Snorkeling smokeoff

Rain makes a mess, but doesn't shut down stalwart Smokeoff crowd

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 9-11-2018 / KEVIN GAINES

Heavy downfalls of rain Friday and persistent rain on Saturday didn't stop the 2018 Annual Greeley Smokeoff from going on as planned. The crowd enjoyed the wide variety of choices of smoked food and great side dishes offered. The kids definitely didn't let the rain dampen their mood as many were enjoying splashing around in the puddles and playing in the mud.

Competition for jail space may be afoot

Linn County proposal would build 95-bed facility if voters approve in Nov.

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

MOUND CITY — It's too soon to know how a construction proposal for a new jail in Linn County headed for the November election ballot will affect "farm out" revenues at the Anderson County Jail, Anderson County Sheriff Vern Valentine said last week.

Linn County Commissioners approved ballot language for the proposal in late August, which if approved would construct a 96-bed jail facility in a new Law Enforcement and Judicial Center, a new government administration center as well as renovations to the Linn County Courthouse at Mound City. The $20.3 million ballot question would be paid by $3.1 million in county contingency funds and some $17 million to be financed by a 1 percent countywide sales tax.

Linn County presently has no county sales tax. U.S. Census Bureau figures estimated the county's total retail sales at about $53.5 million in 2012.

A 96-bed jail would be one of the largest in the region and a competitor for "farm-out" jail revenues in Anderson County. Those revenues are paid by other counties to house their inmates due to capacity or other issues at their own jails. Anderson County earned some $243,000 in farm-out revenues in 2016. The local jail project wrapped up construction in August 2009.

Valentine said the first hurdle would be voter passage of the issue once it goes to the November election in Linn County.

"They have to pass it first," Valentine said. "I do not see very many counties passing new jails."

Valentine said he anticipated the local jails' revenues would be impacted when Miami and Bourbon counties opened new facilities, but he said Anderson County still managed to maintain fairly healthy revenues in the face of that regional competition. Much of the local jail bed rental comes from Douglas County.

"I doubt that Douglas would pass us up to get to them," Valentine said. He said if that happened, "it would probably hurt."

Anderson County voted down a jail bond issue before county commissioners appointed a Public Building Commission with the authority to direct construction of the project without voter approval, which then funded the project with a combination of sales tax and property tax. Earned revenues were never included in the finance plan for Anderson County's jail because of their estimated lack of consistency.

Deluge dampens, but dimly dwindles drought

Even double average recent rains can't pull county out of deficit

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — With a Friday deluge that brought 4 to 7 inches of rainfall to parts of Anderson County on top of some two inches from earlier last week, a new drought analysis for the county was due today as state weather officials try to sum up the feast-or-famine weather year of 2018 in Kansas.

Mary Knapp, with the Weather Data Library at Kansas State University, said Anderson County's 8.12 total inches of August rainfall was 4.02 inches over normal for the month, and that period followed a local tally for July that was nearly 3 inches over normal at 7 inches for the month. Still, with annual precipitation off by more than 23 inches with just 90 days left to go in the year, recent wet weather doesn't tip the annual scale.

"There has been a one category improvement across the county in drought conditions," Knapp said. "Current conditions range from severe in the north part of the county to abnormally dry in the south. The monitor cutoff point is Tuesday (today), so the rains from the 6th will be evaluated in next (this) week's map."

Though recent heavier rains have been good for replenishment of surface water and pond/lake retention, more typical dry September weather is likely coming, Knapp said.

"The pattern is expected to shift after the weekend, with drier than normal conditions favored," she said. "The outlook on temperatures continues to favor warmer than normal conditions."

But it will be the extent of flooding last week in the county which will most impact the local soybean crop, said KSU

Extension Agent Ryan Schaub.

"The beans are looking good as long as they haven't been flooded out," Schaub said. "As long as they haven't been flooded out I think we have a lot of potential for beans. I have heard that some of the beans stopped blooming earlier than normal but these

She is Gone

You can shed tears that she is gone or you can smile because she has lived.

You can close your eyes and pray that she will come back, or you can open your eyes and see all that she has left.

