Mask mandate nixed – again

Republican oversight group heels Kelly's latest attempt to mask state as cases diminish

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA – Anderson County residents who were already freed from Governor Kelly's previous mask mandates got a continuation of easy breathing last week, when Republicans in the Kansas Legislature shot down a move from the Governor which would have re-instituted a statewide order – even though Covid-19 cases are fading.

Previous legislative restrictions forced the governor's emergency orders to expire on Wednesday, so she re-issued a number of them including a previous order that required all state residents to wear masks in public except in counties that opted out of the rule.

Anderson County Commissioners twice voted not to enforce the mandate, each time to a swell of support from members of the public who attended public meetings set to discuss the issue.

Republicans in the legislature passed laws to restrain the governor's executive order authority after her initial actions regarding the pandemic were viewed as too restrictive by establishing a Legislative Coordinating Council with authority over Kelly's emergency orders. Kelly initially ordered all non-essential businesses, government buildings and other public places in the state closed in her initial round of executive orders last spring, even though a majority of counties in the state had few and in some cases no active cases of the virus. Her reopening plan occurred in "phases," which were also viewed by critics as too restrictive and continuing to hamper the state's ruptured private economy.

Kelly

Although bolstered by declining numbers of Covid cases in Kansas and across the country, Republicans who nixed Kelly's recent order are also leery of what they see as continuing efforts by Democrats to extend the threat of Covid as an excuse to ratchet through massive federal spending bills they say reward Joe Biden's cronies and push to confirm a liberal social agenda nationwide.

While there is no legal mandate for masks outdoors or on public property in counties that opted out, private businesses in a number of areas still require customers to wear the face coverings.

It took only a few hours on Thursday for a panel of legislators headed by Republicans to shoot down Kelly's mask order.

In a joint statement, House Speaker Ron Ryckman, Majority Leader Dan Hawkins and Speaker Pro Tem Blaine Finch said there was no longer a need for the statewide mask order as Kansas coronavirus cases have fallen.

"Public health mandates should be short-term, data-driven and reserved only for pressing emergency situations," the House leaders said. "Kansans have banded together for over a year to successfully reduce the spread of COVID – and they've done so during a time when most counties had opted out of the Governor's mask mandate."

The panel voted 5-2 to overturn the mask mandate, with two Democrats opposing the move.

"We are close to the finish line," Senate Democratic Leader Dinah Sykes said. "(The coronavirus is) still in our communities. There's a variant out there. I think this is sending the wrong message."

Among the orders Kelly re-issued are those:

- Temporarily prohibiting foreclosures or evictions.
- Loosening most professional and occupational licensing deadlines and fees.
- Allowing notaries and witnesses to conduct business remotely.
- Allowing bars and clubs to sell to-go alcohol.
- Requiring COVID-19 testing in nursing homes.
- Suspending expirations of drivers' licenses until June 30.
- Waiving waiting week requirements

Long list of previous charges follows Evans to Wednesday shooting

Frequent flyer in local court to face charges in March 31 shooting

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GREELEY – A rural Greeley man who was awaiting several other felony charge court dates has been set to appear April 13 in connection with the shooting of a woman south of Greeley last week.

Joshua M. Evans, 26, faces various charges in connection with the incident including aggravated battery and intent to cause great bodily harm, criminal possession of a firearm by a felon and others.

A statement from the Anderson County Sheriff's Department Friday said Megan Currant, the apparent victim in the shooting, did not suffer life threatening injuries.

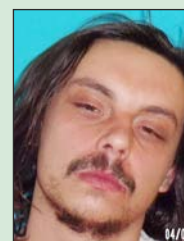

The statement said Anderson County dispatchers received a call around 1:30 a.m. Wednesday from Franklin County officers who said they were at Advent Hospital in Ottawa with a victim who said she had been shot at a residence south of Greeley on NE Tennessee Road.

Members of the Special Response Team then responded to the suspect's home and took Evans into custody. Evans was awaiting hearings on a felony drug case in Anderson County from February on which he was out on bond, and a misdemeanor battery charge also from February in Franklin County.

Court records show Evans with a long history of misdemeanors since 2015 and a felony drug charge from 2019.

Evans is being held without bond in Anderson County Jail pending his hearing at 10 a.m. next Tuesday.

Data show mandates didn't help prevent Covid

Studies review case counts in counties with and without mask rules

BY DAVE TRABERT THE SENTINEL

TOPEKA – When Kansas Governor Laura Kelly issued a new statewide mask mandate in November, 38 counties adopted it, 43 counties rejected her mandate, and 24 counties continued their enforcement of her July mandate. But 17 weeks later, the mask mandates show almost no impact on COVID case growth.

As of March 22, KDHE data shows the counties without a mandate added 5,441 cases per 100,000 of population since November 23. The counties that had a mandate in effect since July added 5,439 cases; that difference of just two cases over 17 weeks in 43 counties is virtually unnoticeable.

Seven of the 38 counties that adopted Kelly's November mandate dropped them in late December and January according to the Kansas Association of Counties. Those counties added 5,425 cases per 100,000 of population through March 22. The 31 counties that still have the mandate in effect added 5,341 cases per 100,000 of population.

Those 31 counties had just a 100-case difference over 17 weeks; that's about six fewer cases per week or only .019 cases per week for each of those 31 counties.

Again, that's a distinction without a difference.

Ironically, the counties that adopted a mask mandate in November but later rescinded them (the green line) had the greatest COVID case increase through mid-February.

Counties that adopted mandates in November and still have them in effect as of March 22 are

Former educator's foundation paves way for new softball field for Crest

COLONY – Crest School District and City of Colony officials last week credited the Pittsburg-based foundation named after a longtime Anderson County educator with its help in building a new softball field for USD 479.

