Head 'em up and RIDE

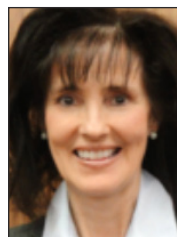

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 6-5-2018 / DANE HICKS

Nearly 50 motorcyclists from three states showed up at the Anderson County Fairgrounds in Garnett last weekend for the Garnett Lions Club's Kansas Dual Sport Safari backroads motorcycle ride. Three divisions of the off-road bikes ran gravel road and minimum maintenance road courses ranging from 120 to 180 miles throughout Anderson, Linn and Bourbon counties. A trails division had to be cancelled Saturday due to early morning rain but will be held later this summer. The event was a fund raiser for the local Lions Club.

Two face off in commission race

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA – Republicans make up the bulk of the political office filings involving Anderson County in the August primary elections, as GOP members try to muscle out the competition to face off against a short list of Democrats headed into the November general elections.

Cole

In the only local municipal race incumbent Garnett City Commissioner Jody Cole will face challenger Mark Powls, a local construction contractor and former school teacher. A city home rule ordinance exempts it from primary elections so Cole and Powls, both Republicans, will face off in the November election.

Seven Republicans filed to run for the 2nd District U.S. Congressional seat being vacated by Lynn Jenkins. They include 12th District State Senator Caryn Tyson, 5th District State Representative Kevin Jones, Vernon Fields of Basehor, 5th District Kansas Senator Steve Fitzgerald of Leavenworth, former Kansas House Speaker Doug Mays of Topeka and 1st District Kansas Senator Dennis Pyle of Hiawatha.

Powls

One of those Republicans will face the sole Democrat in the race, Paul Davis, former 46th District Kansas Representative and unsuccessful 2014 gubernatorial candi-

Kids can find activities this summer in various groups, churches, library projects

BY MELISSA HOBBS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

School's been out a couple of weeks now, and the familiar refrain from school kids echoes all over Anderson County.

"There's nothing to do!"

Boredom always seems to set in after the first week or two of summer has passed, but the good news is, there is plenty for your kids to do and most of them aren't too far from home.

This week is the kick off for several area Vacation Bible Schools in the area. The Garnett First Christian Church will host its VBS June 4-8 from 9 a.m. to Noon each day. The Kincaid-Selma United Methodist Church is also June 4-8 and will be enjoying their week with a beach party theme. Their activities run from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. daily. If you're closer to the south end of the county, Colony's churches combine for VBS June 4-8 from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. starting each day at the Colony Community Church. The theme in Colony this year is "Find a message in a bottle and get rescued by Jesus!" Age four through 5th grade are welcome.

Later in the summer Mont Ida will have their annual VBS celebration as well. They will host the event July 8-13 nightly starting at 5:30 p.m.

Local libraries are also getting ready to start up summer activities this week too. The Garnett Public Library will kick off the Libraries Rock program for preschool through 4th grade students on June 4. The program runs through July 27 with a variety of activities. June 13th is K-4 Popcorn and Movie Day at 1 p.m. in the Archer Room. June 28th is Family Night at the fire station at 5:30 p.m. with special guests from the Chanute Safari Museum. June 23 is a tea party at the Chamber Players Community Theater. This is open to all ages, starts at 10 a.m. and you must RSVP no later than June 18. July 17 activities will be held at the fire department beginning at 10 a.m. with musician Aaron Fowler performing.

The library will also offer summer camps. June 19-21 is 3rd and 4th grade camp from 9:30 a.m. to noon each day. July 17-20 from 9:30 a.m. to noon will be library camp for Kindergarten through 2nd grades. Space is limited for these events so pre-register early starting June 4. Preschool story time will be held every Tuesday beginning June 5 at 10 a.m.

Prizes for different age categories will be given based on how many books are read for grades preschool through 1st grade, and by how many pages are read for the other grades. Prizes are awarded as goals are met and festivities will wrap up with a party on July 31 at 5 p.m. in the Archer Room. The top 10 readers in each age group will win additional prizes.

