Locals take on Trump acquittal

Though most favor Trump, some locals decry Senate phase of impeachment

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S. Senate's acquittal of President Donald Trump on impeachment charges forwarded by House Democrats saw Anderson County residents and other followers of the Review's Facebook page taking sides last week, mostly along the lines of the opinions they've held of the president since long before the impeachment began.

Members of the Senate listened to prosecutorial arguments from the House impeachment managers as well as the defense put on by the president's attorneys. As expected, the Republican-controlled Senate voted mostly along party lines to draw an early end to the trial without calling witnesses, saying the evidence provided by Democrats in the House wasn't sufficient to warrant further work. The only Republican to break ranks with the rest of the GOP controlled Senate was Sen. Mitt Romney of Utah, the 2008 Republican presidential nominee. Democrats needed 67 votes in the Senate to convict the president on either of two charges, but the party-line nature of the impeachment meant their minority in the chamber would fall far short of the 2/3 majority needed to convict.

A question seeking readers' opinions on the acquittal spawned more than 100 comments on the Review's Facebook page in various exchanges which exemplified the polarizing nature of modern political discourse in the U.S.

"I am just appalled at the lack of respect for a President, said Mary Ann Crouch McMecham. "I am ashamed at how he has been treated. And this impeachment crap is biggest waste of taxpayer money and everyone's time-ever!"

"If they would have spent the last three years trying to better this country and work with the President instead of spending all their time and effort trying to get the President out of office - this country would be so much better off," McMecham said.

Though the majority of comments favored the president and the acquittal, some readers were vehemently opposed to what they saw as the Senate's shortcutting of justice.

"He was impeached, it will go down in the history books as being impeached," said Sheila Wilson. "The trial should have happened to be fair. Right or wrong our government is embarrassing. They all need to remember what the United States needs instead of fighting against each other. It is a shame that our country has been treated this way."

Some responses were more middle of the road.

"Politics at its finest," said Joe Blake. "The only thing that came from this is that both sides will have plenty of fodder for the campaign and are now raising record amounts of money to fight each other. Pop some popcorn and enjoy the show."

"Both parties in the White House and Congress stink and have forgotten about we the people," said Linda Trembly. "Both parties have behaved poorly and it is shameful! It is not all one or the other. I pray for our nation, truly."

Some Republican-leaning responses proclaimed the process was simply more of the Democrats' unprecedented attack on Trump since his nomination.

Work to begin on Southern Star gas pipeline replacement Feb. 17

Project expected to bring millions of dollars to area over two years

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WELDA - Southern Star Central Gas Pipeline officials plan to begin construction of the company's $141 billion gas pipeline construction and removal project next Monday, after a kick-off and final environmental training for contractors was held yesterday.

A status update on the project from SSC regulatory manager Cindy Thompson to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission last Wednesday detailed the commencement plan, which was set back from mid January while the company cleared remaining environmental hurdles.

The project will construct a new 36-inch gas line from Welda along a 31.5 mile route to Ottawa, crossing numerous private property acreages. Workers will transition the gas flow to the new line, and the second year of the project is expected to be spent removing the existing 26 and 20 inch lines currently in service.

Company officials say they expect the job to add $5 million to the Anderson County economy during the project period, which is expected to last two years. Similar impacts were expected in Franklin County as well. Those estimates project a $45 million influx for the state as a whole. The project overall will generate around $2.2 million in sales tax, company officials say, with a projected property tax payment increase to the county of a million per year due to the improvement. Local entrepreneurs developed at least three additional RV facilities in Welda and Garnett in recent months in an effort to take advantage of construction workers who will

Veterinary medicine researchers develop new method to improve food safety

MANHATTAN - Faculty members from the Kansas State University College of Veterinary Medicine have developed a faster, more efficient method of detecting Shiga toxin-producing Ecoli, or STEC, in ground beef, which often causes recalls of ground beef and vegetables.

"The traditional gold standard STEC detection, which requires bacterial isolation and characterization, is not amenable to high-throughput settings and often requires a week to obtain a definitive result," said Jianfa Bai, section head of molecular research and development in the Kansas State Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

The new method developed by Bai and colleagues requires only a day to obtain confirmatory results using a Kansas State University-patented method with the partition-based multichannel digital polymerase chain reaction system.

"We believe the new digital polymerase chain reaction detection method developed in this study will be widely used in food safety and inspection services for the rapid detection and confirmation of STEC and other foodborne pathogens," said Jamie Henningson, director of the Kansas State Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

When ingested through foods such as ground beef and vegetables, STEC can cause illnesses with symptoms including abdominal pain and diarrhea. Some illnesses caused by STEC may lead to kidney failure and can be life-threatening.

"Some E. coli strains do not produce Shiga toxins and thus do not affect human health as much," said Xuming Liu, research assistant pro-

Fatal crashes involving drivers who test positive for marijuana increase after legalization

A concerning number of Washington state drivers involved in fatal crashes are testing positive for recent use of marijuana, according to new research from the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

The share of drivers who, after a fatal crash, tested positive for active THC - the drug's main psychoactive ingredient - has doubled since the state legalized marijuana in December 2012. AAA believes the increase raises important traffic safety concerns for drivers across the country, because recreational marijuana use is now legal in 11 states and Washington, D.C.

The latest AAA Foundation research found that between 2008 and 2012 - the five-year period before the drug was legal - an estimated 8.8% of Washington drivers involved in fatal crashes were positive for THC. That rate rose to 18% between 2013 and 2017.

The average number of THC-positive drivers increased, too. In the five years before legalization, an average of 56 drivers involved in fatal crashes each year were THC-positive. In the five years after legalization, the average jumped to 130. The new numbers bolster the findings of a similar report the AAA Foundation released in 2016. The study did not attempt to determine if marijuana contributed to the crashes included in its latest research. It focused only on the prevalence of drivers who tested positive for active THC.

"This study enabled us to review a full 10-years' worth of data about the potential impact of marijuana on driving safety - and it raises significant concerns," said Dr. David Yang, executive director of the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. "Results from the analysis suggest that legalization of recreational use of marijuana may increase the rate of THC-positive drivers involved in fatal crashes."

