Watkins wins, while GOP frets

Leaders distanced themselves, now try to decide what's next

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Despite heavy criticism within elements of the party, Republicans in the 2nd Congressional District picked Steve Watkins out of a field of seven contenders to face Democrat Paul Davis in November's general election.

Now, Second District Republican leaders are trying to decide what level of support they'll give him after a Sunday night conference call to discuss their options.

Watkins

Watkins defeated runner-up 12th District State Senator Caryn Tyson 19,753-17,499 in unofficial totals released Tuesday night. The statewide vote will be finalized and rendered official this Friday, when mail ballots are counted and provisional ballots qualified.

The two led the field decisively, with only 5th District State Representative Kevin Jones also tallying in five digits with 12,033.

Davis, the Democrat nominee, was unopposed in the primary.

Watkins was under heavy fire in the waning weeks of the primary campaign after it was revealed he had virtually no voting history either in Kansas or other states in which he'd lived. Various statements he'd previously made regarding taxation and abortion were also criticized by conservative Republicans, who also questioned a political action committee organized by and predominately funded by Watkins' father. A mailer circulated by Watkins' campaign also used a photo of President Donald Trump, which some said insinuated an endorsement from the president when no such endorsement had been made.

Christophe de Goulaine and Anais Auduc took a break last week on their cross country journey for lunch in Garnett, and to show off Goulaine's "barn find" U.S. Military 1918 Harley Davidson 18J.

French couple on epic American tour to say 'thanks' for U.S. sacrifice in WWI

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

LOIRE VALLEY, FRANCE — A French motorcyclist and his fiancée touring America on a 1918 World War I-era Harley Davidson made a stop-off in Garnett last week, a short rest from their cross country tribute to the American soldiers who helped defend France on the 100th anniversary of the end of the war.

Christophe de Goulaine, his mechanic Pierre Lauvergeat and Goulaine's fiancée Anais Auduc started their 5,600 mile three-month journey in Mobile, Ala., on June 21. They ventured to parts of the famed trans-America Route 66 enroute to San Diego, Calif., with Goulaine and Lauvergeat riding the classic and near-original Harley with its added side car and Auduc driving a van as a chase vehicle. With the journey coined "Operation Twin Links," they took a side trip to Kansas City to be interviewed for a video for the National World War I Museum (see Facebook, search "Twin Links"), and their south route back to Route 66 brought them through Garnett on Wednesday.

Goulaine's ancestor French Huguenot Capt. Rene de Goulaine de Laudonniere, came to America in the 16th century seeking potential colony sites and founded Fort Caroline on the St. Johns River in what is now Duval County, Fla. An early stop on the Twin Links excursion took them to recreation of the original fort (the original was sacked by the Spanish soon after its founding) and a special welcome home ceremony at the Fort Caroline National Memorial by locals and members of the U.S. National Parks Service.

Goulaine said the Harley was a barn find he made 10 years ago — it's V2 four stroke, 17 hp engine still in original condition. It took Lauvergeat nine months and great pains to make it operational again. Goulaine said he daydreamed at the time that in a short decade the bike would be a century old, and he would take it on a cross country tour of America as a way of saying 'thanks.'

Goulaine grew up near his ancestral estate, located in western France in the Loire Valley near the city of Nantes and the harbor of Saint-Nazaire, which was a major arrival point for U.S. soldiers after the U.S. entered the war in 1917. With a deep sense of history and gratitude for the sacrifices of American soldiers for his country and motivated by the motorcycle produced on the anniversary of the war's end, Goulaine made his daydream trip a reality earlier this summer.

Harley Davidson made about 16,000 of the 1918 Model 18J, with most of those purchased by the U.S. military and sent to Europe for the war effort. Goulaine pointed out much of the motorcycle is original, from the engine to the metalwork to the seat that he believes once carried an American soldier.

"The soldier who came into France with this motorcycle sat on this saddle," Goulaine says in the WWI Museum video. "It's a real honor for me to ride this motorcycle."

Goulaine and Auduc told the Review last week they had been taken by the

Don't give up on the local 2018 corn crop yet, ag agent says

Ag agent says corn crop not yet a loss; recent rains may salvage fall harvests

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Though dry weather has punctuated the 2018 corn and soybean crop, spotty recent rains and a wetter July is giving some hope for the rest of the growing season.