The older kids will also have a summer reading program at the Garnett Public Library. The kick off party is June 6 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. for grades 5-8 and ice cream sundaes are on the menu. June 15 at 1 p.m. is Movie and Popcorn Day in the Archer Room, Harry Potter Day at the Library is June 27 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and points will be awarded for wearing your favorite house colors or character costume, Teen Scene Late Night at the Library is July 12 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., and July 26 is Night at the Museum "History Comes Alive." Prizes will be awarded throughout the program and the top ten readers will receive an extra prize.

The Colony Public Library is hosting their story hour on Tuesdays starting June 12 at 10 a.m. All ages are welcome and the theme this year is Libraries Rock!

Of course, the pool is now open in Garnett Monday through Friday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. for open swim as well as Saturdays and Sundays 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is just $1 for ages 8 and under or $3 for ages 9 and up.

Tax rebate program finalized

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Local government entities have reached an agreement that will extend and expand a program that rebates property taxes for a limited time on improvements made to commercial and residential properties.

The Neighborhood Revitalization Program rebates 95 percent of additional property taxes for five years on residences and 8 years on commercial or industrial properties when a property is substantially improved. The objective of the program is to provide an incentive for investors to upgrade or build new housing and business infrastructure. Taxes are paid at the regular rate and the rebates provided by participating cities, school districts and the county.

Those improvements include construction of a new home on a lot within the prescribed zone, major improve-

College or not? Grads talk choices

College grads still earn more on average, but options abound

BY MELISSA HOBBS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

A brand new group of "adults" just graduated from high school less than a month ago, but now they have some significant choices to make.

Will they go on to college? Will they join the work force? Maybe trade school or the military is their best option? So what is the best option?

It just depends on who you ask, and who you are.

Austin Hendrix, a 2018 Crest High School graduate plans to attend college this fall. He says he feels that college will help teach him responsibility, how to manage his time better, and help build him socially and learn face to face communication that will help him in the work force. He also thinks that college offers an opportunity to meet a mentor and connections that you might not have otherwise.

"I believe more people want to hire a college graduate rather than a high school graduate," said Hendrix.

College graduates overall outpace high school grads in earnings.

The Economic Policy institute says college grads in 2015 earned on average 56 percent more than high school graduates. That was up from 51 percent in 1999 and is the widest division in the EPI's pay analysis since 1973. Those stats show that since the Great Recession ended in 2009, most newly created jobs went to college educated employees.

Statistics show that some 1.9 million, or 66.7 percent, of 2017 graduates enrolled in college after graduating from high school. Of the 378,000 people who completed associates degrees in 2017, 79.8 percent of them had a job by October of the same year. Of the 1.2 million people who completed bachelor's degrees in 2017, 77.6 percent were employed by October of the same year.

The down side to that college education is the debt that goes with it. The average yearly tuition at a public university is

WANT TO BE POLITICAL?

Democrats or Republicans in Anderson County who want to become involved in their local political parties can file to run for their party's county committee. Each party is represented by a committee man and a committee woman from each voting precinct who make up their respective county committees. These "grassroots" political organizers help support their parties and their candidates in local, state and national elections, and also make appointments in cases where same-party county officials leave a vacancy in an office. There's no charge to file for a position, and filer's names will be on the primary election ballot in August. Filings must be made in the Anderson County Clerk's office by June 1.

$9,970 for tuition and fees only. If you choose on campus housing, that could cost you another $10,000 each year.

Troy Thompson graduated in 1995 and says that getting a college degree wasn't worth it to him. He says that many employers, including his, pay for their employees to get technical certifications. He says spending thousands of dollars on a degree while delaying a salary and saving for retirement just isn't worth the cost of a bachelor's degree.

Attending a trade school, joining the military, and going straight into the work force are also options after college, but fewer and fewer people are considering those opportunities. The Pentagon recently reported that only one percent of high school graduates enlist in the U.S. military, but even if more tried, most of them wouldn't make it. The requirements for the military have gotten more difficult and the Pentagon says that only 38 percent of graduates would qualify even if they tried.

Trade school is a cheaper option still, and of course, going straight into the work force from high school doesn't cost any or much money up front either.

Preston Utley, a 2017 graduate says that he considered college and still does, but he hasn't decided on a major so he went straight into the work force, even before he graduated high school.

"I got a good job in high school that paid really good so I kind of want to stick with it a little bit and see if I can move up there before deciding anything else."