Marijuana use can inhibit concentration, slow reaction times and cloud judgment. Its effects vary by individual, but a number of studies have concluded that marijuana use impairs the ability to drive safely. Previous research suggests that users who drive high are up to twice as likely to be involved in a crash.

AAA opposes the legalization of marijuana for recreational use because of its inherent traffic safety risks and because of the difficulties in writing legislation that protects the public and treats drivers fairly.

Eleven states and Washington, D.C. have legalized marijuana for both recreational and medical use. Another 22 states have legalized it for medical use only. State legislative sessions for 2020 are getting underway and recreational use is expected to be a popular topic. The legislative interest combined with likely November ballot measures could result in additional states taking a hard look the issue.

In an attempt to curtail drug-impaired driving, seven states have set legal non-zero, or "per se," limits on the amount of THC drivers can "Democrats involved in this game they were playing need to resign," said Larry Barber. "This was nothing but a bunch of lies being told by the Democrats. They had no proof, no witnesses."

Others were passionate against the president. Mary Nadeau Purcell referred to the president using the Constitution as toilet paper. Dorothy Guilfoyle Ortiz likened Trump to Hitler.

"Hope we get rid of this liar," said Janet McDonald. "He's a stain on this country."

Trump's approval ratings hit an all-time high after the acquittal, with a Gallup poll Thursday showing his approval rating at 49 percent. Meanwhile 50 percent of those polled disapproved of Trump and one percent was undecided.

How to make a fast, sloppy buck

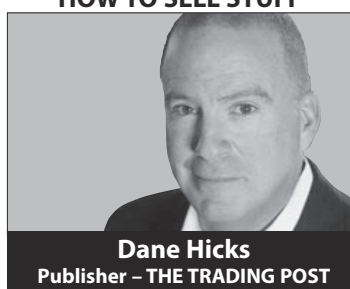

In this column we've explored a lot of studies and research data on customer reactions to various stimulus you as a business can control - things like aroma, lighting, motion and compelling displays all can have a positive or negative affect on customers and determine if - and how much - they buy; even if they will return.

But one we've never talked about is slop.

Slop can have a magnetic effect, especially if your store or office is typically neat and tidy. In the same way a place looks neat when you clean it up after it's been messy a while (think your garage), others can also grab attention when you slop them up.

There's something about a heap of stuff that makes us think there's something cool there, and it's probably cheap because it's probably been there forever and is now heaped up for quick clearance. Think of auctions - few things are more enticing to collectors or antique dealers than table after table of "stuff." We've all seen someone find an item at an auction in a pile of mess and wait the rest of the day for the auctioneer to roll up to sell it.

HOW TO SELL STUFF

Dane Hicks
Publisher - THE TRADING POST

And what about those vintage DVD movie or compact disc bins at major discount stores - everything piled up and for sale for $5. Works every time. I'll stand there for an hour digging for all the Die Hard sequels.

So stack it up; pile it up preferably where drive by traffic can see; use card tables or better yet use the tailgates of a couple of pickup trucks with 2x12s between them to make a long table. The more disheveled the better, and pile it high with everything you've got. Set large items on the ground or in the center of the table to accent them. Pile smaller items everywhere else.

Don't stack things neatly - skew them willy-nilly and cattywampus. Don't bother setting the main front of the packaging forward. Use your regular inventory; use leftovers from your stock room. If you bare your shelves inside to stack the mess outside, it will be worth the work of restocking less inventory later.

And price tags? Use colored dots like you see at garage sales, and knock off the "$" - for some odd reason just putting "-50" on an item looks more like a fire sale.

You may sprinkle discounts here and there, but leave most of the items at full mark up. It won't matter. Just don't advertise a "Huge Sale" that assumes discounts - don't advertise anything at all - just pile up the stuff!

Like anything you can over do this, and if you're outside there may be restrictions in your city or locale that set time limits. But the savvy use of strategic slop will help you sell stuff.

Colony Christian Church Feb. 2nd, "We Believe in the Bible"

On February 2nd, Larry Wittmer gave the Communion Meditation. We were created for victory. Just like with the Super Bowl, there is a certainty that someone will win, and all fans are convinced that their team is the winning team. Just like our favorite sports teams have the Hall of Fame, the Bible has the Hall of Faith. These heroes conquered kingdoms, enforced justice, escaped the edge of the sword, made the strong out of weakness, and caused armies to flee. We need to put our faith in the right side. In Jesus' final moments, all appeared lost, fans gave up hope and deserted him, never expecting a miracle. He defeated the final enemy - death. Don't wait to know the final outcome. Choose Jesus, choose victory. Whose side are you on? Hebrews 11

Pastor Chase Riebel gave the sermon titled "We Believe in the Bible". We believe that God inspired the scriptures, and they are without error. The Holy Spirit spoke from God to the prophets. The wisdom of the scriptures came directly thru the Holy Spirit. We are called to share this wisdom with everyone. In 2 Peter 1:12-21, Peter says that he will remind us over and over again, that way the scriptures get deep into our minds. The writers of the scriptures had no special training. God made them bold in proclaiming the word, we must do the same. Hear this sermon in its entirety at <http://www.colonychristianchurch.org>. Where to look for change

As I sit down to pen this article I have a concern for the current state of our country. We are faced with massive debt in government, business and with American families. Some would say the problem has become too big to solve. Others would say if we can get the right man in the White House or our party in the majority in the legislature or our man on the bench making judicial decisions we can get things turned around. My earliest memory of this type of philosophy goes back to about 1960. I was 9 years old. I will say this about this type of philosophy in the past fifty years, there has been a vast increase in knowledge and technology. Certain individuals have made positive contributions and others have had a negative influence.

This gets to my point. I don't believe man will ever be able to solve his problems. In what is considered one of the oldest books in the Bible Job states. "For hardship does not spring from the soil, nor does trouble sprout from the ground. Yet man is born to trouble as surely as sparks fly upward." (Job 5:6-7) We have to ask ourselves why does man have all this trouble? Having thought about it I offer this answer. God gave man two key elements to make decisions with. Man has a heart and he has a mind. The heart and mind may be used together or separately to make decisions with but one will control the other.

