Advanced vote believed highest ever

Local voters, too, flood to early voting to cast 2020 ballots

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Early voter numbers in Anderson County show a tidal wave of participation in advance-by-mail and in-person advance voting in the run up to today’s election – one Kansas Secretary of State Scott Schwab says could see a 70 percent Kansas voter turnout.

Analysts say the huge advance voter turnouts locally and across the county are most likely driven by the contentious and polarizing national mood over the candidacies of President Donald

Trump

Trump and Democrat challenger Joe Biden, as well as the uncertainty of a Covid-19 pandemic that might force voters into quarantine and prevent them from voting in person.

Anderson County Clerk Julie Wettstein said as of 4 p.m. Friday 684 of the 860 registered voters in the county who requested advance ballots by mail had returned them, and 692 voters had voted in advance in the clerk’s office. Those 1,376 early voters were nearly double the combined 789 who cast early votes in 2016.

Schwab said in a press release Thursday the statewide turnout prediction is based on several factors including historical turnout data, advance voting figures, registered voters in Kansas, and competitive races driving turnout. The release said the Covid-19 pandemic has created several unique factors not present in prior elections.

In 2016, roughly 1,225,667 registered voters, or 67.4 percent of those registered statewide, participated in the general election. Advance voting trends for the 2020 races show over 565,000 ballots have already been cast in Kansas through advance voting. Unofficial numbers, according to the Secretary of State’s office, report there are over 1.9 million registered Kansas voters.

According to a report Sunday from CNN, pre-election voting as of late last week accounted for more than two-thirds of all ballots cast during the 2016 presidential election. About 91.6 million have voted early in recent weeks, the network said, with a majority of states reporting record settings

Spooks and goblins took to the streets in Garnett in solid numbers for Halloween on Saturday night with an eye toward social distancing and some extra caution due to the Covid-19 pandemic. Helpers at the First Christian Church’s “Light the Night” event used candy ramps to distribute goodies to a long line-up of costumed gremlins and their families that lasted several hours.

Watchdog says KU researcher tweaked mask data

Anderson County will continue to encourage, not require face coverings

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

LAWRENCE – A Kansas media watchdog organization contends a report on increasing Covid-19 case rates from a University of Kansas researcher who is also a tax policy analyst for Governor Laura Kelly may have tweaked the study method in order to support a since abandoned call by Kelly for another statewide mask mandate.

But Kelly and key legislative members decided in a Zoom meeting last Tuesday not to seek a mandate from lawmakers; instead agreeing to encourage counties to adopt their own local requirements.

Anderson County Commissioners were lobbied to that effect by Southeast Kansas Multi-county Health Department Director Rebecca Johnson and by county emergency services head J.D. Mersman last Monday. But commissioners opted instead to continue to encourage county res-

Grand marshals selected for 50th Christmas Parade

Local church family to head golden anniversary event; entries still sought for nighttime festivity

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Local chamber of commerce organizers have announced the grand marshals for the upcoming Christmas parade, and are still encouraging entries from businesses, civic groups, families and others for floats in this year’s event.

The 50th installment of the Garnett Area Chamber of Commerce Christmas Parade – “Golden Christmas Memories: 50 years of joy” – takes place beginning with a nighttime downtown lighting ceremony at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 28, and will be led by grand marshals Chris and Natasha Goetz.

The Goetzts came to Garnett more than 11 years ago to take a post as youth pastors with the First Christian Church. Eight years later Chris took over the lead pastor’s post. He also serves as chaplain for the Anderson County Hospital and serves on the Garnett Area Ministerial Alliance.

Natasha mentors several junior high and high school girls, leads worship at their church, served as the youth pastor for a time, and currently works at Anderson County Junior-Senior High School as the choir teacher.

The Goetzts also were instrumental in the founding of the Garnett Area Paint Project and its efforts to spruce-up and repair the homes of needy individuals in the area. Disc golf is one of the family’s favorite outdoor activities. Chris helped to initiate and build the

Garnett’s ‘helping hand’ passed Friday

Ron Anderegg inspired others with his selfless work and abilities throughout the community

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Friends and civic partners of Garnett’s Ron Anderegg say the community lost a good set of hands last week when the local community worker and businessman passed away at the age of 76.

Anderegg, who died Friday afternoon at home after a short illness, was a fixture in local civic work, climbing ladders and pushing brooms on projects ranging from the upkeep of the local senior citizens center to janitorial and fix-it work at local churches to running years of Garnett Kart Club kart races at Lake Garnett.

