Spooks & haunts...close by

Locals tell of the odd & the eerie in locations that are closer than you think

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – There are places near about where things go bump in the night. At least that's what some people say.

It isn't surprising that a handful of local folks were so forthcoming recently when the Review asked our Facebook followers for their true-life stories of ghosts, haunts and weird happenings. A 2013 Harris poll, after all, showed that 43 percent of Americans surveyed believed in ghosts. That's more than those who believe the 9/11 attacks were perpetrated by the U.S. Government (15%) but less than those who believe in extraterrestrial beings (54%), and about the same as those (40%) who say they'd save their dog from danger before saving a foreign tourist.

Not that there haven't been plenty of unseemly events in Anderson County that could have spawned a restless spirit or two, cadre's of which might now be festering inside some of our non-descript local homes or gathering at some of the county's spookier places.

There was the lynching of a black man named Warren in August of 1864 from the scaffolding of the jail that was then under

Wilson offered 66 month plea deal in Yoder's death

BY ART BLACK THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – A Garnett man reached a plea deal last week with prosecutors which will see him spend five and a half years in prison for the hit-and-run death of a local man last June.

Thirty-six year-old Jason Wilson will avoid a trial after reaching a deal that will bring about a formal guilty plea in connection with the June 11 death of Clay Yoder of Mont Ida. Wilson will plea to charges of failing to stop at an accident causing death and of giving false information to investigators. The sentence offer from county attorney Brandon Jones' office was 49 months on the former charge and another 17 months on the latter.

A court-ordered pre-sentence investigation will be completed by local court services officers to rate Wilson's prior criminal history and other factors before the judge makes a final decision on the sentence, which could come as early as a hearing set for Nov. 27. The outcome of the pre-sentencing investigation will determine if and how much probation will be granted in Wilson's case and other specifics of the

Anderson County jobless rate drops to 3.4 percent

TOPEKA – Anderson County posted one of the lowest unemployment rates in the region according to figures released October 20 by the Kansas Department of Labor.

The county notched a jobless rate of 3.4 percent, down from 4.1 percent the previous month and from 4.0 percent a year ago.

The state report said both Kansas City and Wichita saw strong job growth in September. The state as a whole hit a seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate of 3.8 percent for the month.

"Kansas posted an overall significant gain in private sector jobs from August to September by adding 5,500 jobs statewide," said Senior Labor Economist, Tyler Tenbrink in a press statement. "While this represents a notable improvement from the pace of job growth experienced so far this year, approximately 5,000 additional jobs will be needed to get back to positive growth over the year."

The figures dovetailed with concurrent studies by the department that showed the jobs in highest demand right now in Kansas continue to be registered nurses and over the road truck drivers,

The figures mean of Anderson County's estimated labor pool of 4,383 workers, only 150 were unemployed in September.

In the region, Franklin County was the only neighboring area to post a better jobless rate at 3.3 percent. Linn County was 5.6. Allen 4.2, Coffey 5.2 and Miami and Osage counties were both 3.5

Signed & sealed

Grant application may bring new fire station to Welda

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WELDA – Anderson County Commissioners signed off on a grant application which if approved will construct a new county fire department facility in Welda.

County fire coordinator Mick Brinkmeyer said last week the grant of nearly $307,000 would be used to replace the county's aging Welda Fire Station, which Brinkmeyer said was too small to fit newer firefighting equipment.

The present station also has no running water to clean trucks or equipment, no restrooms and no meeting room, and the county has trouble finding parts for its outdated HVAC system.

"Two of the trucks, when parked inside the building, actually touch the back of the wall," Brinkmeyer said, "and the doors close with only a half inch of clearance."

Brinkmeyer said the situation poses a serious safety risk for the firefighters getting their protective equipment on.

"A truck could strike a firefighter, and that can cause serious injury or death, as it did in a neighboring county a few years ago."

The 50 percent match Community Development Block Grant will be funded half by the county and half by the Kansas Department of Commerce, which distributes federal funds through the KDOC to Kansas communities seeking money for community reinvestment projects. Brinkmeyer said the new building would be 4000 square feet compared to the old structures footprint which is half that size, and grant funds will pay for the ground, surveys, engineering fees, plumbing, electrical, ground work and the building and its assembly.

