Surviving the rut

Locals tell their stories of encounters with Bambi while law officers, insurance reps prepare for season

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – It's shake up time for deer in Eastern Kansas – and as if a plentiful area deer population during the rest of the year isn't bad enough, local drivers have to start taking extra precautions now not to end up with new deer hood ornaments on their cars.

Corn crops that used to provide cover for deer are now gone, which has deer moving more often to find cover. The air is cooling, and before long love will be in the air as breeding season begins.

It's the same story year after year in the fall in the local area, but nearly every month of the year Anderson County drivers rack up their share of deer hits along with drivers all over the region.

"We have been working a lot of accidents involving deer these past weeks," said Anderson County Sheriff Vern Valentine. "If the trend continues as it has been over the past several years we expect them to keep crossing roads and highways through the month of December."

The Insurance Information Institute says deer cause more than a million collisions per year with vehicles, and result in some 200 human fatalities each year.

If you've never hit a deer, there's much to learn from those who have. Particularly as the season progresses into late November and December, males and females become more excited and animated in their movements. Combining the charge of hormones with regular movements to and from water and grazing sites, deer start covering more ground and in larger numbers – and crossing the paths of more vehicles in the process.

We asked some of the followers of the Review's Facebook page for some of their deer stories.

"I have hit several," said Debbie Wilper of Garnett. "I missed my neph-

Andrea Tomlinson and a family member walked away from this deer hit north of Westphalia on 1600 Road in 2003. The car was totaled. The bumper had to be removed to get the deer out of the vehicle.

ew's wedding one January thanks to a deer. Was so upset my son made me a keychain out of part of the horn to try to cheer me up – I still carry it."

"I hit a doe on my motorcycle in Liberal, Ks.," said Pat Schettler. "Not fun."

Collisions with vehicles are more common during dusk and dawn periods, but as the rut moves into full swing they can happen any time and especially after dark. And if you see one deer, assume there are as many as a half dozen or more nearby, maybe following the deer you just missed into your path.

"In most cases but not all, it's safer to just hit the deer," Valentine said. "Over-steering and sudden directional turns can cause more damage, to include roll overs and striking oncoming vehicles."

EKAE valuation debate continues

Tax appeal case may take years to conclude, appraiser says

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA – The passing of a deadline last week to file briefs in a Kansas Board of Tax Appeals case involving the East Kansas Agri Energy ethanol plant's valuation may not effectively bring the debate of the plant's tax value much closer to a resolution, says Anderson County Appraiser Steve Markham.

EKAE's appeal of its property valuation, set in motion after the expiration of the company's 2005-issued Industrial Revenue Bonds matured in 2015, was filed shortly before local governments began assessing their 2016 budget plans and came into play again as 2017 budgets were compiled in the summer of 2016.

"We're really not any closer to being done with it," Markham said Friday of the appeal. "An appeal like that is pretty laborious process. It can be appealed all the way to the Supreme Court."

The eventual valuation of the plant is important locally because it ultimately affects how much the plant pays in property taxes, and by extension how much of that money is available to Garnett, USD 365 and Anderson County budgets. EKAE has been paying its property taxes under protest since 2016, but local governments are hesitant to use the money since they'd have to pay a portion of it back should EKAE prevail in lowering its ultimate tax bill.

Though initially valued at $32.3 million, Markham said the present value of the plant is set at $18.3 million, a figure arrived at by taking the selling prices of ethanol plants around the country and dividing by their production capacity to get a sale price per gallon, then applying that figure to EKAE's output. EKAE officials had argued early on certain assets of the plant assessed by the county as real property should

Water districts eye increase costs from proposed new plant

Some RWDs have other options as city considers project rates

BY MELISSA HOBBS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Just days after City of Garnett officials reviewed engineering proposals for a new water treatment plant which could double customer's rates for water, rural water districts are learning that the construction of the new facility could translate to higher rates for RWD customers too.

The current Garnett water plant, whose core structure was built in 1915, is facing major construction woes with the possibility of a wall collapse into a clear water basin at any time. If that were to happen, the city would face the expense of trucking in potable water, an expense that would make the cost of a new plant seem minimal, according to a recent presentation to city commissioners by city manager Chris Weiner.

The Garnett plant provides water for the city as well as water for Rural Water Districts 1 and 4. According to RWD

ECKAN "Spirit of Christmas 2017" hopes for traditional generosity

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Organizers and volunteers with the local ECKAN office are hoping to make Christmas a little brighter for local families in need, and are encouraging area residents and businesses to help out with donations for the agency's annual "Spirit of Christmas" project.

A press release from ECKAN last week said local generosity last year allowed the agency to help provide food to every household that applied last year, as well as gifts to every child in need in Anderson County. The program typically serves around 100 area families.

"Each year we are amazed and humbled by the generosity of the community," said ECKAN coordinator Brandi Lopez.

Locals can assist by contacting ECKAN at (785) 448-3670 to adopt a family or stop by the office at 132 W. 5th in Garnett.

The agency will also have its traditional Angel Trees dispersed throughout the community, which include names of families in the area up for adoption. Angel trees will be located at the 47th annual Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce Christmas Parade in downtown Garnett on Nov. 25, as well as at Yoder's Country Store, Garnett City Hall, Orscheln's in Garnett as well as locations in Kincaid, Colony, Westphalia and Greeley.

Lopez said donors giving children's gifts can also provide wrapping paper along with the unwrapped gifts, so parents can wrap those gifts for their kids. Children's gifts should be brought to the ECKAN office Monday-Friday from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. All age gifts are welcome, she said, particularly those for older children.

"We would also like to encour-

ANDERSON COUNTY COMMISSION MEETING MINUTES, October 9, 2017

Commissioner Leslie McGhee called the meeting of the Anderson County Commission to order at 9:00 a.m. on October 9, 2017, at the County Commission Room. In attendance were Jerry Howarter, David Pracht, and Leslie McGhee. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes from the previous meeting were approved as presented. Commissioner Howarter joined the meeting at 10:00 a.m.

Road

Lester Welsh, Road Supervisor, met with the commission. He presented a road permit for Paul Stephens at SE 200 Rd and East of SE Vermont Rd to put in a 2" main with 4" casing water line. Commissioner McGhee signed the permit. Lester normally purchases rock from Wade Quarries but the last batch of rock that was crushed is not up to the standards to be put on county roads. He will be contacting the manager and discuss having new rock available.

