Garnett aims to add new events to line-up

New events would boost tourism while programs training

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – City planners hope to add five new public events in Garnett over the next five years, part of a five-year community development plan recapped earlier this month for city commissioners.

Garnett Community Development Director Susan Wettstein reviewed the plan in a written report, detailing a number of event marketing and training programs aimed overall at building local tourism and boosting the city's public profile.

"The five-year goal is to increase the number of special events by one annually," Wettstein said in the report. She said a Fall Fam Fest that Mayor Jody Cole suggested last year will be held this year in conjunction with the Lake Garnett Grand Prix Revival weekend helping in 2019. There are other events that could make 2019 a big year for special events, Wettstein said, including a possible disc golf tournament.

Other portions of the plan, Wettstein reported:

Marketing and Promotion: We will be submitting a marketing grant through the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks and Tourism this year. The development of a promotional theme and quoting expenses for our proposal is in process.

Notable for 2018: Website visitorship in 2018 was 263,146. Average annual visitation to our website since inception is 242,437. Forty-eight percent of traffic to our website is through Facebook and 36% is Google driven, with the remaining a variety of search engines (like Bing, etc.).

Best Foot Forward: Increasing the level of hospitality and first impression appearance will be met with the continued push for employee participation by area businesses in the free, kansastourism.com hospitality training, and our participation in the First Impressions Program.

Infrastructure for Tourism

– We have asked the Electric Department to provide cost estimates on additional electricity within Lake Garnett Park. This includes costs for additional campsites, updating the sprint track with affordable lighting for night use of the track facility, and additional electric to accommodate special events. We are also researching for grants and opportunities to help restore the WPA project (dam and rock facilities surrounding Lake Garnett).

Training and Membership – New and only available in 2019, is free membership to Destination Development Association. The online access to tools and resources for community leaders, businesses and organizations needs to be utilized by everyone who cares about Garnett! www.destinationdevelopment.org

One new event organized by the Community Development Department and hosted by the City of Garnett is "Celebrating Community Champions and Everyday Heroes." This event

Fall retail sales in Garnett boost county

Taxes collected on November sales in Garnett shot up 55 percent over November 2017, boosting Anderson County's overall collections by nearly 38 percent over the same period.

Garnett's ½ cent sales tax generated $21,658 in Nov.

2017 but went up to $33,738 in December of this year. Anderson County's 1.5 percent tax on local sales generated $134,493 in December 2018, up from $98,294 the same month

Police shortage brings chief, commissioners to table in special meeting

King proposes PD shift from 8 to 7 men, spread payroll savings

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Garnett Police Chief Kurt King proposed a two-pronged initiative to city commissioners last week aimed at fixing a continuing inability to hire needed patrolmen at the Garnett Police Department.

But the solution may still be a ways off, as commissioners evaluate costs of salary increases and a separate, more lucrative retirement program and whether the city can afford one or both.

King met with commissioners in a special session prior to last week's regular city meeting and proposed both a revision to the GPD's retirement plan as well as an increase in officers' compensation package that would be more competitive as the department tries to woo officers from around the region to take up the badge in Garnett. The GPD has been down two officers for some six months, King said, and has been down one position for nearly two years.

King broached the idea that the department might adapt to a seven-man crew instead of its present eight-officer plan, and use salary allotted for the still vacant position to boost pay and benefits across the board.

The meeting followed a written report last fall which King sent to commissioners outlining his experiences trying to fill two ongoing vacancies on the department. In the report, noted the department had 21 applicants for the two posts, six of which were disqualified immediately due to a criminal history involving either a felony or domestic battery. King said seven applicants were sent background packets to continue the screening and evaluation process, but none of those were returned nor did those individuals return phone calls or emails to determine if they still had an interest in the jobs.

Officers in Garnett presently earn $15-$16 per hour, King told the Review in a September 2018 article.

Police staffing has become a problem for communities even larger than Garnett, as the economy and hiring picture has improved over the past year and higher paying, less dangerous professions have competed with law enforcement professions. He also said law officers had suffered from poor public relations in recent years with media focus on police-related shootings. He said a new initiative with different incentives have been overdue in Garnett.

"I presented information regarding the staffing challenges the department is facing, largely as a result of our uncompetitive compensation and benefits compared to other regional agencies," King said of his Tuesday meeting with commissioners and city manager Chris Weiner.

"I suggested one part of a two part, potential solution by switching from KPERS to the Kansas Police and Fire (KP&F) retirement system. Part two, would be to try and get a pay scale that is more competitive with the surrounding agencies in the area," he said.