Frontier District Extension Agent Ryan Schaub said county wide the crop conditions were hit and miss, depending on the spotty nature of the summer's rainfall.

"I believe we will see some 170+ bushel corn in some parts of the county," Schaub said, "while others will struggle to make 65-70 bushel. We've seen quite a bit of corn cut for silage this year, since we're short on grass and hay for livestock this coming winter." "From the sounds of things some corn will be ready to cut in the next week-and-a-half or so."

Mary Knapp, with the Weather Data Library at Kansas State University, said July totals for rainfall in Anderson County averaged 6.56 inches among its three reporting stations, with one area recording over 7 inches for the month. Normal July rainfall for the county is 4.3 inches. The 16 inches of rain the county's had for the year so far in 2018 is substantially behind our 21-inch norm.

Schaub said a July 28 rain and nearly an inch of rain that fell in some places last week may have given a reprieve to the area's soybean crop, which would regularly be set for harvest around October.

"The beans are still on hold," he said. "I'm not ready to write them off just yet. We've received some rain the last couple

Who got first?

Local GOP voters just as conflicted over choice for governor

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — Both Democrats and Republicans in Kansas awaited news early this week of the final winner in the razor-thin margin vote for the GOP's nomination of either Secretary of State Kris Kobach or Governor

Colyer

Jeff Colyer. As of Friday, Kobach led Colyer with 217 votes, and Kobach agreed to calls from Colyer's camp to recuse himself from duties as the state's chief election officer with regard to this race, as remaining mailed ballots are counted to finalize the race. Democrats and Republicans in Anderson County followed suit to statewide voter action in August 7's contest for governor, with Democrats picking their nominee by a wide margin and Republicans slicing their own election to bare double digits.

Local Democrats gave Laura Kelly 169 votes with Josh Svaty and Carl Brewer a distant second with 39 votes each. Kelly won the state Democratic nomination with 52 percent of the vote to Brewer's 20 percent.

Republicans, who turned out in far larger numbers in Anderson County, picked Secretary of State Kris Kobach with 393 votes but brought Governor Jeff Colyer within a slight margin at 382.

Although Kobach's campaign has said it will begin to run for the November general election as though the vote is finalized, the actual vote won't be certified as official until mailed ballots and provisional ballots from across the state are counted for an official total.

5th District GOP picks Samsel

The large number of Republicans in the 2nd District race and in others statewide led officials to expect high voter turnout.

Anderson County saw a bump in election turnout as well. Anderson County Clerk Julie Heck said 22.49 percent of the county's registered voters cast ballots in the Democrat and Republican primaries. The figure was about 16 percent in the 2016 primary.

Republican voters in Anderson County would have selected Tyson as the nominee, giving her a wide margin of support with 363 votes compared to 283 for Jones and 140 for Watkins.

MERSMANN

JULY 14, 1966 - AUGUST 9, 2018

Joel Christopher Mersmann - Died August 9, 2018, at the age of 52. He died peacefully, in his sleep at his home in Denver, Colorado. Joel was loved and will be missed terribly by his family and literally hundreds of friends from St. Louis to Denver, and across the country.

Mersmann

Joel was born in Kansas City, Missouri, July 14, 1966. He attended De Smet Jesuit High School, in St. Louis, Missouri; and University of Missouri, Columbia. Joel had careers in hotel & restaurant management and sales. He was an incredibly kind and caring individual who would do anything for a friend. Joel was honored as one of 12 "Men for Others" in his senior class at De Smet High School, and at graduation in 1984, he was recognized by his fellow classmates as the one that most exemplified the brotherhood and spirit of De Smet. Joel was renowned amongst his many friends and could often be found surrounded by them celebrating life in St. Louis. Several years ago, Joel decided to return to Denver and the mountains, which hold a special place in his and his families' hearts. Not surprisingly, it was no time before he'd made dozens of new friends and was surrounded by them in the Mile High City. His family is thankful to Joel's many friends for their expressions of love of Joel and support for all of us.

