County changes zoning rules for windmills

Windmills can't be near homes; could push wind farm development to south county

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - New county zoning regulations approved yesterday could make it difficult to build a wind farm in more populous rural areas of Anderson County, but don't entirely prohibit wind farms in other areas. The Anderson County Commission voted unanimously Monday to require a setback of at least 2,000 feet between any wind turbine and any residence or commercial structure not on property leased as part of a wind farm project. It also requires a 1,500 foot setback from any residence or commercial structure that sits on leased property, and a setback of 1.5 times the height of a windmill blade tip from any public right-of-way or boundary line. Turbines also cannot be within 2 miles of an airport - including numerous seldom-used grass strip runways on various private rural properties around the county. No wind farm project has formerly been applied for in Anderson County, though a Houston-based oil & gas company has negotiated leases with several area landowners and conducted wind research at several locations. The new regulations were a compromise between landowners who oppose wind farm development in Anderson County, and landowners who say they have a right to lease their land to those who would harvest the wind that blows over their properties. "We know it's not going to make everybody happy. What we've tried to do is to be as fair as we can, and I think we've done that," zoning board chairman Grant Corley told those in attendance at Monday's meeting of the Anderson County Commission. The new regulations could make it difficult to build a wind farm in parts of the county that have more rural residences, particularly in the

Commissioners take next steps in manager search

Garnett commissioners expected to review applications Wednesday

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - City commissioners will meet with a head-hunting firm tomorrow to sort through applications for a new city manager. The entire meeting Wednesday, March 1, is expected to take place in secret, "executive session," including only Garnett commissioners and representatives from the League of Kansas Municipalities who will review applications. City Attorney Terry Solander said the process falls under an exemption in the state's Open Meetings laws to discuss personnel, including applications for employment, outside of the public's purview. Commissioners are looking for someone to succeed Joyce Martin as city manager. Martin has worked for the city for 50 years, most of that time as city clerk. She became city manager in 2007. Martin said previously she plans to stay with the city until a new manager is hired, and as long as needed to help that person adjust to the position. The League was hired by commissioners at a cost of $3,785 to find an acceptable candidate. The process included a survey that was open to city employees, business owners, city residents and others. Take precautions, get a permit before burning

Seasonal burning is typical so far this year, county official says

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

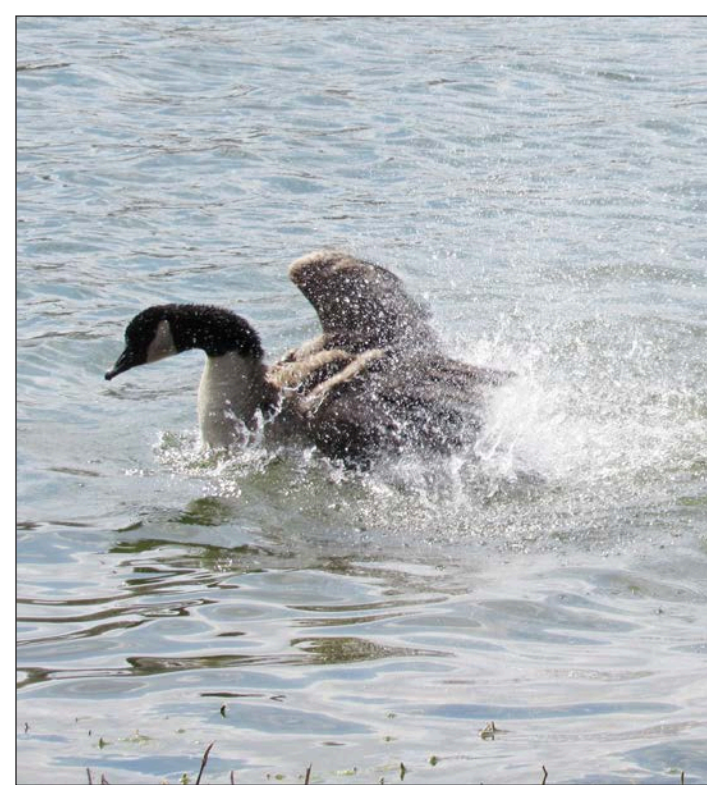

GARNETT - Education efforts seem to be working to teach people about proper procedures for open burning, especially during the prime prescribed burning season for pastures and farmland. "For the most part, we're getting better results from people calling in for permits," JD Mersman, director of Anderson County Emergency Management, said of the burn permit process. "Occasionally, we get someone new to the area who isn't aware, and we educate those property owners as we come across them." Anyone who wants to conduct open burning in Anderson County must first obtain a burn permit by calling the Anderson County dispatch at (785) 448-6823. The process takes only a few minutes. Dispatchers will ask callers for basic information such as name, address, phone number and questions about what is being burned and how long it might take. They'll tell callers if burning is not allowed because of weather conditions. A new text program also allows people to sign up through the Code Red Alert system and will send text messages when a burn ban has been issued or lifted. Mersman said about 50 people so far have signed up for the service. To take part of this program you need to contact the Rural Fire/Emergency Management office 785-448-6797 between the hours of 8 AM to 4 PM Monday through Friday. The county so far has suffered few problems from out-of-control burning, despite a lack of moisture in recent months. Mersman said that likely can be attributed by a lack of heavy wind so far this year. The county has issued burn bans on a day-to-day basis. Because of few windy days, the county hasn't issued burn bans for more than two or three days at a time. February, March and April typically are targeted for prescribed pasture burning, a management tool that helps native grasses remain healthy and controls weeds. Fire officials understand the importance of prescribed burning, Mersman said, and try to allow burning unless weather conditions make such activity unsafe. "We ask farmers to be patient and keep checking back or sign up for the text alert," Mersman said about the times when a burn ban is issued. Although it's still early in the burning season, so far the threat of fires remains typical, Mersman said. Fire crews have

