City steering committee draws groans even before it begins

Plan for community-wide planning gets cool reception

BY WILL MECHING THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – City manager Chris Weiner's concept of a city "steering committee" to do master planning for the community with participation from its various organizational stakeholders is having a hard time getting off the ground. Initially only three applicants have been received to serve on the committee, and a local resident who formerly sought an appointment to fill a city commission vacancy openly criticizing Weiner's parameters for committee membership.

Weiner broached the idea of the steering committee soon after arriving in Garnett two years ago, and the concept has been embraced by commissioner Jody Cole in a number of public comments. The City originally proposed the committee be comprised of 15 members with a hired consultant as a facilitator to provide an objective view and to remove existing prejudice from deliberation. Under Weiner's plan, ten of the members would be targeted individuals solicited by the city due to their positioning in pertinent sectors of the community such as business, education, or healthcare, with the remaining five members being selected from a pool of applicants. He said the composition of the committee was integral to its success.

"I think that the steering committee makeup itself is extremely important," he said. "I know there is discussion about opening it up to people just in general, but I personally feel that it is important to try to target specific individuals for at least some of those seats."

Weiner listed several positions, including representatives from the city commission, city planning commission, USD 365, as well as community members like nurses and teachers that could offer insight to the committee on community needs and bring the professional knowledge to assess various issues.

But Garnett resident Paula Scott, who unsuccessfully sought an appointment to a city vacancy in 2016, held a much different view. She suggested that the city had insufficiently publicized the proposed steering committee and took issue with the fact that community stakeholders might be given more sway on the steering committee than other residents.

"The steering committee shouldn't be concerned with the content, they're concerned with the logistics, so you're kind of giving people the message that they're not qualified or they'll come up with ideas that aren't good," Scott said. Scott added that people do not need to have a high income or lots of education to know the quality of life they desire. "I think it's disrespectful, I think it's arrogant, to assume that these people aren't qualified to know what they want

Woman who embezzled grandmother, church gets district court sentence

Judge gives McSwane 18 months probation and some $23,000 in fines/restitution

BY DANE HICKS

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The woman who bilked a local church out of thousands of dollars beginning late last year and faked a cancer diagnosis as part of the scheme to keep her grandmother from discovering her own missing funds was sentenced to 18 months probation and some $23,000 in fines and restitution on Monday in Anderson County District Court.

Judge Eric Godderz suspended jail time associated with Jennifer McSwane's guilty pleas, and told her she would remain on probation and subject to various probationary terms until the restitution was paid. McSwane pled guilty to two counts of forgery and a count of felony theft, all non-person felonies, in connection with a string of theft incidents which began in December.

A probable cause affidavit from the Garnett Police Department upon which her arrest was based said McSwane began forging checks from Garnett's Life Assembly of God Church, where her grandmother was a bookkeeper, in mid December last year and continued through late January 2019. Some checks were written for as much as $3,000. Church officials caught onto the scam when a check written to the City of Garnett for church utilities bounced.

McSwane was identified on bank ATM video as well as handwriting on the checks in question, using the scheme to deposit checks written to her grandmother, Pamela McSwane, and then using her grandmother's ATM card to withdraw the funds. McSwane also intercepted numer-

Local projects that are part of the plan include an 8.7 mile reconstruction of U.S. 169/59 from 1.5 miles south of Welda to the 169/59 junction roundabout south of Garnett. The other is a bridge replacement project of a bridge on K-31 2.09 miles east of the U.S. 59 junction, as well as 6.8 miles of guardrail upgrades on U.S. 59 from the Garnett city limits to the Franklin County line.

The approval of the STIP amendment requires a public comment period, which concludes July 3. To make comments on the amendment, contact KDOT's Bureau of Program and

In John 4 we read about Jesus and the woman at the well. Jesus had left Judea and headed to Galilee. In doing so Jesus walked through Samaria. Samaria had become the capital city of the Northern Kingdom when the ten tribes split after Solomon's death. The Northern Kingdom was comprised of eight tribes and the Southern Kingdom with its capital in Jerusalem consisted of two tribes.

