a few big breaks and a couple of sterling debate performances away from being elected 45th president of the United States.

Trump has no experience in elected office and, unlike past nonpoliticians elected president, hasn't won a major war. He perhaps knows less about public affairs than the average congressman. He has repeatedly advertised his thin-skinned vindictiveness and is trampling on basic political norms. No major political party has ever nominated anyone like this.

Trump now has a legitimate shot at winning the general election because he got the lucky draw of at least the second-worst presidential nominee in recent memory and, pending how she fares over the next two months, perhaps the worst.

All it took for Trump to wipe away most of Hillary Clinton's lead was acting like a somewhat normal presidential candidate. Have a meeting with a foreign leader. Give some policy speeches. Read from a teleprompter at rallies. Use his NPR voice when appropriate.

None of this required strategic genius, only

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

a decision not to throw away the election with repeated episodes of self-indulgent stupidity. Democrats should be feeling a creeping sense of panic:

-They are trying to win with a candidate who is loathed and distrusted and has few redeeming qualities. As Yuval Levin, editor of the journal National Affairs, points out, corrupt and dishonest politicians are often entertaining, and dull politicians are usually earnest and honest. Hillary manages to be both boring and corrupt.

-No one can be certain that her health is what the campaign says it is. Even if nothing else ails her, if Clinton has another episode in public like the one on Sept. 11, the bottom might fall out.

--President Obama probably can't close Hillary's enthusiasm gap. Obama is an adept campaigner, but there is no evidence he ever successfully transferred enthusiasm for himself to another candidate.

--If the kitchen sink hasn't killed off Trump, what else is there? The Clinton campaign has already used his greatest hits of most offensive statements in countless TV ads. If none of this has sunk Trump, what's left?

--A compelling Trump debate performance could change perceptions of his suitability to be commander in chief. Hillary is trouncing Trump on this attribute by a 2-to-1 margin. If Trump shows up and seems plausible during the biggest moment of the campaign, he could vastly improve his standing on this basic question of readiness.

All this said, Hillary probably still has an advantage. She has a campaign and Trump doesn't, and that must count for something. Demographics favor her. But if Trump can hoist himself over the bar of acceptability, he might give the voting public enough permission to make this the change election it is naturally inclined to be.

A Trump victory may not be likely, but it isn't far-fetched. And no, stranger things haven't happened.

Budget requests could slip past public

This state government/politics business is getting more and more complicated—and at some point hard for most of us grownups, who remember when air conditioning or even FM radios were options on new cars, to decide whether to spend much time fretting about.

Latest furor or maybe—what's one less than a furor?—is the decision that those state agency budget requests that are supposed to include an option for 5 percent cuts aren't public records.

Nobody doesn't like public records, but Gov. Sam Brownback and his budget director, Shawn Sullivan, have decided that those budget requests aren't public records. So far, they're just inter-administration memos, probably all neatly typed out and with footnotes about what the budget cuts would mean to actual Kansas residents, not just those who wear white shirts to work, but, at this point, they're just in-house documents.

There's a bit of press furor, because this claue of Statehouse denizens, many of whom who can type without looking at their fingers, love those public records, especially those which can be e-mailed and don't require retyping. That's what us reporters do, find out information, figure whether it is anything worth bothering readers with, and then put it out to the public.

But, some of us old-timers recall that we weren't supposed to see our bride in her wedding dress until she walked down the aisle. Not sure why, because most grooms' suits match up well with white or cream-colored wedding dresses, but that was the rule. You see it at the church, and not before.

STATE COMMENTARY

MARTIN HAWVER, At The Rail

Well, the internal machinations by the budget officers of state agencies which are under the control of the governor are a little like that wedding dress. It isn't officially a wedding dress until the wedding. Those agency suggestions for budget cuts are probably more comparable to, say, chatter on a first date.

In Kansas state government, the vows are the budget, and until the governor signs off on it and presents it to the Legislature, well, it's not the official state budget, printed at state expense for all Kansans to pore over.

So this in-house budget proposal information apparently isn't formally a public record that anyone can demand to see if they put together a formal Open Records Act request letter to the governor, and to which the governor says "save your stamp" because he's not going to give it to you anyway.

But that doesn't mean that we don't want someone to slip us those budget proposals. If you happen to have a copy that can't be directly linked to your computer sign-in password, send it.