The foundation kicked in $30,000 for the new field's construction – the latest in a string of support to the district and Crest students noted by assistant softball coach Bailey Lee in her remarks at the ceremony.

"A few years ago, Mr. Hermreck and the board of education put together a grant proposal and plan for a softball field at the city park," Lee said. "With the help of the community and city council that goal came to fruition for our school and community with the support of the Throckmorton-Riser Foundation."

City officials, foundation board members and school staff were recognized for their roles in the projects that built the diamond.

"The Throckmorton-Riser Foundation has been a tremendous supporter of Crest USD 479," Lee said. "They have provided scholarships to Crest graduates, books and tuition fees for vocational education programs like welding, automotive, and HVAC programs for students dual credit offerings, as well as a generous donation to the school in the amount of $20,000 for music instruments."

Alma Throckmorton passed away in 2001 at the Long Term Care center of Anderson County Hospital. She was born in Amiot in 1904 and married Warren Throckmorton in 1942. A career elementary school teacher and life-long

Anderson County resident, she was active in various community, church and civic affairs.

The Throckmorton-Riser Foundation holds some $2.6 million in assets and provides around $70,000 annually in scholarships and various education-related grant donations. Scholarships provided by the foundation are renewable in the amount of $3,000 annually, with a goal of recognizing students who have excelled academically and provided leadership in both their school and community.

had mask mandates in effect since July.

Counties that adopted mandates in November and still have them in effect as of March 22 are represented by the blue line. Case growth in those 31 counties mirrored the growth in counties without a mandate (the yellow line) until early February; case growth was a little slower for about a month but then grew faster than the no-mandate counties over the last two weeks.

Last October, the Sentinel found similar results comparing counties with and without mask mandates. Between July 6 and October 5, the counties with mask mandates added 1,757 cases per 100,000 of population; that was 18% more than the 1,492 cases added in counties without mandates.

To be clear, this analysis is not about the efficacy of wearing masks; rather, it shows that mask mandates had no real impact on COVID case growth.

Many people wear masks regardless of mandates

Part of the reason that mandates have had no appreciable difference on case growth is that large numbers of people still wear masks in the absence of a mandate. Surveys also show that a considerable number of people in counties with mask mandates don't always wear a mask.

Michael Austin, director of the Center for Entrepreneurial Government at the Kansas Policy Institute, wrote about the results of a New York Times report last July. It showed that 43.5% of people in Kansas counties without a mask mandate said they always wore a mask, compared to 57% in the counties with mandates; 21.6% of people in counties without mandates said they frequently wore masks, whereas 22.6% frequently wear masks in counties with mandates.

The Kansas Speaks Survey, from Fort Hays State, further corroborates these findings. The survey conducted in late September found that "93.5% of respondents wore a mask or face covering in stores or other businesses all or most of the time in the past month." The survey covered the entire state of Kansas, not just the counties with mandates in effect.

• Authorizing more folks to be allowed to administer vaccines.

"Since the pandemic began, my administration has been laser-focused on supporting and protecting our communities and our economy," Kelly said in a statement. "Extending these orders will ensure that our efforts will not have been wasted."

Republicans had made clear they planned to reverse her mask order. Both chambers had preemptively voted for resolutions urging the LCC to block the mask order.

Republican Sen. Mark Steffen said the falling COVID-19 cases and deaths in Kansas show the mask requirement isn't needed, and he called masks simply a "pacifier."

"If it makes you more comfortable to wear a mask, please continue to do so," he said during Senate debate Wednesday. "Otherwise, I'd invite you to step forward, Kansas strong, and move ahead without a mask mandate."

Numbers from the state health department show new COVID-19 cases have fallen significantly from the winter peak and are now at a low not seen since last summer.

Others point to those falling case numbers as evidence that precautions like wearing masks are working to ease the pandemic.

A call to Church!

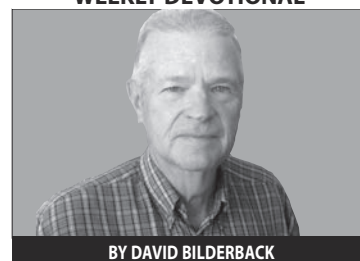

In the second chapter of Acts we read about the birth of the church and also about Peter's address where he preached to the multitudes and about 3,000 were baptized. For years we have heard how the church is dying and I even heard someone say the church in America is dead.

How easily it is forgotten that this country was founded because of a desire for religious freedom. Our forefathers even went so far as to separate church and state with the First Amendment stating that "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion nor prohibiting the exercise thereof." The reason they did this was to prevent a nationalizing of religion or one government controlled religion. The problem today is in the interpretation. Issues are debated, interpretations made and laws passed based on the legalistic foundations of personal preference, convenience and tradition. This is completely opposed to the First Amendment. This has gotten us so far away from the original intent that everyone has forgotten where the emphasis is in the law. The emphasis is on the action words shall make no law nor prohibit.

The Pharisees did this with the Ten Commandments developing over 600 variations of the law. You might ask why would they do that? They did for the same reason it is done today, personal preference, convenience or tradition.

So what did Jesus have to say about his church. In Matthew

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

28:18-20 Jesus says, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always to the very end of the age." Jesus makes it clear what the mission statement of the church should be. For sure the church has not always been successful with this. Most Sundays I sit in church and wonder why do people feel no need to respond to God? What will they feel when they lose a loved one or fall sick themselves?

The church is not dead, her doors are open and she waits. The church has been persecuted, burned and defamed but perhaps what hurts most is the apathy she faces today. How long will God tarry? I don't know. His message is clear. This is your and my call to Church.