Your heart can be empty because you can't see her or you can be full of the love you shared. You can turn your back on tomorrow and live yesterday or you can be happy for tomorrow because of yesterday.

You can remember her and only that she is gone or you can cherish her memory and let it live on.

Memorial services will be held at a later date.

You may send your condolences to the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

Government in your gas can

I would amend the famous quote attributed to Mark Twain to read: "Everybody talks about the government, but nobody does anything about it."

For instance, when the government screws up your gas can, is there anything you can do?

If you've bought a gasoline can since 2009 you know what I'm talking about. Due to EPA regulations, no gasoline can may have a back vent - that little flip-up lid covering the hole on the top rear of your gas can that allows air to draw into the tank when you're pouring gas out, making the whole process smooth and efficient. Of course, practical efficiency is the last thing the EPA has in mind for your life.

When most people think of the Clean Air Standard, they think of the federal law that prevents factories from belching icky smoke and chemicals that make people sick into the air in big cities. Okay, I can buy that. But do the tentacles of government regulation really need to reach all the way to my garage?

The idea came about from ... wait for it... the People's Republic of California - in about 2000. Apparently the chronically environmentally apologetic folks in The Golden State decided too many of its residents were leaving that back vent lid open, and torrents of evaporating gasoline fumes were leaching into the atmosphere. Something had to be done.

Now, you wouldn't have to work too hard to convince me Californians have been breathing too many fumes of one kind or another for decades, but the EPA caught wind of this amazing initiative and liked it so much they wrote it into the updates to the Clean Air Act. Now instead of just pertaining to Californians under their own state law, the law as of 2009 would apply to the other 49 states as well - courtesy of the EPA's regulation-making authority.

And this, ladies and gentlemen, is where the grand view of our Democratic Republic goes awry. So, Congress passes a law. The president either signs it or Congress overrides his veto. Then depending on subject matter the new law is shuffled off to one of numerous federal agencies for the details of how it's going to be foisted upon the citizenry. Sure, they give you a chance to "comment" on their proposed regulations - but in order for them to consider your protest, you have to have a video of the department chairman playing slap and tickle with his secretary from 20 years ago. Basically, whatever the geniuses within these agencies decide is going to be the law as it affects you.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

Anyone who's tried to pour milk out of a plastic jug too fast knows what happens - it glugs and coughs and spits milk all over your kitchen cabinet. Same thing happens with gasoline.

So, how much contamination happens from gasoline spills as opposed to back vents that are maybe left open? Ground contamination? Water runoff? How many guys spilled gas on their pants and got too close from a sparking battery cable or welder or something?

No matter. Bureaucrats, whether under Democrats or Republicans, love regulations because it means more hires for their departments and bigger budgets and more clout, etc. As we've seen with some 70 either attempted or affected EPA rule changes made since President Trump was elected, nothing short of direct presidential intervention can change these policies once owned by an agency.

So as we march to the mid-term elections and politicians tell you what they're going to do if they get elected, ask them about your gas can.

And vote for the guy or gal who tells you to drill a hole in it and poke in a tire valve stem with a cap on it. Take that, big government.

Come on people, shop at home. Why are you buying your weed from places and people from out of town where you don't know them and you don't know what you're buying. There are good, solid people right here in your county growing just as good a weed as you can get anywhere, well almost as good or usually. Shop local. Thank you.

Hey fertilizer face. Yeah, you who were ripping John McCain in last week's Phone Forum. How many do you think will attend your funeral? I'm guessing one houthouse mouse and two sewer rats. Put that in your marijuana pipe and smoke it.

I wonder, if I shoot a buck this deer season but I only have a doe tag, will the wildlife and parks cop accept the argument that the buck always believed he was female and wanted to live as a female? Things that make you go hmmm.

I have an idea to help beautify Garnett. I think we should paint the water tower like a giant squid or a badmitten birdie. It works for the Nelson-Atkins. We have two water towers so we need an idea for the other one. Maybe a flying saucer? We have those two big giant pieces of art with all that potential to be unique and we don't do anything with them. Come on Garnett Tourism Committee, get this rolling.

