Former local residents escape, endure Houston flooding

Some headed back to Garnett, some got lucky in historic storm

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

HOUSTON, Tx – Historic flooding last week in and around Houston, Texas, has been an unforgettable experience for former local residents who now call the Magnolia City home.

The rainfall that came with Hurricane Harvey covered much of the city, made rivers out of streets and sent thousands of residents to their roof tops or the upper stories of buildings, shutting down many municipal and private business services as emergency workers turned all their resources to rescue efforts in the city of 2.3 million.

Former Garnett Mayor and city commissioner Preston Peine, who relocated to Houston in 2015 for a job with Microsoft, didn't waste time in responding with his family to the threat of the hurricane – they packed up and headed to Garnett.

"We left Friday afternoon and drove through the night to get out before it really even began," Peine said. "I'm just glad that we were fortunate enough to have a place to go in situations like this."

Peine said the family's plan was to turn the event into a visit home and return when the schools re-open – possibly as early as the middle of this week. He said the fate of their home was unknown – they moved all their family photos, electronics and other valuable to the second floor just in case.

"Snapchat allows us to see up-to-date videos of our neighborhood," Peine said. "So far, it looks like we may escape with minimal damage."

"I'm lucky to have a job which allows me to temporarily work from any Internet connected location in the world," Peine said.

Gina Schulte-Halle, another former Garnett resident now a longtime transplant to Houston, said Tuesday morning she and her family had been fortunate to live close enough to Galveston Bay that the 41 inches of rain they'd had since Saturday near Armand Bayou Nature Center in Clear Lake, about seven miles from the bay, wasn't staying long in her neighborhood.

"It's all about how much rain you get and how the drainage can handle it," she said. Their home sits a mere 10 feet above sea level, she said, but it's proximity to near-

Courthouse renovation plans may take shape by October

Project will renovate offices, add elevator, relocate some workers

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – County officials hope plans will be finalized in late October for a major renovation and reorganization of offices in the Anderson County Courthouse, realigning office space and locations for the first time since the county annex building was constructed west of the courthouse in 1998.

County commissioners met with a representative from BG Consultants recently regarding the ongoing planning for a rebuild for the courthouse elevator system, a project which the firm hopes to coordinate with the structural renovation to the district court chambers and second floor office areas.

The projects have been in research and planning since 2015 and also include a major upgrade to the 115 year-old building's HVAC system, with a new plan to move one of the county offices out of its traditional home and into the Anderson County Annex across Oak Street, since county engineering and zoning moved to the new county shop building on Seventh Street.

Anderson County Clerk Julie Heck said last week the project could be ready for bid as early as October. Initial estimates for the elevator and HVAC upgrade called for prices somewhere between $1 million and $1.5 million. Anderson County will receive assistance on the elevator project with a 50/50 grant from the Kansas Department of Commerce. It will be located just inside the west doors of the courthouse, with the old elevator shaft in the main hallway being converted to house new HVAC piping, electrical and ductwork. It

New tax sale could target $800,000 in delinquencies

County report shows potential if new sale is pursued

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – County officials reviewed data showing more than $800,000 in delinquent property taxes and fees could be subject to future tax sales in Anderson County, after sales in 2014 and 2016 disposed of several hundred thousand dollars in back tax debt.

Harold DeForest with the Anderson County

Treasurer's office submitted a report to commissioners showing a total of $867,491 still owed to the county in real estate taxes from the years 2012-2016. That figure includes $730,290 in actual taxes and some $137,000 in interest and sale fees that include legal work and publication costs.

Commissioners gave no immediate indication that a tax sale on all or a portion of those properties was imminent, though county commissions in recent years have been more aggressive in pursuing tax debt, with limited property foreclosures and sales in both 2014 and 2016.

Tax debt is a moving target, which is one of the factors that hampers the legal research and preparation that leads to a disputed property's condemnation and foreclosure prior to it being sold for the taxes against it. That's because the lagging delinquent properties whose taxes are eventually paid by their owners tend to be several years in arrears, so more recent years show more in the way of unpaid tax debt. For instance DeForest's report showed only $39,660 still due on properties from 2012, $72,219 from 2013, $101,003 from 2014, $169,154 due from 2015 and $348,252 due from 2016.

The process of the sale is laborious and expensive, since each tract has to be fully researched and its ownership confirmed before the county can proceed with a foreclosure against it. Once that confirmation is determined, county legal staff take measures to notify the property owner through conventional means and by publication in the official newspaper of record for

Jones, Tyson vye for U.S. Congressional seat

Primaries apparent in both parties for retiring Jenkins post

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA – Two legislators both representing Anderson County have announced their intentions to run within a field of Republicans and at least two Democrats for the Second District U.S. Congress seat currently held by retiring congresswoman Lynn Jenkins.

Fifth District Kansas House Representative Kevin Jones of Wellsville and 12th District Kansas Senator Caryn Tyson from Parker both announced their intentions in recent weeks, following Leavenworth State Senator Steve Fitzgerald who made his formal announcement in July.

Both Tyson and Jones are familiar faces in East Central Kansas, but the 2nd District runs from Nebraska to Oklahoma down the eastern side of the state, encompassing both Topeka and Lawrence, with a population of some 715,000. Neither appears daunted by moving into a larger turf pledging they have the experience the district needs to represent its residents in the U.S. House.

"Kansans want real results in Washington and leadership that reflects their values," Tyson said in her announcement statement. "My real-world experience and problem solving skills in technology, business and agriculture are needed in Congress now more than ever."

Tyson, a K-State graduate with a professional background in information technology who at one time worked in space shuttle support for NASA, grew up in central Kansas and runs Tyson Ranch in Linn County with her husband Tim, the fifth generation of Tysons to ranch in Linn County. She served two terms in the former 4th Representative District and was re-elected in November to a second term in the Kansas Senate, where she served as Chair of the Tax Committee.

Tyson said Washington has gotten too far from the roots of representation.

"Insiders in Washington have forgotten how to fight for us, our families and the average small business," Tyson said. "Every generation has a responsibility to apply our founding principles to today's challenges. This is our turn – this is our time."

Jones was raised in Wellsville and earned a bachelor's in education from the

Insurance department releases range of health insurance rates for 2018

TOPEKA, KS — The Kansas Insurance Department has completed the review of rate filings for individual and small group health plans in Kansas for 2018.

The range of average rate revisions by insurance companies is from -8.8 percent to 29 percent. The proposed changes are for health plans sold on the federal marketplace and also for plans not sold through the government website. The plans affect approximately 4 percent of the Kansas population who may purchase individual plans.

For 2018, 38 plans have been proposed for sale during open enrollment in Kansas on the federally-facilitated online marketplace.

Currently, the federal healthcare.gov website only displays plans with a rate revision for 2018. Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kansas, Medica and Sunflower State Health Plan will offer new plans in 2018, and these plans may not display as rate revisions on healthcare.gov.

The marketplace information given to the department shows Medica has filed plans for all 105 counties in Kansas.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kansas has filed plans for 103 counties—all except Johnson and Wyandotte. Sunflower State Health Plan (a division of Centene) has filed plans in Johnson and Wyandotte counties (Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kansas City, which operates in Johnson and Wyandotte counties in Kansas, previously announced the company will discontinue operating on the online marketplace as of Dec. 31, 2017).