Commission

Jack Hiner met with the commission. He is in dispute with Mike Burns over erecting a fence on their adjoining property line. Jack had cut some trees that are on Burns' property to repair a portion of the fence. Jack will submit an updated fence viewing request to the County Commissioners so they can schedule a time to view the property and fence. Eric Heathcoat, BG Consultants, met with the commission. He gave an overview of the elevator and court-house renovation plans. Discussion was held on the start dates, construction timeline and details of the bid process. The construction will begin by the end of January 2018.

Christopher Weiner, City of Garnett manager, met with the commission. A property in the industrial park on Catalpa Rd had a survey completed and found that the building is currently 12 feet on the City of Garnett's right of way. The city will do more investigation on the legal distance from the center of the road for the right of way and when the building was erected. The City of Garnett would like for the Commissioners to think about regulations if the building should be in the right of way and how to address the issues such as this moving forward.

Board of Trustees

Commissioner McGhee moved and Commissioner Pracht seconded to reappoint Dr. Jerry Padfield to the Board of Trustees for the service term of 2018-2021 and appoint David Theis to fill the vacancy of Bill Barnes who is stepping down from serving on the board at the end of 2017. All voted yes.

instead be taxed as personal property, and that those deductions brought the value closer to $7 million.

That debate over how much of the plant is classified as personal property or real property is also at issue with the plant's expansion into renewable diesel fuel production. State law allows personal property for commercial properties to be assessed at a value allowing for depreciation on personal property acquired up through June 30, 2006. After that personal property isn't taxable. The renewable diesel addition was added over the past two years, so only its real property - the land and the building it sits on - is taxable.

Last week's deadline for briefs in the appeal case deals with the classification issue, Markham said. He estimated it could be another 2-3 years before the issue was totally resolved.

DEER...

gives these tips:

- Always wear your seatbelt - Sixty percent of fatal animal crashes occurred when the driver was not wearing a seat-belt.
- Know the likely deer-crossing zones - Whether or not a road is marked with a Deer Crossing Sign, be especially alert for deer when driving on roads or highways on the outskirts of town and in rural areas - especially where roads divide farm land from wooded land. Use your high beams - When driving at night, especially during peak hazard times, use your high-beam headlights when there is no on-coming traffic. This won't necessarily deter the deer from entering the roadway, but it will increase visibility so that you can more easily spot the deer sooner.
- Know when deer are on the move - Be especially careful between 5AM and 8AM and between 5PM and midnight.
- Don't rely on devices - Items like deer whistles, deer fences and reflectors have not been proven effective at deterring deer crossing roadways.
- Brake firmly if you notice a deer near the road - Slow down and stop if necessary. Be careful not to swerve out of your lane either into on-coming traffic or off the shoulder and into a ditch.
- Keep your distance - If you do strike a deer, don't approach it. An injured deer is frightened and can injure you as well as further injuring itself. If the deer is blocking the roadway, it poses a threat to other drivers; so call the authorities immediately.
- Contact your insurance agent - If you strike a deer and have damage to your vehicle or damage to some else's property, notify your insurance representative as soon as possible and provide the necessary details.

VARVEL

FEBRUARY 12, 1938 - OCTOBER 14, 2017

Donna Marie Varvel, 79, of Burlington, Kansas, passed away on Saturday morning, October 14, 2017.

Varvel

Donna was born on February 12, 1938, at Lebo, Kansas, the daughter of Jack and Ruth (Givens) Tatman. She grew up in the Crotty neighborhood in southern Coffey County, attended Big Creek #10 Rural School, and graduated from Burlington High School in 1955.

On June 6, 1955, Donna was married to Gordon Varvel at Yates Center, Kansas. They made their home in Garnett, and would be the parents of three children.

Donna had worked as a teacher and cook at the Little People Learning Center at the United Methodist Church in Garnett. She was a long-time member of the First Christian Church in Garnett, where she taught Sunday School and was involved in many activities. While her daughters were growing up, she was a leader for Campfire Girls in Garnett. Donna was a talented artist and she painted and framed many pieces. She also enjoyed crafting, and traveling in the motor home with Gordon. Her greatest joy was always spending time with her children and grandchildren.

Donna and Gordon moved from Garnett to Burlington in 2004, and became members of the Christian Church of Burlington.

She was preceded in death by her parents; by a brother, Bill Tatman; and by two grandchildren, Justin Dougherty and Waylon Boots.

She is survived by Gordon, her husband of more than 62 years; two daughters, Connie Chandler and husband Gary of Garnett, and Cindy Boots and husband Brad of Welda; a son, Mike Varvel and wife Linda, of Florence, Oregon; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren; two sisters, Virginia Brothers of Hamilton, and Viola Brecheisen of Quenemo; three brothers, Jim Tatman of Burlington, Keith Tatman of Lebo, and Carl Tatman of Redding, California; and many other relatives and good friends.

Funeral services were held Thursday, October 19, 2017, at the Christian Church of Burlington. Burial followed at Big Creek Cemetery.

Memorial contributions to Cookson Hills Youth Home may be sent in care of Jones Funeral Home, PO Box 277, Burlington, KS 66839.

PORTER

OCTOBER 29, 1942 - OCTOBER 18, 2017

Jessie Porter, age 74, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Wednesday, October 18, 2017, at Residential Living Center, Garnett.

Porter

She was born October 29, 1942, at Long Beach, California, the daughter of Lee and Ermila (Cobos) Gonzales. Jessie came to Kansas in the mid-1960s where she worked for many years at H.D. Lee in Ottawa, Kansas, Warner's Manufacturing in Garnett, and later retiring from Pence I.G.A.

Jessie enjoyed sewing, making clothes for her family and Halloween costumes, trips to Silver Dollar City with her grandchildren and long-time friend, Lloyd Sutton. She loved to cook, and was known for her excellent burritos, and would often gift a dozen on your birthday. Jessie never knew a stranger and was known for her spunky demeanor. Customers at Pence's would often wait to check out just to be in her lane. Spending the last few years at the Residential Living Center, she grew to be dearly loved by the staff and made many friendships along the way. At the end of each visit, you could hear her give a farewell, "Be careful".

