Fourth generation resident to grand marshal parade

Bud Fraker's family
rubbed elbows with
John Brown, Quantrill

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Longtime local historian and former businessman Bud Fraker will be honored by the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce as Grand Marshal of the GACC's 48th Annual Christmas Parade on November 24.

Fraker

"The chamber would like to honor the dedication and love for the community that Bud has displayed over the years," said GACC director Kris Hix of the chamber board's selection.

Fraker, 92, was associated with Fraker Clothing Store on the west side of the Garnett square for 44 years, coming to work with his father, Ralph Fraker, when Bud returned from the U.S. Navy from World War II in 1946. Bud took over the business when Ralph died in 1977. Bud closed the store in 1990 when he was 65 and went to work for Beckman Motors for the next 27 years. He was married to Elsie Mae Cox for 66 years before she passed away in 2012.

A longtime chamber member and supporter, a charter member of the Garnett VFW Post and a 70-year member of the local American Legion, Fraker in 2017 was named the year's Outstanding Citizen by the Anderson County Historical Society. In 1938 he was a member of the first 8th grade graduating class of Longfellow Elementary School, where the county historical museum is now located.

Fraker's family traces its lineage to Anderson County's early settlement. His grandfather, Charles Holden Fraker, was six years old when he came to Anderson County with his parents in 1857. At age nine, he shook hands with John Brown as Brown was leaving Anderson County with a wagon of slaves headed to Canada along the Underground Railroad. He hid in a tree one

No injuries were reported in a house fire Friday afternoon at the home of Carl Maley on Ohio Road about a mile east of Garnett. Officials said Maley had returned to the home after a few hours away to find the home on fire. Heavy fire damage to the kitchen area was reported, but Anderson County Fire Chief Mick Brinkmeyer said the majority of the damage to the property was from smoke and water. As of Monday the incident was still under investigation by the Kansas Fire Marshal's office.

WANTED: Help for cleaner pastures

Meeting will examine options for Prescribed
Burning Association

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – State ag and forestry officials think teamwork among local farmers and landowners with pasture burning will guarantee better quality pasture and safer fires.

A Nov. 13 meeting in Garnett will discuss how a "Prescribed Burning Association" might address those goals in the local area, and help landowners burn pastures more often to eradicate weeds and invasive species, use less chemical treatments and have happier cattle.

The Garnett meeting is set for Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. at the Anderson County Community Building at the county fairgrounds. The meeting will be led by Jason Harmon, fire protection specialist with the Kansas Forest Service.

Kansas State University Extension Agent Rod Schaub said the idea came from a conversation he had with a local cattleman some time back.

"Tim Benton talked to me about the idea to keep native grasses native, you need to burn more," he said. "We see less burning every year.

Services for aging parents topic of free dinner, information event

Business, agency
initiative aimed to help families with decisions

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Local businesses and organizations that serve the elderly have set an informational dinner meeting November 8 for area residents with questions about services for the elderly available in the immediate area.

The information is free, and so is the chili and soup, from 6 p.m.-8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 8, at the Garnett Senior Center, 128 W. 5th, in Garnett.

SNAC (Senior Networking of Anderson County) is comprised of a number of local service providers with an aim of building awareness about local elderly services for family members and others when they find themselves in time of need.

Wilson said oftentimes family members can be thrust into the realm of dealing with an ailing elderly parent or family member suddenly, and they're unprepared and don't have adequate information to make

Little spooks will have lots to do locally on this "All Hallows Eve"

GARNETT – Halloween activities will abound in Anderson County Wednesday for goblins of all ages.

Local school parades and events will lead off the day. Garnett Elementary School will parade at 1 p.m. in downtown Garnett. Greeley Elementary's parade is 1:30 p.m., with Westphalia's spooks marching at 2 p.m. Crest Elementary will parade in the gymnasium at 2:15 p.m., and Central Heights' goblins will parade from 2 - 2:30 p.m.

In the evening, kids can trick or treat at the Garnett Rec Center from 5 p.m.-8 p.m. This event is sponsored by the Life Assembly of God Church and the Garnett Community Foundation. There will be free candy, inflatables and games.