The 1962 graduate of Garnett High School spent a career in the insurance business first as an agent for Farm Bureau and later as an independent agent. He told the Review in a 2007 feature story his sociology degree, received from Kansas State University after a tour in Okinawa during the Vietnam War, taught him a lot about dealing with people and their needs for security.

“Sociology is the study of human behavior,

BRECHEISEN

AUGUST 13, 1926 - OCTOBER 22, 2020

Lorna Nokes Brecheisen was born August 13, 1926 to Bertha and Orville Nokes in Welda, Kansas. She was the first of 6 children. Lorna grew up in farming communities around Welda, Kansas. She graduated as salutatorian from Welda High School in 1944 and attended the University of Kansas.

Brecheisen

Lorna married Keith Brecheisen in Welda on March 15, 1947. The two were married 67 years before Keith's passing in 2014. While living in Lawrence, when Keith was finishing his degree at KU, daughters Jan and Karol were born. The family then moved to Garnett, Kansas where son, Terry, was born.

Lorna enjoyed being a stay-at-home mom while her children were growing up. She loved to sew, plant flowers, do needlework and handcrafts. She was always there to encourage her children in whatever endeavors they were involved.

In 1947, Lorna became a member of the American Legion Auxiliary. She served her local post in a variety of offices including local President. She was instrumental in the establishment of the Jr. Auxiliary at that post.

She was an active member of P.E.O. and regularly participated in a bi-monthly study club called Nova Vista. She and Keith enjoyed playing bridge and played monthly with a "Pot Luck" group of six couples for years.

Lorna came to know Jesus while still a child and was a lifelong servant of her Lord. She was a long-time member of First United Methodist Church in Garnett, Kansas where she served in the Christian Education department as nursery worker, Vacation Bible School volunteer, and Junior Sunday School Superintendent. She was an active part of the Women's Society for Christian Service.

After her children were teenagers, Lorna became secretary and bookkeeper for the Dalton-Brecheisen Manufacturing Company.

In 1982, Lorna and Keith moved to Jean, NV and became involved in a mining venture called Baron Mining. They soon joined Goodsprings Community Church where Lorna continued to serve. She added beauty to the sanctuary by creating lovely banners for various seasons.

After the Gold Strike Hotel and Casino was complete in Jean, Lorna was hired as a hostess in the coffee shop there. She worked at the Gold Strike for 22 years, retiring just before her 83rd birthday. She enjoyed her work and was proud that she was able to continue there for so many years. She won a number of awards for her faithful and excellent service.

Lorna and Keith returned to Lenexa, Kansas to be near family in 2008. They were members of St. Paul's United Methodist Church. They enjoyed the community at the Rosewood Apartments where they lived and where Lorna was a loving caregiver to Keith in his last years. She lived her last 2 years at Garden Terrace of Overland Park memory care facility.

Lorna was a generous and self-sacrificing person. She was always willing to put others' needs and concerns above her own. She seldom said a harsh word about anyone and found enjoyment in all the little things in life. When she passed away on October 22 she left behind, for a time, many who love her dearly.

She is survived by her sister, Janette Vaughn and brother, Larry Nokes, of Olathe; her daughter Jan Lyson of Olathe and her fiancé, Art McKenna; daughter, Karol Brecheisen and her husband, John Mauk of Olathe; and son, Terry Brecheisen and wife, Rita of Kansas City, Kansas; her granddaughters Courtney Goodloe and her husband Neil of Rapid City, South Dakota; and Stacey Lyson of Olathe; and great-grandchildren Simon and Reagan Goodloe of Rapid City.

Private services celebrating her life are planned. Memorial donations in her honor may be made to the Alzheimer's Association.

Scovill

Dorothy was born April 12, 1928 to Alfred and Edna (Wisdom) Pemberton in Kansas City, Kansas. HENDERSON

MAY 26, 1922 - OCTOBER 26, 2020

Rollin Eugene Henderson, age 98, of Kincaid, Kansas passed away on Monday, October 26, 2020, at the Residential Living Center in Garnett, Kansas.

Henderson

He was born in Selma, Kansas, on May 26, 1922, the son of James Monroe and Lela (Rosell) Henderson. He grew up in Selma, Kansas, and went to school through the 8th grade. The high school was four miles from his family's homestead so it was too far to walk daily. It was decided that he would work full time on the farm with his family. In 1942, at the age of 20, Rollin was drafted into the United States Army. He was sent to Camp Barkley in Texas for training. Rollin finished in the top of his class, in the medical field. He later was sent to the Aleutian Islands off the coast of Alaska where it was bitter cold. He then finished his military career in Germany, where his task was to protect German soldiers and German civilians. He was in the Army for 37 months. Rollin purchased his 160-acre farm three miles east of Kincaid. He proudly took care of his parents, raised cattle, and worked the farm ground. Rollin retired from farming in 2012. Rollin was a member of the Selma Methodist Church, American Legion, participated in the Kincaid Fair, and served local farmers coffee at the Kincaid Coffee Shop daily. He enjoyed trapping and hunting. Even more, he enjoyed telling his stories of what he trapped with good friends. Rollin played various musical instruments and enjoyed singing with friends and family.

