Local company builds downtown headquarters

Navi-Call will combine most aspects of its operation at new home

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – A local company is building a new headquarters building in downtown Garnett where a commercial lot has sat vacant for nearly a decade.

Jim Todd, co-owner of Navi-Call Solutions at 425 S. Oak in Garnett, said the new structure would bring together a company that's spread out between Garnett and a handful of remote locations into a centralized hub that will handle product assembly, administration, sales and training in its local facilities.

"What we want to do is get all of our processes in-house," Todd said Thursday.

The company produces wireless call systems and monitoring for use in hospitals, nursing homes, long term care units and private residences. Todd said presently plastic components for various units were shipped from Hayes Brand Moldings in Garnett to an assembly point out of town, packaged and shipped for receipt by installation teams at customer sites. He said putting more of the operation under one roof would help streamline the process, and he also wanted a more upscale facility to receive and meet with clients

Ethanol plant will be backdrop for TV episode

Discovery Channel to film unveiling of RFA's promo chopper at EKAE

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The East Kansas Agri Energy ethanol plant in Garnett will be the backdrop for an episode of "American Chopper" on March 24, when the Renewable Fuels Association gets a first-time look at a motorcycle built for the organization by famed series co-host Paul Teutul, Jr.

Paul Jr. will unveil the bike March 24, for the episode that will air on the Discovery Channel May 28 in a premiere of the revived series, brought back this year after its cancellation in 2012.

The public is invited to attend the event and possibly be involved in the filming.

In a letter to the Review published on today's editorial page, Vice President of Industry Relations for the RFA Robert White said the event served a two-fold purpose of publicizing ethanol fuel and rectifying a myth that motorcycles and alcohol fuels don't mix.

"All the major manufacturers endorse E10 for their bikes," White told the Review last week. He said part of the bad blood between ethanol and motorcycles came about from previous generations of bikes and of ethanol before technology made both more compatible. He said other blending issues with motor fuels have an impact on all engines, but that the rumor mill and the early prejudice about ethanol seemed to stick.

"A lot of it is just education," White said. "We've been up to Sturgis for several years now, and sometimes some riders have been pretty direct in their questions. But now there's enough of a track record with E10 with manufacturers and with the riders that the point is getting across."

The endorsement from the American Chopper crew carries its own weight. The series, which chronicled the real-life art and controversy between custom bike builders Paul Teutul, Sr., and his son Paul Jr., ran from 2003 through 2012, when lawsuits between the two over Paul Jr.'s firing from the New York-based Orange County Choppers eventually led to the end of the series. But the show was rekindled for 2018, and a preview of the March 28 premiere aired on March 1.

White said most of the construction scenes and scripted portions of the episode had already been shot. The March 24 unveiling would go into the editing process and be included in the May 28 season 11 premiere.

Members of the public who want to take part in the unveiling should be at Anderson County High School between 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m., where a bus will transport you to the plant. There will be no parking at the plant due to expected large crowds, except for those who ride their motorcycles there, White said.

"It should be a lot of fun and we hope local folks will come on out to the plant and take part with us and maybe end up on TV," White said. "We're excited to get to promote our fuel and the EKAE plant in such a unique and fun way."

HELP WANTED: Disaster volunteers

March 24 meeting to enlist United Way, others to help organize, train local helpers

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Anderson County's emergency response network needs to establish a core of local volunteers able to assist before, during and after a local disaster, and a March 24 meeting has been set to start educating and planning for those willing to step up for their community.

County emergency management director J.D. Mersman said the pre-planning was part of an overall effort to be organized and ready in the event of a local disaster, instead of being overcome with well-intentioned but unscripted volunteers when a major event hits.

"One of the great things about Kansans is the love to help their neighbors," Mersman said. "Unfortunately, after a disaster like the Reading, Ks., tornado, there was such a massive influx of 'spontaneous volunteers' it actually became a hindrance to the response."

The local meeting will feature representatives from the United Way, Kansas State Animal Response Team and Red Cross. Volunteers must be 18 years of age to take part. The meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Sat., March 24, at the Community Building at the Anderson County Fairgrounds in Lake Garnett Park.

Mersman said tasks volunteers might be assigned depend on their abilities and existing skill sets, but might include things like assisting with set up and maintaining shelters for residents and their pets, assisting with documentation of damages and community needs, assisting with clean up of debris after a storm, helping with the management of donations such as food, clothing, etc., and public education and training to help the communities be better prepared.

"None of the duties will put the volunteer in direct harm such as our firefighters, EMT's, and law enforcement," Mersman said. "We are looking for people to help the community recover once the initial response is done."

Mersman said as a community starts the process of recovery after a disaster, there's a need to account for who's coming into and leaving the area. Part of the effort will be aimed at volunteers knowing in advance what their assignments are and where they should be in order to organize the logistics of the recovery effort.

