THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 11-13-2018 / DANE HICKS

Marian Paroo (April Powls) and Harold Hill (Aaron Kubacka) share a moment together during the Anderson County High School drama and vocal departments' presentation of "The Music Man," presented last weekend at ACJSHS Auditorium.

Garnett voters pick Cole, opt for five commissioners

Colony approves sales tax, Garnett voters decide for Cole and in support of expanding city board

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - City voters gave an incumbent city commissioner another three-year term in last week's elections and gave commissioners a feeble thumbs up on a question to add two more commissioners to the city's governing body.

Mayor Jody Cole won her re-election bid against challenger Mark Powls by a vote of 664-351 in the city's four wards. Commissioners serve three-year terms with one annually. This was the first fall election in a city commission race since legislators moved former spring elections to fall cycles almost two years ago.

Fifty-three percent of voters approved an advisory ballot question to add two commissioners to the three-member city commission. The vote was 537-483. The proposition was initiated by commissioner Brigitte Brecheisen-Huss, who said a larger commission would afford better representation to city residents.

Cole

The measure passed in each of the city's four voting wards. Commissioners aren't bound by the voters' decision, but said they would give weight to the vote's outcome in making any eventual change.

Election outcomes show divisions between Kansas' urban, rural voters

Anderson County and most rural counties lean heavy red, but can't counter urban populations

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Democrat Laura Kelly won only 9 of Kansas' 105 counties in last Tuesday's election for governor, but it was enough to give her 48 percent of the vote and defeat Republican Kris Kobach (43 percent) in a referendum widely seen as dividing liberals and conservatives and urban from rural residents.

Kelly won Johnson, Douglas, Shawnee, Wyandotte, Harvey, Sedgwick, Riley, Crawford and Lyon counties, and totaled 489,337 votes (unofficial) to Kobach's 443,346. But without as many urban areas in the district, Democrats were unable to defeat Republican Steve Watkins in the 2nd District Congressional seat race. Watkins lost Shawnee and Douglas counties to challenger Paul Davis but won the rural remainder of the district's 25 counties to hold a final margin of 4,474 - 124,895 to 120,421.

Watkins

Anderson County voters, like the majority of rural counties, favored Kobach by a large margin. County voters also supported the full slate of Republicans in statewide races - incumbent Derek Schmidt as Attorney General, Scott Schwab as Secretary of State, Jake LaTurner as State Treasurer and Vickie Schmidt as Commissioner of Insurance - by margins of nearly or better than 2-1.

Anderson combined with Franklin and Miami County voters to elect newcomer Republican Mark Samsel in the 5th

All Star Gymnastics teaches fitness, confidence

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Katie Yoder's been involved in gymnastics and cheerleading since she was a tike, so when the family moved to Garnett last year and she discovered there was no gymnastics facility here - it seemed like an opportunity.

After months of preparation, All Star Gymnastics opened earlier this month at 511 South Oak.

The Littleton, Colo., native graduated from gymnastics to cheerleading and earned a cheer scholarship to Peru State College in Nebraska intending to earn her teaching certificate, but a shoulder injury scuttled her cheerleading activities - and subsequently her scholarship.

But the time in college put her in touch with a gymnastics coaching job in Fall City, which would be followed by a number of other coaching slots including the International Gymnastics Academy of the Rockies.

The Garnett project took a while to come together, Yoder said, not just in finding a suitable building, but also in that she and husband Glen were expecting their fifth child born in September. With a delivery on the horizon and lots of adaptations to make to the building they eventually found, the past year was a busy one.

"It took from November to June just to find the building," she said, "and from June until now to get it ready for classes."

Yoder teaches a style of gymnastics called "Artistic" gymnastics - the same style of competition seen in the Olympics - which consists of the events of vaults, uneven

Local Kansas State Univ. student receives 2018-19 Legacy Scholarships

More than 170 K-State legacies have been recognized with the K-State Alumni Association's Legacy Scholarship.

The $1,000 scholarships were awarded to 171 students who are children and grandchildren of K-State alumni for the 2018-19 academic year. K-State students receiving the scholarships are incoming freshmen as well as current and transfer students. The recipients include both in-state and out-of-state students. Applicants are considered if at least one parent or grandparent is a K-State alumnus, with preference given to members of the Alumni Association.

The scholarships are made possible through funds generated by the K-State License Plate program, administered by the Alumni Association for the university.

Locally Faith McClaskey, Garnett, was one of the 171 students awarded the Legacy Scholarship.

WITTMAN

SEPTEMBER 8, 1926 - NOVEMBER 10, 2018

Irene Wittman, age 92, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Saturday, November 10, 2018, at Parkview Heights Living Center, Garnett.

Wittman

She was born on September 8, 1926, at Scipio, Kansas. She was the sixth of ten children born to Francis and Gertrude (Hermreck) Kueser. She grew up in the Scipio area, where she attended the East Scipio Grade School. She then graduated from the Richmond High School with the class of 1944. Irene went on to live in Kansas City while she attended a secretarial school. She lived in Kansas City until moving to Garnett in the summer of 1946. On September 9, 1946 Irene married Raymond Wittman at the St. Boniface Catholic Church, Scipio. They were just shy of celebrating 70 years of marriage when Raymond passed away. He and Irene bought and moved to a farm northeast of Garnett in April 1948, where Raymond farmed and raised cattle and Irene was able to stay with the children and help with the farm. After the children were in school, Irene worked at Elliott's Dairy in Garnett for several years until its closing.