Bear in mind, though, that those not-yet-public record handoffs of the budget proposals further complicate nearly everything. Such as that internal, behind-closed-doors scrimmaging among state agencies which don't want to lose any budget money.

What if, say, a likely civil service Department of Corrections employee slipped to a reporter a proposal suggesting saving 5 percent by releasing from prison felons who are short—or who are fat and are running up the food budget? Or, if the Department of Transportation wants to safety inspect just bridges over rivers, not just creeks, or test the brakes on just a "representative sample" of school busses? Get the idea? Will that box the governor into a corner and save one agency from cuts?

Now, practically, the governor is going to wait until the estimate of state revenues for the upcoming fiscal year in November and maybe to see just what the new Legislature's political complexion looks like before choosing what to cut and what to not cut.

But, they all get pretty politically complicated, those budget proposals.

Oh, and remember, state workers can just slip them under the door...

Crest routs Chetopa in lopsided 64-14 victory

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

CREST – Chetopa jumped out to an early 8-0 lead, but it was all Crest after that as the Lancers muscled out a 64-14 victory that was cut short due to the mercy rule in 8-man football.

Chetopa's score came on a 52-yard scamper and a successful two-point conversion to yield an 8-0 lead. That would be the last offensive touchdown of the night for Chetopa.

The Lancers started the scoring with a 10-yard run by Nick Peterson and a successful conversion run by Tayvn Springston to tie the game 8-8 and tacked on three more touchdowns before Chetopa was able to answer, the final one a 4-yard fumble return by Hayden Seabolt to put Crest on top 30-8.

The ensuing kickoff was returned for a score by Chetopa to cut the lead to 30-14.

The Lancers scored twice more, all still in the first quarter, to head into the second with a commanding 46-14 advantage.

The pace slowed greatly in the second quarter. The Lancers did score twice more for a 58-14 lead going into intermission.

The end of the game was looming as any 8-man football game in Kansas ends as a result of a 45-point lead or more in the second half.

Well it didn't take long at all. The Lancers scored on a 55-yard kick return to open the second half to take a 50-point lead bringing the game to an end.

Gage Adams led the way on the ground for the Lancers with 10 carries for 153 yards and 3 touchdowns. Nik Peterson ran the ball just 4 times for 62 yards and 2 scores. Peterson also caught one pass for 31 yards and another touchdown.

Springston, playing his first game at quarterback, completed 3 of 6 passes for 2 touchdowns.

Head coach Chuck Mahon was obviously pleased with his teams' play and efforts.

"Besides two mental errors early we played our best game. Tayvn was playing his first game as QB and our whole offense clicked with him under center. Overall it was one of the best team efforts I have seen in my 3 years at Crest as head Coach," Mahon stated.

Defensive stand preserves Bulldog win

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

OSAWATOMIE – Anderson County Bulldogs earned a huge win Friday night with a 14-12 victory over the Osawatomie Trojans.

The Trojans held a slim 6-0 lead at halftime as defenses dominated the game early on. The Bulldogs had two scoring opportunities in the first half but failed twice in the red zone to come up with any points.

AC finally got onto the scoreboard in the second half with a one-yard run from Adam Kropf to knot the score up at 6. Austin Adams caught the two-point conversion attempt to put Anderson County up 8-6.

Oz scored again in the fourth period but couldn't make the extra point happen. The Bulldogs second touchdown came on a late fourth period, one-yard plunge by Kyle Lamb to make it 14-12 in the waning minutes.

The Trojans had one last scoring opportunity getting down inside the 20 late in the fourth quarter. The Bulldog defense was stingy once again, stopping the Trojans on downs to end the game.

The win brought the Anderson County Bulldogs record to 2-2 heading into their homecoming game Friday, September 30th at home against Independence.

Vikings cross country fares well at Pomona

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

POMONA – Central Heights' varsity boys hustled to a third place finish at the West Franklin Cross Country Invitational.

The Vikings boys' team finished with four runners earning medals. Alex Cannady (19:19) finished fourth and Tyler Stevenson (20:20) was the other runner in the top 10 with a ninth place finish.

"It was another hot, humid day on the course. We had some good performances and bringing home 10 medals with 22 runners is a nice accomplishment," head coach Tony Prosser stated when talking about about the high school and junior high teams combined.