BURRIS

JANUARY 23, 1945-FEBRUARY 20, 2017

Joyce Elaine Lickteig was born in Garnett, Kansas, to Alfred Lickteig and Albertine Peine Lickteig on January 23, 1945. She passed to her eternal reward on February 20, 2017, in her home in Greeley, Kansas, surrounded by her husband and children.

Burris

Joyce worked for Taylor Forge Engineering Systems in Paola, Kansas, for thirty-three years. She often helped plan the annual Union Picnic in which her Money-in-the-Straw game was very well-received by the young people at the picnic. She enjoyed dressing in costume for this event.

Joyce loved to laugh, not only at jokes but also at simple things she found amusing. Her amusement at the simple things would give other people great amusement as well. Whether it was watching Boots the cat hungrily watching the birds flying around the bird-feeders that were just barely out of the cat's reach (suggested by coincidence), honking her car horn at hawks on fence posts, or telling people that her birthdate was 1-2-3-4-5, her merriment brought laughter to other people's lives.

Joyce was an active member of St. John the Baptist Catholic Church in Greeley where she taught religion class, was an Extraordinary Minister, was active in the Altar Society, served on the Parish Council, and led the rosary before Mass. Joyce was very devoted to the rosary. She had a large collection of rosaries, and she gave all her children rosaries, many of which were made specifically at her request. In her final days, she found great comfort in praying the rosary with her children, even requesting specific mysteries be prayed at times.

Joyce loved to sew and was recognized by all for her incredible talent. Among the many items she made were costumes, welding caps, both dress and casual clothes for her children, formal dresses, and quilts. All of her children have quilts made by their mother, and she has made quilts for the annual St. John's Bazaar for several years. Not only was Joyce a talented seamstress, she was also talented at all sorts of crafts. She looked forward to decorating her yard for different seasons and holidays, but took particular interest in decorating her home and yard for Christmas, and enjoyed allowing others to enjoy the fruits of her efforts.

Joyce loved to garden, and many people admired her flower garden. After working a long day in the plant, she could often be found working in her garden. While her garden was filled with highly colorful flowers, she also cared for plants without bright blooms. When her first child was born, she was given a tiny philodendron plant. She took such great care of it that it has been in every home in which she lived after receiving it. She was always willing to give people a start from this or any other plant. Family was very important to Joyce, and she was a "go-to" genealogist for many. Not only did she have many notebooks as evidence of this, but she could be counted on to be able to recall from memory who was a person's sibling, parent, grandparent, cousin, or spouse at a moment's notice.

Joyce helped raise seven children and could often be seen at their various school, summer, church, and scouting activities. Her grandchildren were her greatest joy, and she rarely missed an opportunity to tell her children that she would like to have more grandchildren.

Joyce was preceded in death by her parents, Alfred and Albertine, her sister Linda, her brother Gene, and her son-in-law John. She is survived by her husband Buddy, of the home; her children: Annette Husted of Greeley and son Thad of Paola; Tina Shaw and husband Mitch of Pleasanton, daughter Monique of Pittsburg, daughter Chantel and son Matthias of Pleasanton; Roni Burris of Independence; Jackie Burris of Neosho Rapids; Michelle Burris of Greeley; Dawnelle Shelley and husband Tyson, sons Isaac, Tyberius, Brandon, all of Pittsburg, and Triston of Olathe; Tony Burris of Greeley; eight brothers, two sisters, and their spouses; three brothers-in-law, two sisters-in-law, and their spouses; and numerous nieces, nephews, and friends.

Her words are pleasant ways, and all her paths are peace. Proverbs 3:17

Mass of Christian Burial was Saturday, February 25, 2017, at St. John's Catholic Church, Greeley, burial followed in St. John's Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. John's Parish School of Religion or St. John's Catholic Church.

ROCKERS

JUNE 23, 1957-FEBRUARY 19, 2017

Roger Frederick Rockers, age 59, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Sunday, February 19, 2017, at his home, surrounded by his family after courageously enduring pancreatic cancer.

He was born in Garnett, Kansas on June 23, 1957, the second child of eight and oldest son born to Les and Clara (Hansen) Rockers. He lived his entire life in Anderson County. Roger attended school at Harris, Holy Angels and Garnett High School, graduating with the class of 1975.

