Menace to two wheels

Deer pose most deadly threat to motorcyclists of all traffic-animal collisions

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

SELMA – An apparent deer/motorcycle crash south of Selma on Friday has served as a reminder to area motorcyclists to be wary of the animals and to “dress for the slide, not for the ride.”

An Anderson County Sheriff's Department report said Charles Nixon, 66 of rural Garnett, was travelling on Wabunsee Road north of 500 Road Friday when his 2012 Harley Davidson collided with a deer. Nixon, who was wearing a helmet, sustained non-life threatening injuries in the accident and was taken to Anderson County Hospital for treatment.

Deer take their toll on all vehicles in the local area at all times of the year, but statistically most deer collision fatalities – more than 70 percent according to bikersafe.com – are those involving motorcycles. On June 1, a 41 year-old Dallas, Texas man struck a deer near Meriden and was killed. Investigators said he was not wearing a helmet or protective gear.

William Brentlinger, a “dual sport” rider from Kincaid, said he knows all too well the startling fear that a motorcyclist feels when seeing a deer suddenly appear too close for comfort. Dual sport riders ride mostly gravel roads, minimum maintenance roads and trails, and typically wear protective gear including a helmet, specially “armored” jackets and pants with plastic plating, gloves and boots. Brentlinger said he took the equipment mantra one step further.

“I’ve never hit one,” he said. “I’ve been really close – lots.” Riding gravel roads in the wooded areas of the southeast part of the state,

2017 road rage case set for arraignment

Bizarre incident pulls Greeley couple into court proceedings following multiple delays

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

OTTAWA – The Olathe man who caught a Greeley couple and numerous others amid his alleged vehicular rampage in Ottawa more than a year ago is expected to be arraigned on related felony charges next month, unless a plea deal is struck in the mean time.

Kayur V. Patel, 34, is scheduled for arraignment August 13, after the continuation of an arraignment previously set for June 25 on felony charges of aggravated battery and endangering a child, and multiple misdemeanor charges of criminal damage to property and reckless driving.

Patel

Witnesses said Patel used his Jeep Cherokee as a battering ram against their vehicles on May 12, 2017, when they were southbound on I-35 near Ottawa and also on the exit ramp from I-35 to U.S. Highway 59. Witnesses said Patel rammed their vehicles and even chased a woman and her daughter around the parking lot of a nearby Wal-Mart, repeatedly ramming them as they screamed for help from their vehicle’s open windows.

Dorothy and Walt Lickteig of Greeley were southbound on the Interstate when Patel approached them from behind and began ramming them, and were hit again a number of times as they tried to escape down the exit ramp.

No serious injuries were reported in the incident. Patel later sped back north on I-35 where his Jeep struck a tractor-trailer unit and overturned. Patel was reported as agitated and combative at the crash scene and

City banking on FAA grant to pay costs of local airport ‘master plan’

City would pay 10% match to fund airport engineering study

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – City leaders will apply for a Federal Aviation Administration grant which they hope will pay for 90 percent of some $167,000 for an updated master plan for the Garnett Municipal Airport.

The city’s share will run about $16,000, a match that will update the FAA-required, widely-encompassing engineering document designed to bring the local airport into tighter compliance with FAA mandates.

Airport Advisory Board chairman Pat Schettler told city commissioners at the June 26 meeting board members had worked the costs of the plan in an effort to reduce expenses, but FAA requirements would only allow a certain range of adjustments.

“We’ve tried everything to get the price down,” Schettler said. “It’s a lot of money.”

Schettler told the Review that modernizing FAA standards and little attention to

USD 365 to move forward with new automotive building

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – USD 365 school board members laid the groundwork for a new automotive instruction center on the ACHS campus, approving design and construction manager agreements at its end-of-the-year meeting June 27.

Board members voted 7-0 to contract with Incite Design Studio of Kansas City, Mo., for the new structure’s design and with Nabholz Construction of Olathe as the construction manager.

The cost of the project is estimated at $500,000-$600,000, to be finalized after bids come in. Superintendent Don Blome said the exact site had not yet been determined, but would be located in the vicinity of the district office and the Neosho County Community College Tech center on North Walnut Street.

Automotive instruction at the facility will be contracted through an agreement with Flint Hills Technical College, with curriculum subject to final review by the Kansas Association of School Boards.

Blome said the new facility and course offerings were set for a Fall 2019 debut.

The board approved a number of personnel actions during the meeting including:

- the transfer of Rochelle Kohlmeier from ACE Lab Instructor to counselor;
- the transfer of Rosalynn Kellstadt from music accompanist to Title I aide;
- accepted the resignation of Jenna Catloth as ACJSHS counselor and softball coach;
- accepted the resignation of Tabitha Clark as school nurse in the district;
- accepted the resignation of Jessica Burnett as Family and Consumer Science instructor;
- approved the recommendation of Mary Peterson as Westphalia secretary;

to Garnett's airport over the decades has resulted in a low score for the facility - in the 30s - on an FAA 100-point evaluation scale.

However, critics over the years have argued spending large amounts of money on the local airport is a bad idea, since commercial and industrial flight needs here, outside of crop spraying, are few and other nearby airstrips are better developed, like New Strawn and Ottawa. Commissioner Greg Gwin noted the grant would fund only the study, not actual work at the airport.

"This is just paperwork," Gwin said.

The grant will fund what is basically an engineering plan that will detail wide-ranging improvements to the airport, Schettler said, like repairs to cracks in the asphalt runway and an environmental study, and other developmental capital assets and procedural upgrades to make the airport more functional according to FAA standards. Schettler said certain issues at the 1949-era airport, such as lack of adequate buffer space between its north and south ends and nearby road traffic, likely could ever be adequately addressed.

Brentlinger said the deer danger convinced him to glue deer whistles on the front fender of his bike under the headlight.

"The idea is to just confuse the deer so it stands still until you get past," Brentlinger said. "Since I put them on, I've not had a close encounter with a deer."