Irene was a faithful member of the Holy Angels Catholic Church and the Altar Society. She was also one of the volunteers to take Holy Communion to the nursing homes and hospital. She was an avid fan of the Kansas City Royals, keeping her own stats for many of the games. The unspoken rule of not interrupting a game was well understood by her family. She also enjoyed attending as many of her grandchildren's events as possible. Irene was an active volunteer for many area groups as well as taking friends and relatives to Doctor appointments. She loved to visit, and never met a stranger, this made Bingo one of her can't miss activities because she loved the game as well as getting to spend time with her friends. Throughout her life Irene was an active card player with a few area card clubs. Playing cards was also integral to many family get togethers. Irene always loved to keep cats around the farm and enjoyed watching their antics. Above all, her family was her greatest love and she will be remembered for her countless acts of love.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Raymond on August 20, 2016; her parents; two infant daughters, Ann and Joan; daughter, Elaine Marez and son-in-law, Johnny Marez; and six brothers and one sister.

Irene is survived by her six children, Gary Wittman Costa Mesa, California, Karen Valentine and husband Clark of Ottawa, Kansas, Alan Wittman and wife Lana of Garnett, Jeff Wittman and wife Trish of Garnett, Alice Wittman and David Gillaspie of Ottawa, and Rod Wittman and wife Kim of Garnett, Kansas; 16 grandchildren, Brandon Valentine, Sara Waxmonski, Philip and Vincent Marez, Amanda Wittman, Jeffrey, Tanner, and Tavia Wittman, Jacob, Nick, Nathan, Elizabeth, Miranda, and Adam Gillaspie and Colby and Rayleigh Wittman; and 18 great grandchildren; two sisters, Theresa Schermerhorn of Maryland and Marie Robertson and husband, Jerry of Richmond, Kansas; many nieces, nephews and friends.

Mass of Christian burial will be held at 10:30 AM, Wednesday, November 14, 2018, at Holy Angels Catholic Church, burial following at Holy Angels Cemetery, Garnett. The family will greet friends after a 7:00 PM rosary at the church on Tuesday evening. Memorial contributions may be made to Holy Angels Church or St. Rose School or W.I.N.G.S.

Mary "Joan" Harrington, age 85, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Monday, November 5, 2018, at Guest Home Estates, Garnett.

Harrington

She was born June 28, 1933 in Pratt, Kansas to Dwight E. and Fannie (Boyke) Williams. She graduated from Pratt High School in 1951.

Joan married her high school sweetheart, Maury Harrington on December 21, 1952, while Maury was in the Air Force. They lived in Manhattan, Kansas until Maury's graduation then moved to Cottonwood

HARRINGTON

JUNE 28, 1933 - NOVEMBER 5, 2018

Falls, Kansas for his internship before accepting a County Agent job in Garnett, Kansas.

Joan's hobbies were reading, collecting cookie jars, sewing, cooking and particularly baking. During her working years, Joan was employed at the Sale Barn, Neal's Pharmacy, Pizza Hut, Casey's, and as a lunch lady at the grade school. Her favorite activities were walking, working at the Garnett Public Library, the Thrift Shop and delivering Meals on Wheels. She was an active and dedicated member often volunteering at the First United Methodist Church. Joan was a volunteer for several years as a counselor at Rock Springs 4-H camp, along with her faithful bassett, Sadie.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Dwight and Fannie Williams; her husband, Maurice Harrington in 2003; and her brother, Larry Williams in 2017.

Joan is survived by two daughters, Cindy Foxx (Bryan) of Fort Scott, Kansas and Kathi Emling (Rusty) of Chanute, Kansas; two sons, Jay Harrington (Diane) of Garnett, Kansas and Brad Harrington of Burlington, Kansas. She has eleven grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

The family would like to thank all of the caregivers at Guest Home Estates, especially Sheila Wilson.

Funeral services were November 8, 2018, at the First United Methodist Church, Garnett.

We attended Land Judging at Mound City, taking 4th in intermediate division, and 3rd in senior division. Those who received medals were, Tucker Tush placing 9th as an intermediate, as well as Hailey Gillespie placing 6th and Daelynn Peine placing 5th both in the senior division.

This year's Dairy Cattle Evaluation was held at the Anderson County fairgrounds, with our intermediate team placing 1st, and seniors taking second. Lacey Ireland placed 2nd in intermediate contest taking home a 2nd place medal, not too far behind taking home a 6th place medal was Lane Palmer, helping their team with that first place plaque. Senior Dairy Cattle Evaluation team had three place in the top ten receiving a medal, Abby Reid placing 8th, Becky Kropf placing 5th, and Hailey Gillespie placing 4th.

Continuing with the trend, Anderson County rocked the Milk Quality and Products CDE at our state contest in May earning us a spot to compete at the 91st National FFA Convention and Expo representing the state of Kansas. The team of four consisted of Hailey Gillespie, Rayna Jasper, Makenzie Kueser, and Becky Kropf. With all the time and effort these girls put into practicing, it sure seemed to pay off placing 6th out of the forty teams that competed. Placing in the top ten and receiving a scholarship was Rayna Jasper, as she was also first in the CMT portion of the contest.