Rockers

On November 23, 1996, he married Norma Guilfoyle of Greeley, Kansas at St. Boniface Church in Scipio. Roger and Norma made their home northwest of Garnett.

Roger grew up farming with his Dad and Uncle Merle. As a young man, Roger worked for Boyles Construction, learning to operate heavy equipment. Together with his dad, he operated a custom silage cutting operation for several years. Roger and his brother Russell took over the farm and the Hoegemeyer seed dealership, operating as Rockers Farms.

He was a member of the St. Boniface Catholic Church in Scipio. He was a past member of the U.S. Custom Harvesters and National Farmers Organization. He was honored to have served on the Pottawatomie Creek Watershed board.

In February 1979, he joined the national efforts of the American Agriculture Movement and drove his tractor on an 18-day journey to Washington D.C. as part of the Kansas delegation. This added to his interest in farm policy and agricultural concerns.

Roger enjoyed hunting for arrowheads, drawing, wood-carving, and playing spades. His ingenuity afforded him the ability to make improvements and enhancements to his farm equipment. Roger could always be found accompanied by a loyal female Border Collie with a male name.

He was preceded in death by his dad, Les Rockers on January 28, 2017.

Roger is survived by his loving wife, Norma Rockers, of the home; his mom, Clara Rockers, of Garnett, Kansas; siblings, Annette Harrison of Overland Park, Kansas, Russell Rockers and wife, Beth, of Garnett, Ralph Rockers and Mary Wolterman of Garnett, Janice Chatham and husband, Mike of Radford, Virginia, Lucille Stone and husband, Damon of Garnett, Lisa Rossman and husband, David of Ottawa, Kansas, Leslea Rockers and Mike Hermreck of Garnett, Kansas; uncle and aunts, Merle and Helen Rockers, Colleen and Bob Gregory, Lavon and Carl Mariz, and Joella Rockers, Virginia Rockers; Joe Hansen, Rosalea and Bill Coones, Ruth Ann Vansickle, and Mary Ellen and Gary LeSuer, many brothers and sisters-in-law, nieces, nephews, and friends.

Roger was often heard saying "you've gotta be tough," "all you gotta do is..." (usually followed by 5 seconds of bad instructions), "the first thing you gotta do is think you can," "work comes first," and "it takes a lot of energy to hate."

Roger will be remembered for his love of the land, his conservation efforts and "leaving it better than you found it." Roger did not work to live, he truly lived to work and took great pride in being a farmer.

Mass of Christian Burial was Thursday, February 23, 2017 at St. Boniface Catholic Church in Scipio, Kansas. Burial followed at St. Boniface Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the St. Boniface New Hall Building Fund.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com

ECCLEFIELD

AUGUST 18, 1927-FEBRUARY 23, 2017

Wayne Ecclefield, age 89, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Thursday, February 23, 2017, at St. Luke's South in Overland Park, Kansas.

Francis Wayne Ecclefield was born on August 18, 1927, in Welda, Kansas, the son of Robert and Mattie (Skillman) Ecclefield. Wayne grew up in Welda, attending grade school and high school there, where he played basketball and football. After graduation, he went to work for Cities Service Gas Company in Welda, where he worked for 40 years, becoming a class A Repairman.

Ecclefield

In 1945, he was drafted into the US Army and shipped off to Fort Ord in California, where he trained truck drivers and enjoyed a number of sightseeing adventures in San Francisco and Monterey.

Once back home in Welda, he met the love of his life, Arlene Erma Hosier, and they married on July 9, 1948, at the First Christian Church in Garnett, Kansas. This union was blessed with three children. They spent some time in Ulysses, Kansas, with Cities Service, but Welda would be their permanent home. In Welda, they raised their family and owned an Antique Shop. Wayne's pastimes were fishing, hunting, restoring antiques, and classic cars.

In 1968, he and Arlene built a new home in Welda. After the kids left home, they proceeded to travel, camp, and play golf. Wayne retired early from Cities Service in 1985, allowing them to travel. Their journeys took them from coast to coast, the Florida Keys, Niagara Falls, Carlsbad Caverns and The Smokey Mountains, just to name a few destinations.

In 2004, Wayne and Arlene moved to Garnett, Kansas, where they continued with their love of travel, gardening, and bird watching. Wayne was active in the Anderson County Historical Society and was a frequent volunteer at the museum. He was also a member of the Fuller-Thompson American Legion Post #48.

Wayne was preceded in death by his parents; his wife, Arlene Ecclefield on April 26, 2013; brothers, Thomas and Vincent Robert "Bobby"; and sister, Elaine.

He is survived by his companion, Phyllis Callahan of Garnett; his three children, Bonnie Gorrell and husband, Jim of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, Gary Ecclefield and wife, Cindy of Garnett, and Vivian Ecclefield and husband, Stuart Duncan, of Irvine, California; seven grandchildren, Jordan Ecclefield, Erica White, Ashley Williams, Shawn Rule, Jeff Rule, McKenzie Duncan and Riley Duncan; nine great-grandchildren; and one sister, Lorna Belle Corder of St. Joseph, Missouri.

