City manager finalists meet the public

Experience, youth seem to define two candidates for top job management experience in Pennsylvania and New York and who currently lives in Omaha, Neb. The other finalist is Chris Weiner, 28, currently city manager at Girard, who grew up in Iola.

Weiner said his top priority for the city is “to make this a good place to live.” He said he wants city residents to feel like the community works for them and for the city to be “very responsive” to its citizens.

GARNETT - The two finalists for the Garnett city manager job seem to personify a classic contest: Experience versus youthful enthusiasm.

The two candidates visited Garnett Wednesday, March 29, for tours of the city and interviews with city commissioners. They also spent an hour each at a reception with city residents, city staff, county officials and others who were curious about the city's future top administrator.

The choice comes down to David Forrest, who has more than 20 years of city

Garnett police find alarming speeding trends

Speed trap catches 7 drivers in 45 minutes; 13 warnings in one day

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Garnett police officers who recently monitored two problem areas for speeding found alarming and dangerous trends.

In one two-block stretch of roadway on the edge of the city, 13 people were issued warnings for speeding in one day. In another area, officers stopped seven vehicles for speeding in less than 45 minutes.

A police lieutenant posted results of those two speed monitoring efforts on social media last week. Garnett Police Chief Kurt King said officers wanted people to understand the safety concerns.

“This is for the safety of everybody on the roadway,” King said. “Probably 50 to 60 percent of accidents that occur on our public roadways are speed-related.”

Police received complaints from people who live near Westgate and Seventh Avenue, at the southwest edge of the city, regarding the speed of drivers as they transition from the county to the city's 30 mph zone. Police officers parked in the area to monitor a two-block stretch of roadway on Thursday, March 16. On that day alone, they issued speed warnings to 13 drivers.

On Friday, March 24, officers monitored another problem area on the south side of the city near 7th Street and U.S. 59/Maple Street. In less than 45 minutes, officers stopped seven vehicles and issued citations for speeding. Lt. Todd Turner said the combined total of those seven vehicles was 114 mph over the posted speed limit of 30 mph. The average speed of the vehicles stopped was 46.3 mph, or 16.3 mph over the posted speed limit. The citation for the highest speed was at 50 mph and the lowest citation was written at 42 mph.

Those two areas and Park Road represent the city's three biggest “problem areas” for

March rain barely makes a dent in county's drought

Recent rain added 1.64 inches moisture; still 'moderate drought'

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Mother Nature finally dropped more than an inch and a half of welcome rain over parts of Anderson County, but the area remains more than 2 inches shy of normal precipitation so far this year. The county remains in a “moderate drought” condition, which portends potential damage to crops and increased fire risk.

Most of the recent rain was dumped over the final days of March, with 0.26 inches falling between March 26 and 31 for a total of 1.64 inches for the month. Another 0.35 inches fell between April 2 and 3.

But there was no measurable rain in February, and only 1.72 inches of rain in January. Typically, an average of 1.21 inches of rain falls in January, with 1.85 inches in February and 2.67 in March. That means Anderson County's total rainfall the first three months of the year - 3.36 inches - is more than 2 inches short of the average amount in a typical year - 5.73 inches.

Erratic temperatures also continued to plague the county, with the highest recorded temperature in March reaching a blistering 87 on Sunday, March 19. The lowest temperature in March came just a few days earlier, with a low of 18 degrees recorded March 15.

The county is listed in “moderate drought,” according to the U.S. Drought Monitor,

School mourns loss of longtime secretary

Teel was elementary school secretary for 37 years; she was 68

BY VICKIE MOSS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Elementary school children in Garnett Monday were mourning the loss of a longtime, beloved school secretary.

Sara Teel, who served as a secretary in USD 365 for 37 years, died Saturday, April 1, after an illness. She took a leave of absence from Garnett Elementary School soon after the winter break. Students were told Monday morning that she had passed away, although many had learned about Teel's death from their parents over the weekend, GES principal Krista Hedrick said Monday.

“(Students) are taking it well,” Hedrick said. “She's been in our school family for a long time. A few of our teachers have worked with her their whole career.”

Teel worked as a secretary first at Irving Primary Center and later at Garnett Elementary Center before the new Garnett Elementary School opened a few years ago. She was active in the school and community, and especially was known for working the concession stand for the City of Garnett's summer baseball and softball programs.

Teel's job at the concession stand was particularly noteworthy, Hedrick said, because it gave her a chance to interact with students even during the summer break.

"I truly believe she kept doing it because she got to see the kids through the summer," Hedrick said. "Her big heart - that's the biggest thing I remember about her. She loved the kids. She knew all their names and their families. We all miss her."

The school's social committee plans to use money collected from staff to establish some sort of memorial in Teel's honor. The group was expected to meet today to discuss the matter; Hedrick said the memorial likely will be similar to a memorial garden stone for Carolyn Ludolph, an Irving Primary School teacher who passed away several years ago.

Teel leaves behind her husband of 48 years, Gary Teel, who also is a longtime USD 365 Board of Education member. They have three daughters and four grandchildren.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Sara Teel Memorial Fund to benefit the Garnett Elementary School Library Fund.

Memorial services are scheduled for 10 a.m., Saturday, April 8, 2017 at the Garnett Church of the Nazarene.

An obituary is published on this page.

TEEL

SEPTEMBER 16, 1948-APRIL 1, 2017

On September 16, 1948, George S. and Alvena (Kendig) Frere welcomed their daughter Sara Jane into the world. Sisters Sandra and Susan and brother James were there to greet her. Born in Joplin, Missouri, Sara spent most of her childhood in Southeast Kansas, primarily in Baxter Springs. At Baxter Springs High School Sara participated in theater productions, Kayettes, Pep Club, and vocal ensembles. As Senior Class President, she led the Class of 1966. Sara went on to attend the College of Emporia in Emporia, Kansas and Kansas State College of Pittsburg in Pittsburg, Kansas.