Rollin was preceded in death by his parents; two brothers, James Milburn Henderson and Willis Jennings Henderson, and a sister, Genevieve Seitz.

He is survived by his nieces and nephews, Deanna and Wilbur Fleming, Jimmy Ray Henderson, Jimmy Harland and Susan Seitz; cousins, Donna Sue and Loren Sayers, Judy Henderson; and great nieces and nephews, Mindy and David McGinnis, Janna Jo Henderson, Jerry Henderson; great great nieces and nephews, Trey Holston and Tacy Holston; and great cousins, Sarah and Harold Kennington, Margaret and Doug Chambers, Garen and Jamie Henderson, and Brittini and Jon Dangers.

Graveside services were Monday, November 2, 2020, at the Kincaid Cemetery in Kincaid, Kansas on Texas Road.

Memorial contributions may be made to Residential Living Center or Crossroads Hospice and left in care of Feuerborn Family Funeral Service.

and in insurance you deal with human behavior every day," Anderegg said in the article. "When I got out of college there wasn't much need for social workers - not like there is today."

But Anderegg was better known for his love of racing and his involvement in local kart racing. Along with the local karting club he partnered with the Garnett Jaycees in the 1980s and 1990s to host the Lake Garnett Enduro Races, staying active in local kart races until the sport - and the volunteers willing to staff those events - all but dried up.

"I just love it," he told the Review back in 2007. "The speed, the fumes. I just love all types of racing."

Longtime friend Dave Branton met Anderegg through church and Ron later became Branton's insurance agent. Later Branton had roof damage to his house, and got more from his agent than just a check.

"I n those days money was tight and we repaired our own," Branton said. "Ron was right there - up on the roof helping me."

Anderegg's helpful spirit was a hallmark of who he was, Branton said.

"Ron did a lot for neighbors and widows," Branton said. "He never turned away a neighbor or friend in need. He was a hands on, get it done kind of guy who was a talented handyman."

It seemed his work was everywhere. He took on painting as a side job, and along with Branton painted much of the interior of the Anderson County Courthouse prior to its Centennial Celebration in 2002. He was also active for decades with the Garnett Lions Club, working on all the club's service projects and vision-related screenings for local kindergarten students. He was never one to be idle.

"Any time something needed to be done to the building, you could always see him on a ladder repairing or replacing whatever was needing attention," said Joyce Martin, who worked with Anderegg as a volunteer at said Covid-19 case counts have been higher in counties like Anderson County which opted out of Governor Kelly's statewide mask mandate months ago. The argument is more controversial since the release of an analysis by The Sentinel, an online news source that focuses on state government and tax issues, that says a review of Kansas Department of Health & Environment data shows Covid-19 cases have actually grown more than twice as fast in counties that followed Kelly's initial mandate.

Dave Trabert, writing for The Sentinel, said the timing of KU's "misleading claim" may not be a coincidence.

"Between June 29 and October 19, the counties that the KU researchers include as having mask mandates went from having 6,514 cases to 44,448 cases, for an increase of 582%," Trabert said. "The other counties had a 260% increase, going from 7,929 to 28,520."

Trabert said the research project, conducted by the KU Institute for Policy and Research, didn't mention total case growth and their report doesn't show the total number of cases.

"They compared changes in the 7-day rolling average of new cases per day," Trabert said. "That approach obscures total case growth because it doesn't show the compounding effect of daily changes."

The KU analysis counts 21 counties as having mask mandates, but not the four counties they say have mandates but aren't enforcing them - Crawford, Grant, Mitchell, and Montgomery.

"Their county case data is sourced to the New York Times but not shown in their report, so we used case data from the Kansas Department of Health and Environment," Trabert said.

He said the analysis of the KDHE data showed cases grew faster in mandate counties through the end of August, and while the rate of increase narrowed in the other counties since then, the mandated counties still have more cumulative new weekly cases.

This begs the question of motivation, Trabert said.

"It may not be a coincidence that the KU researchers released their findings a few days after Governor Kelly announced she wants legislators to strip cities and counties of their authority to reject her orders so she can implement a statewide mask mandate," Trabert said.