The Northern Kingdom had been taken into captivity by the Assyrians in 722 B. C. Many of the Jews were deported to Assyria and the ones that were left in Samaria inter-married with the foreigners left by the Assyrians which had resulted in a mixed race of people. The Jews in the Southern Kingdom considered themselves pure and would not travel through Samaria.

Jesus sat down at Jacob's well to rest and a woman came to draw water. We read it was about the sixth hour, which was noon. This was not the typical time most of the women went to the well. Most went in the cool of the early morning or in late evening.

This woman went out at noon to avoid meeting the other women. Jesus asks her, "Will you give me a drink?" The woman recognizing him as a Jew responds with, "You are a Jew and I am a Samaritan woman. How can you ask me for a drink?" Jesus then engages her in a discussion. He says, "Everyone who drinks this water will be thirsty again, but whoever drinks the water I give him will never thirst."

The woman said to Jesus, "Sir give me this water so that I won't get thirsty and have to keep coming here to draw water."

The woman misunderstood what Jesus met by living water. She believed if she received the water she would not have to return to the well daily which would make her life easier. She was willing to follow Jesus but for the wrong reason.

Jesus was referring to the living water referenced in Revelation 22: 1-2,17. "Then the angel showed me (John the Apostle) the river of the water of life as clear as a crystal flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb down the middle of the great street of the city. The Spirit and the bride say, "Come!" And let him who hears say, "Come!" Whoever is thirsty, let him come; and whoever wishes, let him take the free gift of the water of life."

Jesus was trying to get the woman to understand the difference between a physical desire and a spiritual thirst. We can never quench our eternal spiritual need by satisfying a physical desire.

Seriousness missing from domestic cases

GUEST COMMENTARY

STEVE HAYNES, Haynes Publishing Co.

We on the editorial page are more at home commenting on events in the Legislature than on the fields of sport. Today's subject is not our usual, but it is troubling. The language is rough, the background worse. If you're looking for something cheerful, go elsewhere. This is not for the faint of heart, or for kids.

We're talking about domestic violence here, what people used to refer to a "wife beating," only sometimes it gets a lot worse.

There's a crusade against domestic violence and abuse of all kinds today, violence against women, against children, physical abuse, sexual abuse.

But, apparently, if you play football – or sometimes another sport – especially well, you can always get a job in the National Football League.

The Kansas City Chiefs, at least, seem to think that's OK. It seems like they keep hiring the same guy all the time. They hired Tyreek Hill, even though he'd admitted beating and trying to strangle his then-girlfriend Crystal Espinal, while she was pregnant in 2014. That was while he was playing at Oklahoma State. Hill was kicked off the football team, but that didn't keep him out of the NFL.

Supposedly, he'd turned over a new leaf. But earlier this year, the couple's 3-year-old boy turned up with a broken arm. Both Hill and Espinal denied any knowledge of how that happened, and it looked like the case would be closed, until a recording made at an airport in Dubai turned up in the hands of a Kansas City television station, KCTV-5. Comments here are as reported in The Kansas City Star:

"Why does he say, 'Daddy did it?' Espinal asked Hill on the recording. "A 3-year-old is not going to lie about what happened to his arm.... He's terrified of you."

"You need to be terrified of me, too, dumb b---," Hill replies.

Hill, through his lawyer, denied he was the abuser. He claims it was the mother who hurt the child. Everything is her fault. We have to agree with one thing he said, though. She should be terrified of the man.

What can you say about a guy who talks about someone he loves, and lives with, that way? He has no respect for women, it's clear. Or children, even his own.

So, now he's suspended (again) and barred from team property. At roughly the same time, the Chiefs were introducing their newest star, Frank Clark, whom they traded their first-round draft pick to Seattle for. He's a heck of a pass rusher.