The new structure will have three truck bays and an area for restrooms, a meeting area and storage areas.

The county expects to hear in January if the grant has been approved.

hearing, were disappointed the sentencing offer wasn't heavier.

Wilson was driving a Pontiac Bonneville belonging to 27 year-old Ashley Hobbs in the pre-dawn hours of June 11 when the vehicle struck and killed Yoder, who was walking home to Mont Ida after a night at a Garnett restaurant and bar. Damage to the vehicle on its underside as well as Yoder's injuries led officers to determine Yoder had been run over at the scene and debris found in the area identified the vehicle as one belonging to Hobbs. Investigators later determined Wilson was the driver.

Hobbs pled guilty Sept. 25 to obstructing apprehension or prosecution and was sentenced to 10 months with the Kansas Department of Corrections, but that sentence was suspended in lieu of 18 months probation construction, about where the bandstand is now on the Anderson County Courthouse yard. Despite the reputation for Free State justice, Garnettians of the day didn't hesitate to hang a black man for the alleged murder of a white woman - a Mrs. Adaline Duren.

Then there was the prairie fire that burned Mary Kellerman and her two small children to death in northwest Anderson County in October 1862, as the family was trying to flee a bad crop year for brighter pastures in Lawrence.

And there was Sadie Timmons, a 30 year-old "spinster" murdered in her kitchen in Garnett in the fall of 1897, whose murderer Harry Houdini's wife, Bess, contrived to name in a sham seance at the old Grand Army Hall opera house downtown. Not surprisingly, Mrs. Houdini's efforts fell short, much to the anger and frustration of some townsfolk who didn't see an unsolved murder as fodder for entertainment.

There was the discovery of an unidentified man found shot through the head in the back of a mover's wagon in August 1877 near Colony. The horses had been tethered and had starved to death where they stood after eating everything within reach.

Those murders went unsolved, and doubtless others never recorded in the history books from those early decades of our fair community. Maybe some of those spirits are unsatisfied... or un-avenged.

Of course science demands evidence for proof, and despite the best efforts of researchers and spooky reality-style TV "paranormal investigators," there really isn't any. Human feelings, however, can be pretty incisive - you can tell someone's angry or upset from near-subliminal clues that don't amount to demonstrated proof - so maybe it's not so surprising that local folks see and hear of some strange tales that defy explanation.

There's Psycho Silo, an ancient cut stone edifice northeast of Garnett just off 2000 Road with a crumbling stone building nearby where spooklore says someone was once hanged.

"This was one of the first stories I heard about when I moved to Garnett," said Mary Crist. "You get one hell of a spooky feeling when you drive out there. Have not been out there since because it made the hair on my arms and neck raise and I got major goose bumps."

Not spooky enough? Consider the cell phone photo Daniel Bell shot of his son several years ago as a toddler at his father's house on 3rd Street in Garnett.

"I was at my dad's house visiting and showing him how the quality of my phone camera was," Bell said. "I took a pic of my son and later that night when I looked at it again, I saw he was not the only one in the pic."

The photo, published here, shows the outline of what appears to be a woman with long, mussed hair, wearing a light colored dress.

Dan's father Rick told the Review it wasn't the first or last apparition that's been seen or heard around the house. One's a child, just about walking size, which walks and crawls around the hallways and in and out of rooms.

Kids were the focal point of another spook story relayed by Jennifer Felt about her parents' house on 5th Street in Garnett.

"There's a little boy and an old lady," Felt said. She said her daughter used to have conversations with the little boy.

According to my daughter," Felt said. "The little boy was murdered. She (Felt's daughter) talked to him from the time she was two (years old) until about eight."

The little boy's name was Jacob, her daughter told her. Judging from the clothes she described he seemed to be dressed from the 1940s, Felt said.

"Not sure about the old lady's story but she used to kiss both my girls on their foreheads at bedtime," Felt said. "My husband saw it happen one night when he had just woke up. The girls will tell you she kissed them as well. You could hear the little boy running up and down the stairs at night."

Traci Guernsey-Hill of Garnett says her house also comes with free-loading spirits, and that fact is known by others who've lived there. A man who visited a former owner at the house told her about an apparition that appears at the head of a staircase.

"All I had done was tell that person where we live," Hill said. "And he told me that."

A friend who once lived at the house said her daughter had an imaginary friend while they lived there; a little girl with "ouchies" on her face.