Teel

On October 26, 1968, friends and family gathered to celebrate Sara's marriage to Gary Teel of Columbus, Kansas. Sara and Gary had three daughters, Patricia Ellen (Trish), Margaret Louise (Maggie), and Emilie Elizabeth. Trish married Mark Bandré and gave Sara her first grandchildren, Mason George and Ethan Vincent. Maggie married CJ Koechner and gave her two more grandchildren, Aaron Joseph and Ella Jane. Sara helped Emilie plan her wedding and looked forward to having Adam Collins join the family this coming October. Her favorite moments were spent being a Mema. Sara happily attended soccer games, baseball games, dance recitals, school programs, band concerts, and weightlifting competitions.

Sara worked as a secretary for USD 365. For 37 years she took care of students and staff at Irving Elementary School, Garnett Elementary Center, and Garnett Elementary School. She enjoyed seeing the kids and their families around town and at the baseball fields where she managed the concession stand during the summer. Everywhere she went, a child waved and said, "Hey, Sara!"

On Saturday, April 1, 2017, Sara left this world to be with the Lord.

Sara is survived by her husband of 48 years, Gary Teel, of the home; three daughters, Trish and husband Mark Bandré of Salina, Kansas; Maggie and husband CJ Koechner of Paola, Kansas; and Emilie Teel and fiancé Adam Collins of Topeka, Kansas; sister Sandra and husband Anthony Mehaffy of Baxter Springs, Kansas, sister Susan and husband James Kidder of Grove, Oklahoma, and brother James Frere and wife Jo of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma; four grandchildren, Mason and Ethan Bandré of Salina, Kansas and Aaron and Ella Koechner of Paola, Kansas; and several nieces and nephews.

Memorial services will be held at 10:00 a.m., on Saturday, April 8, 2017 at the Garnett Church of the Nazarene. Inurnment will follow in the Greenlawn Cemetery, Columbus, Kansas.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that memorial contributions be made to the Sara Teel Memorial Fund. Contributions will benefit the Garnett Elementary School Library Fund.

You may send your condolences to the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

Work zone cameras help ensure safety

In recognition of April 3-7 as National Work Zone Awareness Week, the Review is publishing the following editorial from the Engineering News Record, a professional magazine serving the construction industry.

Driving faster than the posted limit in a highway work zone, no one enjoys the sting of a speeding ticket for $250 or higher—as it would be in, for example, Illinois—especially if you are caught on camera and not by a cop. All together, 12 states have radar-camera speed-limit enforcement in at least one location, seven states allow its limited use, and 13 states prohibit it. What's clear from research is that such systems are a proven tactic to help reduce speeding and save lives.

As recently as 15 years ago, 1,026 people died in road work-zone crashes in the U.S. each year. In 2014, that number was down to 669, according to WorkZoneSafety.org. But who believes the job is done at 669 deaths? Some of the tens of thousands of people who have received a work-zone speeding ticket might not understand the importance of further reducing the still-too-high number of deadly crashes. Critical of the systems, some motorist advocate associations have made good points about errors in how the cameras are used and inequities in the fines that are enforced. For those people, it is important to point out that motorists also bear most of the risk in work-zone accidents, suffering 85% of the fatalities, and therefore have the most to gain from their successful use.

Getting people to drive at or below the speed limit is like trying to slow down a landslide. Drivers tend to speed up to fill every space in the road as quickly as possible. In work zones, drivers do slow down, but they also tend to drive through at a speed that either makes them feel safe or that they think is safe enough. Others will simply overlook the signs and signals because they are too tired or distracted.

Despite all that already has been done to improve road safety with risk planning, traffic control, barriers, signage, cones, flaggers and law enforcement, now is a good time to refine and press forward with radar-camera speed enforcement in the 28 states that have no law of any kind yet addressing the issue. Where possible, radar-camera systems should be combined with all the other tools in the safety tool kit, as well as with smart systems, which include sensors and warning signals to workers.

The Governors' Highway Safety Association has penned a balanced, judicious set of recommendations on the subject. It suggests such systems be deployed at dangerous road sections or where law enforcement cannot easily be stationed. It also suggests the systems not be used as a substitute for law enforcement or good road design. The association further warns that a public education campaign must be pursued when a new system is installed.

Finally, it recommends that such systems should not be used to generate revenue: Any money that comes in from speeding tickets should be directed back to road safety and not used for other purposes. Radar-camera speed enforcement should never be used as a cash cow for the government or the system's operator.

Every tool is needed. No one in a country that values individual human life should be satisfied that the annual death toll is 669.

I have to laugh out loud when I read the Phone Forum from the person who doesn't think the Democrats are organizing people to vote illegally. Go on Youtube and search

Well, we were warned not to trust the Kansas League of Municipalities to help us find a city manager because this organization would never risk poaching the best talent from its dues-paying member cities, and look what we ended up with. Some kid who looks like he's about 13 years old and some unemployed guy from the East Coast. Is this really what the choice is? Are we paying so little for the job or is Garnett such a backwater, off the grid, forgotten spot in the road that this is the best we can hope for? Why has it not been in the paper what we had to pay the League of Kansas Municipalities for this huge service they provided us? What we paid and the results we got is sure something people should know. Thank you.

On Obamacare, a partywide failure

There's stumbling out of the gate, and then there's what Republicans just did on health care.

They came up with a substantively indefensible bill, put it on an absurd fast track to passage, didn't seriously try to sell it to the public, fumbled their internal negotiations over changes -- and suffered a stinging defeat months after establishing unified control of government.

There has been a lot of finger-pointing after the collapse of the bill, and almost all of it is right. This was a partywide failure.

House Speaker Paul Ryan has -- faint praise -- thought more about health care policy than almost any other elected Republican. He rose to prominence with thoughtful policy proposals buttressed by PowerPoint presentations. This was his moment to shine as a wonk. Instead, with an eye to procedural constraints the legislation would face in the Senate, he wrote a mess of a bill that got failing grades from analysts across the political spectrum.

