DEAD COLD

Low temp hits minus 21 in Garnett Wednesday; high today aims at 61 degrees

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WASHINGTON, D.C. — After a winter haymaker punch that saw temperatures drop to -21 in Garnett last Wednesday and cause havoc across the middle of the country, newly-elected Kansas Senator Roger Marshall is asking ranking members of the U.S. Senate for a hearing on the nation's electrical grid to get an explanation of problems that led to power blackouts and the deaths of some 70 people in states most affected.

The move is among the latest responses to a brutal cold spell that began the week of February 8 and ended only days ago, after ravaging millions of homes with cold damage and broadsiding natural gas prices for millions of residents and their local gas companies and municipalities.

Garnett City Commissioners were set to hear an update on the city's utility situation at tonight's regular commission meeting.

Garnett Industrial Airport Manager Pat Schettler said the airport's weather station recorded -21 degrees on Wednesday. Today, forecasters estimated the high would hit 61 degrees.

Garnett officials last week were grappling with devastating news that the city's contract natural gas price from the Kansas Municipal Gas Agency had rocketed from some $3 per unit earlier in the week to more than $300 per unit on Friday with higher prices on the horizon. City manager Chris Weiner estimated February's tab for city gas at some $1.5 million dollars — almost the entire amount budgeted for the remaining 10 months of 2021.

According to a press release, Marshall sent a letter to the Senate Committee on Energy & Natural Resources Chairman Joe Manchin

Preliminary hearing reset for next week in case of man accused of killing his mother

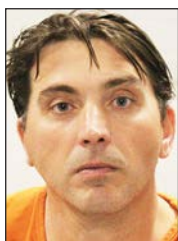

PLEASANTON — Last week's brutal cold snap resulted in the rescheduling of James "Rocky" Allen's preliminary hearing in Linn County District Court on charges that he used his vehicle to murder his mother, 70 year-old Charlotte Grimes, on a rural county road near Parker on December 15.

Allen's hearing was continued to March 2 at 10 a.m. to be held via Zoom.

Investigators say the 42 year-old rural Parker man drove off the road and rammed his mother's car again after rear ending it and knocking it from the roadway into a pasture when the two met on Keitel Road near Parker December 15. Onboard data recording in Grimes' 2014 Nissan Versa said her car was sitting still in the road when Allen's pickup slammed into it from behind at a high rate of speed, knocking it off the roadway and into an adjacent field.

Investigators at the scene said evidence showed Allen's truck did a three-point turnaround some distance from

Allen

Grimes' car, striking a fence post in the process, before the initial impact.

Information from the Versa's onboard computer was analyzed by KHP officers on December 18. Officers logged into the vehicle's Event Data Recorder, which records information from the airbag system and other systems monitoring speed, braking steering, seatbelt use and other information. Based on that information, officers determined Grimes foot was on the brake and the brake switch activated five seconds prior to the initial impact.

Competency?

Today's hearing will steer path of local attempted murder case

GARNETT — A court hearing was scheduled today to discuss the mental competency evaluation of a Garnett man accused of attempted murder in a bizarre lovers' triangle gone bad in July of last year.

Maxwell T. Williams, 28 of Garnett, underwent a psychological evaluation in January to determine if he was mentally capable of understanding the charges against him and participating in his own defense against allegations that he ambushed and stabbed William Hopkins of Williamsburg at the home of their mutual girlfriend Mary Jennings in Garnett July 24. Attempted murder and obstruction charges against Jennings were dismissed in December in exchange for her testimony against Williams.

An affidavit filed in the investigation and subsequent charges said Hopkins told officers he and Jennings shot a sex video and sent it to Williams, with whom Jennings had a recent relationship, July 23. Hopkins then contacted Williams July 24 out of concern

Jennings might harm herself and drove from Williamsburg to Garnett to see her. When the two retired to Jennings bedroom, Hopkins said Williams sprang from a bedroom closet and stabbed and slashed him.

The affidavit says Hopkins showed up at Anderson County Hospital's emergency room the night of July 24 with multiple injuries and was at first reluctant to discuss the details of his injuries with police. Evidence retrieved from his vehicle eventually led officers to Jennings' home, which she and Williams had since vacated, and the discovery of blood smears and clothing items belonging to Hopkins.

Court documents showed Jennings, who at the time of Hearing on plea deal

child sex case

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT — A 45 year-old Garnett man expected to enter a plea Monday in Anderson County District Court on indecent liberties and criminal sodomy charges had his hearing moved back to March 22.

Melvin J. Gray faced seven total charges ranging from indecent liberties with a child to aggravated indecent liberties and criminal sodomy stemming from a relationship with a 14 year-old girl who attended the Garnett church at which he was a youth pastor. Charging documents said the incidents began in October while the two were on a church float trip near Williamsburg. Additional charges were filed relating to the same incidents in Franklin County.

A probable cause document used by investigating officers to obtain Gray's arrest warrant said the two communicated via a cell phone Gray left in the bathroom of the church and via messaging features of the Trivia Crack computer game.

Kansas law sets the age of consent for sexual relations at 16 years. An adult in Kansas commits felony offenses if he or she has relations with someone between the ages of 14 and 16, and rape if the victim is under 14 years old.