Brentlinger said another major concern for rural riders is to be on the lookout for farm equipment on the roads. He said he highly recommends riders take a formal safety and training course through the Motorcycle Safety Foundation.

Experts say preparation is really the most effective means of surviving a deer/motorcycle encounter. Helmets and gear increase survival odds exponentially. Bikesafer.com recommends "covering" the brakes - poisoning the right hand over the front brake handle and the foot over the rear brake pedal - can cut reaction time when traveling through wooded areas and areas with thick cover close to the road. Keeping your eyes moving and being extra vigilant in those areas may give the extra second or half second to avoid a collision, and slow down in cover areas or at times - dusk until dawn - when deer are most active.

However, deer can and do move and cross roadways at all times of day.

and later at Ransom Hospital in officers' comments in a probable cause affidavit obtained by the Review.

The probable cause affidavit says Franklin County Sheriff's officers had hospital staff draw a blood sample from Patel at the hospital, but information from that blood draw has not been made a part of court records because Patel waived his right to a preliminary hearing. His arraignment on charges has been continued from previous dates set in April and May of this year.

Court records indicate discussions for a plea in the case earlier this year, though as of last week no plea had yet been made.

Our marshmallow kids aren't tough enough for the military

The blame has to fall on us – those in their 40s and 50s who raised kids so cream puffy that 71 percent of them nowadays can't physically qualify for military service.

What happened? How did the current crop of 17-24 year-olds get so fat and out-of-shape and disinterested in serving their country that the Pentagon is having to amend its recruiting efforts to focus on recruits who are in "above average" physical condition?

Because "average," in today's military, can't cut it.

No doubt there are tons of factors that affect young people's ability to serve, but perhaps more decisive in the military's future readiness is the willingness of the body of potential recruits. While 71 percent in that age group can't make the cut physically, only about 1 percent actually qualify physically and are willing to talk to recruiters.

All that while the corps of military enlistees breaks most all the stereotypes often associated with modern voluntary service. For instance some 92 percent of enlistees are high school graduates, compared with 60 percent of the general population. It's also true that more enlistees come from middle-income families than from those below the poverty level – quashing the long-held idea that the military is full of folks whose only option to escape poverty is the military. The wealthy and middle class, statistically, are more willing to serve than the poor.

In fairness that 71 percent exclusion figure isn't just the pudgies; it's also young people with physical maladies or health conditions – ranging from peanut allergies to asthma to physical issues stemming from tattoos and ear gauges – that prevent their service. It appears there's yet another cost to that tattoo or piercing you thought was such a good idea at the time.

But fat is at least one reason. Even among adults, 32 percent of men and 35 percent of women are obese according to the Centers for Disease Control so we haven't exactly been good examples to the younger set. Millennials as a whole have lower rates of obesity (younger metabolisms and not as many years snarfing dumplings, probably) but their eating habits are notoriously poor and have them heading for plenty of potential health problems a couple decades down the road.

I'm reminded of a story from a couple of years ago that compared the grip strength of men aged 20-34 in 1986 to those 2016. Today's millennials had lost 17 percent of the strength in their hands in the study compared to those from 30 years ago – and men had lost more strength than women.

I have a couple of theories, and they're all the fault of my generation. First, we are the renowned "helicopter parents," always hovering around the kids to try to make life as cushy as possible – child-resistant medicine bottle caps and Amber Alert hysteria, political correct upbringing and 'I'll talk to the teacher about your bad grade,' etc. We've probably freaked our kids out so much about the possible threats of the outside world a lot of them don't want to leave the house to get any mobility or exercise – because something might kill them.

Video games and cell phones? Natural culprits. Ironically, Call of Duty, the action military shoot-'em-up video game, is one of the favorites among millennial men. Cell phones are practically modern electronic appendages to the age group. While grip strength has declined, I'll bet thumb strength is off the charts.

Improvements in the age segment? Not likely. The military's going to have work harder to be attractive to the potential recruits that buck the physical trends of their generation.

If the city commission is going to change the makeup of the commission, they really ought to consider going to a seven member board instead of a five member board. Even with a five member board a quorum is only three people and the majority of a quorum is only two. That allows two people to kind of have their way with the entire city. Not that that would happen in Garnett, of course.

I have to say I got a good laugh out of your article about changing the Garnett city council from three members to five members. As it's been noted in the paper in the past, nobody who lives here wants to run for a seat on the council anyway – they always line up to get appointed, but nobody wants to have to face the public in a vote of the people to get the seat. The new commissioner who brought up the whole idea must not know how things are done around here. You don't file to run for the office and beat an incumbent – you wait for someone to die or move out of town so you can ask to get appointed to their seat. Changing to five commissioners will end up meaning the ones who are already there will appoint those seats, because nobody's going to want to go through an election to win one and there aren't enough people who want to put up with the guff you have to as a city commissioner anyway. That just means you give the existing commissioners more power to pick whoever they want when they appoint those extra seats. So I really don't see how you gain anything. Thank you.

Letter to the editor

Federal judge trusts everyone in voter registration

Dear Editor,
At UMKC Kobach assisted states like Arizona in policing illegal immigration. As Secretary of State (SOS) in KS, he spent a lot of time setting up a system to ensure only citizens can vote. Doesn't he know that all people are "honest" and would never try to vote if they were not a citizen of KS/US?

Kobach, now running for Governor, doesn't trust "everyone," but Federal Judge Julie Robinson does and, she just ordered KS to go back to trusting everyone. When someone registered to vote they signed their voting card to verify they were citizens. What did they have to do to prove they were citizens? When someone registered to vote they ONLY had to sign their voting card! The next time you are at the store or sign a contract, do not worry about counting change or reading the fine print.

Judge Robinson believes that "the more people that vote the better our democracy works." Those who worry about Russian interference in our elections should take Judge Robinson's advice and simply invite the Russians to register, sign the card, and vote. The more voters the better.