But, ah, he's had a few problems. Says he's changed. Lord knows, the Chief need help. Their defense was awful last year.

So, Clark got kicked off the football team at Michigan over a domestic violence case, but still made it to the NFL. He got in trouble in Seattle when he called out a woman reporter.

Everyone deserves a second chance, we suppose, or a third, but then again, the whole thing is too familiar.

Before Hill, the Chiefs had Kareem Hunt. He was released after a video surfaced showing him kicking and beating a woman. Hunt is a great running back. Now, he's with the Cleveland Browns.

Pro football says it won't tolerate domestic violence ... unless, apparently, you're really good.

This stuff happens all the time, and not just in football: it happens here, in Oberlin, in Colby, in all our towns. Domestic violence tends to get covered up, though. Until someone really gets hurt, someone gets killed.

Then, everybody wonders what happened. Isn't it about time we, as a society, stopped turning away from wife beating, child beating, wife killing, child killing?

We need to arrest abusers, put them in jail before someone is killed, let everyone know why. Instead of probation, maybe we need to start sending more abusers to prison.

Instead of big contracts, maybe these abusive football stars ought to be looking for treatment. Another job. A new life.

But it won't happen until we demand it. So let's. -Steve Haynes

It looks like Brigitte has taken over city hall. She has gotten one of the other commissioners to go against his earlier choice to leave the three member board as is. Now the two of them have chosen to go against the city manager and city attorney's advice not to have mail ins, making no sense. I would like to share some advice that my dad gave me as a kid: You can not learn anything with your mouth open. I took that to mean listen to people who have more experience than you before you make a fool of yourself. Taxpayers, get ready to buckle up.

I see the city street crews have been out painting marks on Park Road. They need to draw a big arrow out to the highway and another one down to the county line and just redo the who dang thing.

This message is for whoever the person is that blasts the area around the post office with very, very loud music. I have endured this several years and my patience is running out. I am asking politely but urgently please cease and desist, if that's not possible please lower the decibel level by two-thirds so it does not penetrate every corner of my house. Thank you.

Who ever stole my large flower pot from my back yard – you are welcome to it, if your last starts with "L." If not, could you please bring it back?

Hey hey! Kudos to the teenage group known as "Fake ID." You guys and gals were great Saturday night. Please play more often.

Rural areas to get more attention from Kansas

STATE COMMENTARY

MARTIN HAWVER, At The Rail

There's a place where the constitutional protection of free speech bumps up against polite or at least orderly conduct that is now in the process of being sorted out in a federal court in Topeka.

The issue is that American Civil Liberties Union lawsuit against the folks who manage the Statehouse and just what is permitted and not permitted inside its halls where lawmakers consider issues ranging from expanding Medicaid to Kansans and, well, to whether you can ride your all-terrain vehicle across a federal highway.

That's a broad range of topics, and there are different levels of emotion by supporters on the issues. But the federal district court case appears to be more narrowly focused on signs in the Statehouse and whether the four 10-foot by 24-foot banners urging expansion of Medicaid in Kansas are a little too big, and whether just an 8-1/2-inch by 11-inch piece of paper with a message on it is too small.

The 1st Amendment doesn't talk about sizes. It talks about freedom to express one's opinions. Haven't found the American yet who opposes freedom of speech; just how that speech is delivered.

The issue gets complicated in the Statehouse, a grand and well-preserved historic governmental headquarters for Kansans that deserves protection. Can't think of anyone except maybe maintenance contractors who want people to express their opinions by nailing signs on the walls of the Statehouse. Carrying signs? That's a pretty good way to express one's opinions, especially in the building where state law is created.

The banners incident which fostered the lawsuit? Three Kansas State University students unfurled banners in the Statehouse rotunda blasting legislative leaders (Senate President Susan Wagle, R-Wichita, House Speaker Ron Ryckman, R-Olathe, Senate Majority Leader Jim Denning, R-Overland Park, and House Majority Leader Dan Hawkins, R-Wichita) for stymieing passage of a bill law that would expand KanCare for poor Kansans. "Blood on their hands" was the key phrase on the banners. That's a politically ingenious way to draw the issue, with a catchy phrase that got the protesters and their opinions on television, in the newspapers and probably all over the Internet.

