GARNETT - Two law enforcement officers and a private citizen were recognized by city officials last week for their heroic efforts to save a young child from a house fire that killed the boy's mother and stepfather in September.

At the regular meeting of the Garnett City Commission Tuesday, Oct. 25, Fire Chief Pat Tate recognized Garnett Police Sgt. Mike Carpenter and Anderson County Sheriff's Deputy Frank Gregg for their action at the fire in the 700 block of East Fourth Avenue Sept. 13. The officers were the first on the scene after the fire was reported. Tate also recognized Brandon Hopkins, a neighbor and friend of the family, who insisted the boy was still in the house and needed to be rescued. Hopkins broke out windows on the north side of the house and called for the boy. The law enforcement officers pulled the family's dog through one of the windows, and then pulled out the boy.

Tate recognized the three for their "bravery, courage and heroism" in a tragic situation that killed two people but saved the life of a young boy.

Regarding Hopkins, Tate handed him a plaque and said, "You placed yourself in a dangerous situation that night. Most people would not have done that."

Tate presented plaques to the law enforcement officers, and told each of them, "In a tragic situation, you acted very calmly and professionally. Thank you for your dedication to your community."

The boy's grandfather, Keith Raddatz, also spoke at Tuesday's meeting about the outpouring of support his family received. In addition to Corbin Raddatz, the young boy who was pulled from the window, two other boys - Cean Kish, 14, and Dante McCaster, 8 - were able to escape the fire. The fire killed their mother, Erica Raddatz. Her husband, Kevin Slover, escaped the

Hunt begins for new city manager

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Garnett business owners, residents and city employees should have a say in what kind of qualities they want in the next city manager, city leaders said last week.

City commissioners weighed proposals from two firms to help them find a new city manager upon the retirement of Joyce Martin, expected early next year. Martin told commissioners she plans to officially submit a letter later this month regarding her retirement. Martin said previously she wanted to wait to retire until after the first of the year, or in early 2017.

The next city manager likely will be the first person outside the City of Garnett family to helm the post since at least 1978. That's when Rick Doran, who at the time had worked as city clerk for eight years, took over as city manager. When Doran retired in 2007, Martin was promoted. She has worked for the city since 1967, most of that time as city clerk. City commissioners said last week it doesn't appear as if anyone currently working for the city

GREELEY - Law enforcement officials are waiting for an autopsy and final toxicology report to help determine what factors may have led to a fatal motorcycle wreck near Greeley Oct. 14.

Matthew Eugene Frey, 50, of Greeley, died at a Kansas

City-area hospital after what appeared to be a motorcycle wreck at 2150 and Utah roads, a few miles south of Greeley, according to a report from the Anderson County Sheriff's Department. The time of the accident wasn't known, but it was reported at 9:27 p.m. Oct. 14. Frey was disoriented and injured, and taken by friends from the scene to his home, Sheriff Vernon Valentine said. He refused to cooperate or talk with law enforcement officers who arrived to investigate.

A crowd watches as Union Pacific's 'Living Legend' No. 844 steam locomotive passes through Garnett at about 4 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 27, near the crossing with the Prairie Spirit Rail Trail, above, and rounds a corner past the trail, at right. The train travelled more than 1,200 miles one-way to celebrate the Oct. 22 opening of Big River Crossing in Memphis, Tennessee. The train traversed Union Pacific's main line through Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee beginning Oct. 13 and ending Oct. 31. The trek was the first multi-state venture since the locomotive's three-year restoration.

County's unemployment rate better than state, local area

Anderson County posts
lower jobless rate over year
compared to area counties

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA - Unemployment fell in Anderson and surrounding counties in October, but Anderson was the only one of those counties to also post lower jobless rates than a year ago.

About 171 job seekers were without jobs in Anderson County in October out of a labor force of 4,200 for a rate of 4.1 percent. That's half a percentage point lower than September's rate, which was 4.6 percent, and even lower than a year ago, when the county's rate was 4.8 percent.

All surrounding counties posted lower rates in October compared to September, but their rates all were higher than last year, according to statistics released Oct. 21 by the Kansas Department of Labor. The report doesn't provide regional analysis, but its report on statewide employment shows the state as a whole saw increased joblessness. That means Anderson County's employment rates are better than the state and local area, although it isn't clear exactly what may have contributed to those factors.

The state's September seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 4.4 percent. This was up from 4.3 percent in August and up from 4.0 percent in September 2015.

"In September there was an uptick in the unemployment rate for both Kansas and the U.S.," said Emilie Doerksen, Labor Economist, Kansas Department of Labor. "In Kansas this was mainly due to an increase in the number of unemployed along with a slight decrease in the number of employed."

The preliminary seasonally adjusted job estimates from the Kansas Department of Labor and Bureau of Labor Statistics indicate Kansas nonfarm jobs decreased by 600 from August. Since last month, Kansas private sector jobs decreased by 2,100. The largest private sector over the month job decrease was in Professional and Business Services.