The First Christian Church in Garnett will host "Light the Night," from 6 p.m.-8 p.m., a "trunk-or-treat" type event with free candy, hot dogs, hot chocolate and nachos. Event goers can vote for their favorite trunk.

The Friends of the Prairie Spirit Trail will once again host the Haunted Depot at the Santa Fe Depot in Garnett beginning at 5:30 p.m. with free hot dogs and treats. A magician will be on hand as well, and the event will last until the supplies run out.

Due to the increased amount of traffic in Garnett Wednesday night and heavier pedestrian traffic, Garnett Police Chief Kurt King reminds drivers to drive slowly around the area and be double weary for people and kids abruptly crossing streets or intersections. King said parents should to their utmost make sure their kids costumes are easy to see by including reflective tape or stickers on them and having their kids carry flashlights or glow sticks to improve their visibility. He encouraged the use of face paints instead of masks, since masks can inhibit vision, and be sure a costume fits property to avoid trips and falls.

"Children under the age of 12 should not be alone at night without adult supervision,"

BURNING...

People are afraid – it gets away from them, there are liability issues," he said. Schaub also noted smaller pasture sizes as plots are sold off for home sites mean even tougher-to-manage fire sites and closer proximity to structures, reducing the desire to burn even more.

"If you've got a 20 or a 40 (acres), it takes just about as much work to make a backfire there as it does on 120."

The mechanics of a Prescribed Burn Association vary slightly from organization to organization, but are usually formed as a group of local landowners or managers who form a partnership to handle prescribed burns at all their properties. They typically receive training from regional or state organizations on managed burns, and some even receive grant funding or donations from other agencies or organizations to cover some costs of training and equipment. With more help, training and resources, the hope is that landowners won't be as hesinight in 1863 while William Clarke Quantrell's men ransacked the family's cabin.

In the late 1860s, Charley Fraker drove a stagecoach from The Garnett House Hotel (former offices of Drs. Robert and Mildred Stevens at the southwest corner of Fourth Avenue and Walnut in Garnett) to Mineral Point, a few miles southwest of Harris.

Bud Fraker said being selected as Grand Marshal was quite exciting.

"I never dreamed I would be chosen," Fraker said. "It might not mean much to somebody else, but to me, it is an honor."

tant to burn their grasslands, and that will contribute to better control of invasive species and healthier pastures.

"It's sort of formalizing the way we've always done it," Harmon said, "neighbors helping neighbors."

Harmon said members typically pay some nominal dues to buy supplies or equipment at whatever level they choose, but the big commitment is in providing their time to make the association work for all the landowners involved.

"That's one of the things we want to go into at the meeting," Harmon said. "So it's clear to everyone what their level of commitment is going to be."

When everyone contributes, neighbors all get the advantage of knowing their land won't populate with nasty weeds because someone nearby let them grow unrestrained on adjacent land.

"Once we get away from burning, then we have all these brushier species coming in," Schaub said. "And then it's just a constant fight."

Answer the door, He is knocking

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

get it back. Each of us lives with our past.

In Isaiah 43:25; God speaks to the prophet about the impending destruction of Babylon when he says, "I, even I, am he who blots out your transgressions, for my own sake, and remember your sins no more." To me this is a comforting passage of scripture. God is saying even though you have sinned if you repent I will remember your sins no more.

There is a saying, "Time heals all wounds." I don't really believe that. Time just brings a new set of circumstances. If time passed has revealed anything to me it is the need to build a relationship with Jesus Christ.

Perhaps the most important thing we cannot get back is neglected opportunities. In Galatians 6:10; Paul says, "Therefore, as we have opportunity let us do good to all people especially to those who belong to the family of believers." It is easy for me to look back and see the opportunities I have missed. I believe God creates opportunities for us but we must seize them. We cannot give excuses to God. If God provides an opportunity for us he will provide what we need to complete that opportunity. Each of us has the opportunity to receive Jesus Christ as our Savior. In Revelation 3:20, Jesus provides us an opportunity. He says, "Here I stand! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with me."

I believe we need to add one more thing to the list of things that cannot come back. That is lost souls. Jesus makes this very clear in Luke 16, when he tells the rich man who has died that between the saved and the lost there is a great chasm that no one can cross. All that is required to avoid this awful place is to answer the knock of Jesus at the door. If you haven't done so today is the day.