Thank you

To Anderson County Voters:
Thank you for your vote and support in my campaign for 5th District State Representative. It was a tough campaign with only 180 vote difference to bring my opponent to a win in the primary. The best part of campaigning is visiting with the voters and listening to their concerns. There are so many wonderful people I met and talked with during this journey of my campaign. Thanks to all who supported my run for Kansas State Representative.

Media: Sauce for goose isn't sauce for the gander

One of the definitions of "Fake News," a term that more and more rankles the purveyors of my profession, is continually unfair differences in how separate sides of the political debate are treated by the American press. We saw another example in Lawrence last weekend.

The question, as it comes along from just about every use of the word "Alt-Right" (skin-heads, Nazis, etc.) is why the media consistently foists the actions of crazy Alt-Righters on Republican politicians, but leaves leftist socialist crazies completely out of the realm of accountability for Democrats either holding or running for office?

A year ago Republicans all across the country had to go on the record regarding that gaggle of kooks trying to pick a fight in the streets of Charlottesville, Va., where a woman was killed when an Alt-Right crazy plowed his car into a group of counter protesters. The media wanted to make sure they gave Republican politicians ample opportunity to shoot themselves in the foot over the tragedy, hoping for a sound bite that might be deemed not sensitive enough - aimed no doubt at further confirming the narrative that Republicans are just oppressive, mean white guys, like President Trump.

A dozen or so "Defend the Flag" marchers (for those of us keeping track, these are the folks who like the American flag and don't like the idea of seeing it defaced as an "art" project and flown over a University of Kansas museum) planned to pay tribute to a community safety fair, made up of firemen, first responders and police, and then march up Massachusetts Street to voice their support for the flag.

But they were mobbed by hundreds of counter protesters wearing "Art is the voice of freedom" t-shirts, which they no doubt had to pull over their heads gently so as not to catch on a lip or eyebrow piercing. From video shot at the event, it was clear the "voice of freedom" had little to do with art and everything to do with yelling at flag lovers to "get the f--- out of our town."

So much for tolerance and freedom of expression, long held bastions of liberal idealism.

It's not that anyone's surprised the real attacks on our rights and on civil discourse in the country now comes from the Left - the Trump era has pretty much seen that fact illustrated in spades as Trump protestors have set fire to American cities, started campaign brawls and hooked up with bona fide socialists to fill their elected campaign posts. The surprise is that the media doesn't force Democrat politicians to account for the actions of the Alt-Left in the same way they attempt to hose down Republicans with the stigma of the Alt-Right.

Presently in fact, the Democratic Socialists of America is claiming a surge in memberships as leftists search out some way to continue hating President Trump, thinking the crazier you act the more successful you're likely to be.

What's surprising is that with the hubbub at Lawrence, no one in the media has asked Democrat gubernatorial candidate Laura Kelly or 2nd District Congressional contender Paul Davis if they condone that vulgarity and incivility and the assault on the First Amendment Rights for conservatives. At least as of Monday, not a single Democrat office holder or contender had been asked to publicly condemn the treatment of the flag marchers by the Lawrence mob.

How unfortunate that the press, like the kooks on the modern American political extremes - has sacrificed its credibility in such a way.

The other night I was in a drinking establishment in Garnett talking to a person. We were talking about politics and local political things and what was going on. Then the bar maid came up and told him to get out and don't ever come back. I just wonder what has happened to freedom of speech in this town?

Say what you want about the new city manager, but the day of that big storm several days ago I saw him in his shirt and tie up to his right elbow in one of the clogged storm water drains out in front of the Country Mart Grocery Store. Now, that's something we haven't seen in quite a while, agreed?

I've been watching what's been said about the city staff and the city commissioners the past few weeks in the Phone Forum, and I'm wondering just what's going on down there. People are apparently pairing off and choosing sides in some big cat fight and they're calling the Phone Forum to try to get their side out there. Makes me wonder just what's going on down there. Thank you.

Now that they've got the new highway up on 59 done and it looks so pretty and new, I really notice all the cracks in the roads in the City of Garnett. Looking east from the median area of Fourth Street you can see nearly all the way to the Catholic church, and the road is so cracked and fractured it looks like it could just start flaking off in great big chunks. One of those things we don't think much about because we drive on it day in and day out, but to a newcomer to our community it must really stand out I bet.