The lead researcher on the KU study, Donna Ginther, is a member of Kelly's state tax commission, which performs tax policy analysis, tax incidence studies and other research.

This isn't the first time the Kelly Administration has been called into question regarding Covid-19 data. KDHE Secretary Lee Norman was called out by the Sentinel and the Wall Street Journal over the manipulation of data which was released to the press that also alleged mandate counties saw fewer Covid cases.

The media may elect Trump after all

If Donald Trump wins another four years in the Oval Office, he will have the media to thank. Why? Because the blatant effort by some of our biggest newspapers, TV companies and social media giants to boost an incapable Joe Biden over the finish line has enraged supporters of President Trump; they want justice and they will vote to get it. Twitter is blowing up over innumerable incidents of censorship and dishonesty from the left-wing media.

Spotify employees trying to silence Joe Rogan, the site's number one money-maker; the Wall Street Journal's Kim Strassel receiving a "headlines don't tell the whole story" notice about her tweet of her very own column; investigative journalist Glenn Greenwald resigning from the Intercept, which he co-founded, because editors there wanted to censor an article he wrote critical of Joe Biden; Facebook shutting down "New Jersey Women for Trump"; National Review writer David Harsanyi being banned for making a joke about being banned; CNN conjuring up a "Fake News" story about Trump rally-goers being abandoned in Pennsylvania, and on and on.

And, then, of course, the granddaddy of all media outrages: the New York Times, the Washington Post, NPR and nearly every other news organization in the country ignoring and dismissing the shocking materials on Hunter Biden's laptop, which were substantiated by colleague and Democrat donor Tony Bobulinski. The materials show that Joe Biden was well aware his son was cashing in on dad's White House position and may have even participated in those activities.

They not only ignored the blockbuster story, but actively suppressed it, with Twitter and Facebook refusing to let it circulate on their platforms.

Our liberal media outlets are not putting their thumb on the scale; they are putting their shattered reputations, too.

There is nothing more sinister or offensive to those who believe in freedom than censorship. Suppressing contrary views is the tool of socialist totalitarian regimes; witnessing it burrow into our national politics is harrowing.

may be a golden opportunity for America's Black community

Sen. Rick Scott: I voted for Trump because the 2020 election is about my family and yours. It is not just the media, it is also the toxic "cancel culture" enabled by woke elites in academia, Hollywood and corporate boardrooms who are intolerant of opposing views and punish those who do not conform.

This cannot be tolerated. Voting for Trump is one way to push back.

The liberal media's coverage of this election is an outrage. We have never seen a race in which one candidate - Joe Biden - receives near-universal generosity from the press while his opponent Donald Trump is routinely trashed, even when things go right.

Imagine: the media has not even seen fit to probe why Joe Biden has spent the past several months hiding from the press and from voters.

The former vice president has refused almost all sit-down interviews of substance, and almost never interacts with the press corps assigned to his campaign.

He has also rarely mixes it up with the public.

It is not, as his spokesmen might argue, out of an abundance of caution in this time of COVID. Biden could certainly have safely sat in a room socially distanced from Fox News' Chris Wallace, for instance, who has requested an interview for months.

Supporters of President Trump will vote for his policies because they think they are best for the nation. But they are also voting against Twitter.

There was a report on the news this morning about the University of Kansas did a study comparing these different counties and they found the ones that enacted the mask mandate had half the Covid-19 cases of those who opted out. Way to go Anderson County.

The low life that took the Trump sign of my front yard, I can kind of understand it. I wouldn't want a Biden sign in my yard either. The masks. I don't wear a mask. That's my right. People get it with the mask also. If you don't feel good, stay home. It's that simple.

There's no good going to come out of this election. If Trump wins, those idiots are going to keep burning the country and trying to impeach him for another four years for the crime of being elected. If Biden wins they'll take him out of office the next day and replace him with that laughing hyena and they'll wreck our country. This is a no win election if I've ever seen one.

wore a mask, wash hands and stay distanced.

These innocent people who are doing their all, following rules and wearing masks. When some of you people do nothing to help prevent Covid-19.

I get so frustrated when it seems like some people think it's just a every day game by not wearing masks to protect each other.

It is proven 54 percent men get Covid-19 where 46 percent women get it. There was 85 thousand new cases in the U.S. in 24 hours. A new Covid patient every 1.2 seconds and a death every 10.9 seconds. Belgium, France, Germany all have lockdowns because of Covid-19. They predict over 100,000 new cases this winter.

We do not have a handle on this plague. Our doctors, front line people are wore down. Our hospitals are overflowing. Many Covid patients in one room. Please help with Covid-19. They are predicting 250,000 new cases before Thanksgiving. God bless you.