In First Samuel 16:7, the Lord said to the prophet Samuel, "Man looks at the outward appearance, but the Lord looks at the heart." You see I don't believe a man in the White House, the legislature or the court house is going to turn things around. We cannot depend on someone else to change things. If change comes for the better it will come because each of us started thinking with our hearts. Most people believe the way to implement change is through environment or education or legislation yet we find ourselves swimming in a sea of red tape in environmental change and a technological overload of information in education and gridlock in legislation. If this is to work what didn't we do right? Could it be we just need a change of heart, could it be we need to look inward instead of outward and quit blaming everyone else? This is the approach God was taking when he explained to Samuel concerning David's apparent small stature and young age to be king of Israel. If the Lord looks at the heart that is where we should look as well.

“New Way Forward” is why we should fear Democrat congress

Think the Democrats who now control the U.S. Congress have been doing nothing except going bat guano crazy about Trump for three years? Think again.

Turns out Democrats have been busy as little bees working on legislation which essentially destroys U.S. immigration policy, neuters any enforcement ability against illegal aliens and even forces the U.S. taxpayer to provide transportation back to the U.S. for any illegal we deported in the past for deportable crimes.

To set the stage, let's preface that HR 5383 or the so-called "New Way Forward Act" is co-sponsored by 44 Democrats, among them Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez of New York, Ilhan Omar of Minnesota and Rashida Tlaib of Michigan. In a governing system that seeks to protect its citizens with law, 5383 is theater of the absurd brought forward as legitimate legislation; a Twilight Zone segment masquerading as a bill Democrats actually hope to approve on the House floor and send on to the Senate to become the law of the land.

The basis of the bill is that America and its expectation for lawfulness are racist at their core; that immigration requirements that set standards of conduct and proscribe penalties for violating those standards are a reflection of White Power control and xenophobia. The objective and the effect of the bill, if it was ever to pass Congress, would be to make decent Americans second-class citizens in their own country and give preferred status to illegal immigrants — particularly in avoiding prosecution or sentencing for crimes that require their deportation under current law.

- Try this on for size:
 - The New Way Forward literally includes language specifying “convictions should not lead to deportation.”
 - Present deportation for crimes of aggravated felony or moral turpitude would be suspended. This includes such crimes as pedophilia and child rape, which are accepted in some cultures but which qualify as moral turpitude currently in the U.S.
 - An illegal immigrant in possession of a falsified passport would be immune from prosecution.
 - The bill would grant sweeping authority to immigration judges to nullify deportation orders from other courts based on their own judgment.
 - The bill eliminates drug addiction and previous criminal convictions in their country of origin as justification for deportation.
 - Decriminalizes illegal entry into the United States.

- Would prevent ICE agents from arresting any illegal who claims to be gay, transgender, under 18 or who doesn't speak English and no translator is immediately available. The provisions would make it harder to arrest an illegal alien than to arrest a U.S. citizen.
- The bill requires the U.S. make available a transportation avenue for criminal illegals previously deported. From 2002-2018 Immigration and Customs Enforcement deported 480,000 illegal immigrants. The cost to pay for their transportation back to the U.S. is estimated to top $1 billion.

Remarkably, this potential national security disaster has received almost no coverage in the mainstream media. It would drastically expand a trend of lenience toward illegal immigrants pursued by Democrats and Leftists who want to radically transform the United States by displacing law abiding citizens with illegal immigrants whose de facto citizenship cannot be revoked. It's diabolical enough to have been conjured up as the plot of some James Bond villain, but indeed it's the work product of large swath of the Democrat Party in Congress. News anchors on the nation's news networks and the intrepid journalists at the Washington Post and New York Times have provided us breathless, titillating coverage of vagina grabbing and Russia-gate and Ukraine-gate, but nary a word about this Democrat-sponsored law enforcement land mine.

The difficulty for traditional Americans to track the logic here is because it's not a product of mainstream, law-abiding logic. It is an effort by Leftists in the United States to dilute the political body that determines leadership at the local, state and national level — a dilution some Democrats believe will assist them in evaporat-

I'm disappointed in the Kansas City Chiefs. Their behavior at the Super Bowl parade was not becoming of examples for our youth. Drunk football players wobbling down the street in front of other drunks lining the streets on the parade path is sure not the example we want the world to see of Kansas City. The halftime show was a stripper show also not worthy of being seen except in a strip bar. Are these the depths we've sunk to in pro sports? What would Paul Harvey have to say?

I think there are some things in Garnett that need to be looked at that are I guess being ignored by the city commissioners. Most of these have to do with the zoning department and the zoning board. The idea of a zoning board is supposed to be how to manage your city and protect the property values of landowners. But I ask you, have you seen a single request for something no matter how far off the wall that has not been approved by our zoning board? Have you seen the giant industrial metal building they allowed to be built across from the Catholic church? Full of commerical materials and vehicles and work product and yet it gets built right in the middle of a residential part of town and close to a church to boot.

Yes I'm older but I still know when something is tasteful and not tasteful, and the Super Bowl halftime was the most disgusting thing I've ever seen and it sets a bad, bad example for our young ladies out there. Thank you for letting me record this.

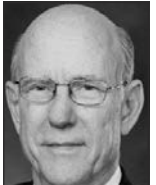

Watching the Chiefs victory parade, I'm sure the people standing along the route did not want to get sprayed with beer. Mahomes and Kelse were poor examples for the young kids of Kansas City. Could not even undertand Kelse talking at Union Station.

Democrat energy policies make the poor poorer

Democrats claim to be champions of the poor. Yet their environmental policies make low-income communities even poorer.

Consider California's gas tax. Governor Gavin Newsom recently ordered his attorney general to investigate whether certain oil companies are price-gouging Californians.

That's a little rich coming from the governor of a state with the highest gasoline tax in the country — about 62 cents per gallon (which excludes the 18.4 cent federal gas tax). The national average is about 36 cents. California's high gas taxes, as well as its cap-and-trade program and its strict pipeline and refinery regulations, raise the cost of energy and hit poor residents harder than anyone else.