JOCO voters lethal, but limited

Johnson County showed its juggernaut electoral power in last week's mid-term elections, but the analysis of population and voter registration shows not only the strengths but also the weaknesses of rural-to-urban population shift.

There is perhaps no better illustration of rural out-migration than that revealed in the state of Kansas. The kids have been moving off the farms for nearly a century now – 1920 was the first year urban areas in the country ever out-populated rural areas and farm towns. Rural generations died, the kids moved to the cities to find jobs, and political clout shifted along the same path as population.

Kansas is a microcosm. Affluent, liberal Johnson County, just one of the state's 105 county jurisdictions – now boasts a population of 591,000 of the state's 2.91 million residents. That's 20 percent of the head count in less than 1 percent of the counties. In registered voters the impact is even more clear – 23 percent of total registered voters statewide.

In the furor that was the mid-term elections in Kansas, Johnson County registered an additional 25,641 voters between November 2017 and November 2018 – and nearly twice as many of the new registrants joined Democrats as Republicans to thwart conservative Kris Kobach.

The storm brewed up in those numbers was clear. Laura Kelly won only 9 of Kansas 105 counties, but defeated Kobach by some 46,000 votes – not coincidentally too far from the 43,000 margin Johnson Countians gave Kelly in their county alone.

As long as it was liberal and not white and male, JOCO voted for it. The county swung hard for kickboxing socialist Sharice Davids in the 3rd District Congressional race to give her a 6 percentage point margin over incumbent Republican Kevin Yoder. So fevered was JOCO against Republicans and white men that they even gave a narrow thumbs up to Lawrence lawyer Sarah Swain, who's office poster of Wonder Woman overpowering a police officer so freaked out Democrats that she basically had no campaign against Attorney General Derek Schmidt other than her name on the ballot.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

But it's clear that Johnson County's impact is limited. In the 2nd District Congressional race, 2D Republicans dragged Steve Watkins across the finish line by 4,400 votes, despite the best efforts of Douglas County Democrats and Watkins' own campaign foibles that alienated not just Paul Davis' voters but also Watkins' own party. But the race was out of reach of JOCO's clutches, as was every other congressional race and state representative race that didn't involve JOCO, Lawrence, Topeka or Wichita.

So, like the rural areas of the rest of the nation whose real estate shines red but who look disparagingly as urban centers boast wider realms of politically weighted blue, a decreasing margin of Kansas Republicans protect themselves in the representative and senate districts where they're out of reach of urban influence.

How long can that last? A few decades yet, maybe. There will probably come a time when Kansas' rural population is so sparse and its political districts so large that the power balance shifts demonstrably toward urban interests.

But by the same token, those mechanics also define the new battlegrounds of political influence in those coming decades, as Republicans seeking majorities fight harder to make their cases and present their messages to those urban voters and turn those swelling communities a little more pink.

Hey Dane, perhaps while you're prosecuting the woman that recanted her statement, you might want to throw Kavanaugh into the mix, as he has provided false testimony to Congress on more than one occasion. She was looking for five minutes of fame. Perhaps a judge ought to be held to a higher standard.

So the high school volleyball coach tries to get players to quit as she has her favorites regardless of talent. Then nothing but drama and many players quitting. Now she gets caught changing stats to make her faves look better. What a mess. Very immature. Reconsider your choice of coach.

St. Luke's being interested in the Iola hospital may be good news for Iola, but I'm very concerned what it means for patients who already go to the hospital at Garnett. What are we going to spilt off and send down to the Iola hospital that we used to have here? Will there be jobs transferred to Iola? Will we have to drive to Iola now for the things that used to be offered in Garnett? We the residents of Anderson County still own this hospital and it is only fair that we get to have a say in what happens if they go with the Iola hospital.

Letter to the editor

Kelly gets $306 million congratulations gift

How would you like to be elected governor of Kansas by about 46,000 votes on Tuesday and on Friday learn that you're going to have $306.4 million more to spend than you thought?

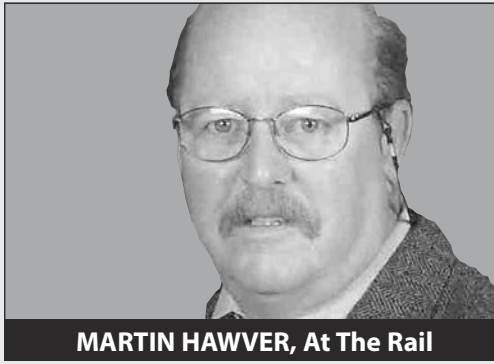

Doesn't get much better than that, does it? Well, that's exactly what has happened to Gov.-elect Laura Kelly, who by the way beat Republican Secretary of State Kris Kobach who pledged during his campaign to start cutting taxes quickly if elected.

Well, Kelly isn't talking tax cuts, she's talking investment in schools, expanding Medicaid and balancing the budget without new taxes—and that was before she heard about the $306 million windfall which the Consensus Revenue Estimating Group unveiled Friday. The CREG meets twice a year, in November and April, to predict upcoming state revenues. This might be an interesting four years ahead with a governor who wants to first take care of the state's responsibilities that have been avoided the past several years before talking about tax cuts. The new money is good, of course, but we're not yet constitutionally "adequate" on state aid to schools and are making little progress in restoring money that has been "swept" out of agency budgets for highway construction, pensions and such.