King said the KP&F retirement system qualified officers for retirement after 20 years instead of 30 like KPERS, and has higher contributions for both the employer and the officer, so retirement "nest eggs" accumulate faster. King said most agencies in the region had adopted the KP&F program because of its added benefits and to help with recruitment and retention.

King said commissioners had requested additional information regarding his proposals.

To become a police officer in Kansas, applicants must first be hired by an agency like the Garnett Police Department or Anderson County Sheriff's Department. Qualifications include a high school diploma, at least 21 years of age, pass a drug test and a background check. Applicants can't have any felony charges or domestic charges.

After meeting those initial requirements and being hired by the department, officers are then sent to the Kansas Law Enforcement Training Academy for 14 weeks of paid training. Once the training at the academy is completed, there is another six to 14 weeks of field training that must be done depending on where the trainee will be working.

King says from start to finish, background check to completed training, it takes about one year to put a new officer on the street. He also says it costs his department roughly $80,000 including wages, benefits, training, uniforms, etc. to add a new deputy to the force. Some new recruits, King says, don't even stay on the force a year.

And where will we be?

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

There are many prophecies about Jesus in the Old Testament. In Isaiah 53:3 we read, "He was despised and rejected by men, a man of sorrows and familiar with suffering." I believe I can safely say all of us are acquainted with sorrow and grief. When someone close to us dies we feel the need to be comforted. Comfort can be found in many forms. We can busy ourselves, travel or meet new friends but when the light goes out and we are left with our head on the pillow are we at peace with ourselves?

I have two passages of scripture I turn to when I need to be comforted. The first is John 14:1-6. In this passage Jesus is comforting his disciples and Jesus says, "Do not let your hearts be troubled. Trust in God; trust also in me. In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so, I would have told you. I am going there to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you to be with me that you may be also where I am. You know the way to the place I am going." This is the first time there is any discussion of a personal return of Jesus for his own people.

Then in John 14:5, Thomas asks the question that the New Testament hinges on. "Lord we don't know where you are going, so how can we know the way?" These men had been at Jesus' side for three years. They had invested their lives in him and I am sure they felt very uncomfortable with this statement that Jesus was going away.

Jesus had brought them to this point specifically to reveal himself to them. Jesus answers Thomas, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me."

In 1st Thessalonians 4 Paul is speaking to the Thessalonians concerning some false doctrine that was different than the gospel message taught by Jesus and the disciples. In 4:16-18 the apostle confirms the return of Jesus when he says; "For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever."

So what is our hope, our comfort? When Jesus was crucified, died and was buried hope and comfort for the apostles seemed lost. But Paul says, "We don't have to grieve like the rest of men who have no hope." Jesus was resurrected and ascended into heaven. From that we take our hope and comfort that we too one day will either die and pass from this world to his home for us or we will be alive when he returns and we, "will be caught up together with those who have fallen asleep in him." And where will we be? We will be with the Lord forever.

Ministry on the Holiness of God.

Wind developers choke truth with gag orders

The wind may blow free, but the use of gag orders in lease agreements and easements that force property owners to keep their mouths shut about the realities they endure as sites for those giant wind turbines makes information flow anything but.

That's critical in this fat cat, tax-credit fueled industry which, more and more, depends on secrecy as much as it does a steady breeze. Wind farm developers like to point to thousands of lease holders at projects across the country and how few complaints they have about their gigantic neighbors, but they never mention the source of all that satisfaction – prosecution and financial ruination due to gag clauses in those signed leases and easement agreements. Indeed, where you can keep control of the smoke, there's no evidence of a fire. Keeping tight control of information and particularly criticism from eye-witnesses is allowing wind companies like those moving against targets in Linn and Neosho counties and other rural communities in Kansas to go about their business without interference from public regulatory authorities and other outsiders who want to chronicle precisely how much damage is being done by wind turbines. Silenced victims suffer for their property, their environment and their own health. But the gag orders that bind those lease holders are clear: Speak up, particularly to the media, and not only will your lease payments disappear but we'll sue you – and we'll still have a 55-story tall tower on your land which you can't stop us from operating.

Perhaps the most damning casualty of this secrecy is in the kibosh it has put to extended research on Wind Turbine Syndrome, a health condition identified among many people living near wind turbines and believed to be caused by light flicker from the moving blades, fluctuations in air pressure as those blades move past their base tower and low-frequency noise they produce. In her book "Wind Turbine Syndrome: A report on a natural experiment," Dr. Nina Pierpont conducted extensive clinical interviews with 10 families living near wind farm turbines both in the U.S. and abroad. The Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine-trained pediatrician discovered a striking uniformity of complaints from these families – migraine, motion sickness, vertigo, noise and visual and gastrointestinal sensitivity, and anxiety. Between the time of her interviews and the final publication of the book, nine of the ten families had fled their homes for residences away from wind farms, and a 10th who couldn't afford to move did extensive renovations to their house in an attempt to defeat the pressure and frequency issues, and had reduced air flow inside the home to the point it was now hard to heat.