Mr. Biden, America has lived up to its ideal

By the end of the second debate, Joe Biden was tired. He looked at his watch and then appeared to be silently thinking: "who has my jammies?"

It was closing in on 10:30pm. But old Joe was not a diminished guy on the stage. If the definition of a debate winner is which candidate was helped the most, then President Trump won. But Mr. Biden held his own until the last round when he blurted out that he wants to eliminate the oil industry.

I knew that all along but what I didn't know until this week is exactly how Joe Biden feels about his country. Yes, he's a long-standing public servant and that should be respected. But, as far as the nation is concerned, Biden's heart is in the wrong place.

In a rare question and answer with a journalist, the former Vice-President said this: "America was an idea. We hold these truths to be self evident (that all men are created equal). We've never lived up to it ..."

That is a far-left view; that the United States is not a noble nation because some citizens were and are denied equal rights. So, we have to rearrange the country and create a powerful central government to "impose" social justice. You may remember that New York

The truth that Joe Biden does not accept is that the United States today provides more opportunity to pursue happiness than any other country in the world.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

BILL O'REILLY, Guest Commentary

Governor Andrew Cuomo said pretty much the same thing when he opined America was "never that great."

It is apparent that Joe Biden has bought into a governing concept that harms some citizens to benefit others. And if he is elected President, many Americans are likely to be hurt in the name of economic, environmental, and racial "justice."

It is certainly true that our country has treated blacks and Native-Americans unfairly throughout history. I document that in my books "Killing Crazy Horse" and "Killing Lincoln." And, by the way, most Americans accept that history is flawed, not only here but in every single nation on earth.

The intent of the Founding Fathers was to provide a system that would allow freedom and the pursuit of happiness without government interference. We fought the Revolutionary War and the Civil War to ensure that promise. Over the years, hundreds of thousands of Americans have died in conflicts against tyranny.

Many of the colonists, including some of the Founders, understood that slavery was an insult to God and to humanity. But the power did not exist in Philadelphia to force the southern colonies to outlaw it. So, a new nation arose with a brutal deficit.

Does that mean America has never "lived up" to its promise? No, it does not.

The truth that Joe Biden does not accept is that the United States today provides more opportunity to pursue happiness than any other country in the world. Poor and desperate people in Honduras understand that. Mr. Biden does not.

This is an unfair world and we are all sinners, capable of personal bias and destructive actions. But the promise of America is a nation where wrongs can be righted and individuals are allowed the freedom to choose their own destiny.

That promise has largely been fulfilled with the caveat that our system should constantly be improved because corruption and evil is never-ending on this planet.

After 47 years in government, Joe Biden does not seem to see the truth about America and he is not alone.

To me, that's very sad.

Biden energy policy would kneecap oil industry

Joe Biden wants to take one of the great American success stories of the past several decades and drive it into the ground.

He would turn his back on the stupendous wealth represented by proven reserves of oil and gas in this country.

Rather than focusing on producing cheap, abundant energy -- a key ingredient to human progress through all of human history -- he'd embark on the fool's errand of trying to adjust the world's thermostat 80 years from now.

After a 50-year effort to diminish our reliance on Middle Eastern oil, which has miraculously happened at last, Biden would force the U.S. to transition to solar and wind, industries currently dependent on Chinese supply chains.

Whereas California has embraced the radical goal of a carbon-free electric grid by 2045 (and has drastically increased the price of energy in the state already), Biden has seen and raised the Golden State by embracing a goal of 2035. All this was underlined by Biden's statement at the end of the last debate that he wants to transition from oil.

It's a funny time to want to kneecap oil and gas. Proven reserves of natural gas in the U.S. are higher than ever before, thanks to American-made technological innovations. A couple of years ago the U.S. surpassed Russia and Saudi Arabia in crude oil production. In recent years, petroleum and natural gas exports have been increasing. And, of course, the rise of natural gas has cut U.S. carbon emissions.

This should be considered a national strength to be built on, not a national shame to be put on a glide path to extinction. Fossil fuels are a tremendously useful source of energy, and no hope about renewables can obscure that reality.

In 2019, petroleum, natural gas and coal accounted for 80% of overall energy consumption in the United States, according to U.S. Energy Information Administration. Renewables made up only 11%, and the bulk of that came from biomass (wood and biofuels) and hydroelectric. Despite being heavily subsidized, wind and solar, combined, were responsible for only about a third of our renewable energy.