The federal government has not indicated whether consumers will be able to "window shop" for all plans on the federal website prior to November 1, 2017, the official date for 2018 open enrollment to begin.

All rate filings are subject to analysis by the insurance department's Health and Life Division. The division reviews the insurance companies' actuarial data and assumptions. All rates are required to be final by Sept. 6, 2017.

Open enrollment for the marketplace begins Nov. 1, 2017, and ends Dec. 15, 2017. This is a shorter open enrollment period than in years past.

Consumer Alert: Use caution when directing disaster donations

TOPEKA — In light of the devastating hurricane and flooding in Texas and Louisiana, Kansas Attorney General Derek Schmidt warns Kansans to be aware of possible scam artists seeking to profit from the generosity of others.

Schmidt warns the public to make sure they are donating to a reputable charity and to specify that a charity uses donations for intended purposes.

"When natural disasters strike, it is human nature to offer help," Schmidt said. "But, please donate wisely to established, legitimate disaster-relief charities."

Here are a few simple tips for donating, to avoid being scammed:

Make donations to established organizations with a strong track record of organizing and providing disaster relief.

Be careful with social media efforts to fundraise for storm victims.

Initiate the donation yourself, rather than responding to online or phone solicitations. If you wish to make a donation online, go directly to the charity's website; don't just click a link to an unknown site.

Avoid door-to-door solicitors or offers from charities to stop by a consumer's home to pick up a check. These too could be fraudulent.

Do not fall prey to high-pressure pitches from solicitors. Legitimate charities allow you time to think about how much — and when — you choose to donate.

Be wary of charities that ask for alternate forms of payment. Legitimate charities rarely if ever ask you to give by wire transfer.

Before giving, check out the charity at www.kshareity-check.org to assess whether it is registered to solicit in Kansas and to see important aspects of its financial filings, including how much of any money you give will be spent on the charity's overhead expenses rather than going to support the charitable purpose, such as hurricane relief efforts. However, some charities are exempt by law from registration.

by bayous and ultimately the path to Galveston Bay meant the slow but near constant rains were draining away from their neighborhood faster than in many other places.

"We're lucky this was a rain event and not a wind event," Halle said. "We lost power for about 45 minutes that first night (Saturday), but so far the power's on, the water supply's fine, the Internet is fine — we have pretty much everything we need."

She said she hadn't ventured out of the house much in order to avoid potential dangers and to say out of the way of emergency workers, but she said some stores in their neighborhood were operating for limited hours in recent days.

Officials were preparing to release water from additional reservoir impoundments in some areas of the city on Tuesday which was expected to increase levels of flooding downstream.

Where can mercy be found?

One word that is used often in the Bible but seldom by the church or by believers is mercy. One of the best definitions of mercy given by David Jeremiah is, "Mercy is God withholding from you what you deserve."

To clearly understand mercy we need to understand what is meant by the term ark of the covenant. This was a sacred portable chest which was the most important sacred object of the Israelites during the wilderness period. The ark contained the two stone tablets on which the Ten Commandments were written, the golden pot of MANNA, which God had preserved, and AARON'S ROD.

The ark was placed in the inner most part of the temple and on the Day of Atonement the cover of the ark (mercy seat) was sprinkled with the atoning blood of the sacrifice representing that the righteous sentence of the law had been executed changing a place of judgment into a place of mercy. In Romans 3:21; Paul says, "But now a righteousness from God apart from the law has been made known to which the Law and the Prophet testify." Paul says but now, this means something has changed. In Romans 3:22-25; we read, "This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference, for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus. God presented him as a sacrifice of atonement through faith in his blood."

Now there is no need to go into the inner temple and sprinkle blood on the mercy seat. Jesus Christ is our atoning sacrifice. The Old Testament Covenant of sacrifice has been replaced by the fact that Jesus Christ completely satisfied the just demands of a Holy God for the judgment of sin by his death on the cross so we have a new covenant. One comparison that has made this more understandable for me is in the book of Job. In the Book of Job he undergoes tremendous suffering. He (Job) loses all his possessions, all his children and even his health for no apparent reason. In Job 9:32-35, Job draws this conclusion; "He (God) is not a man like me that I might answer him, that we might confront one another in court. If only there were someone to arbitrate between us, to lay his hand upon us both. Someone to remove God's rod from me, so that his terror would frighten me no more. Then I would speak up without fear of him, but as it now stands with me, I cannot."

In 1st Timothy 2:5-6, we find God breached this gap between himself and man. Paul writes, "For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself as a ransom for all men-the testimony given in its proper time." What Job lacked we have. Jesus sits at the right hand of God as our mediator. Through a personal relationship with Jesus we have direct access to the throne room of God. Jesus has made God approachable. When I approach him I have found him to be all he says he is in his word. I thank God for his Son Christ Jesus for without him I am as Job.

District Court Judge Eric Godderz did not return an email last week inquiring as to projected costs and specifics on the second floor courthouse project.

The layout of the courthouse offices has remained virtually unchanged since the building's construction in 1902. Heck said the vacancy at the annex means a possible relocation for one of the courthouse offices, possible the county treasurer or the county attorney.

Heck said no formal decision on a relocation had yet been made, but a space analysis study conducted by BG Consultants at the outset of the project two years ago examined current offices to determine how people use various spaces in the courthouse and other county-owned buildings. The vacancy left by the road and zoning apartments in the county annex leaves an additional 1,017 square feet of available office space.

The study proposed the possibility of the county attorney's office and file storage on the second floor, as well as offices for Community Corrections on the third floor, could move into that annex space. The appraiser's office then could take over the courthouse space vacated by the county attorney and community corrections on the second floor. The clerk's office would move across the hall and next door to the appraiser's first floor space, while the treasurer's office would expand into vacated clerk's space next door.

County commissioners have made no final decision on any relocation scenarios.

the county that the property is subject to tax foreclosure. Sometimes back tax bills are paid through this process, but those that aren't are moved through the pipeline and eventually brought to auction.

A 2014 tax sale of 58 properties that owed some $309,000 in back taxes generated around $117,000 in revenues, or about 38 cents on the dollar of the total tax debt. Those properties then went back on regular tax roles - another objective of tax sales - presumably to become tax paying properties in the future. The 2016 sale netted $35,402 from 40 properties owing about $186,000.

Houston's inspiration defines the real threats to our country

The pictures, videos and social media posts coming out of Houston, Texas, thanks to Hurricane Harvey are horrifying: children camped out on kitchen counters in order to avoid flooding; elderly women stuck in rest homes and up to their waist in water; tweets from local police departments reminding residents to bring axes into their attic in case they have to cut their way through their roof to escape rising waters.

But there is a credible existential threat to Americans. The problem is that it's internal.

Best in us: our capacity for care, our bravery in risking our lives to help others. Then we're inevitably disappointed in our unending ability to leave those qualities behind the moment disaster ends. We'll rush into burning buildings to save each other, but we'll club each other on the head at political rallies.

Why? Because there are certain enemies we hold in common. We hold death in common; we'll help all but our worst enemies escape the grave. We hold natural disasters in common as an enemy; we'll react to them by helping out our neighbors. And we hold civilizational threats in common; we'll fight together against the Nazi scourge or the Soviet threat.