KC Royals must suffer for sins of wokester MLB politics

After the boycott of this summer's Major League Baseball games is well underway, maybe the team owners can make themselves feel better about those lost concession and ticket sales by putting cardboard cutouts of former fans in the stands.

After all, it's been easy enough not to watch the Kansas City Royals the past few years. Now with MLB taking over the role of political punisher by dropping its All Star Game in Atlanta over Georgia's new voter protection law, millions of conservative baseball fans are going to find other places to hang out this summer other than the ballpark or televised games.

Those fan cut-outs will look better for the panning TV cameras - at least for Democrat baseball fans that continue to watch- but it probably won't soften the sting of the repercussions after MLB's wokester decision to try to force the entire state to kneel to MLB's political will. After all, we all know baseball players know more about voting rights in Georgia than Georgians do.

Of course the fact that MLB's decision was based on a out-and-out lie propagated by Democrat politicians, by President Joe Biden and facilitated by a liberal lap dog media too afraid to confront the Left for its efforts to institutionalize the theft of elections - that only matters to the former MLB fans who won't be buying $9 hot dogs and $11 beers this summer.

Rand Paul put it pretty well last week - MLB will boycott Georgia because it wants voters to show a photo ID card, but it doesn't mind penning a business deal with Communist China, renown for its humanitarian efforts, research lab hygiene and jolly Tiananmen Square approach to free elections - to stream MLB games into Asian countries.

For the record, the lie that will cost MLB millions this summer was an easy one to unravel, since the language of Georgia's new voting law was literally written out in black and white. That's the way laws are, you know... put into writing and not bobbed around from one uninformed moron to another on Facebook until they scare corporate America into cow-towing to Leftist mob.

Democrats love to convince minority voters that mean old white guys are trying to keep them from voting - and in this case everyone of them from the Turnip in Chief on down embraced a blatant lie about the Georgia law to try to propagate it. The mainstream media of course allowed it to go unchecked because its too busy anointing the Great Turnip with warm oil on its nightly newscasts to check a written law or bring their cameras to, say, the U.S./ Mexican border.

REVIEW COMMENTARY

The reality is, the only people restricted from voting under the revamp of Georgia voting laws are those who want to illegally stuff ballot drop boxes, steal the identities of other (maybe dead) voters, bribe folks standing in line to vote or who are somehow too incredibly stupid to know how to obtain a photo ID of some kind in order to exercise their privilege of voting. Those who've analyzed the law say it's less restrictive than voting laws in Delaware, where the Turnip in Chief now banishes his dogs when they bite Democrats.

Short of a full scale reversal, MLB is in for a summer-long shellacking, particularly after former President Donald Trump directed his 74 million supporters to boycott MLB and other companies threatening to boycott Georgia.

Is it fair for the Royals to suffer for the gutlessness of Major League Baseball to stand up to Leftists in its own organization? Of course not. Nor is it fair for small businesses in Georgia to suffer because the Biden-Schumer-Pelosi-Soros foursome want to frighten other states out of enacting similar laws to Georgia's.

This great Culture War is like other wars - the first casualty is always the truth. ###

Well, it looks like the demolition derby was a success. I wonder if now the fair board will come and clean up the mess in the field northwest of the arena and by the volleyball court. The grass is all messed up, people have cut donuts in the field, there's all kinds of empty cans and bottles littering the place. It's a disaster. Car parts here too. Thank you.

Just curious, does all churches in town require you to audition for a position in the choir or the band?

This is to the person who has the problem with the Trump and Confederate Flags flying. I would rather see them than the elitist entitlement wusie Joe Biden flags that you seem to think are so great.

I see our new county commissioner must have inherited the old one's 'yes' stamp. Just in today's paper we spent $200,000 for another dumptruck and another fire truck. He hasn't voted no against anything since he's been there. Just another 'yes' man.

You know I just agree with Mr. Hicks at times. But I'll tell you he sure gets things riled up. At least he has the Phone Forum so people can express themselves and they don't even have to leave their name. Now, if people would just come out and give their name and say what they have to say, that would be so cool. Now, quit picking on each other. You have the right to be on the forum. He allows it. That's my opinion and I'll stand up for it. Bless you.

I signed with pleasure the online petition from the girl who wants USD 365 to let the online students go to prom. How stupid and insensitive of our school district to try to punish these students for staying at home. You still got your state money for them. Let them go to the prom for heaven's sake. Thank you.

A mandate is still a mandate wherever you stand

Now we have the governor and the Republican Legislature joining forces to order school districts to end dual-track classes and get students back into classrooms for the final quarter of the school year.

Fine. We agree. Students need to be in class. Everyone knows last year's attempts at remote education were at best a stopgap. Schools across the country reported classes finished the year way behind where they should have been. Minority and other "disadvantaged" students reportedly were especially hard hit.

Everyone, liberals and conservatives, Republicans and Democrats, should be able to agree on these priorities. The evidence is in-person classrooms are more productive and better for students.

Experience generally has shown the dangers of having kids in school may have been exaggerated anyway. Kids don't seem to get or transmit this corona virus the way adults do. All that given, we do need to see kids back in class, and the sooner, the better. Many school districts had already adopted this stance and had shifted to in-person classes, or were in the process. Some started much earlier.

The sight of the Legislature ganging up with the governor to issue a mandate, however, it more than a little troublesome. Just a month ago, the legislators clashed with Gov. Laura Kelly over her authority to issue executive orders under the Kansas Emergency Management Act.

In two or three major revisions of the act in the last three years, both sides won some victories. The major change, however, was to put the governor's authority to issue emergency orders under the oversight of the Legislature, effectively tying her hands.

Legislators decried the dangers of leaving so much power in the hands of one person.

Many of them talked about how local officials - county commissions, city councils, school boards - should make decisions for their own community.

We did not disagree, for the most part.