Utley says he read somewhere that only 35 percent of jobs require a college education, and he wasn't really keen on college anyway, so that was one of the deciding factors in going straight to work.

The likelihood of Utley having trouble finding a job even if he doesn't go to college and decides to change jobs is not very likely. Statistics show that the baby boomers that fill most of the trade jobs in the United States are nearing retirement age. As those workers retire, it is estimated that by 2020 some 3.1 million trade jobs will be open.

Fatherless homes and school shooters

My most recent article about the Parkland school shooting and its connection to fatherlessness prompted a tsunami of emails. In one of those emails, a man named Fritz asked what I considered to be the root of fatherlessness. I decided to write a follow-up article to answer that question.

The subject of "The Desperate Cry of America's Boys" is a difficult one. To point out that boys need their fathers is to shine a spotlight on divorce and single mothers; and that is, admittedly, uncomfortable. But there's no way to address fatherlessness comfortably.

The fact is, divorce and family breakdown—which, to answer my emailer's question, is the root of fatherlessness—catastrophic for children. There's more than one reason why, but an obvious one is that in the majority of cases, divorce separates children from their fathers.

This is destructive to both boys and girls, but each sex suffers differently. Girls who grow up deprived of their father are more likely to become depressed, more likely to self-harm, and more likely to be promiscuous. But they still have their mothers, with whom they clearly identify. Boys do not have a comparable identification and thus suffer more from father absence. They also tend to act out in a manner that's harmful to others, which girls typically do not.

That's not to say divorced parents can never make it work. Some do, especially those who work peacefully together to share equal custody of their kids and who either live near one another or get their own apartments and let their kids stay in the house while they, not the kids, go back and forth.

But let's face it: If most divorced couples could work that well together, they wouldn't be divorced in the first place. Such circumstances are rare.

More often than not, children lose contact with their fathers—for two reasons. One, mothers remain the default custodial parent in the average American divorce and thus retain most of the control. Second, it is usually women who consider themselves the aggrieved party, as evidenced by the fact that wives initiate 70 percent of divorces.

The unfortunate result is that some divorced mothers use any opportunity to undermine their children's relationship with their father or, if not that, dismiss the significance of a father's role. In 2016, when Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt were getting divorced, Jolie actually said it never crossed her mind that her son "Mad" would need a father. That may be an extreme example; but it's not something anyone, Hollywood star or regular person, would have thought—let alone said—twenty years ago.

It's not that single mothers can't be great mothers. They can. But they cannot be fathers. Children need their mother and their father to have the best shot in life. As another emailer named Tom, who's been coaching basketball to young men ages 12-18, wrote, "Although not a guarantee, the two-parent family improves the chances for a young man to become a well-adjusted grown man. In the current progressive society we live in, the messages for these boys without a father at home to filter or to make sense of it puts these kids in an impossible position."

I can vouch for this as the mother of a 15-year-old son, who would not be the exceptional young man he is if not for his father. The truth is, I take very little credit for who my son has become. He needed me the most when he was little, but once he became aware of his male identity, it was his father—not me—he looked to for guidance and direction. His father was, and remains, his model for manhood.

When boys don't have this model, they suffer. And when they suffer, society suffers. A majority of school shooters come from fatherless homes; and a study of older male shooters (think Steven Paddock of the Las Vegas massacre) produces similar results. Indeed, the consequences of fatherlessness are simply staggering.

And the saddest part is most absent fathers aren't absent by choice. The "deadbeat dad"

Yeah, there's a sign on 6th street near the corner of Oak and 6th that the sign points to the county courthouse. It's all faded out and bent up and needs to be replaced, it looks in awful shape. Thank you.

If you work in customer service in this town, it would be so much nicer to go through your line or to have you help us if you had a nice smile on your face and didn't complain the whole time about where you work.

I tend to wonder just what we charge for camping at the reservoir. I drove through there this weekend, Memorial Day weekend, and saw people having to mow it with their own lawn mowers. Do we charge them and make them mow it?

I camped at the reservoir Memorial Day weekend and the bathrooms were totally disgusting. They needed to be dumped real bad and there was dirty toilet paper everywhere. Grass was knee high, little children running through there and their knees weren't above the grass. As much as it costs to camp there I'd think the city would do something about all those problems.