But what about when there is no civilizational threat? What about when we're so powerful that serious threats seem unserious? Former President Obama informed us routinely that radical Islamic terrorism didn't threaten our civilization. It's no wonder, then, that so few Americans see radical Islam as a threat worth unifying against. President Trump tells us that Russia isn't a civilizational threat, and neither is global warming. Without a credible existential threat, Americans don't unify. But there is a credible existential threat to Americans. The problem is that it's internal. America was built on the foundation of free speech, liberty in personal action, and freedom from violence and governmental tyranny. Those principles are now under attack by groups like antifa, far-left-leaning militants, which maintains that there is an existential threat that justifies wartime measures: the presence of the American system itself. Antifa members believe America is steeped in racism, bigotry, economic injustice and police barbarity. And they believe that this gives them the right to carve away at the foundations that hold us together.

This makes them an existential threat, a cancer gnawing at the vitals of the nation. They aren't the only ones, of course: Some violent members of the "alt-right," for example, believe that non-white Americans are the existential threat and use the same logic as antifa. But the true threat to America comes not from outside but from within. It's far harder to unify against that threat if we're unwilling to identify it.

But we should be willing to unify. We should all be willing to defend our neighbors in the peaceful expression of their rights — we should stand with them against violence. We should commit acts of kindness and heroism to help them. There is a storm coming. We must fight it together, or it will overwhelm us while we close our eyes to its danger.

The City of Kincaid needs to do something about the landowners not cleaning up their properties. Some landowners have tall grass in their yards, also weeds and even trees growing in their ditches. How can landowners not have more pride in their places? The citizens should have more community pride also. Even the old elementary school in Kincaid looks awful. Whoever takes care of that place does not do a good job.

I have no idea who the person is who keeps calling the Phone Forum and accusing Republicans of being inbred morons, but because you can't seem to come up with any more creative criticisms I tend to think you're compensating for something. Are there a few too many vertical branches in your own family tree? Perhaps you have something against people who believe in law and order and working for a living and having a good economy and a strong national defense? Whatever the reason is you might consider that the last time the paper published the number of Republicans, Democrats, Independents, Libertarians and so on in Anderson County the largest majority were Republicans. If I'm not mistaken President Trump carried a huge majority of voters in our county in the election by they Democrats or Republicans or Independents. That means probably most of your family, neighbors and probably your friends if you have any voted for Mr. Trump. I can assure you that I am not an inbred moron, and as far as I know my friends and others I know in this community regardless of whom they voted for are not inbred morons. Your use of the term shows your insecurity, your ignorance and your anger that your side lost. It may be more than just emotional. Might I suggest you do your own DNA test before your next call. # Stop making excuses for Antifa thuggery

One of the least safe places to be in Berkeley, California, is in the vicinity of someone holding a "No Hate" sign.

So-called anti-fascist, or antifa, activists bearing shields emblazoned with those words assaulted any of the handful of beleaguered Trump supporters they could get their hands on at a small political rally over the weekend. All in the cause, mind you, of demonstrating their supposed opposition to hatefulness.

Too many people were willing to perfume antifa in the wake of Charlottesville, where it clashed with Nazi thugs who caused, and deserved, a wave of national revulsion. But Berkeley demonstrates once again the true nature of this left-wing movement, which is thuggish in its tactics and totalitarian in its sensibility. Anyone who at this point makes excuses for antifa -- or worse, justifies it -- is participating in its moral rot.

The antifa goons showed up in force at Berkeley at what had been a small "anti-Marxist" rally of Trump supporters at a public park. Antifa wore its usual fascistic garb of black masks and body armor. They overwhelmed the police who had been trying to maintain order and, holding aloft smoke-spewing flares, chanted, "Whose park? Our park!"

They then treated suspected Trump supporters with all the decorousness of torch-wielding medieval villagers who believed they had stumbled upon a witch. A leader of a pro-Trump group had to run from a mob that pepper-sprayed and beat him, until he was taken into police custody for his own protection. The targets weren't Nazis bearing Nazi regalia, but supporters of the duly-elected president of the United States.

Antifa benefited enormously from the horrific events in Charlottesville. It became Nazis versus the people standing up to the Nazis, and in that formulation the people standing up to the Nazis always win. There can be no moral equivalence, we were told, between Nazis and their opponents. But that depends on who the opponents are -- there is a vast difference between peaceful counterprotesters and violent thugs, even if they are marching on the same side.

Bully-boy fascists spoiling for a fight and black-clad leftists looking to beat them up exist on the same moral plane. They both thrill to violence and benefit from the attention that comes from it. They both reject civility and the rule of law that make a democratic society possible. They both are profoundly illiberal.

All this was lost in the reaction to Charlottesville. Liberal commentators spread memes comparing antifa to American GIs who stormed the beaches at Normandy. The comparison would be apt if the 1st Infantry Division got together to spend an afternoon beating up fellow Americans rather than giving its last measure of devotion to breaching Hitler's Atlantic Wall.

There will always be goons who enjoy breaking things and hurting people. The real scandal is that otherwise respectable people are willing to look the other way or explain away the violence, so long as its perpetrators are on their side. They are just as cowardly as the mask-wearing antifa thugs who are brave enough to punch and kick people, but not to show their faces.

Legislators to Kobach: Define "corruption"

We're still waiting for that stern letter to Secretary of State Kris Kobach from the leaders of the Kansas Legislature about his use of that seven-letter word they don't like to hear on the campaign trail.

Nope, it's not about body parts, or what you say when the low-fuel light starts blinking on the dashboard.

It's "corrupt."
And, it struck a nerve with at least one state representative earlier this summer, when House Speaker pro tem Scott Schwab, a Republican from Olathe, told the legislative leadership council he didn't like the sound of it and it is disrespectful of lawmakers and other holders of state office.

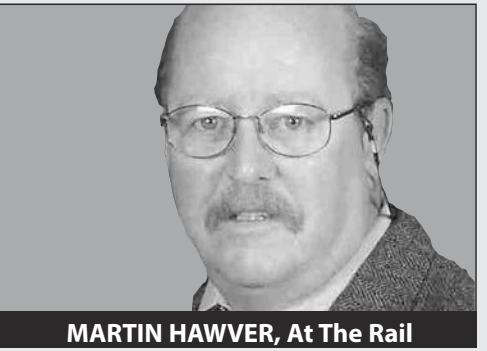

Schwab is working on a stern letter that the Legislative Coordinating Council—the leaders of each chamber—urged him to get written for their signature so they can tell Kobach to tone down that inflammatory word unless he files charges against those corrupt politicians he never identifies by name and office held.

Kobach has been quiet while that letter is being written, but you gotta know that you hardly ever go wrong with that word among voters who think they are paying too much in taxes or the neighbor's street gets plowed but not theirs, or they can't smoke in the courthouse anymore...

Corrupt has become almost a word you read or hear but don't pay any attention to, sorta like "excuse me" or "is that your pistol?"

Yes, we're all waiting to see just what letter is going to look like, and whether the legislative leadership which on an apparent unanimous vote unleashed Schwab to get it written with the assistance of the Kansas Revisor of Statute's office will sign the letter.

STATE COMMENTARY

MARTIN HAWVER, At The Rail

If anyone, even a candidate, knows that a state official has done something corrupt, well, someone needs to be told about it.

But at some point, state elected officials are just trying to run the government for us and aren't getting any side benefit (maybe a little less ice, a little more rum in that red cup?).

There's probably a good point among all the linguistics here. If anyone, even a candidate, knows that a state official has done something corrupt, well, someone needs to be told about it. A complaint filed or something.