"In conjunction with having trained, vetted, and prepared volunteers locally we feel we can have a better grasp on that process of recovery," Mersman said.

A Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) was organized locally several years ago, but Mersman said the team had struggled to keep a small number of volunteers engaged wholly through local efforts. He said pairing with United Way,

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

Time is something all of us have to deal with. Some would say how well you use your time is directly related to how successful you are. Others would say the most important thing is to save time. Webster defines time as a definite portion or duration; a moment, period or season. The Bible has much to say about time.
In John 1:1-2, the apostle says, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was with God in the beginning." The Word here refers to Jesus Christ. Notice the past tense, "was the Word." Jesus was with God in the beginning. What beginning? Just as far back as you want to go. You cannot go back beyond God. He came out of eternity to meet us. Everything with God is in the past tense. The Word was, not is.
In Galatians 4:4, Paul says, "But when the time had fully come, God sent his Son, born of time and God has different ways of accomplishing his will during these time periods.

In Acts 1:6-8, the apostles ask Jesus prior to his ascension if he is "at this time going to restore the kingdom to Israel." He says to them, "It is not for you to know the times or dates the Father has set by his own authority." This again depicts a dispensational period of time. This is the era we are currently in. It is commonly referred to as the age of grace. All prophecy that needs to be fulfilled for the rapture of the church (1st Thess. 4:13-18) has been completed. There are many theologians who believe we are in the end times. In Revelation 22:10, Jesus tells the Apostle John, "Do not seal up the words of the prophecy of this book because the time is near." Some will say if he is coming why hasn't he come in these 2000 years. It says in Rev. 22:12, "Behold I am coming soon!" In the Greek this does not mean soon in terms of the calendar but "quickly" in terms of the actual event. When the Lord does come it will be so quickly that no one will have the opportunity to change their status concerning salvation in light of his appearing.

Jesus summarizes the whole Bible in Rev. 22:13, when he says, "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End." One thing we need to remember is we have a limited time. We rush around to make time to do things or go places. God wants us to be productive and active but he also wants us to be about his work. In order to do that we need to make time for him. If you do he will meet you wherever you make time.

Earlier last week, workmen used a tall crane and concrete pump to fill steel forms for the new structure's foundation. Todd said the lot, which formerly had a basement with the old block of buildings, would be brought up to grade and a concrete floor poured for the structure.
The original span of buildings in that block were built in 1911 and collapsed in 2008 after decades of leaky roof problems took their toll on the structure. In its most recent years before the dilapidated roofs and walls fell in, they housed Gambles Merchandise, Hiles Pharmacy, Tax-Time Tax Service, Dan Carr's chiropractic clinic, Resolutions Women's Fitness and Serendipity Hair Salon.

Because it's being built in Garnett's 'blighted' downtown area, 90 percent of the new taxes on the building will be rebated for a period of years under the city's Neighborhood Revitalization Act.
Todd said the company's office at 425 S Oak presently staffs four employees. The new building will add a few more positions as well as offer training areas for sales and service techs who work off-site. Navicall Solutions and its sister company WestRock Solutions, which sells other products in the senior car market, moved to Garnett about four years ago.
The company plans to move into the new structure sometime in June.

Richmond Museum sets St. Pat's supper

The Richmond Community Museum will recognize St. Patrick's Day with a Potato Bar Supper a week late---March 24th. The supper, with lots of choices all for a donation, will be served from 5-7:30 p.m. at the Richmond Community Bldg.
The Museum is pleased to announce it has a new concrete floor (by Cunningham Construction Co. of Ottawa) and carpeting (by Bauman's of Garnett) which visitors are invited to see after 3 p.m.

However, the displays and artifacts will not yet be in place.
Mark your calendars for Sunday, April 29th, 2 p.m. when Eric Anderson, of the Haskell Indian Nations University faculty, will be guest speaker at the Museum. Prof. Anderson, who is a member of the Pottawatomie Nation, will talk about indigenous Native American tribes in Kansas. The rejuvenated and rearranged Museum will be ready for visitors for this event. This is the same day as the Community Building's annual smorgasbord, so you may have dinner there and then attend the Museum's annual meeting.

The Museum's regular open weekend afternoons schedule will start over Memorial Day weekend. But before then, come to the Potato Bar Supper March 24th and the Native Americans program April 29th.

About rain gauges, and vote cheating

Ask some of Kris Kobach's critics how it is that they believe having solid voter integrity law is a bad thing; and then, just for fun, ask them if they know how a rain gauge works.

It would seem if you can understand one, then you ought to be able to understand the other. The truth is there's no object to understanding realistic voter identification, requirements for citizenship, photo IDs, etc. The issue isn't the understanding of the logic that you should be a legal resident of a place to vote there. The issue is that tighter voter security makes it harder to cheat.