The biblical path forward

In the 6th chapter of John the apostle records the feeding of the five thousand. Jesus seeing a great crowd of people moving toward them asks the disciples a question. "Where shall we buy bread for these people to eat?" The disciples did not answer that specific question. Philip said to him. "Eight months wages would not buy enough bread for each one to have a bite." Andrew then spoke up and said. "Here's a boy with five small barley loaves and two small fish, but how far will that go among so many?"

We are not told how deep into Jesus' earthly ministry this event occurred but I am sure the disciples had seen Jesus perform many miracles. Jesus told the disciples to have the people sit down. He blessed the food and then had them distribute it. When everyone had eaten Jesus had the disciples gather the pieces that were left over and they gathered twelve baskets.

Jesus spent almost all of his earthly ministry training these twelve men. He addressed the masses for sure, feeding them, healing them and to some extent teaching them. However his main point of emphasis was these twelve men. They would be his voice when he was gone. This is the method the church needs to adopt. Jesus knew he could make no lasting impression on the masses. For the most part they did not understand who he was. They liked some of what he said, although in the latter part of his ministry many who had been following him turned back and no longer followed him, calling his teaching "hard who can accept it." They liked being fed and having their sickness healed, and some of his teaching but when he presented his message that gave them the requirements to enter the kingdom, they as the rich young ruler, went away sad.

So what is the message we receive from this story? The old model of servant caregiver for the pastor does not lend itself to growth, but creates a culture of people dependent on the pastor. It encourages people to focus on their needs alone. Mass evangelism while temporally effective does not allow for the continued growth and education of the new convert. Jesus started with twelve men, then appointed seventy two more which was the basis for his whole ministry. (Luke 10:1-4) Jesus set forth a pattern for us to follow. The question is will we have the courage to follow this method to ultimately deepen the knowledge of our congregation or not? The New Testament is documented evidence it works.

Ministry on the Holiness of God.

Colony Christian Church - "The Cost of Love"

Pastor Chase Riebel gave his sermon online this week due to the weather, titled "The Cost of Love". Love comes from God, and just like God, we should give that love away to others. Why did God give us free will? Love cannot be true love if it's demanded or forced. True love is courageous, but it is also costly. God sacrificed his only son for us. He knew what he would need to do to win man back. People use the verse John 3:16 to "prove" that God is love, not a loving God. They think that everyone will go to Heaven. But as a loving God, he is just. He is to be feared, respected and obeyed, and he will judge based on his righteous standards. But we are still given the choice to love him or not. We can choose to accept or reject his love for us. We are called to love others self-sacrificially; with patience and kindness, not rejoicing in their sins. Reflect God's love. By doing this, it proves to the world that we are his disciples, and that is the first step in changing relationships. We need to consume God's love so we can stay spiritually alive and reflect his love to others. So put others above yourself, extend grace, be compassionate, be humble, and love others. HABERLEIN

AUGUST 17, 1953 - FEBRUARY 17, 2021

Arveca Rebecca Haberlein, age 67, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Wednesday, February 17, 2021 at Northpoint Skilled Nursing at Paola, Kansas. She was born August 17, 1953, in Kansas City, Kansas, the daughter of Godfrey and Mary (McGahan) Leonard. Arveca graduated from Wyandotte High School and attended Johnson County Community College.

Haberlein

Chief "Charly" Arveca joined the Navy in 1971, and in 1979 was stationed in Norfolk, Virginia, under the Commander In Chief of the Atlantic Fleet. Rated as a Nuclear Weapons Statistician, a position that held Top Secret status, one of Charly's responsibilities included having an infamous 'Red Phone' on her desk.

During this time, she was part of a team of four people that received a Letter of Appreciation for saving the Navy millions of dollars. We are unable to tell you exactly 'how' this occurred, due to it ACTUALLY BEING TOP SECRET! Shortly after, in 1980, she accepted an assignment aboard the USS Canopus and became the first woman in the Navy to qualify as OOD (Officer On Deck) on a fast frigate. During her tour on the Canopus she again received a Letter of Appreciation, this time from the Marines for morale. She is also the only woman to join an Iron Man Competition.

Charly's unique service to our country has earned her 12 ribbons and medals; including two National Defense medals and a Global War on Terrorism Medal. The Army has also recognized the Chief's amazing multi-talents by awarding her the Army Appreciation Medal for her volunteer work in Iraq, where she put together a library.

She joined the Navy Reserves in 1991, and the National Guard in 1996. She retired in 2005 as a Chief Petty Officer, and is a member of both the VFW and The American Legion. Her family is no stranger to military service. During WWII, Charly's father served in the Army, as did her younger brother in Iraq. One son was in the Air Force, and his twin is in the National Guard and also served a tour in Kuwait.

Arveca was preceded in death by her parents, Godfrey and Mary Leonard.

Arveca is survived by her siblings; Jessie (Leonard) Fisher of Kansas City, Kansas and Steve Leonard of Colony, Kansas; her five children, Angela (Alonzo) Stout of Maryland, Arveca "Classie" McSwane of Osawatomie, Kansas, Sterling "Blaze" Haberlein of Wichita, Kansas, Shane Haberlein of Wichita, Kansas, and Cody (Haberlein) Carlein of Topeka, Kansas; seven grandchildren; Allaire, Azillia, Druvyn, Leday, Tyrus, Bronen, Carsen.