Hill said her family hears people walking up and down the stairs and hallway. Once it sounded like boxes were being dragged up and down the hallway.

"There was one day I had moved a little bouncy ball, and after it quit moving (from her touching it) it started bouncing, and then stopped when I grabbed my phone."

Of course there could be a hundred explanations for any of these stories. Pranks; houses settling; squirrels in the attic; the odd surge of electricity or reflection or maybe just a good old-fashioned leg pulling.

What type of rest are you getting?

I have found one of the hardest things to achieve is a quiet time of rest. Life seems to be speeding up and our time for quiet rest seems to be dwindling day by day. We can find some comfort in Psalm 91:1-2; "He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty." We often refer to our homes as our dwelling and they provide shelter. Even though our home provides these two comforts it cannot provide the kind of rest the Psalmist refers to. Just as we dwell in our homes God wants to dwell in our hearts by his spirit. The only way God can dwell in our heart is for us to invite him in. The type of rest that God can provide for us is not like we get by reclining in our favorite chair.

Philippians 4:7 states; "And the peace of God which transcends all understanding will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus." This peace does transcend all understanding and is difficult to explain. It is easier to understand what it is not. In our attempts to find peace and relaxation we often take trips, go shopping or pursue our favorite hobby. These activities are important but somehow we have lost track of what peace truly is. The second verse of Psalm 91 says, "We can rest in the shadow of the almighty." In order to be in a shadow we must follow someone very closely because the shadow is created by the interception of light. In order to follow God very closely and stay in his shadow we must guard our hearts and minds. Our lives seem to become busier and more complicated with each passing year. This creates a feeling of stress and anxiety which we try to deal with by keeping busy and involved.

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

The result of this is a loss of our peace. In Psalm 46:10 the Psalmist advises us to; "Cease striving and know that I am God." In order to guard our hearts and minds we must invite Jesus into our lives and begin to live a life of obedience to his teaching.

Our heart is not a large organ but it is impossible to fill it up with the things that the world alone offers. There never seems to be enough so we can say I am truly satisfied, I am at peace. In John 14:23 Jesus states, "If anyone loves me he will obey my teachings. My Father will love him and we will come to him and make our home with him." We can accept or reject Jesus. If we accept him he will move into our heart and begin a transformation of our life that will allow us to rest in the shadow of the Almighty.

School funding and therapy dogs

Where Kansas taxpayers, state school finance and the Kansas Supreme Court are concerned, there's really only one burning question right now: how many therapy dogs does it take to prove we're 'adequately funding' education?

It's a two-part scenario, reborn (yet again, yawn...) in early October when the state supreme court said (yet again, yawn...) that the Kansas Legislature has yet to live up to its constitutionally-mandated responsibility to "adequately" fund education.

The last round last summer, as you recall, was $293 million in new money - bringing total Kansas spending for education to over $4 billion (with a 'b'), still nearly 70 percent of the state's budget. But that's still a far cry from the additional $900 million the state school board wants.

You remember - "not enough money;" it's been an ongoing mantra since about 2005, the main contention of a lawsuit filed by school districts in Dodge City, Hutchinson, Kansas City, Ks., and Wichita who want more money and equal money spent on all kids no matter how rich or poor their school district.

The last round last summer, as you recall, was $293 million in new money - bringing total

Kansas spending for education to over $4 billion

Legislature has to live up to its own constitutional obligations, the court thinks the same constitution authorizes its justices to shut down every school district in Kansas if legislators don't ask "how high" when the court says "jump."

Oddly, no one else who's read the state constitution can find where the court has authority to close our schools, which are actually owned by the local school districts and their patrons and taxpayers. But no sense getting too far off into the weeds here...

The other facet of the funding issue was exemplified recently in Scranton, where the school counselor of one of the Santa Fe Trail District's attendance center's hit the board up for $3,000 for a new therapy dog. The board basically said

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

they love dogs as much as anybody, but at $3,000 there would have to be an issue about who actually owned the dog. No word on the cost for the sofa for kids to lay on while receiving therapy from the dog, or if the dog gets to get up on said sofa when nobody's around.