Oops, I forgot. The Russians would not do that, since according to Judge Robinson everyone is honest, i.e., they are not citizens and would not sign the card. Of course that means, being honest, they would not interfere in our elections!

Kobach did receive support from one SOS Candidate. Rep. Keith Esau, an Olathe Republican who is running for SOS, defended Kobach.

"I believe that Kobach did what he could do within the office," Esau said.

That probably means Esau also believes you need to count back change and read the fine print in a contract.

On August 7, please vote. You signed the card. When you sign a contract, read the fine print! Everyone is not honest.

A citizen since 1948,
Don Small

First Amendment, U.S. Constitution:

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Why do we let them get too big to fail?

It looks as if the government, having lost its bid in federal court to block the takeover of Time-Warner by AT&T, aka Ma Bell, may have to allow the next big "media" megamergers, greenlighting either Disney or Comcast to gobble down Fox.

It's a race now, with Disney offering stock and Comcast $65 billion in cash for most of 21st Century Fox, a rich trove of content and production capability. Comcast already controls Universal, while Disney's house is full of powerful production assets. Both are into network television and video streaming.

In the end, consumers probably don't care who wins the fight. They just know they'll wind up paying more as these media giants merge into megagiants. It's like the plot of some bad B-list monster movie.

The threats of reduced competition and concentrated market power are many, especially now that the Federal Communications Commission has given up regulating access to the Internet. The megafirms will control more content – movies, television series, books, you name it – and consumers will wind up paying a price.

With no regulation, giants like AT&T and Comcast give themselves priority access to Internet lanes, doing things like preloading phones to connect to their content and giving their users or services priority on the web.

Not that they'd do anything like that, of course.

The situation represents the bankruptcy of antitrust policy, where in industry after industry, the government allows, even promotes, mergers that turn into companies that are "too big to fail."

These giants – in airlines, banks, manufacturing, now media – control so much market share and have so much financial clout that when things go south, a hue and cry is raised. "Save the _____!"

The government already has had to bail out big banks and, before that, big auto makers to "save the economy." What industry's next?

A lot of them could be candidates if we forget what should be the guiding principles of an antitrust policy: Keep businesses small enough that if they do fail, the market will take care of things.

We found out the market doesn't work so well when a few firms are in control. Each one represents such a big piece of the airline/bank/auto/finance/media/internet pie that should one fail, the whole economy is threatened. When a few fail, we're toast.

Really, do we need airlines so big they can have their customers dragged off planes and beaten with impunity? Smash all the baggage? Insult the passengers?

Think about what's happening. Think United, Facebook, Uber, the list goes on. These companies, despite what they say, get to feeling they're invincible.

Until they're not.

A strong America does not need this. A strong America needs a strong, principled antitrust policy. We haven't had one in years. – Steve Haynes is president of Nor'West Newspapers in Oberlin, Kansas.

ICE abolishinists latest Dem war on cops

"No Borders! No Nations! No Deportations!" "Abolish ICE!"

Before last week, these were the mindless slogans of an infantile left, seen on signs at rallies to abolish ICE, the agency that arrests and deports criminal aliens who have no right to be in our country.

By last week, however, "Abolish ICE!" was no longer the exclusive slogan of the unhinged left. National Democrats were signing on.

Before his defeat in New York's 14th Congressional District, Joe Crowley, fourth-ranked Democrat in the House, called ICE a "fascist" organization.

After Crowley's rout by a 28-year-old socialist who called for killing the agency, Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand, D-N.Y., declared ICE to be "a cruel deportation force (that) we need to abolish."

Cynthia Nixon, a candidate for governor of New York, described ICE as a "terrorist organization ... terrorizing people who are coming to this country. ... We need to abolish ICE."

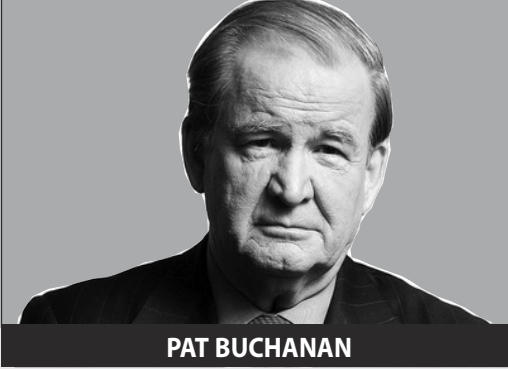

A star of "Sex and the City" castigated the men and women of ICE as terrorists at St. Paul and St. Andrew United Methodist Church in Manhattan. One wonders what the pastor thought of this Christian message.

Friday, New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio joined the clamor: "We should abolish ICE." Over the weekend, Sen. Elizabeth Warren, D-Mass., signed on:

"President Trump seems to think that the only way to have immigration rule is to rip parents from their family (and) treat rape victims and refugees like terrorists and to put children in cages."

What ICE does is "ugly" and "wrong," said Warren.

GUEST COMMENTARY

PAT BUCHANAN

"We need to rebuild our immigration system from top to bottom starting by replacing ICE with something that reflects our morality."

Wisconsin Democratic Congressman Mark Pocan plans to introduce legislation to do exactly that – abolish ICE.

President Donald Trump describes this latest liberal campaign as social and political insanity: "You get rid of ICE you're going to have a country that you're going to be afraid to walk out of your house."

What is going on here?

Democrats, having just gone through the worst week in memory for progressives, are in imminent danger of losing it altogether.

Last week, the Supreme Court ruled that not only is the Trump travel ban constitutional, government unions have no right to extract "agency fees" from workers who do not wish to support the union.

Such fees violate the First Amendment rights of government workers not to promote policies or ideas in which they disbelieve.

Then came word that Justice Anthony Kennedy, the "swing vote" on the Supreme Court who was crucial to the decisions that established abortion, homosexuality and same-sex marriage as constitutional rights, will be stepping down

And Trump informed the press that he would announce Kennedy's successor on July 9, to be drawn from a list of 20 jurists and legal scholars, all of whom have been vetted by the Federalist Society.