And there are those heavily involved in the argument who desperately want to cheat in elections. The prize, after all, is a great one. Power, money, political favor, swaying public policy along a given ideological tract for decades if not ad infinitum. For election cheaters, the looser the rules, the better.

Kobach was in federal court last week defending a 2013 Kansas law that requires those registering to vote to produce a birth certificate or other document to prove citizenship and age, along with meeting other requirements of residency, etc., which Kansas presently requires in order to be granted the right to vote. The law was attacked by the American Civil Liberties Union and other liberal groups prior to the 2016 elections, when a federal judge blocked it from being fully implemented. Last week's trial in the ACLU lawsuit against Kobach and the State of Kansas is the attempt by these groups to nullify the law in the 2018 elections.

And for those who benefit from cheating, 2018 is the perfect time to attack voter integrity. An off-year election pulls nowhere near the public spotlight of a presidential election year, when the crucial nature of legitimate voting should be all the more clear to the electorate. Defeating a law that requires proof of citizenship to register in an "off" year makes it all the more accepted when the next "on" year rolls around.

Kobach's critics and left-leaning media who support vote cheating have worked feverishly to paint the law's efforts as "voter suppression"

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

in the minds of the public – the accusation is that us mean old rich white guys in the Kansas Republican Party want to shut out minorities from the polls because they often vote for Democrats. But those who attack legal voting and proof of identification never mention similar requirements for proof of identity to buy liquor, file for public office, apply for public assistance, obtain a mortgage, even to make a credit card purchase if the back of the card isn't signed. The ACLU has been silent on these identity requirements.

And who can deny the irony in the teeth gnashing among the mainstream media and liberals over supposed Russian meddling in U.S. elections, coupled with their belief that voters should be allowed to exercise their franchise without proving they're actual citizens?

We know vote cheating exists and has been part of the playbook in urban, traditionally Democrat-held voting precincts across the country. James O'Keefe's Project Veritas recorded secret video prior to the 2016 election, where Democrat political operatives give explicit detail about their actions to flood certain critical voting polls with illegal voters. Two targets of that investigation lost their jobs as a result, and one worked for Hillary Clinton's campaign. Oddly enough, neither O'Keefe's video nor the actions of those election cheaters ever became a national story.

Legitimate voters who value their franchise know they have to play by the rules and, indeed, how important those rules are. Those who want to cheat make the most of lax rules, and do their best to put the country's rain gauge under Democracy's downspout.

I agree with the caller last week. Come on Garnett, clean up your yards. Free dump week is coming in April. Get rid of your junk. Be proud of how your property looks. Start with the home across from the grade school.

Hello, I'm calling in regard to the deterioration in our country, America. It saddens me to see how the crime rate is going up. It's just falling from grace. We as fellow citizens can begin to help this situation. It saddens us to see the morals going down. Even around the Garnett area we can help the situation. We can watch how we talk, how we dress, how we interact with people, how we just plain try to be good solid Americans. We see a lot of ugly lanugage. It even comes from plainly dressed people. We have heard the "f" word, "d" word, "s" word coming from them.

It's disgustng. We feel like our country is going downhill fast. We cannot understand the fussing and fighting over the cat situation in Garnett. Be adults. Let it go. Treat animals humane. But please quit fussing and fighting about something so silly. Let's try to clean up around the Garnett area. Let us watch our talk, our walk, our interacting and let's just try to live peaceable, clean lives. It's amazing how we get so comfortable with pornography, crime, bad language. Please Garnett people, let's just get some integrity in our lives. Thank you.

I'd like to tell people who work at schools, please don't put stuff on Facebook that has to do with kids you work with, whether it's something good or something bad. That's all personal stuff. Thank you.

Trump's treatment makes agony for Jeff Sessions

Attorney General Jeff Sessions has been attacked and belittled by President Donald Trump more than Vladimir Putin has.

Trump has had rough patches with most of his top officials, but there is a particular poignancy in his humiliating treatment of his own attorney general, who got on board the Trump Train early and supports the president's policy instincts as much as anyone.

But Sessions is not personally loyal, at least not in the way Trump expects, and so the man who looked past Trump's erratic temperament when he decided to support him now routinely feels the brunt of it. Trump bangs on Sessions in public, the only purpose of which seems to be venting his own spleen and personally discomfiting Sessions as much as possible.

For Sessions, a dignified man who would never treat anyone else the way the president treats him, it has to be painful, and all the more so because of the irony of it.

Just a few short years ago, Sessions was the odd man out in the U.S. Senate. He fought rearguard actions on immigration (successfully), inveighed against free-trade orthodoxy and argued the GOP should be a party of workers when few were inclined to listen.