Hicks, you don't know what you're talking about. Your orange lying orangutan, he didn't say that. He said immigrants are animals. He didn't say MS 13 members, he just said immigrants. So you need to get your story straight. Your so-called media newspaper. And it's just disgusting you think that orangutan is so popular. More people hate him because he's the biggest liar that's ever walked this earth.

Before the city sends out letters to clean up their properties, the city ought to clean up all theirs first. Thank you.

More fake news media hysteria on "lost" kids

One of the rules of our politics is that it's permissible to accuse the Trump administration of anything, and the claim that it "lost" 1,475 migrant children fits the bill.

It has lit up social media and made the debate over a new Trump policy of "zero tolerance" at the border even more hysterical than it would be otherwise.

The 1,475 factoid makes it sound as though the Trump administration had these children in its custody and then one day couldn't find them. Instead, Health and Human Services had placed them, along with thousands of others who showed up at the border as unaccompanied children, with sponsors in the United States, usually parents or close relatives.

HHS recently added 30-day follow-up phone calls to the longstanding program. At the end of last year, HHS called 7,635 sponsors and couldn't reach 1,475 of them. Since many of the sponsors are illegal immigrants themselves who don't want to be in contact with authorities, this isn't surprising. But this misleading story has been spun into a tale of shocking Trump administration callousness and used as a hammer against his border policy.

Prior to 2011, almost all illegal aliens at the border were single adult males, overwhelmingly from Mexico. Now, 40 percent of illegal aliens at the border are families and children, and almost half from Central America. This presents challenges we haven't faced before, made all the worse by gaping loopholes in the law.

The past policy was to allow adults traveling with children into the country. Hoping to stem the flow -- which briefly diminished after his election, before increasing again -- Trump now wants to prosecute all adults. This necessitates, at least briefly, the separation of adults and children.

The U.S. Marshalls take custody of the adults, while the children are held by HHS. The prosecution of the adults for illegal entry usually happens quickly. Then, if the adult wants to return home, they are reunited with their child and sent back together.

Where it gets more complicated is if a migrant claims asylum. The Trump administration wants to hold migrants pending adjudication of their cases; if they are released, there is a good chance they will abscond. But even if the cases are handled quickly -- i.e., in a couple of months -- the government has to release the children sooner thanks to a 20-year-old consent decree and associated legal rulings.

It's just one of the distortions that makes a rational policy at the border impossible. Trump is right to want to get a handle on the border. According to the Justice Department, over the past two and half years, more than 250,000 migrants who came here as unaccompanied children or part of a family group have been released into the country.

But separating parents and children at the border is a significant downside of the Trump policy. Congress can help by fixing the consent decree that makes it impossible to detain kids, even if they are with their parents, and by spending more on detention space. There's no reason we can't handle these cases quickly and humanely, except for our insanely self-sabotaging immigration system.

What everyone's afraid to say about college and jobs

Today, all Americans are told, "Go to college!"

President Obama said, "College graduation has never been more valuable."

But economist Bryan Caplan says that most people shouldn't go.

"How many thousands of hours did you spend in classes studying subjects that you never thought about again?" he asks.

Lots, in my case. At Princeton, I learned to live with strangers, play cards and chase women, but I slept through boring lectures, which were most of them. At least tuition was only $2,000. Now it's almost $50,000.

"People usually just want to talk about the tuition, which is a big deal, but there's also all the years that people spend in school when they could have been doing something else," points out Caplan in my new YouTube video.

"If you just take a look at the faces of students, it's obvious that they're bored," he says. "People are there primarily in order to get a good job."

That sounds like a good reason to go to college. But Caplan, in his new book, "The Case Against Education," argues that there's little connection between what we absorb in college and our ability to do a job.

"It's totally true that when people get fancier degrees their income generally goes up," concedes Caplan, but "the reason why this is happening is not that college pours tons of job skills into you. The reason is ... a diploma is a signaling device."

It tells employers that you were smart enough to get through college.

But when most everyone goes to college, says Caplan, "You just raise the bar. Imagine you're at a concert, and you want to see better. Stand up and of course you'll see better. But if everyone stands up, you just block each other's views."

That's why today, he says, high-end waiters are expected to have college degrees.