#Metoo's Paul Davis dodge

While crazy protestors won't even let Republicans finish their salads in Washington, D.C., - area restaurants without bull-horning them out of their booths and out the front door, none of the ranks of the Lawrence, Ks., Social Justice Warrior nobility seem concerned about a Kansas congressional candidate who used to work for a guy that owned a strip bar.

The irony that Paul Davis, candidate in next week's race for 2nd District U.S. Congress, has completely escaped the #Metoo Movement's bitter comeuppance seems uncanny considering the nuclear eruptions that have felled so many others in the entertainment and political arenas. It makes one wonder if liberal protestors in Lawrence, who flare up over everything from gun laws to American flags to gender labeling, actually know what happens in a strip bar.

In the interests of debate and for those in the Lawrence SJW crowd who've been too busy getting their noses pierced or gazing catatonic at their cell phones to follow the Davis campaign, here's the deal: at a strip bar, boys pay girls money to dance and climb brass poles - and to sit on their laps - pretty much naked.

Well, they're probably not real brass poles - probably some kind of Rustoleum or something - but I digress...

It's commonly held by the feminist movement that while the strippers themselves are hapless victims in the world of sex workers, the real bad guys are the men who are their customers and the men who own the strip bars. In the world of pink hat wearing Women's Marchers it's okay to make money as a stripper, but if you're a customer or a strip bar owner profiting from the exploitation of women, you should be heeled and hided to a barn door for abusing and objectifying them.

Davis was working for an area law firm in 1998 that represented the owner of a Kansas strip bar. Hard telling what kind of legal help a strip bar owner might need, but anyway, when local law enforcement started thinking someone was dealing meth out of the place, Davis got caught by law officers with a stripper on his lap in what's called the VIP room.

Now, paying a stripper for a lap dance isn't illegal and representing her boss in court isn't either, and Davis was never connected to any drug activity. In his words, he was "in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Yep - especially if you want to run for public office once day.

In 1998 nobody had heard of the #metoo movement, and the abuse and exploitation of women wasn't nearly the cause celebre that it is today. But everyone had heard of the kind of trouble young girls can run into working at strip bars - drugs, stalkers, prostitutions, rough customers who expect more than a dance. The men who support the industry and the club owners who make money through exploiting sex workers have always been in feminists' crosshairs.

With that being the case, why no flaming opposition to Paul Davis' campaign for U.S. Congress by those valiant and boisterous supporters of the women's movement?

The answer obviously lies in Davis' political party, not his personal history. As a Democrat, and someone who stumped tirelessly for Barack Obama in 2008 and 2012, none of those liberal Lawrence loud mouths dare call him out. He is, strip bar and all, one of their own.

That fact might lead one to believe that it's politics, not these noble issues themselves, that really motivate this unhinged leftist movement.

It's a truth not even a G-string can hide.

If they could get the cops in this town to write tickets to people who have signs for political candidates, yard sales, and house for sale illegally posted in the city right of way, which blocks your view when you're at an intersection to make a turn especially, we could probably pay for that new city water plant with the fine money we could raise.

Am I to understand that the Anderson County Historical Society, a publicly-funded organization paid for with county tax money, allowed one political candidate to address its membership meeting but not the other candidate in the same race? That's pretty close to an endorsement by a public entity. Isn't that against the law? Who's supposed to be investigating this? Is anyone? Or do laws not really matter in Garnett?

Here's a shout out to the Central Heights boys cross country team for winning 1st in state 2A yesterday. Congratulations on a great season and on your amazing accomplishments.

Five city commissioners. That's just ridiculous.

Do you think Bill Self will be wearing Nikes soon?

State cabinet jobs will be focus after election

Well, the Statehouse is virtually empty now and probably will be until, say, Nov. 7, when the votes will have been counted and we'll know who gets the nice offices and won't have to drive with their parkas on because they will have slots in the relatively warm underground Capitol parking garage.

And whether Democrat Sen. Laura Kelly (who has reserved parking now) or Republican Secretary of State Kris Kobach (who has reserved-but outside-parking near his current office) wins the governorship, nearly everyone else in the building is wondering not just about parking, but jobs.