Panic ensued.

"I'm scared. You're scared. We're all scared," says Warren in a video her campaign has released.

On Bill Maher's show, leftist film director Michael Moore called for a million citizens to surround the Capitol to prevent a vote on Kennedy's successor. How Moore's million-man march proposes to get into Mitch McConnell's Senate chamber was left unexplained.

At a fundraiser in Berkeley, California, Barack Obama tried to calm his terrified minions: "All these people that are out here kvetching and wringing their hands and stressed and anxious and constantly watching cable tv and howling at the moon, 'What are we going to do?' Their hair is falling out."

But liberal elites making fools of themselves is a less serious matter than the savage slanders Democrats are hurling at the 20,000

10 years ago: Frightening looking funnel cloud west of Garnett causes concern

The 2018 KATP continues.

3 June
Wow! 56 degrees a very chilly morning. I spent the day on the metal detecting team. Some of our finds today were: a beautiful furniture porcelain door/drawer pull knob, with fancy Victorian style hardware, several pieces of early jewelry, door/gate hook, wagon parts and wagon hub, nice brass buckle, several bolts, nuts and washers.

4 June
Tonight at 7:00 was the Certification Meeting, but I'm not enrolled in the Certification Program. At 9:30 pm several of us gathered outside and listened to the whipper-wills in the trees nearby. Our last count was at least six pair. The males have just a little stronger song than the females.

4 June
Another cool morning, this time it's 59 degrees. Completing four metal detecting grids was our goal today. Here are the better finds from them. Ten round domed brass buttons in one hole, a beautiful turquoise pendant, mule shoe, old percussion gun parts, 3-tine fork, spoon, clay marble, musket ball, more wagon parts and the location of an old hearth.

5 June
At 7:30pm I attended a Talk: Frontier Firearms by Baron Shively. Very interesting.

A spooky looking cold air funnel appeared west of Garnett gaining the attention of local residents and emergency responders who temporarily sounded the tornado sirens in town. Unlike tornadoes, cold air funnels develop in shallow cool air masses and often behind a cold front. They're usually too high to affect the surface and much weaker than tornadoes.

The cost of damages done by juveniles who vandalized and looted the Anderson County Historical Society Museum last spring came home to county taxpayers this week, when members of the historical society requested a 1999 budget more than three times that of this year. Historical society president Dorothy Lickteig and treasurer Ona Mae Hunt presented the budget to commissioners which topped out at nearly $38,000, up from just $10,000 in the present year. The increase resulted from higher repair and maintenance costs to areas damaged when juveniles trashed the museum in early March.

Don't Miss the 94th Annual Richmond Free Fair

Lots to see at 'Open Doors' exhibit

BY PAT VINING

The Richmond United Methodist Church will open its doors for the 14th year during the fair, to show some of the hobbies and collections of area folks. The church hall is open from 4-8 p.m. each fair day and offers a cool break, cold water, and some neat things to see, just for fun.

Coordinator Mary Hall said there are reservations for about 30 displays, including from Roy Baker, the Boy Scouts, Berea Boosters and Golden Achievers 4-H Clubs, Margaret Hadsall, Richmond Museum, Carol Reekie, Arlen and Mary Hall, United Methodist Women, Sr. Mildred Katzer, Pat Vining, Cathy Parsons, Larry Cox, Pamela Peters, Ottawa Art Guild, Sr. Loretta Roekers, Lorene Stockard, Lynn Anderson and probably others.

Pokey the Clown will entertain the children at 6 p.m. Friday.

Roy Baker has been showing some of his model airplanes at Open Doors for several years. He meticulously builds each plan from a kit and adds a complete description.

"I really enjoy hearing what people have to say about the planes," said Baker. "I love to hear stories about a plane they've flown or been in or had some association with."

Baker has many more kits he hopes to make in the future, but that hobby has to be sandwiched in-between his other pastimes of baking and biking, the later especially on Prairie Spirit Trail.

Following his name (Baker), Roy likes to bake cookies and breads. He gives most of his baked goods to others. He is an avid biker and tries to get out on the trail often. All of this is quite a contrast from his work as Franklin County cartographer (map maker). You can see a couple of his maps at the Richmond Museum.

Coordinator Hall said there's no advertising or sales at Open Doors, just the pleasure of sharing one's projects. Come see paintings, quilts, dolls, needlework, sunflowers, barbed wire, new books, crafts, photography, Lego creations, a local "Chicken Soup" story, and other displays in addition to Baker's model planes.

This quilt was made by Carol Reekie of Ottawa to be displayed at the open doors at the Richmond Methodist Church during the Richmond Fair. It will also be auctioned off at The Scipio Fun Run in August.

Open Doors takes its name from the world-wide motto of the United Methodist Church of Open Minds, Open Hearts, Open Doors. It is a HUGE project, taking several days of preparation, three evenings of the fair, and time to put everything away. It is a labor of love for Arlen and Mary Hall that requires much planning and execution. It is not in competition with the fair at all, but offers an added activity for those attending.

See you in the church across the street from the fair for a time of relaxing and enjoyment.

Museum welcomes visitors daily during fair

The Richmond Community Museum celebrated its 10th year by adding a carpeted concrete floor, and is ready for lots of visitors. Just a few steps west of the fairgrounds, the Museum will be open from 2 o'clock to about 8 each day of the fair. Take a stroll down memory lane, relax with some of the many photo albums, have a cold drink, and enjoy the air-conditioning. There's never an admission charge at the Museum and your visit is sure to take you back in time to something or someone you once knew. For children and young adults, it's a great opportunity to see "a slice of life" of earlier generations.