But the banners were removed from the Statehouse rotunda by state workers because they didn't meet Statehouse rules for such signage. Too big. No official approval for the size or placement of the banners, and, well, they were disruptive.

It fell a dab short of the shouting "fire" in a theater, but it was disruptive.

And while there's a 1st Amendment and the need for an orderly and safe operation of the Statehouse, there's something in the middle. Conservative legislative leaders would rather not see signs, and certainly not banners, in the Statehouse. The ACLU? It's apparently willing to settle for something considerably smaller than the banners, but large enough that they can, if phrased catchily, still express a clear statement of opinion that lawmakers can read from a few feet away, or maybe even across the rotunda.

The other recent free-speech issues? Singing from the Senate balcony? Ordering reporters off the Senate floor (and threatening to revoke their Senate press credentials) after they've gotten their photos and quotes from protesters? A little more difficult, and probably something that will be settled not in court, but by legislative leadership which dreams up the rules for conduct in its chambers.

What's next? We're thinking back to those airport frames, the ones that determine whether you can carry on a bag or have to have it checked into the baggage cart. Something like "if your sign fits through this frame (unfolded), you can carry it into the Statehouse."

Free speech? Yes, just a dab smaller...

The climate trap for 2020 Democrats

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

The more the climate debate changes, the more it stays the same.

Polls show that the public is worried about climate change, but that doesn't mean it is ready to bear any burden or pay any price to combat it.

If President Donald Trump claws his way to victory again in Pennsylvania and the Upper Midwest, his path will likely go through abortion and climate change, two issues on which the Democrats are most confident in their righteousness and willing to embrace radical policies that appeal to their own voters much more than anyone else.

Joe Biden, the relative moderate, is subject to these forces. He dumped his longtime support for the Hyde Amendment prohibiting federal funding of abortion and released a climate plan that, even if more modest than the "Green New Deal" (a low bar), is clearly derived from it.

There's no doubt that climate is a top-tier issue for Democrats. In a CNN poll, 96 percent of Democrats say it's very important that candidates support "taking aggressive action to slow the effects of climate change." It's doubtful that mom, baseball and apple pie would poll any higher.

Among the broader public, according to a survey by climate change programs at Yale and George Mason universities, 70 percent believe that climate change is happening, and 57 percent believe that humans are causing it.

It's easy to overinterpret these numbers, though. An Associated Press/University of Chicago poll asked people how much they were actually willing to pay to fight climate change, and 57 percent said at least $1 a month, or not even the cost of a cup of coffee at Starbucks.

The political experience of other advanced democracies is a flashing red light. In Australia last month, the liberal opposition lost what was supposed to be "the climate change" election, against all expectations. Polling showed that about 60 percent of Australians thought the government should address climate change "even if this involves significant costs." It turned out that it was one thing to tell that pollsters and another to vote to make it happen.

In France, gas and diesel hikes as part of a government plan to reduce carbon emissions by 75 percent sparked the yellow vest movement in car-dependent suburbs and towns, and had to be ignominiously reversed.

The politics of climate change will be problematic for the duration, for several reasons. The voters most opposed to the costs of climate action tend to be "deplorables" most easily dismissed by center-left parties at their own peril: voters in rural Queensland in Australia, economically distressed residents of unfashionable rural and semiurban areas of France, working-class voters in the Rust Belt in the U.S.

Bearing real costs for the sake of the climate will always be a sucker's game for any one country so long as there isn't a global mandate for emission reductions. Finally, whatever the costs, no one is going to feel any climate benefits anytime soon, or likely ever. The supposed upside of plausible policies adopted by the U.S. would be minuscule changes in the global temperature decades from now.