The Kansas Supreme Court reminds me of Wheezer in the classic "Our Gang" short comedy from 1931 entitled "Helping Grandma." As you remember (if you're old, anyway, and either watched the originals or the 75 years of re-runs) the kids are helping Grandma at her grocery store when the "chain store" men show up and make a pricey offer to buy her out. The kids don't want grandma to sell, so they tell the prospective buyers they couldn't sell many chains in this town anyway.

The men call back on the phone in grandma's absence, and Wheezer answers as Dorothy is counting out candy to him from grandma's counter. Wheezer's not paying attention to the call, all he says is "T'ain't enough," to Dorothy, then yells "call later" into the phone receiver. The chain store men keep calling back and upping their offer, but for Wheezer, it's never enough.

Sound familiar?

That $3,000 therapy dog is, of course a pointer- pointing to the mindset of silliness and the exorbitant costs that've become institutionalized into public education. If we know anything it's that bureaucracies are expensive, and education is the biggest bureaucracy in every state.

If we don't figure out a way to put common sense back into education programming and trim off those pointless costs, we're all going to need a therapy dog.

We recently had a friend who drove to Garnett to purchase a home and work. They checked out the grocery store, which was okay. They checked out the schools, very good. But leaving the grade school they noticed a trashy home across the highway. Do they not have any pride in what their property looks like? They bought a home in Ottawa.

Reading about the nose piercings and tatoos. Nose piercing isn't even part of our culture in the United States.

The people that are kneeling during the National Anthem are just showing the world that they are half the person that is standing beside them.

I feel bad for the people across the street from the new school. I think they've gotten a bad rap. I think they're just trying to earn a living with that equipment out there. I think it's silly when there are houses in town that look like car lots or so much junk in their yard it's like they're having a yard sale all the time. Why don't you worry about somebody like that instead of somebody who's trying to make a living?

Headline misleading on Coffey County's Tyson plant interest

Dane, Good Morning! I am reaching out regarding your headline in the newspaper "Coffey County says yes" to the Tyson Project. Coffey County has NOT said yes to Tyson and this headline is misleading.

I would like to request a correction in the newspaper along with this statement on our county's official position on this plant. Thank you.

Statement from Coffey County Economic Development on the potential Tyson Poultry Processing Plant in Kansas.

On September 25, the Coffey County Commission and myself, Stacy Haines, met in Executive Session to review requirements to see if Coffey County is eligible to submit a proposal.

Criteria and specifications for this project are extremely specific and communities MUST be able to meet all requirements to be considered at all.

Coffey County DID NOT meet enough of the criteria to apply for this project and did not submit a proposal for the project.

Russian Facebook ads too little, too late, too eclectic

The Kremlin knows a bargain when it sees it.

We are supposed to believe that it bought the American presidential election last year with $100,000 in Facebook ads and some other digital activity. Frankly, if American democracy can be purchased this cheap - a tiny fraction of the $7.2 million William Seward paid to buy Alaska from the Russians back in 1867 - it's probably not worth having.

The latest obsession in the Russian collusion story, the Kremlin's digital activity has generated headlines and put Facebook and all of Silicon Valley on the defensive, although this looks to be one of the most overhyped stories of the year.

The Russians, as far as we know, bought more than $100,000 in Facebook ads between June 2015 and May 2017. A little more than half was spent after last November, when, obviously, Donald Trump had already won.

The scale here is singularly unimpressive. A serious House campaign might spend $100,000 on digital. In a presidential campaign, the amount is a rounding error. The Trump campaign spent around $90 million on digital in 2016. Hillary Clinton employed a considerable digital staff, and announced she was spending $30 million on digital the last month of the campaign alone.

If tens of thousands of dollars was decisive amid this tsunami of tens of millions,

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

the Russian trolls working somewhere in St. Petersburg should strike out on their own and start a political consultancy or an internet publishing company. They are geniuses.

It doesn't appear that much of the Russian material was explicitly advocating for Trump's election, and some of it wasn't even right wing. One Russian Facebook page highlighted discrimination against Muslims. Another promoted anti-police videos for a Black Lives Matter audience. A pro-gay-rights page was called LGBT United.

Other pages were on the right and supportive of Trump. But much of the Russian Facebook activity was peddling online tripe indistinguishable from indigenous American online tripe - in fact, it was ripped off from content produced by Americans. If the Russians are going to decide our elections on social media, one assumes it will require at least a little originality.