A full-on epidemiological study however will probably never be done – one that correlates the common symptoms Pierpont identified and possible causes like setback from a turbine and what aspects of exposure to measure – because the bulk of the study subjects are all gagged.

"Better Plan Wisconsin" is a wind farm opposition organization in the Badger State which got hold of a wind farm lease from a farmer who'd had enough. The story is nearly identical state to state and lease to lease. Landowners who sign leases or easements can't discuss noise, vibration, shadow flicker or any disruptions the turbines might cause to their properties. The gag orders stop all discussion regarding the terms of the lease, or the construction or operation of the turbines, as well as speaking to reporters or to anyone in the media or issuing statements or press releases without the written permission of the wind company. Then there's this jewel:

Fair enough Mr. President. Pay the federal workers, and then let's get this national emergency declared so we can build the wall. Kate Steinle's family will thank you, Tessa Tranchant's family will thank you, Grant Ronnebeck's family will thank you, Drew Rosenberg – the list is in the thousands. Secure our citizenry, Mr. President.

When is the City of Kincaid going to fix the city streets? Potholes are getting bigger and more potholes every day. When is the council members going to actually do something other than just collecting their checks? Kincaid city has a dog that runs loose on main street all the time. That dog chases cars. What is going to happen when that dog tries to bite someone? Who is responsible for that dog?

To all three people in the Phone Forum, I know you're a bunch of Republican liars but let's get facts straight. Fifty-nine percent of the American people do not want the wall. Two, there's not gangs of people coming across the border and killing people, another lie. It just shows you how much you like to lie just like your leader.

By reading the paper I see the Republican Tea Party and Republicans are at it again – bald face liars. Available data showed overall crime rates are lower among immigrant groups than they are among native born Americans. The president's claim about drugs: the 2018 threat assessment from the DEA said large amounts of drugs entered the United States at the southwest border through legal points of entry which would not be addressed by law. Your little orange orangutan leader lies to you and you pass it along. Shame on you.

I have been wondering why when we have a government shutdown the Congress and Senate still get paid? I think if they didn't we would see more negotiations. It's just not right. Thanks.

$93 million new money for schools subject of debate

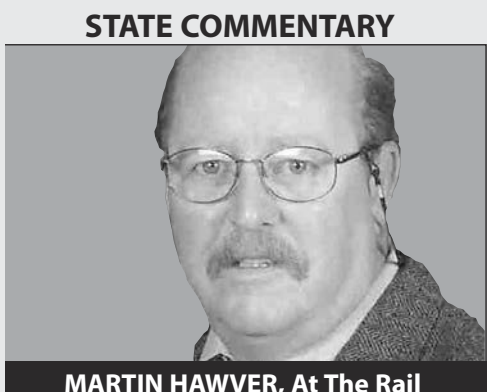

Brand new Gov. Laura Kelly has gotten one of her most politically red-hot issues introduced into the Legislature, printed out, and ready for the scrap over financing K-12 public schools in Kansas.

Her bill that she told (warned?) lawmakers about at her State of the State address pumps another $93 million into state aid for public schools, apparently the amount needed to get the Kansas Supreme Court grinning about adequate financing of public education.

And, now that those bills are printed up nicely, we'll see just how long it takes either the House or the Senate to start considering them. So far, it appears that legislative leaders want to make sure that the ink is good and dry before they start handling the bills.

Key to that Kelly initiative is that about $93 million has been penciled out as the amount of new spending for schools that the Supreme Court has determined to be adequate. It has a lot to do with past years' legislative action which didn't significantly increase funding, which didn't keep up with inflation. Inflation is a big deal when you're spending more than $5 billion a year to help finance local public schools. A percent or two, and you're talking real money.

Her bill puts in that $93 million in additional spending for schools this year, as the court wants. Don't go reading through the bill for a $93 million-line item. It's fairly obscure and deals with increasing the base state aid per pupil, and this year, as the court wants.

Now, the governor thinks paying the money, essentially settling more than two decades of school finance lawsuits, is smart. And it meshes with her aim to increase school funding.

The Legislature's Republican leadership generally takes three tracks. One is that it's the Legislature that decides how much money to spend, not the court; another is that legislators are spending a lot of their constituents' money on schools now, and the third is, of course, that lawmakers have other places to spend the money.

Oh, and while it's early in the session, Attorney General Derek Schmidt would like the Legislature to act quickly on the bill, because he's got an April 25 date to show the Supreme Court that the state has remedied the shortcomings of the school finance issue, and a May 9 date for oral arguments before the court to deliver the answer.