Memorial services will be held at 2:00 P.M., on Thursday, February 25, 2021, at Feuerborn Family Funeral Service Chapel, Garnett.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Legion Fuller-Thompson Post #48 of Garnett, Kansas.

Wind farms not just dumb, but deadly

Up until people started dying in Texas last week due in part to the Deep State love affair with wind farms, most common sense individuals just believed the flawed logic of the exorbitantly expensive, science-denying industry was simply dumb.

We never considered it could be deadly. But even those of who've watched and opposed the wind industry and its diabolical impacts on rural communities as well as federal and household budgets in the past decade neglected to account for the volume with which puppeted U.S. power companies have become dependent upon this enviro-financial ponzi scheme.

And no sooner did the first fatality reports hit the airwaves during last week's brutal cold snap than liberal windmill advocates were rushed to the forefront by the mainstream media to quickly disavow any responsibility for the disaster, even though windmills making up the massive Texas wind farms froze up solid.

It was the bitter cold, windmill proponents said, that hit the natural gas wells and gas-powered electric power plants too, not just the wind farms. All of Texas power generation was under duress. And besides, the Texas power grid doesn't connect to the rest of the country, and my dog ate my homework, and...and...and...

Sure, no one can blame cold weather. But it was the adoption of wind policy from the EPA in Washington, force-fed to states and power companies all the way down to the Texas rancher scooping up those subsidy-addicted windmill lease checks that contributed to the Texas disaster and to a lesser degree similar rolling blackouts and other power outages across the Midwest.

Wind power supposedly generates some 23 percent of all the power produced in Texas. Savvy students of wind power understand the tragic Achilles Heel of wind - if the turbine doesn't turn, electricity gets produced. What many don't know is that windmills must be connected to outside electricity to function. If the power's out where they're located - they might as well not be standing there, costing taxpayer money, at all.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

DANE HICKS, Publisher

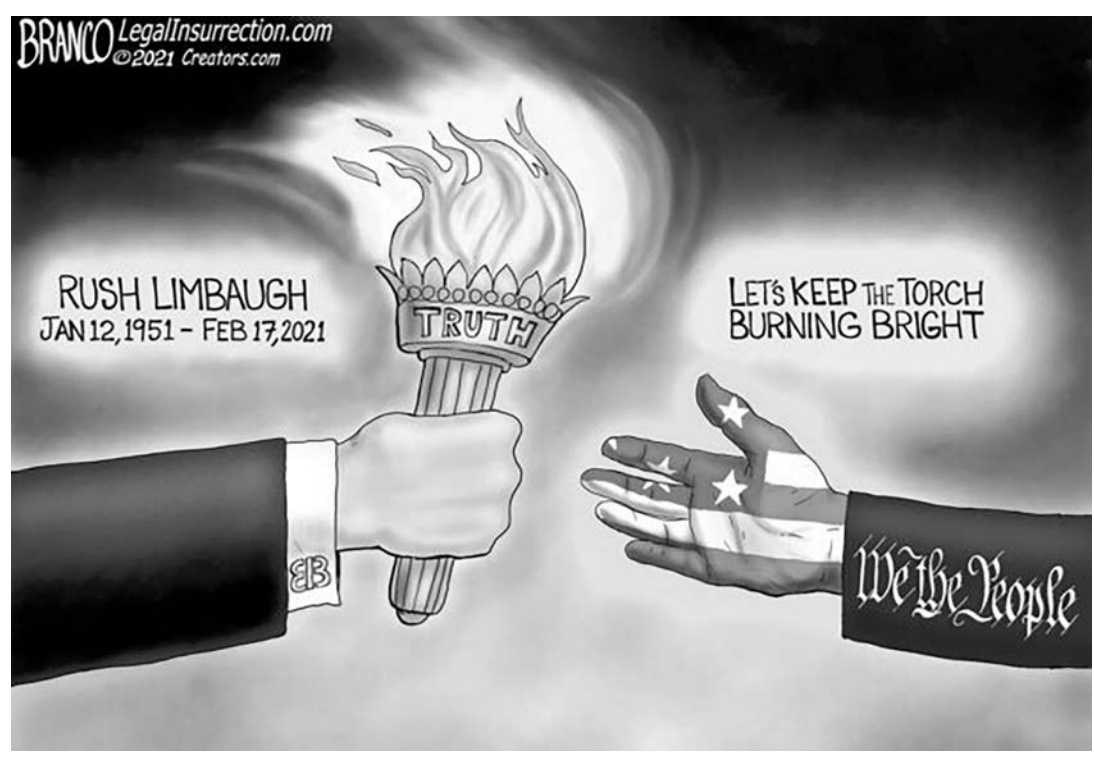

Lulled into complacency by warm winters, Texas was actually dumb enough to start decommissioning some of its power plants because planners banked on the wind industry carrying its weight. It was dumb, but it was a way to justify the electric rate increases customers were paying to cover the costs of wind farm power purchases and the immense state tax credits those companies reap in Texas. Of course, those taxes not paid by wind farms get shifted to the backs of other businesses and residents. FUN FACT: In Kansas, wind farms pay no property taxes at all.

As those decommissioned plants fell by the wayside, so did electrical reliability and the security of those depending on it. The Gibbons Creek plant was shut down in 2018, sold and set for demolition in 2020. Big Brown, J.T. Deely, Montecello, Oklaunion and Sandow - all shut down from 2018 to 2020; all dependable coal plants that produced power all the time - not just when the wind blows and it doesn't get too cold.