One suspicion has been that the Trump campaign helped direct the Russian online effort. What we know about the Russian activity so far makes that doubtful. Why, if the Trump campaign was running its own digital campaign that was magnitudes larger, would it bother with a tiny Russian effort that wasn't always focused on Trump or his message?

It is outrageous that Russians meddled in our democracy at all, and if there are ways to lock them out of our social media going forward, we should do it. Let's not pretend, though, that the Russian online activity was the key to the election. This is classic conspiracy thinking - that some small secret cabal is responsible for a world-historical outcome that had much more obvious causes (Hillary Clinton's poor campaign, for one).

There may yet be truly damaging Russia revelations, and the Trump family's business dealings could always produce a nasty surprise. But all the focus on Facebook serves, for now, as a substitute for a smoking gun in the absence of a real one.

Should it matter to you who opens your tax forms?

Every now and again, something that probably makes great business sense just doesn't feel quite right in your stomach.

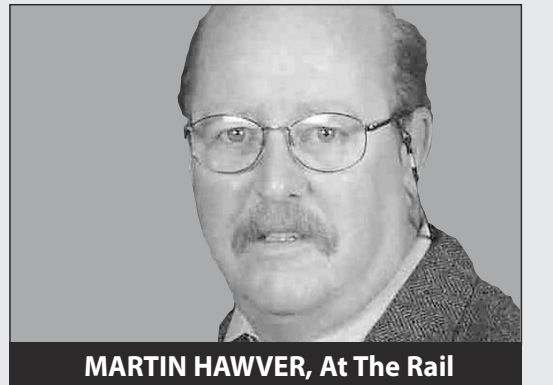

The Kansas Department of Revenue plans to hand over to a private bank the tedious and for most purposes dull and simple job of opening up your Kansas income tax filing envelope, sorting out the papers, sending the check you wrote to a bank to channel to the State General Fund, and forwarding the tax filing to other state employees to make sure it is accurate.

It's called contracting-out, and it operates much the same as building roads. Those folks with the jack hammers and high-visibility vests you see in construction zones aren't state employees. They work for construction companies that won the contract to build the road.

It's one thing when it is putting down asphalt, or maybe roofing a state office building. But it just has a little different feel when those contract workers-who will know your name, where you live and how much money you made last year-don't work for the state, where there are strict rules we've come to expect as a matter of culture. Probably the same rules remain, yet.

The whole issue of contracting out state jobs to private businesses is something that caught fire with the results of a $3 million study for government efficiencies-read cost-savings-by outsourcing state responsibilities, by cutting services, by basically running state government like a lean business.

STATE COMMENTARY

MARTIN HAWVER, At The Rail

On a strictly business basis, it probably makes sense to out-source that basic receipt of income tax filings from Kansans - but it has a funny feel to it, doesn't it?

This is where that wallet-to-stomach debate starts. Sure, it's probably cheaper to hire non-state employees, probably a step or two up from the minimum wage, to do work that the state and all Kansans know needs to be done. Everyone talks about efficiencies in government, in lowering the operating costs of the state so your tax bill will be lower.

It's one thing when to save money state forms for nearly everything are printed on both sides of the piece of paper. But it feels a little different when someone who doesn't work for the state, a Cabinet secretary, or the governor, or essentially, for us - is opening our income tax forms.

Maybe that feeling is because we've come to respect and trust those unknown, unseen state employees.

That trust is probably the biggest asset that state employees as a group bring with them to their jobs. And it is worth something to the employees and to us taxpayers who hire them. It might cost a little more to have state employees handling our tax forms, our checks, but there's the aspect of trust.

An estimated 40 state jobs would be eliminated and who knows what happens to those state employees after the out-sourcing? Does it matter whether the laid-off workers are civil servants, or whether they are "unclassified" which means they have no basic job protections and due process rights when their jobs are ended? They might find other jobs within state government or with other agencies but essentially those jobs are gone from state employment.

The Kansas Legislature has made a lot of change in the state's civil service law, and encouraged workers through pay hikes to abandon that job protection and right to due process, which was essentially their guarantee that if they do good work and do it right they won't be laid off just because of who they know.

And, contracting out those tax jobs? Well, at least you don't have to report your weight on the tax forms.