No, we're not looking for Kelly to start handing out tax cuts while she's waiting for her stationery and business cards to be printed up.

In fact, even before that $306 million windfall, Kelly was talking about waiting until next April's Consensus Revenue Estimate before giving much thought to tax cuts—after she's nailed down the spending necessary to restore state government duties.

STATE COMMENTARY

Part of that, of course, is her experience as a member of the Senate Ways and Means Committee—which makes the appropriations and cuts necessary to balance the budget. It's been more cuts than appropriations in the past few years, and she's made clear that restoration of services is first in line, ahead of tax cuts.

What's it mean? Well, from a Statehouse viewpoint, it probably means a rather complicated "State of the State" message when lawmakers come back to town in mid-January. She's a details person, likely to talk more about programs that need to be rebuilt or financed adequately than new programs that Republicans tend to spend a lot of time trying to think up catchy names (or acronyms) for.

Don't look for flash.

Now, remember that she's going to face an overwhelmingly Republican legislature that is probably going to be more interested in cutting taxes than rebuilding the state payroll of social workers and helping local school districts rebuild their staff of teachers and aides.

Key there is for the governor to convince those conservatives in the Legislature that the not-very-flashy care of the poor and ill and their children is the best way to improve the state before cutting taxes.

Tax cuts? They will probably start with the sales tax on food. It's a big deal for the poor who see the cost of a can of beans at 9% or 10% (depending on local sales taxes) more than the shelf price before they get it out of the store and into the kitchen. Oh, and it also means that those steaks and salmon are cheaper, too, but it's not an afford-it or not decision for more prosperous Kansans.

That $306 million? Well, it gives Kelly some negotiating room, enough spare cash to bargain a dab of tax cut in return for the social service, highway construction and health-care expenditures she'd like to make.

But all that new direction in state spending that Kelly proposes will ultimately be keyed off of the makeup of the Legislature, and whether that top-heavy Republican majority in both chambers is solid enough to pass veto-proof legislation.

We'll see. Check back in April...

America's shining cities beset by homelessness, squalor

It's appropriate that the U.N. special rapporteur devoted to adequate housing has visited encampments in Mexico City, Buenos Aires, Mumbai – and San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley.

The homeless situation in those cities and others around the country is positively Third World, a blight that shows the persistence of human folly and misery, despite what we take to be our steady progress to greater enlightenment and prosperity.

San Francisco is a crown jewel of the new economy, and a sink of vagrancy. One of the more compelling pieces of reportage that The New York Times has run recently was on the dirtiest block in San Francisco, the 300 block of Hyde Street, blighted by discarded heroin needles and other filth.

In the 21st century, in the richest country on the planet, you would think that we would have figured out how to live without having to step around human feces. The experience of San Francisco says that, against all expectations, we haven't – or at least we forgot how.

In an article for the journal National Affairs, Stephen Eide of the Manhattan Institute recounted how we got here over the past 50 years.

Cities wiped out or drastically diminished their skid rows, once a last-ditch housing recourse for men who had hit bottom. As urban renewal and regulations to improve the quality of housing eliminated these down-on-their-luck areas, the people who once lived there decamped to public places.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

We "deinstitutionalized" the mentally ill, too often a euphemism for dumping them onto the streets and into jails. About 20 to 30 percent of the homeless are mentally ill.

Meanwhile, the number of single-parent families drastically increased. Women only rarely lived on skid row, but poor families headed by single mothers are a large component of the homeless.

These large-scale trends have been met with a new, more permissive legal environment. The Supreme Court in 1972 made it more difficult for city police forces to hustle along vagrants, and subsequent free-speech jurisprudence has made outlawing panhandling tricky. Civil commitment of the mentally ill has become highly restricted. The American Civil Liberties Union is a great de facto friend of vagrancy.

Not that anything is easy in this area. The hard core of the homeless population is cut off from human relationships and finds the perverse freedom of the streets more appealing than the structure that would come with assistance. Many refuse help, either because they are too sick to make rational decisions or they don't want to deal with any rules.

...you would think that we would have figured out how to live without having to step around human feces.

But the beginning wisdom is to consider the status quo intolerable, and resist the advocates who want to normalize panhandling and camping, and the associated drug abuse, petty crime and disorder. Houston has had success with a tough-love policy of more services, coupled with a crackdown on encampments and other public nuisances.

One of the advantages of modern society is that people don't have to live in public, or in squalor. That it is widely accepted in some of our greatest cities is an outrage of our age. It is deeply harmful to our civic life, and does no favors for the men and women living in parks and highway underpasses.

—Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

Need help, or want to give help for Christmas?

Dear Editor of the Anderson County Review:

We wanted to take this opportunity to remind our Anderson County residents that assistance is available this holiday season through ECKAN and the "Spirit of Christmas" Committee. Applications for assistance as well as adoptions are located at the ECKAN office, 132 E. 5th Ave. in Garnett. Applications will be taken through Friday, November 16th, 2018.

Our community works well together through businesses, organizations, families and individuals to help make Christmas wonderful for all.

20 years ago: Fallen electrical line during construction of Country Mart threatens lives

10 years ago...