Over the year, Kansas lost 5,900 seasonally adjusted total nonfarm jobs. Kansas lost 6,300 private sector jobs since September 2015.

Unemployment information for surrounding counties follows:

- Allen County, 5.5 percent in October, 6.9 percent in September, 4.7 percent in October 2015.
- Coffey County, 6.6 percent in October, 8.2 percent in September, 5.7 percent in October 2015.
- Franklin County, 4.3 percent in October, 4.8 percent in September, 4.1 percent in October 2015.
- Linn County, 6.5 percent in October, 7.0 percent in September, 5.6 percent in October 2015.
- Miami County, 3.9 percent in October, 4.3 percent in September, 3.7 percent in October 2015.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 5008

A PROPOSITION to amend the bill of rights of the constitution of the state of Kansas by adding a new section thereto, relating to the public right to hunt, fish and trap wildlife.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Kansas, two-thirds of the members elected (or appointed) and qualified to the House of Representatives and two-thirds of the members elected (or appointed) and qualified to the Senate concurring therein:

Section 1. The following proposition to amend the constitution of the state of Kansas shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the state for their approval or rejection: The bill of rights of the constitution of the state of Kansas is hereby amended by adding a new section to read as follows:

"§ 21. Right of public to hunt, fish and trap wildlife. The people have the right to hunt, fish and trap, including by the use of traditional methods, subject to reasonable laws and regulations that promote wildlife conservation and management and that preserve the future of hunting and fishing. Public hunting and fishing shall be a preferred means of managing and controlling wildlife. This section shall not be construed to modify any provision of law relating to trespass, property rights or water resources."

Section 2. The following statement shall be printed on the ballot with the amendment as a whole:

"Explanatory statement. This amendment is to preserve constitutionally the right of the public to hunt, fish and trap wildlife subject to reasonable laws and regulations. The right of the public to hunt, fish and trap shall not modify any provision of common law or statutes relating to trespass, eminent domain or any other private property rights."

"A vote for this proposition would constitutionally preserve the right of the public to hunt, fish and trap wildlife that has traditionally been taken by hunters, trappers and anglers. This public right is subject to state laws and rules and regulations regarding the management of wildlife and does not change or diminish common law or statutory rights relating to trespass, eminent domain or private property."

"A vote against this proposition would provide for no constitutional right of the public to hunt, fish and trap wildlife. It would maintain existing state laws and rules and regulations governing hunting, fishing and trapping wildlife."

Norman built 38 houses in Atwood and did countless remodels. All of their sons, and their son-in-law did construction and Bonna Lea and their daughter did bookkeeping for the family business throughout the years.

After he retired in 2008, Norman enjoyed visiting his son's job sites, within driving distance, and checking in on the progress. His hobby was carpentry, he not only did carpentry for a living, but he truly enjoyed it. He also was very proud of his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. He often stated; "I've had a wonderful life." He was known for his work ethic which he passed down to future generations and for being a great role model.

It's important the city hire someone who will be a good fit with the community, Commissioner Jody Cole said. City employees could find it difficult to adjust to an outsider, especially after having just two city managers in nearly 40 years.

"Our community and employees really have to embrace this person," Cole said.

Martin agreed some employees already have expressed concern about how a new manager could impact their jobs. For a few years before Doran was hired as city manager, she said, the city had somewhat of a revolving door of managers. She said she hopes her successor is able to become a longtime part of the community.

Commissioners recently heard presentations from two headhunting firms. The deciding factor appeared to be the firms' willingness to conduct a survey of the community. One firm, with the Kansas League of Municipalities, was willing to conduct a survey of businesses and city employees. The other, "City Code" of Derby, is owned by Don Osenbaugh, who said the city would need to hire a separate firm to conduct a survey. The League would charge the city $3,785 to handle the search, plus other expenses as needed, like mileage. City Code would cost $5,000 plus other expenses. The League estimated a new city manager could start as early as February; City Code put the timeline a little later, perhaps as late as May.

Commissioner Cole argued in favor of the League primarily because of its ability to survey the community's needs and wants regarding the next city manager.

But Mayor Greg Gwin hesitated, citing a poor experience with the League when it helped the city conduct its last search for a city manager in 2007, when Martin ultimately was hired. Some of the candidates the League submitted later were found to have issues that came up during background checks, and commissioners felt the League should have screened them better. Cole said she checked into the League's team, and none of the current members were part of that search.

Commissioner Gordon Blackie appeared divided between the two firms. He and Gwin said they felt Osenbaugh might offer a more thorough approach and he seemed to have a good understanding of the qualities they wanted in the next city manager.

Ultimately, though, both Blackie and Gwin were swayed by Cole. They agreed to ask City Attorney Terry Solander to review the League's contract and report to them at a special meeting tonight. If no problems are found, it's likely the commission will ask the League to start searching for a new city manager.