A similar story is unfolding in New York. Governor Andrew Cuomo, backed by several environmental groups, has banned shale fracking and is limiting pipeline infrastructure. These attempts to prove he's greener-than-thou prevent New York from meeting its growing demand for natural gas.

Ironically, natural gas is one of the cleanest-burning fossil fuels. So these “green” policies don't do much to help the environment. All they do is hurt the poor.

The fracking boom, which began about a decade ago, has made energy abundant and cheap. Consider that 10 years ago this month the price of natural gas was about $4.00 per million BTUs — a standard unit of measurement. Today it's about $2.30. That price reduction has saved consumers a lot of money.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

Abundant, affordable natural gas helps Americans keep their homes warm.

When politicians restrict access to natural gas, homeowners and businesses often turn to heating oil, which is much more expensive. Households that rely primarily on natural gas will spend about $580 this winter. Meanwhile, those using heating oil — which emits about a third more carbon dioxide — will spend about $1,500.

Shifting to renewable energy also hurts the poor.

Most states, whether led by Republicans or Democrats, set a minimum requirement of electricity that must come from renewable energy. For example, California's target last year was for 28 percent of its electricity to come from renewable sources such as wind and solar power. However, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. (PG&E) actually produced 39 percent of its electricity from renewable sources.

At $56.40 per megawatt hour, natural gas is the cheapest energy source for producing electricity, according to the EIA. Onshore wind power isn't that much more expensive these days — around $58.50 — partly thanks to technological improvements.

But several other renewable sources, such as offshore wind, solar and biomass — $158.10, $74.20, $96.10 per megawatt hour, respectively — are significantly more expensive. PG&E electricity rates are roughly double the national average.

Yet again, low-income Americans dispropo-

And so, the election of 2016 draws to a close

And so 2016 finally draws to a close.

It's been the longest election year in American history. It ran from Feb. 1, 2016, the date of the Iowa caucuses, to the Senate vote to acquit President Donald Trump in early February 2020.

It's true that Nov. 6, 2016, was a signal event in this long election year, but it didn't really conclude anything, even though the result wasn't in doubt. Usually, contested elections are ties or near-ties. This is the first time an election has gone into overtime, with repeated attempts at what were in effect recounts, despite the winner comfortably prevailing (Donald Trump won handily in electoral votes, the measure that determines the outcome, 304-227).

Immediately Democrats concluded that they'd been robbed, and Hillary Clinton did indeed get some bad breaks during the campaign, most consequentially at the hands of then-FBI director James Comey. Such is life in the arena. But no one on the left was in a mood to move on.

Rather taking stock and recalibrating as warranted, Democrats remained fixated on 2016. Rather than simply mobilizing opposition to Trump's agenda and reelection, as any opposition always does, they mused about how to reverse the 2016 result. Rather than acknowledging the near-impossibility of removing a duly elected president, they indulged in fantasies about how to do exactly that.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Above all, they obsessed about Russia as the cause of their undoing in 2016. With enough investigation, all would be made plain, the Trump-Russia conspiracy would be unraveled, the walls would close in, and the world would be restored to its axis. The rightful winner of 2016 wouldn't take office, but the wrongful winner would be vanquished. What voters in Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin failed to do, the grinding machinery of investigation would achieve.

When the Mueller probe didn't produce the impeachment that the Democrats had expected with such fervent certainty, it seemed briefly they'd finally have to accept the outcome of 2016, however grudgingly. Then, Ukraine emerged, and impeachment was, thankfully and gloriously, back on.

Russia was a proximate cause of the impeachment over Ukraine. The Democrats charged that Trump sought Ukrainian interference in our elections, just as he had sought Russian interference (for all their interest in the Mueller investigation, Democrats have never absorbed its conclusion that there is no evidence that Trump colluded with the Russians). Absent their conviction that Trump is an illegitimate president, Democrats would have been, understandably, outraged by Ukraine and determined to investigate it, but they wouldn't have impeached over it.

In this sense, the Senate trial is the last act in the 2016 election. It establishes, once and for all, that he won't leave office prior to the end of his first term. It makes it clear that another election, not some other mechanism, will be necessary to remove him. It represents the final failure of the investigatory apparatus around Trump's alleged Russia collusion to deliver Democrats from the consequences of their 2016 defeat.

Trump, obviously, isn't blameless in any of this. But he is not a Russian agent. He won the presidency in a free and fair election, and despite his attempted removal, will have a chance to do so again. On to 2020.

February 2010 - Crest golf program a casualty of state budget cuts

February 2010

School board members at USD 479 made the decision to cut the high school golf program during February's meeting, one of what Superintendent Lee Jones says may be the first of many cuts to come. The golf program, whose participation varies greatly from year to year, will save the district some $8,000 by being cut out of the budget. Crest dealt with a state budget cut of $48,103 during the 2008-09 school year and district officials have been advised to prepare for a larger cut this year.

February 2000

A Garnett man was charged with attempted murder and numerous other crimes last week after he allegedly tried to run down an Econo Lodge employee and struck three vehicles, including two police cars, in a February 2 police chase through Ottawa. Douglas Arthur Carr, Jr., 40 of Garnett, was charged with

February 1990

Anderson County residents may have found a surprise in their mail last week when they received from a Texas company a postcard concerning drug use by their children. Not only was the writing on the postcard somewhat of a shock, the company also wanted money.

February 1980

Steven C. Spangler,

February 1920

Ed Osborne, of Selma, had a narrow escape. He came up in his car and was crossing the Missouri Pacific tracks near the depot. As the car was closed, he did not see a train coming a short distance away. As a result, the engine struck Ed's car and pushed it along several feet. Owing to the muddy, slippery condition of the crossing, the auto slid ahead of the cow catcher. Had it been dry, the auto would have been smashed, and Ed would likely have been killed. However, he was not hurt and the damage to the car was not serious. $25 will likely cover the damage.

1970's find in Memphis of 80+ year old voter registration

As many of you already know, I've been the proud owner and operator of a metal detector for 59 years.