The law that resulted allowed the governor to act, but in effect, her orders became suggestions for counties and school boards, which were given the ultimate power to decide. It was a good and valid argument.

It appears now, however, that not even the Republican Legislature actually believed what the members said over the past year. Not when they themselves wanted to issue a mandate, at least.

Inconsistent argument has long been a hallmark of government. Sometimes, maybe often, it's "do as I say, not as I do."

But in the future, maybe the legislators will spare us the hand-wringing and high moral argument, and admit, it's not what you believe, but who has the votes.

"Be good, and do what we tell you," because might makes right at the Statehouse.

Because it's pretty clear to see, principle means nothing when the majority decides it wants to make the rules.

The Left's lie of Georgia voter suppression

President Joe Biden is so committed to bipartisan cooperation and fact-based governance that he's launched an ignorant and incendiary attack on the new Georgia voting law.

Biden says the new law is "Jim Crow in the 21st century" and "an un-American law to deny people the right to vote."

It's now practically mandatory for Democrats to launch such unhinged broadsides. Elizabeth Warren, accusing Georgia Gov. Brian Kemp of having stolen his 2018 election victory over Democratic activist Stacey Abrams (a poisonous myth), tweeted, "The Republican who is sitting in Stacey Abrams' chair just signed a despicable voter suppression bill into law to take Georgia back to Jim Crow."

Anyone making this charge in good faith either doesn't understand the hideousness of Jim Crow or the provisions of the Georgia law. The old Jim Crow was billy clubs and fire hoses; the alleged new Jim Crow is asking people to write a driver's license number on their absentee ballot envelopes.

The old Jim Crow was poll taxes; the new Jim Crow is expanding weekend voting.

The old Jim Crow was disenfranchising voters en masse based on their race; the new Jim Crow is limiting ballot drop boxes to places they can't be tampered with.

It's hard to believe that one real voter is going to be kept from voting by the new rules. To better ensure the security, the law requires that voters provide a driver's license or state ID number to apply for a ballot and one of those numbers (or the last four digits of a Social Security number) when returning the ballot.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

The law narrows the window for requesting absentee ballots, although still allows plenty of time. A voter can request a ballot as early as 11 weeks prior to an election or as late as 11 days prior (any later risks the completed ballot not getting delivered in time).

Ballot drop boxes were a pandemic-era innovation in Georgia. The law keeps them, while limiting their location to early voting sites.

After getting blowback over proposed limits on weekend early voting when Black churches run their "Souls to the Polls" events, Georgia lawmakers expanded the potential for weekend voting.

The law gives the State Election Board more authority to take over local election operations, but there's no doubt that election officials in Fulton County, where metro Atlanta is located and long lines at the polls are common, have been incompetent. Perhaps most controversially, it bans people from distributing food or drink to voters standing in line, an effort to keep partisans from trying to sway voters near polling places. But poll workers can provide food and drink for general use.

The deeper point is that in the contemporary United States, with such wide and ready access to the ballot, changes around the edges don't disenfranchise people.

Georgia considered limiting no-excuse absentee voting to voters 65 and over. Even this wouldn't have dissuaded anyone from voting. A study published by the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research found that turnout increased in 2020 just as much in states without no-excuse absentee voting as in states with it.

Strict voter ID laws have long been denounced as voter suppression. It's not true. According to a 2019 working paper for the National Bureau of Economic Research, "strict ID laws have no significant negative effect on registration or turnout, overall or for any subgroup."

And Democrats issued dire warnings about the effects of the Supreme Court in 2013 ending so-called preclearance that required federal approval of changes in the rules in certain jurisdictions.

This, too, was wrong. A paper by a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Oregon concludes, "The removal of preclearance requirements did not significantly reduce the relative turnout of eligible Black voters."

None of the facts, though, can possibly overcome the attachment that Biden and other Democrats have to their emotionally resonant and politically powerful Jim Crow smear. Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

Stop being silent

Dear Editor,
Tried to have my letter to editor printed in my local paper, The Beloit Call but was told that they will not print it because of pressure from local officials and the owner of the paper. I was told if I wanted to purchase an ad to display it I could.

Salina Journal would not print it either and never responded to me why.

I would like your paper to print my letter in hopes we still have freedom of speech.

Sir Thomas More once said: "Silence gives consent. If therefore you wish to construe what my silence betokened, you must construe that I consented, not that I denied." This can be said of the current elected representatives from local level to National, including our religious leaders. They have all turned a blind eye, and ignored their oath to the Constitution and God in the face of election fraud and treason perpetrated November 4th, 2020. Their silence implies consent which makes them complicit. The enemy is no longer at the gate; they are within our walls and our homes, physically and spiritually. What is at stake is God's gift to us; our Sovereignty, Liberty, and the Constitution. I say hold the line against those whom we elected to speak for us, and which remain silent. If we allow our Constitution to die through silence, we are betraying those Patriots who gave their life's to protect our unalienable rights. When WE THE PEOPLE allows injustice to continue to be perpetrated against us by remaining silent, then we too are morally guilty of that betrayal.

The first President I remember said: "We shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe, to ensure the survival, and success of liberty." He died for those words at the hand of the same group of people who have stolen the 2020 election. These same people have put one man, a puppet of dubious mental and moral capacity, in power to use against us. And nothing is being done to intervene in this foreign and domestic coup against our Republic. Your elected leaders

Survey of massacre site comes to an end

My trip to Cheyenne Hole continues. Friday morning 19March2021, after a quick briefing by our Team Leader Nancy Arendt and drive to the site of the Massacre, we were ready to begin conducting metal detector surveys for the next two days. Our team consisted of 5 men and 2 ladies. We were from Colby, Goodland, Topeka, Victoria and Garnett, Kansas. The five men were the metal detector operators and the two ladies were the photographers/recorders.