Endorsing Trump was a crazy gambit to effect a revolution in the party, and it worked. You would have expected Sessions to be the ideological conscience of the administration and a close partner of the president, the Ed Meese of the Trump administration.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

Instead, he is assiduously at work implementing the Trump agenda and gets beaten about the head and shoulders for his trouble. Sessions' recusal in the Russian investigation set in motion events leading to the appointment of Robert Mueller, and Trump will probably never forgive him. He considers his attorney general weak and disloyal on the one question that matters most to him – protection of himself and his family.

His anger toward Sessions isn't leavened with institutional knowledge, hence his strange blast at Sessions over the fact that, appropriately, the DOJ inspector general is going to look at allegations of Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act abuse. Sessions felt compelled to push back against the president in a public statement, and yet again, the civics textbooks will have to be revised to account for how government works in the Trump era.

The ongoing spat with Sessions is another reason the administration gives off a sense of teetering on the edge of a crisis, not because of exogenous events (we're experiencing peace and prosperity), but because of the ultimate endogenous factor – the president of the United States, without whom the administration wouldn't exist in the first place.

If Trump were to fire Sessions, which seems unlikely, or to eventually push him over the edge into quitting, he probably wouldn't be able to get another attorney general confirmed. Who would be acceptable both to Trump, who wants more personal loyalty, and to the Senate, which isn't going to approve a crony? And what graybeard with independent credibility would sign up to serve?

So, Sessions isn't going anywhere. Whether the attorney general considers that a reprieve or a punishment, only he knows.

Letter to the editor

Ethanol industry bringing American Chopper to Garnett

More than a decade ago, East Kansas Agri-Energy (EKAE) helped put Garnett on the map as it became home to one of the 200 plus ethanol production facilities around the country. It has represented Garnett, Anderson County and the State of Kansas well. The residents of this area, and the investors of the plant, should be proud. An upcoming event at EKAE on March 24 will provide another opportunity to highlight ethanol in this community and its numerous benefits.

As an employee of the Renewable Fuels Association (RFA), I am proud to represent the U.S. ethanol industry, and EKAE as one of my members. I get to do what I love – promoting agriculture, rural America, and ethanol. The fuel has all the facts on its side. It is a domestic, cleaner-burning, renewable product that supports rural America. It provides jobs, enhances the octane of our fuel, and serves as a gasoline extender. However, most of my job is simply fighting the misinformation surrounding our industry.

There also seems to be a fair amount of misinformation about ethanol use in motorcycles. The truth is that every motorcycle manufacturer endorses the use of 10% ethanol, some even 15% ethanol, and it has been used for decades as a safe and cost-saving alternative to conventional gasoline. To help dispel myths associated with ethanol's use, the RFA has teamed up with Paul Teutul Jr. of American Chopper fame to design and build a custom motorcycle. Our effort will start right here in Garnett at EKAE!

On Saturday, March 24, Paul Jr. will deliver and unveil RFA's motorcycle, and it will all be filmed for an episode of American Chopper, set to start season 11 on Discovery Channel on May 28. If you want to be a part of this unique and historic event, please be at Anderson County High School between 1-2:30pm CT to catch a bus to the ethanol plant. There will be no parking available at the plant due to the expected large crowd, unless you ride your motorcycle there. There will be a required check-in upon arrival, along with a vehicle display before the 3pm CT unveil of the motorcycle.

I hope that all of you can join us there. Let's show the world how a small town can come together and help highlight ethanol's numerous benefits.

Transparency: When government lets you see in

In recent years, the buzzword in politics has been "transparency."

Just about everyone has jumped on the transparency bandwagon.

Our legislators certainly have been talking about it. Only a month ago, our new governor signed a number of executive orders demanding more transparency from the state agencies that report to him. Candidates for office are promising, if elected of course, more of it as well.

March 11-17 is Sunshine Week in the United States, a time set aside each year to remind citizens how important transparency and open government are to our participatory democracy.

With all this talk about transparency, you would think we Americans would have the kind of information we need to make rational decisions. However, at times it seems we are all drowning in a sea of misinformation, alternative facts and fake news.

None of us is quite sure what, or who, to believe any more. Our response to this overabundance of information, unfortunately, has been to narrow our sources to just those cable news outlets, websites, newspapers and networks that reinforce our previously held beliefs.

Almost all of us do that. We retweet only those comments that conform to our agenda. We share memes on Facebook that demonize those who think differently. Sometimes, it seems like there is just too much to absorb, so we do what we can to silence all the chatter. We simply tune out.

In his mid-19th century book "Democracy

STATE COMMENTARY

DOUG ANSTAETT, Kansas Press Assoc.

in America," Alexis de Tocqueville marveled at how Americans relied on each other, rather than royalty, to chart the course for our nation.

Our system of self-government is rather unique in the world, but it places a premium on an informed citizenry to make it work properly.

This is becoming more difficult all the time. Frankly, we can't even agree on a common set of facts about many subjects, which makes it difficult to sit down, discuss issues and come to decisions that reflect the common good.