There are several new displays at the museum. Some of the new items are Richmond High School cheerleader and pep club sweaters, model of Beachner's Elevator made by 12-year-old Cara Wentzel of Wisconsin, a very old Bible added to Rev. McNeel's coat and book bag, all used when he pastored the Presbyterian Church in Greeley from the Dietrich family, a map that shows boundaries of the Pottawatomie Indian Nation Reserve in the early 1800s along with some Native American items, a lady's compact given to queen attendants at the 1949 Silver Anniversary of the Richmond Free Fair from Barb (Ferguson) Greischar, trophies won by Cecil H. Vining (1907-1990) when he won the state corn shucking contests in 1937 and 1939, plus Depression-era glassware, chicken feed sacks that were used for sewing, and more.

The Museum will be closed Sunday, July 15th, so everyone can recuperate from the fair. Then, it will be open each Saturday and Sunday, 1-4 o'clock, through Labor Day. Hope to see you sometime!

Above - This was made by a 12-year-old 4-H member in Wisconsin, Cara Wentzel, some years ago and donated to the Richmond Museum last fall. It is done fairly well to scale but some liberties were taken. See it at the Richmond Museum.

Left - These trophies, won by Cecil H. Vining in 1937 and 1938, are 80 years old and were awarded to Vining when he won first place in the Kansas Corn Shucking contests in 1937 and 1938. His highest placing was 2nd in the national contest in 1937 (no trophy or pictures available). See this display at the Richmond Museum.

Four generations of Cannady's have shown at the Richmond Fair

BY PAT VINING

Having parents and grandparents who were 4-H members watching their 4-H kids and grandkids is routine, but add a great-grandparent or two, and PRESTO.... for Alex, Max and Knox Cannady, it becomes a four-generation 4-H family!

The three boys, sons of Rusty and Stephanie (Chandler) Cannady, are members of Princeton Goal Busters 4-H Club. They are busy with many activities but perhaps their most exciting time is fair season which starts this week with the Richmond Free Fair July 12th, 13th, and 14th.

Mom Stephanie (Chandler) was in Lucky 13 and later Dynamite Club in Anderson County. She showed steers, heifers, pigs and also had foods and arts and craft projects.

As her sons are doing now, she entered many shows and fairs and went on to stiffer competition at the American Royal and National Western Stock Show in Denver.

Her father, Gary Chandler, was a member of Berea Boosters 4-H Club of Richmond for 10 years. His first project was woodworking with Mr. Cardell as project leader. Gary made a miniature wheelbarrow for his mother, Coleen (Lickteig) Chandler, which is still one of her prize possessions.

Gary bought his first calf from his grandpa, Dan Lickteig, and was "off to the races" showing baby beef at fairs, the Royal and other places in his 4-H years.

"Being in 4-H teaches kids to be accountable for what they do," believes Gary. "They learn to be responsible for their livestock. A big plus is that you make friends you'll have for a lifetime. I'm glad I got to spend such quality time with my parents, Laurence and Coleen Chandler, in our family's 4-H years," he added.

It was common for several years to have classes of 30 or more baby beeves at the Richmond Fair, from the Chandler, Poss, Dunbar, Peine, Wolken, Holloran and other 4-H families. Competition was spirited and tough and made for a great beef show.

Coleen, who is great-grandmother to the Cannady boys, was a charter member of Berea Boosters 4-H Club in 1944 when the late Virginia Cunningham started the club. Her projects were foods, clothing and showing a baby beef when she could get her older brother, Robert, to let her have one of the calves.

From her home in Louisiana, Coleen said she especially enjoyed judging contests, both home economics and livestock, and getting to be on teams at the Topeka Fair and state fair at Hutchinson, where she sometimes placed at the top.

"4-H was a great learning experience as well as a chance for socializing with others, and we really appreciated our 4-H years," said Coleen. The 'we' includes her brother, Robert Lickteig, and sister, Joan (Lickteig) Rockers.

You've been introduced to the four 4-H generations: Coleen (Lickteig) Chandler, now Coleen Hurley; Gary Chandler; Stephanie (Chandler) Cannady; and current members, the three Cannady sons.

Although the boys' dad, Rusty, was not in 4-H, he grew up on a farm, entered poultry in open class, was in FFA at Central Heights, and is his sons' best example and teacher with their projects.

Russ and his dad, Jim Cannady, farm together on land that in 2019 will be in the family for 100 years. Perhaps Cannady Farms will have a Century Farm sign by the driveway sometime.

Russ and Stephanie have instilled in their sons that it takes a lot of time and hard work, especially with livestock projects, to be ready for competition.

"You can't just show up the day of a show and expect your pigs to be ready. You have to work with them on a daily basis, feeding, watering, washing and walking them, and cleaning pens, too," said Stephanie.

Russ has also taught the boys how to doctor a sick pig and to artificially inseminate gilts.

Alex, Max and Knox all have market pigs, breeding swine and foods projects. Alex, who will be a junior at Central Heights, is also taking citizenship, leadership and photography. He just returned from the CWF (Citizen Washington Focus) trip to Washington, D. C. which he called "really amazing and inspiring."

"We learned so much about the government and met people from all over the country," said Alex. "We actually wrote a bill and submitted it to Congress, we explored D.C. and learned about the memorials and monuments from our guide and so much more," adding his favorite memorial was Iwo Jima.

It will be hard for Alex to return to reality and prepare for fairs and other responsibilities, but he's anxious to do that and put his 4-H skills to the test.

The boys cooking skills have been honed by project leaders Linda Thurston and Cyndi Dryden.

Max will be in the 8th grade and takes horticulture, crops and leadership in addition to swine.

"I love the farming side of 4-H," said Max. "I like to plant corn, beans, squash, watermelon, beets, tomatoes and cantaloupe and watch them grow. He plans to enter several of those items at the fairs.

Knox is a first year 4-H'er and will be in the 3rd grade. He'll also enter pigs and baking at the Richmond Fair and Franklin County Fair in Ottawa.

"I like showing pigs and doing showmanship. It's fun to be with my friends at the fair," said Knox.

The boys play on several sports teams, including traveling baseball and basketball teams, which often conflict with livestock shows, but they enter as many spring shows as they can.