As reliance increased on wind power doing its job, the risk of catastrophic failure in a weather emergency increased as well. Then last week happened.

No matter how you slice it, wind farms don't produce enough power to be a viable alternative to other power sources; they're inefficient, voraciously expensive and they don't work at all if the wind doesn't blow. Now, we find out they don't work when it gets really cold. Wind proponents have known most all these facts for better than a decade, but they've chosen to ignore them.

Sometimes what you choose to ignore can kill you. ###

I'm going to stop complaining about the trench in front of the funeral home. I finally have my pickup trained to leap over it.

All of you greedy landowners over there in Allen County that signed your wind farm contracts so they could put a wind mill up on your land, look in your contract and see if it says they can turn your power off when the thing ices up or don't run. Thank you.

Is it true there are people driving around neighborhoods in Garnett looking or pets that are left out in the cold so they can call the police on the owners? Don't you think that's going a little bit too far people? Do you think somebody's going around in Alaska all the time threatening to call the cops on people because they leave their sled dogs out in the cold? get real.

If Biden didn't pull the pipeline project the Canadians wouldn't keep fanning that cold air down here.

Anderson County, you have dropped the ball on getting the vaccine to your residents. Why is there not a sign up sheet at least? We're in our 70s and have younger friends in surrounding towns that have already got their second shot. Being on a list would make us feel like we're making progress anyway. Health department has no answers either. Thank you. Dane Hicks, Rush Limbaugh is now gone. Time for you to step up and take over. Bye.

Yeah, Garnett Cornstock. Just got my tickets for Kicker Stampede in June at the Heartland Park. Would have bought tickets for Cornstock too but you cancelled it. Why'd you cancel it? Everybody else is having there's. Oh well.

Well that didn't take long. Biden not there yet a month and already coming after our guns. Fight for your rights people. Oh I forgot, can't say fight it will get you impeached.

Limbaugh: Culture reflected in how they hate him

Rush Limbaugh died on Wednesday at the age of 70. Though his lung cancer diagnosis had been publicly known for months, still his death managed to seem somehow shocking. That is how it always feels when a man of great consequence and importance reaches the end of his time here on Earth. And that is the one thing that nobody can deny about Rush's life: it was important, consequential. He was a pioneer, a legend, and he changed the country in ways that few media figures ever have, ever could or ever will.

Anyone who doubts Rush's profound importance need only take a glance at social media. There they will find many people paying grateful tribute to the radio icon and talking about all the ways that they were personally influenced and motivated by him, but another, and perhaps more profound, indication of Rush's importance is that all of the worst people in our country, many of the most vile and disgusting ghouls that our culture has produced, have come out to celebrate his death openly and dance on his grave without shame.

I will not amplify any of them individually by going through a list of all of the filthy things they're spewing. Suffice it to say that the phrases "rot in hell" and "rest in piss" were trending minutes after news broke about Limbaugh's passing. These are not just random anonymous internet trolls, but also some of the most prominent left-wing voices who, when they're not laughing at a man for dying of cancer, are busy lecturing us about the need for civil political discourse.

GUEST COMMENTARY

Media outlets showed a similar lack of restraint. Rolling Stone's headline read: "Rush Limbaugh, Right-Wing Radio Host Who Trafficked in Bigotry and Cruelty, Dead at 70." The Daily Beast was only slightly more subtle: "Rush Limbaugh, the Human Megaphone Who Hijacked the GOP, Dead at 70." Of course, the fever swamps of the left-wing blogosphere weren't subtle at all. Jezebel's top headline said simply: "Good Riddance." In other words, the media and the Left have showed the grace, dignity and compassion you'd expect. Which is to say, none at all.

Rush deserved better than to have the story of his death be a story about the jerks who rejoice over it, but it is worth thinking about this now-familiar routine. We live in a country where this sort of thing happens so automatically that we aren't shocked anymore by it. When a famous person of a certain ideological persuasion dies, we expect that "Satan" and "Hell" will be trending on Twitter because of all of the users openly fantasizing about their political enemy roasting eternally in a place that they otherwise claim is fictional. And that's exactly what happened in this case, right on cue. But why does it happen? It seems insufficient to chalk it up to mere "partisanship" or "divisiveness." What, then, is really fueling it?

To answer that question, the first thing we have to establish is that this truly is a left wing phenomenon. I am not claiming that nobody on the Right did any football spiking or made any jokes about the death of Ruth Bader Ginsburg, or some other recently deceased liberal. What I'm claiming is that those reactions were representative of a definite minority. There has not been a time, to my memory, when "rest in piss," or anything like it, trended in reaction to a famous leftist's death. For the most part, RBG was eulogized respectfully by both right and left. There are notable exceptions, but those exceptions are still exceptions. On the Left, the respectful eulogy of political opponents has become the exception. Shameless celebration is the norm.

What drives it is the same thing that drives

Biden won't call out teachers unions to open schools

It's an old political trick to make an easily achievable goal sound vauntingly ambitious in order to brag about it when it's inevitably met.

It takes another level of chutzpah, though, to set out as a target something that has already happened.

The press has portrayed President Joe Biden's goal of reopening the majority of K-12 schools in his first 100 days as so far-reaching that the timeline might have to be extended.