Why is "sunshine" important? "Publicity," said Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis, "is justly commended as a remedy for social and industrial diseases. Sunlight is said to be the best of disinfectants, electric light the most efficient policeman."

If we are to remain a free nation and able to compete with the rest of the world in the 21st century, citizens must be well-informed. One way to help is for government to be open and transparent.

But we as citizens must play our part as well. We must be willing to widen the horizons of what we read, listen to those who have different opinions and make sure all voices become part of the discussion.

That is true transparency.

– Doug Anstaett is executive director of the Kansas Press Association.

Searching for one of General Custer's encampments near Hays

For the next two or three weeks, I will be sharing my latest adventure with you. I just spent March 2-3-4 working on a Special Archaeological project near Hays, Ks. Friday 2 March '18 I left home at 5:50am and arrived at the Econo Lodge in Hays at 10:25 am. A distance of 273.4 miles. I had a wonderful and safe trip. A few things that caught my attention as I drove along were: 7 coyotes (single) hunting in the fields along the highway, several flocks of wild turkeys feeding in the wheat fields, one lone deer, lots of red tailed hawks sitting in trees, on fence posts etc., many, many baby calves, and more ran over skunks than I could count from Garnett to Hays. I mustn't forget all those wind towers. Speaking of wind and dry conditions. Wow! Most ponds and streams are dried up out west. I made a quick stop at the motel in Hays where I would be spending my next three nights to check on my reservation and then on to McDonalds for lunch before going on out to the site where I would be working. At approximately 11:45 I arrived at the site, where I joined crew of 17 others. There was our team leader, Nancy Arendt from Colby, Ks., 5 digger/recorders and 12 of us metal detector operators. Five gentlemen were from Texas. This metal detector survey was being conducted in search for one of General Custer's 1870's encampments on the Cottonwood River. This afternoon I volunteered to be a digger until more volunteer diggers arrive tomorrow. Tomorrow I will join the metal detector survey team. Out of the field at 5:00pm, back to the motel for a shower and then to eat at AW/Long John Silvers before heading back to the motel. Bedtime as tomorrow will be a long day. Respectfully submitted by: Henry Roeckers 6March2018

the entire output goes to help supply the demands of the government for condensed milk. All private contracts have been cancelled. A short time after the Hope plant was turned over to the government the coal famine struck it, and a telegram was sent to Washington that the plant must have coal immediately, as it had to shut down because of the famine. In an incredibly short time, a car of coal arrived.

Heartbreak in Emporia

Bulldogs drop pulse pounder at State to Parsons

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

EMPORIA - It just wasn't meant to be last Thursday at the state tournament for the Anderson County Bulldogs as their comeback attempt came up just short against Parsons, 72-68.

The Bulldogs got off to a good start, leading 18-16 after the first quarter before falling behind 34-32 at intermission.

Parsons forged ahead in the third period with an impressive run that saw them head into the fourth quarter with a 56-46 advantage.

Anderson County wouldn't go down easily though. As they have done throughout the season, they had one more run left inside them.

Parsons would lead by as many as 12 points in the fourth before the Bulldogs rallied.

Behind the play of Kass Allnutt who led AC with 19 points, the Bulldogs raced back to take the lead and seemingly had all the momentum late in the fourth before Parsons rebounded and held on for the victory.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 3-13-18 / Photos Submitted

Winter Getaway XVII ended with our Celebration Party Monday, March 5, 2018. The program is put on by the Garnett Public Library and designed to encourage adults to read. A total of 55 people participated this year, with 401 books read in a six week period of time. We started with our Kickoff Party on Monday, January 22 and ran through Friday, March 2nd. We had three social events with refreshments, games and prizes. Thanks to the many businesses and organizations that donated to our program. Our grand prize, valued at over $100, was won by Pam Howarter (right). Some of the other participants are pictured above. Starting from left they are - Rachel Dougherty, Nancy Horn, Sharon Yost, Shirley Roeckers, Joan Rockers, Linda Kipper, Peg Mechnig.

Tips on what to do to stay safe if severe weather hits while driving Kansas Governor Jeff Colyer has declared the week of March 5-9 "Severe Weather Awareness Week" in the state. As many people in this part of the country are aware, strong thunderstorms and even tornadoes can strike quickly and fiercely. Dangerous, damaging storms can catch motorists on the roads, so AAA Kansas and the Kansas Highway Patrol urge drivers and their passengers to be prepared and take appropriate safety precautions should they face severe weather while traveling in a vehicle.

"Storms are common across the Sunflower State throughout the spring and summer, so chances are, drivers will face storm-related challenges while in their vehicles," said Jennifer Haugh, AAA Kansas spokeswoman. "A vehicle can either be very dangerous or a place of safety, depending on the weather conditions. The key is being prepared for severe weather and reacting the right way to what Mother Nature throws at you."