All this should counsel caution rather than apocalyptic rhetoric and policies, although Trump has every reason to hope it doesn't.

1919: Lassies served doughnuts during live battle

First days of 2019 KATP

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roeckers
Call (785) 504-4722 for local archeology information.

I'm back! Just as promised, over the next few weeks I will be sharing my field notes from my recent 2 week attendance at the 2019 KATP held near Lyons, Ks.

Before actually writing the day's events from my journal, there were several items that were routine daily. Such as getting up at 6:00 a.m., reporting to the field at 8:00 a.m. for daily instructions and announcements, 15 minute breaks at 10:30 a.m. and 3:15 p.m., lunch time 12:00-1:00 p.m., out of the field by 4:30 p.m. or no later than 5:00 p.m., evening showers and my daily phone calls to Kay.

30 May 2019 Friday

I left Garnett for Lyons at 12:40 p.m., arriving at the Senior High School in Lyons at 4:20 p.m., after driving 188.4 miles. I signed in and registered and at that time I was given a copy of my work assignment, area map and a listing of night-ly programs, etc.

On my way out, there were turtles galore on the highway. All colors, shapes, sizes and breeds. There were even flat turtles, those that didn't quite make it across the highway. Acres and acres of wheat and millions of acres of crop land that were now huge lakes of water.

1 June 2018 Saturday

I attended the one hour 8:00-9:00 a.m. orientation class that was mandatory for everyone to attend before going to the laboratory, floatation station or to the field. I was assigned to the site Survey Team. We were to conduct hand and knee sight and metal detector surveys of approximately 50, 4 meter square grids.

Today, the first field day, the finds by the entire crew were: pottery shards, bones, obsidian flakes, 2 bone beads, etc. About 10:00 a.m. a dog showed up at the site. We named him Toby after the Tobias site we were working at. He was faithful in showing up every day and visiting for the day. This evening 12 of us gathered at the Mexican Restaurant for dinner (supper). There was no scheduled program tonight. Note: There are 193 volunteers registered to attend over the two week project. Some will only be here a few days, others will be here the entire two weeks.

The event of my first at Lyons was dropping my glasses and stepping on them. Need I say more!

2 June 2019 Sunday

Today was cloudy and 62 degrees at 8:00 a.m. Four of us on the Survey Team today. We completed 14 grids today and 8 yesterday. Finds today by all of us in the field included: 3 links of Spanish Chainmail (Coronado visited/camped near this site for a month or more), several small points (arrowheads), hide scrapers, shards of beautiful Southwest pottery, lots of bones (mostly bison, deer, turtle and bird. The number one will more than likely be Mary Riley's favorite number as in her first year as a 4-H'er and her first time writing an essay which resulted in her winning an Arabian horse. Mary, age eight, is one of four daughters of Eldon and Sue Riley, Garnett, who entered an essay contest sponsored by the Kansas Arabian and Half Arabian Horse Clubs. Out of 92 contestants from throughout the state, Riley was one of the 20 finalists who earned an interview. She did really well in her interview and walked away with a horse.

Mark Stephen Ritter is the newest member of Garnett's professional community. Ritter, a recent graduate of the University of Kansas Law School, is an attorney who has entered into association with Clark Howerton, a long-time Garnett attorney. Ritter said that he will be in general practice in Garnett with Howerton and will specialize in tax law and commercial law.

You've read about the Salvation Army lassies who so heroically made doughnuts for our "doughboys" on the line of battle in France. These lassies did not remain away back out of harm's way, but they, too, were on the line of battle with the soldiers and where they made and served doughnuts to the boys. And, strange to say, not one of these lassies was killed. Here is their recipe: Five cups of flour, two cups of sugar, five teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, two eggs, one and three-quarter cups of milk, and one teaspoonful of lard. Knead, shape with a doughnut cutter, drop into hot lard. Four dozen doughnuts may be made with the above recipe.