Back in the 1970's when I was in the U.S. Navy and stationed at Millington, Tennessee, I met a young man by the name of K.C. Owings, who had the same hobby that I had, metal detecting.

Almost every Saturday, K.C. and I would load up our detecting gear and take out on a metal detecting adventure to some park, playground, school or church yards, fairgrounds, old home sites, etc. etc.

One day, we got the word that the city of Memphis was going to demolish some small houses in an older section of town. You can only guess where our very next adventure took us to. Upon reaching our destination, we discovered only one huge pile of rubble. Needless to say, metal detecting wasn't very fruitful, however while walking around and rummaging thru this pile of rubbish, I found this rather unique paper item.

As you can see it is a Shelby County Tennessee Registration Certificate to Vote. It is Registration No. 512, authorizing Beatrace Bojee age 33, a

Just sit right back and you'll hear a tale

Kim Baldwin, McPherson County farmer and rancher

I recently overheard a deep breakfast conversation between my husband and kids regarding the TV show they were viewing. It was such a good conversation I didn't want to interrupt the thought process, so I remained sitting in the living room, eavesdropping and trying to control my giggles. Plus, I wanted to see how my husband would handle our daughter's questions.

We've been without cable or satellite television for a few years now, so generally during breakfast the kids get to watch something we've recorded on our TiVo. While we have quite a diverse collection of recordings, we generally select a program from PBS like "Odd Squad," "Molly of Denali" or "Peg Plus Cat" before school. The kids are really into science, math and adventures, so these three shows are a pretty regular morning rotation in our home.

However, on this particular morning the conversation centered around these people who got lost and ended up being stranded on a tropical island after a three-hour tour. Yes, my kids also love watching "Gilligan's Island" which airs on a local television channel. We have maintained a steady viewing of the 1960s sitcom for the last few years. In fact, our son requested to have a "Gilligan's Island" themed birthday party once. There are many days I question my parenting tactics and decisions but allowing the kids to watch "Gilligan's Island" has never caused me to fret.

During this breakfast conversation, my 4-year-old daughter was trying to make sense of the overall storyline.

"Let me tell you, Daddy," she began. "I'd be working on fixing the holes in that boat if I got stuck on an island. Why didn't they try to fix the holes?"

My 7-year-old would chime in to try to defend the plot and to help her better understand.

"Isannah, they're stranded on an island, they don't have the tools," Banks would point out.

"If they don't have tools, then why do they live in nice huts made from bamboo and trees?" she countered.

Silence. She did have a good point.

Isannah then moved on to her next item, "And let me tell you something else," she said. "I wouldn't take the boat at night — that's when there's waves!" I think she was referencing the opening scene of the show when the S.S. Minnow was tossed about by waves when the weather started getting rough. It was dark.

"Isannah, there's always waves day and night," Banks pointed out. "It's in the ocean."

Silence. He had a good point.

Clearly, as they continued this back-and-forth dialogue, both children had different perspectives related to the tale of the seven castaways.

All the while, my husband, Adam, would nod his head and make random sounds to ensure the kids knew he was listening to them both. But ultimately, the kids led the conversation and Adam was not needed to referee the chat.

Not once did either of them get upset or belittle the other's argument. Not once did either of them start screaming at the other or call the other names. Not once did either of them get frustrated and end the conversation.

While I think "Gilligan's Island" provides entertainment for my family, it also is clearly causing my kids to think and verbalize their thoughts with one another in a civil conversation.

Perhaps we all need some little ones discussing "Gilligan's Island" over breakfast from time to time to help remind us as adults how to interact with others who might have differing views.

After all, if the kids can model civil discourse, surely the rest of us can, too.

have in their system. While well-intended, AAA believes imposing such limits is problematic because no data reliably shows what level of THC impairs driving, the chemical's effects vary by user, and THC testing often cannot be done until hours after a crash.

AAA believes that states that have legalized the drug should not rely solely on an arbitrary legal limit to determine if a driver is impaired. They should adopt a two-pronged approach that requires:

1. a positive test for recent marijuana use
2. behavioral and physiological evidence of driver impairment

Regardless of the drug's legal status — and limits in any state — all motorists need to avoid driving while impaired.

"Simply put, if you've used marijuana, don't drive," said Jake Nelson, AAA's director of traffic safety advocacy and research. "And if you plan to drive, don't use marijuana."

Last year, a Foundation survey found that nearly 70% of Americans think it's unlikely a driver will get caught by police for driving shortly after using marijuana. The survey also revealed that an estimated 14.8 million drivers report getting behind the wheel within one hour after using marijuana in the past 30 days.

essor. "Because cattle feces and ground beef can contain harmless or less pathogenic E. coli along with STEC, the most commonly used polymerase chain reaction cannot identify pathogenic E. coli strains in a complex sample matrix."

The new digital polymerase chain reaction test was developed for research and food safety inspections that require shorter turnaround and high throughput, without sacrificing detection accuracy.

"While the current, commonly used testing method is considered to be the gold standard, it is tedious and requires many days to obtain results that adequately differentiate the bacteria," said Gary Anderson, director of the International Animal Health and Food Safety Institute at the K-State Olathe campus.

The study "Single cell-based digital PCR detection and association of Shiga toxin-producing E. coli serogroups and major virulence genes," which describes the test design and results, was published in the Journal of Clinical Microbiology.

Funding for this study was provided by the Kansas State Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory with no extramural funding used. The digital polymerase chain reaction technology for co-detection and association of multiple genes is covered by U.S. Patent No. 10,233,505 assigned to the Kansas State University Research Foundation with the principal investigators Bai, Liu and Anderson.

AC girls down Santa Fe Trail

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - The Anderson County Lady Bulldogs kicked off a busy week last Monday, February 3rd with a victory at home over Santa Fe Trail 50-40. They opened up a huge lead early on by jumping all over SFT in the first quarter, 19-6. The AC girls would lead by as many as 17 points on three different instances in the first half en route to a 31-17 halftime advantage. Anderson County would keep that same 14-point advantage heading into the fourth quarter, 42-28. The lead would never get down below 10 points the rest of the way as Anderson County did a good job at keeping separation and not allowing SFT to make a run. Rayna Jasper and Cali Foltz both connected on 5 of 13 shots to lead the Lady Bulldogs with 15 and 14 points respectively. Foltz added 9 rebounds, 4 steals and 2 blocks and Jasper also had 4 steals and dished out 3 assists on the evening.