Funeral services were Monday, February 27, 2017, at the Welda United Methodist Church, Welda. Burial followed in the Welda Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Welda United Methodist Church and left in care of the funeral home. Condolences may be left at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

CPAC proves conservative movement remains united

The mainstream media love writing the narrative of crisis, division and disarray in the conservative moment.

So it was no surprise this week when Time magazine published an article titled "The Conservative Grassroots Faces a Crisis at Its Annual Meetup." It must be missing the Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC), where thousands of grass-roots activists from across the country are gathering this week to celebrate the Trump victory and prepare for battles that lie ahead.

At CPAC, conservative warriors are energized, united and excited about supporting the president and his vision for America. They might not agree with every aspect of his agenda, but they recognize his efforts in pushing some major conservative initiatives such as the nomination of Judge Neil Gorsuch to the U.S. Supreme Court, repealing and replacing Obamacare, and rebuilding the U.S. relationship with Israel.

Conservatives acknowledge that President Trump is not a purist, and establishment conservatives have criticized him on issues such as infrastructure spending and trade.

But even the conservative establishment can agree that Mr. Trump is making a concerted effort to keep his campaign promises. He also has assembled a team of top conservative leaders, including Vice President Mike Pence and senior counselor Kellyanne Conway, to further the movement.

And note White House chief strategist Steve Bannon's a strong message Thursday to the CPAC audience: "Hold us accountable."

The conservative movement is a big, complicated, diverse family. CPAC attendees are a mix of conservative purists, establishment types, libertarians and the more populist faction of the movement. Trump administration insiders know that the conservative grass-roots were instrumental in Mr. Trump's victory in November.

Is there discourse and disagreement? Absolutely. CPAC speakers address a variety of pressing topics from different conservative perspectives, creating an open forum for discussion and debate where principles are front and center.

CPAC proves that the conservative movement is more united than the mainstream media are reporting.

CPAC has long existed at the intersection of the Republican establishment and the conservative grass-roots.

And for the first time, the White House has put forth a program at CPAC showing that it understands these factions must come together in order to produce real change.

The symbolic union was displayed during an on-stage conversation with both White House Chief of Staff Reince Priebus, who is more in tune with the Republican establishment, and the populist Mr. Bannon.

"We have to stick together as a team," Mr. Priebus said. "This is an incredible opportunity to use this victory and work together."

Mr. Bannon talked about the "diverse voices" in the conservative movement and the "new political order."

Mr. Trump respects the conservative movement because his love for America is aligned with the fierce patriotism at the core of conservatism.

Conservatives understand the importance of this moment, and that this historic opportunity to govern and lead effectively happens only once a generation. The real headline should read, "Conservatives are united and ready to work with President Trump," but one wonders if the mainstream media will take notice.

The new dental office looks great. What an addition to the city of Garnett and the surrounding communities. Thank you Dr. Hale.

Oh boo-hoo. A lot of friends here. I'm another Trump hater. It's a shame that inbred morons like you believe everything Trump says even though he's been proven to be a liar but you still believe it. You're the one that ought to be ashamed. Dang morons.

To the person in the Phone Forum last week who accused the opponents of the wind farm of being bullies, I wonder what you call bullying? Is it being a part of the legal zoning process and going to meetings and making your case in a debate? Is that what you call bullying? Is it putting up a sign according to your free speech rights to tell people how you feel? Is that bullying? Maybe it's trying to preserve your property value from being reduced by a 30,000 acre power plant that destroys the view of the whole eastern side of the county. Maybe that's bullying? You can play the victim all you want but we all know you're the one who's more than ready to sell out your neighbors and the whole rest of the county so you can satisfy your own greed. No two ways about it.

To the person who called the Phone Forum and is concerned about the operation of Anderson County's ECKAN office, if you have a complaint or concerns you are certainly welcome to forward it to the main office in Ottawa. Thank you.

Ha ha. Democrats in Kansas and Bernie Sanders. Need I say more?

been called to several reports of out-of-control fires. Most of the time, those people have followed the proper permit procedures, and the fire simply got away from the people conducting the burn. No structures or personal property has yet been lost this year because of an out-of-control fire, Mersman said.

Anyone who burns without first obtaining a burn permit is subject to a citation.

Any damage caused by a fire or smoke is the responsibility of the person doing the burning, Mersman added. That means if you burn a pasture and your neighbor's barn catches on fire, you are responsible for the loss.

That also applies to smoke that crosses a road or highway, Mersman said. If an accident were to occur because of smoke blowing across the road, the person who conducts the burn is responsible.

Before you burn, consider the direction of smoke and whether it might cross a road or highway, Mersman said.

He also urged people to keep a close eye on burned material even after a burn. One fire this past weekend was caused by a smoldering brush pile that reignited by wind the next day.

"Use common sense and pay attention to the conditions," Mersman said.

Meanwhile, the City of Garnett has implemented an indefinite ban on open burning within the city limits until more precipitation is received. The city also requires people to call in to Anderson County dispatch before they conduct a burn.

What's happening in Sweden

As if on cue, riots broke out in a heavily immigrant suburb of Stockholm as soon as the media mocked President Donald Trump for a vague warning about immigration-related problems in Sweden.