The color of selling

When I was a kid, my dad had a top water bass lure about the size of a pill bottle that was colored with the old red and white Budweiser can design. I inherited it and from time to time I put it on my line if nothing else is working.

It's never worked, but the double treble hooks are good for clearing pond weeds and moss. Clearly the color of that lure was designed to hook my dad, not a fish. In that respect it was a huge success.

And scientists and media researchers tell us colors really do make a difference when we buy things. So naturally, it should play into your plans when selling things.

In the same way a fish associates certain colors and hues with food, we associate certain colors with things like comfort, satisfaction, action, etc. Those can be important pieces of information when designing product displays for your business, packaging - even a logo design and interior retail area design.

Studies say as much as 85% of shoppers list color as a prime reason they bought a certain product. Consumers place visual appearance and color - at 93% - above factors like sound, smell or texture when shopping for new products.

Keep these color tips in mind:

Yellow: It's upbeat and exudes youth; effective in window displays for its sense of vibrancy.

Black: It's the color of luxury; conveys power and sleekness. Think of a sports car and you naturally think of red or black.

Red: Conveys energy and literally increases heart rate in people when tested. Use it in clearance sales to communicate urgency.

Pink: Obviously feminine, hints at romance. Pink is the color that talks to women and young girls.

Blue: Demonstrates trust and security - look how many bank logos and motifs you see in blue.

Green: Analogous in the mind to wealth, it is the color the human eye processes fastest. Conveys relaxation and contemplation.

Tip: The human eyes' most recognizable color combination is not black on white; it's black on yellow.

Color fact: Shoppers in one study spent about 50% more on televisions that were posed in front of a blue display; In front of a red display, twice as many postponed their purchase.

and you need these people on a board to show them the right way who are already in a position, and already have the clout to make the decisions," Scott said.

Scott also suggested that the city pursue multiple avenues to attain community input, such as online and paper surveys, comment cards, and brief personal interviews to analyze larger trends for discussion at steering committee meetings.

Commissioner Greg Gwin said the committee's role should be limited and would have limited authority in its affect outside city jurisdiction.

"If we can help facilitate these things or talk to the right people and say 'hey housing's an issue have you ever thought about it? Is there anything we can do for this program or this abatement to try to help you out?' Just so we don't cross a line and say 'we want to fund these ten houses, we hope we sell them in the next ten years."

The Commission took no formal action on the steering committee. When contacted by the Review, Weiner said that the city was no longer soliciting individuals for the committee and that he had told those previously asked to be on the committee that they would need to fill out the form to formally apply. The city is still accepting applicants for the steering committee, he said.

Project Management at (785) 296-2252.

All the projects are schedule for fund allotments within the next four fiscal years (October-September) Projects in the STIP are consistent with the June 2008 Kansas Statewide Long Range Transportation Plan, whose three guiding principles are preserving the highway system, improving the safety of travel in Kansas and supporting economic growth.

The STIP is divided into two general sections: the appendixes and the narrative. The appendixes provide project specific information. The narrative section briefly describes KDOT's public involvement process, project selection criteria, program financing (including the fiscal constraint for the years of the STIP) and public transportation program.

A draft STIP document is published and a notice placed in the Kansas Register each year in August providing the public and transportation stakeholders an opportunity to comment. The draft STIP is also published on this web site while comments are being solicited. At the conclusion of a 30-day public comment period and with FHWA & FTA approval, the approved STIP is published and the document is placed on this site for viewing. ous pieces of mail from banks intended for her grandmother and for the church in order to keep the ruse alive. At one point she impersonated an out-of-town bank employee in a conversation with her grandmother to assure her that funds were still in her account. She admitted to taking more than $5,000 from her grandmother without her grandmother's knowledge.

Her restitution included $6,000 to Pamela McSwane and $16,000 to Life Assembly of God, and fines and fees associated with DNA testing, fingerprinting, court costs and a mental health evaluation, all to be managed during probation.

Goderz said the probation may have to be re-evaluated at a later date due to a statutory limit on probation of five years.