Lady Bulldogs start strong in win over Burlington

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Burlington traveled to town on Tuesday night to take on the Anderson County Lady Bulldogs in what would be their second game in as many nights and their 5th game in the last 7 nights. It appeared at different points throughout the evening fatigue caught up with AC but ultimately they still downed Burlington, 56-50. Burlington scored the opening basket but Anderson County responded by going on a 16-3 run to close out the period to open up a 16-5 lead after the first quarter. Burlington kept within striking distance with a 12-8 advantage in the second quarter to cut the halftime deficit to 24-13. Following intermission, Burlington would fight all the way back and actually take a one point lead late in the third period before Anderson County scored late to cling to a 30-29 lead heading into the decisive fourth quarter. The fireworks were just beginning though as Burlington would battle back and have a 2 point lead in the first couple of minutes of the fourth before over the final four minutes of the game the Lady Bulldogs would go on to close out the game on a 15-8 run to seal the victory. Rayna Jasper 28 points and 4 steals on the evening, in large part due to an outstanding 14-15 from the free throw line. Brooklyn Kurtz added 6 points and 8 rebounds and Cali Foltz chipped in with 7 points, 7 rebounds and 4 steals.

Lancer rally comes up short against Chetopa

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

CHETOPA - Despite an impressive second half rally, the Crest Lancers fall in last Tuesday's road loss to Chetopa, 43-40. Chetopa jumped up double digits early in what appeared to be a sign of things to come for the rest of the night. Crest trailed Chetopa 17-6 after the first quarter and 29-17 at halftime. Chetopa struggled mightily in the third quarter as they were limited to just 5 points as the Lancers scored 13 to cut the deficit down to just three points heading into the fourth quarter, 33-30. Crest would take a lead late only to let it slip away in the three point loss. Head coach Travis Hermreck senses a need for urgency "This was another game where we led late and let it slip away. This team needs a win badly. Going through a streak like this is tough this time of year. Hopefully we can put the last two weeks behind us and find a way to persevere." Kobey Miller struggled from long range, connecting on just 1 of 14 three-pointers, but still led his squad with 16 points and 5 rebounds. Tyson Hermreck added 5 points, 12 rebounds and 8 assists.

Crest girls down Yates Center

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - Last Tuesday the Crest Lady Lancers knocked off Yates Center at home in a tight game throughout, 52-48. Yates Center had the early advantage after the first quarter, 13-11. Crest responded by outscoring Yates Center 14-6 in the second quarter to take a 25-19 lead into the locker rooms. It would be Yates Center controlling the third quarter to pull even at 33 each heading into the decisive fourth quarter.

Crest scored 19 points in the fourth to finish off the victory. Holloran led the way offensively for the Lancers with 21 points, 11 rebounds and 6 assists. R. Beckmon scored 9 points and dished out 11 assists.

Crest limited Chetopa to just 2 points in the third quarter and 4 points in the fourth to pull off the comeback. Holloran led Crest offensively with 15 points, had 13 rebounds, 3 steals and 2 assists. R. Beckmon added 7 points, had 5 rebounds, 4 assists and 3 steals.

Lady Lancers rally late for win

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

CHETOPA - After falling behind by double figures, the Crest girls shut down Chetopa in the second half to pull off a thrilling 32-31 victory on the road Friday night. Crest and Chetopa played a back and forth first quarter with the Lancers holding a slim 11-10 lead heading into the second quarter. The host team took over in the second by scoring 15 and limiting the Lady Lancers to just 6 points to open up a 25-17 lead at halftime. After combining for 42 points in the first half, the two teams only scored 21 combined points in the second half.

had 6 steals, 5 assists and 4 rebounds in the victory. Holloran continued her solid week of play with 17 points, 11 rebounds, 8 assists and 4 steals. L Godderz tacked on 15 points, 5 steals and 3 assists for the Crest girls.

Lady Lancers blow past MDCV

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

MELVERN - Crest made easy work of Marais Des Cygnes Valley on Saturday winning 56-22 for their third win of the week. The Lady Lancers jumped on top 16-4 after the first quarter and led 30-13 at halftime. The lead ballooned to 48-22 after three periods. The Crest girls shut down MDCV in the fourth by not allowing a point and tacked on 8 more of their own in the period to finish out the victory. R Beckmon scored 19 points, breathing room between them and the Bulldogs for a 29-21 halftime lead. The second half was all Burlington as the lack of depth and the Bulldogs playing on back to back nights caught up with them. Burlington outscored Anderson county 45-18 in the second half to pull away for the easy win. Dilliner and Jarett each scored 9 points to lead the Bulldogs.

Lady Bulldogs drop thriller to Girard

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GIRARD - Girard held on in the waning seconds on Friday night to down the Anderson County girls by a final score of 64-61. Considering this was the 6th game in 11 days and they also had to endure nearly an hour and a half bus ride, it is no wonder the team just seemed to fall short. Girard led 9-8 after the first quarter and after opening the second quarter on a 7-1 run to lead 16-9, fortunately the Bulldogs closed the quarter out strong to trail just 22-18 at intermission. A third quarter eruption seemingly came out of nowhere for Anderson County. The girls turned a 4 point halftime deficit into a 5 point lead heading into the fourth quarter with a 26-17 advantage in the third quarter. Midway through the fourth, the Bulldogs would still be clinging to a 55-50 lead. Girard would cut the lead down to 3 with just under two minutes left and get to within one, 60-59, with just 43.2 seconds remaining. With the score knotted at 60 and the Bulldogs with the ball, they would turn it over and foul Girard in the process which in turn they downed one of two free throws to take a slim 61-60 lead, which they would never relinquish. Rayna Jasper led the Bulldogs with 21 points and Cali Foltz chipped in with 18 on the night.