Her greatest joy was spending time with and watching her grandchildren grow.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Lee and Ermila Gonzales; great granddaughter, Alexis Bowen; one sister, Nora Pereira; and one brother, Lee Gonzales Jr.

Jessie is survived by two daughters, Lori Lloyd and husband Alan of Burlington, Kansas; Karen Katzer and husband Larry of Garnett, Kansas; five grandchildren, Brandi Lloyd and husband Christopher Bowen; Shauni Lloyd and Kendra Lloyd, all of Burlington, Kansas; Reah Bures and husband Philip of Garnett; Brogen Katzer and fiancé Kate Ehmke of Frisco, Texas; seven great grandchildren; one sister, Linda Dominguez of California.

Mass of Christian burial was held Monday, October 23, 2017, at Holy Angels Catholic Church, Garnett, and burial followed in the Holy Angels Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to W.I.N.G.S. or to the Residential Living Center Activity Fund and may be left in the care of the Feuerborn Family Funeral Service Chapel at PO Box 408, Garnett, Kansas.

You may send your condolences to the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

officials, they haven't yet had a chance to discuss what the increased rates would do to their customers.

"We're kind of at their mercy because we're a very small district," said Richard Miller, operator for RWD #1. "We won't have any choice but to pay it. We don't have any place else to get good clean water. I don't see any alternative."

While RWD #1 gets all of their water supply from the City of Garnett, RWD #4 gets only a portion of their water from the Garnett supplier with their main supplier being Melvern Lake and a treatment facility there.

Southern parts of Anderson County, including Colony and Kincaid, get their water from Public Wholesale #5 which gets water from the Neosho River and is treated in a facility near Iola. Colony City Supervisor, Tim Dietrich, says that Colony played a role in helping to build Public Wholesale #5 and has gotten all of their water from there since. Kincaid buys their water from them as well.

City officials have said the water treatment facility projected could raise water rates as much as 100 percent and a study is being done to see what that actual increase might be. The construction of a new plant would increase production from 1.5 million gallons per day to 2 million gallons per day.

Drivers' abuse of Kansas school bus laws can be solved with some creativity

A recent survey by the state Department of Education reveals an astounding, and frightening, number of violations of Kansas law requiring drivers from either direction to stop for a school bus with lights flashing and its stop sign displayed.

The study, done at the request of the Kansas Highway Patrol, counted nearly 10,000 violations in a 30-day period, and this from only 57 of the state's nearly 300 school districts. Nearly three-fourths of those involved drivers going the opposite direction as the bus, implying that most drivers facing the bus may not think the stop sign is for them.

And while many school districts no longer allow kids to cross a road – buses usually run so they can be dropped off on the right – the law and basic safety still require all drivers to stop when the arm is out and bus lights flash red.

Obviously, that's not happening.

In the Oberlin School District, however, officials say they've mostly solved the problem by picking up most students in their own yards. Transportation Supervisor Brian Simonsson said most rural homes have a circle or loop drive, and buses just pull into the yard to load and unload.

"We don't really have an issue here," he said, "because we're so rural we just go into most people's yards. We don't stop on streets or highways except for a couple of places."

That might not work in the city, however. So, what to do?

The solution starts with drivers. Everyone needs to recognize that they are required to stop when a school bus displays its sign. The only exception is for divided highways, where a driver on the opposite side is allowed to pass.

GUEST COMMENTARY

STEVE HAYNES, Haynes Publishing Co.

Otherwise, every driver must stop. We could, and should, ask bus drivers to report violations, but with Kansas only requiring just one tag on a vehicle, identification from the front can be difficult. So can proving just who was driving a given car at a given time, assuming an officer can't find and stop it right away.

One idea might be for Kansas to declare a day when state troopers, city police and sheriff's deputies all follow a school bus in the morning and afternoon. Even if they failed to catch a single driver running the school-bus stop sign, their presence would call attention to this law.

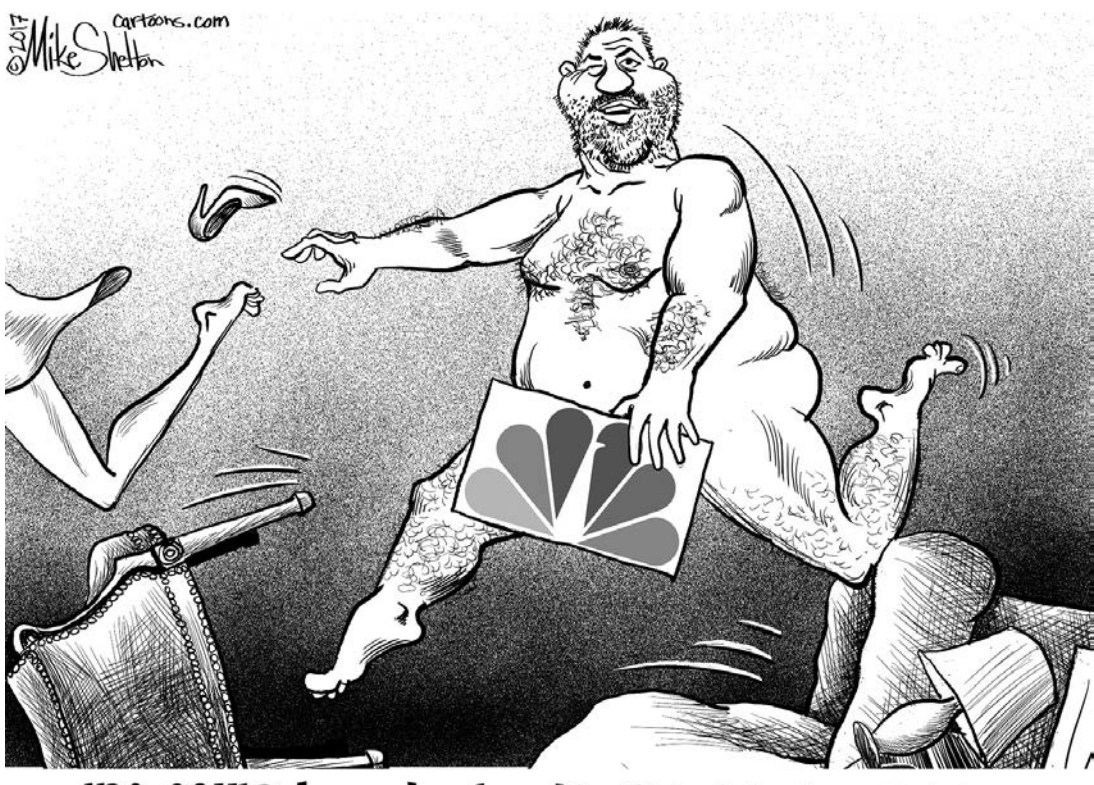

Frankly, we think most officers would write a ticket or two. Statewide, we'd bet on hundreds of citations, and that would get a lot more attention. News reporters should be invited to tag along with the officers, take pictures and maybe interview bus drivers and anyone who got a ticket. Assuming they were calm enough to talk.