At a campaign rally, Trump issued forth with a mystifyingly ominous statement. "You look," he declared, "at what's happening last night in Sweden." What? Had the president invented a nonexistent terror attack? As it turned out, the reference was to a segment on Sweden he had watched on Fox News the previous night rather than to any specific event in the Nordic country.

The ensuing discussion quickly took on the character of much of the debate in the early Trump years -- a blunderbuss president matched against a snotty and hyperventilating press, with a legitimate issue lurking underneath.

By welcoming a historic number of asylum-seekers proportionate to its population, Sweden has indeed embarked on a vast social experiment that wasn't well thought out and isn't going very well. The unrest in the Stockholm suburb of Rinkeby after police made an arrest underscored the problems inherent in Sweden's immigration surge.

Sweden's admirable humanitarianism is outstripping its capacity to absorb newcomers. Nothing if not an earnest and well-meaning society, Sweden has always accepted more than its share of refugees. Immigration was already at elevated levels before the latest influx into Europe from the Middle East, which prompted Sweden to try to see and raise the reckless open-borders policy of German Chancellor Angela Merkel.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

Sweden welcomed more than 160,000 asylum-seekers in 2015, and nearly 40,000 in October of that year alone. For a country of fewer than 10 million, this was almost equal to 2 percent of the population -- in one year.

Predictably, it isn't easy to integrate people who don't know the language, aren't highly skilled and come from a foreign culture. There is a stark gap in the labor-force-participation rate between the native born (82 percent) and the foreign born (57 percent). As the Migration Policy Institute points out, Sweden is an advanced economy with relatively few low-skills jobs to begin with. On top of this, high minimum wages and stringent labor protections make it harder for marginal workers to find employment, while social assistance discourages the unemployed from getting work.

None of this is a formula for assimilation or social tranquility. In a piece for The Spectator, Swedish journalist Tove Lifvendahl writes, "A parallel society is emerging where the state's monopoly on law and order is being challenged."

And the fiscal cost is high. According to Swedish economist Tino Sanandaji, the country spends 1.5 percent of its GDP on the asylum-seekers, more than on its defense budget. Sweden is spending twice of the entire budget of the United Nations High Commissioner responsible for refugees worldwide. Pressed for housing, Sweden has spent as much on sheltering 3,000 people in tents as it would cost to care for 100,000 Syrian refugees in Jordan.

It is little wonder that Sweden, where so recently it was forbidden to question the openhanded orthodoxy on immigration, has now clamped down on its borders. Sweden is a unique case, but clearly one of the lessons of its recent experience is, Don't try this at home.

May the word of God never be strange to us

In Hosea 8:12, we read God's words to Ephraim. "I have written to him the great things of my law, but they were counted as a strange thing."

God here is leveling a complaint against the southern kingdom because of their total disregard for the great things of the law. When Hosea uses the phrase, a strange thing he is referring to the words of the law being like a foreign language or not words the people would recognize. They had been ignored so long they made no sense to the people. In 2nd Chronicles 34:14-15 we read just how far the people were removed from God. "While they (Levites) were bringing out the money that had been taken into the temple of the LORD, Hilkiah said to Shaphan the secretary, I have found the Book of the Law in the temple of the LORD." They took the book and it was read to the king. When Josiah heard the words of the Law he tore his robes and gave the following command. "Go and inquire of the LORD for me and for the remnant in Israel and Judah about what is written in this book that has been found. Great is the LORD's anger that is poured out on us because our fathers have not kept the word of the LORD: they have not acted in accordance with all that is written in this book."

This discovery provided a new momentum for a reformation that was already in progress. Josiah had begun a cleansing and purification of the land and the temple. He tore down all of the altars of Baal and destroyed idol's and images, breaking them into pieces and scattering them on the graves of those who had sacrificed to them.

I believe God can charge you and I with the same sin he charged Ephraim with. Our ignorance has developed slowly just as it did with Israel. The Law has been toned down and blended by the church to allow for a service that encourages a feel good attitude about one's self. Political correctness has successfully removed the law from the White House down to the court house. Because of the offensive nature of it prayer has been removed from public services and schools. This as I said was done slowly and the word of the law has slipped away slowly eroding our moral fiber with it. Will history repeat itself, will we get so far from God someone will find a copy of the Law someday and say, what is this we forgot about it? We should do everything we can do to make sure this never happens. May the word of God never become strange words to us.

Bulldog wrestlers face tough State

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

SALINA – It was a tough go for each of AC's four qualifiers to the Kansas 4A State Wrestling Tournament in Salina last weekend, with all four Bulldogs dropping their opening round matchups.

Cole Denny (138) lost his first round matchup against Zack Eck of Andale High School (Fall 1:16). Eck would use the win to propel himself to the state title.

Denny would win his consolation round 1 matchup against Dawson Ensign from Goodland before dropping a round 2 elimination matchup to Ryan Adams of Louisburg.