And time in the generally slow legislative process is important to Schmidt.

If he shows up with a new law that ponies up the money, that makes things easier. He could almost just ask for a receipt from the court and have time for a nice lunch on May 9. Maybe something that goes with wine...

Or, the Legislature could dunk Kelly's bill, just not passing it, cutting the amount of the new spending, or coming up with some new idea that lawmakers hope the court will buy.

That is also something that Schmidt would like to know as quickly as possible.

Because he represents the state, not just the Legislature, he's going to have to figure out how to explain what the Legislature did, why it did it, and why it will adequately finance schools. Oh, and there's always the chance the Legislature will come up with a plan that the governor vetoes. That makes the water a little deeper...

So, while we're watching taxes and voting rights and possibly expansion of Medicaid and all the other partisan scraps, you might want to spend a little time wondering about schools. You won't be alone...

Get over it haters – Trump isn't going anywhere

The walls supposedly are always closing in on Donald Trump. The end is always beginning.

He's going to quit. He's going to be impeached and removed. He's going to decide not to run again. Somehow or other, he's going to relieve everyone of the responsibility of ever thinking of him again, and especially of the responsibility of defeating him in an election.

Such scenarios are a constant topic in private conversations. The allure is obvious. It is the promise of deliverance. After tormenting his enemies for so long, Trump's going to make it easy for them. He's just going to go away.

It is true that the odds of Trump somehow not serving out his term are, given his erratic personality and the wild card of the Mueller investigation, higher than those for a normal president serving in normal times. But they are still slim.

Perhaps special counsel Robert Mueller's report will send a torpedo into Trump's bow. It seems more likely that a report will contain damaging and embarrassing revelations that, whatever the initial shock, will be quickly absorbed by the political system and especially Trump's supporters.

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

The velocity of the news cycle, driven in part by the sheer volume and pace of Trump controversies, works in his favor.

The resignation of Jim Mattis rocked Trump's administration to the core – for all of about 36 hours. And does anyone remember the revelation that talks over a Trump Tower project in Moscow went on longer than first realized? Probably not.

Why would Trump ever quit? This is a man who has fought and clawed for every ounce of public attention – good or bad – he can get throughout his adult life, and now, occupying the biggest bully pulpit on the planet, he's just going to walk away? Despite media reports that Trump is perpetually furious and feeling besieged, he has never shown the slightest brittleness or sense of being overwhelmed in public. He's always his same ebullient, combative, outrageous self.

He's the least likely president to get worn down by an impeachment fight. What would discourage or deflate the normal human energizes him.

The same applies even more to his running for re-election. After enduring several years of having to govern, not his natural aptitude, why would he throw away the opportunity to campaign, which he clearly relishes?

Because he'd be convinced he'd lose? Short of a Mueller catastrophe, this doesn't seem very likely. Remember: All sorts of people tried to convince him he'd lose last time, and they were all wrong. Having won the presidency once polling at a little over 40 percent in the RealClearPolitics average, he'd surely figure that he could do it again. For any president, winning a second term is the highest validation. Trump, so sensitive to status, must feel this imperative more than most.

Besides all this, no one should really hope for a premature end to the Trump presidency. Whatever the circumstances, it'd be a trauma to the republic and not accepted by a significant plurality of the electorate. The wish fulfillment of Trump's critics is better directed toward the less spectacular, yet difficult-enough task of beating him in 2020.

– Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

Found: 1948 Good Luck Penny

This is another Garnett, Kansas backyard token found during one of my many metal detector outings.

This token is a Vintage 1948-D salesman Good Luck Penny. When I dug it, it was partially enclosed in a badly crazed and cracked clear plastic encasement, which I removed at a later time.

In front this token reads: KEEP ME AND NEVER GO BROKE and a 4-leaf clover symbol.

The back reads: "S.A." CHEVROLET'S GOT IT! In the center of this token is a 1948-D Lincoln Wheat Cent (We often refer to as a Wheat Penny).

Do any of you remember what a 1948 Chevrolet looked like? How many models were there back then? Where was Garnett's Chevrolet dealership located and who was the owner? If anyone has the answers to these questions would you please contact me.

I can remember my parents owning a slick looking 1946 (Fleetwood, Fleetline, Fleet ???) Chevrolet Sedan. It was black (not many colors to choose from back then) with lots of chrome. I loved driving it when I was a junior/senior in high school (1954-1955).