All of us highly respected the ground we were working on as it's known to this day to be "Holy Ground" by the Cheyenne Nation. Each day we ate our lunch in the field. We wrapped up our first day in the field at 6:30 p.m. After driving back to Nancy's house and cleaning up, we all voted to go to a local Mexican restaurant for tacos.

Saturday morning 20March2021, I was up at 7:00 a.m. after spending the night in my truck camper shell. Nancy fixed breakfast for the three of us who had spent the night there. The same routine as yesterday. Team briefing at 9:00, drive to the site at 9:30 and continued surveying at 10:00. Oh my what a windy day! Gusts to 55 mph. Again lunch in the field, it was 72 degrees. At 5:00 p.m. our adventure came to an end. We had conducted surveys over three areas in two days. What did we find primarily? Spencer rifle and Colt revolver bullets, shell casings, complete unfired bullets, harness and wagon hardware, etc. Both the Cheyenne and the U.S. Cavalry used the same weapons. Every item we found, identified, photographed and recorded, was re-buried in its original place. Remember this was sacred ground we were working on. My most exciting find, was a Native American hearth (fire pit). Burned rocks and soil were seen eroding from the side of a small embankment. Among the rocks were 7 worked stone flakes, 2 pottery shards, and a small bone fragment was visible. Of course I could not excavate it, but it was recorded as a historical feature.

Nancy, our Team Leader, congratulated all of us for a job well done and we all parted after saying our Good-byes. I spent another night in my camper before heading out early Sunday morning for home. After gassing up my truck I was on my way. I soon had a new driving experience. As soon as I left Colby I was driving in 45-55 mph wind gusts and learning to dodge tumble weeds bouncing across the highway for at least 70 miles. My first stop was just west of Salina, Ks.

While there I called Kay to let her know I was on my way home.

My next stop was in Topeka, Ks for fuel. I arrived home at 1:25 p.m. What a great time I had in just a couple of days time. Meeting new friends is always a hi-lite of my trips.

A couple of side notes:

- Due to moisture in the area, wheat fields look great.
- This was my very first trip of driving almost 800 miles that the only wildlife I saw were two flocks of wild turkeys.
- I did learn while in Colby that pheasant, jackrabbits and antelope are nearing distinction.

Colony Community Church - "It is Finished"

Noah Gordon gave the Communion Meditation, "Love is a Verb". We have a day to celebrate love each year, Valentine's day, where people spend billions of dollars on candy, jewelry, cards, eating out, etc. But why do we just have one day to show our love? Love is an action, it's not a thought or a feeling. We can't just say "I love you" without backing it up. Scripture commands that we love God and love one another. It's a choice. A conscience decision we make, and must act on every day. (Ref: 1 John 4:9-11 and Matthew 26:26-28)

Pastor Chase Riebel gave the sermon "It is Finished!" over Nehemiah 6. When you're excited about a job being done for the Lord, the enemy doesn't like it. You must be aware to: 1. Avoid distractions, 2. Maintain Character, and 3. Be strong and courageous. Nehemiah worked on the walls of Jerusalem with even greater determination, not letting the bad guys distract him. Bad company can corrupt even those with the best character, but whenever our faith is tested, we should consider it pure joy as it helps our endurance grow. If the enemy is upping his game, then we must continue working for the will of God with enthusiasm to gain Kingdom ground. So don't listen to those trying to deceive you to go against God. Say NO to temptation! Know when to say "No!", and be strong and courageous enough to say it. Listen to the prompting of the Holy Spirit, and don't run from opposition when you're doing God's work. What the cross represents, doesn't run. We shouldn't run either. Fear God and nothing else. (Ref: Nehemiah

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 4-6-2021 / SUBMITTED

Fighting for Agriculture

Greg Doering, Kansas Farm Bureau

A couple years ago I was at an event where a fellow Farm Bureau staffer from another state lamented he spent so much of his time dealing with the legislative process, there wasn't much of a chance to really fight for agriculture.

I certainly admired his passion, but I believe "fight" was an unfortunate word to use. I'm not suggesting political fights aren't necessary, rather I think they should be treated like real fights and saved for the rare instances when other options have been exhausted.

Both passion and perspective are required to effectively engage in politics. Far too often we are led to believe passion is equal to rage and rage is evidence of righteousness. The problem is rage overpowers our ability to reason, overwhelms our logical capabilities and overthrows our perspective.

People get so worked up looking for a fight, they begin tilting at windmills and let true threats go by unnoticed. Immediate gratification and instantaneous reaction supersedes information gathering and seeking deeper understanding. Part of this is most of us only have a limited understanding of what's going on outside of our immediate lives. Sometimes just keeping track of my wallet and keys seems like a full-time job, let alone navigating the daily workings of a county commission, state legislature and the federal government's vast bureaucracy. Never mind the social media rabbit trail I get lost on for hours at a time.

ing just the surface-level view of issues is we're swayed by our previous experiences. As humans we're hardwired to fill in gaps with our biases and prejudices. That serves you well when you're walking through the woods and see something slithering along the trail.

Humans use the same fight or flight response when dealing with each other. We see safety in those who think and act in similar ways to ourselves, and we perceive danger in those who don't. Nowhere is this more true than on social media.

These platforms are great for a variety of things but fostering a deeper understanding of political issues isn't one of them. People allow their emotions and experiences to drive the discussion once a position is taken. We then ascribe all sorts of ulterior motives to those with different ideas as insular tribes form around issues and devolve into fights because this is the surface level of political discussion we see on TV.

In reality, even the smallest issues are incredibly complex, and solutions are difficult even in areas where there's broad consensus. Our instinct is to perceive disagreement as a threat, which tricks us into believing we have two options: fight or flight.