The operating theory wasn't that the merits of the bill would get it over the top, but speed and sheer partisan muscle. The House wanted to pass it in three weeks, which would be a rush for a bill naming a courthouse. Ryan gambled that he could get his fractious caucus to rally in record time because -- unlike his frustrated predecessor as speaker, John

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Boehner -- he had a president of his own party at his back. And none other than "the closer," a President Donald Trump whose calling card is his skill at dealmaking.

For their part, Ryan and Trump are united in blaming the House Freedom Caucus, the recalcitrant group of conservatives that destroyed Boehner's speakership and have made a good start at ruining Ryan's. The Freedom Caucus is certainly prone to self-defeating purity, but in this case when they said the bill wouldn't fully repeal Obamacare or do enough to reduce premiums, they were correct. The bill shed support on both the right and the left because of its underlying weakness (it's hard to get anyone to back a bill with a 17 percent approval rating, per a Quinnipiac poll).

Perhaps most unforgivably, the White House and congressional Republicans now have decided to move on. Tax reform beckons. Republicans tell themselves they will get better results on taxes because it is more natural terrain for the party, an implicit concession that the GOP -- even after electing a populist president -- still can't bring itself to engage on kitchen-table issues that don't involve tax cuts.

Perhaps the initial tax legislation will start in a better place, the process will be more deliberate, and President Trump will get immersed more readily in something (the tax code) central to his business dealings. But tax reform is more popular in theory than it is in practice. It requires painful trade-offs and is vulnerable to the political critique that it favors the wealthy and corporations over working people.

If tax reform is going to pass and get signed into law, Republicans will have to perform much better than in the foreshortened health care debate. On the bright side, they can't perform much worse.

Expect state to raise your income taxes

Well, it comes down to the state needing $400 million, maybe a little more or less, and the way that the Legislature is going to get it is to raise your income taxes. That much is sure.

What isn't sure is just how lawmakers intend to extract that money from you. The choices are to set up a range of two, maybe three, income tax brackets so that the wealthy pay a higher percentage of their income than the poor or just a flat rate for everyone.

The first option sounds like "from each according to their ability..." doesn't it?

Except that a flat rate of income tax sounds, well, equalizing. We're all contributing the same percentage of our income, and it just might be easier to figure out what we owe if it's just a single rate.

The House and Senate, remember, a couple weeks ago tried a three-bracket formula, so that the wealthy paid a little more, the middle-and-lower paid a little less, and of course, those little LLCs paid taxes on their income that isn't described as wages, just profits from their businesses.

Well, that three-bracket formula went singing through the House, danced through the Senate and was slapped down by Gov. Sam Brownback's veto. The House overrode the veto, the Senate didn't and so we don't have a tax plan yet.

Now, the flat 5 percent tax rate is on deck in the House, and the Senate is still dressing up its 5 percent bill for a shot at Senate passage.

STATE COMMENTARY

MARTIN HAWVER, At The Rail

While the 5 percenter raises less money than a graduated tax, it's catchy and conservatives tend to like that concept of everyone paying an equal tax on their income, no matter how much or little.

Real key to that 5 percent rate is what happens to those without much in the way of income. The poor and relatively low income Kansans...the 5 percent rate probably hits them harder, makes them decide whether they are going to be able to afford the basics—like food and housing and care for their children—that they might be eligible for state assistance for if they must pay too much of their check in taxes.

Well, the solution for that is the personal exemptions. You just set a mark, maybe $5,000 or maybe $10,000 and that money isn't taxed. It gets them a little boost in spendable income to cover their basic needs.

Where do you set that exemption? High enough, and the poor actually won't see an out-of-pocket increase from their current 2.7 percent rate because less of their money is taxed at that 5 percent. That's good for them, and it sounds like you care for the poor.

Set the exemption low, and those poor pay taxes on a higher percentage of their income, which means they don't have much money left with which to care for their needs and their children's needs.

And, if you're making $80,000 or $100,000 or more, well, you're not going to change your lifestyle much based on the tax-free exemption.

That money that the state loses through those exemptions? It's money that isn't coming into the treasury to pay for education, for social services, for highways, for ...well, just about anything you can think of for which the state foots the bill.

A few brackets, the wealthier paying more? That covers the exemption losses, but, well, do the better-off really want to make the state better-off?

We may find out this week...

speeding, King said. In those areas in particular, drivers enter the city limits and fail to slow their speed to 30 mph. Officers typically don't write tickets unless the driver exceeds 10 mph over the posted speed limit; in most cases in the city, the speed limit is 30 mph so most tickets are in excess of 40 mph. Officers often write tickets in the range of 45 mph to 50 mph, King said. At higher speeds, it takes more time for a vehicle to stop. That's especially dangerous on city streets, where you are more likely to encounter pedestrians, slower vehicles and people entering and exiting the roads.

The majority of drivers who are speeding through Garnett streets come from out of town, King said. Many may incorrectly assume because Garnett is a small town, it will have less traffic.

"When I worked on patrol, I found most of the drivers know the speed limit but they just think it's a small town," King said. "But especially on Maple (U.S. 59), you have so many cars pulling in and out."

The number of speeding citations issued by city police appear to be consistent with previous years, King said. Lt. Turner posted the report about recent speed monitoring efforts because he wanted to make people more aware of the problem.

"Speeding is the third leading cause of a motor vehicle collision," Turner reported. "Speeding also occurs in 33 percent of all fatality accidents as speeding drastically affects stopping distance. A vehicle traveling 45 mph has a stopping distance which is double that of a vehicle driving 30 mph. Please slow down. Everyone's safety depends on it."

Tickets may be purchased from Kristie Kinney, Richard Miller, Ruth Lee Hastert, Terry Solander, Zella Teter, Shirley Roeckers, Paul Phares, Ivan Mader and Kenny Kellstadt. If any questions please contact President Kristie Kinney at 785-304-2810.

The program will commemorate the 100th Anniversary of WWI, entitled "The U.S. Doughboy Over There: What He Carried and What He Dragged Home." The material trappings of the U.S. "Doughboy" in WWI will be explored by examining original uniforms and equipment commonly used. The typical U.S. soldier also brought back souvenirs from his time at the front, which will also be highlighted and discussed.