The result all-in-all could be a big boost for school bus safety. One day wouldn't solve the problem, but officers might want to follow up later with unannounced trips with a school bus. And making this an annual push could have some real cumulative impact.

Kansas obviously has a problem here. We shouldn't wait for children to be hurt to work on it. Yes, school buses have become relatively safe, but we should all be able to agree this is something worth the effort.

Six o'clock in the morning, woke up by the beating of drums and band clear out to Highway 59. Some people still are asleep at that time. Don't they think they can take the band somewhere like down to the old football field and let them march down there and beat on those drums? That's ridiculous. Like I say, some people are still sleeping at 6 o'clock in the morning.

I should have bet someone – I could have made a fortune. Just as sure as the sun comes up in the east, we get a new city manager, very shortly thereafter we're going to have a new and expensive project that has to be done in the city. This time it took the form of a new water plant. Did our erstwhile city manager as well as our city commissioners over the last 50, 60 or 70 years not have any idea that the water plant was going to need replaced some day? It sounds like maybe the weren't doing their job all this time. Thank you.

Here it is on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and I want to say to whoever hit my grandkids' cat over by the ethanol plant, you're a piece of (deleted). Thanks for not stopping and taking care of the cat. You suck.

One of the things I hate about this town is the way people complain about the way people keep their yards or their back yards or how they feed stray cats. This is ridiculous. Maybe they ought to mind their own business and keep their nose in their own lives instead of other people's.

The home across from the grade school is in the city. Get your facts straight.

Don't you need a special permit to run an excavating construction business in a residential area in Garnett? Why are the city commissioners letting this happen at the house across Highway 59 from the grade school? It is just an eyesore.

Jimmy Kimmel: Another Johnny Carson, he ain't

Jimmy Kimmel deserves credit for frankness, if nothing else. In a recent interview, the ABC late-night host said he doesn't care about losing Republican viewers.

We're a long way from Johnny Carson, whose "Tonight Show" was a national institution that enjoyed a broad audience – and was conducted like one. Carson steered clear of politics and kept his views to himself because it would "hurt me as an entertainer, which is what I am."

Kimmel may be an entertainer, but has no such inhibitions. He uttered what could be the epigraph for our times, saying of viewers who strongly disagree with his political views, "I probably won't want to have a conversation with them anyway."

From Carson to Kimmel is the story of the fracturing of media environment that has made niche audiences the coin of the realm. Add an inflamed anti-Trump resistance cheered on by the elite media, and Kimmel kissing off Republicans is probably a good career move.

Stephen Colbert of CBS blazed this particular trail with increasingly over-the-top denunciations of President Donald Trump that vaulted him to the top of the late-night ratings. Jimmy Fallon, the heir to Carson's "Tonight Show" via Jay Leno, has pointedly declined to make his show the New York Times editorial page with a few jokes attached, and has seen a

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

ratings decline. It is important to note that these shows are competing for numbers that once would have been considered catastrophic. Carson could pull in 9 million viewers when one of his shows popped; he averaged 19 million viewers a night his final week on air in 1992. Colbert is winning the late-night race with 3 million viewers. This means that all it takes to become a giant of late night is winning over a Rachel Maddow-like audience, exactly Colbert's strategy.

If this trend is inevitable, it's not a good thing. It removes yet another neutral zone, free of social and political contention, from American life.

It means that the quality of the comedy on these shows probably goes down (agitprop isn't funny), while the quality of the political commentary is inevitably poor; Jimmy Kimmel's wholly ill-informed gun monologue subtracted from the nation's understanding of the issue, as you'd expect of a comedian who is only paying enough attention to absorb the flimsiest cliches of the gun debate.

As Kimmel's dismissive comments show, it's a short step from believing that you don't need the patronage of the other side to feeling contempt for it. Colbert isn't trying to convince anyone; he's scorning and mocking Trump for the benefit of people who already hate him.

It would have been hard to believe that the old, maligned CNN debate program "Crossfire" would appear in retrospect to represent a golden age of a relative commitment to civil, informed political debate, but here we are.

Johnny Carson once said: "I would love to have taken on Billy Graham. But I'm on TV five nights a week; I have nothing to gain by it and everything to lose." Stephen Colbert and Jimmy Kimmel, competing for the crown in a much diminished late-night kingdom, beg to differ, and unfortunately, they're right.

Few fans likely for new primary election run-off idea

Every now and again, you read about a legislative interim committee that proposes the full Legislature take a look at some new concept, whether it's payday loans or auto insurance or building a new prison.

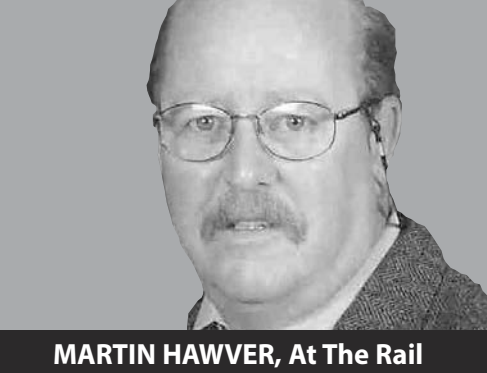

Pretty much stuff that we have an idea of what a perceived problem amounts to in our lives—and just who perceives it as a problem—and if or whether the Legislature ought to fix it.

Simple when it's something that we can all understand, like driving in the right-hand lane unless you're passing or not selling liquor to kids.

But later this month, the Special Committee on Elections is going to consider something new—at least to Kansans—a way to elect state officeholders based on their popularity in their districts: You put all the candidates on the ballot; voters at the primary election choose from everyone running and rank them. The top two vote-getters regardless of party affiliation wind up on the general election ballot.