Heavy Rain and Flooding
Heavy downpours make it difficult to see while driving. AAA Kansas recommends regularly changing windshield wiper blades to keep drivers' views as clear as possible. If visibility is severely limited during heavy rain, drivers should reduce their speed and if they can safely do so, pull off the road out of traffic lanes, turn on flashing hazard lights, and wait until the rain lightens.

Drivers should be reminded that it's Kansas law that if windshield wipers are on, headlights should be as well. Headlights can help divers see better but also allow their vehicle to be seen by other drivers.

Pooling water on roadways can cause hydroplaning and loss of vehicle control, so motorists should reduce their speeds during rainy conditions. Roadways completely covered by water are a particular danger.

"Avoid driving in floodwater," warned Trooper Don Hughes of the Kansas Highway Patrol. "Flooding causes more deaths than any other storm-related event, and many of those deaths occur in vehicles. As little as 12 inches of moving water can sweep most vehicles off the road. The slogan 'Turn around, don't drown' is an important one to remember and follow."

Hail
Hailstorms hit with little warning and usually only last for about five minutes, but hailstones - frozen pellets of rain - can cause major damage in that short period of time.

There were 5,601 major hailstorms in the U.S. in 2016, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). Most hailstones are about the size of a pea or marble, but they can get as large as a softball in a severe storm.

"Hail of most any size can dent your car, and larger stones can smash your windows," said Alex Greig, Insurance Manager for AAA Kansas. "And this is not an uncommon occurrence in Kansas. Fortunately, hail damage to a vehicle is covered by your comprehensive auto insurance policy, which covers physical damage to your vehicle not caused by a collision."

To protect your car from the inevitable Kansas hail storms, park your car in a covered spot whenever possible.

If you're in your car when a hailstorm hits and see a safe place close-by, such as a highway overpass or gas station or bank awning, drive to it as soon as you can. If no shelter is available and hail becomes large enough to cause damage, stop driving and pull off the road completely. Move away from car windows and cover your head with your arms and hands to protect yourself from any breaking glass.

Lightning
The National Weather Service reports that lightning strikes about 25 million times a year, killing an average of 49 people in the United States and severely injuring hundreds more.

If you are caught outside during a thunderstorm, seek shelter in a hard-topped vehicle, or a low area, such as a tunnel. If you are already in your car when a lightning storm begins, stay in the vehicle for shelter, but steer clear of fences, isolated trees, telephone poles, power lines and pipelines.

Lightning-caused damage to a vehicle is typically covered under the comprehensive portion of an auto insurance policy, said AAA Kansas Insurance's Greig.

Thunderstorms can sometimes have other impacts to vehicles, including: Damage caused by falling trees due to high winds. This kind of damage is typically covered by standard auto insurance policies. However, if the tree was known to be weak before the storm, the damage may not be covered.

A wildfire that results from a lightning storm can cause damage to cars. Insurance coverage for wildfire, even if caused by lightning, is included in the comprehensive coverage of an auto insurance policy.

Tornadoes

NOAA reports that the United States is the most tornado-prone country in the world, with about 1,000 tornadoes touching down each year. There were 60 documented tornadoes in Kansas in 2017.

Tornado warnings mean danger is imminent. If a tornado has been sighted, move to the safest place possible.

"If you are in your car and a tornado is close, abandon the vehicle and seek shelter in a sturdy structure," said Trooper Hughes of the Kansas Highway Patrol. "If no structure is nearby, seek shelter in the nearest ditch. Lie flat, face-down on the ground, and protect the back of your head with your arms. Stay away from trees and cars."

Emergency Kit

Both AAA Kansas and the Kansas Highway Patrol recommend that motorists create a spring/summer severe weather emergency kit to carry in their cars. The kit should include items such as nonperishable food/snacks and water, a first aid kit, flashlight, hand-crank or battery-powered radio, extra batteries, cell phone and charger, first-aid supplies, flares or reflectors, rain coat or poncho, a towel or blanket, and rain boots or an extra pair of shoes.

Storm fury on the Kansas Plains

Every seasoned Kansan knows we live in smack-dab in the middle of tornado alley. The Heartland of America boasts one of the most tornado active regions in the world.

If you're like me, you'll never forget May 4, 2007. On that fateful day the town of Greensburg, in Kiowa County, was all but wiped off the face of the earth. This EF5 tornado demolished the small Kansas community of 1,500 killing 11 people and injuring dozens more.

Ninety percent of the town was destroyed including 961 homes and businesses. Another 216 received major damage. Wind speeds more than 200 miles per hour accompanied this storm.

This killer tornado roared through Comanche and Kiowa counties for 26 miles and ranged nearly 20 miles wide at one time resulting in damage in $250 million worth of damage.

Other killer tornadoes occurred that day with a death in Pratt County and another in Stafford County. Eleven tornadoes occurred on May 4.