Enter White House press secretary Jen Psaki, who explained on Tuesday that the administration defines a school as open if it holds in-classroom instruction at least once a week.

By this metric, the goal isn't really having more than half of schools open - it's having more than half of schools still 80% closed.

Not only is this a ridiculous standard, schools have already cleared the bar. According to Burbio, which runs a school-opening tracker, about two-thirds of K-12 students are attending in-person or hybrid schools.

This goal isn't pushing nearly hard enough on school reopening.

The issue has gone from being something of a red vs. blue battle line last year to a cross-partisan arena of consensus. In intellectual and moral terms, the debate over reopening schools has been won, but political progress has been slow, mainly because powerful teachers unions are standing in the way.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

If Biden wanted to add a touch of unity to his governing agenda, he'd call out the unions for being an obstacle to educational and economic progress at a challenging time for the country.

The science is clear enough, if that matters. Experts at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention wrote in the Journal of the American Medical Association, "There has been little evidence that schools have contributed meaningfully to increased community transmission."

This makes the costs of school closures and remote learning all the harder to bear.

A McKinsey estimate from June concluded that students may have lost three months to a year of learning, depending on the exact circumstances. Then, there are the social costs for children, among them higher rates of depression and anxiety.

School closures have pulled women out of the labor force to bear the brunt of all the juggling that has to go on at home.

Nonetheless, teacher unions have fought reopening and helped stymie reopening in cities and blue states. Most schools in California have been remote. Elementary schools reopened in New York, but not middle schools or high schools.

School districts in the Washington, D.C., region are floating a parodic solution to reopening -- have kids return to the classroom so they can gather to watch remote teachers on computer screens.

Somehow private schools have largely managed to stay open, in part, because if they don't, no one gets paid.

In contrast, public school teachers are in a position to make demands even to consider coming back and doing their jobs.

After intense lobbying by the unions, most states have put teachers near the front of the line for vaccines (even though Biden's CDC director has said teacher vaccination isn't necessary for reopening).

As David Zveifel out in a piece at Wired, many union officials still insist that even vaccination won't guarantee a return to the classroom. This would be like surgeons

DIGGING UP THE PAST

By golly, I was able to sneak in one more afternoon at my latest excavation site, before the big arctic blast hit us. It's going to be several days before the ground thaws out so I can go again.

As you can see by the photo, I didn't find an abundance of artifacts, but things you would normally find lost in older home's backyards. Especially if children had lived there over the years. Keep in mind, this home site is well over 100 years old.

glass marble, in the middle a green cut glass set and on the far right is a clay marble (Note: The Makers Flaw's).

Button (Note: Thread still in one of the eyes).

Two Anderson County projects dependent on millions of dollars in state economic development funds that were turned down in November are expected to be resubmitted with the hope of bringing a sanitary sewer system to Welda and a new drinking water system to the Westphalia area. Both projects got bumped from consideration by the Kansas Department of Commerce's Community Development Block Grant program last month. Both projects will have to be refined over the next application period to meet the March deadline.

Merchants in Garnett need to be aware of an increase in hot checks, according to Anderson County Attorney Craig Cole. Cole said more and more area merchants were reporting checks written with insufficient funds. The increase can be measured by the number of cases handled by Cole in an attempt to recover the money owed to the merchant. According to Cole over 200 cases of worthless check writing were reported by local merchants in 1990. This is almost double the number of reports from 1989. In 1991, the office has already received 20 complaints concerning worthless check writing from local businesses.

Penn's APCO Service, located on Highway 59 in Garnett will celebrate its 20th anniversary next week. Owners Wayne and Betty Penn are planning to celebrate with free gifts to customers and a Saturday morning drawing. "Garnett made us what we are," says Wayne Penn in expressing his appreciation for the patronage his business has received. "We have enjoyed being here."

The board of education has purchased a site for the new high school building on North Oak Street. The site comprises the old Judge Brown home, the A.T. Holcomb home, the Joe Rooks home, and some lots owned by Roscoe King. Thus, the board, after promising that an effort would be made to obtain the wishes of the people regarding the selection of a site, in order to carry the bond proposition, has taken the matter into its own hands and purchased a site as far away from the center of town as possible. Nearly all the members acted directly against what they could not help believing would be against the wishes of the people.

and Ranking Member John Barrasso requesting the committee hold a hearing to examine the reliability and resiliency of the electric grid in extreme weather events like the arctic blast.

"I appreciate the dedication of officials in Kansas to ensuring our businesses and residents have the natural gas and propane needed to continue powering their homes and businesses through this cold weather," Marshall said. "While we continue to do all we can at the federal level to confirm no foul play or price gouging has occurred and to support our utility companies and community leaders as they work diligently to keep Kansans warm, I believe it is prudent to examine the reliability, resiliency, and affordability of electricity and natural gas when the system is stressed."

Prices of natural gas skyrocketed February 12 when the impact of a cold snap covering half the country rocketed demand for gas and resulted in mechanical failures at some natural gas wells which temporarily limited production, industry analysts said. The problem in Texas was complicated by a years-long adaptation to more wind power and decommissioning of natural gas and coal-fired electric plants. Frigid weather froze many of those wind farm operations, leaving millions of Texans without firm production electricity to make up the difference.

"The Midwest and Great Plains have seen cold weather before," Marshall said in the press release. "Electricity generators and natural gas producers in the north consistently operate in extreme cold weather. The ultimate question becomes, 'Why weren't we prepared'" and "What can we do to ensure this doesn't happen again?"