Although Martin didn't say when she planned to set her retirement date, she said she was willing to stay with the city on a month-to-month basis if the search took longer than expected. If the search wraps up more quickly, she said, she was willing to work with the city regarding the timeline.

Martin's pending retirement set off fireworks in August when commissioners attempted to oust her just weeks after her 70th birthday, based on a city policy that says any employee who turns 70 must retire. Although Martin had cited the policy to encourage other employees to retire at age 70, she argued the policy amounted to age discrimination and commissioners changed it. She also said the city manager was exempt from employee policies, and commissioners said they wanted to change that policy as well.

house with serious burns but later died at a Kansas City-area hospital.

The fire occurred on Corbin Raddatz's birthday.

The fire was reported a little after 1 a.m. It was difficult for fire and law enforcement officials to determine some details surrounding the fire, and officials say it's unlikely the cause will ever be known. The fire appears to have started somewhere near a carport on the west side of the home and spread throughout the house. The fire did not appear to be suspicious, Tate said.

Sgt. Carpenter's police body camera recorded the incident, which Tate said allowed him to learn vital details about the incident. At last week's meeting, Tate thanked city leaders for their investment in fire-fighting equipment and police equipment like the body cameras.

Keith Raddatz said he and his family were "awestruck" at the support they have received from businesses, organizations and individuals since the fire.

"The shock and pain has diminished somewhat but the enormous outpouring of Love and care we've experienced will stand as a testament as long as I live to a small town in Kansas with a great big heart," he said. The full text of his remarks are printed as a "letter to the editor" on page 4A.

Dump the judges, take back our schools

The paradox is unavoidable with Kansas liberals and moderates who support retaining the Kansas Supreme Court in next week's election, but who also clamor about their supposed support for public education in Kansas.

The first fact of course is that Kansas now spends more money on public education than at any time since statehood. Projected funding increases have been reduced, but net dollars spent are still higher than ever. When you consider that the University of Kansas pays for an "Office of First Year Experience" for the hand-holding for incoming freshmen, there's a good argument that perhaps the funding level is too high. But that's a separate argument.

The irony of course is that those who support the state's supreme court but who also crow that they're education supporters forget that little week-long stint last summer when the Kansas Supreme Court threatened to prevent the state's schools from re-opening.

The majority of the court, whose liberal opinions on abortion and whose over-ruling of lower-court criminal death sentences have made it a target of conservative activists, decided last summer that it had the Constitutional authority to close Kansas schools.

Never mind that the Kansas Constitution fails to enumerate that power to the Court - in fact it specifically defines responsibilities of funding and management of education to the state legislature and the Kansas Board of Education, as well as your local school district.

So the concept lands with a puzzling thud - on one hand, noble education supporters don't want that mean old Darth Brownback given the chance to appoint state supreme court judges because they don't want the court to lean conservative, yet it was this very court they champion which tried to shut down Kansas schools.

Keep in mind, these are schools which have been built by our property tax dollars. Our local school boards, elected by us, hire the superintendent and teachers and janitors and bus drivers whom we patrons provide money to pay. Funds for education, debatable though they may be, had already been raised and readied for distribution to Kansas' schools. Courses were set, student schedules pre-registered, light bulbs in the hallways changed - everything ready to proceed as the Kansas Constitution sets forth - yet the Kansas Supreme Court threatened to pull the plug because it wasn't satisfied with the resolution of a technicality in the law.

What?

It was more than a court brandishing its sword over the students and patrons of the state's school districts - it was a straight out dereliction of its own duty to resolve legal issues. It was a lazy, bully's way out. It was like telling the state's drivers they couldn't use the highways we already built and paid for.

The Legislature should have taken the court's challenge to play chicken, but the mostly Republican incumbents facing re-election couldn't afford the lop-sided, court-supporting publicity. As it is now, the precedent is confirmed that the state supreme court runs education in Kansas; not the legislature, not you and I, not our elected school boards.

In the next week as Kansans hear and see the radio and TV commercials, newspaper ads, mailers and yard signs urging us to non-retain those judges, we should keep in mind that we were given the legal right of non-retention for a reason. We have this right as a failsafe in case things ever went so far askew with courts that we questioned the system and their role in it.

Unfortunately, that time has come.

I feel like I need to make an apology. I am a taxpayer. I also did not necessarily want a new hospital put in. But as I go around to the other cities I see how their hospitals work, and then I think of how hard the people that work at Anderson County Hospital work, the jobs they do and the time away from their families... (indiscernible audio) I'm going to support the Anderson County Hospital and say positive things about it.

(Editor's note: Please speak clearly and slowly when recording your calls to the Phone Forum. Do not use objects or materials to cover the phone as you record. If you feel you must disguise your voice, please use an online voice-to-text application that provides clear playback).