I just wanted to say thanks to the cooks and everybody else at the Greeley Smokeoff. What with all the rain it could have been a big bust but everybody took it in stride and made the best of a bad situation.

Rare example of speed in Kansas government

If there is an issue that almost instantly brings together parents, grandparents, legislators, and, yes, even voters, it is safety at public schools.

While other states have seen the tragedy of shootings at public schools, Kansas hasn't.

And it is that "yet" that spurred the House last session to think up, and the Senate approve, a "Safe and Secure Schools Initiative" that was essentially proof that with all the scrapping over general school budgets, and how those dollars are spent on education and administration and such, it is safety that gets lawmakers and the state moving—quickly—to protect the state's children.

Remember that? The House Republican leadership proposed the bill, which made $5 million available this year for schools to step up security so that no crazed person can walk into a school building and for any reason start shooting at children.

Sounded simple, in fact, it sounded a little like a public relations effort for Republicans who didn't want to just pour more money into schools without getting something that they could tout on a campaign palm card and chat about at lunches.

The $5 million was to be used for obviously relatively low-cost school safety efforts, ranging from locks on doors to shatterproof glass on doorways to redirection of visitors through a single school door so they could be checked before they enter. Relatively simple things, but things that school districts might have put off or in a tight budget year, might not have the available cash to get done.

Well, that effort showed, although a little obliquely, just how quickly Kansas state government can get things done. The bill? It became effective on July 1, when most bills become law.

STATE COMMENTARY

Amazingly, for us folks who watch the Legislature and state government grind through hearings, meetings, consultations and other delays as a matter of course, by July 16 the State Department of Education had told districts what to do and how and when and send out checks for that safety glass, the locks, the cameras, the other things that deter school violence.

In total, some 156 school districts applied for a part of that $5 million, which they would match with local moneys and make the security improvements that everyone wanted.

Some districts didn't apply for that security funds boost.

But the amazing part of the program is how quickly that $5 million—worth a total of $10 million in security improvements with the local matches—got out to school districts.

Those state grants? They ranged from $1,043 to Healy School District 468 to $922,613 for Wichita School District 259. Total applications were for more than $13 million, so the grants were pared down, to a maximum of $18.30 per pupil in the district.

Now, there are districts which will want this kind of state aid in the future, and if this first $5 million program's success is monitored, look for what was a one-time effort to be continued next fiscal year and likely into out-years as well.

It's a combination of a relatively simple concept—safety for schoolchildren—and the efforts of the State Department of Education moving quickly and efficiently to get that plan executed. Rarely happens in Kansas government.

Look for this successful and inexpensive state effort to be lauded and to be further dissected next legislative session. And that's where lawmakers have the choice of just funding some more of those grants, or deciding that they want to complicate it, slow it down and take political credit for it.

Things get complicated quickly in the Statehouse. And that's likely next session... unless lawmakers return to the basic reason for the school security effort. That reason? "Yet" ...

New movie deletes planting of U.S. flag on moon

History is usually airbrushed to remove a figure who has fallen out of favor with a dictatorship, or to hide away an episode of national shame. Leave it to Hollywood to erase from a national triumph its most iconic moment.

The new movie "First Man," a biopic about the Apollo 11 astronaut Neil Armstrong, omits the planting of the American flag during his historic walk on the surface of the moon.

Ryan Gosling, who plays Armstrong in the film, tried to explain the strange editing of his moonwalk: "This was widely regarded in the end as a human achievement. I don't think that Neil viewed himself as an American hero." Armstrong was a reticent man, but he surely considered himself an American, and everyone else considered him a hero. ("You're a hero whether you like it or not," one newspaper admonished him.)

Gosling added that Armstrong's walk "transcended countries and borders," which is literally true, since it occurred 238,900 miles from Earth, although Armstrong got there on an American rocket, walked in an American spacesuit and returned home to America.

Apollo 11 was, without doubt, an extraordinary human achievement. Armstrong's famous words upon descending the ladder to the moon were apt: "One small step for man, one giant leap for mankind." A plaque left behind read: "HERE MEN FROM THE

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

PLANET EARTH FIRST SET FOOT UPON THE MOON, JULY 1969 A.D. WE CAME IN PEACE FOR ALL MANKIND."