Because the governor names his/her own cabinet members, 11 jobs are immediately on the line as the new governor prepares to start work. Those agencies? Administration, Aging and Disabilities Service, Agriculture, Children and Families, Commerce, Corrections, Health and Environment, Labor, Revenue, Transportation and Wildlife/Parks/Tourism.

They're now Republicans, or at least acceptable to the current Republican Gov. Jeff Colyer. He did change out the Secretary of Children and Families from Gov. Sam Brownback appointee former Rep. Phyllis Gilmore to Gina Meier-Hummel, largely to deal with legislative angst toward Gilmore, but not much else changed at the Cabinet table when Colyer moved up to governor earlier this year.

But...it's clear the key agency leaders who carry out the governor's programs and attitudes for state services are going to change after the election. That's part of the reward that comes with being elected governor—choosing secretaries who will carry out their campaign promises and philosophies.

STATE COMMENTARY

And, yes, there is some anxiety among those current secretaries. Catch them in the Statehouse hallways, and they aren't talking about whether they plan to leave or retire. They generally look at their watches, and say they have an appointment or maybe lunch reservation and don't really have time to discuss what the gubernatorial candidates have talked about in terms of policy for their agencies.

Most are expecting Kobach to be able to keep some Cabinet secretaries, except for a couple agencies that his campaign managers have shown interest in—say, Rep. J.R. Claeys, R-Salina-for Transportation. Kobach isn't answering any questions about whom he'd hire.

For Kelly, well, it's not gotten specific yet, though look for some of her supporters to start queuing up for jobs if she is elected. Kelly is similarly quiet, though she said Kansans can expect a more "diverse" Cabinet if she is elected. And that's where she stops.

Orman? Well, he's quiet, also, though as an independent he'll have some friends who could wind up in his Cabinet...or maybe he'll have interested Kansans quiz out for the jobs.

Downstream from the Cabinet secretaries is their staff, and they have dozens of jobs within agencies that are unclassified, which means that they have no actual rights to their jobs and serve at the pleasure of their bosses. Look for scores of those jobs to change as secretaries surround themselves with like-minded employees who have widely varying amounts of authority over just how agencies provide or don't provide services to Kansans.

That vote on Nov. 6 for governor means that we'll have a general idea of who's going to run this state, his/her general philosophies and concerns and issues, but not a clue about who will interpret and implement those gubernatorial philosophies at street-level where most Kansans actually interact with the state.

Every candidate talks about efficiency, about performance, about serving Kansans better or more fairly, but once you get below the actual office of governor, you're in the "swamp." And whom the governor wants in that swamp and out of that swamp.

See how this one comes out, won't we...?

Why be all alone in a U.S.—Russia nuke treaty?

Is the INF Treaty so important that the Russians should be allowed to cheat on it without consequence?

That's the implication of the criticisms of President Donald Trump for saying that he's pulling out of the Cold War-era arms-control agreement. Mikhail Gorbachev deemed Trump's stated intention "unacceptable" and "very irresponsible," although it isn't the U.S. that has been flagrantly violating the treaty for years.

The Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty, signed in 1987, was a central achievement of the Reagan-Gorbachev diplomacy of the late 1980s. The Soviets had deployed intermediate-range SS-20 missiles that could hit NATO countries from bases in the Soviet Union. The U.S. countered by deploying its own intermediate-range missiles in Europe. At the same time, President Ronald Reagan proposed the "zero option" to eliminate such missiles from the arsenals of both countries. As he sought to save the doomed Soviet system, Gorbachev agreed.

The Russians have recently made obvious their contempt for Gorbachev's handiwork. The State Department has determined since 2014 that Russia is in violation of the treaty, via the 9M729 ground-launched cruise missile.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Tests of the noncompliant missile go back to 2008, and the Obama administration first told Congress of its concerns in 2011.

Supporters of the treaty say we should just pressure the Russians to comply rather than pull out. But when confronted with their cheating, the Russians simply deny it. Meetings of the Special Verification Commission, the treaty's mechanism for addressing compliance issues, have achieved nothing.