Charlie Paulter is the Museum Director for Shawnee Town 1929 in Shawnee, Kansas, and he will provide the program. Outside of work, he has a special interest in The Great War, and has collected artifacts from it for the past 40 plus years. He loves to share artifacts and the stories behind them with visitors in order to better understand the common soldier of WWI.

Bud Fraker will be recognized as the 2017 Outstanding Citizen. President Kristie Kinney states "Bud has been a local historian for years and has shared many wonderful stories and historic events that have happened in Anderson County. He has been a very active member of our community for many years. Bud Fraker is an excellent choice to honor for this award".

Ralph Garris (Bud) Fraker was born March 03, 1925 in Garnett, Kansas. He was the second child of Ralph Charles & Jessie Blanche Fraker. His sister, Mary Beth was born October 10, 1919.

He was the fourth generation of the Fraker family in Anderson County, Kansas. His Great-Grandfather Daniel Wesley Fraker settled in Anderson County, Kansas in 1857 in Section 3 of Monroe Township. They came by covered wagon from Knox Co.,

Illinois. Daniel and his wife Angeline Van Gilder settled on 80 acres as it had a grove of trees and a spring. They are both buried in Judy Cemetery.

Daniel Wesley Fraker was a decedent of Michael Fraker. Michael was born in Kentucky. He was the first white settler in northeast Knox Co., Illinois in 1828. He homestead 1,000 acres. Michael was a blacksmith and started a grist mill near the Potawatomi Indian Tribe. He was 61 when he came to Illinois and was the father of 24 children with two wives.

His grandfather, Charles Holden Fraker, was six when he came to Anderson County with his parents in 1857. At age nine, he shook hands with John Brown as John Brown left Anderson County with a stage of slaves on his way to Canada through the Underground Railroad. In 1863, his family's cabin was ransacked by William Quantrill and his raiders as young Charley hid in a nearby tree. Wild Bill Hickok taught him how to shoot a gun and drive a stagecoach. In the late 1860s Charles would be a stagecoach driver to Mineral Point before the railroads came in the 1860s. He would leave from the Dr. Stevens office building that is about to be restored, at the corner of Walnut Street and Fourth Avenue. Charles married Mary Prudence Majors in May 27,

1880 whom he met while teaching a Sunday School class. Charles Holden Fraker died April 15, 1936. They are both buried in Garnett Cemetery with the Majors family. Bud's father was Ralph Charles Fraker who was born in 1886 in Anderson County, Kansas. He married Jessie Blanche Garris. They are both buried in the family plot of the Garnett Cemetery. Ralph went to work in 1908 in a men's clothing store and bought a 50% interest with Mr. J.H. Cannon in 1919, then it became Fraker

Bud Fraker

Clothing Co. in 1951, and was in business until Bud retired and closed the store in 1990. Bud went to work there after being discharged from the U.S. Navy in 1946. In 1977, Bud took over the business after his father died. After retiring, Bud went to work for Raymond Beckman, at Beckman Motors, for 27 years.

Bud's father Ralph was on the board when Lake Garnett was built. Ralph was also on the school board when the Irving School was built. Bud's class was the first graduating class from Irving School in 1938.

Bud enlisted in the U.S. Navy right after graduation in 1943, from Garnett High School. He did his basic training in Faragut, Idaho and served almost two years in the Pacific at Guam.

Bud met Elsie Mae Cox of Welda, Kansas at a local skating rink held under a tent on East Fourth Avenue. They were married February 03, 1946 in San Diego in a Methodist Church. He and Elsie were married 66 years. They lived their whole married life in Garnett after he was out of the service. This union was blessed with two children, Dan and Vicki. Elsie would later work with Bud in the clothing store.

Bud has four grandsons and seven great-grandchildren. They all live in the Kansas City area.

Bud was a longtime member of the local Chamber of Commerce. He is a charter member of the VFW Post and a member for 70 continuous years of the American Legion in Garnett. Bud served on the Garnett Airport Advisory Board and was very active in the Garnett Gun Club. Bud loved hunting and fishing in the area.

Bud is a lifetime member of the Garnett First United Methodist Church where he is still singing in the choir. He is a member of the Garnett Masonic Lodge, and his father Ralph was also. He is a lifetime member of the Anderson County Historical Society. His parents, Ralph and Jessie Fraker were recognized as Outstanding Citizens in 1976 by the Anderson County Historical Society.

Church choir to perform 'The Easter Story'

The First United Methodist Church choir will be performing "The Easter Story" by Tom Fettke and Thomas Grassi on Palm Sunday, April 9 at 10:30 a.m..

Members of the choir are Skip Landis, Estella Watt, Shari Friesen, Jim Glidewell, Delton Hodgson, Gary Teel, Hyatt Frobose, Bud Fraker, Pastor Bill Driver, Sandra Moffatt, Betts Abraham, Sue Harsh, Joanie Hardesty, Diane Ventura, Beth McCord, Janice Hodgson, with Joyce Hardesty, accompanist.

This cantata helps us relive the events that unfolded in Jerusalem 2000 years ago, but it also places them in the flow of God's dramatic, eternal story of redemption. In the process, it engages our mind, heart, and imagination with a story that is simple, yet profound. The choir invites everyone to join us in this reverent presentation of The Easter Story.

God remembered his promise to Abraham

In the first chapter of the book of Luke, Mary is visited by the angel Gabriel. God sent Gabriel to Nazareth to announce to Mary that she would be the mother of the long-awaited Messiah. Under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit Mary sings a song of praise called the Magnificat. Within this song is the phrase "He (God) has helped his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy, as he spoke to our fathers, to Abraham and to his offspring forever." Mary was 2000 years past the covenant God had made with Abraham yet she realized that the birth of this child was the fulfillment of the promise God had made to Abraham 2000 years earlier.

Jesus was the God/man. When Philip asked Jesus to show them the Father, Jesus answered him by saying, "Have I been with you so long, and you still do not know me, Philip? Whoever has seen me has seen the Father."