A Pittsburg man accused of setting fire to a home that took the life of a Colony man and his roommate has pled no contest to the charges of aggravated arson and first degree murder after more than two years of courtroom wrangling. Andrew Hummer Morris is facing charges stemming from a fire that took place in February 2006 that killed Waylon Boots, 23, of Colony, and Stephen J. Hayes, 21, of Peculiar, Mo.

A life-threatening accident gripped Fred Boyles and daughter Becky Hermreck of Boyles construction when an electrical wire fell on their bulldozer while working on the construction site of the new Country Mart store at the corner of Maple and K-31 Highway in Garnett. Boyles apparently caught the power line with the bucket of the bulldozer as he was driving.

lot for Craig Cole's uncontested race for Anderson County Attorney. The write-in effort focused on a local lawyer who's name seems to keep popping up in the discussion of the county attorney's office. Anderson County Clerk Arlene Patton said Bill Walker of Garnett received 78 write-in votes for the office, more than any other openly proposed name. Cole's unopposed bid for the position garnered 2,109 votes, some 62 percent of the 3,370 votes who turned out to the polls.

of a Cessna 182 in a field south of Garnett Airport. The plane belonged to Mid-America Sky Sports, and apparently lost power on its approach to land after releasing four skydivers. The Kansas War Industries Board has asked the industrial welfare commission to establish an 8-hour day and a minimum wage of $11 a week for experienced women workers in all the factories of the state. The industrial welfare commission already has established a maximum hour and a minimum wage for women employed in stores and hotels. The present recommendation is the most far reaching of any yet presented to the commission. Minor boys and girls employed in factories are to come under the same regulations as for women.

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

I either read or heard the following statement. "It is not the Christians job to clean the pond but to just fish." I have embraced this theology myself and it has had a profound effect on my understanding of my duty as a follower of Jesus Christ.

You might say what does this statement mean? I believe we can best see it illustrated in the life of Jesus. In Matthew 4:18 we read, "As Jesus was walking beside the Sea of Galilee he saw two brothers, Simon called Peter and his brother Andrew. They were casting a net into the lake, for they were fishermen." "Come follow me," Jesus said, "and I will make you fishers of men. At once they left their nets and followed him."

In Mark 10:17-22, Jesus is asked by a man, "what must I do to inherit eternal life?" Jesus tells the man, "You know the commandments: Do not murder, do not commit adultery, do not steal, do not give false testimony, do not defraud, honor your father and followed him."

"Teacher" he declared, "all these I have kept since I was a boy." Jesus looked at him and loved him. "One thing you lack," he said. "Go sell everything you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come follow me." At this the man's face fell. He went away sad, because he had great wealth.

If you are a child of God today it is because someone introduced you to the good news and you responded just as Peter and Andrew did. Your responsibility then becomes to introduce someone else to the gospel. You and I are not responsible for that person whether they accept or reject the gospel. We are however responsible to get God's word if that religion be true there is but one Savior, one inspired book, and one narrow path that leads to heaven. Such a religion is necessarily uncompromising."

The young man who went away sad didn't really have to ask Jesus what he must do to inherit eternal life. He wanted Jesus to compromise, after all he had kept the commandments. His heart was with his riches.

The words have been spoken. Now a choice must be made. It is a matter of the heart.

Ministry on the Holiness of God. Author of the book, "On the Other Side of the Door" Like David Bilderback on Facebook out. In 2nd Timothy 4:2 we read, "Preach the word, be prepared in season and out of season; with great patience and careful instruction."

We also have to be prepared when our efforts fail. In 1st Corinthians 1:18 the apostle says, "For the message of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God." The young man who asked Jesus what he must do to be saved made a choice just as Peter and Andrew made a choice. This is the key. Each one made a choice. If you don't decide that is still a choice. You did not choose to follow.

One of the very best definitions of Christianity I ever heard was made by Col. Robert Ingersoll. He meant this to be a critical statement. "Christianity cannot live in peace with any other form of faith,

Vintage Buffalo Bill ring found

What another funky ring? That may be your opinion, however, it's not really funky, but a rather nifty little ring, which brings back at lot of childhood memories.

Do any of you remember owning or wearing one of these rings when you were little?

Here's all the history about this little ring that I could find during my research.

Vintage Buffalo Bill JR. Adjustable children's premium Cereal Ring-Gold Toned 1939-1940's.

Rare 1955 Vintage Buffalo Bill JR. Adjustable Brass Ring TV Show Premium.

If the ring I found is from 1939-1940's ring, then I would have been 1-2 years old.

If it's a 1955 TV Premium Ring, then that's the year I graduated from the Garnett High School.

For me it's yet another neat little treasure find.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 11-13-2018 / Photo Submitted

The fifth and sixth graders at Greeley Elementary recently enjoyed the art of pie-making. The class, taught by volunteer, Chris Rockers, focused on making a double pie crust from scratch and using a pie filling inside. The students followed a step by step process with little assistance and learned many things along the way: the importance of following steps, using measurements, using baking utensils,

Winter Weather Awareness Day is November 15th

Winter Weather Awareness Day in Kansas will be Thursday, Nov. 15. That day would be an ideal time for Kansans to take stock of their emergency supplies and review their home emergency plan.