But this was a national effort that depended on American derring-do, sacrifice and treasure. It was a chapter in a space race between the United States and the Soviet Union that involved national prestige and the perceived worth of our respective economic and political systems. The Apollo program wasn't about the brotherhood of man, rather about achieving a national objective before a hated and feared adversary did.

The Soviets putting a satellite, Sputnik, into orbit first was a profound political and psychological shock. The U.S. felt it had to rise to the challenge. As Vice President Lyndon Johnson put it: "Failure to master space means being second best in every aspect, in the crucial arena of our Cold War world. In the eyes of the world first in space means first, period; second in space is second in everything."

The mission of Apollo 11 was, appropriately, soaked in American symbolism. The lunar module was called Eagle, and the command module Columbia. There had been some consideration to putting up a U.N. flag, but it was scotched - it would be an American flag and only an American flag.

The video of Armstrong and his partner Buzz Aldrin carefully working to set up the flag - fully extend it and sink the pole firmly enough in the lunar surface to stand - after their awe-inspiring journey hasn't lost any of its power.

There may be a crass commercial motive in the omission - the Chinese, whose market is so important to big films, might not like overt American patriotic fanfare. Neither does much of our cultural elite. They may prefer not to plant the flag - but the heroes of Apollo 11 had no such compunction.

Letter to the editor

50th anniversary CC event at ACHS moved to next year

Cross Country Alumni, This year the Anderson County Cross Country team had planned to celebrate our 50th season in the district. Sadly, rain not only moved the celebration to a home football game, but that game was moved to a Monday night.

Weather has certainly not been our friend in this, yet I feel great sadness that those who were looking forward to both the reunion with teammates and the celebration of our successes.

Thereby, I have made the executive decision to move our celebration to next year at the home Cross Country meet. I know it will no longer be the true 50th year that athletes competed for Garnett/Anderson County in this sport - but it will be the 50th anniversary of us fielding a full team and competing as a league school.

If there is anyone who would like to buy one of the programs documenting our history and does not want to wait until next year, please contact me at the high school and I'll gladly sell you one for $5. I also have 50 year t-shirts available for anyone who missed the first order.

Once again, my sincere apologies.

An Anderson County High School student is facing charges of murder in the second degree, reckless, after an incident earlier this month that ended in his father's death. Christopher P. Wottlin was charged with second degree murder late last week. He is accused of being responsible for an incident that occurred September 1 that resulted in law enforcement officers finding 52-year-old Robert Wottlin deceased as a result of a gunshot wound.

The November sales tax vote in Garnett whose main function will be to construct an expansion of the city library met its first public opposition Tuesday night when a small group of business people protested the broad expense for the library. Garnett pharmacist Mike Burns spoke on behalf of the group saying the planned expenditure for the library expansion was made before the city looked at other community needs, namely the need for a local recreation and health rehabilitation center.

fronted suspects entering her family's barn. According to the report from the Anderson County Sheriff's Office, Paula Walter of Welda was struck in the foot by one of three or four rounds fired at her by the suspects. According to Anderson County Undersheriff Jack Eden, a call came in around 2 a.m. concerning a house fire at the vacant house owned by John Walter located four miles west of Welda. Eden said an informant reported seeing three individuals in camouflage set the house on fire. John Walter had gone to the house fire leaving Paula at home when the suspects then went to their home and attempted to enter the barn.

Cost of city work will be billed to the merchants, he said.

The Championship Canning Team of Anderson County is composed of Mrs. Cora Atwater, Nema Snell, and Ethlyn Lunbeck. This team has been chosen by Professor Otis C. Hall, of the Kansas Agricultural College, to represent Anderson County at the championship war bread-making contest which is to be held at Wichita during the first week of the Wheat Show. It is said that every county intends to send along a party of enthusiasts to "root" for its own county team and Anderson County should not lag behind in this.

Old brass key found in local park

Boy, one never knows what they might find while metal detecting in a park.

For instance, I found this highly polished 4 1/4" long brass key early this spring metal detecting here locally.

Has anyone got an idea what this key may have been used for?