The oil and gas industry should also be prized as a source of good American jobs. Earnings range from about $137,000 a year for petroleum engineers to roustabouts at $44,000, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The idea that we are going to transition to wind and solar painlessly is a fantasy. Germany has been spending tens of billions of dollars a year trying to make this happen. Its renewable energy program has doubled the cost of energy, while fossil fuels still account for about 80% of its energy supply.

If we think eschewing fossil fuels is going to convince other countries to do the same, we are fooling ourselves. Like in the United States, the industrial takeoff in China coincided with a jump in the use of coal. China is still building coal plants at a furious clip, and its already prodigious use of coal accounts for more than half of the world's total, according to The Institute for Energy Research.

The Biden plan is an assault on American ingenuity and wealth, not to mention common sense. Now no one can say he wasn't warned.

Searching for information regarding early 1900's Leroy Military Band

I would like to dedicate this week's column to our neighboring town of Leroy, Kansas. I recently had the opportunity to view a postcard collection of several Kansas towns and events, and this rather old photo postcard really caught my attention.

I'm wondering if there are any relatives of these gentlemen still living in the Leroy Community?

Music has always played a big part at public gatherings in Kansas and no doubt these musicians provided endless hours of fine entertainment.

I have another question? Why was there a military band in Leroy?

Anticipating normalcy

Kim Baldwin, McPherson County farmer and rancher

Fall harvest has come to a screeching halt for my family. We have had some minor issues that have slowed us down, but those issues are always expected during the marathon known as fall harvest. We began back in August picking corn. Since then, we have transitioned to popcorn followed by soybeans followed by sorghum with wheat sowing sprinkled into the mix starting in late September.

And now here we are in November. I can always begin to see the light at the end of the proverbial fall harvest tunnel when we start cutting sorghum. Once we move into our sorghum fields, I know we are getting closer to being done with harvest. We are closer to being done eating sandwiches in the field. Closer to putting fewer miles on my vehicle. Closer to having regular grocery bills for a family of four instead of for a harvest crew. Closer to having my husband home at night to help with bedtime routines. Closer to returning to order and normalcy.

When we start harvesting the sorghum, it's as if a switch is flipped in my mind. It happens every year. For so many months before the sorghum harvest, I try to stay laser focused on the tasks at hand that need to be done on a day-by-day basis. I do what I can to help the crew stay as efficient as possible. I put my head down and keep moving forward while trying to preserve as much of a routine as possible for the kids. But by the time sorghum harvest rolls around, my focus wears off, and I begin envisioning our anticipated "downtime" once harvest wraps up. I am ready to get the crop in and return to normalcy with my family.

However, sometimes Mother Nature has other plans. Case in point — 2020. The recent change of weather has completely shut down our harvest efforts. We were running full-steam ahead, but our late October ice and snow has made it impossible to get the machines into fields. It's simply too wet. My husband half-jokingly stated we should be done with harvest by Christmas now.

Wait, what? In the 10 years I've been part of this farm, the latest we have ever gone with fall harvest is the day before Thanksgiving. I'd like to aim for the eve of Thanksgiving this year if possible. But I realize we very well could be harvesting into December. Afterall, we still have the sunflower crop to harvest after we get done with the sorghum.

One silver lining to harvest being delayed because of weather is my husband has been home during the evenings. My family has been able to eat warm meals at the kitchen table together. We've cuddled on the couch with the kids to enjoy a family movie night. We've played board games in the living room before bedtimes. It's a rare occurrence to have him join us at home in the evenings during fall harvest, but it's one we truly embrace when we get the sweet opportunity.

I know this pause in harvest will soon end, and I also know we will eventually get all of the crops out of the fields. Even though it's less than ideal — and regardless of my desire to get harvest done as soon as possible — there is a possibility that we will harvest clear into late December. I'll continue to remind myself that whenever we officially finish our fall harvest it will still allow my little farm family some much anticipated normalcy before spring planting begins and another busy season rolls around.

Those voters make up about 43 percent of all U.S. registered voters, CNN reported, and 16 states as of last week had seen more than half of their registered voters cast their ballots ahead of election day.

Lancer finishes top 10 at State

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

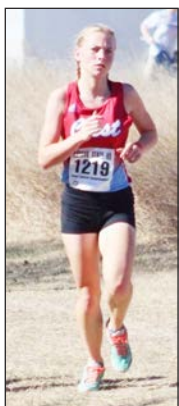

VICTORIA - It was a good finish to a great season for Crest Lancers Ursula Billings. The junior capped off the season by placing 7th at the state meet on Saturday with a time of 21:03.

Senior Jaycee Vath of Lincoln High School won with an impressive time of 19:20, which was 36 seconds faster than the second place finisher.