Kyle Lamb (182) also faced a tough opening round match in Trey Hoerner of Abilene who defeated Lamb by fall (0:33). Hoerner wound up winning the state title in the 182-class.

Lamb would go on to win his next two matches over Chase Montgomery (Fall 4:33) of Jefferson West and Ali Viravong (SV-1 7-2) of Winfield.

In Consolation Round 3, Braden Morgan of El Dorado High School ended the run of Lamb winning by decision (Dec 4-2).

Dominic Sutton (195) squared off against Gavin Ware of Clay Center Community High School and lost by tech fall (TF-1.5 4:00 (15-0)).

Sutton bounced back with a win over Ian Groom from Wellington High School. Sutton won in the ultimate tie-breaker over Groom (UTB 3-2).

Goodland High School's Cameron Gray ended Suttons' year with a win by major decision (MD 14-1) in consolation round 2.

Anthony Capul from Andale High School went on to win the title in the 195 pound class.

It was a quick state trip for Dallas Higginbotham (220). Higginbotham dropped his opening match to Tel Wittmer from Holton by decision (3-2) and then in the next round lost to Jason Christensen of Abilene by major decision (MD 12-3).

Bonner Springs' Caleb Willis (220) went on to win the state title in his class.

Chamber Players to present Neil Simon's 'Rose and Walsh'

"It's a ghost story, Arlene, with a ghost that has more charm, dignity and compassion than any walking spirit since Hamlet's father. And a hell of a lot funnier!"

The Chamber Players kick off 2017 with Neil Simon's "Rose and Walsh", March 2-5 & 9-12 at Garnett's Thelma Moore Community Playhouse. The dinner theatre will be catered by Prairie Belles Kitchen & Catering with a meal of Chicken Cordon Bleu, roasted potatoes, corn, mixed greens and a sweet roll.

This is Simon's newest play - his 33rd in a career spanning television, film and stage. He's the only living playwright to have a Broadway theater named in his honor. The Odd Couple, Chapter Two, and Rumors are other Neil Simon works that have been performed by The Chamber Players.

"This is a love story for the Senior Citizens," says director Tom Emerson, Jr. "It's not a pair of 20-somethings, but a couple of 60-somethings with all of the Rose Steiner (Penni Hansen, Topeka) and Walsh McLaren (Gary Stapp, Garnett) are celebrated writers. But at age 64, she's losing her eyesight and going broke. But Walsh has an idea that should keep her flush with cash for the rest of her days. She'll need help to execute the plan from her assistant Arlene (Karen Katzer, Garnett) and from Gavin Clancy (Emerson, Garnett), a one-hit wonder writer from the wrong side of the tracks. Only they don't hit it off and there's a two-week deadline. Walsh can only be of limited help.

Because he's been dead for five years. This comedy performance will begin with dinner at 6:30 pm March 2-4, 9 & 10 and with lunch at 12:30 pm March 5, 11 & 12. Tickets are $24 for adults, $20 for K-12 students. This show is suitable for all adults and mature students. Reservations are required. Phone the theatre: 785.304.1683 or email ChamberPlayersGarnett@gmail.com to reserve your tickets.

The Chamber Players will conclude their 26th Season with "The Foreigner", directed by Vicki Markham, June 1-4 & 8-11. Later that month, the theater will host a 4-day, 3-night adventure to Chicago to take in the finest theatre, shopping and sightseeing offered by The Windy City. Four Winds restores military items damaged in fire

Sunday afternoon, February 19, 2017, Four Winds Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, NSDAR visited the new home of Stacy and Shelly Sills. The Sills lost their home and contents due to a fire in July, 2016.

The National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution encourage DAR Chapters to hold a special service project each fall during NSDAR National Service Day. Shelly placed a help needed article on a local swap and shop Facebook page, wanting help in restoring damaged military pictures that escaped their fire and help save very special memories in Stacy's military career. This project was done by the ladies of the Four Winds Chapter with more than 134 combined volunteer hours.

On behalf of the Four Winds Chapter of Garnett, KS, Connie Becker, Carla Ewert and Donna Roberts were proud to present two 12"x

The Sills two children Clayton Pool and Leslie Burney were in attendance along with several close friends sharing this special event that was a total surprise to Stacy; he had no knowledge what was taking place.

Prairie Spirit Trail turns 21; celebration set for March 22

The Prairie Spirit Trail will celebrate its 21 birthday on March 22.

That's right, the Prairie Spirit Trail State Park has reached another milestone. It is a time of celebration as development both north and south connect this local trail to what is hoped to be a mass trail system some day.

The Prairie Spirit Trail officially opened for use on March 30, 1996. This trail was built upon what was once the LL&G (Leavenworth, Lawrence and Galveston) Railway and then former Santa Fe Railroad. Today the trail draws hundreds of visitors and a variety of bicycle rides and running events annually. The Friends invite the communities along the Prairie Spirit, trail enthusiasts and railroad buffs to a celebration dinner to be held on Wednesday, March 22nd in the Commons Area of the Anderson County High School.