But just tossing around the word isn't a good idea, nothing you would want your children to do.

And while Kobach is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, we noticed that Schwab has nearly become a candidate for the post Kobach is giving up. He's named a campaign treasurer, but hasn't dug out the starched white shirt he'll probably wear when he makes a formal announcement that he wants the GOP nomination for Secretary of State in next year's election cycle.

And even the whole issue of blasting candidates as "corrupt" probably becomes a fairly decent little campaign issue for Schwab, who by avoiding using that word can essentially claim that he is politer than his predecessor.

Gotta say, though, that if a candidate tosses out the word corrupt, and then shows us proof of that corruption, that's a pretty good sign the candidate is watching out for all of us. But just tossing the word out without some evidence of who is corrupt, what the corruption is, and initiating some action to stop it isn't in the best public interest.

Yep, that word "corrupt" is relatively powerful. Let's see what lawmakers, or at least legislative leaders, do with it...

"If someone's feeling brave and daring, they can walk in and give it a go - winner gets 70 percent of the entry fees and a $1,000 purse - but there will be cowboys there from Kansas and some surrounding states as well."

Diamond E Bucking Bulls from Savannah, Mo., will provide stock for the show. The company has been breeding bucking bulls since 2003 and is one of the premiere event providers in the Midwest. In addition to 30 guaranteed rides, the show will feature trick riders and a bullfight as well.

The 13th annual Cornstock on Sept. 23 features Easton Corbin, Casey Donahew and Blackhawk, with special guests Highway 75, and Just Passin' Through opening up the evening's fare beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Blackhawk opens the main stage at 5:30 p.m. with Casey Donahew at 7 p.m., followed by Corbin's main event at 9 p.m.

Corbin's self-titled debut album released in 2010 and spawned back-to-back hits "A Little More Country Than That" and "Roll With It," making him the first country male artist in 17 years to have his first two consecutive singles reach No. 1. In 2012 the Gilchrist County Florida native released his sophomore album, All Over The Road, which included the Top 5 hits "Lovin' You Is Fun" and "All Over The Road."

Donahew promises a little different flavor as an opening act.

"I've just always liked the country songs from the 80's," he said. "It seems like a time when there was a lot of great songwriting going on, and I just enjoy people who can tell a story with a song."

The Burleson Tx., native, has painstakingly carved out an impressive niche for himself on the country music scene over the past decade, attracting a solid base of loyal fans who flock to his live shows. He's released four albums independently to critical acclaim, and forged a path all his own through the music scene "without the aid or muscle of a major record label or power-suit management company," according to his website. His latest CD release is "Double Wide Dream."

City Attorney's Summary of Ordinance #4191

On August 22, 2017, the City of Garnett Kansas, adopted Ordinance #4191 which amended Title IV, Chapter 7, Sections 1-4, inclusive, of the Municipal Code changing the rates and rate structures for water utility, elec-

After returning to Wellsville he served on the Wellsville School Board, the Franklin County Planning Commission and unseated a 9-term Democrat in 2012 for the 5th District Representative seat. He, along with Tyson, won re-election in November 2016.

Jones chaired the Joint Committee on Kansas Security and the Higher Education Budget committee, and served on the K-12 Education Budget and Appropriations committees. Jones lists fiscal reform, regulatory reform and health-care reform as his main priorities if elected to Congress.

"Spending, debt and taxes must all be reined in to unleash the full potential of our economy to create needed jobs,"

Jones says on his campaign website. He says leadership and the country has to recognize that insurance coverage is not healthcare - the key is affordability.

"Affordability of actual care must be tackled to reduce the inflationary drivers of health-care."

Jones, Tyson and Fitzgerald are so far the only Republicans to have made a public announcement regarding their intent to run for the office, although as many as three others have been rumored. The winner of the Republican primary will face either Lawrence attorney and one-time Kansas Governor candidate Paul Davis, Bashor city councilman Vernon Fields, or Kelly Standley of St. Paul, all of whom have said they intend to seek the Democratic Nomination.

Hyatt Club meets

The last summer meeting of Hyatt Club met at the Pizza Hut in Garnett with sixteen members enjoying pizza provided by the hostesses: Betty Penn, Becky King and Diane Hastert.

Jo Ella Phares received a gift certificate for Prairie Belles Restaurant from her mystery pal. The group had fun guessing the mystery gifts, with Sondra Grieshaber finally guessing the true contents of one package which was an attractive basket for the bathroom filled with a pretty towel and goodies for pampering one's self. After many guesses, followed by hostess hints, Janis Hightower guessed the 2nd mystery gift, a word search book.

The hostess gifts were as follows: pretty fall paper plates and napkins won by Shirley Benjamin, a large decorated jar filled with an assortment of candy, won by Mary Ann Umbarger, and a candle in a planter won by Janis Hightower.

In the business part of the meeting, it was decided to cancel the tentatively scheduled garage sale for September. For an alternate fundraiser, the group decided to raise the annual dues to $5 for each member.

During roll call, each member told of an item on her bucket list. Following Pat Mosher read a written list of every type of bucket she owned, members got down to business and named a variety of wishes. They included: driving a race car, taking a cruise, visiting Nashville, learning Spanish, living a healthy life, owning a rock post, visiting Historical sites in the eastern U.S., having all of family together at the same time, owning a Corvette, visiting the Grand Canyon, seeing the eclipse, winning the lottery, riding a very old horse, and owning a ranch in Montana.

The next meeting will be a noon potluck on Saturday, September 23 at the depot in Garnett, hosted by Shirley Benjamin and Ruth McDonald.

Each member left with a gift from the hostesses - a fall-themed decorated sack with a handy post-it note pad, an orange pen and candy.

Anderson County Hospital Receives Level IV Trauma Center Designation

GARNETT, Kan. (August 30, 2017) — The trauma center at Anderson County Hospital has again received Level IV Trauma Center designation by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment (KDHE).

Level IV trauma centers are rural hospitals whose primary role is to stabilize seriously injured patients and, if necessary, transfer them to a higher level trauma center. Hospitals that have achieved Level IV trauma center designation have demonstrated a commitment to providing optimal care for those who have been seriously injured.

"We know that every second matters when a life-threatening injury occurs. Trauma center designation is a key part of the overall statewide trauma system, which increases the chance of survival and reduces permanent injury for patients in Kansas," said KDHE Secretary Susan Mosier, M.D. "On behalf of families and visitors in our state, we congratulate Anderson County Hospital of Garnett, Kansas, for serving in this vital role."

Every three years, designated trauma centers must meet the essential criteria that ensure trauma care capability and institutional performance as outlined by the American College of Surgeons and endorsed by the Kansas Advisory Committee on Trauma.

There are four separate categories of designation by the Kansas Trauma Program. Each category has specific criteria that must be met by a facility seeking that level of designation. A trauma care system includes a network of hospitals providing a spectrum of care for injured patients. Trauma center designations are based on the hospital's care capability.

"The Level IV Trauma Center designation recognizes the level of care, expertise and commitment provided by our team here in the Anderson County community," said Rich McKain, CEO of Anderson County Hospital. "Our patients can be assured that through the Saint Luke's Health System, they will receive the highest level of care when that care is most critical."

Injuries are the leading cause of death and disability in Kansas. KDHE's Trauma Program works to ensure that those injured in Kansas have access to an organized system of trauma care that offers them the best chance of recovery.