Almost sounds like a way to get candidates to campaign to every voter in their district, of all parties, and likely represent the majority view of that district; political affiliation just sort of fades away. We're not thinking that the political parties are going to be fans of the idea. Say the Democrats like a moderate or liberal Republican for a certain office. This way, they could rank that politician high and get him/her into the general election with not much in the way of dependence on the party leadership. Or, say that one party or another typically draws such a small percentage (based on registration) of the total vote that a party candidate gets to the general election with a small number of votes.

STATE COMMENTARY

(Yes, that's why the growing GOP slate of candidates for the party's nomination for Kansas governor reduces the amount of support needed for a candidate to make it to the general election. Ten candidates? Eleven percent of the party's primary vote can call the winner. It's long division...)

Rank by voter preference the top two candidates, and whether they are from the same or different parties, the whole complexion of the general election changes. Two Republicans rank highest and get to the general election?

Then it's probably going to mean that they campaign on issues, not just party affiliation, and we see whether Republicans will vote for a candidate more or less conservative than the voter is. Two Democrats (tricky in all but a couple dozen of the state's 105 counties)? All of a sudden, the party line grows dim, and the general election campaign broadens to more issues, to more voters.

It's a pretty dramatic change that the interim committee will look at, probably not endorse but at least set Kansas lawmakers to thinking about.

What if we see candidates who bear one party label but really are just campaigning to a platform or the latest trickle-down theory of whoever is president?

Seems like this concept might change the general direction of the Legislature. Or it might just return the same results in terms of philosophy, if not party label, and you have to wonder whether that's all bad or good—or just complicates things.

Does that mean that political parties, their staff, leaders, fund-raisers and such become unnecessary? Don't bet on it, but it probably would require the parties to broaden their stance, talk less about platforms and more about the voters of a district.

Complicated? Maybe. But it's a whole new way of electing the people who represent us. Waiting to see just how this comes out...

10 years ago: Garnett man charged with molestation

Two weeks after multiple counts of child molestation were filed against him, a Garnett man was arrested Friday afternoon by Anderson County Sheriff's officers. Donald M. Gamble, 55, whose residence is listed as Garnett but whose actual location was unknown until Friday, had 128 counts of various types of child molestation filed against him September 25 in Anderson County District Court. The counts stem from incidents that began in 2003 with a 13-year-old girl.

A mail-out campaign to some 4,500 bicyclists and hikers in the country has resulted in a striking number of inquiries and requests for information on Anderson County from those tourists. Anderson County Economic Development committee executive director Stacy Schulte told committee members brochures on the county had been mailed to all the names on the list in mid September, and that 60 responses had been received in the first two weeks of the mailing. Of various communities listed in the mailing, the Prairie Spirit Rail Trail was the one most often requested, followed by queries on local lodging accommodations, eateries, and historic sites.

A little part of the history of Anderson County is closing down, as Eldon and Betty Pontious, owners of Elliott's Dairy, are closing down their customer service counter. However, the dairy will still make deliveries to their commercial customers in the area. The dairy is probably one of the few remaining in the state that still makes deliveries to local customers, even though the milk comes from a parent company based in Shawnee Mission.

Some food shoppers seem to think that specials or features offered in food stores each week are foods that are old or of inferior quality. It isn't usually so. Specials and features are foods that equal in quality to that of the usual merchandise, but priced near cost to hold old customers and attract new ones to the store. The hope of the retailer is that you will make other purchases when you come into the store to take advantage of the feature.

C.B. Shafer, of Kansas City, general manager of the Garnett Condensed Milk Company, was in town Saturday, and spent the day with Superintendent McIntosh. While here he made full arrangements to put up another building, a two story building 36x110 feet north of the present plant. Work will commence as soon as material can be got on the ground. This building will be used for canning the condensed milk, which is now being shipped to Kansas City. The company sent out cards to the farmers of this section, offering seventy cents per pound for butter fat, the whole milk to be delivered. With such a price in sight, the farmers ought to find it profitable to push the production of milk to the limit.

Toasting bread dates back over 4,500 years

I'm sure all of you recognize this household kitchen gadget. If you recognize it as a toaster, you're absolutely right.

We know this toaster is over one hundred years old as it belonged to Kay's late Grandma Fox.

Ever since the Egyptians began baking bread, around 2600 B.C., man has eaten toast although the reasons for parching bread today are different from those of the past.

The Egyptians toasted bread not to alter its taste or texture, but to remove moisture, as a form of preservation.

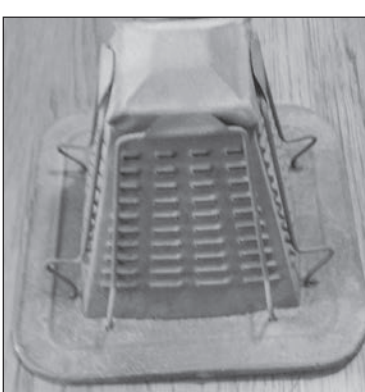

Quite simply, a parched slice of bread, harboring fewer molds and spores, had a longer shelf life in the Egyptian kitchen.

For over 4,000 years, people throughout the world toasted bread as the Egyptians had: skewered on a prong and suspended over a fire. Even the device that 18th Century Britons and Americans called a "toaster" was nothing more than two long handled forks, crudely connected, that sandwiched the bread over the

A contraption heralded in the 19th Century as a toasting revolution, it was named the toaster oven. It was the first regularly manufactured toaster in America. Constructed as a cage of tin and wire (as pictured), it sat over the opening in a coal powered stove and held four slices of bread tilted toward the center. Rising heat from the fire gradually darkened one side of the bread, which was watched diligently. Then the bread was turned over and darkened on the other side.

Then along came electricity in 1910 and the rest is modern history.

Tips for honoring the deployed - National Day of the Deployed is Oct 26th

NICEVILLE, Florida - October 26, 2017 is the National Day of the Deployed, a day that is for raising awareness about the many deployed military members and their families, and it is an important day to show our gratitude for their ongoing sacrifices. According to the Pew Research Center, there are just over 193,000 deployed U.S. military members, which is roughly 15% of the total military. The top five countries they are deployed to, in order, include Japan, Germany, South Korea, Italy, and Afghanistan.

"This is a great time to show our appreciation for the tremendous sacrifices our military men and women make every day," explains Nicole Motsek, executive director of the EOD Warrior Foundation. "Even a small act of gratitude goes a long way."