When I first looked at it, I thought it was some type of decorative device once attached to something, however upon closer examination it appears to have no evidence of ever being attached to anything.

Could it be possible that it is a church key or some special organizational key.

DIGGING UP THE PAST

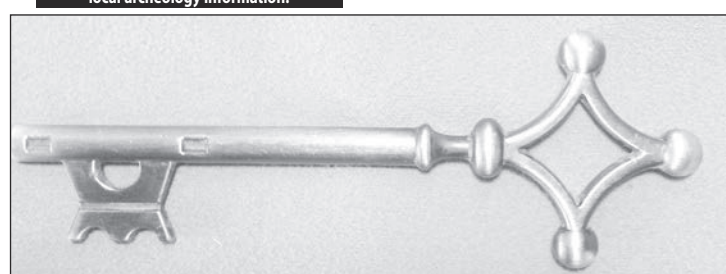

Call (785) 504-4722 for local archeology information.

How did such a large item end up getting lost in one of Garnett's city parks?

Who knows perhaps some day I will dig up the treasure chest it goes to!

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 9-11-18 / Dane Hicks

Ashley Lickeig and Marah Lutz of Anderson County go for the block in Saturday's tournament in Iola. In bracket play, Pittsburg and Labette County would both down the Bulldogs.

The Crest Lady Lancers volleyball team loses twice

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

Despite losing a pair of games last Thursday, September 6 to Northeast Arma and Liberal, Missouri, the Crest Lancers volleyball team is still 7-4 and will be looking to rebound this week.

Northeast Arma downed the Lady Lancers 11-25 and 18-25.

Senior Cassie Bowen lead the way with 4 kills, while fellow senior Camryn Strickler hit a perfect 100% on serving while recording a team high 6 digs.

"The girls were mentally and physically drained from the previous week and we did not have our usual drive and enthusiasm," Coach Abigail Hermreck stated following the disappointing defeat.

In the second game, the Lancers played with a little more life but still fell short in two sets, 21-25 and 24-26.

Bowen once again led with 5 kills while connecting on all of her serves in the match again.

Freshman Lindsey Godderz connected on all 4 of her serves with 2 aces and Anna Hermreck also had 100% serving in the game.

Regan Godderz, senior, led the way in scoring with 13 serves with one error (92%).

Lancers sweep 3 games in St. Paul

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

ST PAUL - The Crest Lady Lancers volleyball team downed SCC, Pleasanton and St. Paul in action last Tuesday night.

The trio of wins improved the Lancers record to 7-2 on the young season, which is just one win shy of last year's win total of 8 compared to 31 losses.

In the opening match against SCC, the Lancers battled back after losing the first set to win the match in 3 sets (20-25, 25-20, 25-22).

Regan Godderz served 16 points with 2 aces and 0 serving errors in the game.

Freshman Lindsey Godderz also had 100% serving for the match.

Cassie Bowen had 93% serving on 15 attempts, 2 aces and one error. She also added 8 kills and 3 blocks. Camryn Strickler led defensively with 12 digs and 2 blocks and also added 8 kills offensively.

Aubree Holloran led the way for the Lady Lancers with 9 kills.

Against Pleasanton, the Lancers also dropped the first set before battling back to once again win in three sets (21-25, 25-21, 27-25).

The freshman duo of L. Godderz (5 attempts, 1 ace) and Anna Hermreck (10 attempts, 1 ace) both connected on all their serves.

R. Godderz connected on 13 of 14 serves with 2 aces.

Strickler led with 7 kills and 3 blocks and Bowen also added 6 kills in the match.

Breyanna Benjamin lead the team in serve receive passing on the night, putting her fellow teammates in favorable offensive position throughout the evening.

The third and final game was once again a 3 set victory, but this time the Lancers dropped the middle set (25-17, 23-25, 25-18).

Jewel Armstrong connected on all 11 serves to lead the Lancers, including one ace.

Holloran connected on 14 of 15 serves, 3 aces and had 7 digs defensively.

Strickler hit 13 of 15 serves, 5 aces, 9 kills and 6 digs.

Bowen added 11 kills and 7 digs in addition to R. Godderz's 8 kills.