Their other club leaders are Cheryl Conner, Kristie Stinebaugh, Jack and Lisa Davis. Princeton Goal Busters is a busy club with lots of community service projects which teach a great sense of giving and sharing that often remain with the member throughout his life.

Livestock and foods projects are favorites of these four generations of club members, but each adds a few other choices so they can learn even more.

And if four generations isn't enough, Coleen Chandler-Hurley and her sister, Joan Rockers, know their mother, Monica (Bowman) Lickteig, belonged to a sewing club when she was a girl and lived west of W. Scipio School in the 19-teen years. Project groups such as a sewing or pig club were the fore-runner of 4-H clubs, so this family is probably a five generation 4-H family.

Congratulations to all of them, and to 4-H members everywhere. Enjoy the fairs as you try "To Make the Best Better," Oh yes, that's the 4-H motto, isn't it?

Record number of entries expected again this year, after setting a new record last year

BY PAT VINING

There were more exhibitors and entries last year at the Richmond Free Fair than in any previous year records, reports Sr. Loretta Roeckers, a fair board member who tracks such facts.

It is expected this year will bring even more entries, said Laurinda Sobba, livestock superintendent. Sobba said there are 430 pre-entries of livestock, poultry and rabbits. This will pretty well fill the barns, but "We're ready for them and will do everything we can to make this fair a good experience for the kids," said Sobba.

"Everyone is welcoming and friendly to the visiting 4-H families and lets them know we're really glad they come to the Richmond Fair," Sobba continued.

Last year's exhibitors numbered 204 and the number of entries was 882. These exhibitors came from eight counties -- Franklin, Anderson, Osage, Lyon, Miami, Linn, Johnson and Reno; and from six states -- Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Wisconsin and Minnesota. That seems like quite an accomplishment for a small-town fair.

The livestock facilities are excellent, with much of that due to Rob Pearce and QSI of Richmond who has been extremely generous to the fair.

Improvements made this year include an all new small animal wash rack for bucket calves, sheep and goats, a concrete floor in the old hog and sheep barns, improvements on the West end of one barn with pens built by Central Heights FFA students, plus Billy Miller, Avery Stalford and Terry Egidy. CH vocational ag instructors and FFA advisors are Aaron Cubit and Nathaniel McGee.

Those just mentioned above, plus some fair board members and other volunteers worked on two Saturdays to get things ready for livestock entries, said Doyle Sobba, also a fair board member.

"The 4-H parents tell us they like to come to Richmond to give the kids some time in the show ring before they go to their county fair," he explained. "We want them to leave here with the best experience they can possibly have and we'll do all we can to make that happen."

Christian Church
Howard Reiter gave the Communion Meditation on "Who is this man?" referencing Matthew 27:32-44. He discussed how the Pharisees mocked Jesus when he was on the cross, saying how powerless he was because he "couldn't" get himself off of it, but how his resurrection was so powerful it can save us all. Pastor Chase gave the sermon "Heading Home". His references were 1st Peter 1:3-9, Jeremiah 29:10-14, and Acts 27:30-32. We are only on this earth for a little while before "Heading Home", and we need to cut the strings on whatever "lifeboat" we are clinging to and to put ALL of our hope in Jesus. He is the one and only true lifeboat that can save us! You can hear our sermons on our website at <http://www.colonychristianchurch.org>, or download a podcast app.

Men's Bible study will be Tuesday at 7 a.m.

Cowboy Church
Returning from vacation, Pastor Leo Ramsey opened the service Sunday at High Point Cowboy Church with a welcome and announcements. Cindy Beckmon and the praise band led in worship music and song.

With the emphasis on 'hope', Apostle Jon Petty said hope is not wishing, but knowing the one who made you a promise will keep that promise; knowing, not wishing. In Romans 4:18-21, Abraham believed the promise of being father of many nations.

The community is invited to join in bible study following band practice on Thursday evenings at the church, 204 E. 4th, at 7 p.m. or come early and enjoy the band. The Petty's will be staying for a time of fellowship and donuts next Sunday; plan to stay and visit.

UMC
Scripture presented at Sunday's service at United Methodist Church was Deuteronomy 10:12-13 and 17-21; Galatians 5:13-26 and John 9:31-39. Pastor Dorothy Welch's sermon was titled "For Freedom".

City Council
At the May 30 meeting reports included: Streets and Alleys-Superintendent Dietrich is working with Lester to see if they can get cold patch for $60 a ton; Parks and Recreation-Jeff Dieker has a tree spade to move trees in the park. The dugouts are completed and the bill for the fencing around them will be sent to the school district; City clerk's report approved as presented. The usual shut off procedure for all unpaid bills will be followed. Gene Wallace stated he would serve as dog catcher if no one has been found by September. Grass mower is having issues, part time mower person quit the job and Tim Dietrich said he would continue the mowing which would put money saved into purchasing a new mower.

A building permit was approved for Dale Wallace to rebuild over an original building to make a larger dog house. City Clerk, Phyllis Gettler explained the State of Kansas Set Off Program. It is a way for the city to file a claim against resident's state incomes if they do not pay their bills. The vote was to get set up with the state set off program. Discussion was held on several sites that have an accumulation of debris in yards and the possibility of people living in unsafe structures. A nuisance letter will be sent to one and the mayor and sheriff will check on several other locations. Ordinance 439 was approved establishing mandatory sewer hookups for all residences and businesses in the City of Colony. The Crest Education Foundation requested usage of the Community Room for one night each in June and July and would like the fee abated of which was approved. The city approved the city purchasing 100 hot dogs, buns, condiments and drinks for the July 4 Community Celebration. No decision was made upon the questioning of Bill Goodell, City Marshall if it is legal for citizens to go into the large dumpster during cleanup week and remove items for recycling. Monthly bills were signed and approval of expenditure $21,875.43 for the month of April was made.