The next day another 36 tornadoes rampaged across Kansas, falling just short of the record of 39 tornadoes in one day set in June 1992.

The Sunflower State nailed down a record 137 twisters in 2007 with 137 tornadoes ripping through Kansas.

Sixty tornadoes occurred in Kansas in 2017. This is near the long-term average, but well below more recent 10 and 20-year averages.

Fortunately, no tornado-related fatalities occurred in Kansas last year, but two injuries were reported. Both injuries happened May 16 as an EF3 tornado tracked for 26.64 miles across Pawnee and Barton counties. This tornado was also the costliest at an estimated $658,000.

The most active month in 2017 transpired in May with 29 tornadoes observed. This is 98 tornadoes below the one-month record high (127 in May 2008). April, May, and June, typically the core of the tornado season, remained quiet last year.

As tornado season approaches, it's important to remember to tune in, stay informed and keep an eye on the sky.

Remember, pay attention when you hear a tornado watch because this means severe thunderstorms and tornadoes are possible over a wide area. Tornado warnings are issued when Doppler radar indicates tornadoes are forming or a trained weather spotter has sighted a twister. This warning will tell the location, and if possible, movement, estimated speed and the towns in the tornado path.

Think ahead during this upcoming severe weather season. Listen to forecasts daily, key into local weather conditions in your area. Know where your nearest shelter is and remember when a tornado threatens, immediate action may save you and your loved ones' lives.

Beef cattle artificial insemination refresher to be March 29 in Baldwin City

Douglas County Extension and Frontier Extension District will co-host a beef cattle artificial insemination refresher class March 29, at the May-Way Farms, located at 1273 N. 650 Road, Baldwin City, KS.

The class will begin at 6:00 p.m. with snacks and should conclude by 8:30 p.m. Please RSVP to Roberta Wyckoff by March 26th if you plan to attend. Roberta can be contacted by calling 785.843.7058, or by email at rwyckoff@ksu.edu or register online at: <https://tinyurl.com/CattleAI>.

The class will highlight: Better Understanding of Synchronization Protocols; Semen Handling Techniques; Using an AI Calendar; and an opportunity to do Hands-On AI Work with a Female Reproductive Tract.

Dr. Sandy Johnson, KSU Extension Livestock

Specialist will be the evenings speaker.

The AI Refresher Class is the second in the series of Beef Cattle Reproduction Workshop Meetings. Over 100 were in attendance at the first meeting in Overbrook.

We want to thank all our local sponsors for their help with these programs. Hope to see you all there!

Celebrate Pi(e) Day Wednesday at Garnett Library

Pi Day is an unofficial holiday commemorating the mathematical constant pi. Pi Day is observed on March 14 (or 3/14 in month/day date format), since 3, 1 and 4 are the most significant digits of pi in the decimal form. In 2009 the U.S. House of Representatives supported the designation Pi Day.

Therefore, the Garnett Public Library Friends of the Library have decided to celebrate the occasion by observing Pi(e) Day at the library.

Homemade pie may be purchased by the slice from 10-2

All proceeds benefit the Friends of the Library.

Brodmerkle and Dennis win duplicate bridge

Steve Brodmerkle and Anita Dennis won the duplicate bridge match February 28th in Garnett.

Christian Church

Bruce Symes delivered a communion meditation March 4 about the amount of time (7/1000 if just attending church) we give to God each week. Chase Riebel followed that with a sermon titled "Battle Plans: The Long Fight" from Joshua 10, about the battles that God helped Joshua to win. Men's Bible study is every Tuesday at 7 a.m. in the church basement, Wednesday at 4:30-5:30 p.m. is JR and SR high school youth group in the parsonage, followed by prayer and a meal (open to anyone) from 5:30-6:30 p.m. and then 7 p.m. Bible Study for adults. March 12 will be Working Wonders CWC at 7 p.m.

Cowboy Church

All have been created for good works, as it is written in Ephesians 2:20, was the center of Pastor Jon Petty's message March 4 at High Point Cowboy Church. Believers must have the faith to do the 'good works' we are called to do, because without faith it is impossible to please God, Hebrews 11:6.

Ron Thompson led the book review class following worship. The worship service can be accessed live via the High Point Cowboy Church Facebook page each Sunday. Next Sunday Pastor Jerry Green will be sharing the message.

UMC

Scripture presented at the March 4 worship service was Psalm 19, Exodus 20: 1-17 1 Corinthians 1: 18-25 and John 2: 13-25. Pastor Dorothy Welch presented the sermon Ready, Set, Go!"

United "Methodist Women's March Challenge: "Health kits".

Sirens

Beginning the month of March our noon sirens are no longer letting us know it is noon. They will only be used in case of inclement weather. When sirens are used in cold and wet weather it causes problems with the function of them, reports J.D. Mersman, Emergency Management Director when he met with the commissioners.