"The Pomona Lake course is definitely challenging and came at a good time in the season for us," Prosser added. "We will keep working hard toward the championship meets in order to accomplish some goals we set early in the season."

Lancers volleyball team wins a pair at home

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

CREST – The Crest Lancers hosted Altoona Midway and Chetopa and came away with victories in both games of the triangular.

Crest beat Chetopa the first set 26-24 after trailing 6 points early, 11-17 before rallying. Sophomore Regan Godderz served the last 5 points for the win.

The second set wasn't any easier, but Crest came out victorious again by the final count of 25-20. This time it was Miranda Golden who served the final 5 points of the set and ended the set with 4 aces.

"We had lost to Chetopa in the season opening tournament so this was a great win for us," head coach Abigail Hermreck said.

The second game of the night was a match against Altoona Midway.

It was the final home volleyball game for three seniors, Karlee Hammond, Laurel Godderz and Miranda Golden were all honored before the final set against Altoona.

In the opening set, the Lancers won 25-17. Hammond ran off a streak of 7 straight serves to pave the way to the win.

In the final set, Crest downed Altoona 25-14 to send the seniors out with a win in their final match at home.

Sophomore Camryn Strickler topped Hammonds streak in the first set by serving 9 straight with 4 aces early on in the set. Strickler also closed out the set by scoring the final two points to wrap up the game.

There were many solid performances in the two-game sweep. Golden had 17 kills in the two games and Cassie Bowen chipped in with 13 kills of her own.

Serving was a strength throughout, but especially in the game against Chetopa. Cassie Bowen, Hammond, and Godderz all had 100% serving percentage.

You name it, we print it.

Lady Bulldogs split games at home

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The Bulldogs earned a split on the evening last week in a triangular with a win over Prairie View and a loss to Santa Fe Trail.

Santa Fe Trail Chargers dropped the first set to the Lady Bulldogs 16-25 before rallying to win the next two sets 25-16 and 25-15 to pull out the win.

“We passed poorly against Santa Fe, costing us the match,” Coach Glenn Suderman stated.

AC controlled the opening set 25-14 over Prairie View, and knocked them off 25-18 in the second set.

Katelyn Alley only had 3 errors on 110 sets on the night for a setting rate of 97% and logged 41 assists on the night.

Jasmine White led the Bulldogs with 14 kills, followed by Madison Martin (9), Samantha Nickell (8), Emily Fritz (7) and Alexey Lickteig added 5.

Vikings lose a pair

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COUNCIL GROVE – Poor communication and teamwork by the Central Heights volleyball squad helped the Council Grove Braves to a sweep of the Vikings last week on the road.

The first game was a two set affair that was won 25-21 and 25-22 by the Braves.

In the second game, the Vikings continued to fight hard but again came up short. After winning the first set 25-23, the Braves bounced back and won the second set 25-22 and the decisive third set 25-17.

Head coach Cadi Marcum was disappointed in the play of her girls as a whole.

“We went back to struggling to communicate and work together as a team,” coach Marcum stated. “We also quit owning our area and being aggressive.”

It wasn't a lack of effort by the Vikings, but they often worked so hard to get back into a game that it wore down on them physically and mentally and couldn't overcome the deficit.

“We have to really work on our mental game,” Marcum said. “They would battle back and then not finish. They can do it. They just have to start trusting each other as a team and communicating,” Marcum added.

Kinsey Laird led the team with kills and blocks on the evening. Laird had 7 blocks and 14 kills.

“She came out strong and stayed strong throughout both games. She looked great and played great,” Marcum said.

Shelbi Hettinger led the Vikings with 21 kills and 6 services aces. Seanna Hale had a well-rounded night as well with 10 kills, 9 digs and 5 services aces.

Producers: Carefully consider Commodity Marketing Assistance options

The 2014 Farm Bill reauthorized 2014-2018 crop year Marketing Assistance Loans (MALs) and Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs). MALs and LDPs provide financing and marketing assistance for grain commodities such as wheat, feed grains, soybeans and other oilseeds, pulse crops, rice, peanuts, cotton, wool and honey. The 2014 Farm Bill also included a new payment limitation of $125,000 per individual producer for the total amount of payments received from Loan Deficiency Payments (LDP), Marketing Assistance Loan gains, Price Loss Coverage (PLC) and Agricultural Risk Coverage (ARC) programs. Exempt from the payment limitation are market gains through the new Commodity Certificate Exchange (CCE).