Reading the paper about the group targets the zoning laws; who the hell does Mike Burns and his group think they are to dictate what goes on in this county because they don't like it? That is giving somebody too much power. I would hope the county commissioners have a little more common sense instead of letting a group of morons tell them what they can and can't do. This is not right. These guys think they're so powerful with their money, they should not be able to force what they want on us. This is bullcrap. They need to be stopped and they need to be stopped now.

With the abortion situation and Hillary Clinton and the judges and all the lies she's told, I don't see how anybody can run for office as a Democrat this year. Don't think I've ever seen a better election to vote straight ticket Republican. Thank you.

Oh my God, what is wrong with you? From 2000-2014 one billion votes were cast in the United States, 31 were found fraudulent. So what are you talking about? You're talking about some idiot video. You're just making stuff up, you're worse than Trump himself. Get a life. The FBI didn't do anything to Hillary. The Republicans spent 35 years and 500 million dollars trying to convict her of something- didn't work. You need to get over yourselves, she didn't do anything. Trump is a racist, a bigot, a hate monger and a huge liar. Anyone who supports him, well, that says a lot about you. Your crap in the paper about Democrats going to cheat - you're just way off. How disappointing. I don't even know how you can say that. I will not waste my money on your paper anymore.

Whoever wins the election gets to appoint the next judges to the Supreme Court. If Hillary wins, she will take your guns. She says she will, but do you believe her?

Hillary is for late term abortions. If they cut the baby up, yes, cut it up, before it's born even in the 9th month, it's okay because it's not a human being. It doesn't have any feelings. But if they wait until it's actually delivered, that would be murder. Yes, Hillary is definitely for protecting the children.

To the person who keeps blowing off about how wonderful Hillary is, I understand why you want to blow off every week. It's because you have no friends and they don't want to listen to you, so you call the Phone Forum hoping the people will read your idiotic insults. Well guess what? We don't want to hear you either because you don't know what you're talking about. So why don't you just go out into the timber and yell, because the animals don't care and we don't care either. Have a wonderful day.

In response to the guy who said our city manager had the same smile as Hillary, there's a lot of us who love Hillary's smile and love our city manager. You idiot.

If a windmill development is going to be built, it creates more taxes, employment and rental income. An election from all residents of Anderson County needs to be held to determine majority of voter rights.

Family of fire victims says thanks for support

This is a short message of thanks to the many organizations and people who have so graciously helped us through these trying times. In this world, unfortunate things will happen to everyone, but we are awestruck and overwhelmed by the gifts, assistance and support given so freely by so many.

I can't name everyone, there's too many, but I couldn't sleep if I didn't list a few. Along with the heroic efforts of those that helped the night of the fire, I want to thank the Zook Brothers for demolishing the house and repairing the lot at no cost to us. Thank you, as there was no insurance. The children received shoes from Front Row Sports and Good Deals Market. Clothing and/or funds from the United Methodist Church, Anderson County Jr./Sr High School, Head Start, Boy Scout Troop #126, the Kansas Masonic Society, Garnett Elementary School, SEKA, and literally dozens of wonderful people who gave what they could in sympathy and resources.

The shock and pain has diminished somewhat but the enormous outpouring of love and care we've experienced will stand as a testament as long as I live to a small town in Kansas with a great big heart. Thank you!

The good city manager Joyce Martin has given me permission to donate two apple trees to North Park in April - a living memorial to Erica and Kevin.

Thank you Garnett!

Trump is his own worst enemy

Hillary Clinton may be the first candidate in American history to win a contest of personalities without having one.

She has been content to make the election all about Donald Trump's character, and Trump has obliged because, really, what else would he consider as fascinating and important as himself?

In a more normal year, Obamacare would be a byword for the failures of liberal technocrat rule. Insurers have been exiting the exchanges, and many of those that are staying are hiking premiums by 20 percent or more. Even a Democratic governor, Mark Dayton of Minnesota, has said that Obamacare is "no longer affordable to increasing numbers of people."

In a more conventional election, President Barack Obama's foreign policy would be under relentless assault. The Russian reset is in flames. Syria is Obama's Rwanda. Iran, with its nuclear program intact, is making a bid for regional hegemony. ISIS established its caliphate in the space created by Obama's passivity.

In any other campaign, the economy would be front and center, and the slowest recovery in the post-World War II period a constant flashpoint.

Instead, none of these issues have had the resonance of Donald Trump's early-hours

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

Twitter war with a former Miss Universe, or even his aside in the third debate that Hillary Clinton is a "nasty woman." And these have been third-tier controversies, compared with the ones that have truly rocked the campaign, like Trump's post-convention fight with the Khan family and the airing of the "Access Hollywood" tape.

It's not as though Trump doesn't talk about the issues. But nothing besides his core of immigration and trade has the force to escape the extreme gravitational pull of his persona, which is outsized, compelling and -- in a presidential campaign -- ripe for deconstruction.