Anderson County Hospital is a member of Saint Luke's Health System, which consists of 10 area hospitals and several primary and specialty care practices, and provides a range of inpatient, outpatient and home care services. Founded as a faith-based, not-for-profit organization, our mission includes a commitment to the highest levels of excellence in health care and the advancement of medical research and education. The health system is an aligned organization in which the physicians and hospitals assume responsibility for enhancing the physical, mental and spiritual health of people in the metropolitan Kansas City area and the surrounding region.

Special exhibit to be displayed in the Walker Art Gallery

The Walker Art Commission is pleased to announce a new exhibit featuring Kansas photographer, Karyn L. Sullivan.

Karyn's journey to become a photographer began a few years ago. She had just finished cancer treatment and was dealing with anxiety and uncertainty which accompanies the joy and relief of being in remission. She had lost her voice temporarily after surgery and her singing voice was gone. Before getting sick, Karyn had enjoyed writing and performing music; after, photography provided a new form of creative expression.

Karyn began to enjoy photography as almost a spiritual practice. She had always enjoyed taking pictures and had viewed light as a symbol for God and hope. Now, she started really looking for light, especially in nature, and trying to see how it influenced and affected everything that it touched. She wanted to capture that feeling and presence in an image.

Karyn describes herself as a wife, mother, teacher, student and survivor. She lives in Manhattan, KS, with her family. She is a special education teacher who loves to continuously learn. All photographs in this exhibit have been taken in Kansas. There will also be a special group of pictures taken of and around Garnett.

A reception for the artist and her family will be on Saturday, September 16, from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. in the West Wing Gallery of the Walker Art Gallery. Please consider joining us to enjoy the photographs, refreshments, and possibly hear original music composed and performed by the artist!

This exhibit is sponsored by the Walker Art Commission, Farmer's State Bank, and anonymous donors. It will be on display through November. The artist will have a price list for those interested in purchasing photographs or prints.

Huge increase estimated in jail project delays bids for a week for more proposals - 10 years ago

10 years ago...

Bidders on the new county jail project will have an extra week to submit proposals on the upcoming job, with hopes high among county officials that actual bids will undercut a recent $593,000 increase in the project's estimate. Anderson County Public Building Commission Chairman Richard Brummel said the bid deadline had been extended due to delays in the electrical engineering drawings for the project, but PBC members are also hoping the bids will reflect the level of competition they saw Friday in the proposals to demolish the old county jail.

Recent theft of keys from school personnel have placed a new focus on security in Unified School District 365, so much so that school board members last week directed superintendent Gordon Myers to begin investigating costs and other information on security and alarm systems. The move followed two incidents of theft of keys from school staff which gives the thieves broad access to school facilities.

"Our valuation is up about $157,000," Board Clerk Bonnie McAdam said. "Last year the district lost about $800,000 due to a large decline in the valuation. We were expecting to see another decrease, but not as big as last year's."

100 years ago...

A little Anderson County history written by a local in September 1917 read as follows. I was born in a log house in December 1857. There were only log houses in Anderson County. Greeley has the first church in Anderson County and it is in good repair. Jim Cunningham is Greeley's best marksman. He is 83 years of age and can take a rifle and knock a sparrow every shot. Chester Waldriff is eighty-five and he can fish all day and never get a bite. Mrs. Priest and Mrs. Hannan, their maiden name was Harmon, settled north of Greeley in 1854. Those two girls were the first girls to make barefoot tracks in Anderson County.

Found old Coro jewelry in Lawrence

I found this artifact last Thursday in Lawrence where a good friend and I are working on an 1867 estate.

Does anybody recognize it?

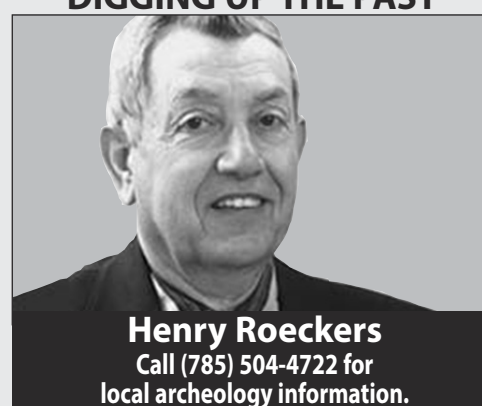

It is Coro jewelry. Coro Jewelry, Cohn & Rosenberger was founded in New York by Emanuel Cohn & Carl Rosenberger in 1901-1902 & incorporated in 1913.

A factory was established in Providence, R.I. in 1911. With later offices in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami, Toronto, England, Mexico, Israel & several other countries.

Cohn died in 1910, but the name remained the same. The corporate name "Coro" was adopted in 1943. Rosenberger died in 1957 and his son Gerald succeeded him.

This lovely, demure necklace is crafted from a silvertone metal in a choker style. The links have an artistic flourish. The chain is adjustable to a length of approximately 14 inches. This vintage early 1940's choker necklace is signed "CORO".

A very nice find. Wouldn't you agree?

Anderson County Disaster Response Exercise

Anderson County held a full size mass casualty exercise on August 9, 2017 in Garnett. The exercise was designed around an "active shooter" type scenario, but the scenario could have been a natural disaster or any other of a wide range of catastrophes. There were over 150 participants, including those from other counties who attended the event to help evaluate the training.

Response activities were primarily carried out at the Garnett Elementary School and the Anderson County Hospital. Guest Home Estates and Parkview Heights also participated in the training event by completing building security exercises in conjunction with the training.

The exercise was a success, with a lot of positive feedback from those in attendance. It is using a training event like this, responders can evaluate what type of training they may need or what type of new procedures need to be put in place to help everyone work together to better respond to a major incident.

Thank you to all the organizations that were involved, and the responders who took time out of their schedules to attend this training. Many of our local responders are volunteers, and it should be noted that they took their own time to train for and attend this event.

A big thank you to J.D. Mersman, Anderson County Emergency Manager, who spent many hours coordinating this event and working to bring

Cash donations the best way to help hurricane disaster victims

The Kansas Division of Emergency Management is urging Kansans who wish to help the victims of Hurricane Harvey on the Gulf Coast, to donate money to a reputable volunteer, charitable or faith-based organization rather than sending food, clothing or other goods.

"Too often, well-meaning people send clothing, diapers, and other items to disaster stricken areas, but their donations end up unused or even discarded," said Angee Morgan, deputy KDEM director. "The reason is that these goods must be sorted, packaged and stored until they can be distributed, which diverts manpower from other tasks and requires a place to warehouse the items. In some areas, there may not be any place available to do this. Also, there is often a surplus of one thing and not enough of another."

Transporting and distributing the goods also requires manpower that can be better used in other capacities. Food must also be stored until used.

If there is no refrigeration available, perishable foods may become unusable before they can be distributed. Even nonperishable goods can be a problem; one can only use so many cans of green beans.

Chamber Players presents, "Love, Loss, and What I Wore."

Ilene "Gingy" Beckerman was in bed with a backache one day and started thinking about a dress she wore as a child. So she drew it. Then she thought of another... and another. She decided to draw them so that she could "hold onto them". When she finished, she realized that those dresses told a story: "Love, Loss and What I Wore". It's the first offering in the Chamber Players' 27th Season and runs Sept. 14-17 & 22-23.