A home emergency supply kit should include enough non-perishable food and water for each person to survive for a minimum of seven days, a safe alternate heat source, blankets, flashlights and batteries, a battery-operated weather radio, essential medicines, and other items needed for health and comfort should the power go out.

Vehicles should be equipped with emergency kits, too, particularly if you are planning to travel long distances. These kits should include weather appropriate clothing; bottled water for everyone; nonperishable, high-energy snack items; flashlights and batteries; a battery-operated radio; blankets; a compact snow shovel; extra medications; signal flares and other emergency supplies to allow you to survive until help can arrive. It is also advisable to fill your gas tank before you start on a journey, check engine fluid levels and tire pressure, and make sure cell phones are fully charged.

Emergency plans and preparations should also include family pets. During winter storms, bring outdoor pets inside, if possible, or ensure that they have a draft-free enclosure with straw type bedding that is large enough to sit and lie down, but small enough to hold their body heat if they must remain outside. Always make sure that your pets have access to food and non-frozen water.

Gas prices continue to drop as Thanksgiving travel week approaches

Kansas tied for the fourth largest gas price decrease in the nation this week, with the average per-gallon price falling nine cents to $2.47. This is good news for motorists with the busy Thanksgiving holiday travel week approaching.

After experiencing gas prices 15 to 30 percent higher than last year throughout much of 2018, pump prices are now in the single digit percentages higher than 2017. For example, a year ago, the average Kansas gas price was $2.41, just two percent less than the current price. This week in Lawrence, the price is actually two percent less than a year ago at this time.

"Just in time for Thanksgiving holiday road trips, motorists have a lot to be thankful for at the fuel pumps," said AAA Kansas spokesman Shawn Steward. "This trend of lower gas prices has been ongoing for a month or so, and it is very welcome to the many Kansans who will be hitting the road to visit friends and family next week."

Steward noted that Kansas currently has the 12th cheapest gas prices in America. Wichita, at $2.35/gallon, checked in with the 26th lowest gas prices among metro areas nationwide this week.

Of the 10 Kansas cities regularly highlighted by AAA Kansas (see chart below), all saw significant price declines this week. Lawrence (-14 cents), Pittsburg (-12), Saina (-12) and Wichita (-12) experienced the biggest price drops.

According to AAA Kansas, this week's Kansas gas price extremes are the highest ($3.00) in Elkhart (Morton County) and the lowest ($2.23) in Maize (Sedgwick County).

National Perspective

State gas price averages are as much as 12-cents to a nickel cheaper a gallon on the week in more than two-thirds of the country. As demand drops and the end of refinery maintenance season wraps-up, the national gas price average is $2.70. That price is six cents less than last Monday, 21-cents less than last month and just 14-cents more than last year. In fact, the year-over-year price differential has not been this small since early January.

"Prices could plunge even lower, especially if we see a surge in gasoline production after refiners fully restart units from the fall maintenance season," said AAA Kansas' Steward. "Also driving down pump prices is the fact that crude oil is selling under $65/bbl, a rare sight this year."

As of Monday, November 12, 41 percent of gas stations nationwide are selling unleaded gasoline for $2.50 or less. In comparison, the majority of gas stations were selling gas for $2.51 or more at the start of summer during the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

Today's national gas price extremes would be Hawaii ($3.91) and Delaware ($2.35).

Great Lakes and Central States Trends

Gas prices in eight Great Lakes and Central states land on the top 10 list of states with the biggest changes, a handful with double-digit drops: Ohio (-12 cents), Michigan (-11 cents), Nebraska (-10 cents), Iowa (-10 cents), Indiana (-9 cents), Kansas (-9 cents), Missouri (-9 cents) and Kentucky (-9 cents). Gas prices are, at a minimum, a nickel cheaper in every state in the region on the week.

Only six states in the country have cheaper gas prices today as compared to a year ago. Five are Great Lakes and Central states: Illinois ($2.68), Michigan ($2.60), Indiana ($2.52), Iowa ($2.53) and Ohio ($2.40). With gas prices just pennies more than last year, these three states also might see the same trend soon: Missouri ($2.37), Nebraska ($2.58) and Wisconsin ($2.61).

The region saw a small draw of 856,000 bbl on the week, tightening gasoline stocks to a new low for the year. The last time the region saw stocks register at the 46 million bbl mark was during October 2017, according to Energy Information Administration (EIA) data. As refineries wrap-up maintenance season it is likely stocks will increase and drive prices potentially even cheaper amid declining demand.

What's your schpeel?

So you think you know your product, your service and your business.

Oh yeah? Then tell me about it.

"Well, uh, we sell carpet, and, well...uhhhm..."

Wow- you just got me so excited I thought it was my junior year prom night all over again.

Come on - if you're at a cocktail party or the golf course or your kids' soccer match - anywhere- and somebody you've just been introduced to says something like "now, what is it again that you do?" you should be locked and loaded with your 60-second schpeel.

They used to call it an "Elevator Speech" - the idea being that you condense a synopsis on your business to the point that you can deliver it start-to-finish to someone on an elevator as you ride between floors. They used to figure it should be no more than two minutes in length, but in these days of sound bytes and Internet impatience, two minutes seems long enough to grow your own turnips. Make it 30-45 seconds- one minute tops.