Colony
The following was written in the newspaper August 31, 1900. The town of Colony is situated in the southern central portion of Anderson County, Kansas. The county is the 3rd south of Kansas City, the 4th north of Indian Territory, and the 2nd west of the eastern border of the state. Colony has a population of about 700 souls. Colony has two western railroad systems, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and the Missouri Pacific. This is the end of one of the divisions of the Santa Fe.

The first settlement of the town was in 1872. At that time the country surrounding was sparsely settled. During the great grasshopper plague, 1874, many of the farmers of this section as well as residents of our town, abandoned their homes and returned east. This condition caused Colony to remain at a standstill for a number of years. The statement is made that in 1880 there was not to exceed 50 people in Colony. Not until other emigrants settled in this section and demonstrated this was good country to live in, did the town take on any growth. They did not solely rely on crops for support, but turned to stock raising and enjoyed prosperity. As the years passed, more and more herds of stock increased until now this section is noted as one of the best stock producing areas in the entire state. We have never had any booms, and while our growth has not been rapid, yet it has been of permanent character in speaking of the climate; the sun is warm during the summer, but there is nearly always a good breeze. Our winters are mild, There are "cold snaps", but of very short duration.

Colony is built upon a high ridge. The town stands on the divide, this being the highest point between Kansas City and the Gulf of Mexico on the Atchison, Topeka Santa Fe railway. This high location gives us natural drainage and affords a fine view of the country. Colony has a full quota of business houses and enjoys a large trade from surrounding country. Colony has six churches, Methodist, Christian, Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian and Catholic. (To be continued.)

Around Town
A resident ask if the late Tom Ensley was the last of Colony's World War II Veterans. Does a reader of the Colony News know? If so please phone 620-852-3379 or email colonynews@ckt.net. Thank you.

Remember to report planted acres to FSA

Area farmer and ranchers should remember that filing an accurate acreage report for all crops and land uses, including failed acreage and prevented planting acreage, will prevent the loss of benefits for a variety of Farm Service Agency (FSA) programs. Failed acreage must be reported within 15 days of the disaster event and before disposition of the crop. Failed acreage only needs reported if another crop will be planted for harvest in 2018, once the initial crop is destroyed. Prevented planting must be reported no later than 15 days after the final planting date.

July 16, 2018, is the final date to report CRP, corn, grain sorghum, soybeans, and sunflowers. Please contact the Anderson County FSA Office at (785) 448-3128 once your crops have been planted and before the deadlines noted above. USDA is an equal opportunity employer and provider.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 7-10-2018 / BARB HICKS

Local teens involved in the School Of Rock/Overland Park "House Band" performed Thursday in the VIP wing of Starlight Theater in Kansas City prior to the Lindsey Stirling/Evanescence concert. Local members of the band include, from left, Carly Hicks, Eli Peterson and Russ Peterson.

Local student to attend band camp at Pittsburg State, perform in Shrine Bowl parade

The Kansas Masonic Foundation, Inc. has announced plans to present the 35th annual Kansas Masonic All-State High School Marching Band and corresponding band camp at Pittsburg State University from July 24 - July 28, 2018.

172 high school musicians will attend this year's camp, directed by PSU's Doug Whitten and his staff. The five-day camp ends with performances at the Shrine Bowl parade, as well as pre-game and halftime performances during the Kansas East-West Shrine Bowl Football Game on Saturday, July 28th at PSU's Carnie Smith Stadium.

Locally, Dylan Cole from Garnett and an Anderson County High School student will attend. Delphian Lodge #44 will sponsor him.

The Kansas Masonic All-State High School Marching Band first appeared at the East-West Shrine Bowl in 1984.

"The idea for the marching band and camp was actually borne out of necessity," said Robert Shively, Executive Director for the Kansas Masonic Foundation. "Because of the summer break, high school bands are not readily available so we created our own. The entertainment provided by the marching band is a perfect complement to the atmosphere of the East-West Shrine Bowl."

Band Camp participants have the opportunity to win one of three prestigious awards presented annually:

The Outstanding Musician Award: the Kansas Masonic

All-State Marching Band staff chooses the winner of this competitive award.

The Masonic Pride Award: Presented to the student who stands out through random acts of kindness and service to all band kind.

The Jeff Atherly Inspiration Award: Given in memory of Jeff Atherly—a four-year veteran of band camp. This award is presented to the student who epitomizes the character of the Kansas Masonic All-Star Marching Band tradition.

Since 1984, more than 6,000 high schools students have participated in the Kansas Masonic All-State High School Marching Band. Local Masonic Lodges and other community partners sponsor participants. Monies left after band camp

ECKAAA to host new to Medicare trainings

The East Central Kansas Area Agency on Aging (ECKAAA) will host a training for people new to the Medicare system who are turning 65 or receive benefits due to disability and for business staff who help transition employees into Medicare from employer based insurance. The training will be held Wednesday, July 11, 2018. The training will be held at the ECKAAA office in Ottawa at 117 S. Main Street.

Seating is limited so all attendees must pre-register. Registration can be done by email to Rockers at leslear@eckaaa.org or by calling the agency at 785-242-7200.

The training will be held from 10:00am to Noon and there is a suggested registration donation of $10. Anyone needing further assistance or a follow-up appointment will be able to make an appointment with ECKAAA staff.

Utility Assistance available in Anderson County through ECKAAA

The East Central Kansas Area Agency on Aging can help with utility assistance. Please give our agency enough time to help assist you with your bill and avoid waiting until you receive a shut off notice from your utility company.

- How to apply: 1. Bring in copies of proof of income for all household residents- see above 2. Attach your current utility statement or a copy of the current statement with a number where you can be reached 3. Leave information for Jennifer or Sherry and you will receive a call concerning any co-pay that is due and the amount that will be paid on the bill 4. Payment will be made directly to the utility company-max $75 or $150 for utility bills (depending on the county) and 20% of total bill for propane whichever is more

5. Help is only provided one time per calendar year For more information you can call (785) 242-7200 or (800) 633-5621. Also as a reminder to everyone, open enrollment for The Low-Income Energy Assistance Program (LIEAP) will start January 16th 2019 and will run until March 31st 2019. I will once again have applications here in the office if you or someone you know is needing one. If you like to plan ahead, here are the income guidelines for 2019 Eligibility for the program!