Nora Ephron ("When Harry Met Sally", "Sleepless in Seattle") loved the story. She and sister Delia Ephron added their own stories and collected others before bringing their "unashamedly low-tech" show to the New York stage in 2009. It won the 2010 Drama Desk Award for Unique Theatrical Experience and the 2010 Broadway.com Audience Award for Favorite New Off-Broadway Play. It earned Distinguished Performance nominations from the Drama League for Tyne Daly and Rosie O'Donnell from the original cast. It ran for 1,013 performances and launched a national tour.

The unconventional production features 5 black-clad actresses seated on stools with scripts. Without the usual trappings of costumes, props and furniture, the focus falls on the collected stories. With both humor and sentimentality, clothing becomes the vehicle to illustrate a life: brownies uniform, ballet leotard, first party dress, first bra purchase ("My father took me. I still can't talk about it.").

"From prom dresses to the forgiving construction of garments for mature women, these stories are - if not universal - universally recognizable," said Tom Emerson, Jr., the show's director. "It's screamingly funny, inspirational, full of heart, and not at all about fashion. It's an all-out celebration of women and the clothes are just the vehicle to tell their stories."

The Chamber Players partner with W.I.N.G.S. on a unique Opening Night September 14 at 7 pm in the Anderson County Jr./Sr. High School auditorium. It's a rare non-dinner theatre show with discounted $20 tickets. For each ticket sold, the Snedecor (Garnett). Sandy Rugg (Garnett) makes her Chamber Players debut to complete the cast. Catering is provided by Fat Toney's Bar-B-Que of Garnett. Students of Donna's School of Dance and the ACJSHS Dance Team will be guest servers.

Dinner Theatre tickets are $24 for adults, $20 for K-12 students. This show is suitable for adults and mature teens. Reservations are required for all 6 performances. Phone the theatre: 785.304.1683 or email Admin@ChamberPlayersTheatre.org to reserve your tickets.

Director Dennis Richards will hold auditions in the theater for "Authors Anonymous" on Monday, September 18 at 7 pm. Roles are available for 3 men and 4 women. Hannah Snedecor will direct the cast of "Bling Midas" in performances at Garnett and Colony Elementary Schools in October. To learn more, visit the Chamber Players' website: www.ChamberPlayersTheatre.org.

Love, Loss, and What I Wore

Chamber Players will donate $5 to W.I.N.G.S. A dessert bar fundraiser at intermission will also benefit W.I.N.G.S. Five more dinner theatre performances will follow at the Thelma Moore Community Playhouse.

The show features veteran actors Jackie Fursman (Garnett), Tracy Conard (Ottawa), Shauna Devening (New Strawn), and Hannah

Bulldogs football shoots for winning season

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The Anderson County Bulldogs football team finished 2-7 last season, which included 5 straight defeats to close out the season after a 2-2 start.

Bulldog coach Greg Welch will be in his 39th season as a coach, his 4th season at ACHS. Welch is confident his team will be much improved this year. He understands the competition will be strong, but also feels his team will be very competitive. His goal for the team is just to have a winning season.

That would be a huge improvement from a season ago. After losing the season opener by 2 points, the final 6 losses of the season were by an average of nearly 34 points per game.

All-state player Kyle Lamb will be vastly missed. Lamb rushed for over 1200 yards and scored 10 touchdowns on the season and led the defense with 62 tackles.

The Bulldogs will look for junior Austin Adams in the passing game. Adams led the Pioneer League with 514 yards receiving last year and scored 3 touchdowns.

A new era begins for Bulldog volleyball

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Alaina Fairbanks has a tough act to follow as she heads into her first season as head coach of the Anderson County Bulldogs volleyball team.

Former head coach Glenn Suderman stepped down last year after 33 years, 720 career wins and 12 state tournament appearances. Fairbanks was the junior varsity coach at ACHS last season and the freshman volleyball coach for Emporia High School for the 2014 season. She made her way through her degree at Emporia State University as a pole vaulter on the ESU women's track team.

Last season the Lady Bulldogs scrapped their way to a 21-17 record, but will greatly miss all league players Alexey Lickteig and Jasmine White from the 2016 team. Lexee Feuerborn, Audrie Goode and Gabby Spring, all seniors, will be expected to pick up some of the production lost from last season.

“Our goal is to compete and work hard every single night. We are going to work in practice and we will be the most well-conditioned team in the league,” Fairbanks said.

“If we compete hard and play to the best of our ability, the wins and losses will take care of themselves,” Fairbanks added. “The league is going to be really strong this year, but if we show up every night to play I think we will do well.”

Fairbanks believes the strength of her team is that they are a great group of hard-working girls and they will compete hard. She is just looking for more consistency on the court.

Lady Bulldogs golf team is young, but motivated

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Last season the Lady Bulldogs golf team finished 5th in the state tournament so obviously the expectations are high, but this season the team will be comprised mostly of freshmen so there are a lot of uncertainties heading into the season.

The youth doesn't temper the expectations head coach Nicole Wiehl has for her girls. Wiehl has been a coach for 10 years at Anderson County, the last nine have been as the head coach.

Wiehl understands the expectations are high and believes with the potential of some of the underclassmen that the goals are attainable.

"Our main goal is to place in the top 3 at regionals and return to State," Wiehl said. "We have 2 golfers that can consistently shoot in the 40's and a couple other ladies that have the potential, with proper coaching, to reach those scores as well."

"Our biggest strength is that we have highly motivated players and a lot of young potential," Wiehl stated. "Even though we have 5 freshman, many of them have experience beyond their age."

Wiehl added, "My goal for this team would be to break 195 for a 9 hole team score and place in the top 3 in as many tournaments as last season."

Those are high hopes for such a young squad as last season the Lady Bulldogs placed in the top 3 in 7 out of the 8 tournaments, which includes winning the Anderson County Regional that advanced them to the state tournament.

Wiehl feels it is always tough to gauge the competition each year.

"Our competition changes from year to year because so much of a team's success in golf can hinge on an individual player," Wiehl said. "I have a feeling Chanute and Spring Hill be tough this year. Frontenac has been tough to beat recently as well, but they lost their best player last year to graduation."

Junior Sammy Walter is the only returning letterman as Miranda Akes, Abbey Barnes and Sydney Holloran were all lost to graduation.

Joining Walter as the only upperclassman is senior Jade Todd. Sophomore Jaxcen Farren along with freshmen Aubree Holloran, Madolyn Honn, Misty Price, Maclaine Sears and Madison Stevens round out the roster.

Aubree Holloran will be the 5th Holloran sibling Wiehl has had the pleasure to work with in her time as a coach for the Lady Bulldogs.

Bulldog cross country teams aim to start new streaks

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – After a string of 9 straight league cross country titles for the Anderson County girls, head coach Mike Sibley is looking for 2017 to be the start of a new streak.

The girls finished 2nd in league last season and the boys finished nearly as well as they ended up with a third place finish.

Both the boys and girls teams return a handful of players that lettered a year ago. The girls' team returns seniors Averi Wilson, Danielle Mills, Adri Pedrow and Shylie Scheckel along with junior Paige Rupp and sophomore Maya Corley.

The boys' team has seniors Nate Gainer and Owen Lutz joined by juniors Damone Kueser, Ryland Porter and Mason Shriber all returning.