"I don't know how you're going to do that (repay the restitution) in 18 months unless you get some really great job or something," Godderz told McSwane during sentencing.

McSwane told police during the investigation she planned to pay the money back to her grandmother and to the church by working as a paid dinner date escort in Kansas City for older men. The money she stole, which investigators totaled some $16,000, was used for mostly frivolous purchases, she said.

She later waived her Miranda rights when approached by Garnett Police, and eventually cooperated with the investigation.

WHEREAS, the City of Garnett, Kansas, has since 1964 been organized as a Commission-Manager government; and for an even longer time has been governed by a Commission consisting of three members, and has elected one commissioner for a three-year term in each year so as to provide continuity in the membership of the said Commission; and,

WHEREAS, the City of Garnett, Kansas, in 1969 memorialized such election procedure, as an exception from Kansas law, by way of Charter Ordinance No. 4; and,

WHEREAS, the City Commission of the City of Garnett, Kansas, has discussed expanding the membership of the Commission from three members to five members and on such issue through an advisory election found there was support among the electors voting in said election for such an expansion; and,

WHEREAS, the City Commission of the City of Garnett, Kansas, desires to maintain the three-year terms and annual election process in the expansion of the membership of the Commission to five members.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE CITY OF GARNETT, KANSAS:

SECTION 1: The City of Garnett, Kansas, by the power invested in it by Article 12, Section 5 of the Constitution of the State of Kansas, hereby adopts this Charter Ordinance.

SECTION 2: Title 1, Chapter 8, Section 1 of the Municipal Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1-8-1: GOVERNING BODY; TITLES: The governing body of the City of Garnett shall consist of a city board of commissioners, five (5) in number, which shall have all power and authority to govern the City as provided by Kansas law under the commission-manager plan of government and by this code. The said governing body may be referred to in this code as the "city commission", "commission", "governing body" or "board of commissioners".

SECTION 3: Title 1, Chapter 8, Section 13 of the Municipal Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1-8-13: TERMS OF COMMISSIONERS; TRANSITION; METHOD OF ELECTION; CANDIDACY:

(A) The City of Garnett, Kansas, has since electing in 1964 to do so, operated under the Commission-Manager form of government and desires to continue to do so, pursuant to all existing ordinances and charter ordinances relating to its form of government, except as expressly provided otherwise in this charter ordinance.

(B) In order to maintain the staggered terms of elected commissioners, a long-standing tradition in the City of Garnett, and as formally provided in Charter Ordinance No. 4 (adopted January 27, 1969; effective March 27, 1969) municipal elections in the city of Garnett, Kansas, shall take place on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November each year. Each commissioner shall be a resident and qualified elector of the City of Garnett, Kansas, and shall at such election be elected to a three year term, expiring with the first regular meeting in December immediately succeeding said election.

(C) In order to transition to a five-member commission and thereafter maintain the same, 1. Two additional commissioners shall be elected in the November, 2020 election; the terms of each such commissioner shall be for three (3) years, expiring with the first regular meeting in December, 2023.

2. The commission position that presently expires on the second Monday in January of 2021 shall be extended to and shall expire on the second Monday in January of 2022. Two commissioners shall be elected in the November, 2021 election; the terms of such commissioners shall be for three (3) years, expiring with the first regular meeting in December, 2024.

3. One commissioner shall be elected in the November, 2022 election for a term of three (3) years, expiring with the first regular meeting in December, 2025.

4. Thereafter, either one or two commissioners as needed to maintain a five-member commission shall be elected annually, each to a term of three (3) years.

(D) In any such municipal election,

1. In years in which two (2) commissioners are to be elected, the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes and the candidate receiving the next greatest number of votes shall be declared the winners.

2. In a year in which one (1) commissioner is to be elected, the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes shall be declared the winner.