As grain prices continue to drop, producers are being prompted to request marketing assistance daily through LDPs or MALs at county FSA offices across Kansas. However, with these reduced prices also comes the potential for significantly higher 2016 ARC/PLC payment rates, which will be announced and issued for 2016 crops in the fall of 2017. It is very important that producers consider how the new $125,000 payment limitation may affect them when requesting assistance, and carefully weigh the options between LDPs or MALs. To be eligible for either LDP or MAL, producers must retain beneficial interest (title and control) of the grain from the time of planting through the date the producer requests LDP or MAL.

LDPs provide cash payments to producers and rates are determined daily. To request LDP, producers must file FSA Form CCC-633EZ (page 1) with their FSA county office BEFORE losing beneficial interest in the commodity. The LDP rate in effect is determined by the amount the commodity loan rate exceeds the CCC-determined value, which is the lesser of the 30-calendar day Posted County Price (PCP) or the alternative PCP, which is a 5-calendar day rolling average. Both the 30-day and 5-day PCP rates are calculated using a "moving average" over the number of days, using two terminal markets and location differentials for each county. LDP rates are in effect until the next business day, 7:00am EST.

MALs typically provide producers with interim cash flow during times of low market prices and are considered "nonrecourse" because they can be redeemed by delivering the commodity under loan to the government as full payment. The three MAL repayment options are:

- principal plus interest (when market price is above the loan rate)
- repayments based on market price when the market price is below principal plus interest, which results in a Marketing Loan Gain
- Commodity Certificate Exchange, when the PCP is less than the loan rate, which results in a Certificate Exchange

Gain (exempt from the $125,000 payment limitation and AGI rules) Commodity Certificates are available to loan holders having outstanding nonrecourse loans for wheat, soybeans, feed grains, upland cotton, rice, pulse crops (dry peas, lentils, large and small chickpeas), peanuts, wool, and designated minor oilseeds.

These certificates can be purchased at the posted county price (or adjusted world price or national posted price) for the quantity of commodity under loan, and must be immediately exchanged for the collateral, satisfying the loan.

Producers should contact their county offices to take advantage of these marketing assistance tools, or find more information at www.fsa.usda.gov/programs-and-services/price-support/index. Daily Posted County Prices and LDP rates can be checked at www.fsa.usda.gov/programs-and-services/price-support/ldp-rates/index.

ACH Auxiliary members attend state convention

Kansas City Chiefs Hall of Famer Deron Cherry was headline speaker at the Hospital Auxiliaries of Kansas 2016 convention held in Overland Park on September 8-9. He and Crystal Davison, Director, Camp Quality Greater Kansas City, spoke to the more than 180 auxiliaries from across the state about Camp Quality, a camp for children with cancer where they can just be kids for a week.

Cherry, who hosts the Deron Cherry Celebrity Invitational that benefits Camp

Quality and Score 1 for Health, is a long-time supporter of the charity. He is also a member of the NFL Hall of Fame and is a KC Chief Ambassador.

Attending the two-day convention from the Anderson County Hospital Auxiliary were Janice Hodgson, Betty Lybarger, Shari Friesen, Barbara Katzer, Susan Caron, Pam Howarter, Sally Emerson, Kathy Finkenbinder, and Nancy Horn.

Other speakers included Karen Blankenship, a motivational speaker who spoke on "Time Management and the Seasons of Life"; Gene Benefiel, Hospice chaplain who spoke about the benefits of volunteering; David Nasters, a professional comedian, author and filmmaker; and Louis Bourlard, HAK legislative representative.

On Friday morning, the 2017 HAK executive board was installed. Included in the slate of officers are Kathy Finkenbinder, HAK Recording Secretary, and Sally Emerson, HAK District #2 Coordinator.

The art of the freebie

The old business saying that "everybody likes something for free," should be revised to say "everybody likes something for free if they like it."