"You aren't saying: you, individual, don't go to college," I interjected. "You're saying we as a country are suckers to subsidize it."

"Exactly," replied Caplan. "Just because it is lucrative for an individual doesn't mean it's a good idea for a country."

Caplan says if students really want to learn, they can do it without incurring tuition debt.

"If you want to go to Princeton, you don't have to apply," he points out. "Just move to the town and start attending classes."

That's generally true. At most schools you can crash college lectures for free. But almost no one does that.

"In people's bones, they realize that what really counts is that diploma," concludes Caplan.

Because that diploma is now usually subsidized by taxpayers, college costs more. Tuition has risen at triple the rate of inflation.

It's not clear students learn more for their extra tuition, but colleges' facilities sure have gotten fancier. They compete by offering things like luxurious swimming pools and gourmet dining. That probably won't help you get a job.

"If you're doing computer science or electrical engineering, then you probably are actually learning a bunch of useful skills," Caplan says. But students now often major in abstract topics like social justice, diversity studies, multicultural studies.

"But don't the liberal arts expand people's minds?" I asked. Philosophy? Literature? Isn't it all making our brains work better?

"That's the kind of thing you expect teachers to say," answered Caplan. "There's a whole field of people who have actually studied this (and) they generally come away after looking at a lot of evidence saying, 'Wow, actually it's wishful thinking.'"

A study found that a third of people haven't detectably learned anything after four years in college.

Although Caplan thinks college is mostly a scam, he says there's one type of person who definitely benefits -- professors like him.

"I'm a tenured professor," he said. "A tenured professor cannot be fired. ... You got a nice income and there are almost no demands upon your time."

Professor Caplan is only expected to teach for five hours a week.

I told him that sounded like a government-subsidized rip-off.

"Yeah. Well, I'm a whistleblower," replied Caplan.

A rural man was seriously injured at his farm west of here Thursday afternoon after being run over by his farm tractor. According to a report from family members, Omer Wilper was injured when his tractor somehow ran over him. Wilper was taken by ambulance to Coffey County Hospital and was transferred via lifeflight to

St. Joseph Hospital in Kansas City. His injuries included a broken pelvis, several broken ribs, a collapsed lung, and a punctured bladder.

40 years ago...

Joe Elder, Ottawa, purchased Warner Manufacturing Company Tuesday and plans to continue to operate it in Garnett with hope of increasing the output of the factory in the near future. He has been employed by H.D. Lee Company since 1946 starting in Kansas City.

100 years ago...

Last Friday morning, as Ed Greer, Missouri Pacific night operator, was transferring mail sacks to the Santa Fe depot, he was attacked by three men. Mr. Greer ran his cart off the sidewalk to give the men room. The largest of the men stepped back of Greer and held his arms while the others attacked him with black jacks and beat him over the head. They then threw the paper sack into the woods and took the letter pouch with them.

exists, but not in spades. In many instances, women are divorcing perfectly good husbands in their search for what they believe will be a better match—which is a natural outgrowth of no-fault divorce. Certainly, women who are married to abusive or dangerous men must file for divorce. But such husbands and fathers cannot account for the 70 percent female-led divorce rate.

The root of fatherlessness is deep and wide, but it ultimately rests in two things: our culture's dismissal of men as valuable human beings who have something unique to offer—on the one hand, we tell them to 'man up,' and on the other we tell them manhood is the problem—and its dismissal of marriage as an institution that's crucial to the health and well-being of children. It is not. Marriage is about the needs of children, pure and simple. That's how it began, and that's how it remains. Children's needs are the same today as they were one hundred years ago. It is we, not they, who have changed.

Thus, it is we who have failed.

ments to a home that impact its property taxes or major improvements to or new construction of commercial or industrial buildings. Though the program has been in place since the 1990s in Garnett, it has been seldom utilized.

The program was a point of controversy between Garnett leaders and county commissioners in recent years, due to the city's desire to expand its participation zones to include the whole of the city instead of the original blighted areas which included downtown, industrial parks and some residential areas. City leaders sought to expand the zone to include the entire city limits, but county commissioners said they didn't want to rebate taxes for home construction in more upscale neighborhoods.