If Trump is defeated in November, he will lose, more than anything else, on the basis of his character flaws. His lack of discipline. His thin skin. His boastfulness. His refusal to admit error, even when it's in his interest. His inability to project seriousness or to hit a grace note. The Clinton campaign has exploited them all, and Trump, ever himself, has lacked the self-awareness or wherewithal to keep from playing to type every single time.

The so-called beer test is the usual personality metric in presidential politics. Which candidate would you prefer to share a cold one with? Hillary's campaign has worked instead to make the personality benchmark the "nuclear code" test. Which candidate would you prefer to have his or her finger on the button? It is meant to portray Trump's outrageousness as affirmatively dangerous, and cast her own persona -- which belongs in the same leaden category as Al Gore or Michael Dukakis -- in the best possible light.

In the primaries, Trump displayed an uncanny ability to understand and target the vulnerabilities of his opponents. But he either never understood, or didn't care to minimize, his own. This is why he chose to make the election about the single hardest thing for him to defend effectively, namely Donald J. Trump.

Do you want to hang out with 'that crowd'?

Remember when mom told you she didn't want you hanging out with "that crowd"?

When you were growing up, "that crowd" might have been the guys with tattoos, or car without mufflers, or for girls it was "that crowd" that wore their skirts too short or wore mascara to junior high school.

Well, we're in the final week of campaigning for Kansas House and Senate seats and your mailbox is going to be filled with flyers either for or against your local candidates.

Now, of course, if you live down the street from a candidate, you can literally toss out the campaign mailers. You know whether he/she keeps the yard mowed or has obnoxious yard art.

And you know based on seeing the candidate around town and maybe from talking to him/her about taxes or schools or the off-ramp into your town.

Those personal relationships, or maybe just seeing them at the parade or city festival, are the most solid bases on which to cast your vote. But many Kansans couldn't pick their local senator or representative--and much less a new candidate--out of a group photo of the local Rotary.

So, it is probably time to bring out the reading glasses to see the tiny type at the bottom of those flyers in your mailbox or stuffed in the screen door or which wind up in your e-mail.

Very practically, if that flyer says it was sponsored by the candidate, and his/her campaign treasurer, you know it is the candidate and PR consultants painting the rosier possible picture of the candidate. That's direct selling, and you can easily sort out the candidates by what they say about themselves. If they are for issues that you aren't, well, that makes things pretty simple, doesn't it?

STATE COMMENTARY

But it gets different when the flyer or advertisement is sponsored by someone else.

Now, we can figure out that if the Kansas Rifle Association supports a candidate, that candidate is likely going to be OK with the right to have guns. But even 2nd Amendment folks probably need to make a phone call to the candidate or the KRA to see just where guns are OK. Should criminals be able to carry guns? College freshmen carry them to class which is likely after next July 1, or are there little provisions that are important to you?

That might mean a little more investigation if it turns out that your district's candidates get a gun lobby endorsement.

And everyone's for good schools, but it is probably worth a call to that political action committee that talks about schools to see just what it is that is encouraging a legislator to do. Raise taxes, or at least divert money from something else in state government to school districts? Encourage proliferation of private schools by letting students take the money that the state spends on their education to a private school?

Just examples, but "that crowd" becomes something that will take some extra work if you want a legislator to take issues where you want them, regardless of the catchy and friendly name of the group supporting the candidate.

So, in the last week of the campaign, while candidates are making their final round of door-knocking and campaigning anywhere they can find a crowd, voters probably ought to be spending some time doing research on what an endorsement really means--to what you want your legislator to be voting for or against, or amending this way or that.

With the national campaigns pulling the oxygen out of the room this year, the energy level for electing legislators who deal most closely with you and your district and your home is ebbing. So, you might want to double-check what crowd you're hanging with.

1986: Courthouse gets first district court computer

Nov. 7, 2006

Chilly fall temperatures in early November bring the acceleration of the deer breeding season in eastern Kansas, and with it the increased potential for traffic accidents as "rutting" deer become more active along area highways and rural roads.

The Delphian Chapter of the Eastern Star is no more, victim of modern lifestyles and the continuing decline of many traditional social and service organizations in small towns. The 100-year-old Delphian Chapter consolidated with the Eastern Star Chapter in Paola.

Members and officers of the Anderson County Chapter of the American Red Cross plan to vote Jan. 27, 1997, as to whether the local organization will retain its charter in view of increasing administrative costs and decreasing interest among county volunteers. There are three issues that need to be resolved. The first is the possible consolidation of the chapter with the Coffey County chapter; the second a restaffing of the local board to fill key positions and preserve the local entity; and third the chapter's approach to administrative costs which have dramatically increased over the past year.

Fall Fling takes place at old Kaw Mission

On October 23rd I returned home after attending the 2016 KAA three day annual Fall Fling. This year we returned to Council Grove, Ks, where our project was held on the grounds of the old Kaw Mission.