Trevor McDaniel and Tiffany Mills were key runners who graduated last year and won't be returning. The vast returning experience, coupled with just one letter winner graduating from each team, it is clear the expectations are high.

"The Pioneer League will be the toughest that it has ever been this year," Sibley said. "We will have to be running our best to continue with the success we have seen over the past decade."

Sibley starts his 13th year as the cross country coach for the Bulldogs. Despite expectations for a tough year, he said he still strives for both the boys and girls to regain the Pioneer League titles as well as both teams qualify for the state meet.

Senior Averi Wilson will be looking to make her fourth trip to state. "This year she is hoping to bring her team with her," Sibley added. For the boys' squad it will be senior Owen Lutz and Ryland Porter leading the way. They are both working to get their names on the ACHS all-time record board and are striving to get the boys' team back to the state meet for the first time in 5 years. Sibley believes all these goals are well within reach.

"We have great numbers this year but we will need to learn to push ourselves past our comfort zones and mental barriers in order to achieve the goals we have set for ourselves."

Coach Hermreck expects experience to lead to more wins

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY – In her sixth year leading the Crest Lancers volleyball team, Coach Abigail Hermreck returns 5 letterwinners, including 4 juniors from last season's team that finished 12-24.

Senior Makayla Jones will be joined by juniors Cassie Bowen, Camryn Strickler, Regan Godderz and Breyanna Benjamin as the most experienced players on the team.

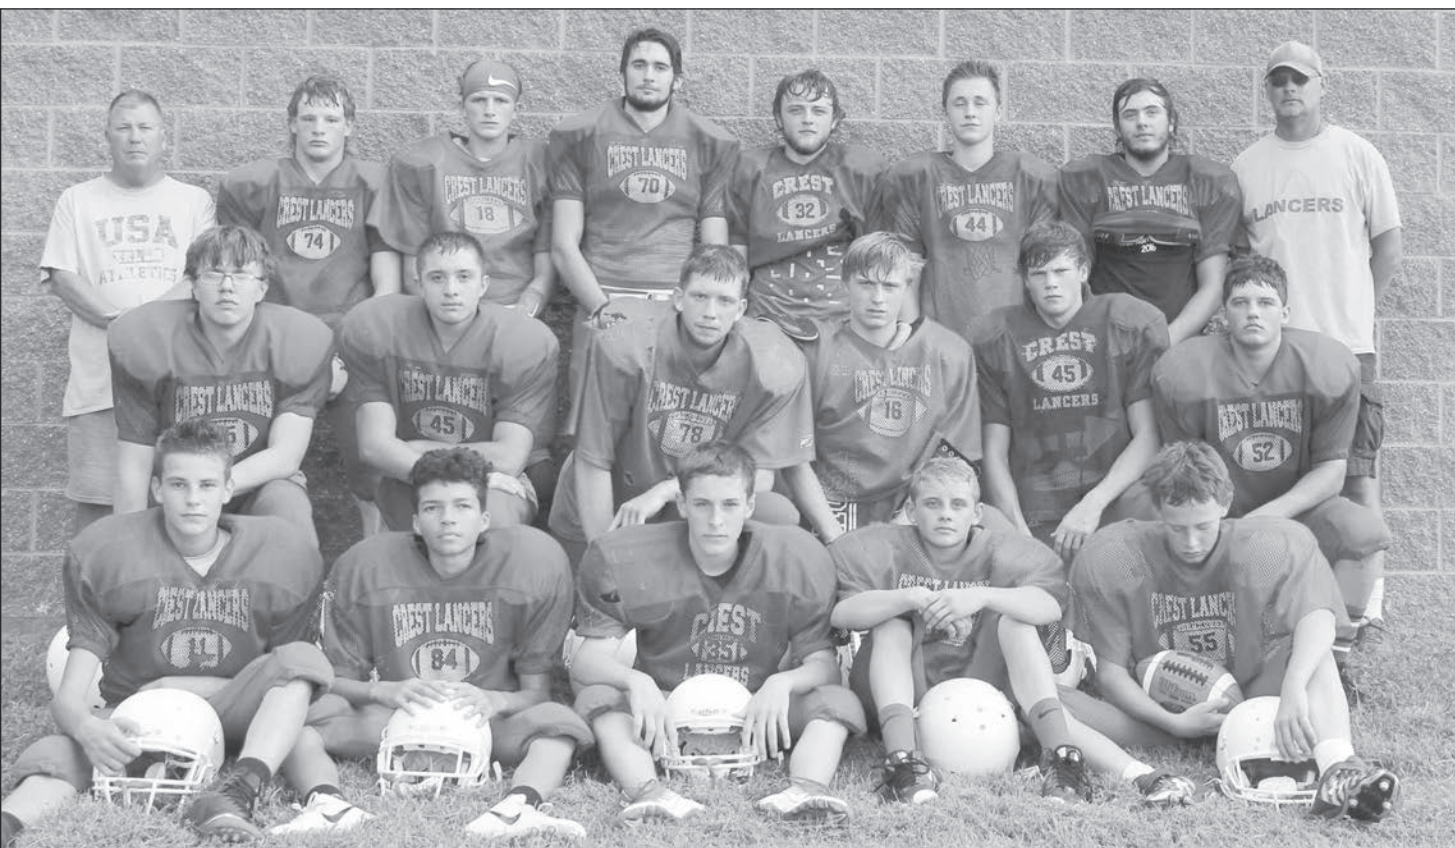

This is a core group of players that have had to gain their experience the hard way and were thrown into the fire early on in their careers. Coach Hermreck believes her girls will continue to build off that experience and start winning more matches.

Gone due to graduation is the trio of Miranda Golden, Laurel Godderz and Karlee Hammond, all of whom played key roles on last year's team.

When asked her team's goals, Coach Hermreck simply said, "Better serve receive offense and win more."

Hermreck believes her team's biggest strength is a free ball offense and the overall team chemistry.

New coach for the Lancers has experience and talent to work with

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY – The Crest Lancers football team will be an experienced squad, but due to the fact that they have a new coach and system to learn, they enter the season with a lot of question marks.

First year coach Brandt Miller definitely has some talent and speed to work with in his first season leading the Lancers, but both players and coach have had a learning curve to get over as the new season has begun.

Crest was 4-5 overall last year, including 3-3 in league play. The Lancers return three defenders who are all seniors this year, all of whom made the Three Rivers All-League team a season ago.

Tavyn Springston was a first team selection at cornerback, finishing the season with 4 interceptions. Linebacker Nik Peterson was a unanimous first team selection at linebacker. Peterson played every linebacker position last season and tallied 25 solo tackles on the season. Rounding out the defensive selections was first team pick Hayden Seabolt on the defensive line. Seabolt had 15 tackles for loss and 7 sacks last year.

On the offensive side of the ball, senior lineman Austin Louk, running back Peterson and tight end Seabolt were each elected honorable mention All Three Rivers League last year.

The Lancers opened the season last Friday with an away game against Blue Valley Randolph.

Vikings looking for first winning season since 2013

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND – Head coach Rich Mobley is going to have to rely on his 40+ years of coaching to help the Central Heights’ football program figure out how to turn around a struggling program that mustered only a 1-8 season a year ago in their inaugural season in the Flint Hills League.

The last time the Vikings finished at least .500 was in 2013 when the team went 5-4 in the regular season before losing the opening around playoff game 13-6 to Humboldt. They actually closed out the 2013 season losing 4 of the last 5 and are now just 2-24 in the past 3 years overall.