Jesus was truly divine, the absolute image of God. The only Godly attribute Jesus did not have when he served on earth was his glory which we see manifested in the transfiguration referenced in Matthew 17:2, "He (Jesus) was transfigured before them and his face shone like the sun, and his clothes became white as light." Jesus was fully man as well.

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL By David Bilderback

The doctrine of the Incarnation declares that Christ was also fully human. Jesus lived out his earthly life by experiencing all the pressures, temptations and limitations that we experience.

The two natures are united in Jesus, without mixture confusion, separation or division and each nature retains its own attributes. In John 14 Jesus reveals to the twelve the way of salvation when he says, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No comes to the Father except through me." This salvation is the supreme gift of God mediated by Jesus and given freely to the redeemed through faith in Christ.

Today we stand 4000 years past Abraham and 2000 years past the birth of Christ. Some will say as those in 2nd Peter 3:4, "Where is the promise of his coming? For ever since the fathers fell asleep, all things are continuing as they were from the beginning of creation." We are told in Acts 1:11 at the Ascension of Jesus that, "This Jesus who was taken up from you into heaven will come in the same way as you saw him go into heaven."

At the Second Coming, Jesus will bring an end to history. He will raise the dead and judge the world and impart to God's children their final glory. Christ teaches that it will be a tragic disaster for anyone who is not ready when he returns.

Spring brings better weather. Get up! Get Outside! Get Moving! Take a step to help yourself to better health. Experts say that while 10,000 steps a day is a good number to reach, any amount of activity beyond what you're currently doing is likely to benefit your health. SEK Multi-County Health Department is responsible for conducting Essential Public Health Services which include: monitoring the health status of the community, diagnosing and investigating health problems and hazards, educating people about health issues such as vaccine preventable diseases and chronic health conditions, and helping to enforce laws and regulations that protect the public's health.

Colony Native
 Colony had a native (Merle Smith) that amused Colony with his barnstorming feats in the early days of the airplane. In 1977 he was named to the Aviation Pioneers Hall of Fame. Smith built his first plane in a Colony field in a 1923 and was an airplane mechanic until 1932, when he joined the Inman Brothers Flying Circus. In 1937 he went to Cordova, Alaska and formed Cordova Airlines. He was president of the airline until 1967 when it merged with Alaska Airlines.

I had the pleasure of knowing his mother (Mary Smith). She was a correspondent of the Iola Register for years.

Around Town
 Some of the families of Kendal and Christy spent the Crest school break by skiing in the Colorado mountains.

Spring is here: Iola will open their first Farmer's Market Thursday, April 13 at 5:30-7:30 p.m. at the southeast corner downtown square. Doesn't radishes, onions, spinach, sound good? Nothing like straight from the garden! May 2 they will open on Tuesdays also 8:30-11:30 a.m. of mornings on the old Country Mart parking lot on State Street.

April the month for Easter this year! And don't forget the 15th deadline for income taxes.

Athletes brave smokescreen at Baldwin

BALDWIN – AC's Averil Wilson led distance runners from 13 area schools Friday, picking up wins in both the 3200 meter and 1600 meter runs at the annual Baldwin Invitational Track Meet.

Wilson notched a 5:35.91 time in the 1600 and ran the 3200 in 12:24.83 on the cloudy, cool and breezy Friday afternoon. The chilling conditions were compounded earlier in the day by a neighbor east of the Baker University Stadium who chose to burn leaves in his yard during the boys' steeple chase event, smoking out the runners and field event competitors but ensuring minimal harassment by mosquitoes during the afternoon's competition.

Wilson's efforts led the AC girls to a 10th place finish with 37 points on the day. Baldwin won the meet with 108 points. Other AC finishers included:

- 1600 meter: Paige Rupp, 14th, 6:46.85
- 4x800 relay: AC team of Wilson, Porter, Rupp & Corley 6th, 11:38.76.

Budget wrangling is like a wrestling match

I am on the House Appropriations Committee. This week and next we are considering HB2364 which is the Kansas budget for 2018 & 2019. Constitutionally we must pass a balanced budget. The discussion this week has been much like the period right before a high school wrestling match. You size up the competition as you warm up. You are nervously thinking through possible scenarios. You consider when to strike, and how you might counter those tactics that are used against you. The difference though is that a wrestler has a clear vision of what success looks like. Our committee does not.

The Chairman was planning to start by working our budget with a $300M "guesstimate" based on a possible tax policy as a boundary line to not surpass. The truth is that we have not passed a tax increase yet. After a lively debate, it was decided to start with the actual numbers, which are -$211.3M for 2018 and -$129.4M for 2019. This means we have no money to add to the budget. In fact, just to keep what we have we would have to "increase revenue" (AKA - Raise Taxes) or do massive spending reductions.

The very first amendment set the stage for the direction that our committee is taking on enhancements. Will this be a wish list budget to give an idea of how much we need to raise taxes, or will this be crafted with the realization that we have no money requiring restraint and frugality? Well, the first amendment offered was to add back in the "enhancement" for Kansas Public Employees Retirement System rather than funding it at the 2016 level. It was suggested that we make this add later giving us a better idea of what our tax policy will be and what our revenues will look like. Regardless, the committee moved to fund the

KEVIN JONES, 5th District House of Representatives

KPERS at its full amount for 2018 & 2019 budget. It was argued that we should use our committee to create a "wish-list" budget that will drive the tax policy debate. At this rate, it could be -$500-$600M prior to even having the number we need to fund K-12 education. In total, we could be driving a $1B tax increase, by such reckless budgeting.

I spoke to the committee about doing a "wish-list" budget as well as a "most likely" mid-level $300M tax jack budget, and a "no tax" increase budget. This would give us clear intentions on these votes and the ability to prioritize in case a tax bill does not pass. I am still hopeful that the process will leave us with our hand raised.