"It was a very intense night of volleyball. We scrapped and fought every match," Coach Abigail Hermreck said. I was very proud of Senior Camryn Strickler and her senior leadership on the court."

The Lancers have a large group of seniors they are relying on to carry this team, but the key to success could very well be the underclassmen stepping up and producing when needed.

"Freshman Lindsey Godderz and Anna Hermreck both served game winning points," Hermreck stated. "As freshman, they are building confidence thanks to the upperclassman and their leadership and encouragement. This group of girls will pull together in the tough times. There are some moments of frustration, but they are working together to overcome mistakes. We will continue to work on mental toughness and move forward."

Vikings cross country boys and girls both win at Lyndon

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

LYNDON - The Central Heights Vikings Cross Country season is finally off and running as both the girls and boys teams finished first overall.

Having been rained out last week, head coach Troy Prosser stated that his group of student athletes were hungry and ready to finally get a chance to compete.

"They are an incredible group of young people and a lot of fun to watch on a daily basis," Prosser stated.

Prosser added, "With 13 medalists and three individual champions in Junior Alex Cannady, Freshman Lily Meyer, and Sophomore Luke Cotter, we were able to get our legs under us before heading into the Wellsville meet next Thursday."

Cannady, junior, won first overall for the boys with a time of 19:34.

Juniors Tyler Stevenson (19:46) and Mason McCurry (20:42) with 6th and 7th respectively.

Bryce Sommer (20:57, 9th place) and Jarod Crawford (20:57, 10th place) are both seniors and found themselves in the top 10.

Sophomore David Craft (21:47, 17th place) rounds out the runners for the Vikings.

Freshman Lily Meyer won the varsity girl's meet with a time of 23:23.

Madison Bridges (26:13, 10th place), Taryn Compton (26:15, 11th place) and Cheyenne Higbie (27:15, 17th place) all finished in the top 20.

Rylee McCurry rounds out the runners with a time of 37:40 (43rd place).

In junior varsity action, sophomore Luke Cotter finished 1st with a time of 21:59. Lily Roll finished in 22nd overall with a time of 47:54.

Prosser is excited at how far the program has come in just the few short years he has been in charge.

"Both Varsity boys and girls teams winning the team titles is also something quite special. It's been many years since Central Heights has had a full high school girls squad and I am very proud of them for what they have accomplished in such a short time together," Prosser said.

Despite winning the state title last year and the early season success, Coach Prosser wants to make sure his athletes stay grounded and strive for more.

"The boys team is also doing a nice job and continuing to try and improve themselves every chance they get. Despite success, we found several areas that we really need to improve in as well. My hope is that the runners stay healthy and motivated since there is still a long season ahead of us," Prosser added.

The 7th grade boys had 3 athletes finish in the top 10 for both the boys and girls.

Conner Burkdoll (14:02, 2nd place), Owen Miller (15:07, 7th place) and Dakota Burnett (15:19, 8th place).

Jotham Meyer (16:13) finished just outside the top ten in 12th position.

In 7th grade girls action, Melaney Chrisjohn (15:28) finished in 2nd and Emme Cubit (15:29, 3rd place) and Kaylee Holstine (16:42, 4th place) also both finished inside the top 5.

Layla Roll (20:00, 12th place) was the final girl running for the Vikings.

Vikings lose 52-20 to Council Grove

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COUNCIL GROVE - The Central Heights Vikings football team fell behind 46-0 at halftime en route to a 52-20 loss on the road to the Council Grove Braves.

The win improved Council Grove to 1-1 and the loss dropped the Vikings to 0-2 on the young season.

Senior quarterback Dakota Beers connected on 15 of 35 passes for 232 yards, 2 touchdowns and 2 interceptions.

Both touchdowns thrown by Beers went to Mason Roberts. Roberts finished the night with 9 receptions for 158 yards and the two touchdowns.

Matt Cubit also had a good day receiving, pulling down 6 receptions for 74 yards on the night.

Beers also rushed 8 times for 38 yards and another touchdown.