It comes into play if you're doing free giveaways either as a sales promotion, a public relations campaign or as a sales lead generating method at an exhibitor booth, tradeshow, etc. The general gist is this: Your freebie should speak to your target and whisper something like, 'hey, this is pretty cool - who are these guys!'

After all your freebie has an objective, and that's to help reinforce or establish your brand with prospective customers and eventually generate sales. But note: not all customers are created equally - because they don't all spend the same amount of money. Don't be shy about qualifying your higher value customers and reserving a higher-value, more impacting freebie for them as opposed to the "collectors" who simply grab anything from your counter or your exhibit booth if it's free.

Candy Adams at exhibitonline.com recounts a client who's slogan was "Isn't it time," who had $1 stopwatches as giveaways for the general booth browsers at a tradeshow, but kept $12 gift clocks hidden away for sales leads that she'd chatted with and qualified according to her premium criteria.

Here are some general tips on freebies:

1) Have in mind where your freebie has to end up in order to be effective. Printed pens are a staple, but they can oftentimes be stuck in a desk drawer or tossed, half or fully obscured, in a pencil cup on someone's desk. A notepad, however, often lands on a flat surface in clear view (desk or counter) where it's accessible to scratch down a phone number or message.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

2) Unless you're a rock band or a tattoo parlor, forget "edgy" in your freebies. Your giveaways should reflect your brand, and your brand probably doesn't entail controversy. For most of us that means no printed condoms or t-shirts or boxer shorts with suggestive slogans or messages.

3) It sounds basic, but remember your logo and some type of contact info - web address, email address or phone. You'd be surprised how many don't include them.

And remember, no one is going to spend their time going to your website to fill out a survey for the "chance" to win something. Give them a freebie that's easy to claim, and you might get some participation - but if it's a drawing - forget it.

Gauge your freebies to your brand and your customers, and they can help you sell stuff.

Student enrollment is up in the elementary building. The elementary students will attend the Kincaid Fair on September 23. The eight period day is working out well and the professional development activities held in August were enjoyed by the staff. Mahon thanked the Colony Christian Church for providing the staff lunch and the Colony United Methodist Church for providing cookies and ice cream at the open house. Hedges to receive K-State Legacy Scholarship MANHATTAN - Remington Hedges, of Garnett, and 145 other recipients of the K-State Alumni Association's Legacy Scholarships were recognized during a presentation at the Kansas State University football game in Manhattan on Sept. 17.

The $1,000 scholarships were awarded to 146 children and grandchildren of K-State alumni for the 2016-17 academic year. K-State students receiving the scholarship are incoming freshmen as well as current and transfer students. The recipients include both in-state and out-of-state students.

Applicants are considered if at least one parent or grandparent is a K-State alumnus, with preference given to members of the Alumni Association.

"Alumni across Kansas and the nation have encouraged the university and Association to address tuition issues of legacy students, and this program greatly assists us in those efforts," said Amy Button Renz, president and CEO of the Alumni Association. "The Association's board of directors is committed to helping prospective students attend K-State."

The scholarships are made possible through funds generated by the K-State License Plate program, administered by the Alumni Association for the university.

The state-issued license plates with the purple Powercat logo can be found on the back of more than 7,800 vehicles in Kansas. The program, administered locally in all 105 county treasurer offices, began in 1997, and the tax-deductible royalties paid on K-State License Plates have raised more than $3 million for student scholarships and recognition of achievements.

All God needs is a spiritual response

In his book "In Pursuit of God", A. W. Tozer asks the question, "Why do some persons find God in a way others do not?" As I think about that what does it mean to find God? In order to find something you must search for it. Even more than that you must have a desire for it. Each of us have inward longings and desires. Everyone is searching for something. All of us search for security. We want our families to be safe and secure. We want job security. I know of no one who has found either. All of us want good health and a long life. This is more difficult to find than security. Because of our failure to find either security or lasting health we often pursue some type of pleasure which will ease the frustration we feel from our inability to find security and good health.

So where is the failure or the disconnect? Tozer states, "The difference lies not with God but with us." Now we need to get back to the question what does it mean to find God? Tozer believed the most important quality anyone can have is a spiritual awareness. If we are not aware of God and his desire to reveal himself to us we are disconnected from the greatest source of light and power we could ever possess. Now that being said many people are aware of God but never offer any meaningful spiritual response. Simply put most of us pursue everything ahead of God. In order to take the high road of spiritual living and offer a meaningful spiritual response to God would require us to put God ahead of everything else. Now that puts us on the horns of a dilemma. Do we pursue God or do we pursue our desires? In Psalm 22:18, David said, "When thou saidst, seek ye my face; my heart said unto thee, Thy face, LORD, will I seek."