I really must admit, I don't the year before. The November surge helped boost what had been sagging collection numbers year-to-date for both the city and county. The boost netted Anderson County a 3.3 percent increase to $642,879 as of the fiscal year-to-date which begins July. Garnett's prior 2018 heavier losses were trimmed to a 7.6 percent year-to-date decline to $132,709 from July-December this year.

cent to $1.04 million in collections through December 2018. Franklin County with 1.5 percent tax on sales was up 1.6 percent to $2.37 million for the year. Miami County's 1.5 percent tax generated $2.84 million. Coffey and Linn counties have no county sales tax.

Ottawa's 1.6 percent sales tax netted a 3.1 percent increase to $1.9 million year-to-date. Iola taxes 1 percent on city sales and was up 7.7 percent to $637,060 for the year so far.

The City of Kincaid's 1 percent tax yielded 53 percent less from year to year, down to $428.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 1-29-2019 / KEVIN GAINES

Anderson County's Damone Kueser looking for a teammate as Wellsville's Cole Swanson tries to cut off his dribble. Anderson County lost a heartbreaker in overtime 80-79 on Friday night. The Bulldogs tied the score at 69 with a three-pointer as time expired in regulation and appeared to be taking control as they led by as many as 6 in the overtime before Wellsville clawed back to hold off the Bulldogs. Anderson County did have one final look underneath the basket as time ran out, but the shot was just off the mark.

Vikings hold on for win

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

MOUND CITY - It took a pair of misses from the free throw line by Jayhawk-Linn with just 4.8 seconds left for the Central Heights Vikings to escape for a 42-41 victory.

Throughout the first half, Central Heights appeared to be well on their way to a double digit victory as they lead 16-13 after the first quarter and kept the game in their control with a 12-6 third quarter advantage to lead 28-19 at halftime.

Coming out of intermission, Jayhawk-Linn outscored the Vikings 13-10 in the third quarter to put them in position to make a comeback.

Offensively, the Vikings had to feel their was a lid on the basket in the fourth quarter as they were held to just 4 points but they were still leading 42-37 with 4:23 remaining in the game.

Little did anyone know, that would be the final basket the Vikings would score. Fortunately, Jayhawk-Linn was struggling as well. They would chip away over the final 4 minutes and get to within one-point, 42-41 and with just 4.8 seconds left Jayhawk-Linn was fouled and shooting two free throws for a chance at the win.

The basket was unkind to the host team though as they missed both free throws allowing the Vikings to hold on for the win.

Leading the way for Central Heights was Meyer with 10 points and Crawford with 8.

COLONY - Crest started off well at home jumping out to an early 14-11 lead on Homecoming night over Uniontown on Friday before needing a 4th quarter comeback to pull out a thrilling 51-45 victory.

Uniontown battled back over the second and third quarter, outscoring Crest 10-6 in the third and 15-11 in the third to jump out on top 36-31 heading into the fourth quarter.

Crest would light up the scoreboard with 20 points in the fourth quarter to rally for the thrilling Homecoming victory. Hayden Hermreck led the Lancers with 20 points, 11 rebounds and 2 steals.

Jacob Holloran chipped in with 13 points, 6 assists and 5 rebounds and Zack Beckmon added 11 points.

Bulldog girls swept in Top Gun Tourney

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WELLSVILLE - The Anderson County Bulldogs were 0-3 last week in the Top Gun Tournament as they lost to Baldwin, Wellsville and Spring Hill over a three day stretch.

Due to inclement weather, the annual tournament had to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday which would surely test the depth of all the teams involved.

The Lady Bulldogs had stretches where they played up to the level they would like to, but overall the results fell short.

In the opening round game on Thursday against Baldwin, Anderson County wound up on the wrong end of a lopsided 73-40 defeat.

Baldwin would score 17 points in each of the first two quarters to jump out to a 34-23 halftime advantage.

The third quarter would be all Baldwin as they doubled up the Bulldogs, 22-11, to open up an insurmountable 56-34 advantage.

Baldwin continued to be in control in the fourth quarter as well, holding a 17-8 advantage in the quarter to finish out the opening round game.

Kurtz led the way with 12 points, followed by Schmit with 10 points on the night.

Friday night was another sluggish first half before stabilizing things in the second half but weren't able to mount a comeback in a 64-46 loss to Louisburg.

Louisburg would put the clamps down defensively in the first, then explode offensively in the second to open up a 34-21 lead.

Louisburg limited the AC girls to 4 points in the first quarter to take an early 10-4 lead and then they erupted for 24 points in the second to continue to add to their advantage.

Anderson County came out of intermission and played more competitively, being outscored 28-25 in the second half.

Jasper had 15 points to pace the Bulldogs, followed by Foltz with 14 points.

In the seventh place game on Friday night, Spring Hill once again put the Bulldogs in a first half hole that they just couldn't dig themselves out of.

It was a tight first quarter as the Bulldogs faced just a 16-14 deficit after the first quarter but Spring Hill stretched their lead out to 8 at intermission with a 18-12 advantage in the second.