Outside a 47-6 win last year over winless Eureka, the Vikings didn’t pose much of a threat in the other 8 contests. They were outscored 355-52, which is average loss of 44-7 in those 8 games. Mobley knows it’s a hole that’s going to take some digging to get out of.

“We should be more experienced,” he said, but he said he also knows they have a lot of work to do to get to where he wants his team to be. “If we can improve daily, we will be a better football team.”

A total of 20 returning lettermen are back this season, but losing Ethan Shields, Tyler Wilson and Cam Hampton to graduation last year will be tough to replace.

Seniors Seth Burroughs, Kyler Brotherton, Brec Furst and Devon Weber will be relied on heavily to step up and lead the Vikings.

“Our strength is a tight knit group of players who work very hard,” Mobley stated.

Mobley said he’s happy with the effort his team has put into conditioning. “Our speed and strength is much better,” he added. “We still have some youth and inexperience to deal with.”

New Vikings volleyball coach knows team is talented, but inexperienced

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND – The Central Heights Vikings volleyball team welcomes back head coach Kelli Brown after a 6 year hiatus. Brown previously coached the Vikings from 2006-2010.

Helping Brown is JV coach Ashley Rowan and the C-team coach is Jinny Schwiager.

Brown said she believes the coaching staff is a huge strength to this season so lopsided with green players. She said both Rowan and Schwiager bring a great depth of knowledge of the game to each practice and are capable of explaining technique to the girls in a way that the girls can grasp and then execute.

Last year’s team finished the season 20-15 after winning their first round sub-state game against Oskaloosa before closing out the season with a 25-14, 25-18 defeat to Perry LeCompton.

Three seniors will be relied on heavily to make the transition to a new coach go as smooth as possible. Shelbi Hettinger, Hannah Savage and Paige Stockard will be coach Brown’s go-to sources for leadership and inspiration for the younger players.

With Central Heights recent membership in The Flint Hills League last season, coach Brown isn’t familiar with other teams within the league which include Chase County, Council Grove, Lyndon, Mission Valley, Northern Heights, Osage City and West Franklin.

“When I coached last, we were in a different league. I am unfamiliar with the competition in the Flint Hills League,” Brown said. “I understand that Chase County is always tough and local teams like West Franklin and Osage City traditionally produce volleyball players who demand respect.”

With so much to learn, coach Brown feels she is fortunate to have a smart group of girls.

“I have very smart girls,”

Brown stated. “I’m sure they will adjust quickly when it comes to learning a new offense and defensive coverage. When an athlete is successful in the classroom, it transfers nicely onto the court, especially when learning new philosophies.”

Brown added, “The biggest goal is to master the execution by October. Having players in new positions puts us in a huge learning situation.”

Losing a handful of seniors adds to the difficulty for the new coach. Gone are Sarah Bell, Tess Cotter, Shawna Hale, Kinsey Laird and Megan Davis from last year’s team.

Despite all the challenges, it is obvious Brown is excited at the opportunities in front of her team this year.

“I think we have some individuals with some exceptional skills. We have awesome senior leadership as they have embraced practices with a very positive attitude,” she said.

Vikings cross country continues to make great strides as a program in Prosser’s 3rd season

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND – In just two seasons, cross country coach Troy Prosser appears to have everything heading in the right direction for the Central Heights Vikings cross country teams.

The Viking boys return everyone that was on the team from a year ago that saw the boys’ team finish 9th at the state meet.

Alex Cannady finished 10th at state last season and is expected to lead the way again this year.

The Flint Hills League was incredibly tough last year, as both Council Grove and West Franklin also placed in the top 10 in 2016 at state.

“While championships are a likely goal of every team,” Prosser said, “we also want to create lasting friendships in teammates, try to improve from day to day, learn and represent out school and community to the best of our abilities.” Prosser feels each and every one of his runners are key players to the success of the program, right down to his 6th graders. “Everyone of them brings something different to the team and the success of one or more is celebrated by all,” Prosser added.

The biggest fear for Prosser is that last year’s success could easily have a negative impact on the team.

“It is a new season and past success could become a reason for complacency or it parlayed into greater strength,” Prosser said. “The only way to find out for sure is to put in the work and dedication this season and try as hard as they can to make the outcomes favorable.”

Nine runners are returning that lettered last year.

Seniors Matt Ashwill, Kyle Cardin and Coyd Gardner. Juniors are Cable Meyer, Bryce Somer and sophomores Alex Cannady, Landen Compton, Mason McCurry.

If wild animals are destroying crops - Let 'em know

Corn, bean and milo fields attract deer and other hooved animals like moths to a flame. Feedlots do the same especially during winter with extended periods of cold weather, heavy snowfall or crusty snow cover.

That's when these creatures find natural sources of vegetation more difficult to acquire. Antelope, deer and elk are messy eaters too. They soil or destroy three to four times the forage they consume.

The answer most ag-related people consider begins with hunting. This is also one of the most effective damage-control techniques known to reduce deer damage.

Oftentimes, this remains easier said than done. It requires foresight, planning, commitment and details on the part of everyone involved. And even then, it may not be enough.

What other recourse do farmers, ranchers and landowners have when dealing with such challenges?

This may entail seeking outside help. And in this case, that may mean contacting the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks and Tourism (KDWP).

"We need to know if you're experiencing challenges with wildlife," says Robin Jennison KDWP secretary. Jennison recently spoke to farmer/rancher members of Kansas Farm Bureau.

"Contact your local wildlife and parks official or call our Pratt or Topeka offices," Jennison continues. "We'll send someone to work with you on the best way to solve your problem."

INSIGHT

JOHN SCHLAGECK, Kansas Farm Bureau

Kansas law provides landowners with rights to protect their property from damage by deer but KDWP needs to know about the incident.

There tends to be plenty of talk in rural communities among farmers, ranchers, landowners, their neighbors and sometimes everyone but KDWP staff, says Jeff Grossenbacher who farms in Nemaha County.

"Farmers and ranchers are good about discussing challenges and problems among themselves, but they don't always contact authorities that can help," the northeastern Kansas corn and bean farmer says. "Tell KDWP your concerns if you have challenges with deer, antelope or elk."

With fall harvest swinging into high gear, this may be one of the easiest times for farmers to spot evidence of deer or antelope activity in their crops. Letting KDWP know what is happening on cropland also helps them determine how many permits to allow hunters in the various hunting districts.

"Wildlife and Parks will not know if such damage occurs unless you tell them," Grossenbacher says. "If you have problems, let them know."

Sometimes, deer damage to private land occurs outside of the regular hunting season. When such incidents happen and the farmer or rancher is unable to keep the deer from causing substantial economic loss, this may justify a special control permit, Jennison says.

Landowners, farmers and rancher may secure such control permits from KDWP to address localized hotspots of deer damage. These permits allow landowners to kill deer outside the normal deer hunting season.

Damage control permits can be issued on a site-by-site basis after an inspection of the damage by one of the department's district wildlife biologist. Each permit is issued for a specific number and type of deer.

For more information on antelope, deer or elk damage control permits contact your local district wildlife biologist or the Kansas Department of

Wildlife, Parks and Tourism Operations Office at 620/672-5911 or <http://ksoutdoors.com/KDWPT-Info/KDWPT-Social-Media>