Next week we are working this budget in the early mornings as we will be "on the floor" all week working bills. Representative Kevin Jones Greeley Elementary students enjoyed a new learning experience when the Earth Balloon was brought to their school. Debbie and Lacie Davis, of the Anderson County Conservation District, brought the balloon to Greeley so students could see Earth in 3D and observe its topography. The balloon also opens up and they could also see Earth from the inside. Students were able to see continents, rivers, mountains, and oceans. Each panel on the balloon is equal to 24 hours in the day. It was a fun learning experience and a new way to study Earth.

Library to discuss 'River Road'

The Garnett Public Library will hold their book discussion on Wednesday, April 26, at 7 p.m. in the Archer Room at the library. They are held on the fourth Wednesday of each month. This month's book is "River Road" by Carol Goodman. From the award-winning author of The Lake of Dead Languages comes a psychological thriller that will keep readers guessing through every twist.

Nan Lewis — a creative writing professor at a university in upstate New York — is driving home from a faculty holiday party when she hits a deer. Yet when she gets out of her car to look for it, the deer is gone. Eager to get home before the oncoming snowstorm, Nan is forced to leave her car at the bottom of her snowy driveway to wait out the longest night of the year — and the lowest point of her life...

The next morning, Nan is woken by a police officer at her door with terrible news—one of her students, Leia Dawson, was killed in a hit-and-run on River Road the night before, and because of the damage to her car, Nan is a suspect. In the days following the accident, Nan finds herself shunned by the same community that rallied around her when her own daughter was killed in an eerily similar accident six years prior.

Leading our discussion will be Paulabeth Henderson. The books are available for check-out at the library. Notification is posted in case of cancellation.

Garnett Kart Races to return April 8-9

It's quiz time: What is 50 years old in Garnett and can manage to exceed speeds well over 100 mph?

Answer: KART racing.

The weekend of April 8-9 the City of Garnett welcomes the first Kart road race of the season. The Garnett KART Club, which has been hosting races since 1957, will once again bring racing to the North Lake Park road course. The racing schedule runs from 8 am to 4 pm both Saturday and Sunday.

Local racers Bryan Norman and Wes Skillman will be racing Saturday and Sunday.

For over 50 years the Garnett KART Club has been hosting both road and sprint track races, including 3 national events. Each racing event garners 125 to 135 entries and involves people from many states across the country.

KART racing is a great spectator sport. The North Lake

Park is unique in that it provides a free viewing site on the south side of the road course (near park entrance), or for only $15 for adults, $10 for kids and children 3 and under-free, the family can access the pit area located on the east side of Lake Garnett for a truly "awesome" view of the road course. In the pits you can watch the crews work on their carts and learn more about this motor sport, and then watch the racers as they sprint down the west side straight-away exceeding 100 mph, maneuver the chicane made of hay bales, cross the dam and, fight nose to tail for position around tight corners surrounding Lake Garnett.

The likes of Jamie McMurray and Kevin Harvick, both well-known in the NASCAR circuit, raced at Lake Garnett. KART racing has sharpened the skills of such racers as Mario Andretti, Al Unser, Terry LaBonte and Ricky Rudd.

The real heroes of this sport for us, however, are the members of the Garnett Kart Club, who have given years of their time and energy to improving race facilities, promoting these events and bringing hundreds of racers and fans to our community. We invite you to show your support and admiration of their dedication by attending the races on April 8-9.

'Reverse graffiti' your sales message

You may have seen the new wave of "reverse graffiti" art that's sweeping the grimy sidewalks and alley walls of the world's urban centers. It's cool, clean, and the idea makes for a great way to sell stuff.

The concept is simple. If you've ever written "wash me" in the dust and grime on the back windshield of someone's dirty car, you get the drift.

Particularly in urban areas, artists are using reverse graffiti to reveal some pretty amazing visual images, and at the same time illustrate how we take for granted just how dirty things around us are on a day-to-day basis. It's a neat endeavor, and it beats the damage done by traditional graffiti.

The cool part is you can use this new trend as an eye-catching addition to your marketing efforts. Basically you make a stencil with your logo, website or short sales pitch on it - stay with larger images and minimal text to make the most impact and keep your art as clear as possible - and then "clean" it into a soiled surface with lots of nearby foot or motor traffic.

Here are some tips:
1) Lots of art supply shops can cut stencils, but consider that you're going to be soaking this one in mild cleaning solutions like Windex or Formula 409 or in some cases hitting it with a power washer. An aluminum stencil, cut at a sign shop or from numerous places online, will hold up to anything and yet be light enough to be easily portable.

2) Keep in mind the range at which your image can be seen. A manhole cover looks big, but even it is only really visible from a certain distance. The smaller your image (and none should be smaller than a license plate) the closer your audience has to be to see it.

Dane Hicks
Review Publisher

HOW TO SELL STUFF

3) Smaller stencils can be cleaned with a sponge or rag and some mild cleaning solution. For larger art rent or borrow a power washer and get help from a couple of friends to stabilize your stencil.

4) Stick to public property - sidewalks, street curbs, streets, bridges, etc. While no one will probably have you arrested for clean stenciling on the back of their dirty tractor-trailer door or dirty windows, it's still their private property and might be irritating.

5) Stick to night time work - traffic will be lighter and you have less chance of someone spoiling your fun and washing away your stencil.

Reverse graffiti alone won't be the ticket to put you on the Fortune 500, but it's another creative, interesting, novel - and undamaging - way to connect to potential customers. It's the cleanest way I know to help you sell stuff!

Three-county K-31 resurfacing project starts this week

This week, weather permitting, the Kansas Department of Transportation (KDOT) expects to begin a highway resurfacing project on K-31 through Anderson, Coffey and Osage counties. The road work will begin at the north junction of U.S. 59/K-31 at Garnett and continue northwest for 30 miles, ending at the east I-35/K-31 junction. The project also includes resurfacing on K-31 through the cities of Harris and Waverly.

This project had been delayed from the original starting date of November 2016.

Project activity includes a 2-inch mill and 1½-inch asphalt overlay from Garnett to Waverly, and a 3½-inch mill and 1½-inch overlay from Waverly north to I-35. A pilot car and flaggers will direct one-lane traffic through the work zone, with delays of 15 minutes or less during daylight hours Monday through Friday. The work should be completed in approximately one month, weather permitting.