The Kremlin has remained unmoved, even though we have made it clear that we have them nailed. We have provided Russia the names of the companies involved in developing the missile and the coordinates of the locations of tests.

The Russians have persisted in it for the simple reason that it is in their interest. The former head of the Russian General Staff has commented that intermediate-range missiles would provide Moscow "national security assurance" - by threatening Poland, Romania and the Baltics, the missiles would "cool the heads of these states' leaders."

One thing that the U.S. and Russians can agree on is that it's senseless that they are the only two countries in the world that are notionally forbidden from possessing this category of weapon. "Nowadays," a Russian defense official complained in 2014, "almost 30 countries have such missiles in their arsenals."

China in particular is outdoing itself. The head of U.S. Pacific Command, Adm. Harry Harris, told Congress last year that the Chinese military "controls the largest and most diverse missile force in the world, with an inventory of more than 2,000 ballistic and cruise missiles. This fact is significant because the U.S. has no comparable capability due to our adherence to the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty with Russia." According to Harris, 95 percent of the Chinese missiles "would violate the INF if China was a signatory."

Given Russian cheating, the INF treaty as a practical matter only prohibits the U.S. from having such missiles. What sense is there in that? There's no reason to limit our capabilities and flexibility for the sake of an INF Treaty that doesn't even constrain its other signatory.

100 years ago: Government requiring that newspapers cut down the use of white paper

10 years ago...

A group of 12 to 15 parents came away from the USD 365 School Board meeting frustrated and insulted after the school board's attorney squelched discussion about the schools readiness in the wake of a death/suicide threat recently made on a district school bus. A threat was made by a student on a Richmond school bus route and the student had a "hit list" which had been compiled by that student. However, attorney Steve Doering let parents know that no information would be released about the incident.

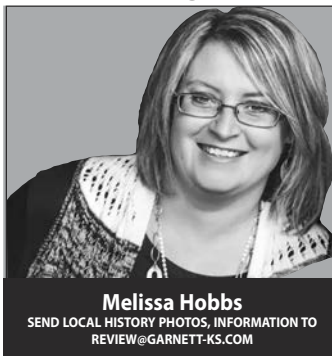

20 years ago...

The Board of Trustees at the Anderson County Hospital will press ahead with a bond issue campaign for a $3.8 million renovation project for the facility, and this week urged across-the-board support for the project from local governments and citizens in Anderson County. The project will expand and renovate the hospital's lab and x-ray departments, the emergency room, clinic area, physical therapy, and additional parking. It will also include a new entrance for the facility and some new equipment.

30 years ago...

Final enrollment figures from which state aid to USD 365 will be based were reviewed here by the board of education. Preliminary figures showed the district attendance to be at 1,011 students. However, this figure declined by 10 by the time the official attendance record was sent to the state in mid-September. Compared to last year's figures, the high school is down 25 students, Irving is up four students, Longfellow is down seven students, Westphalia is up 27 students, Greeley is down five students, and Mont Ida is down seven students.

Injuries to a young man, a broken windshield, and a cracked windshield constituted the only major incidents reported to the Garnett Police Department as a result of Halloween activities. A tire was rolled out into the street near the United Telephone office and was struck by a student from Westphalia, an egg was thrown onto the windshield at a parked car at the high school, and a hedge ball was thrown into the windshield of a truck. Pranksters also turned on a fire hydrant and caught several fire barrels on fire.

100 years ago...

The government very properly is requiring the newspapers to cut down in the use of white paper. Now if the government would enforce some such order on its own numerous departments! The waste of paper by these folks is absolutely unnecessary. Nearly every bureau has a publicity man to brag on what the bureau is doing. Nearly every administrator has a press agent. Not only do all these people use and waste good white paper, but they are grafting off the treasury of the government or its agencies for salaries and expenses which bring no good result. Every newspaper office is filled with this literature exploiting somebody or something and it ought to be stopped!

Anderson County Historical Society meets

The Anderson County Historical Society met on Thursday, October 4, 2018 at the museum for the monthly potluck dinner meeting.

Following the dinner, the meeting was called to order by President Kristie Kinney and she welcomed guests in attendance. Mark Powls introduced himself as candidate for Garnett City Commissioner.