1) Define your schpeel from your customer's standpoint. Think of a time a customer praised you and remember why it was important to him/her. For instance, you didn't just do someone's hair at your salon; you made someone feel attractive and confident and noticed for the first time in years. Think about the sizzle, not the steak.

2) Put the "hook" up front. In the news biz we say 'don't bury the lead' and you shouldn't either. The strongest point of your business is... what? It should be first out of your mouth. My business is publishing, so do I sell ads? No, "I use everything from newspapers, social media, Google Ads and printed pencils to bring you an audience of customers."

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Publisher - THE TRADING POST

3) After the hook, throw in some history. Everyone knows Steve Jobs started Apple Computer in his folk's garage - how did your business start? People like a little trivia, so use it.

4) Who do you serve? What problem do you solve? What's your price range? Ever win an award?

5) Wrap it up by going back to the beginning and restate part of your hook, and finish up as you hand this person your business card.

Lastly, write this down. Hand write it, don't type it, and practice it with a friend or staff member. It may feel silly, but it will help you sell stuff.

about $8,000 annually for general city operations.

Mayor Melissa Hobbs said the un-earmarked referendum would provide a revenue boost for the city and wouldn't tap only city residents to foot the bill.

"It might not seem like much," Hobbs said, "but for a small town like Colony it can really help."

Colony had no existing sales tax, but still charged county sales tax of 1.5 percent and state sales tax of 6.5 percent. The measure goes into effect in January 2019.

steps however in learning each discipline, starting with initial skills and progressing through graduated levels of training. Kids can start from walking age on up in gymnastics and tumbling, with older age groupings up to age 18. Yoder said her plan is to field a competitive gymnastics team made of local athletes for the 2019-2020 season.

In addition to skills classes, All Star will also offer open gym times and event space for kids birthday parties complete with gym-related physical activities and games.

Yoder said the fitness and confidence aspects of gymnastics are immensely valuable to young girls.

"It's great of their agility, their flexibility, confidence and strength," Yoder said. "It's you versus yourself training your body."

Current hours are 3:45 p.m.-8 p.m. Tuesday. Through Thursday, Saturday 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., with Friday scheduled for open gym and parents night out events.

Lucky 13 4-H Club met in Oct.

On Sunday, October, 14, 2018, the Lucky 13 4-H club held their monthly meeting.

We were supposed to have a hayrack ride but we had to cancel it do the cold and rainy weather.

Instead we played jeopardy with two guests that work at the extension office, Ryan Schaub and Janae McNally.

We had hotdogs, chips, drinks, and s'mores after we played our game and had our meeting.

During this meeting we welcomed new members to our club. We would once again like to say welcome to Braxton Barnes, Collin Corley, Kimber Keith, Mya Lutz, and Sawyer Stevenson.

If there is anyone else out there that would like to join our club please come to our next meeting on November 12, 2018 at 7:00pm at the Lucky 13 4-H club in Glenloch!

DAR contest deadlines approaching

The Junior American Citizen Contest (JAC), American History Essay Contest, and the Christopher Columbus Essay Contests all come to a close on Friday, November 30th, 2018.

The winning entries from all of these three contests will move on to the Kansas state competition.

If you need more information for any of these contests, please do not hesitate to contact Connie Becker, of the Four Winds Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

There is still time to participate! The Four Winds Chapter welcomes all entries from any student PK -12th grade!

Please leave a message at 785-489-2449 or email her at csbrl1kts06@wildblue.net.

The students of this community have been honored by the local, state, south central division and the national society for the last five years. The chapter looks forward to honoring all the students who enter this year!

Local librarians attend workshops

Andrea Sobba of Garnett Public Library, and Jennifer Gun-Fowler of Kincaid Community Library attended the Southeast Kansas Library System (SEKLS) SEKnFind User's Group Meeting at the SEKLS headquarters in Iola, KS on November 2, 2018.

The meeting began with training on searching techniques for success on the SEKnFind library automation system.

The rest of the SEKnFind User's Group meeting was devoted to discussing consortium policies, best practices and upcoming software upgrades. SEKnFind is an online catalog, inventory control, and circulation system provided to libraries through grants from SEKLS, the State Library of Kansas, and the Library Services and Technology Act, funded through the Institute of Museum and Library Services.

Also, Nancy Amaya of Garnett Public Library attended the Southeast Kansas Library System (SEKLS) workshop, Sensory Storytimes for All at SEKLS headquarters in Iola on November 6, 2018.

As the number of children diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) continues to grow, libraries are adding a variety of programs to reach out to patrons with ASD.

Sensory Storytimes are a natural fit for this patron group. Simple variations on traditional storytimes which can have a profound impact were introduced.

Hands-on activities to create props and interactives and demonstrations of specific techniques were also an important part of the workshop. Sherry Norfolk was the presenter for the workshop.

PROFESSIONAL TRUCK DRIVERS

As the freight market fluctuates, your paycheck and miles shouldn't have to.

Some carriers are scrambling for freight to keep drivers moving. At Schneider, drivers keep rolling, racking up reliable paychecks made possible by year-round customer freight.

It's because of the great work our drivers do that shippers keep Schneider busy.