Council

At the Jan. 13 meeting Mayor Melissa Hobbs questioned pot holes on Broad Street which Tim Dietrich stated he would handle it. Water Works committee stated fourth quarter testing has been done and all is good. Dietrich reported he is trying to get bids on wiring the light pole at ball field, two companies have backed out. Hobbs stated Crest is putting up a 3 ft. cinder block wall around the dugout. Since water there is not winterized, council agreed not to turn water on.

City Clerk Phylliss Gettler reported city had an opportunity to apply for a grant through the state to purchase recycled tire picnic tables. It was agreed to put 7 tables at the ballfield and one at the city park; thus applying for the grant and if approved purchasing four 8 ft. and four 6 ft. tire tables.

Steve Wallace and Richard Buckle were sworn in as councilmembers and Melissa Hobbs as Mayor. Roger Culler was thanked for his service. Unpaid bills will be handled as set to rules. Approval was made for the Fiscal Sustainability for the sewer. Ordinance 435 setting new water and sewer rates were made and Ordinance 6 expanding the area for Library Board members to reside and resolution 18-1 Waiving the City of Colony from the requirements of GAAP accounting.

Hobbs reported she is not going to the water meeting. Gettler reported she has signed up for the court clerks meeting March 8 and the municipal clerks meeting March 21 and 23. Dietrich is going to the water meeting. Council approved cutting the expenditure checks the end of February. School groups wished to sell concessions at the community bingo. Since not a city event, no decision needed. Gettler requested permission to purchase a new office chair and was approved not to exceed $345. An executive session was held regarding clerk and treasurer salaries. Approval was made to raise treasurer pay to $200 monthly and clerk pay to $15.00 hourly.

Library

Board members met Feb. 27 in the City Hall Community Room. Discussion was held on purchase of a DVD projector and screen. Upcoming business dates: Feb. 27-Board members meet in Community Room; Feb. 28-Kloma Buckle attends Summer Reading Workshop in Iola; March 2-National Read Aloud Day; March 6, 6-8 p.m. -Library Trustee Training in Iola. March 27-Summer Reading Craft workshop; April 2-Cathy Allen will become a board member.

Yard Sales

Sunny Days makes us think of spring! And it will be here soon! Time to think about the annual city-wide yard/garage sales. Begin cleaning your closets, garages, etc. The more sales available the more people come to shop. Phone Marla Bain 620-852-3321 if you want to be included. Date will be announced later.

Around Town

Decker Booth Spillman, 85, passed away Feb. 27 at his home in Iola. He was a resident of Colony for several years, Kincaid prior to that. Sympathy is expressed to Terri and Greg Jackman, Missy and Jeff Strickler, at the loss of Terri and Missy's father, Zachary and Linsey Jackman (Zachary's grandfather), Ron McGhee and Nyra (Ron's brother-in-law). Funeral services were held March 3 at Kincaid-Selma United Methodist Church, Kincaid. Burial followed in Kincaid Cemetery.

Sympathy is expressed to Kloma and Richard Buckle at the loss of her mother, Myrtle Francis, 91 at Greystone Residential Care Sunday, March 4. A daughter Janila and Lewis Preston, Uniontown is another daughter and a granddaughter Melissa and Sid Hobbs, Colony. Funeral services were held March 7 at Feuerborn Funeral Home at Iola.

Local blood donation opportunity at Anderson County High School March 27

Tuesday, March 27, the American Red Cross will be having a blood drive at the Anderson County High School from 9 a.m. - 2 p.m.

In March, while basketball teams are fighting for the chance to be crowned champions, patients battling cancer and other illnesses are fighting for their lives. The American Red Cross is asking blood donors to help patients rebound by making a lifesaving donation this spring.

Middle school basketball player Olivia Stoy received blood and platelet transfusions during treatment for T lymphoblastic lymphoma. With the help of blood and platelet donations, the 14-year-old has returned to the basketball court and, more importantly, beat cancer.

"We are so thankful that the blood products were available to Olivia for the almost two years of her treatment. They have made it possible for Olivia to regain her strength and get back to doing the activities she loves," said Megan Stoy, Olivia's mother.

Donors of all blood types are needed to help ensure that the Red Cross can collect more than 13,000 blood and platelet donations needed every day for patients like Olivia.

Giving blood takes less time than it takes to watch a single basketball game. Make an appointment to donate blood by downloading the free Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting redcrossblood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

How to donate blood
Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at redcrossblood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

Parsons was led by DaQuan Johnson with 21 points, 8 rebounds and 5 steals to lead the way.

In their second round game, Parsons fell just short of knocking off top-seed Holcomb (22-1) losing 66-62.

Sixth seeded Topeka-Hayden High School (18-7) won the 4A-Div II State Basketball Championship after upsetting the top three seeds in the bracket.