Dorothy Miller read the minutes of the August 9, 2018 meeting held at the Mt. Ida Church of the Brethren Hall. A motion was made by Gayla Corley, seconded by Zella Teter to approve the minutes of August 9, 2018 as written. Motion passed.

Dorothy Miller read the minutes of the September 6, 2018 at the Lone Elm Community Building. Corrections to the minutes were to identify the names of the Danny Whitcomb, Andy Frye and Kathy Petrowski as presenting the program on the construction project at the Harris House. A motion was made by Richard Miller, seconded by Gayla Corley to approve the minutes as corrected. Motion passed.

Vice President Richard Miller reported on the museum door repairs. We have had four (4) leaks in museum. Two (2) leaks have been fixed. We still have a leak in the hall and at that south entrance in the conduit that needs repaired. Tom Wolken is preparing a quote to begin replacing our fluorescent light fixtures in the museum with LED lights. Richard also reported that there might be a possibility of acquiring a grant from Wolf Creek.

Kenny Kellstadt suggested providing copies of the minutes to members rather than reading the minutes at each meeting. Discussions were tabled until the next meeting when Secretary Ruth Lee Hastert was in attendance.

Gayla Corley provided the program on towns in Anderson County. Over the years there were 63 towns and post offices. Many postmasters had the post office in their homes. The county population has varied greatly over the years. Some of the years notes were: 1860 population was 2,398; 1878 population was 6,000; 1880 population was 9,039, and in 1882 the population was twice the size that it is currently with 26.6 people per square mile. In 1874 grasshoppers invaded the county. After a few years, the county began to prosper.

Emerald was settled by the Irish from North Ulster, Ireland. There was a church, cemetery and post office, but no town.

Mineral Point was not a town, but a settlement formed in 1855-1856. Eventually there was a store and a post office in the house built by Samuel Tipton. The home became a stage stop from Leavenworth through Hiatt and Cresco to Dodge City, KS. Eventually the town was named Mineral Point and later changed to Amiot. Amiot had a station on the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Dickey was a town along the Missouri Pacific Railroad. The town was changed to Harris in 1885. Wilbur Thomas was the teller at the bank when it was robbed.

Glenlock had a railroad station and was called Glendale. In 1850-1870 the Glenlock town company chartered the town of Glenlock.

Cresco no longer exists. It was stage stop between Hyatt and Mineral Point. The town was founded in May, 1857 and had the third post office in Anderson County. The town also had a blacksmith and a wagon shop.

Thomas was a settlement of German Catholics from Iowa on Thomas Creek, at Cornell station on the Missouri Pacific Railroad. The Fluesche brothers established the first store. In 1881, the town name was changed to Westphalia. Westphalia was named after Westphalia, Germany. Land sold for $2.50 to $3.50 per acre when settled. In 1966, the church was torn down and the current church was built. The town held hog shipping days. The first photograph of a tornado was near Westphalia. Early businesses included W.S. Mann & Co, hardware and furniture store and a funeral home.

Como was halfway between Colony and LeRoy and had a station on the Missouri Pacific Railroad. The post office was established in 1881 and closed in 1908. In 1910, the population was 37.

Jerome settlement began in 1855 and became a town in 1857 along the Pottawatomie River. A schoolhouse is all that remains of this town.

Kansas City was the first town in Anderson County and was located on the Iantha Creek was settled by Dr. Cooper in 1856. The name was later changed to Iantha. No post office was ever established.

Cherry Mound was located near Cherry Creek. The name was changed to Cherry Mound in 1878. A business in town was J.L. Kellerman's Dry Goods.

Oneida's town charter was filed in 1879. In 1881 the name changed to Mt. Ida because a town in Nemaha County had a town with the same name. A post office was established in 1882 and was closed in 1940.

Hyatt was settled in December, 1856 by 80 men who lived in tents the first winter. The town had a hotel, store and blacksmith. In 1857, Hyatt had a sawmill and later a gristmill. Hyatt was a rival with Garnett for the county seat. In 1859, Garnett became the county seat and the men abandoned the town.

Scipio settlers were from Scipio, Indiana. The post office was established in 1863 and closed in 1908. St. Boniface Church and Mount Carmel College were built near town. St. Boniface Church was the first church in Anderson County.