Kansas Governor Laura Kelly issued a state disaster declaration and the Kansas Corporation Commission issued an emergency order directing utilities to do everything possible to ensure continued delivery of electricity, natural gas, and propane to Kansas customers. Kansas companies have seen their power cut and Kansans primarily in the Kansas City and Lawrence areas have experienced rolling blackouts.

Bulldog wrestler headed to State

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

CHANUTE - On Saturday in Chanute at the KSHSAA 4-A Sub-State, freshman AJ Schaffer stamped a ticket to the state tournament this coming weekend after finishing fourth overall.

It is a slimmed down state tournament with only 8 members qualifying this year and just a one day event due to COVID and wanting to limit overall numbers attending the event.

Schaffer (113) opened with a loss to Braeden Moore of Tonganoxie by Fall (2:21). Moore would go on to finish in second place overall, losing the championship match by decision (3-0) to undefeated Kolton Misener of Chanute.

After the opening round loss, Schaffer would have to win the next two matches to qualify for state.

In the next match, Schaffer would down Cale Hein of Holton by decision (11-8) and follow that up with a win over Saxton Renfro of Independence with another victory (SV-1, 5-3).

In the third place match, Schaffer dropped the match to Macoy Johnson of Paola by decision (2-0).

The only other Bulldog grappler to compete over the weekend was Ashton Miller (152).

Miller dropped his first match to Will Schreiner of Eudora by sudden victory (SV-1 4-2) and in the consolation round lost to Jake Rebant of Atchison by decision (9-3) to end his season.

Yates Center pulls away versus Crest

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

YATES CENTER - On Friday, Yates Center turned a one point deficit entering the fourth quarter into a 14 point victory with a dominating final 8 minutes.

After failing to secure a league title on Thursday night, the Lancers knew all they had to do was win Friday to finish on top of the league standings.

It was a tight battle early on. Crest clinged to a 12-11 lead after the first quarter but struggled in the second quarter, which saw them head into halftime trailing 20-18.

The Lancers would rebound coming out of halftime and win the third quarter battle, 13-10 to lead 31-30 heading into the decisive fourth quarter.

With the league title on the line, the Lancers just couldn't keep the pace with Yates Center. Yates Center outscored Crest 21-6 down the stretch to hand the Lancers the loss.

Hermreck led the Lancers with 19 points and 8 rebounds. Prasko scored just 5 points but pulled down a team high 12 rebounds, including 7 on the offensive end to lead Crest.

Coach Travis Hermreck was happy with his team's effort but obviously disappointed they failed to secure the league title.

"I was happy with our effort, we left it out on the court tonight. Yates Center made plays down the stretch that we couldn't. We had some foul trouble to overcome, but that's just the way it goes sometimes," Hermreck stated.

Hermreck added, "if we would've won one of our last two league games we would have been league champions. It was tough playing back to back nights having not been able to practice for a week, but everyone was in the same predicament. We just couldn't get it done."

Next up for Crest is a trip to Madison on Tuesday to wrap up the regular season. The Lancers first round of sub-state is this coming Friday, also against Madison.

Burlington cruises past AC

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

BURLINGTON - It was all Burlington on Thursday as they jumped out to a 25-4 lead after the first quarter en route to an easy 56-29 win.

After the huge early lead,

Burlington continued to add to their advantage, outsourcing AC 12-8 in the second, heading into intermission with a commanding 37-12 advantage.

The second half would see Burlington with a slim 19-17 advantage over the final two periods to close out the victory.

Peine led Anderson County with 9 points. Katzer added 6 and Dilliner chipped in with 5 points for Anderson County.

Vikings earn win Friday night

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

MELVERN - It wasn't easy but the Central Heights Viking boys knocked off winless Marais des Cygnes Valley on Friday night on the road, 64-55.

Behind a game high 25 points from Rowan, Central Heights jumped out to a 16-11 lead after the first period.

MDCV responded in the second quarter and trimmed the lead down to just 2 heading into halftime trailing 31-29.

MDCV hung tough in the third quarter and appeared to have a chance to pick up their first win on the season, the Vikings outscored MDCV just 15-14 in the third and headed into the fourth quarter clinging to a 46-43 advantage.

Finally the Vikings gained a little breathing room late, outsourcing MDCV 18-12 in the fourth to pull away for the 64-55 victory.

Peel was the only other Viking in double figures with 10 points, followed closely by Crawford with 9.

Mission Valley wins thriller over the Vikings

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND - Mission Valley traveled to Central Heights on Thursday and knocked off the Vikings 45-52.

It was a battle all night between the two teams. Mission Valley led after the first quarter 9-7.

Central Heights played much better in the second quarter on the offensive end, scoring 16 points, Mission Valley responded with 13 as the Vikings clinged to a 23-22 halftime lead.

Mission Valley outscored the Vikings 13-12 over the next eight minutes to knot the score at 35 heading into the fourth.

It would be Mission Valley that would prevail late, outsourcing the Vikings 10-7 over the final eight minutes to eek out the victory.

Crawford and Burson led the Vikings with 19 and 14 points respectively.

Third quarter propels Lady Bulldogs to win

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

BURLINGTON - After a lengthy layoff, the Anderson County Lady Bulldogs returned to their winning ways with a 68-52 victory over Burlington on Thursday night.