Here are some tips for honoring the deployed and their families:

Find a charitable event to be a part of, such as a 5K run/walk, golf tournament, or bicycle ride. Many military-associated charities offer fun events that help to raise money that is used to give back to the military families in need.

Do something nice for a family member of a deployed warrior. Whether it's inviting them over for dinner or offering a free afternoon of babysitting, the gesture will be greatly appreciated.

Volunteer at an organization that supports military servicemen and women, and their families. Whether helping during events or assisting with fundraising, every position shows gratitude.

Make a donation to charities that support families with a deployed warrior. For example, the EOD Warrior Foundation provides financial assistance to EOD warrior families in need, helping them with everything from medical expenses to college scholarships.

Send a letter, card, or care package to those who are deployed. A note of gratitude will be appreciated. Care packages could include simple items such as magazines, books, candy, and snacks.

Display a yellow ribbon on your home or car. A yellow ribbon has been a symbol of military support for many years.

"Anytime of the year is a great time to show gratitude for the deployed, but this day serves as a great reminder," added Motsek. "Our deployed sacrifice so much, as do their families, that they deserve a special day set aside for being recognized for their efforts, which we as a nation deeply appreciate."

The EOD Warrior Foundation is an organization that helps the families of the 7,000 people in our military who are Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD) technicians, and perform bomb disposal duties. Engaging in the most dangerous job in the military, EOD technicians often sustain serious injuries, lose limbs, or are killed in action. The EOD Warrior Foundation helps this elite group by providing financial relief, therapeutic healing retreats, a scholarship program, care of the EOD Memorial Wall located at Eglin AFB, Fla. and more. Their work is supported by private donations and the generosity of those who support the organization. To learn more about the EOD Warrior Foundation, or see their fundraising events calendar, visit their site at: www.eodwarriorfoundation.org.

The EOD Warrior Foundation is a nonprofit organization whose mission is to help EOD warriors and their family members with a priority on wounded EOD warriors and the families of fallen EOD warriors. Specific programs include financial relief, college scholarships, hope and wellness programs that include therapeutic healing retreats, and care for the EOD Memorial Wall located at Eglin AFB, Fla. To learn more about the EOD Warrior Foundation, or see their events calendar, visit their site at: www.eodwarriorfoundation.org.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 10-24-2017 / DANE HICKS

AC's Jenna Schmit and Audrie Goode play defense at the net against an attempt by Prairie View's Abigail Kellerman during the Division II 4A Sub State volleyball tournament held in Garnett Saturday. AC dropped the Buffaloes in three games but lost a 2-point heartbreaker to Baldwin City in the third-game championship finale to see Baldwin move on to the 4A state tournament.

Viking boys heading to State

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND - The Central Heights boy's cross country team picked the perfect time to peak as a team. As a result they knocked off the two teams that beat them last week at the league meet, earning a trip to State.

It definitely helps that the boy's squad was finally at full strength.

"Having the full compliment of runners all compete in the same race for the first time this season couldn't have come at a better time," head coach Troy Prosser stated.

"We have overcome a lot of adversity this year, but when it counted the most these boys made a huge commitment to bring a title back to Central Heights," Prosser added.

The Vikings finished with 4 of the top 8 runners and 6 of the top 19 overall.

Tyler Stevenson (17:41) finished 4th to set the pace for the Viking runners.

The trip of Alex Cannady (18:27), Kyle Cardin (18:32) and Caleb Meyer (18:34) finished 6th, 7th and 8th respectively.

Jarod Crawford (18:53) finished 14th overall and Bryce Sommer (19:20) earned a 19th place finish.

Zackery Grabbe (20:24) rounded out the Viking runners with a 50th place finish.

William Bailey of West Franklin won gold with a time of 17:28.

As a team, the Vikings finished the afternoon with a score of 39 which was well in front of 2nd place Council Grove (2nd place with 63 points) and West Franklin (3rd place with 95 points).

Prosser added, "I'm genuinely pleased with the way they came together this last week. From the 6th graders on up to the seniors, this is something that I hope we can continue to build on."

The Vikings only have Cardin and Grabbe that are seniors and not returning next season.

As expected Prosser is ecstatic with the performance of his boys and will cherish the opportunity to work even more with them this season.

"Such hard work usually brings considerable rewards and on this occasion these kids have earned another week together on the course," Prosser added.

The State 3A cross country meet will be Saturday, October 28th in Lawrence at the Rim Rock Farm. The 3A boys will run at 12:55 p.m.

In recognition of Fire Safety Week, Greeley students spent October 9-13 collecting over 100 bottles of Gatorade and Powerade for the Greeley Volunteer Fire Department. Knowing that fire fighters sometimes spend hours in extreme conditions battling fires and other emergencies, students donated the energy drinks as an alternative to bottled water. In the first "Gatorade Drop for Firefighters," each student who contributed had his/her name put into a drawing, with the winner getting a ride to school in the station fire truck.

Lady Bulldog runners heading to state meet

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

BURLINGTON - On Saturday the Anderson County Lady Bulldogs cross country team earned a trip to State with 2nd place finish at Regionals.

Fort Scott won with a score of 61, Anderson County was second with a score of 85 and Louisburg (108) finished third.

Averi Wilson led the way for Anderson County with a 2nd place finish with a time of 20:22.

Paxsten Eads of Fort Scott edged out Wilson with a time of 20:18.79.

Freshmen Rayna Jasper (21:24) finished in 11th place and Lanie Walter (22:21) finished 20th overall.

Sophomores Lillian Spring (22:47) and Maya Corley (22:54) finished 26th and 31st respectively.

tively. Paige Rupp (23:32, 45th place) and Danielle Mills (24:07, 56th place) rounded out the Lady Bulldog runners for the afternoon.

For the boys, Owen Lutz finished in a tie of 17:59, which was good for 19th place.

Morgan Hall-Kropf (18:44, 33rd place), Riley Hedges (18:58, 39th), Damone Kueser (19:08, 42nd), Michael Porrett (20:58, 81st), and Mason Shriber (21:08, 86th) also all competed on Saturday for the Bulldogs.

The 4A girl's state championship will take place Saturday, October 28th at the Wamego Country Club in Wamego.

The 4A girls will open up the competition at 10:00 a.m.