Canton was located on the east side of Highway 169 and was another rival for the county seat. It was abandoned after Garnett became the county seat.

Elba became a town in January, 1858 on paper only. It was named after Elba Island on the Mediterranean Sea.

Haskell was settled east of Bush City. A post office was established in 1884. In 1888, the town moved to the current location of Bush City.

Sugar Valley, or Sugarvale, had a post office established in 1879 and was closed in 1904.

Laura and Tribley were stations at the junction of the Kansas City & Pacific Railroad and the Missouri Pacific Railroad. Selma was on the opposite side of the tracks. Eventually Laura and Tribley became a part of Selma.

Ozark had a post office established in 1863. In 1888, the name was changed to Kincaid. The town was moved to where Kincaid is located now to be near the railroad. The Missouri, Kansas, Texas depot was located in Kincaid.

Elizabethtown was located 3 to 4 miles southeast of Colony. The town was named after Elizabeth Cook who operated a hotel. In 1858 the town was chartered. The post office was established in 1859 and closed in 1884. The town was vacated in 1889.

Divide was established in 1871 and the name was changed to Colony in 1872.

Welda Presbyterian Church was built in 1883 and burnt in 1913.

Garnett was a combination of four (4) towns. Troy was platted in 1857 in the southeast corner of Garnett. Mondovi, or Mondova was established in 1858 south of Garnett but was vacated by 1860. There were only three (3) log cabins built on the site. Shannon was one mile south of Garnett and was the county seat from 1856 to 1859. Shannon had a post office from 1855-1858 and was named after Governor Shannon. The town was located near the current Caldwell farm and they used the old jail for a corn crib for years. In the spring as people settled in Garnett, they outvoted the residents of Shannon and Garnett became the county seat. Garnett has a Mondovi Addition. The first building on the square was the jail. The first courthouse was on Oak Street. E.S. Hunt had a fish pond south of Garnett that was stocked with salmon and trout.

Greeley Complex was south of the present day Greeley, however the description doesn't put it there. Potawatomie City name was changed to Mt. Gilead and a post office was established there in 1862 and closed in 1866. The first settlers were Valentine Gerth and Henry Meyer. The town site of Mt. Gilead was on General Blunt's farm and he used the buildings for farm buildings. The towns of Mt. Gilead and Walker were abandoned due to lack of water. These were the earliest towns in Anderson County.

Pierce was incorporated by pro-slavery men and approved by the Governor on February 14, 1857. Pierce was located on the road to Allen County. Rich was another early town in Anderson County. Some other towns that had a post office included: Pleasant Valley, Reeder, Rochester, Fairview, and Liberty.

Searches don't always yield ancient artifacts

You just don't know what you're going to find next when you spend time conducting metal detecting surveys and excavations like I do.

Even though I've been working at an older site, I still found this somewhat modern tool.

How many of you actually know what it is and what it was used for?

If you're having trouble identifying it, please let me help you out a little.

I've already told you it is a tool and it's called a "Glass Cutter".

It is used to make a shallow score in one surface of a piece of glass that is to be broken in two pieces. The scoring makes a split in the surface of the glass which encourages the glass to break along the score.

Regular, annealed glass can be broken apart this way, but not tempered glass, as the latter tends to shatter rather than breaking cleanly into two pieces.

The "wheel cutter" like this one pictured here was developed way back in 1869 by Samuel Monce of Bristol, Connecticut, and remains to this day as the current standard tool for most glass cutting.

This particular brand is known as a "GREAT NECK". It shows a hardened steel cutting wheel, three notches for snapping different thicknesses of glass and a small ball on the end of the handle for tapping.

Viking boys are State Champions

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

The Central Heights boy's cross county team finished first at State for the first time since 1990 with 58 points, Stanton County High School finished in second with 86 points.

Tyler Stevenson (17:33, 8th place), Alex Cannady (17:46, 13th place), Caleb Meyer (18:02, 16th place) all finished inside the top 20 and earned medals at State.