Area students win Skill Point award

Louisville, Ky. - Career and technical students in Kansas won one of the nation's highest awards at the 2018 SkillsUSA Championships, held in Louisville, Ky., on June 27-28, 2018. More than 6,300 students competed at the national showcase of career and technical education. The SkillsUSA Championships is the largest skill competition in the world and covers 1.4 million square feet, equivalent to 20 football fields or 25 acres.

donated time, equipment, cash and material. More than 1,900 industry judges and technical committee members participated this year.

Skill Point Certificates were awarded in 72 occupational and leadership areas to students who met a predetermined threshold score in their competition, as defined by industry. The Skill Point Certificate is a component of SkillsUSA's assessment program for career and technical education.

The following students were Skill Point Certificate recipients: * Team L (consisting of Shylie Scheckel, Ridge Pracht, Jacob Allison, Kegan Katzer, Nicholas Lybarger, William Meching), from Anderson County High School (Garnett), was awarded a Skill Point Certificate in Chapter Business Procedure.

"More than 6,300 students from every state in the nation participated in the 2018 SkillsUSA Championships," said SkillsUSA executive director Tim Lawrence. "This showcase of career and technical education demonstrates our SkillsUSA partnership at its finest. Our students, instructors and industry partners work together to ensure that every student excels. This program expands learning and career opportunities for our members."

The SkillsUSA Championships event is held annually for students in middle school, high school or college/postsecondary programs as part of the SkillsUSA National Leadership and Skills Conference. More than 360,000 students and advisors join SkillsUSA annually, organized into more than 18,000 sections and 53 state and territorial associations. The national, nonprofit partnership of students, instructors and industry is a verified talent pipeline for America's skilled workforce that is working to help solve the skills gap.

The fruits of our labors

INSIGHT

Going into the first week of July, most Kansans are experiencing the dog-days of summer - blistering heat, strong southerly winds and a few scattered showers. In most fields across our state, the corn crop is holding its own and the beans and milo are in "decent" shape as well.

JOHN SCHLAGECK, Kansas Farm Bureau

Wheat harvest turned out better than most farmers expected but they know with the continued summer heat their Kansas row crops will need additional moisture during the next few months. Same for the pastures and ponds.

of Hoxie, did boast cantaloupes and watermelons trucked in from western Colorado and New Mexico.

This amounted to some fine, delicious summer eating. Juicy and cold, a big slice of watermelon - you couldn't beat it for a summer treat.

During this period, most families grew their own. Many couldn't afford to go to the store and buy their fresh fruits and vegetables.

Today, while most people can afford to buy their produce from the local grocery, some still prefer to grow their own.

Few things are better in life than fresh sweet corn picked, steamed and served slathered with butter a few minutes before lunch or dinner. The kernels taste as sweet as candy. Yep, tomatoes, cucumbers, cantaloupes and watermelons all taste better when they're "fresh picked."

Also, there is nothing more satisfying than to walk out to your own garden, pick a couple of tomatoes and head for the kitchen. Once inside, wash and cut the red delight, sprinkle on a little salt and pepper. Umm, they're so good.

People are discovering once again, or in most cases for the first time, how good foods taste fresh right out of the soil.

If you don't believe me, just bite into a fresh carrot, radish or slice up a cool, refreshing cucumber and slip it into your mouth. The proof is in the tasting.

Some of us were born with a sweet tooth. I'm one of them. Fresh fruit, ice cream and chocolates are my favorites. If you've ever picked fresh strawberries and sprinkled them on a heaping bowl of vanilla ice cream, you know you've just experienced a little bit of heaven right here on earth. Sometimes popping a few fresh ones right from the vine and into your mouth is even better.

So, the next time you're working in your garden this summer and the sweat begins to drip down your face and into your eyes, think about all those wonderful fresh strawberries, tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers you'll soon eat on your own dinner table. When you harvest the fruits of your labor, you'll know it is worth it.

We must not live below the level of the privileges God has provided us

In Ephesians 2:6-10 the Apostle Paul speaking to the saints in Ephesus says, "And God raised us up with Christ and seated us with him in the heavenly realms in Christ Jesus, in order that in the coming ages he might show the incomparable riches of his grace, expressed in his kindness to us in Christ Jesus." (2:6-7).

God raised Jesus from the dead and seated him at his (God's) right hand. Paul applies this to what has happened to believers. Paul teaches a union between Christ and those who come to trust him so what is said of the Redeemer can also be said of the redeemed. What once happened to Jesus will happen to believers as well, resurrection and seated in the heavenly realms with God. For now we have a new mind, a new identity as God's children and a new ability to live free from Satan. The problem is we routinely live below the level of the privileges stated here.

Too often we end up like the father of the boy with the evil spirit in Mark 9:14-29. The disciples had tried to drive the evil spirit from the boy but were unable to do it. The father in desperation asks Jesus, "But if you can do anything take pity on us and help us." The father knew who Jesus was but failed attempt after failed attempt had left the man full of doubt the boy could receive help. Actually I believe he views Jesus as sort of a physician instead of a Savior. Jesus quickly responds, "Everything is possible for him who believes." The man responds, "I do believe; help me overcome my unbelief."

This man is no different than you or I. We get frustrated when there is no quick or apparent solution to a problem we have. We view God as this man did, as being small. Truthfully we are often victimized by unbelief. This often happens because we have tried and failed to solve the problem ourselves. God will not interfere when we try to solve our problems ourselves. Many times I get victimized by the old saying "if you are not careful you won't be able to see the forest for the trees." Over and over again frustration and impatience rule over faith and reason. Sometimes I can't see God for the problem. No problem is that big. We must remember our problems are God's way of showing the incomparable riches of his grace to others. We must not live below the level of privileges God has provided but with Christ in the heavenly realms.