Spring Hill continued their steady approach in the second half adding 4 and 5 points to their lead in the 3rd and 4th quarters respectively.

Foltz once again led the way for the Lady Bulldogs with a game high 18 points.

Pair of Bulldog wrestlers finish 2nd at Fredonia

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

FREDONIA - Holli Miller (W-160) and Lane Freeman (145) led the way for the Anderson County Bulldogs at Fredonia on Saturday as they both finished 2nd. A pair of other Bulldog grapplers would also finish on the podium as Gavin Wolken (152) finished in 3rd place and Alessandra Colpani (W-120) finished in fourth.

Colpani, women's 120 weight class (W-120), placed 4th on Saturday. In Round 1, Colpani won by fall (3:03) over Daisy Emmerson of Fort Scott. In the second round Natalia Moreno of Spring Hill defeated Colpani by decision (10-3) to send Colpani to the consolation bracket. Colpani would rebound by winning her next three matches. The first against Arriana Gross (Fall 2:14) of McPherson, the next match was a 7-0 decision over Abigail Smith of Parsons and then in the semi's of the consolation round won by fall (1:49) over Grace Mundy of Burlingame. Unfortunately Colpani would not get an opportunity to fight for third as she was limited to 5 matches on the afternoon (KSHSAA rules) so Natalia Moreno of Spring Hill was given the victory in the 3rd place match, dropping Colpani to 4th on the afternoon.

Clarissa Sheahan (W-132) placed 5th on the afternoon. Sheahan opened up the afternoon with a win by major decision (14-6) over Neaveh Tauer of Spring Hill. In rounds 3 and 4, Sheahan would lose by fall to Kate Jennings (2:38) of Brooksville-Ell-Saline and Alyssa Veale (4:48) of Central of Burden High School. In the 5th and final round of the day, Sheahan won by fall over Brea

Brown (4:58) of Fort Scott.

Alina Eggers (W-138) began the afternoon with a bye before squaring off with Haley Schafer of McPherson and losing by fall (1:05). Once again, Eggers received another bye in the third round before dropping her fourth round match to Jordan Cardwell of Independence by fall (0:38).

Miller (W-160) placed second on the afternoon. Miller opened up losing to Jessi Bernal of Campus by fall (4:59) before rebounding with 3 straight victories by fall against Mallory Meade (1:24) of Spring Hill, fellow Anderson County Bulldog Elizabeth Comfort (1:23) and RaeAnna Rutherford of Coffeyville-Field Kindley (1:24). Mallory Meade of Spring Hill won by decision (12-5) in the fourth round before Comfort picked up her first win of the afternoon by fall over RaeAnna Rutherford (3:37) of Field Kindley.

Zane Pedrow (120) was 2-2 on the day. Pedrow dropped his first match against Elissia Martinez of Campus by fall (1:36). Next, Pedrow won by fall over Antony Wyatt (1:38) of Burlingame. Burlingame's Elijah Collins downed Pedrow by tech fall (16-0, 3:00) in the third round before Pedrow rebounded with a victory by fall over Erie High School's Wyatt Ford (1:54) in the final round.

Freeman (145) placed second on the afternoon for the Bulldogs. Freeman opened with a win by fall over Ethan Deopke (0:26) of Humboldt. Freeman won the next two matches by fall as well with wins over RJ Edwards (3:00) of Fredonia and Parker Smith (1:48) of Winfield. In the first place match, Matt Weilert of Fredonia won by fall (3:50) over Freeman.

Wolken (152) placed third, finishing the day 4-1. In the opening two rounds Wolken won by fall over Joe McGrath (3:40) of Rossville and Bo Tindle (3:42) of Fredonia. In the semi-finals, Luke Bowen of Campus defeated Wolken by tech fall (18-3, 3:32) before Wolken rebounded to win his final two matches. The first was an 8-1 decision over Braden Coon of Winfield and then in the 3rd place match Wolken won by forfeit over Grant Roush of Perry Lecompton.

Gabe Brown (152) finished the afternoon 1-2 after losing the opening round match to Grant Roush of Perry-Lecompton by fall (5:32). Brown won the second match against Taylor Brown of Flinthills by fall (0:46) before dropping his final match to Bo Tindle of Fredonia by decision (1-0).

Crest Education Foundation January meeting minutes

The Crest Education Foundation met on January 17, 2019, at the Colony Community Room. Officers Candace Powell, Chrissy Powell, Laura Schmidt and Casey Cook were present. Denise King was absent. There were no guests in attendance.