Don't get stuck in neutral. Make the smart move, and get your career in gear with the busy carrier: Schneider.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 11-13-2018 / Photo Submitted

Westphalia celebrates 1st ever Pride Assembly as the school year is off and running. Fast!! The first quarter of school has ended, November is quickly approaching, and then in a snap it will be Christmas! Time goes so fast! So, the Wonderful Westphalia School Staff decided to slow it down and celebrate the Wonderfully Wise Westphalia Wolverines at the inaugural Pride Assembly! The assembly recognized all the students hard work, dedication, and individual growth so far this year. Including, the A Honor Roll students and AB Honor Roll students. The reactions from the children receiving their first awards was priceless.

Beef Meeting to be held in Overbrook

"Options for Feeding the Cowherd" and "Livestock Thefts in Kansas" will be the topics covered at a beef meeting scheduled for November 27th, 7:00 p.m. at the Overbrook Livestock Commission Company, 305 West 1st Street, in Overbrook.

This summer's drought and the lateness of spring has left many producers short of hay for this winter's feeding period. The hay shortage coupled with droughty pasture conditions has led to more corn being cut for silage than any time in the recent past.

Thus questions have risen like, "What's the best way for me to feed my cows through the winter?" ; "Do I limit the time they can eat hay?" ; "Can I put them on grain?" ; and "How much silage should I feed?"

Jaymelynn Farney, KSU Beef Systems Specialist, will discuss these items and many more.

The second topic of the evening will be "Livestock Theft in Kansas." Kendal Lothman, Special Agent with the Kansas Attorney General's Office assigned to the Livestock and Brands Investigation Unit, will be on hand to discuss his role in livestock theft investigations.

He will explain how and when he becomes involved in an investigation. He will also described case trends like when most thefts are reported and if the case loads increase or decrease with the cattle market.

In addition, Special Agent Lothman will give producers ideas of what they can do to reduce the risk of cattle theft.

Time will be allotted at the end of the presentations for questions.

If you have questions or need more information about the meeting, please call Rod Schaub, Frontier District Extension Agent, at 785.828.4438 or by email to: rschaub@ksu.edu

Christian Church

The Communion Meditation was given Nov. 4 by Bruce Symes: How laundry relates to communion. We fold and organize our laundry, we must also organize and get our lives right for communion. Doing our laundry is cleansing for our cottons, in the same sense, we must examine ourselves to receive cleansing of our souls. We often have holes in our laundry and need to discard items, just like there are things in our lives that we must discard. We clean our laundry with detergent, just like we must cleanse our soul with the body and blood of Jesus.

Pastor Chase Riebel gave the sermon on Chapter 9 of the Believe series titled "Stewardship". God called man to reign over the animals to govern over the earth in Genesis 1:26-28. But we must always remember that God owns everything; He just allows us to manage things during our short time here on earth. We must be thankful for what we've been entrusted with, yet being the humans that we are, we still always want more. Psalm 24:1-2 reminds us that the Earth is the Lord's, and also everything in it. and Thursday nights. This will be the final week for small groups until January 2019. We will have a pre-game hangout for the middle school kids this week on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. This will be at the Community Church prior to the home basketball games. Food and Fun provided!

Cowboy Church

There was a record attendance Sunday at High Point Cowboy Church where a number of first-time guests were welcomed to the service. Leo Ramsey opened the service with announcements and the praise band ushered the crowd into God's presence through music and song.

Reading from John 15:1-8, Apostle Jon Petty stressed that abiding in Jesus is doing what He did; going on to Ephesians 2:8-10 he said believers have been pre-programmed for good works, or doing the same thing Jesus did.

Following the service a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

Northcott

Nov. 11-Fellowship and Board meeting; 15-Women of Faith at 6:30 p.m.; (dinner menu is turkey); 18-Shoe Boxes due; 22-Thanksgiving; Nov. 18-Benevolence Sunday; 25-Building Fund Sunday. They are privileged to labor together with Intersity Christian Fellowship, Urbana, Frank and Faith Brasel - Omega World Mission whose primary field of ministry are the Philippines and South Africa, specifically Kenya; Lowell and Judy Mason, Evangelism to America and Russia; LaHore Bible Institute, Trains Native Pastors; Widow's Mite Mission, Ministering to the Navajo Native Americans; and Kristan Hammond in Peru.

UMC

Scripture presented at the Nov. 4 United Methodist Church service was Psalm 146: 1-10, Ruth 1: 1-18, Hebrews 9: 11-14, Mark 12: 28-34 and Revelation 21:1-6. Pastor Dorothy Welch presented the sermon, "It's Time to Move the Tree."

4-H Bingo

Seekers Not Slackers had a Bingo Night Thursday Nov. 7 at 6:30 p.m. at the City Hall Community Room. They had a concession stand and have had it running for the past few months trying to earn some extra money for the club to offset some expenses.

They offer homemade baked goods and snacks for sale and next month (December they will be selling cups of soup) so if the community would like to come out for an evening of fun and homemade treats they would love their support.

The young people are a good addition to the Bingo crowd. So as the weather is getting cooler and people are looking for a fun place to go, join their Bingo Night. These activities help our young people with their community service activities and their food projects and record book achievements.

Lunch

A lunch for senior citizens will be held Nov. 16 at Crest High School at 12 p.m. Please phone the school 620-852-3521 to place your name if you plan to attend. The lunch is for Colony and Kincaid communities.