Martin Hawver is publisher of Hawver's Capitol Report-to learn more about this nonpartisan statewide political news service, visit the website at www.hawvernews.com

But it feels a little different when someone who doesn't work for the state, a Cabinet secretary, or the governor, or essentially, for us - is opening our income tax forms.

Latest find in Garnett - Dr. Bells advertising token

This advertisement token is one of my latest metal detecting finds here in Garnett, Ks. It reads: DR. BELLS "PINE TAR & HONEY". I have it sealed up to prevent further corrosion damage.

Dr. Bells Pine Tar & Honey was a noted cough syrup if you will, with maybe, a hint of snake oil included. It was produced by E.E. Sutherland Medicine Company of Paducah, Kentucky. It was used as an elixir sometime around 1889-1890 and became very popular in 1902-1903. It was advertised for 25 cents per bottle, with a full price refund if it didn't work in all cases, child or adult.

10 years ago: Garnett's oldest church disbands

10 years ago...

The city's oldest church, Garnett Presbyterian Church, will hold its last service this coming Sunday before disbanding and finishing the distribution of most of its assets to local community groups. The few remaining church members, about 20, according to members of the congregation, voted this summer to disband the local church after years of struggling for membership.

Anderson County's jobless rate showed more signs of improvement between August and September of this year with the release of unemployment statistics from the Kansas Department of Human Resources. According to the monthly statistics, the county's unemployment rate dropped a half a point from 4.8 percent last August to 4.3 percent in September. KDHR officials say it was mainly due to a season change of school employees returning to work.

The Dow Jones average fell over 500 points Monday, more than twice the drop experienced in October 1929. However, analysts are quick to point out the volume of trading in the 1929 market wasn't nearly as high as that of today, nor was economic growth as constant and healthy as other current indicators say.

Last Thursday Joe Carey, W.S. The Review has no particulars yet to give. The new company will drill more wells and develop the field. The Review had hoped that the city would purchase the gas plant. Without any doubt, it would have been a paying investment for the purchase price as consideration is reported to have been only $75,000.

Halloween brings increased risk of pedestrian accidents

As excitement for Halloween builds, creative costumes and a bag full of goodies become top priorities, while safety often becomes an afterthought. Because excited trick-or-treaters often forget about safety, drivers, party-goers and parents must be even more alert, as the risk of being injured by moving vehicles increases greatly.

One-third of Halloween crash fatalities involve a pedestrian.

43 percent of all people killed in motor vehicle crashes on Halloween (6 p.m. October 31st to 5:59 a.m. November 1st) from 2009 to 2013 were in crashes involving a drunk driver. (NHTSA)

On Halloween Night alone 119 people lost their lives (2009-2013).

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) reports that Halloween is consistently one of the top three days for pedestrian injuries and fatalities, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that children are four times more likely to be struck by a motor vehicle on Halloween than any other day of the year.

"With an increased risk of pedestrian crashes on Halloween night, AAA Kansas urges parents to take the time to make trick-or-treaters and their costumes safer and more visible to motorists," said Shawn Steward, spokesman for AAA Kansas. "In addition, motorists must slow down and watch for children, as well as have a designated driver if drinking is part of a Halloween celebration."

Halloween is also a statistically dangerous night for drunk driving. Although Halloween falls on a Tuesday this year, many parties will be held the weekend before. Drivers must also take into consideration that some neighborhoods have scheduled trick-or-treating for that weekend as well. The combination of drinking and increased pedestrian traffic on Halloween has been a deadly combination.

A few scary statistics: Children are four times more likely to be struck by a motor vehicle on Halloween than any other day of the year. This is especially alarming considering an estimated 40 million children between the ages of 5 and 14 trick-or-treated in the United States in 2014.

Halloween ranks as the third-deadliest day of the year for pedestrians.

Nearly 40 percent of fatal crashes on Halloween night involve a drunk driver.

Lady Bulldog medals at state cross country

WAMEGO - Senior Averil Wilson paced all Lady Bulldog runners with a 19th place finish, earning a medal, at the state meet last Saturday with a time of 20:32. Taylor Briggs of Chapman High School won with a time of 18:46.

Freshman Rayna Jasper finished 37th overall with a time of 21:20. Other Lady Bulldog runners competing were freshman Lanie Walter (22:56, 85th place), sophomore Maya Corley (23:17, 91st place), junior Paige Rupp (23:23, 92nd place), sophomore Lillian Spring (23:38, 99th place) and senior Danielle Mills (25:01, 102nd place).