Last year Billings finished 14th at the state meet, so she improved dramatically, but her goals were set slightly higher.

"I was happy because I moved my placing from 14th last year to 7th this year, however I was really hoping to get into the top 5," Billings said.

The season had a much different feel to it with all the smaller meets and less runners than usual, so the state meet was a challenge to navigate so many runners.

"Since there were so many girls in the race, getting out in the beginning was tough. It took me a while to find my best stride and get into position. But the biggest challenge I faced on the course was a tall, steep hill that I had to run twice. The wind had also picked up just before our race started, and there were hardly any trees along the trail to block it out," Billings added.

Bulldogs face stiff competition at state

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WAMEGO - It was tough sledding on Saturday as the Anderson County Bulldogs squared off with the top runners in 3A state as both teams failed to place an individual within the top 40.

The winner with a time of 19:36 was Lara Murdock of Colby.

The top girl runner for ACHS, out of 112 runners, was freshman Addie Fudge with a time of 22:35, good for 43rd place.

Fellow freshman Kassie Mains was next in line for the Lady Bulldogs with a 60th place finish with time 23:16.

Next up for AC was Rayna Jasper (66th), then Lanie Walter (81st), Mackenzie Kueser (88th), Emily Moyer (90th) and Katie Schmit (110th).

The boy's results were very similar.

First place in the boys run was Cormick Logue from Girard with a time of 16:17.

The top Bulldog runner for the boys was Landon Kraft, freshman, who finished in 43rd place with a time of 18:38.

The rest of the finishers for the Bulldogs were: Riley Hedges (51st place), Kasen Fudge (62nd), Seneca Wettstein (71st), Dylan Cole (97th), Orvel Broce (109th) and Leo Sheahan (114th).

Lady Viking finishes in the top 20, boys place 8th at State

The top overall finisher from Central Heights was the only girl qualifier for state this year, Taryn Compton.

Compton finished in 18th position with a time of 21:01.

Sometimes cross country team success isn't indicative of the talent on a team and this 2020 Viking boy's squad is no exception.

David Craft (26th place, 17:31) and Luke Cotter (33rd place, 17:44), both seniors, were an integral part of the success over the past 4 years for the Vikings but they didn't have the depth around them to equal past success as a team.

The remaining runners were senior Jesse Warton (104th place) and a trio of underclassmen.

Dakota Kuczarski (57th, 18:29) outpaced sophomore Nicholas Schultze (86th, 20:05) and freshman Alex Skeet (103rd, 22:56)

Head coach Troy Prosser is losing a pair of incredible runners. Prosser said, "The boys team again graduates another group of incredible seniors in David (Craft) and Luke (Cotter) as well as Jesse (Warton) in his first season as an endurance runner - joining the team after missing the first seven weeks. David and Luke ended their careers with personal best times to add to their 2017 and 2019 State Runner up teams as well as their 2018 State Championship team. They will both graduate next spring as two of the most decorated runners in Central Heights history."

Head coach Troy Prosser giving encouragement to Taryn Compton at State.

"No matter what happens at the end of a season, it always takes a little time to reflect on the final result. Each season presents a unique set of circumstances and challenges and the 2020 season was not short of that. The most obvious highlight was Taryn (Compton) finishing one of the most successful seasons by a female runner in the 40+ years of the Central Heights Cross Country program's history. Her 18th place finish with a time of 21:01 absolutely cements her place as one of the best to ever wear a Vikings uniform and she still has another year left! I can't say how proud I am of her and her resilience over the years. She has continued to improve year after year as a runner and is equally tremendous as a person and student," Prosser added.

Prosser acknowledged his teams overall weren't going to finish on the podium this year. "Going into the weekend, we knew we weren't positioned to equal the successes of the previous teams, but being ranked in the top 10 for five consecutive years (#9 after the regional meet) and finishing the season as the #8 team out of 64 2A schools is still a huge accomplishment. Looking forward to the 2021 season, both the girls and boys teams will look to add to their depth and improve in many ways on this season. After hundreds of miles over the past few months, each and every one of them have earned a chance to rest up, heal up and enjoy the way they have represented Central Heights with both success and high character."

Lancers cruise in opener, face stiff 2nd round test

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - Crest cruised past Wakefield in the first round of the playoffs last Thursday night at home, downing the Bombers 56-26.

Quarterback Jacquez Coleman had a huge night. Coleman connected on all 4 pass attempts for 88 yards and 2 touchdowns and toted the ball 15 times for 260 yards and 3 more touchdowns.

Holden Barker rushed the ball 14 times for 84 yards and 2 scores and Stratton McGhee added 10 carries for 74 yards and a touchdown. McGhee also hauled in 2 catches for 59 yards and another score.