KDOT awarded the $3.1 million construction contract to Shilling Construction Co., Inc., of Manhattan. Troy Howard, construction engineer at the KDOT Garnett office, reminds drivers to watch for the signs and flaggers, slow down and "Give 'Em a Brake!" at the work zone. Persons with questions may contact Howard at (785) 448-5446, or Priscilla Petersen, KDOT Southeast District public affairs manager, at (620) 902-6433.

What to do with expired or unused medications

Do you have a cabinet full of old prescription or over-the-counter medicines? Would you like to dispose of them responsibly?

Too often, these medications simply sit in the cabinet. If they are discarded, they are flushed down the toilet or improperly tossed in the trash; this is dangerous for others, hazardous to the environment, and could put drugs in the hands of abusers. According to a 2014 study in The Journal of Pediatrics, more than 9,000 children under 7 years old are hospitalized annually due to accidental ingestion of medications. If not properly disposed of, potentially fatal doses can be consumed by curious children or wandering pets. Flushing or otherwise sending medications down the drain dissolves most medications into the sewer system. Most treatment facilities are not capable of removing these drugs from water and they are passed on to waterways and ecosystems. This can be harmful to wildlife as nearly 80% of U.S. Geologic Survey water samples contain measurable amounts of medication. McMaster University in Ontario has found that even trace amounts are detrimental to aquatic life, which raises concerns about the potential effects on the young, elderly, and pregnant women. Finally, according to the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA), almost 1 in 4 teens report abusing or misusing a prescription drug at least once. An unsupervised or tossed bottle of medication can be easily found and abused if a person was looking for it.

Fortunately, our local Sheriff's department works with the DEA to help the public remove medications from homes, water and trash. They gladly accept unused and expired prescription and overthe-counter medications 24 hours daily, year-round. Just bring them, excluding sharps (needles), to the front lobby and drop them in the medication disposal drop box.

Although the use of the drop box at the Sheriff's department is the preferred method for disposal, according to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), most medications can be thrown in the trash if done so properly.

1. Remove the medications from their original containers and mix them with an undesirable substance, such as dirt, kitty litter or used coffee grounds.

a. This mixture will be less appealing to children and pets and also makes the medications unrecognizable to someone who may sift through trash looking for drugs.

2. Place the mixture in a sealed container such as a zip-lock bag or empty coffee can.

a. This prevents anything from leaking out of a garbage bag.

3. Toss the container in the trash.

4. Scratch out personal and drug information from the bottle and discard separately.

Please consult your pharmacist or doctor for any other medication-related questions.

Rockers joins Silver Key honor society

MANHATTAN — Kansas State University's Silver Key, a sophomore leadership honor society that emphasizes community service, has selected Garnett's Maci Rockers as a member for the 2017-2018 academic year. She is one of 40 new members.

To be eligible for Silver Key, students must have at least a 3.0 grade point average, be a 2016 high school graduate and in their freshman year at the university.

Silver Key provides service to the campus and the surrounding Manhattan community. Members organize and participate in a variety of community service projects each semester. Past projects have included hosting children from the Boys and Girls Club at a K-State men's basketball game, Sleep Out for the Homeless fundraiser benefiting the Manhattan Emergency Shelter, highway and neighborhood cleanup efforts, and Sunday afternoon visits to Stoneybrook, a senior living community in Manhattan.

Rockers is majoring in food science.

 although that condition is expected to improve if recent rainy activity continues. Moderate drought means damage to crops and pastures can be expected and fire risk is high, while stream, reservoir, or well levels are low. Rain and thunderstorms were expected today and Wednesday, according to forecasts from the National Weather Service at Topeka. Most of the rest of the week was expected to be dry, with a possibility of showers returning by the end of the weekend.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 4-4-2017 / Photo Submitted

This wooden slat, iron banded nail keg/barrel survived a store fire in 1905 because it was sitting outside.

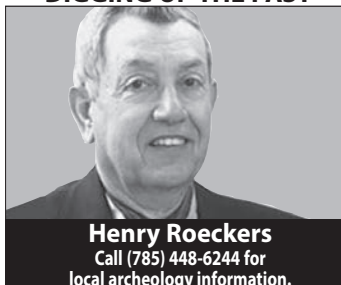

A survivor of the 1905 store fire

My grandfather Joseph G. Roeckers and his son-in-law John DeGreef owned and operated a General Merchandise Store on the north side of the Garnett Square in 1905.

Taken from the Garnett Eagle-Plaindealer: March 10, 1905 Fire.

Saturday morning at six o'clock smoke was seen coming out of Murdock's store. The fire company responded to the alarm, but for half an hour there was but little water pressure. After that the pressure was good, but the fire had too much headway. By this time it was apparent that the big Mellen Block had to go. This building was 100 feet deep, had an eighty foot front, was partitioned off. The east forty feet was owned by Conway Marshall. The west twenty feet was occupied by Murdock's store. East of Murdock, J.J. Anderson and Son had forty feet, east of that Roeckers and DeGreef had twenty feet. The west forty feet of the second floor was occupied by the A.O.U.W. Hall and the balance by Anderson and Roeckers and DeGreef. The fire was first discovered in the roof over the A.O.U.W. HALL. Several lodges met there, and one had a meeting Saturday night.

When I was given this little wooden slat, iron banded nail keg/barrel in 1988, I was told the history of its survival. It and several other items belonging to my Grandpa Joe and John DeGreef were sitting outside behind the store near the loading and unloading door and platform and escaped this terrible fire.

In the near future I will be donating this artifact to the Anderson County Museum in memory of my Grandfather Joseph G. Roeckers.

Duplicate bridge played

Charles and Peggy Carlson of Savonburg won the duplicate bridge match March 29 in Garnett. Tom Peavler of Waverly and Mary Margaret Thomas of Osawatimie came in second. Bud and Mary Lynn Gollier of Ottawa were in third place. Faye Leitch and Lynda Feuerborn of Garnett tied with Steve Brodmerkle of Neosho Falls and Anita Dennis of Garnett for fourth.