An update on the Read 2 Lead Christmas Book Drive was given by Candace Powell. CEF would like to thank the community for their support of this project. Special thanks goes out to Crest School, GSSB-Colony and LNB-Kincaid for hosting Book Trees and collecting donations for us. It was agreed to purchase more books with CEF funds, not to exceed $800. A total of 191 books will be donated to the Crest Library.

Laura Schmidt gave an update on the Auburn Pharmacy Caps to Cash program. Four collection boxes have been placed throughout the district. Locations are GSSB-Colony, Hi Point Cafe and Convenience-Colony, Kincaid School/City Hall-Kincaid, and Cricket's Bar & Grill-Kincaid. Thank you to those businesses for partnering with us to help Crest. We ask that community members with Auburn Pharmacy prescriptions to save the caps and place them in one of the collection sites listed above. CEF will then return the caps to Auburn Pharmacy and earn 25 cents per cap!

The CEF Strategic Plan was once again discussed. Board members are to report to the next meeting with both short and long term goals that they would like to accomplish. We will continue to fund raise to help meet our goals to benefit both Crest staff and students. The next few months will be busy, as we plan to re-introduce Lancer Decals (first made available at our Colony Day booth) in February, bring back the You've Been Flocked fundraiser in March, and host our second annual Co-Ed Softball Tournament in late April. Stay tuned for more details as each event nears.

The next meeting will be Thursday, February 7, 2019, at 6:00pm in the Colony Community Room. Any and all Crest patrons are welcomed to attend.

Garnett hosts special event "Celebrating Community Champions and Everyday Heroes" - February 20

The City of Garnett announces a special event to be held on Wednesday, February 20, 2019, at 6 p.m. in the Anderson County High School Commons Area and Auditorium.

"Celebrating Community Champions and Everyday Heroes" will begin with a reception including complimentary refreshments in the high school commons area, followed by a program at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

What is a Community Champion or Everyday Hero? Essentially, individuals who are non-paid, active volunteers. This celebration will recognize and honor all members of advisory boards and show appreciation to those who volunteer with recreation programs, library and other capacities for the City of Garnett. Also included in this event will be the recognition of civic service by community organizations and individuals who give of themselves, their time and skills selflessly to make Garnett a better place to live, work and play. While all champions and everyday heroes are invited, everyone in Garnett and the surrounding area are strongly encouraged to attend this event to see what it is about.

There are many reasons this event is taking place:

- Bring together those individuals and groups that champion community activities and causes to network, and perhaps work together on projects;
- To help everyone in the local area gain a better understanding of the role of city advisory boards and civic organizations;
- Provide an opportunity for citizens to learn how to get involved if they so choose;

To engage the public in learning how their community participation can directly relate to tourism, bringing visitors and new residents to the area, add value to the quality of life amenities (i.e., indoor/outdoor recreation and healthy lifestyles), foster entrepreneurship, create new businesses and job opportunities, revitalize business districts, beautify neighborhoods, improve transportation infrastructure, stimulate housing development and improvement, and directly influence a sense of pride in the community.

The City will be releasing updates and information on "Celebrating Community Champions and Everyday Heroes" in local newspapers, by email (eblasts), on a landing page on the official SimplyGarnett.com website, and through social media outlets (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram).

My kingdom for an idea

I know the feeling. Sometimes you know you need to do something to bump up sales, but you just don't have any ideas. Ideas – they really are golden.

There's a cure for the inspiration drought, but as the old adage goes, you have to dig your well before you're thirsty.

1) You know I'm a proponent of being involved in your professional or industry associations. Go to the annual conventions or district gatherings or however it is that your group is organized. Go to the instructional sessions, hang out with your contemporaries and talk shop. If you don't feel like you got much out of it, say so and make your suggestions at the end when they pass out that survey to ask about your impression of the convention.

2) Make yourself a "Swipe File" – a folder or a drawer in your desk you dedicate to samples of other people's ideas that you see through newspaper ads, direct mail pieces, table tents at the local restaurant, etc. Once you start stocking your file you'll be able to review its contents every now and then and get a sense of the timing of promotions, ads and ideas that will work in your operation.

3) You probably have a camera on your phone. If an idea is too big to steal a sample for your Swipe File – say, a billboard, a sidewalk chalking, a wrap on a vehicle or somebody's cool tattoo – take a picture of it. If it's a tattoo, you probably should ask first.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks

4) Hit up your vendors. Tell them you're in need of an idea. Of course they want you to stock your shelves with their wares, but they typically have seen what their other customers have done in the past that has worked, and what has failed. As long as you keep in mind what your interests, budget and objectives are, you don't have to worry about being hijacked by a vendor.

Keep those idea generators rolling on an ongoing basis, and you're never run dry of ideas that will help you sell stuff!