Defensively, Roberts finished the night with 12 tackles. Colin Haynes accounted for 9 tackles, including 1.5 tackles for loss, and Hunter Bones added 8 stops.

Up next for the Vikings is a Friday game against the 0-2 Wabaunsee Chargers.

The Chargers lost opening night to Christ Prep Academy 41-0 and last week to Mission Valley, 40-14.

Presentation explores history of Native American college

Four Winds Chapter, NSDAR in Garnett, KS will host "Onward Haskell: The Making of an Indian Nations University," a presentation and discussion by Eric Anderson on Saturday, September 15, 2018 at 1:30 pm at the First Christian Church in Garnett, KS. Our community is invited to attend the free program. Seating is limited so please contact Donna Roberts, 913-271-4230 to reserve a seat or for more information. The program is made possible by Humanities Kansas

The United States Indian Industrial Training School welcomed its first 22 students to Lawrence in 1884. Now known as Haskell Indian Nations University, the school continues to educate American Indian and Alaska Native young people who move to Kansas from all over the country. This presentation explores the first tumultuous years of Haskell University and how early students persevered, some even using their experiences to agitate for positive change.

Eric Anderson is a historian and chair of the Indigenous and American Indian Studies department at Haskell Indian Nations University. His research focus has been on the early years of the university, including the history of assimilation of American Indian students and the reformers who fought for cultural sensitivity during that time. He is a member of the Citizen Potawatomi Nation.

"The story of American Indian boarding schools remains one that few people know outside of Native communities," said Anderson. "Haskell's long history as an educational outlet for Native American people, and the changes it has undergone, make it a compelling way of examining Indian-White relations, federal Indian policy, and the resilience of American Indian people."

"Onward Haskell: The Making of an Indian Nations University" is part of Humanities Kansas's Kansas Stories Speakers Bureau, featuring presentations and discussions that examine our shared human experience—our innovations, culture, heritage, and conflicts.

About Humanities Kansas

Randy Riebel gave the Communion Meditation on being common vs. being uncommon at the Sept. 2 service. We want to always follow God's commandments so we can be uncommon people. We don't want to be common people in this world. Pastor Chase Riebel gave the sermon titled "Week Zero! Confronting Our Doubt". Doubt is normal and everyone struggles with it. We may have intellectual doubt:

i.e. new earth vs. old earth, serpent and donkey talking, Noah's ark, etc. We may have emotional doubt: i.e. why do bad things happen, believed that God would do something but he didn't, etc. Faith is not the lack of doubt, but believing despite our doubt.

Men's Bible study will be Tuesday morning at 7 a.m. Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. will be a meal and prayer time at the parsonage, and then at 7 p.m. will be the adult Bible study at the parsonage, and youth Bible study in the church. Our current study is on "Evangelism". Everyone is welcome to join us! Beginning the week of August 9, we'll start up small groups. We will have four groups going at the same time so there will hopefully be a day of the week that will work for everyone (Sun, Tues, Wed and Thurs)

Cowboy Church

There was good attendance for the Labor Day Sep. 2 service at High Point Cowboy Church where thanksgiving was evident through the praise and worship in music led by Cindy Beckmon.

Jon Petty, apostle, spoke about God's promises for our lives, 2 Peter 1:1-4. God never goes back on His promise, therefore, as we get knowledge of Him, we can find a promise for every situation and circumstance, then willingly believe what God said and live for it.

There will be a time of fellowship following next Sunday's service and study of the book, "God is Good" by Bill Johnson, will take place after morning worship on subsequent Sundays. Thank you to everyone who stopped by our baked goods table a week ago.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 9-11-2018 / Photo Submitted

As the year begins, Greeley Kindergarten is "training" its way to learning. Students are experiencing all sorts of train trivia. A guest speaker, Dane Stiffer (former Greeley Kindergarten), shared his knowledge of trains and his electric train set with the class. On their first day, Kindergarten students had a staff train "tour," made "name trains," read train books, did simple math and phonics train pages, and designed their own model train. There's nothing like "starting off" on the right track! Pictured with their model train are (l to r): Brenton, Bryson, Ava, and Shelby. Greeley's Kindergarten class is taught by Mrs. Mary Cubit.