Ethan Godderz caught Coleman's other touchdown as he finished the day with just the one catch for 27 yards.

McGhee also spearheaded the Lancer defense with 18 tackles, 8 of them for loss.

Barker added 14 tackles and Godderz chipped in with 11 stops.

Next up is a Friday night showdown with the Hartford Jaguars in Colony, kickoff is 7 p.m.

It is expected to be the most competitive game the Lancers have played this season. Hartford enters the game at (6-3). Hartford has won their last 5 games, a couple of them via forfeit.

Hartford's only losses have come to Madison (9-0), Burlingame (7-2) and Lebo (10-0).

Bulldogs close season with a win on the gridiron

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - The Anderson County Bulldogs concluded their season with a 14-8 victory over Cherryvale on Friday night.

The Bulldogs and Cherryvale were tied 0-0 after the first quarter. The Bulldogs struck first with 9:49 left in the second quarter as Fisher Galey ran in it for the game's first score. The conversion was no good so the Bulldogs led 6-0.

Cherryvale answered quickly, scoring in just a minute and a half and added the two point conversion to lead 8-6 with 8:11 to go in the half.

The scoring continued as Anderson County scored on their ensuing possession as Alex Brownrigg ran it in for a touchdown, this time the conversion was good to make the score 14-8.

Defense would reign supreme the rest of the night as neither team would score any more points.

The victory ended a 5 game skid for the Bulldogs as they finished the season (4-5). The loss dropped Cherryvale to (2-7).

Vikings struggles continue, season comes to an end

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

HOLTON - A promising start to the season came to a disappointing end for the Central Heights Vikings (4-5) as they bowed out in the first round of the playoffs to Jackson Heights (4-4), 26-0.

After a 4-1 start, the Vikings appeared to have turned a corner and excitement was starting to build.

But a disappointing 4 straight losses to end the season put a damper on the season, but strides were still made as a program.

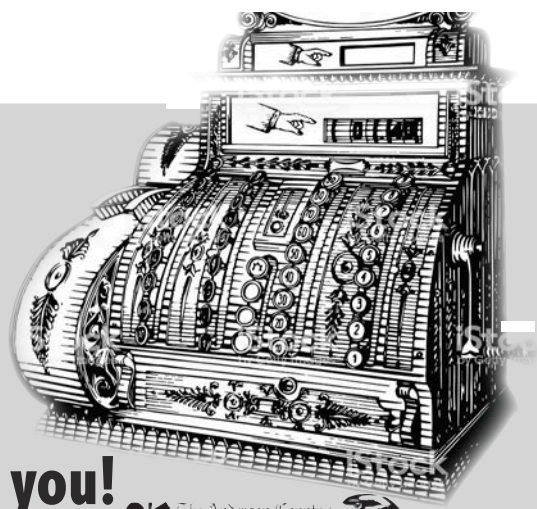

Jackson Heights moves on to play undefeated Olpe (8-0). Olpe downed Jackson Heights earlier this season 35-0.

Your politics will not save you!

Every four years in America people look to a Presidential candidate who they hope will resolve their problems. This process is similar to what happened in Biblical times specifically in 1 Samuel 8 when the people asked for a king to lead them. They felt a king was necessary because Samuel, who had been their spiritual leader was growing old and his sons were corrupt and unfit to follow as the leaders of the people. But when they said, "Give us a king to lead us," this displeased Samuel, so he prayed to the LORD. And the LORD told him: "Listen to all that the people are saying to you; it is not you that they have rejected, but they have rejected me as their King. Now listen to them; but warn them solemnly and let them know what the king who will reign over them will do."

The people reasoned that if they had a king to lead them, to go out before them and fight their battles they would be like all the other nations. Even though God had led them from Egypt and placed them in the promised land the people chose to place their trust in a man they could see versus a God they couldn't. Israel chose to reject God as King in favor of a man. Thus begins hundreds of years of kingly leadership for the people and they prospered or suffered in direct correlation to the type of king they had.

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

As the U. S. approaches another election cycle let's take a lesson from the experiences of the people of Israel and evaluate our hearts motivation as we prepare to vote. No matter your political party or candidate preference make sure you're not placing more faith, hope and trust in a person than you are in the One True God.

Dr. Adrian Rogers made this statement concerning elections. "As Christians it is not our responsibility to save America or to preserve our freedoms, as important as they are, but to stand up for Christ and to witness to this world of his grace and his power. To say it and mean it, Jesus is Lord." In other words, your politics will NOT save you. Jesus will.