The Garnett Duplicate Bridge Club welcomes all players Wednesdays at 1:00 at the Garnett Inn.

Potato Bar Supper, new display at Richmond Museum

You're invited to visit the Richmond Community Museum Saturday, April 8, before or after a Potato Bar Supper, to see the new World War I display. The Museum will open at 3 p.m. with no charge, and the supper will be served from 5-7 p.m. at the Community Building.

The supper will include baked potato, several toppings, relishes, dessert and drink... all for a donation. This is one of the Museum's two yearly fund-raising suppers. There will also be drawings for prizes.

Just a few steps west, the Museum's new World War I display features pictures of some of the young men from the area who served at that time, including Stevenson, Nilges, Duffy, Wiesner, Kipper, Mishler, Spencer, McCrea, Henderson, Kepple, Gentry, Mersman, Feuerborn and others.

Of the 100 men from the area who were in service then, Wilbur Stevenson was the only one killed in combat. He died Sept. 13, 1918, in the Battle of St. Mihiel and is buried in France. Wilbur was the son of Thomas W. and Elizabeth Stevenson and a cousin of Floyd Stevenson, also a WWI veteran. A monument with Wilbur's name and information is in the Richmond Cemetery.

However, three soldiers from Richmond died of illness -- Ralph Gault, Joseph Severns and John Wittman. Their stories, and others, are in a notebook of information and pictures about "The Great War," as it was called.

An especially interesting story is that of Mark R. Hart. His uniform and the Purple Heart he was awarded 50 years after the event are displayed. He is probably the only person in the area who had both a memorial service and a funeral service many years later in the same church.

Visitors can also learn about Oda Kepple, a nurse who served in England and France with the American Red Cross, and the Richmond, Kansas, Home Guard which was active at that time.

The Museum's recent annual meeting featured information by a National World War I Museum staff member; also from Joe Hart, nephew of Mark Hart; and Dennis Peters, Richmond Museum researcher.

Special activities to mark the 100th anniversary of the United States' entry into the war will be held at the National WWI Museum and Memorial, across the street from Union Station in Kansas City on Thursday, April 6th. Watch for television broadcasts starting at 10:30am or earlier. More information at www.theworldwar.org.

City seeks help to win $20k in contest

GARNETT – April is Earth Month and the National Recreation and Park Association (NRPA) is collaborating with The Walt Disney Company, including Disney Citizenship, Disney/ABC Television Group and ESPN, to revitalize parks across the U.S. for a third year. The city that receives the most nominations will receive a $20,000 grant to improve a local park.

Our local parks make Garnett a better place to live and shape so many of our lives. Parks are essential to our city's health and well-being. They provide safe places to be active and enjoy nature—and they help preserve the environment and bring people together. That's why from April 1 to April 30 Garnett residents will have the unique opportunity to nominate our city to receive $20,000 in grant funding to make improvements at a local park.

By visiting NRPA.org/BeInspired, park supporters can nominate our city. At the end of April, the city with the most nominations will receive the grant funding.

New this year, everyone who nominates a city will be entered into a drawing for a tablet outfitted for the outdoors.

"Supporting local parks is essential to the health and vitality of communities everywhere," said Lori Robertson, NRPA Director of Conservation. "That's why we are proud to collaborate with The Walt Disney Company to help fund critical park improvement projects in communities in need. We encourage everyone to join us in giving back to the places that shape so much of our lives by voting in this year's Meet Me at the Park campaign."

"This is an opportunity to receive much needed funds for park improvements while showcasing our community's assets to others", says Susan Wettstein, Community Development Director. "Beginning April 1 to April 30, during Earth Month, we ask that you show what parks mean to our community by nominating Garnett, Kansas. Encourage your friends to nominate our Garnett by taking a selfie in your favorite Garnett park and post it on social media using the hashtags #MeetMeAtThePark, #Parkies and #BeInspired."

Again, for more information and to nominate your city, visit NRPA.org/BeInspired.

During April, a public service announcement (PSA) supporting the Meet Me at the Park campaign will be shared with audiences across Disney, including ABC Television Network, ABC-owned and affiliate stations, Freeform, Disney Channel, Disney XD, Disney Junior, the ABC app and other digital platforms. The PSA will also be available to view on the voting site at www.nrpa.org/beinspired. Additionally, Radio Disney will support the campaign with an on-air radio spot.

The City of Garnett will be launching some events and activities both online through social media and through the Garnett Recreation Center. Details will be announced at a later date through local newspapers.

Forrest listed his top priorities as "property maintenance and revitalization of the downtown." Garnett has a lot of assets, he said, but those were areas that he saw a need for improvement.

Between 20 to 30 people attended the meet-and-greet reception for the candidates in a forum that seemed, at times, a little like speed dating. Some of those who attended said they would have preferred to have more of an introduction and background information for each of the candidates, in addition to opportunities to talk to them one-on-one.

"I didn't get enough information to make a real determination," Rick Doran, a former longtime Garnett city manager, said. "I got to talk to each of them, but didn't get in-depth."

Doran said he thought Forrest was more experienced and "refined," but Weiner seemed more personable. Doran's wife, Diane, said she preferred Weiner because he was a Kansas native and a cur-

Pastor Joe Johnson with the Life Assembly of God Church in Garnett and a member of the Garnett Community Foundation advisory board agreed the format of the meet-and-greet made it difficult to learn much about the candidates. He said he appreciated that organizers made sure everyone had a chance to meet and talk to the candidates, but would have preferred at least a short, more formal introduction to learn about their individual qualifications.

Johnson said he felt Weiner was a better candidate because of the way he attempted to connect with those at the reception.

"I told him I was a pastor here, and he shared different ways in which he could connect the city and my area," Johnson said.

Forrest seemed very confident and competent, as well, Johnson said, but he was more impressed by his interactions with Weiner.

Attendees at the reception were asked to leave comments about the candidates.

City commissioners interviewed the candidates after the reception, but have not yet announced a decision. It was not known when such an announcement would come.