Before I write about my three day adventure, I would like to share a little history about the Kaw Mission.

The Kaw Mission is a historic church mission in Council Grove that was home, school and church to 30 plus Kaw boys from 1851-1854.

The native stone building standing yet today, has two stories, eight rooms and it accommodated student boarders along with teachers, missionaries and farmers. School began in May 1851 under the direction of Thomas Sears Huffaker, a 24-year old teacher who had served at the Shawnee Manual Labor School near present-day Kansas City. Students received instruction in spelling, reading, writing, and arithmetic. The boys learned the principles of agriculture, but they received no instruction in the trades.

Classes continued until 1854, when the schools excessive fee-

-$50 a student -led to its closure. The Kaw people considered the mission's purpose degrading and sent only those boys who were orphans or dependents of the tribe. Girls were not allowed to attend the mission.

A subsequent change in 1859 further reduced the Kaw land to a 9 by 14 mile tract. The Kaw lands were relinquished in the 1870's, and the tribe moved to reservation in present day Oklahoma.

In 1951, the Kansas legislature authorized the purchase of the mission property. The Kansas Historical Society administers the mission yet today.

Next week I will share my Fall Fling adventures.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 11-1-2016 / Kevin Gaines

Crest's Tavyn Springston sizes up the opposing team while preparing for a play during a football game against Pleasanton Thursday, Oct. 27. Crest lost the game 58-12 and the loss dropped their record to 4-5 for the year.

Pleasanton steamrolls Crest in finale

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - The Crest Lancers season came to an abrupt end with a 58-12 setback at the hands of Pleasanton last Thursday on their home turf.

The Lancers got off to a promising start on the first play from scrimmage as Caleb Stephens broke off a 34 yard run, but for Crest it seemed very little else went right. Stephens carried the ball 8 more times for just 15 yards. Nik Peterson led the way for Crest with 67 yards on 23 carries.

Quarterback Tavyn Springston only connected on one pass on the evening, but it resulted in a 40 yard touchdown to Stephens.

Defensively the Lancers were led by Austin Louk and Hayden Seabolt. Seabolt led the way with 10 tackles followed closely by Louk with 9 tackles and 2 sacks.

Head coach Chuck Mahon said that the same problems that plagued his team all year were once again an issue Thursday night.

"We did not come out ready to play and Pleasanton did. Hats off to the Pleasanton players and coaches as they played a very good game with great energy. The mistakes we made are the same we made all year. Although we only had 2 turnovers, for the season the turnover margin was -14. You can't expect to win a lot of games when you turn the ball over 3 times per game," Mahon stated.

Despite the large halftime deficit, Mahon was happy with the effort his players showed.

"We did come out and play hard the second half and were able to have two good drives, but we dug a hole early that we couldn't get out of. It was a frustrating end to a frustrating season, but I wouldn't trade my kids for any other ones," Mahon added.

The loss dropped the Lancers to 4-5 on the season, which included a 2-3 record in district play.

Season leaders included quarterback Springston who completed 19-41 passes for 306 yards, 5 touchdowns and 4 interceptions.

On the ground, Nik Peterson led the way with 78 carries for 488 yards and scored 10 touchdowns. Stephens added 63 carries for 221 yards and 2 scores.

Defensively John Hartman led the way with 55 tackles, Seabolt had 52 tackles, Louk had 4 and Peterson 41. Springston had 4 interceptions in the defensive backfield.

Eagles dominate Vikings

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND - It wasn't a great way to go out for the Central Heights Viking (1-8) seniors as they were defeated on the gridiron 44-12 by the Wellsville Eagles (8-1).

The final score wasn't indicative of the domination by Wellsville as they raced out to a 29-0 lead after the first quarter and stretched that out to 44-0 at intermission. The Eagles are considered one of the top teams in the 3A so it was a tough way for the season to come to an end.

Junior Devon Weber scored two second half touchdowns for the Vikings. Weber ended up with 193 yards rushing on just 18 carries.

The Eagles ran over the Viking defense to the tune of 282 yards rushing on 37 carries for an average of nearly 8 yards per carry for the game.

Bulldogs' disappointing season ends

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

BURLINGTON - The Anderson County Bulldogs (2-7) continued their skid in a 52-13 loss against the Burlington Wildcats (5-4) on the road last Thursday night.

The Wildcats steadily buried the Bulldogs. They scored two touchdowns in each of the first three quarters to take a 44-7 lead heading into the final quarter.

Following a promising 2-2 start, the Bulldogs losing streak was extended to 5 games with the defeat. All 5 of those losses were by 30 points or more.

The young defense, once again, struggled to stop the opposition's rushing attack. The Wildcats only attempted 3 passes on the night, but controlled the game on the ground with 29 carries for 355 yards which was good for over 12 yards per attempt.

GHS Class of 1961 has 55th anniversary reunion

Twenty-one members of the Garnett High School Class of 1961 attended our 55th reunion during the weekend of Oct. 8-9. There were many spouses present, as well, and a good time seemed to be had by all.