The revised program will include those areas and also contains a provision to include any annexations the city might undertake in the future, and will be in effect for a five year period before requiring new consideration by all taxing entities, instead of the present plan's two-year period.

What are the primary objectives of the Kansas Archaeological Training Program

In my last two columns I have written all the whens and wheres of the 2018 KATP (Kansas Archaeological Training Program). Now it's time to share all the research objectives with you.

The primary objective for the 2018 KATP field school is to discover what archeology can add to the understanding of the history of the Kaw Mission.

Can we as a team find the answer to the following research questions?

1. Can we find evidence of the different uses that were reported for the Kaw Mission (Mission School for Kaw boys, school house for area white children, council house, court house, private residence, tourist attraction and museum?)
2. What can archeology teach us about changes in how

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Call (785) 504-4722 for local archeology information.

the property was used over time?

3. Is there any evidence of Kansa influence at the Mission?
4. Is there any evidence of uses of the property not previously recorded(e.g.Civil War era camp)?
5. How did different communities (e.g. white and Kaw) view, use, and interact with the Kaw Mission and how did that change over time?

6. Is there evidence of a relationship with the Santa Fe Trail?

7. From what era are the cultural deposits, and what is their level of integrity?

8. Can we locate the out-buildings that were on the grounds, can we determine their function, and can we determine when they were constructed and razed?

9. What is the effect of repeated flooding and other impacts of the property?

This year's two weeks training field school should be a very busy, challenging and fun adventure for all of us taking part.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 6-5-2018 / KEVIN GAINES

It was a perfect day to head to the downtown square in Garnett for the 2nd annual SouthLand Cruisers car show. While the number of cars were down from the inaugural car show last year, still over 50 cars were registered for this year's show. Pictured above is Best in Show winner Tom Adams who is standing in front of his 1947 Chevy 4x4 pickup.

KART Racing: Fun for everyone

The weekend of June 8 - 9 the city of Garnett welcomes the first Kart road race of the season. The Garnett KART Club, which has been hosting races since 1957, will once again bring racing to the North Lake Park road course. The racing schedule runs from 8 am to 4 pm both Saturday and Sunday.

For over 60 years the Garnett KART Club has been hosting both road and sprint track races, including 3 national events. Each racing event garners 100 to 125 entries and involves people from many states across the country.

KART racing is a great spectator sport. The North Lake Park is unique in that it provides a free viewing site on the south side of the road course (near park entrance), or for only $20 for adults, this pass is good for two days and the family can access the pit area located on the east side of Lake Garnett for a truly "awesome" view of the road course. In the pits you can watch the crews work on their karts and learn more about this motor sport, and then watch the racers as they sprint down the west side straight-away exceeding 100 mph, maneuver the chicane made of hay bales, cross the dam and, fight nose to tail for position around tight corners surrounding Lake Garnett.

The likes of Jamie McMurray and Kevin Harvick, both well-known in the NASCAR circuit, raced at Lake Garnett. KART racing has sharpened the skills of such racers as Mario Andretti, Al Unser, Terry LaBonte and Ricky Rudd.

The real heroes of this sport for us, however, are the members of the Garnett Kart Club, who have given years of their time and energy to improving race facilities, promoting these events and bringing hundreds of racers and fans to our community. We invite you to show your support and admiration of their dedication by attending the races on June 8-9.

For more information about KART Racing in Garnett, please contact Bryan at (785) 304-9701 or Mike at (785) 448-8899.

Who are we placing our faith in?

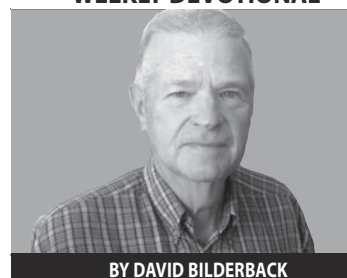

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 6-5-2018 / Photo Submitted

ACH Auxiliaries who were presented HAK membership certificates included (l-r): Shirley Roeckers, Zella Teter, Phyllis Callahan, Charlotte Cox, Ruth Theis, and Betty Lybarger. Also pictured are 2nd District Coordinator Sally Emerson and HAK State president Diana Holloway, who made the presentations.