"This section shall survive the termination of expiration of this lease," meaning the gag order survives forever, even after the lease is terminated. Under the threat of litigation, you are gagged for life.

Still, impoverished county leaders and farmers embrace the promise of lease payments and payments in lieu of taxes (Kansas wind farms are exempt from property taxes, unlike other power plants), ignoring the deafening silence coming from those signed to the lease agreements.

Yes, silence is golden. That's just how the wind companies want it.

Chronicling local history for more than 150 years.

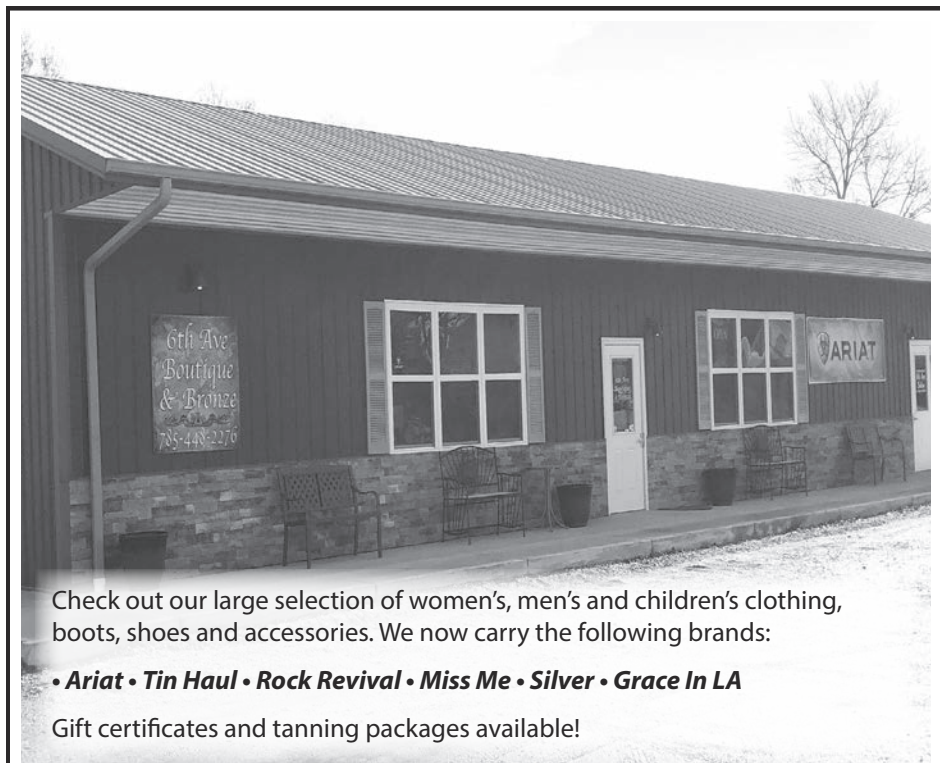

Founded in 1865 as The Garnett Plaindealer, the Review continues today as the oldest surviving business in Anderson County.

In 2009 parent company Garnett Publishing, Inc., and owners Dane and Barbara Hicks purchased The Trading Post, a free shopper circulated in the Lawrence area and founded in 1977 by Phil and Joy Hunsinger. Besides print publications, Garnett Publishing, Inc., also launched Garnett's first website in 1995 and today continues its electronic news presence with the Review's breaking news Facebook page. The company remains one of the area's premier printers, having won numerous awards for graphic design and offering a full range of business and personal printing in four color and black and white.

Wolken Tire was purchased by Jack & Patty Rundle in August of 1994. They have 3 children ages 21, 19 and 15. “We love the community and look forward to many more years serving Anderson County.”

August 2019 will be Jack’s 25th Anniversary with Wolken Tire.

Most all of 2015 we dedicated to the renovation of the outside and inside of our building at 601 S. Oak. Our showroom no longer looks like “A Dusty Ol’ Tire Shop”. We have exposed the beautiful rock, the maple flooring from upstairs now covers one wall, there are new windows, etc. You’ll enjoy your visit.

In 2018 We built a building which added the addition of 2 more bays. We also purchased another lift to be able to perform oil changes on a more timely basis.

There were two hardware stores on the south side of the Garnett Square, Meyers Hardware & Hutchison Hardware. Ralph Meyers bought out Hutchison Hardware and combined the two into Meyers Hardware.

In the 1960's Ray Miles bought out Ralph Meyers and in 1974 Earl & Martha Miller bought the business from Ray Miles.

Earl and Martha built Miller ACE Hardware in its current location in 1978. Mike and Amy Blaufuss, the current owners, bought the business in 2009 and renamed it Miller Hardware.

They now offer Stihl Power Equipment and Gates Hydraulic Assemblies.