"We had a great weekend," attendee JoAnn Platt said. "We chose the weekend of the Lake Garnett Grand Prix Revival, as we remembered the original car races which were held while we were still in GHS. Quite a few folks gathered out at the Lake Garnett that afternoon and reminisced about the "good old days". In the evening, class members and spouses enjoyed a delicious meal prepared for us by Mr. D's Restaurant. After visiting and remembering class members who have passed on, we gathered at the Kirk House for an additional time to visit and share memories.

"On Monday morning we gathered at the Kirk House again for homemade cinnamon rolls and muffins and coffee, then convoyed out to Mineral Point to explore that site and visit the Tipton Stagecoach House (1857). En route we stopped and observed Richard and Darlena Lutz's son, Darren, and daughter-in-law, Michelle's bird farm, then proceeded on enjoying the Fall country views. David and Irma Hirt were wonderful hosts for the delicious dinner which had been prepared for us. They then conducted a tour of the house, and lastly, gave us a "covered wagon" tour of the farmstead and land—pointing out where the stones were likely quarried for the house. This 3-story rock home is high on a hill in Anderson County, overlooking a vast countryside. The wonderfully restored home was formerly a stagecoach stop, a general store, an inn, a residence, and housed a post office. Now the lower level houses a nice little museum with many artifacts of earlier days. It was perfect weather and we enjoyed the experience very much."

Look ahead, not back

Proponents of organic, labor-intensive farming contend we should go back to the days when every family owned 40 acres, farmed with hay burners (horses) and applied no chemicals.

You remember the good ole' days when people were self-sufficient, owned a couple milk cows, tilled a garden and butchered 40 or 50 fryers each spring.

Some of these zealots propose each nation should also strive for self-sufficiency. No imports. No exports.

Should such events occur, you may want to prepare yourself for milking each morning instead of that piping hot mug of coffee. Forget about sliced bananas on your bowl of corn flakes. These goodies we import into this country, and a lot more, won't be on the kitchen table any more. Count on it.

God forbid we adopt these policies. If we cave in to those who spread hysteria about unsafe food and giant farms, be prepared to do without the services of all the non-agricultural types. This includes carpenters, painters, nurses, doctors, teachers, writers, musicians, etc. In case you haven't heard, labor-intensive farming doesn't permit time for many other pursuits. Neither does production agriculture.

Farmers run non-stop, from early morning to late at night, planting and harvesting crops, tilling the soil, feeding and caring for livestock. Their work seldom ends. It's foolish to assume everyone would want to leave his or her jobs in the city to move to the farm. It ain't all "Green Acres" out there folks.

INSIGHT

JOHN SCHLAGECK, Kansas Farm Bureau

And who's to say all these people from other professions would become productive farmers?

A city friend remarked to me that he does not want to be a farmer. He contends he couldn't feed himself, much less the rest of the country or world.

"I'd starve to death and so would the rest of us," he told me. "If you want to till the soil, go for it. But that doesn't mean the rest of us want to, thank you."

If we return to a system where everyone farms, brace yourself for even more uncertain economic times. Manual labor and animal power could spell the return of food shortages and famine. A nation of farmers translates to a nation even more vulnerable to depressions and hunger. A drought, plague of insects or disease could trigger such tragedies because we'd have no chemicals to fight them with.

Today's mechanized farmer provides us with the safest, most abundant food in the world. He works closely with crop consultants when applying herbicides, insecticides and fertilizers. He has cut his uses significantly in recent years -- up to 50 percent in some cases.

Farmers work years to leave a legacy of beneficial soil practices. Most of the farmers I know would give up farming rather than ruin their land. They are proud of the crops they grow and the land they work.

Farmers continue to work to conserve water, plug abandoned wells, watch their grassland grazing and continue to adopt sound techniques that will ensure preservation of the land. Urban residents should also look at new ways to protect the environment where they live.

There's an old saying that rings true today: "Don't look back."

Yes, we can never return to the good ole' days. Besides, were they really all that good?

Don't forget to report grass and planted wheat acres

Area farmers and ranchers should remember that filing an accurate acreage report for all crops and land uses will prevent the loss of benefits for a variety of Farm Service Agency (FSA) programs. A complete crop report is needed in order for you to remain eligible for the Price Loss Coverage (PLC) program or the Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) program payments. A complete crop report is also required if you wish to request a Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP) on a crop that is grown on that farm.

Please note all grass, red clover, or alfalfa that you intend to hay or graze in 2017 must be reported by November 15, 2016. All small grains such as wheat or rye that is planted this fall for 2017 harvest or grazing must be reported by December 15, 2016.