There's actually a third option and that's to allow for uncertainty. It's OK to believe those who disagree with you are sincere in their beliefs. Their experiences, biases and prejudices have led them to different policy prescriptions. But they are still human and experience all of the same emotions you do. Fighting consumes not only time and energy, but also credibility. Brawling over every issue is a good way for others to quickly ignore you. Engagement requires perspective, logic and reason. And perseverance.

The best way to fight for agriculture is to develop a passion for the mundane things like talking to legislators and policy makers about our experiences, taking the time to provide feedback on issues that affect us, becoming educated on the issues before us and, maybe the most difficult of all, keeping our minds open to new ideas. We won't resolve every issue, but these are the necessary steps before gearing up for a real fight.

Anderson County High School presents: A Doctor in Spite of Himself

The presentation "A Doctor in Spite of Himself" is a two-act sharpened version of a charming French classic, adapted for today. Sganarelle (Bryar Wight), a shiftless woodcutter, quarrels with his wife, Martine (Bethanie Cooper), who vows to get even with him. Her chance comes when she meets two servants (Garrett Bures, Kaitlyn Day) in search of a doctor to cure their master's (Koby McCarty) daughter (Marissa Friend). Martine recommends her husband in the most glowing terms, as a doctor who can perform miracles, but warns them that he will have to be beaten into it. Armed with slapsticks, the two men hail Sganarelle as a great doctor, whack him roundly whenever he attempts to deny it, and thus force him into becoming a doctor in spite of himself. Fortunately, the master's daughter is only shamming illness to avoid a distasteful marriage. When Sganarelle is able to unite her with her own true love (Spencer Hermann), she is miraculously cured—and Dr.

Sganarelle is richly rewarded. Reservations must be made in advance by calling ACHS at 448-3115. Masks must be always worn by the audience. Social distancing will also be practiced. The show takes place Friday, April 9, and Saturday, April 10 at 7:00 pm in the ACHS auditorium. Tickets are $4/adults and $3/students. Come and enjoy! Guaranteed to be a night full of laughs.

2021 SPRING SPORTS

Bulldog baseball looks to make playoff run, sets sights on trip to State

BY KEVIN GAINES
THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - The 2018 baseball season seems like a distant memory, but it was 4th year head coach Travis Persinger's first season leading the Anderson County Bulldog squad, which resulted in an improbable state appearance highlighted by knocking off the top seed in the opening round before bowing out in the second round of the playoffs to eventual state champion Iola.

The 2019 season ended with a 13-6 record but ACHS didn't have the post-season success as the previous year. But fast forward to the 2021 season following a lost 2020 season due to the pandemic and the Bulldogs are looking to compete for a league title and make another run in the playoffs.

Seniors Bo Dilliner, Carter Edgcomb, Ashton Miller, Tyler Denny and Josh Stifter were freshman the year the team made state and were all letterman the next season as sophomores. Now following a year without playing, they along with juniors Dalton Kellerman and Derek Rockers are all expected to lead an overall inexperienced group.

"We have a great group of guys," Persinger stated, "They could all play a factor in the season. A lot of them have played a ton of baseball, but when you talk about varsity baseball, we are low on experience. We could definitely see some young guys make big impacts throughout the season."

Persinger said the year off complicates knowing where his team stands compared to others across the region but he expects a difficult schedule regardless. On top of that you never know how the younger players at other schools have developed over the past couple of years.

"I feel like this year the league could be very competitive," Persinger added.

Undoubtedly across the state teams are excited to return to action.

Persinger said, "With missing last year, I feel like the players and staff are extra hungry for the season to get underway. With my years coaching baseball at Ottawa High School and here, this might be one of the more focused groups that I have seen."

That focus has led to lots of quality practice reps and even additional reps after practice. "Guys show up for practice and they put the work in. Once practice is over, we have guys asking the coaches if they will stay and throw batting practice and get extra work in the field," Persinger said. "There have been some nights while guys are getting extra reps, we have to run them off because it was getting too dark to see the ball."

Lady Bulldogs looking for a return trip to State

BY KEVIN GAINES
THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - In the first season leading the Anderson County Bulldogs softball team, head coach Doug Archer's squad won regionals before bowing out in the first round at state.

The momentum was washed away as last season was canceled, but Coach Archer has high expectations as the majority of the team is still intact from that state appearance of a couple seasons ago.

"Returning most of the team that qualified for state, as they were sophomores then, so our expectations are high," Archer stated. Archer is just as excited about the underclassmen this season and believes they are ready to contribute.

Archer added, "We have an exceptional group of freshman and sophomores that will make an impact."

Key players on this year's team are all state pitcher Amelia Brown, joined on the mound by Amelia Cubit. On the infield shortstop Kaylyn Disbrow, second baseman Abbey Lickteig, third baseman Carsyn Crane and first baseman Cali Foltz. Left field will be Ellie Pedrow and new prospects that the coaches have high expectations for are sophomore Mallory Wheat and Tarin Rues and junior Karyn Yoder.

"Pitching and defense will be key again this year. We have been working hard to improve our team hitting," Archer stated.

Same coach, same expectations for the ACHS Bulldogs track & field squads

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Mike Sibley, in his 21st season as a head coach, is a staple leading the Anderson County track squad and unquestionably his goal is the same every year for his team, win league and send as many athletes to state as they can.

Not only are the Bulldogs dealing with the fact that there was no season last year, resulting in a team full of freshmen and sophomores who have yet to compete but they also have went from competing as 4A in 2019 to dropping down to 3A this year.

"The lost year will make it hard to gauge the Pioneer League competition, which will make things very interesting," Sibley stated. "Dropping to 3A should make new and interesting competition for us. We generally have our schedule packed with 4A meets, so many of the teams we will see at regionals will be new competition for us."