The "birthday bash", as the Friends of the Prairie Spirit Trail refer to it, will begin with a silent auction with a large assortment of themed gift baskets at 6 p.m., followed by a bountiful buffet meal at 6:30 p.m. Guest presenters will give updates on trail projects and upcoming Friends activities.

Tickets for the event are $10 per person and can be purchased at Garnett City Hall, available through Friends group members or at the door during the event. The buffet dinner includes smoked brisket, scalloped potatoes, a variety of salads and delicious dessert.

The 21st anniversary celebration is a public event and everyone is cordially invited. The Friends of the Prairie Spirit Trail invite you to show your support of the trail and the communities along the Prairie Spirit by attending. This trail group is considering future plans to hold this event every 2 years. Therefore, your attendance March 22nd is most important.

About the Trail: The Prairie Spirit Trail officially opened on March 30, 1996 with a special event in Garnett celebrating the first phase of the trail, from Welda to Richmond. On September 1, 1998 the second phase of the trail (Richmond to Ottawa) was dedicated with a grand opening event in Ottawa. In 2008, the third phase of the trail opened from Welda to Iola. The State of Kansas designated the 51-mile linear pathway as the Prairie Spirit Trail State Park in 2010. In 2013 trail supporters on the southern edge of the Prairie Spirit created what is now the Southwind Trail, linking the trails at Iola and extending to Humboldt.

Since then, other trails connecting to or near the PST to the south have been created, including the Missouri Pacific Recreational Trail, the Lehigh Portland Trail and the Neosho River Park Trail. The development of the Flint Hills Nature Trail continues its 117-mile stretch from Council Grove to Osawatomie. For more information about the Prairie Spirit Trail, please visit www.bikeprairiespirit.com or like "Prairie Spirit Rail Bike Trail" on Facebook.

The Prairie Spirit Trail State Park is managed by the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks and Tourism. The trail manager's office is in Garnett.

Garnett Library plans book discussion on 'The Lake House'

The Garnett Public Library will hold their book discussion on Wednesday, March 22nd at 7 p.m. in the Archer Room at the library. They are held on the fourth Wednesday of each month. This month's book is "The Lake House" by Kate Morton. From the New York Times bestselling author of The Secret Keeper comes a "moody, suspenseful page-turner" (People, Best Book Pick) filled with mystery and spellbinding secrets.

Living on her family's idyllic lakeside estate in Cornwall, England, Alice Edevane is a bright, inquisitive, and previously talented sixteen-year-old who loves to write stories.

One midsummer's eve, after a beautiful party drawing hundreds of guests to the estate has ended, the Edevanes discover that their youngest child, eleven-month-old Theo, has vanished without a trace. He is never found, and the family is torn apart, the house abandoned.

Decades later, Alice is living in London, having enjoyed a long successful career as a novelist. Miles away, Sadie Sparrow, a young detective in the London police force, is staying at her grandfather's house in Cornwall. While out walking one day, she stumbles upon the old Edevane estate—now crumbling and covered with vines. Her curiosity is sparked, setting off a series of events that will bring her and Alice together and reveal shocking truths about a past long gone... yet more present than ever.

Leading our discussion will be Paulabeth Henderson. The books are available for check-out at the library. Notification is posted in case of cancellation.

Richmond Museum meeting to focus on World War I connections

World War I, its local connections, and the World War I National Museum and Memorial in Kansas City will be the focus of the Richmond Community Museum annual meeting Sunday, March 12, at 2 p.m. All are welcome.

Joe Hart of Pittsburg will tell the unique WWI story of his uncle, Mark Hart of the Scipio area. A WWI veteran, Mark was born in 1891 and died in 1980. His experience in France and the story of him being awarded a Purple Heart are unusually interesting.

Casey

The National World War I Museum and Memorial Archivist and Research Center Manager Jonathan Casey will share a power point presentation about the Museum and its activities surrounding the 100th anniversary of the war.

Casey has a BA in history from the College of William and Mary in Virginia, and a master's degree in museum studies from the University of Kansas. He's been archivist at the Museum since 2001 and was the lead person in creating the Edward Jones Research Center there. Casey was in Sarajevo, Bosnia-Herzegovina for the 100th anniversary of the beginning of the war and has made presentations in Italy and Chicago as well as in this area.

The Richmond Museum will open at 1 p.m. so visitors may arrive early to see the 1,000 artifacts and spend time with the many albums and notebooks of archival materials, all about the Richmond area. The new display this year is "Over There" and features names, photos and information about Richmond area WWI veterans.

"This will be a great opportunity for everyone to learn something about World War I and its National Museum and Memorial," said Richmond Museum president Mary Tooley. "We hope teachers will encourage students to attend."

Dennis Peters has compiled a list of area men who were in World War I and with help from the Franklin County Historical Society, there are photos of some of these men. If you have a photo or story to share about a veteran from the Richmond area, please attend and bring this information or talk to a Museum board member so your family will be included.

Mark your calendar: Sunday, March

The Anderson County Review

northeastern section between Garnett and Greeley, where numerous residences on small acreage have sprung up over the past two decades.