In John chapter 8 Jesus is addressing the Jews who had seemingly believed in him. Jesus says, "If you hold to my teaching, you are really my disciples. Then you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." From what is said later (verses 33, 37 and 39) it is apparent their profession was superficial. In verse 33 the Jews answered Jesus saying, "We are Abraham's decedents and have never been slaves to anyone. How can you say that we shall be set free?"

This response is kind of a half truth because they had been enslaved in Egypt and ruled by the Philistines, the Assyrians and others and even now were under Roman occupation. Most likely since Rome allowed them to practice their own religion they were referring to that when they answered Jesus. The point is they were being less than honest with themselves. This is something we all practice. To the extent we do this determines where we stand with God.

The Jews were faithful to the old covenant. The covenant between God and Abraham clearly stated in Genesis 15. The problem was the Sadducee, Pharisee and scribes as well as other influential Jews had become affluent and successful following this form of religion. Yet many of the common people were left out of worship or left destitute. Jesus came and introduced a new covenant that was equitable to all people. What Jesus was saying to the establishment is the ground is level at the foot of the cross. Salvation is by grace alone, through faith alone in Christ alone not in keeping rules. The rules the Jews were trying to keep were only enslaving them. Anything you or I do for our salvation other than placing our faith in Jesus Christ is enslaving us. The consequences we face for our freedom from God in this life are of eternal significance. Could there be anything more sad than to come to the end of our life and find out that all we have accomplished by being free of God is that we really enslaved ourselves for eternity.

The writer to the Hebrews provides us a sobering text when he says, "Just as man is destined to die once, and after that to face judgment, so Christ was sacrificed once to take away the sins of many people; and he will appear a second time, not to bear sin, but to bring salvation to those who are awaiting for him." (Hebrews 9:27) The question we must ask ourselves is who are we placing our faith in Jesus or ourselves?

June's Garnett Library book discussion based on a true story.

The Garnett Public Library will hold their book discussion on Wednesday, June 27th at 7 p.m. in the Archer Room at the library. They are held on the fourth Wednesday of each month. This month's discussion will be "Same Kind of Different As Me" by Ron Hall and Denver Moore.

"Same Kind of Different As Me" is based on the inspiring true story of international art dealer Ron Hall, who befriends a homeless man in hopes of saving his struggling marriage to a woman whose dreams will lead all three of them on the most remarkable journey of their lives.

From a burning plantation hut in Louisiana to an upscale New York art gallery, you will see the heart of God in this unexpected tale of the transforming power of love and friendship. Gritty with pain and betrayal and brutality, this book is an inspirational true story that crosses the barriers of society.

Leading our discussion will be Paulabeth Henderson. The books are available for check-out at the library. Notification is posted in case of cancellation.

Thanks to the Greeley Ballpark Silver Paint Project, when you attend a baseball or softball game in Greeley, you will enjoy seeing the shiny silver newly painted fences. The project ran from May 21-24. Numerous individuals volunteered, including Anderson County High School students and Mike Sibley (pictured above). They donated 95.5 volunteer hours to paint two ball diamond fences. Adults from the community donated 160 hours of their time doing prep work, fence repair and painting. Greeley Lambda Beta, a social service organization, led this huge paint project. Thank you to several generous anonymous individuals, the Bank of Greeley, Greeley Town & Country, Greeley Senior Citizens, Rockers Insurance Agency and the Berea Hall morning coffee group for helping to cover the cost of the paint.

Anderson County FFA chapter wins State Leadership Quiz Bowl with a victory against Ellis FFA

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Anderson County FFA team members were recognized for placing first in the State Leadership Quiz Bowl Career Development Event (CDE) at the opening ceremony of the 90th Kansas FFA State Convention, May 30–June 1, 2018, on the Kansas State University campus.

The Leadership Quiz Bowl gives members an opportunity to demonstrate their knowledge of FFA and its foundation. The team answering the most questions correctly, in front of a live audience, is determined as the winner.

Anderson County FFA faced off against Ellis FFA in the final round on the opening day of the state convention. Anderson County FFA won, and Ellis FFA placed second. In the previous round, Norton FFA came in third and Buhler

FFA placed fourth.

Competing on the winning Anderson County FFA quiz bowl team were: Ridge Pracht, Will Mechnig, Hailey Gillespie, Shylie Scheckel, Maya Corley and Becky Kropf.