It was a sluggish start for the Bulldogs who rattled off their 12th straight win after a pair of defeats to open the season.

Burlington kept the score close early as the teams were tied at 13 after the first quarter and at 22 heading into halftime.

Anderson County broke things open in the third quarter with a dominating effort, out scoring Burlington 31-10 following intermission to head into the fourth with a 53-32 lead.

Burlington responded in the fourth, outsourcing the Lady Bulldogs 20-15 but it was much too little to make a serious run at them.

Jasper led the way for the Bulldogs with 31 points. Cali Foltz added 19 and Kueser chipped in with 9. To go along with her 31 points, Jasper also tallied 9 steals, 7 assists and 3 rebounds.

Northern Heights cruises past Lady Vikings

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND - Northern Heights jumped out to a huge lead in Saturday's action over the Central Heights Viking girls and never looked back, cruising to a 49-32 victory.

Northern Heights exploded to a 20-4 lead after the first quarter and extended that advantage to 34-10 at halftime.

With the game well in hand, the second half was a much more competitive half. The Vikings outscored Northern Heights 22-15, having a 12-9 advantage in the third quarter and 10-6 advantage in the fourth.

Higbie led the way with 9 points, followed closely by Roehl with 8 points on the night.

Over the weekend Garnett hosted a Klondike Derby put on by the Boy's Scouts. The area scout members created a homemade sled which was pulled by the Scouts. The scouts were all blindfolded except for the leader and had to use their verbal commands to complete the course. Pictured above is one of the teams doing the sled competition. On the right is scout members taking their turn throwing axes.

Cancel Culture, to a great extent. It is the belief — again, not totally unique to the Left, but more prevalent by a wide margin — that people with differing views are bad people. Not just that they have bad opinions, but that they are bad themselves, deep down in their souls. The consequence of casting every political disagreement, every alternate opinion, every opposing argument, as racism or sexism or homophobia or whatever other -ism or -phobia, is that those who are conditioned into this way of thinking will come to believe that their opponents are truly and irredeemably evil.

It is easy to make a joke about the fact that the Left calls everything and everyone bigoted, but the not-so-funny reality is that a great many Americans, especially younger Americans, really believe this framing. They have taken it to heart. It is the lens through which they view reality. They look out at the world and see millions of wicked, worthless, racist, knuckle-dragging sub-humans staring back at them. They do not recognize the humanity of their opponents. They certainly cannot see any goodness or virtue in them.

The reaction to Rush Limbaugh's death is not happening in a vacuum, and it is not a matter of random, anonymous trolls simply trying to get a rise out of people. It is a reflection of our culture, and of the ideological divide, and of how deep that divide is, and of the pure, unbridled hatred that has helped to carve it.

Rush was the relentless target of this equally relentless hatred for much of the past four decades. As I'm sure he expected, that has not changed with his death. The man achieved many great things, and made his mark in countless and incalculable ways, but one of the deepest testaments to his life is that these sorts of people are rejoicing over its end. May we all hope to make such an impact with our lives.

The Biden team contends that more spending is necessary for reopening. Biden is proposing another $130 billion in education funding in his COVID-19 bill, but as Dan Lips of the Foundation for Research on Equal Opportunity notes, states still have tens of billions in unspent funds from last year's relief packages. No, this is a question of political will. Biden's goal should be to exert every ounce of influence that he has to get kids back in the classroom -- for their own good and that of the country's parents.

ity assets of Orscheln Farm and Home," said Hal Lawton, Tractor Supply's President and CEO.

Orscheln's in Garnett operated out of the former Alco building on north Highway 59. Alco built the Garnett location in 1997 and closed in March 2015 after the chain declared bankruptcy. Orscheln took over a number of Alco stores across the former retailer's service territory as well as its Abilene-based distribution center. Orscheln's is based in Moberly, Mo.

Lawton said Tractor Supply has always had great respect for Barry Orscheln and the team at Orscheln Farm and Home for the strong connection they have with customers in the communities they serve, along with their industry knowledge and capabilities.

"With our shared values and passion for the Out Here lifestyle, we are honored to welcome Orscheln Farm and Home to the Tractor Supply family," said Lawton. "We look forward to bringing together our highly complementary cultures and teams to realize the long-term value and benefits that we expect this acquisition to deliver."

Tractor Supply's stock is publicly traded, and the company's preliminary estimates indicate the acquisition will be immediately accretive to earnings per share upon closing. The earnings accretion is anticipated to grow over time as planned synergies are achieved. Tractor Supply intends to fund the acquisition through existing cash on hand.

Tractor Supply sells a mix of products similar to Orscheln's but targeted toward a slightly more urban buyer in the home, land, pets, farm, hobby farm and niche farm markets. The company has some 42,000 employees and also owns and operates Petsense, a small-box pet speciality supply retailer targeted primarily in small and mid-size communities, with 182 Petsense stores in 25 states.

Five ideas for a more inclusive chapter

Agricultural education has an inherent need to embrace all people. "Ag studies cover all facets of life and the world," says Jacob Marek, ag teacher and FFA advisor at Mayflower High School in Mayflower, Ark. "If I don't include everyone, it messes up the purpose of ag education."

Even if your school district doesn't represent a variety of backgrounds, your classroom can foster understanding. The key: a teacher's example and the students' exposure. Here are practical ideas teachers can use to respect diversity in their chapters.

to trust, and trust breeds belonging.