Bulldogs can't keep pace with Santa Fe Trail

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Early on it appeared that Anderson County had what it took to keep up with Santa Fe Trail but after a tie after the first quarter, SFT cruised over the final three quarters to win going away 57-38. After the first 8 minutes, the two teams were knotted at 13 but Santa Fe Trail imposed their will in the third quarter to take a 28-19 lead into intermission. The third and fourth quarters were much of the same as Santa Fe Trail outscored Anderson County 14-10 in the third quarter and again in the fourth 15-9. Katzer led the way for Anderson County with 13 points.

Bulldog rally falls short against Girard

GIRARD - It was the third game in 5 nights for Anderson County and it appeared the Bulldogs were extra sluggish in the first half of a 45-36 loss to Girard on Friday night on the road. The Bulldogs just mustered 6 points in the first quarter, which was actually enough for an early one point lead, 6-5, before Anderson County scored just 5 in the second and found themselves in a 17-11 halftime hole. Girard extended their halftime advantage by a single point to take a 31-24 lead heading into the final 8 minutes of action. Anderson County fought back to cut the lead to 40-34 with just over a minute to play but Girard outscored AC 5-2 over the last minute to close out the victory.

Vikings win easily

MORAN - On Friday night the Central Heights Vikings traveled to Moran to take on Marmaton Valley and won going away, 76-25. Winless Marmaton Valley wasn't any match for the Vikings falling behind 17-0 after the first quarter and 38-13 at halftime. The Vikings won the third quarter 23-7 to open up a commanding 61-20 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

With a running clock, the Vikings outscored Marmaton Valley 15-5 in the fourth to close out the win. Twelve Vikings would score on the night, led by Jarod Crawford with 18 points. Bralen Bowker and Austin Coffman are the only other two players to reach double figures with 12 and 10 points respectively.

You name it, we print it.

Bulldog grapplers gearing up for league, regionals and state

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

The Anderson County Bulldog grapplers have been busy the past couple of weeks. Just last week, the girl's traveled to Prairie View for the first ever championship for the girls in the Pioneer League.

Shelby Dunn (155) came away with a second place finish and Morgan Sumner (123) finished third in her class.

Two girls were out with concussions but are expected to be back for regionals according to head coach Jeremy McAdam.

It was a strong finish leading up to regional's for Dunn and Sumner but Clarissa Sheahan has had a solid season as well and will be looking for a trip to the inaugural state tournament.

Sheahan finished first at the Wellsville Tournament (2-0) earlier this season, the Ottawa Dual Tournament (2-0) and the Independence Women's Tournament (4-0) in late January.

At that Independence tournament, Dunn finished 2nd in her class by going 4-1 on the day and Sumner finished the afternoon with one victory and a pair of losses.

Sumner also went 1-2 at the Ottawa Tournament and Dunn went 3-2, which was good for a fourth place finish. Kaylee Lamb finished in 2nd place in her class with a 2-1 record on the day.

"The wrestling season is in full swing," girls head coach Keith Miller stated.

"As always we've had to deal with the flu bug, sprained knees, pulled muscles, concussions and the list just goes on," Miller added.

This just illustrates the mental focus and toughness needed to compete in wrestling.

"We have a lot of work to complete before then," Miller says in regards to the regional tournament coming up in Paola this Friday and Saturday for his girls.

Miller goes on to say, "Hopefully the girls will be ready mentally and physically. I see state qualifiers in the mix."

On the boy's side, head coach McAdam feels his guys are close and with just a little bit of work they can make the strides necessary for late season success.

"At Fredonia we won 29 matches and lost 28. That number needs to be improved as a whole. I felt like we lost 3 matches we could have won by just utilizing the stuff we work on," McAdam stated.

"The competition was as I expected as we met some kids we haven't seen that are from the southwest part of the state," McAdam added.

Placing at Fredonia was Dallas Higginbotham (3-1, 2nd place), John Wright (2-1, 2nd place), Ryland Wright (2-1, 2nd place), Ashton Miller (4-1, 3rd place), Gavin Wolken (3-2, 4th place), Trinton Guernsey (2-2, 5th place), Carter Sommers (2-2, 6th place) and Tyler Denny (2-3, 6th place).

Lane Freeman went 3-1 on the day but was unattached to a class so didn't place. A.J. Rues (1-3), Shelby Dunn (2-2), Morgan Sumner (0-2), Dominic Myer (0-2) and Zane Pedrow (0-2) also all competed.

At the Perry-Lecompton Duals that included Baldwin and Anderson County, the Bulldogs came out on top against Perry, 39-33.

Varsity winners were Carter Sommer, Trinton Guernsey, Ryland Wright, John Wright, Dominic Ireland and Tyler Denny.

Gavin Wolken lost via pin and Dallas Higginbotham dropped his match 5-2.

The JV squad matched up against Baldwin as both Gabe Clauson and AJ Rues both recorded victories.

The varsity dual against Baldwin saw the Bulldogs come up short 42-26.

"Due to health issues we missed Braden Hermreck, Corbin Danner, Ashton Miller and Jeremiah Roll," coach McAdam stated.

Winners against Baldwin included Carter Sommers, Ryland Wright, John Wright, Dominic Ireland, Tyler Denny, Gavin Wolken and Dallas Higginbotham.

JV wrestlers AJ Rues, Zane Pedrow and Gabe Clauson all came up short, losing their matches.

"We have to find some mental toughness heading into league and regionals. We will try to get them there," Coach McAdam said.

The Bulldogs will host the league tournament Thursday, February 13th beginning at 3 p.m.