First Amendment, U.S. Constitution:

Print-your-own gun is no bigger threat

There's great anguish over one group's move to publish detailed plans for printing parts to make a gun or guns with 3-D printers. The government is set to allow that to happen this week, having lost a couple of cases in court. Liberals, led by New York Sen. Chuck Schumer, are aghast, demanding action to block the Internet site.

Despite the cries of horror, it's likely the plans will be published. Backers say they've already been downloaded by thousands of people, including plans for an AR-15 type rifle supposedly downloaded by more than a thousand.

In truth, though, regardless of how you feel about guns, you should know it's next to impossible to suppress this kind of technology - or the information behind it. Suppose gun-control forces did manage to make these plans illegal. They're already out there.

That means that the bad guys, criminals, terrorists and nut cases who might actually use them for evil purposes, probably already have a set of the plans. If these are made illegal, it'll only mean that the common citizen - you and me - will have no access to them.

GUEST COMMENTARY

But what do we care? We weren't going to print and sell 3-D guns anyway.

You cannot put the genie back in the bottle. Like the knowledge needed to design nuclear weapons, these plans are published. People have them. Some of them are bad guys.

Humans have a strong strain of belief that making something illegal will make it go away. That has worked well in the 1920s War on Alcohol and the 20th-21st century War on Drugs, hasn't it?

But still we persist in believing that we have only to pass a law to make something disappear.

It just ain't so. In things such as drugs, alcohol and illegal guns, it seems, humans hew closely to the laws of supply and demand. Making something illegal does nothing to reduce demand, however. Just look what's happened since we made it illegal to enter this country without permission.

It's pure economics. The U.S. has the jobs and the way of life everyone wants. People are willing to risk literally everything to come here. What do they care that they are breaking the law? What will we do, send them home?

At the same time, having those plans on the Internet won't make much difference in our lives. There likely are too many guns out there already. A few more will do no more harm.

Just as unleashing concealed carry did not lead to a slew of gun deaths, distributing these plans won't lead to a new era of crime or shootings. Gun lovers will want to keep their well-made steel originals. Criminals don't much care what they get as long as they don't pay much and it can't be traced, to them, at least.

But don't tell anyone who believes in gun control, because their emotions tell them it will work.

- Steve Haynes is president of N'orWest Newspapers in Oberlan, Kan.

The next biggest desperate lie from Elizabeth Warren

Elizabeth Warren is branching out. The Massachusetts senator, who has made a career of unfairly maligning bankers and other alleged capitalist malefactors, is now smearing the criminal justice system, too.

In a speech at a historically black college in New Orleans, she declared that "the hard truth about our criminal justice system: It's racist ... I mean front to back."

Her riff is a sign that the Democrats are going to leaven their lurch toward socialism with a condemnation of America as fundamentally racist.

The U.S. criminal justice system is obviously a legitimate topic of debate. But the contention that U.S. law enforcement is a product of racial hatred is a paranoid lie.

The basis of the racism charge is the obvious disparities in the numbers. Blacks are 13 percent of the population, yet they account for 38 percent of state prisoners, and for more than roughly 30 percent of fatal police shootings.

The driver for mass incarceration, we are always told, is a racist war on drugs. But this is a myth. In his book "Locked In," John Pfaff notes that at its height in 1990, the share of state prisoners serving time for drugs was just 22 percent. The proportion fell to less than 16 percent in 2014. So you could release all drug offenders and still leave mass incarceration intact. And you wouldn't just be releasing black prisoners - 33 percent of white inmates in state prisons are drug offenders.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

It is true that the incarceration rates for drug offenses are much higher for blacks. This may be a product of enforcement bias, or other factors such as whites are more prone to use private, as opposed to open-air, drug markets. The biggest reason for the overall disparity in incarceration is different rates of offending. Blacks account for about 50 percent of homicides. It's not that the police are simply making up these crimes. The numbers for violent crime accord with reports from crime victims of the race of their assailants.