New Crest Teacher's

Bethany Michels graduated from Pittsburg State University in 2014 with a Bachelor of Science in Education and major Early Childhood Unified. The degree allows her to teach from birth to 8 years old including special education. Until now she has taught in private schools. At Crest she is the Pre-K teacher with nine students and teaches life skills for K-5 grade. She is also the middle school cheer coach and junior class sponsor.

Megan Mason grew up in the small town of Deshler, NE on a farm. Following high school she was recruited for track and field at McPherson College where she met her husband, Zach Mason. Crest is her fourth year of teaching. Prior she taught at Pratt for one year and in Chanute two years. She was the Throws coach at Neosho County Community College for the past two years. She decided to end this career path when they welcomed a baby girl, Markayla. At Crest she is the 6-12 Special Education teacher.

Kelly Nordt has taught special education for 28 years, retired in 2014 and did substitute teaching for the Humboldt and Iola school districts. In 2016 she returned as special education teacher until a teacher was hired for the school districts.

Marlin Bambick grew up on a farm southwest of Fredonia where he graduated from Fredonia High, then a graduate of Kansas State with a Bachelor's in Business Education. His career in education started at Crest in 1984 and will most likely end at Crest High School. In between he has been a Warrior at McAuley HS in Joplin, a Red Devil in Erie, back home to the Yellow jackets of Fredonia High School, a Mustang in Iola High School and finally a Lancer once again. He said he was fortunate to start at Crest and happy and pleased to return to complete the circle.

Lynn Shepard is teaching 6th and 7th grade math and computer, algebra and high school applied media which includes the yearbook production. # Four Winds Chapter Announces the Junior American Citizen Contest

The Four Winds Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution is announcing the Junior American Citizen (JAC) contest for this year. The contest is open to all students in preschool through 12th grade. All students in public, private, or parochial schools, and in sanctioned home study programs may participate. All entries MUST follow the theme and meet the specifications of the category entered. Entries are judged by grade level and within these divisions: gifted, general, and special needs, so that every child may enter the contest regardless of ability. The ability of the student is never disclosed. Students may enter more than one contest. Only one first place entry per student advances on to the next level.

The ART CONTEST includes four categories: poster, banner, stamp, and photographic essay. A winner will be selected in each grade level and category. Students may compete as individuals only in the poster, stamp, and photo essay contests; and in the banner category only groups may enter, groups being three to five students. Art generated on the computer using clip art, cut and paste technique, or scanned images is not allowed. Preschool and kindergarten students may participate only in the banner category in the art contest.

The CREATIVE EXPRESSION CONTEST includes two categories: poetry and short story. Students compete as individuals only - group entries are not allowed. Pre-school and kindergarten students may not compete in the Creative Expression Contest.

The COMMUNITY SERVICE PROJECT can be either an individual entry for students in grades 1 - 12. Group service project entries can be done by PK -12th grade. Groups are not limited in size.

A group service project could be done by a church youth group, scout troop, 4-H club, a student council group, an entire classroom, or any other group.

The 2017 theme is "100th Anniversary of World War I - Service on the Homefront." This allows students to look at the war from a different perspective. What did the people left here at home do to support the cause of the war? Children sold war bonds and savings stamps, worked with the Junior American Red Cross, and helped with the chores at home. Women had to work in factories, and take service jobs like police-women/firefighters, etc. They knitted socks and scarves for soldiers. They joined the Red Cross and even made bandages to be sent to war zones. All Americans planted victory gardens and participated in days to conserve certain items that there was a shortage of here in American. Be creative and have fun!

The purpose of the Junior American Citizen Committee is to help children learn civics, history, love of country, service and promote good citizenship to every child in the United States in preschool to 12th grade. Calling all budding artists and aspiring writers- now is the time to enter this contest! The contest entries are all due by NOVEMBER 29th, 2017. Local first place winners will advance to the Kansas State Contest and first place winners of the state will move on to the South Central Region (KS, MO, OK, AR, TX, and LA) and first place winners there move on to the National level. Prizes and awards are presented at all levels for all entries.

For more information and the specific guidelines please contact: Connie Becker, Four Winds JAC chair, 785-489-2449 or csbrlriks06@wildblue.net. All entries will be appreciated and will be returned to the owner at the end of the contest! We look forward to honoring our local, state, regional, and national winners.

Through October 31st

Child Poverty in Kansas Drops Significantly

TOPEKA - Childhood poverty in Kansas is at the lowest level since 2004, according to the latest Kids Count report that uses data from the U.S. Census Bureau.

In the past five years, the number of Kansas children in poverty has decreased by 26 percent. Data also shows that 19 percent of children are living in poverty across the United States, compared to 14 percent in Kansas.

"When I became Governor of Kansas, my vision for the state included a reduction in childhood poverty, and that vision is being realized through effective welfare reforms and poverty-prevention programs," said Governor Sam Brownback. "Approximately 99,000 Kansas children remain in poverty, so there is work left to do, but we are clearly heading in the right direction, and Kansas is leading other states to consider welfare reforms like ours, which encourage self-reliance and result in better outcomes for participants."

According to the United States Census Bureau's 2016 American Community Survey, released this month, Kansas is seeing its most dramatic decrease in childhood poverty. Last year's report indicated 122,000 Kansas children were living in poverty. This year's report indicates 23,000 fewer children in poverty.

In 2015, Governor Brownback signed into law the Kansas HOPE (Hope, Opportunity and Prosperity for Everyone) Act—the most comprehensive welfare reform in the nation that not only added permanency to existing work requirements, but also added additional provisions to strengthen the integrity of the welfare benefits system in Kansas. Additional reforms were added in 2016 to further self-reliance.

Since the passage of that legislation, state benefits programs, such as food, cash and child care assistance have increasingly incentivized employment over dependence, helping lift Kansans out of poverty.

Forest land in Kansas decreased in 2016

MANHATTAN, Kan. -- For 81 years, the forests and woodlands of Kansas have been inventoried by the U.S. Forest Service in collaboration with the Kansas Forest Service at Kansas State University to track changes in the size and condition of this valuable resource.

Forest land in Kansas has increased in area almost every year, from 1.2 million acres in 1936 to 2.4 million acres in 2016. For the first time since 1936, however, instead of forestland increasing in area, it decreased from 2,527,000 acres in 2015 to 2,481,400 in 2016. It is unclear what caused the reduction, but it may be associated with the purposeful removal of trees in woody encroached grasslands and the conversion of riparian forest into cropland, according to Bob Atchison, rural forestry coordinator with the Kansas Forest Service.