There is a new option to sign a continuous grass certification. Once this is signed producers do not need to report the perennial grass acres annually as long as the interest, crop, and intended use remains the same. Prior to taking the continuous grass certification, we must delineate your pasture fence lines. This is something that has not been required in the past, however if you want to take advantage of the option to sign the continuous certification on perennial grasses, we must ensure the maps accurately reflect the areas that are hayed and/or grazed.

Some of you have reviewed your maps but others have not. If you want to remain eligible for FSA benefits and to avoid paying a late-filed penalty, it is very important for you to ensure your grass acres are reported prior to November 15, 2016. We will continue to reach out to those that have reported in the past to encourage them to stop by the office to review maps prior to reporting.

If you are in town and have a few minutes before November 15th, please stop by the office to review your pasture maps and ensure your grass gets timely reported for 2017.

Princeton 4-H club elects officers

The monthly meeting of the Princeton Goal Busters 4-H club was called to order on October 10th by Megan Davis. We began our meeting by asking each member to give a short talk about one of their projects. We had nineteen participants.

Karlie Stinebaugh led our flag salute and Braxton Guyett and Laiken Brockus led us in singing Happy Birthday. Roll call was answered by "your favorite super hero". We were very excited to see 8 new members present.

Kamryn Stinebaugh read the secretary minutes and they were approved as read.

During the community service report we decided to have our November 14th meeting at Vintage Park in Ottawa at 6:30 pm. We also decided to go to the Richmond Nursing Home on October 22nd at 9:30 to play bingo.

During the leaders' report we congratulated all members who turned in record books. Our club had 15 books turned in. 4-H re-enrollment began on October 1st and ends on December 1st. Achievement night is on October 29th at 7 p.m. at the Wellsville High School. Our club officer training will be held on November 4th at 6:00 p.m.

Hey, that smells like a good deal

Several years ago there was a T.J. Cinnamons franchise at the shopping mall in Columbia, Mo. They used to pump that fanatically delicious aroma of baking cinnamon rolls out into the mall, and you could watch shoppers' faces light up when they passed by.

Then there was the butcher shop I endured in the Russian city of Serpukov back in the early 1990s. It smelled like somebody ran over Boris Yeltsin's favorite opoosm the month before and hid it in one of the building's ventilation shafts. I breathed through my mouth and didn't buy anything.

Though the science seems to differ on just how much aroma can impact purchasing, one thing is for certain: aroma does impact mood, and mood impacts purchasing.

What also seems to be understood is this: If you're a business trying to enhance your buying atmosphere with a scent and you get it wrong, you'll probably do more damage than if you had no scent at all, i.e. my Russian meat market story.

Researchers seem to agree scent matters, and the more simple the better. Complex smells that aren't easily identifiable may still be pleasant but seem less effective in eliciting positive emotion, possibly because your brain has to work harder at figuring them out.

A study at a home décor store in Switzerland showed customers spent on average 38 percent more when the store was infused with a simple orange scent than when a more complex mix of orange, basil and green tea was used - average sales were less, in fact, than no scent at all when the latter was used.

A study by Nike showed

HOW TO SELL STUFF

adding scent to their stores increased "intent to purchase" by 80 percent. A pina colada aroma in a British toy store allegedly attracted parents to linger in the store longer.

Researchers in Belgium noted that the scent of chocolate seemed to have a more pronounced effect on women, who tended to browse longer - particularly in categories like romance novels and cooking/recipe books. The chocolate aroma seemed to have less effect in other book categories. Convenience stores have seen increased sales of coffee when that aroma was enhanced in the store.

Fragrances that "fit" appear to put our brains on a faster track toward making a buying decision. A steakhouse should smell like charcoaled beef, not lilacs; an outdoor store would probably see better customer response with a rich smell like pine or cedar; a swim shop should go with an ocean scent over pumpkin pie.

So the jury seems to conclude that scent, just like the other senses, plays a part in warming or cooling a prospective customer. Done right, it can help you sell more stuff.

If you are looking for someone to trust?

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL
By David Bilderback

"Do not let your hearts be troubled. Trust in God, trust also in me." (John 14:11) Jesus gives us a simple command. If we truly trust something or someone we have no reservations concerning that particular thing or person. For instance when we go into church on Sunday morning we go to the pew and sit down. We don't examine the pew or ease down into it. We have faith that the pew will support our weight. The fact that the pew might collapse never enters our mind. This is the way Jesus wants us to trust him. He wants our unconditional trust which means we must turn our lives over to him and allow him to control our decisions and actions.

In John 14:15-16, Jesus promises a helper the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit will assist us in turning our lives over to Jesus.

He indwells every believer. The question we as believers have to ask ourselves is not how much of the Spirit we have but How much of our lives does the Spirit control.

Jesus issues an invitation in John 14:23. "If anyone loves me he will obey my teaching. My Father will love him and we will come to him and make our home with him." Today trust is something that is hard to build. If you are looking for someone to trust, trust Jesus Christ. Jesus is the same yesterday, today and forever.

David Bilderback: A Ministry on the Holiness of God.