The same applies to police shootings. Joseph Cesario, a professor of psychology at Michigan State University, writes that "the differences in involvement in criminal situations between black and white citizens fully explains the population-level disparity in fatal police shootings."

Now, it's entirely fair to argue that different rates of offending are a function of the vestiges of racism, and that it is urgent to pursue criminal justice reform given how the status quo affects black families and communities. But the idea that we are living in a latter-day apartheid South Africa, with a system designed to jail and immiserate blacks out of sheer maliciousness, is contemptible, poisonous and wrong.

It is telling that Elizabeth Warren is going there. There are two reasons. One is that she has a Bernie Sanders problem: She is a white politician who has overwhelmingly devoted herself to economic issues. She needs to play identity politics catch-up. Two, in reaction to Donald Trump, the left is embracing a sweeping indictment of America as undemocratic and racist at the core.

Warren's performance shows that the party is prepared to consider no critique of America too radical or out of bounds.

100 years ago: Thieves rob the Bank of Greeley

10 years ago...

The hallowed final resting place of some of Anderson County's loved ones was desecrated last week by vandals with spray paint and local law officers are looking for information from anyone who may know anything about the destruction. Anderson County Sheriff Scot Brownrigg said local officers found 46 tombstones spray painted with graffiti as well as a damaged street sign and defacing of the sign for the Kincaid Selma Methodist Church. Most of the graffiti was vulgar and satanic in nature.

Employers in Anderson County will have to start filing state paperwork earlier in the fall in order to help speed the efforts of state child support enforcement authorities in tracking down parents who owe child support. New mandatory regulations will require employers to notify the Kansas Department of Human Resources within 20 days of hiring a new employee. Notification of new hires within 20 days is voluntary now.

drought of 1988 have painted a bleak picture for the nation's agriculturalists, farmers in Anderson and surrounding counties have fared much better according to local ag experts. Leo Wiederholt, executive director of the Anderson County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service said local farmers experienced about average production in corn and milo this summer, but soybean crops had been hit harder by the dry weather.

40 years ago...

George Frank, of Westphalia, lost a portion of his left leg as the result of a combine accident on Monday night. He had gone to a red clover field and was unloading a combine by himself when his left foot became caught in the auger in the hopper. He pulled himself loose and drove the truck about two miles to the home of his daughter, Georgie Haire. She took him to the Allen County Hospital in Iola and his leg was amputated below the knee.

100 years ago...

Greeley had an exciting time yesterday morning when some safe crackers visited the Bank of Greeley, cracked the safe and secured between $2,000 and $3,000. It took them just an hour to crack the safe, during which time there were five distinct explosions. The work was done in a very workman-like manner and the fellows, all three of them, were experts. The robbery took place between two and three o'clock.

Our lawns used to be just grass

This morning as it was raining I gazed out our front door and I couldn't help but notice how fresh and green our lawn was and how beautiful our flowers were.

Yes, green grass. Everyone knows what that means, more mowing and trimming.

Speaking of grass, it is by far humankind's most important plant. It constitutes one quarter of the earth's vegetation and exists in more than 7,000 species, including sugar cane, bamboo, rice, millet, sorghum, corn, wheat, barley, oats and rye.

However, today "grass" has become synonymous with "lawn" and a for of the ancient once wild plant has evolved into a symbol of pride and status.

Each year, Americans sift and sprinkle one million tons of chemical fertilizers on their lawns to keep them lush and green. We also toss uncounted tons of lime, potash and bone meal to fix soil pH, ensuring brightly colored flowering shrubs, bulbs and plants. Also hundreds of gallons of water per day are sprayed on front, back and side lawns.

The first known lawn was recorded in Greece, approximately 400BC. This Classical Greek garden was a small plot of mixed green grasses and weeds. These were mingled with wildflower seeds, thus resembling a miniature natural meadow.

For centuries before the invention of the lawn mower, grass went uncut. A tall, free growing, weedy plot of green was regarded as a thing of beauty.

In the 1800's, closely cropped turfs became very popular. Lawn mowing as per say was often achieved by flocks of grazing sheep. The sheep though, were soon to be replaced by a mechanical, man-made contrivance in 1830, what we now know as a lawn mower.