Returning letterman from two years ago are seniors Mara Lutz, Mackenzie Kueser, Abby Reid and junior Morgan Edens for the girls. Returning letterman for the boys are seniors Riley Hedges, Leo Sheahan, Seneca Wettstein and juniors Kasen Fudge and Chaylin Peine.

"Reid, Kueser and Hedges will lead our team as seniors and will try to make it back to their state qualifying performances of 2019," Sibley stated.

He added, "Leadership will be our strength. Having a team filled with freshmen and sophomores who have never competed at the high school level will be our weakness. But through good leadership, we hope they are competing well by the end of the year."

Bulldog boys golf both talented and dedicated

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - While the Anderson County Bulldogs will have a new coach leading them, she is no stranger to players on the team as Coach Nicole Wiehl has been the girl's coach in the fall for the past 12 years.

Last season was supposed to be her first season, so despite not having a season she was able to become familiar with many of the guys on the team.

"It's hard to determine who exactly would have lettered last year, but I have some great returners that will help our team this season," Wiehl stated.

Joining seniors Josh Martin and AJ Rues are a talented group of juniors in Lane Richards, Carter Blome and Braxton Spencer.

The future looks bright for the guys golf program. "Our golf team is sophomore strong," Wiehl stated.

A quartet of seniors didn't get a chance to close out their season. Jayden Jarett,

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 4-6-2021 / ROCKERS PHOTOGRAPHY

Zach Barnes, Nick Lybarger and Eric Rytter all had their careers cut short due to the pandemic.

With so many unknowns, Coach Wiehl doesn't even concern herself with the competition and just wants her team to be at their best regardless of the opposition.

"We have a very strong team this year, so many of them are key to a successful season. Martin is a consistent golfer that has played a lot over the summer and keeps improving. Richards is also consistent and played a lot over the summer as well. Junior Reece Jarett is new to the team and will be a great addition as he has improved over the summer. Blome will be unstoppable if he keeps making his putts," Wiehl added.

As far as team goals go, Wiehl would like to see 3 golfers finish in the top 10 at every tournament.

Wiehl is very excited about her team and loves their work ethic.

"This team has so much talent and is one of the hardest working teams I've had the privilege to coach. During previous offseasons I typically see one or two players working on their game, but this past offseason I saw four of five team members working to improve their game. The best golfers will hone their game throughout the year, those that don't pick up their clubs between June and March will struggle to keep up with those that did."

Lancers upperclassmen hoping for trip to State

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - At a small school, track and field can open up many opportunities for kids to compete in events they normally wouldn't and Zach Mason, in his 6th year coaching for Crest, knows that just putting kids in events that they can be successful in is the key to building confidence within an athlete and making the sport fun for the kids.

"I just want to make sure that breaking personal records and season records is just as a big of a deal as someone placing," Mason said.

This can often be important because throughout the season the 1A Crest Lancers track & field will often compete against larger schools so it isn't always a great indication as to how things can fold out come regionals at the end of the season.

"It is about improving each week and being grateful for the chance to compete this year since they did not get to last year," Mason added in reference to the season being canceled last year due to the COVID pandemic.

Mason went on to say, "I just want the kids to improve each week and hope that everyone peaks at the end. Hopefully we can send more athletes to state than we have in years past."

Mason expects seniors Stratton McGhee and Kobey Miller along with juniors Ursula Billings and Lindsey Godderz to lead the way for the younger athletes as they are the only returning letterman from two years ago.

McGhee will lead the way in long jump and sprinting events, Miller the javelin, Godderz the javelin and discus and Billings in the 2-mile, which she qualified for state as a freshman two years ago.

Seniors across the state lost their last season of spring sports, which was a huge disappointment for Elka Billings as she lost the opportunity to run one more season alongside her sister Ursula.

Inexperienced Lady Lancers aiming high

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - The goal is often for a team to make it to State, and the 2021 season's goal is no different for head coach Casey Cook regarding her Crest Lancers softball team.

The team is just in their third full season as their inaugural season was in 2018. The only returning letter winners are senior Aubree Holloran and juniors Lindsay Godderz and Anna Hermreck.

As is the case with smaller teams, they play all over the field. Holloran will play shortstop, pitcher, catcher and left field. Godderz will play pitcher, third base, shortstop and first base and Hermreck will play first base and outfield.

A couple of outgoing seniors from last year that unfortunately lost their last season were Ridley Black and Rylee Beckmon.

Cook stated, "I think we will be pretty competitive within our league this year."

Joining the returning letter winners as key contributors will be freshman Kayla Hermreck, who will play both catch and shortstop.

But in reality the Lady Lancers will rely on many underclassmen as 10 of the 16 players on the roster have yet to play a game in high school. Five are freshmen and 5 are sophomores.

Coach Cook said she just feels the best way to get the team up to speed is to scrimmage and simulate game situations as often as possible to help the underclassmen gain some much needed experience heading into the season.

Lancers looking to compete for league title

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY - The Crest baseball team made a steady improvement from year 1 to year 2 of the program, their first season was 2018, going from a 10th place finish in the 2018 season to 5th in 2019. With year 3 of the program being cancelled, it is important to pick up where this team left off.

Crest has 6 players still on the team from two seasons ago. They are seniors Tyson Hermreck, Kobey Miller, Stratton McGhee, Andrew McAdam and juniors Bryson Goodell and Tucker Yocham.

First team all-league Zach Beckmon lost out on his senior season last season after the cancellation, but outside of that a majority of the team returns.

Fourth year coach Roland

Weir expects his team to be lead on the mound.

"Our team strength this year will be the quality and depth of our pitching," Weir said. "Our hitting will also be very good but as of now our weakness is our defensive play."