Burlington downs AC 44-12 to end season

Vikings finish as State Runner Up

LAWRENCE - It was one of the hardest courses in the state of Kansas according to Vikings head coach Troy Prosser and the stakes couldn't have been any higher, but Prosser couldn't have been more proud of how his boys responded in finishing runner up at the state cross country meet last Saturday in Lawrence at Rim Rock Farm.

Vikings coach Prosser is ecstatic with the effort his squad shows each and every day.

"They work their tails off almost every day of the week and when it's time to compete, they rise to the challenge," Prosser stated.

Over the past couple of weeks, this statement has especially been true.

"The stakes couldn't have been any higher than the past two weekends, but they kept finding ways to push themselves further than they probably thought was possible," Prosser added.

It has been quite some time since the Vikings have celebrated this kind of success in cross country. This season the Vikings won their first Regional Title since 1991. That 1991 team also finished runner-up in state.

Prosser said, "26 years has been a long wait, that wait makes it even more special."

Halstead High School edged out Central Heights by just 2 points on the afternoon. Halstead finished with 102 points, the Vikings 104 and third place Scott Community High School 113 points.

Earning medals were sophomore Tyler Stevenson (17:10, 12th place) and senior Kyle Cardin (17:24, 20th place)

Also contributing to the runner-up finish were Alex Cannady (17:48, 26th place), Caleb Meyer (17:48, 26th place), and Jarod Crawford (18:27, 56th place).

The top 5 finishers for each team determine the team's overall score.

Also running for the Vikings were Bryce Sommer (18:52, 70th place) and Zackrey Grabbe (20:01, 95th place).

With only one of the top 5 finishers being a senior (Cardin), the future looks bright for the Vikings. It will be much more than top finishes that will be missed from the senior class though.

"Merely saying 'thank you' or that we will miss seniors Kyle (Cardin), Zack (Grabbe), Matthew (Ashwill) and Coyd (Gardner) would be doing them a disservice. Each of them brought something so important or unique to the program that they simply cannot be replaced. Underclassmen Caleb (Meyer), Bryce (Sommer), Tyler (Stevenson), and Alex (Cannady) will need to step up as leaders while Jarold (Crawford) and the rest of the younger runners need to continue to grow," Prosser said.

"As the saying goes at Central Heights - Today is a great day to be a Viking!," Prosser added.

Four Winds Chapter attends Naturalization Ceremony

The Four Winds Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution attended a Naturalization Ceremony at the Fort Scott National Historic Site in Fort Scott, KS, on Friday, September 29, 2017. The Honorable Teresa J. James presided over the ceremony in which 99 individuals, representing 37 countries, took the Oath of Allegiance to become United States citizens.

The ceremony began with the presentation of the colors by the Pittsburg State University Army ROTC. The address was given by Larry D. Nuss, Attorney at Law. An administrative official from U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services then provided the introduction of the new citizens. Each applicant's name, occupation, and former country of citizenship were read. This was followed by the Oath of Allegiance. Prospective citizens were asked to stand and declare that they will renounce all allegiance to any other country, while promising to support and defend the Constitution of the United States of America. Patriotic music during the ceremony was provided by the Fort Scott High School Band, Orchestra and Choir.

Following the ceremony, three members of the Four Winds Chapter, Donna Roberts, Kay Roeckers and Brigitte Brecheisen-Huss congratulated all the new citizens, while presenting them with double American flag pins. The event was an incredible opportunity for the chapter to honor the patriotic roots of immigration. It was an honor to be able to participate in the excitement of such a momentous event in a beautiful, historic setting.

Author documents the "wild places" of Kansas

Ready to hit the road? George Frazier will bring the The Last Wild Places of Kansas to the Garnett Public Library on Thursday, November 9, at 7 pm.

Frazier

Chronicling three years he spent roaming the Sunflower State by car, canoe, and on foot, Frazier's provocative travelogue takes readers to the remaining "wild places" of Kansas, places where nature collides with folklore.