If you want to find God the next time you feel that inward longing do something about it. Make a spiritual response, say "Thy face, LORD, will I seek."

Brush up on the history of the comb

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roeckers
Call (785) 448-6244 for local archeology information.

At almost every old digging site, I find some type of comb. Even de-lousing combs are often found.

The most primitive comb is thought to be the dried backbone of a fish, which is still used by remote African tribes. And the comb's characteristic design is apparent in the ancient Indo-European source of our word comb, (gombhos), meaning "teeth".

The earliest man-made combs were discovered in 6,000 year old Egyptian tombs, and many are of clever design. Some have single rows of straight teeth, some double rows, and others possess a first row thicker and longer than the second. A standard part of the Egyptian man's and woman's vanity, the instrument served the dual function of combing hair and of pinning a particular style in place.

Archaeologists claim that virtually all early cultures independently developed and made frequent use of combs -- all, that is, except the Britons.

Christian martyrs brought combs with them into the catacombs, where many implements of ivory and metal have been found.

Magic, too, came to surround the comb. In the 1600's, in parts of Europe, it was widely accepted that graying hair could be restored to its original color by frequent strokes with a lead comb. (Never proven to be very effective).

There were no real changes in comb design until 1960, when the first home electric styling comb originated in Switzerland.

Librarians attend training

IOLA - Katy Holloran, Connie Fagg, Sharon Rocker and Claudia Smitheran of Garnett Public Library and Jennifer Gum-Fowler of Kincaid Community Library attended the Southeast Kansas Library System (SEKLS) training entitled, Problem Solving and Communication for the Front Line Professional at Girard Public Library on September 9, 2016.

Tiffany Hentschel, SPHR, SHRM-SCP, presented the day-long workshop. Participants learned to appreciate what customers expect and to understand when to say no politely and effectively as well as how to establish appropriate boundaries with patrons, peers, and supervisors. Through a variety of interactive exercises, active listening and body language techniques were reviewed. More than thirty library staff members from across the southeast Kansas region participated.

1986: Froggers find bags of marijuana

September 26, 2006

Plans by a local woman which would have built an open air pavilion on the site formerly slated for USD 365's alternative school have been dropped due to a lack of core support. The woman said she wanted to turn the negative from the polarizing alternative school issue into a positive, but she was discontinuing her effort because she didn't see support coming together in the way she hoped.

Charlie Brown's Market is a legend of sorts to folks around southern Anderson County, but most people don't know the family history that lies within the doors of the small business in Mildred. In 1931, Scott Brown, Charlie's dad, and his brother started a hardware store in the current market building. Mildred was booming in those days with some 2,000 people due to a cement plant located nearby. After a tour of duty in World War II, Charlie, his wife Lucille and their one-year-old daughter Patricia moved back to Kansas in 1946. Charlie's dad asked him to help work on the roof of the market, and the rest is history.

The price of justice went up in Anderson County recently, as jurors selected to hear local cases in district court will get a big pay raise. Jurors will be paid no less than $10 per day nor more than $50 as determined by the county commission, along with mileage.

than the metal and paint that comprise them. The weekend event includes a classic car show sponsored by the Lake Garnett Cruisers, and an aircraft static display, plane rides and another activities that will highlight an exhibition by the Confederate Air Force at Garnett's Municipal Airport. The airplane displays will focus generally on the World War II era aircraft.

The Anderson County Hospital Board of Trustees directed board attorney to pursue a language clarification in a contract for ambulance services with the county, nearly a month after an original deadline to finalize the contract passed.

Three bags of marijuana were found Thursday night by two men frog hunting under a bridge on the Welda-Westphalia road. The men found three garbage bags full of stems, leaves and a few flowers and buds. The leaves, flowers and buds had been cut away from the stems. The bud is the main part of the plant that growers want. It was estimated the bags contained one or two large plants and possibly six smaller plants. The marijuana had been in the bags for some time, as it was wet and moldy.