Weir believes as the season progresses his team will get much better on that defensive side of the ball.

"We have players playing new positions this year so it might take us some time for them to get comfortable with their roles," Weir added. "Our pitching and hitting will lead us until we become better defensively."

"Our ultimate goal is to get to State, but we will take it one game at a time and try to get better each and every game."

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND - This will be the 19th season Jason Brown will be leading the Central Heights Vikings baseball team, but without a doubt the most unusual offseason ever after the 2020 season was cancelled.

Despite the unknowns, Brown has high expectations. "We want to win league, win regionals and make some noise at the state tournament."

His optimism is in large part due to the depth in pitching.

Brown added, "We have some depth in pitching this year it seems. We have 13-14 guys who have a chance to start varsity."

Normally any contribution from a freshman is a bonus, but in a way both sophomores and freshman bring many unknowns due to being their first chance at playing on the diamond.

"We will be young and inexperienced with some sophomores and freshmen getting playing time," Brown said.

Fourteen of the 23 players on the roster are underclassmen. The roster includes 5 seniors and 4 juniors.

All 5 seniors lettered two years ago. Brady Burson (1B, C), Cauty Newell (C, OF), Hunter Bones (P, OF), Cass Burroughs (OF) and Dylan Kimball (OF) are joined by returning letterman juniors Tony Detweiler (P, OF, 3B) and Clay Garrett (IF, P).

Brown pointed out the outgoing seniors from a season ago that missed their senior seasons. They were Austin Coffman, Jon Fox, Tim Smith and Alex Cannady.

Brown expects this season to be just like any other, only with extra unknowns.

"We will take every opponent like they are the best in our league as it will be tough like every year," Brown said.

Joining all the returning lettermen as key contributors are junior Treyton Smith, sophomores Luke Burkdoll, Conner Peel, Nicholas Schultze, Max Cannady and freshman Ethan Rowan.

Young Vikings softball team is hungry to play

BY KEVIN GAINES THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

RICHMOND - It has been a long break for all spring sports across the state of Kansas, but in many ways teams like Central Heights have probably wanted to get back on the field more than many. Following an 0-19 season, 7th year head coach Lea Stegner had to be looking forward to kicking off last season and getting a much needed win.

The only two returning letter winners are juniors Cameron Peel and Elise Platt. They both played outfield as freshmen.

"This year we are a very young team. We have 8 sophomores who are very hungry to get out on the field and see what they can do," Stegner stated.

The team comprises just four upperclassmen, 1 senior and 3 juniors, then the 8 sophomores mentioned previously and a lone freshman.

Stegner added, "We have several girls who play summer and fall competitive softball. All the girls are ready to get started and try to make up for not playing last season."

Coach Stegner stated that making it to the state tournament should always be the top goal but also understands that it often starts at the basics, especially coming off a winless season.

"The girl's goal should always be to strive to do their best, make the plays and just find a way to get on base," coach said. "Our goal is to go out there every game and try our best, be competitive and compete with the teams that we play."

Vikings runners expected to lead the way

RICHMOND - It is no surprise that the strength of the Central Heights Vikings track and field squad will be on legs of the long distance runners, even more so now that the new head coach, Troy Prosser, is also the cross country coach.

Prosser knows what it takes to get his athletes to peak at the right time in cross country so the transition to track should be no different.

The legs of seniors Jarod Crawford (800m, 1600, and 4x800 relay), Luke Cotter (3200m) and David Craft (400m) will help define the boy's success.

The girls are spearheaded by juniors Lily Meyer (800m, 1600m and 3200m) and Taryn Compton (300m hurdles, 400m).

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 4-6-2021 / Kramerphotos.com

Prosser had the following thoughts on the upcoming season, "As was the case in the Fall, 2020-21 has presented a unique set of challenges that have required us to all adapt and move further from our comfort zones than ever before. One great thing we learned from the last 2020 Track & Field season, however, is to always appreciate what you have in front of you because time moves quickly. We plan to prepare the best we can, work as hard as possible, and compete to the best of our abilities. At the end of the day, the connections we make as coaches and athletes will last much longer than the next few months and we will make some great memories along the way."

Celebrate Community Bank Week

April 4-10

Where you bank matters

Community Bankers Association of Kansas (CBA) and our local banks are reminding consumers: Where you choose to bank and with whom matters, by celebrating Community Bank Week, April 4-10, 2021.

"When you bank locally, you're reinvesting in your community, contributing to the welfare of your neighbors and building a legacy of prosperity for future generations," said CBA President and CEO Shawn Mitchell. "Community bankers power your area's small businesses and influence job growth one loan at a time. They're rooted in your community, ensuring they have a stake in your financial success and the strength of the community overall."

Community banks support local startups—funding more than half of small businesses and a significant majority of agriculture loans—and contribute tax dollars that help maintain local municipalities and keep local neighborhoods viable and vibrant.

When choosing who to trust with your hard-earned money, CBA and all of our local banks want consumers to know that they have a choice and know the following:

- Community banks respect and honor their community ties. Community banks have symbiotic relationships with their communities—one cannot thrive without the other.

- Community banks are relationship lenders. They know their customers and understand their financial needs.

- Community banks understand and embrace local businesses. A study from the Federal Reserve Banks found that small businesses that apply for loans with community banks are the most successful and most satisfied.

- Community banks give back. Serving local communities is second nature to community banks.

You get what you expect . . .

Service with more than a smile!

When you walk into our bank, it is important how you are treated – you expect a friendly smile and fast accurate service.

Any place can offer you a check book and a monthly statement. We want you to feel that you get more from our bank. We know who counts and that's you – our customer.

We want our service to put a smile on your face. Come see us.