(E) Any person desiring to become a candidate for commissioner shall file with the county election officer, before the filing deadline established in K.S.A. 25-205 or any amendment thereto, either a petition signed by not fewer than twenty-five (25) of the qualified electors of the City of Garnett or by a declaration of intent to become a candidate accompanied by any filing fee required by law. Any such petition or declaration shall be on a form furnished by the county election officer and as specified by the secretary of state.

SECTION 4: Charter Ordinance No. 4 is hereby repealed, including its codified version in Title 1, Chapter 8, Section 12 of the Municipal Code. Title 1, Chapter 8, Section 13 of the Municipal Code, as the same presently exists, is hereby repealed.

SECTION 5: The City of Garnett, Kansas, does hereby elect to exempt itself from and make inapplicable to it, the provisions of K.S.A. 25-2120 and does hereby provide the following substitute and additional provisions in place thereof, to-wit:

The county election officer who conducts the city election shall promptly certify to the city governing body the determination of election results made by the county board of canvassers. Notice of Permit Renewal

Published in The Anderson County Review, June 25, 2019

Notice Concerning Proposed Kansas Air Quality Class I Operating Permit Renewal

Notice is hereby given that the Kansas Department of Health and Environment (KDHE) is soliciting comments regarding a proposed air quality operating permit. Southern Star Central Gas Pipeline, Inc.-Welda Compressor Station has applied for a Class I operating permit renewal in accordance with the provisions of K.A.R. 28-19-510 et al. The purpose of a Class I permit is to identify the sources and types of regulated air pollutants emitted from the facility; the emission limitations, standards and requirements applicable to each source; and the monitoring, record keeping and reporting requirements applicable to each source as of the effective date of permit issuance.

Southern Star Central Gas Pipeline, Inc., 4700 Highway 56, Owensboro, Kentucky 42301 owns and operates a natural gas compressor station located at Section 34, Township 21S, Range 19E in Anderson County, Kansas.

A copy of the proposed permit, permit application, all supporting documentation, and all information relied upon during the permit application review process are available for public review during normal business hours of 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM at the KDHE, Bureau of Air (BOA), 1000 SW Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka, KS 66612-1366 and at the Southeast District Office, 308 West 14th Street, Chanute, Kansas 66720. To obtain or review the proposed permit and supporting documentation, contact Courtney Stallman, (785) 296-4174, at the central office of the KDHE or Trenton Christenson, (620) 860-7235 at the Southeast District Office. The standard departmental cost will be assessed for any copies requested. The proposed permit, accompanied with supporting information, is available, free of charge, at the KDHE BOA Public Notice website, <http://www.kdheks.gov/bar/publicnotice.html>.

Please direct written comments or questions regarding the proposed permit to Courtney Stallman, KDHE, BOA, 1000 SW Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka, KS 66612-1366. In order to be considered in formulating a final permit decision, written comments must be received no later than noon on Monday, July 29, 2019.

A person may request a public hearing be held on the proposed permit. The request for a public hearing shall be in writing and set forth the basis for the request. The written request must be submitted to Courtney Stallman, KDHE BOA, 1000 SW Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka, KS 66612-1366, no later than noon on Monday, July 29, 2019 in order for the Secretary of Health and Environment to consider the request.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) has a 45-day review period, which will start concurrently with the public comment period, within which to object to the proposed permit. If the USEPA has not objected in writing to the issuance of the permit within the 45-day review period, any person may petition the administrator of the USEPA to review the permit. The 60-day public petition period will directly follow the USEPA 45-day review period. Interested parties may contact KDHE to determine if the USEPA 45-day review period has been waived.

Any such petition shall be based only on objections to the permit that were raised with reasonable specificity during the public comment period provided for in this notice, unless the petitioner demonstrates that it was impracticable to raise such objections within such period, or unless the grounds for such objection arose after such period. Contact Ward Burns, USEPA, Region 7, Air Permitting and Standard Branch, 11201 Renner Boulevard, Lenexa, Kansas 66219, (913) 551-7960, to determine when the 45-day USEPA review period ends and the 60-day petition period commences.