Colony Christian Church - "God First"

Darren McGhee gave the Communion Meditation on Sunday, February 9th, titled "The last day of your life". There's a story about a Jewish rabbi who was dying. His students were asking him questions, and one of them asked him on what day should a man repent. His answer was, "The last day of your life". We can't predict when hard times come, when we're caught in a sudden tragedy, and we're not guaranteed tomorrow. With each day we go without depending, sins grip tightens its hold on us. Since we do not know the day of Jesus' return, we should repent and turn away from our sin every single day. (Ecclesiastes 9:11-12)

 Pastor Chase Riebel's sermon was "God First - His word is our Authority". God's authority trumps all things. Why don't we accept God's authority? Maybe because we don't know what it says. We need to read God's word, study it, and listen to others when they speak on it. Also, some claim that it is flawed by man. The word of God is alive and powerful, it is infallible, and nothing is hidden from God. Don't let your surroundings, or what is going on in your life (spouse, kids, work, etc.) be your authority. God and his word are directly meant for our good. The word of our God stands forever and will never disappear. (Ref: Isaiah 40:8, Matthew 5:18 & 24:25 & 35, Romans 15:1-6, Hebrews 4:12-13)

 Men's Bible study, Tuesday morning at 7:00 at the church. Women's Bible study, Tuesday morning at 8:00 at the parsonage. Adult Bible study and youth group on Wednesday evening at 7:00. Pieces & Patches Quilt Guild February meeting minutes

The Pieces & Patches Quilt Guild was called to order by President Mary Parrott on January 23, 2020 at 9:30 a.m. at the Anderson County Extension office. Roll call was answered by 24 members. Jerry Lou Robinson was our guest. We welcomed Vickie Beasley, the Scrappy Quilter, for today's program.

Committee Reports Programs
 Jackie Gardner has been in touch with Nancy Giltner to get information on a possible 1 day workshop. Contact Jackie if you are interested. Following our February 27 meeting and lunch, Jeanette Gadelman will hold a workshop on making a large Quilt Carrying bag.

Charity Quilts
 Sandra Moffatt took 4 lap quilts and all of the hygiene items to ECKAN. The new manager was very pleased with our contributions. Sandra took 4 wheelchair bags to Parkview. Sandra would appreciate more lap quilts, wheelchair bags and fidget quilts.

Opportunity Quilt 2021
 Anyone wanting to work on the next Opportunity Quilt was asked to meet after today's meeting so that planning can begin.

May Quilt Show
 Bonnie Deiter, Lynda Feuerborn and Terrie Gifford will chair the May Quilt Show. Jackie Gardner and Jeanette Gadelman will chair the Boutique sales.

2020 Block of the Month
 Joyce Buckley introduced January Block of the Month which will be due in March. The patterns are scrappy and came from "Quilts and More" magazine published Summer 2012.

2020 Challenge
 As promised, Bonnie Deiter and Sandra Moffatt have issued a challenge that will take us away from our traditional ways. The Title of the Project is called "JOY". The rules are: the finished project is to be 24" or smaller; take the first letter of your first name and the first letter of your last name and find paint chips that begin with each of those letters; find fabrics to match the color of those paint chips; only 3 colors are allowed in the finished project, those you select and a square of fabric provided by Sandra; the block is to be a Modern Block and you are asked to explain why you call it modern; DO NOT show your completed project until the November meeting.

Old Business
 Connie Hatch reported that she and Lori Hoyt are working on Quilt of Valor quilts at Yates Center. Anyone is welcome to come help. Connie gave our 32 donated QOV blocks from last month and she received additional blocks at today's meeting.

New Business
 Terrie Gifford asked for volunteers to help 4H students sew the County Fair 2019 Challenge blocks into a 4H quilt. Ruth Theis and Sharon Rich volunteered. Stacy Sprague and Karen Gillespie have volunteered to coordinate with 4H students. Contact Terrie if you also want to help.

Secret Sister Gifts
 Mary Parrott, Vicky Hurt and Judy McCardle received secret sister gifts.

Show & Tell
 Sixteen members showed 35 completed projects. Following the meeting, Vicky Beasley, the Scrappy Farmer, gave a wonderful trunk show of lots and lots of scrappy quilts. What she brought was only small sampling of her accomplishments.

Minutes recorded by Terrie Gifford

Hyatt Social Club January meeting

Janis Hightower and Rose Marie Miller hosted a Hyatt Club brunch at 9:30 a.m. at Janis' home on January 25. The eight members present enjoyed a meal of biscuits and gravy, beverages, and other assorted breakfast items. Due to bad weather, the December meeting was cancelled, so the group was happy to be together again in a new year.

Phyllis Callahan was the lucky winner of Jelly Beans, the mystery gift. Donna Benjamin correctly guessed the contents of the other mystery gift, make-up removal wipes. Mary Ann Umbarger received a gift for her January birthday - a Pyrex casserole dish, a Farmer's Almanac, embroidered pillow cases and a good smelling candle.

Members exchanged bingo gifts that were intended for the cancelled December meeting. Goodie bags of candy and other useful items were given to members by Rose Marie. Food items donated by members will be taken to ECKAN. Mystery pals for 2019 were revealed.

There will be no Hyatt Club meeting in February. The next Hyatt Club meeting will be in March, hosted by Sherry Benjamin. Members will be notified of the date and location.

ing capitalism in the U.S. and replacing it with socialism and the eradication of conservative values.

The divide in this country is not love Trump or hate Trump; it's not either watching Fox News or MSNBC or dreaming up the newest suspicion against Hillary Clinton. The core of divisiveness in the country is the Left's desire to change traditional America into a socialist state, and the resolute recognition and defiance of that intention by conservatives. Democrats in Congress are actively pursuing that end.

That should make you very afraid. ###

If Democrats really cared about the poor, they'd repeal all the taxes and mandates that make transportation and staying warm much more expensive.

MAPLE STREET LIQUOR

To Di,
 32 years in my life
 31 as my wife
 I find so amazing and impossible not to see
 Your beauty that has and still does mesmerize me.

I've been under your spell since the night we met
 Your presence dominated my world even yet
 Steals my thoughts and tears at my heart
 Always fearing tragedy when we are apart

Every day things I can and can't see
 Reinforce how much you possess of me
 Without question I pay this toll
 For you own my heart, my mind, my soul

Decades now we have danced the night away
 Decades ahead I plan to stay
 Laughing and loving we chase the moon from the sky
 As dawn reveals "my" look in your eyes

They say Helen's beauty launched a thousand ships
 Such things are trivial compared to this
 For I have no greater fear
 Than to lose your love my dear

Once again I will say
 On this glorious 14th day
 Would you be so kind
 Be my Valentine

Love, Mark