From the unexpected wilds of the Kansas City suburbs to the Cimarron National Grassland in the far southwestern corner of the state, Frazier curates an heirloom collection of little-known sites - tenacious stretches of unplowed prairie, centuries old forests, ancient springs, lost Native American landmarks, and other natural gems that have managed to cheat death and incubate the DNA of lost wild America.

Join us at this free event and get ready to change the way you feel about Kansas!

George Frazier is a writer and software architect who lives in Lawrence, Kansas.

His first book, The Last Wild Places of Kansas: Journeys into Hidden Landscapes, was published by the University Press of Kansas last year.

The book has won the Midwest Book Award, the Kansas Notable Book Award, the Hamlin Garland Prize, and the Ferguson Book Award.

Please join us at the Friends of the Garnett Library annual meeting on Thursday, Nov. 9th at 7:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend, refreshments will be served.

Bulldog cheerleaders earn many honors at El Dorado camp

This summer, the Anderson County High School Cheerleaders attended the UCA Cheer Camp in El Dorado. The team had a fabulous showing earning trophies, ribbons, and other honors at camp. With a very young team, many of them going to camp for the first time. They all stepped up and came home with not only awards, but also wonderful memories they will have for a lifetime.

The team practiced all of May and June to prepare for camp. This year the focus was our schools fight song and the game day competition. Our fight song was evaluated by the UCA staff, which the girls received a blue ribbon on.

While at camp the girls learned many new stunts, cheers, sidelines, and band dances. On top of learning the evaluation and final day competition material, the girls also were taught new dances, stunt technique and safety.

The Extreme Routine, cheer, band dance, and sidelines are evaluated later that same day, and the following day. The evaluations let the girls know what they need to work on to correct the routines before the final day competition.

We only had a short time to put the game day material together with our own incorporation before their first evaluation, on a scale of 1-5, they came back with all 5's on the incorporation we added into the routine.

That evening the girls had a short time to perfect the routines and be ready to perform them for one last evaluation the following day.

On these evaluations the girls received all blue ribbons on their Extreme Routine and Game Day Performances.

The final day of camp is the Game Day Championships. In the game day portion of the competition, the girls had a fabulous performance, receiving 2nd overall.

In the Extreme Routine Competition, they also received 2nd place.

The girls were also awarded the camp leadership award, which is quite an honor.

The also received a spirit stick each night of camp, and on the first night they were awarded the coveted "BANANA". The Banana goes to the team that stands out showing leadership, spirit and citizenship.

Lilly Spring was our All-American winner. Only the top 10% trying out from each camp become All-American.

Maclaine Sears and Kaylyn Disbrow were both "Pin It Forward" recipients. This award is given by a UCA Staff member to a cheerleader that exhibits kindness and a positive attitude throughout camp. We also had a camp jump off finalist, Jenna Fritz.

Although the girls work very hard at camp, there was still time for fun too. The third night was a "We Love Cheer" themed party, where for an hour, the girls dressed in their team "love" attire and played games. The themed party really gives the girls time to unwind, which they need before the competition the following morning, which is very stressful.

I was so proud to see how much the girls learned and how much they grew over the week at cheer camp. They worked hard and received many awards, not only for their abilities, but also for their leadership.

This year on November 18th, our Anderson County High School Cheerleaders will be representing Garnett in the first ever Kansas State Game Day Cheer Competition at the Topeka Expo centre. We are very excited to be a part of this historic event and proud to get the opportunity to represent our school there.

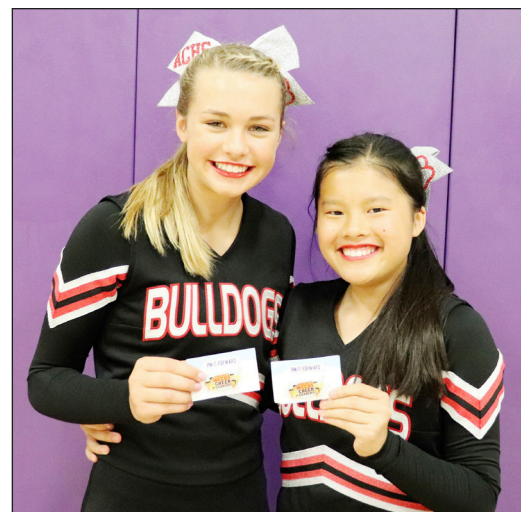

The Anderson County Cheerleaders are coached by Trish Wittman.