The latest inventory showed that of the state's most common trees, hackberry now exceeds cottonwood as the species with the most volume followed by American elm, green ash, Osage orange, and black walnut. Regarding tree numbers, Kansas has 838 million trees with hackberry leading, followed by American elm and eastern redcedar.

"This inventory will help us to understand changes in the size and condition of our windbreaks, shelterbelts, and riparian woodlands that are critical to our quality of life in Kansas," Atchison said.

NANCY L. HERMRECK CITY TREASURER

There is a city of God!

I read a daily devotional entitled "Morning and Evening" by Charles H. Spurgeon. In one of the daily devotionals he says, "Unless you are a stranger here, and heaven is your home, you have not been called with a heavenly calling, for those who have been called from heaven declare that they look for a city that has foundations, whose builder and maker is God, and they find themselves strangers and pilgrims on the earth."

faith Abraham when called to go to a place he would later receive as his inheritance, obeyed and went even though he did not know where he was going. By faith he made his home in the promised land like a stranger in a foreign country; he lived in tents, as did Isaac and Jacob who were heirs with him of the same promise."

heart he presses on toward a higher calling from God. This calling forbids all trust in our own doings and turns us to Christ alone for salvation. God gives us a brief glimpse of the city in Revelation 21:23-27: "The city does not need the sun or the moon to shine on it, for the glory of God gives it light, and the Lamb (Jesus) is its lamp. The nations will walk by its light and the kings of the earth will bring their splendor into it. On no day will its gates ever be shut, for there will be no light there. The glory and honor of the nations will be brought into it. Nothing impure will ever enter it, nor will anyone who does what is shameful and deceitful, but only those whose names are written in the Lamb's book of life." Have you accepted Jesus as your personal savior? Is your name in the book?

Challenge blocks—One "Not Your Momma's Log Cabin" completed project was shown by Vickie Hurt. A project in progress was shown by Terrie Gifford.

Newsletter—No update.

Announcements—Sandra Moffatt shared that Debbie Devine with the Kansas Humanities Council will be giving a talk, "Sharing Patterns, Sharing Lives," about a group of innovative quilters in Emporia on October 21st at 10 am. Participants can make a block of Kreuzinger's design. Sign up at the Garnett Library. The program is at no cost. There is a maximum of 25.

There will be a retreat at the Creative Place, Spring Hill on November 10-12. There is an overnight rate and a by the day rate.

School Supplies—Bonnie Deiter reported that she took the school supplies donated by members in August to three area schools; Connie Hatch read thank you letters from ACJSHS and Greeley Elementary School.

Quilt Retreat—14 quilters enjoyed a fun-filled retreat earlier in September. Participants had positive reports about the location, the staff and food, as well as Jeanette's planning and execution of the event. Next year's retreat date has been set for October 15-17, 2018. The retreat will be limited to 16, deposit of $20 due immediately to reserve one's spot; balance due later.

Secret Sisters—Several secret sisters received birthday gifts: LouAnn Shmidl, Rose Dennison, and Violet Holt.

Show & Tell—The following items were shown:

Phyllis Gordon—A snowball charity quilt. Cynthia Fletcher—3 items: a charity quilt using last year's challenge half square triangles; a baby quilt made for her son who is now 23 and which will now be given to his son; a drunkard's path king size quilt top. Terrie Gifford—Anderson County Fair Challenge blocks for the 4-H quilt. Joyce Buckley—three items: two charity quilts, one made by her sister and one by herself; a bargello shower curtain. Judy McArdle—3 items: a lap quilt; a Sunbonnet Sue quilt from blocks purchased at a garage sale; a quilt made from 6 1/2 inch blocks. Carolyn Crupper—Twisted Bargello quilt. Mary Parrot—two braided baby quilts for charity. Lynda Feuerborn—2 items: a quilt top from cross-stitched panels and quilt blocks for a project in the works. Judy Stuke—two items: a baby quilt with angel blocks and a king-sized braided quilt top made from a jelly roll given to her by her secret sister. Lynn Wawrzewski—an applied wall hanging. Connie Hatch—a full size bed quilt made from vintage appliqued blocks dating to the early 1930's. Signatures on the blocks were women living in Baca County, CO as verified by census records.

The meeting was adjourned by Jeanette Gadelman.

Reid named Executive Director of the FCI

The Marmaton Market Food Co-op of Moran, KS welcomes Stuart Reid, Executive Director of the Food Coop Initiative (FCI).

The Marmaton Market Food Co-op incorporated in June of this year as a for-profit corporation operating through co-op principles. This is a community-driven effort to acquire the current Stub's Market in Moran, KS, and convert it to a co-op grocery governed by member-elected board of directors. Currently, the co-op has 85 members and growing. To facilitate this conversion process, The Marmaton Market solicited the assistance of the non-profit Food Coop Initiative, located in Minnesota. The mission of FCI is to increase the number, success, and sustainability of new food cooperatives delivering access to healthy food in diverse communities across this country. It provides information, training, and technical assistance, as well as seed capital (through their annual SEED Grant Initiative,) and engages in research, to blaze, maintain and improve the development path for new food coops.

In July of this year, The Market, with the assistance of Thrive Allen County, applied for and received one of the 2017 FCI SEED Grant Initiatives, a matching grant for new start-ups. Seed Grants were created to provide early development capital for retail food co-op organizing groups that wish to partner with FCI in their endeavor of starting a food co-op.

One of the big benefits of this grant is on-site personal development with the Executive Director of FCI, Stuart Reid. Reid will be coming to Allen County to work with The Market and its board and to address its members later this month at the First Members Meeting in Moran.

Stuart began his career in grocery as a carry-out and stock clerk for the Windom, Minnesota, Hy-Vee store back in 1972, never believing for a minute that he would still be working in the grocery business 40+ years later. He probably wouldn't if he hadn't discovered food co-ops in Minneapolis when he moved there for college. Since then he has volunteered, co-managed, managed and served on the boards of many food co-ops, worked for the co-op-owned DANCE warehouse, and helped open the Just Food Co-op in Northfield as their first general manager. Stuart has been part of FCI since its earliest years and sees no reason to do anything else.