Bryce Sommer (18:36, 33rd), Jarod Crawford (18:54, 47th), Luke Cotter (18:55, 48th) and Mason McCurry (19:34, 68th) all were integral parts of the Vikings improving on last year's 2nd place finish at State.

Hadley Splechter, Yates Center High School, won the individual gold with a time of 15:57.5.

On the girl's side, Lily Meyer (21:28, 14th) and Madison Bridges (21:36, 19th) both medaled in the first trip to State for a Lady Viking in over 20 years.

Taryn Compton (23:07, 42nd) closed out the season with a solid effort on the afternoon.

Helen Giefer, Tregon Community High School, won gold with a time of 19:30 finishing over 50 seconds ahead of the second place finisher.

Ellinwood, 102 points, edged out Trego Community, 110 points, for the State Championship as a team.

"The 2018 season is one that I will never forget and one for the record books as well. Simply put, these kids are, as a whole, the most incredible, fun, and dedicated group I've ever been around," head coach Troy Prosser stated.

Prosser added, "The season itself unfolded in a way that I had hoped for, but never could have predicted. The boys team finishing an undefeated 84-0 against competition that included several of the top teams in 3A, 4A, and even 5A is a good indicator of the quality of competitors and pride our program has. The number of medals and trophies won this season are staggering and having the boys ranked #1 and the girls ranked #10 in the final poll was proof that the Vikings are once again recognized across Kansas."

It was a year for the record books, but also a year that the Vikings hope to build on moving forward.

Prosser stated, "The crowning achievements have to be the first State Championship for the boys' team since 1990 (the third in program history) and a trio of girls who were Central Heights' first State Cross Country representatives in more than 20 years, and a middle school squad running faster times than their high school teammates did a few years ago. Tyler and Alex had been the dominant forces all season long taking turns leading the boys team, but Caleb came on strong over the past few weeks making his mark with a 17th place finish at Wamego. Bryce, Jarod, Luke, and Mason all made huge, necessary contributions to the win as well. Not only was Lily one of the top 2A runners the entire season, finishing it off with a 14th place finish at the championships, she also crushed the 5K school record in a time of 19:42 earlier in the season that will be difficult to top. Madison improved so much in her first season running cross country, growing from a timid runner to a top 20 individual State medalist, one has to wonder where she would be had she started a few years earlier. Taryn also put herself in position to find the podium in the near future after showing a lot of progress throughout the season and attacking the relentless hills on Wamego's course."

Coach Prosser is happy to regain the success of old and pays tribute to the coach that started it all.

"I don't know what else to say about this team that I haven't said already. We probably wouldn't be in the position we are in had John Schultze not started the program all those years ago and set the bar so high with that long stretch of dominance across the 80's and 90's. It is also quite incredible to be a part of the Flint Hills league who had five teams represented at the 2A and 3A State Championships between ourselves, 2A boys 3rd place Northern Heights, the Osage City boys and girls and the 6th place 3A girls from West Franklin. All in all, it's safe to say that it's a great day to be a Viking!" Prosser stated.

The week began with students tracing their foot onto paper, while reflecting on the steps they can take to create a world without bullying. Tuesday students recorded their thoughts on how to show respect on strips of paper that were to be linked all together. Wednesday was Hats Off to Kindness followed by Thursdays KINDNESS poetry writing. Friday wrapped up our Anti-Bullying week with Students and Staff proudly wearing school colors and signing the Anti-Bullying Pledge that is now displayed in our halls for all to see.

Kindergarten, first and second graders were amazed at the size of the Earth Balloon that was inflated in the school gym recently. This is the second year that all Greeley students enjoyed the gigantic replica of the Earth. They learned how the Earth Balloon was made and why it is designed the way it is. They went inside the balloon to see what Earth might look like from the inside and also learned about our planet's topography. The balloon display is sponsored by the Anderson Co. Conservation Commission.

Greeley Elementary Halloween bingo & raffle PTO fundraiser was well attended

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 10-30-218 / Photo Submitted
Greeley Elementary students and families enjoyed a night of Halloween-themed fun that included bingo, a photo booth, concession stand and a $1.00 raffle drawing. The PTO-sponsored event was well attended and was organized in place of the school's annual Halloween Carnival. Local businesses donated many items and supplies to help with the evening's success.