But that's exactly where a Texas energy company, Calpine Corporation, wants to build a 200 MW wind farm deemed the Southfork Wind Project. Calpine in late 2015 announced its plans to build about 100 turbines on a ridge that roughly parallels U.S. 169 between Greeley and Kincaid in the eastern part of the county.

A group of landowners opposed to Calpine's plans quickly formed a group, "Landowners Against Windmills (LAW)," to try to stop the wind farm project. Last December they asked the county commission to adopt zoning regulations modeled after Wabaunsee County that essentially would prohibit any wind farm development.

Wind farm supporters protested, arguing they have a right to develop their land as they see fit.

The planning and zoning commission offered a compromise plan that would require a half-mile (2,640 feet) setback between turbines and residential or commercial structures, along with the other setbacks outlined above. County commissioners sent that plan back, asking instead for the lesser 2,000 foot setback.

Members of the LAW group said they accepted the change.

"We would rather have it more strenuous, obviously, but everyone understands there are property rights concerns on both sides," Dane Hicks, publisher of the Anderson County Review and the LAW member who petitioned for the initial amendment, said.

It's not yet clear what impact, if any, the new zoning regulations would have on Calpine's proposed project. In an emailed response Monday, a Calpine representative said the company appreciated the opportunity to comment on the proposed zoning changes. The company was continuing to evaluate various aspects of the project, the statement read.

"We understand that these community leaders have a duty to balance the interests of those who favor economic development against those who oppose the introduction of wind turbines into Anderson County. We will respect the final decision of the county commissioners," the statement read.

The new zoning regulations could push wind farm development away from the more populous northeastern section toward the less populous southern and southeastern parts of the county. Some landowners in those areas protested the zoning change during Monday's meeting as well.

Those areas, though, could be closer to wind farm projects in neighboring counties. A 200 MW wind farm recently began operating in Osage County, just across the county line on the western half of Anderson County. A wind farm proposal in Allen County just to the south of Anderson near Kincaid also appears to be gaining traction and is being embraced by county leaders there.

Wind farm development in Anderson County has generated a great deal of controversy since Calpine's proposal was announced. Supporters say it would boost the economy in terms of construction and jobs. Lease payments are estimated at about $6,000 per year per turbine, plus other benefits.

But opponents point to the negative impact of unsightly 500 ft. tall turbines on the rural landscape. They say they are concerned about the restrictions on land use as part of the lease agreement, the effect of a wind farm on neighboring property values, the impact on wildlife and the aesthetics of a changing landscape if the wind farm were to be built.

Windmills are exempt from property taxes, so energy companies instead entice participating counties with a Payment In Lieu of Taxes (PILOT). The PILOT in Coffey County provides about $500,000 per year, and Calpine officials said previously the PILOT in Anderson County could be negotiated at a similar number. Energy companies typically provide infrastructure upgrades like road improvements, as well.

There's still a long way to go before a wind farm could be built in Anderson County.

Although the new zoning regulations provide more specific information about where windmills can be located, any company that wants to build a wind farm still must obtain a special use permit. County zoning director Tom Young has said the board would consider the entire 30,000 acre project as one permit. If 20 percent of landowners in the affected area protest the permit, the question requires a unanimous decision by county commissioners to pass.

And any zoning regulations could become moot if the state decides to take over wind farm regulations, Anderson County Counselor James Campbell warned. The state so far has allowed counties to set their own rules regarding wind farm development, but as such projects become more common, Kansas could decide to regulate them similar to the way it regulates oil and natural gas leases.

Another potential complication is the impact of federal subsidies for wind energy. Critics argue wind farms cannot be financially sustained without the tax credits.

In Monday's email, the Calpine representative said the company "continues to gather wind data and evaluate opportunities to market the expected energy from the Southfork Wind Project."

"The development of any large infrastructure project is always challenging and this project is no different: ... we will also examine the county's existing Special Use Permit process, the costs to connect the project to the electricity grid, and the demand from Kansas and Missouri customers. Ultimately, the decision to move ahead with investment will depend on the relative attractiveness of this opportunity versus others before us in Texas, Oklahoma and other states in which Calpine operates. We look forward to taking this first step."

A brief history of Turkey Red wheat

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roeckers
Call (785) 448-6244 for local archeology information.

Many Kansans believe German Mennonites arriving from Russia brought Turkey Red wheat to the state. When the Russian policy grew hostile in the 1870's, large numbers of Mennonites left for more fertile lands.

These immigrants did not come empty-handed. They loaded kitchen crocks and traveling trunks with Turkey Red wheat. Arriving in Kansas in 1874, they planted their first crop in the rich farmlands around Goessel, Kansas.

Some experts argue the Turkey Red wheat story is only a myth. Turkey Red was not the typical wheat variety grown by Mennonites in Russia, casting further doubt on the legend. Though it is really difficult to determine who was first to introduce Turkey Red to Kansas, it is undeniable that German Mennonite communities like Goessel embraced the plant.

Today a vast number of modern wheat varieties grown in Kansas can be genetically traced to Turkey Red. Kansas is one of the world's top wheat producing regions today largely due to the legacy of winter wheat varieties like Turkey Red Hard Red Winter Wheat.