Learn about your students with a five-minute "about me" video.

2. Create an environment conducive to everyone.

At the beginning of each class period, Marek plays music based on the students' questionnaire responses. He also writes a different quote on the board each week from their specified role models. "I try to use cultural aspects to help everyone feel unified," he says.

3. Invite a diverse selection of guest speakers.

The virtual age means almost unlimited options for guest speakers. Seek individuals not only from different ethnic backgrounds but also various career paths.

4. Assign research projects.

Students choose who to research from options like Martin Luther King Jr., Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and George Washington, and the presentation must cover their biographies, achievements for the ag community and two other successes outside of ag.

5. Partner with another chapter.

Find a school close by — a rural-urban relationship, for example — or participate in a "box exchange," typically organized through forums like Ag Ed Discussion Lab.

National FFA week begins February 22. Central Heights FFA has events planned all week long.

On the 22nd members will cook breakfast for the Central Heights staff to show our appreciation for their support. Dress like a farm animal takes place on Monday, February 22nd, where members go all out and dress as a farm animal.

Yee Yee ol'son/Dale Brisby Day will be on Tuesday Feb. 23, where everyone can dress up as a Cowboy.

Tratter (tractor) Day falls on Wednesday, February 24, where we have our annual Ag Parade as well wear farming attire.

On Thursday, Feb. 25, members participate in Official Dress day, where they are asked to wear their corduroy jackets, along with a black skirt or slacks, a white button up shirt, and an FFA tie or scarf to school.

To end off a great week of fun activities there will be a lock-in, Thursday night. It will take place in the Little Gym. There will be activities, games, and this would be a great chance for everyone to come together and have an amazing time.

24 hours of giving for Growing the Future - Feb. 25

Each year during National FFA Week, the National FFA Foundation hosts a 24-hour giving event called Give FFA Day. This year, the annual day of giving will be held on Thursday, Feb. 25, 2021 — its sixth year in a row.

Leading up to and during the event, FFA supporters are encouraged to get involved by sharing the event with their social and professional networks, giving of their time and/or funds, and telling others why they support FFA. Each year, those who support FFA unite to donate and raise funds while also increasing awareness for the organization.

Give FFA Day celebrates the spirit of giving in the FFA family. Alumni chapters and former members, businesses and organizations, parents and friends — those are just some of the people who individually and collectively make #GiveFFADay a success.

"Each year we've seen growth in the volume of donors who contribute during the day-long event," says annual fund manager Kimberly Coveney. "With the help of generous individuals and businesses, we hope to get 1,500 supporters to join us this year."

The funds raised from Give FFA Day deliver a myriad of beneficial services and programs from the national to the state and local levels. Among them are carrying out the FFA mission and providing for the organization's greatest needs, gifting official blue jackets to members who may not otherwise be able to buy them, and grants and scholarships.

Ka'Shiya McKinney, a past state FFA officer from Alabama has contributed on Give FFA Day in the past as a student. She said, "I was inspired to donate during the past Give FFA Day because I knew how beneficial those funds would be to the members. I knew that my donation would help members to realize their potential, future career and foster real-world connections with those around them."

McKinney continued, "I think it is important for FFA members and others to support National FFA by contributing financially so members can continue having life-changing experiences in this organization."

For Give FFA Day, the National FFA Foundation partners with state FFA associations and foundations to leverage participation and increase giving at the local level. During the 24 hours of giving, donors have the option to donate directly to the state of their choice (among other options). Many state FFA foundations join the national foundation in their efforts, and also initiate their own promotions to encourage philanthropic giving.

To learn more about 2021 Give FFA Day, visit FFA.org/GiveFFADay. There you will find social media images to download and share, as well as an invitation that will save the date to your calendar in one click.

About the Kansas FFA

The Kansas FFA Association was chartered by the National FFA Organization in 1928. The Association has a current membership of 9076 members in 186 chapters. FFA chapters are established in 185 high school agriculture education departments, in 181 unified school districts. FFA is found in both rural and urban areas with chapters being located in or very near the cities of Garden City, Hays, Hutchinson, Lawrence, Manhattan, Newton, Olathe, Pittsburg, Salina, and Topeka. FFA members can be found in 91 of the 105 counties across Kansas

The Kansas FFA Association is led by the state officer team - six students who are freshman & sophomores in college serving as president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, reporter, and sentinel. In addition, adult guidance and leadership is provided by the state advisor and executive secretary. Chapter members serve as delegates to the state convention, elect the state officers, and conduct official business of the association.

This is a very exciting time for Kansas FFA as the Association is experiencing growth, a surge of new opportunities for its members, and increasing support from the community and former members. Our annual State FFA Convention continues to evolve into one of the premier state conventions in the nation highlighted by our action-packed general sessions and our ever-growing career show. Kansas FFA members are taking advantage of new leadership opportunities through our state delegate process. Former members and FFA supporters are providing bright futures for our current FFA members by becoming involved with our Alumni and Foundation.

Agriculture is the wave of the future. Today's agriculture education students will be the leaders and innovators of tomorrow who will be responsible for ensuring a safe and stable food and fiber supply for the growing world population. Kansas FFA is at the forefront of preparing students for premier leadership, personal growth, and career success in agriculture and many other industries.