Two Central Heights FFA members win State Proficiency Awards

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Two members of the Central Heights FFA chapter were recognized for having some of the best career development programs in the state at the 90th Kansas FFA Convention, May 30–June 1, 2018, on the Kansas State University campus.

Chad Hibdon and Avery Stalford each received a State FFA Proficiency Award during the convention for outstanding accomplishments they made in developing programs that will prepare them for a career in agriculture.

Hibdon received his award in Diversified Livestock

Production that is co-sponsored by the JC Livestock, Clay Center Livestock and Langvardt Families. He owns his own herd of 28 breeding ewes with one breeding ram and 12 breeding cows with two replacement heifers. Hibdon also works for Valley Vet Farms with swine and Bartlett Farms in the cow/calf operation. Hibdon hopes that these experiences help push him towards his goal to obtain a degree in agribusiness and pursue a career in the animal agriculture industry. Chad's parents are Darren and Julie Hibdon.

Stalford received his award in Poultry Production which is sponsored by Tractor Supply Co. He started in the egg production industry in 2016. Along with flock growth, his knowledge of poultry and their care has also increased. His skills of keeping accurate records of financial income and expenses will transfer into his adult life when he becomes financially responsible and independent. Avery's parents are James and Jessica Stalford.

The proficiency award program recognizes students for exceptional accomplishments and excellence in a Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) program. This program allows students to set goals and gain real-world experience in a chosen area of the agriculture industry.

The Built Ford Tough FFA

Scholarship Program recognizes FFA members' talents and accomplishments while encouraging their future academic achievements.

"We're proud to recognize these student leaders for their commitment to FFA and the leadership they display in their chapters and their communities," said Marie Reveles, Kansas FFA State Secretary.

"We appreciate this financial support from Ford Trucks/Built Ford Tough which will further these students' educational goals."

Anderson County's Tessa Jirak and Shylie Scheckel earned the scholarships, as well as Tyler Roberts of Central Heights.

East Central FFA members receive State FFA Degree

MANHATTAN, Kan. — A total of 76 students from the East Central District FFA were awarded their State FFA Degree at the 90th Kansas FFA State Convention, May 30–June 1, 2018, on the Kansas State University campus.

tural education student for at least two years, earned at least $2,000 or worked 600 hours in their Supervised Agricultural Experience program, given a six-minute speech about agriculture or FFA, participated in eight different leadership activities, received a "C" average or better in high school and shown a record of outstanding leadership and community involvement.

County chapter include Austin Adams, Logan Allen, Corey Bowen, Elizabeth Comfort, Adison Dalsing, Austin Ewert, Abigail Fritz, Aaron Kubacka, Isaiah Levy, Ashley Lickteig, Ryland Porter, Katelynn Renyer, Justin Rockers and Jade Todd.

The lone member from Crest to receive the degree was Austin Louk.

Jeff Gillespie receives honorary Kansas FFA Degree

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Jeff Gillespie of Anderson County was recognized with the Honorary Kansas FFA Degree at the 90th Kansas State FFA Convention on the Kansas State University campus on Thursday, May 31, 2018.

Gillespie is in his 19th year as the agricultural educator and FFA advisor at Anderson County where he resides with his wife Karen, and children, Hailey, Tyler, and Braden. To his students, Gillespie is known as a BBQ expert, cat lover, and excellent advisor as he always goes above and beyond for his students. He sees the value in all components of the agricultural education model, placing emphasis on scholastic achievement, Supervised Agricultural Experiences, and leadership development in his program. Mr. Gillespie is also serving as president of the Kansas Association of Agricultural Educators.

"Mr. Gillespie's commitment to Kansas FFA is apparent through his many years of service to and support of agricultural education," said Kansas FFA State Reporter Riley Sleichter. "We are grateful for Mr. Gillespie's commitment to the FFA organization and continued hard work."

Honorary Kansas FFA Degrees are bestowed upon individuals who have donated time and money to the efforts of the FFA organization, demonstrating their belief in the leadership and experiences provided by FFA. In addition to Jeff Gillespie, Matt Baxter of Morganville and Bob and Leah Alredge of Cedar Vale were also presented with Honorary Kansas FFA Degrees at the convention.
