USD 365: Masks optional

Policy for new school year encourages, but doesn't require face coverings

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Unified School District will encourage – but not require – face masks for students and staff for the coming school year, according to a district plan for in-class instruction adopted by board members Thursday night.

The 5-0 vote approved the general plan, required by federal and state educational authorities, and outlined the measures the district would implement in view of the Covid pandemic and recent emergency of a “Delta Variant” of the virus that subjected some schools in Kansas to restrictions last year.

Summary information provided to board members and the media in advance of Thursday’s meeting noted the plan still had to be submitted even though USD 365 had in-class instruction for the entire school year last year.

Specifically, the policy notes face masks will be optional in district facilities, although students and staff were still encouraged to wear them. The policy says the district may re-evaluate the optional mask clause in the event of certain county, state or federal mandates or changing conditions involving Covid.

The remaining elements of the policy outline social distancing measures where possible, hand washing, facility cleaning, contact tracing and quarantine measures for those known to be infected.

Students in USD 365 had to wear masks all last school year due to a school board policy at the time while Covid’s first wave of infections was underway. Crest schools had no mask requirement, while Central Heights students were also forced to wear masks indoors.

An increase in cases of a variant of that virus strain in recent weeks, primarily infecting adults who’ve chosen to skip the Covid vaccine, has brought some school districts and public entities across the country to reinstate mask mandates in their jurisdictions.

The efficacy of mask wearing in preventing the spread of Covid was hotly debated during the pandemic’s first wave, as elements of the virus became a source for political point-making between those opposed to government Covid restrictions and those who favored them.

USD 365’s move on the mask policy contradicts guidance issued by Governor Laura Kelly last week that directed in-school attendance but suggested all students remain masked. While that suggestion was a primary point listed in Kelly’s recommendations, it’s unclear what data the governor or state health officials used to arrive at that recommendation. State media that have sought records of Covid case infections delineated by student grade level and school building have been denied that information by the Kansas Department of Health & Environment.

Kelly’s attempt to institute a statewide mask mandate last summer during the first Covid wave was eventually thwarted by the Kansas Legislature, which passed laws restricting the governor’s ability to act unilaterally under her emergency authority.

Samsel: Classroom incident caused by ‘extreme stress’

Republican state rep says he’s given up his substitute teaching license, sought mental health counseling for April episode

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WELLSVILLE – Embattled Kansas 5th District Representative Mark Samsel says he surrendered his state-issued substitute teaching license last week after conferring with mental health professionals, in an effort he hopes will bring “peace and healing for all” in a misdemeanor battery case pending against him in Franklin County District Court.

Samsel made the announcement in an August 4 post on his personal Facebook page. Samsel apparently blocked the Review from viewing the post, but readers submitted screenshots to the newspaper of the full text.

The move comes prior to a scheduled court hearing Monday for the Republican state representative on charges that he assaulted a Wellsville student in late April in a Wellsville

School District art class in which he was substitute teaching. The incident followed a series of bizarre antics in which Samsel discussed religion, sex and teen suicide in videos captured by students and later widely circulated.

Both substitutes and certified teachers in Kansas are licensed by the Kansas Department of Education, the application for which includes fingerprinting and background checks. Samsel’s post doesn’t specify to whom he surrendered the document, and neither Samsel nor officials with the KDOE responded to the Review’s emails seeking more information about that surrender process.

Allen County again leads area crime

TOPEKA – Allen County once again led the pack of area counties in five key crime areas measured annually by the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, with Anderson County moving up two spots from last year into a position of greater infamy.

The KBI’s 2020 Crime Index Report analyzes violent crime on a county-by-county basis reported by county sheriff’s departments. The survey notes crime in categories of murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault and battery as well as property crimes.

The report was a dismal wake-up call for the state as a whole, noting a 9.5 percent overall increase in violent crime in Kansas from 2019. Violent crime in the Sunflower State is now 24.4 percent above the state’s 10-year average.

The report indexes those crime categories based on per 1,000 population. With a population of 12,236, Allen County went up two points in the index to 28.1 in 2020 from 26.1 in 2019, with 1 murder, 9 rapes, 2 robberies, 51 assaults, 57 burglaries, 209 thefts, 15 motor vehicle thefts and 6 arsons.

Anderson County trailed Allen by nearly 12 points but was second in the violent crime index in the six-county region of East Central Kansas. The county ranked with an index of 15.9, including 1 murder, 5 rapes, 0 robberies, 20 assaults, 30 burglaries, 58 thefts, 10 motor vehicle thefts and 1 arson. Anderson County’s population was listed as 7,814.

Coffey County with 4,487 people and Franklin County with 25,440 were two of the safest places to avoid crime in the east central region, with indexes of 10.9 and 10.4

Sheriff fears bidding war with city on officer pay

City now offers $5,000 sign on bonus for certified officers, higher pay, take home cars

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – A new pay plan for Garnett police officers adopted in July that pays starting cops up to $25 per hour and offers a $5,000 sign-on bonus is making it hard for Anderson County Sheriff Vern Valentine to compete for labor, he told city and county commissioners at a joint meeting last week.

Valentine termed the new city compensation offers of as much as $25 per hour “extreme” and said the bidding war threatened his own deputy staffing stability. He said morale in his department had suffered due to the increase in city officer pay, and that he had asked commissioners to bump his department salaries up $2 per hour in response.

The discussion was an outgrowth of problems the City of Garnett has had dating back to 2019, when commissioners approved a previous pay raise and more lucrative insurance plan for officers in order to incentivize hiring. Last June Chief King said those measures worked at first but soon the department was down three officers again and had no viable applicants.

Valentine went to county commissioners and was granted funds to upgrade deputy and jailer insurance offerings after city officers got the benefit, but he said the one-upmanship was getting out of logical range.

“The morale in my office is pretty poor,” Valentine said. “When they (deputies) know two blocks away they’re starting out about $7 an hour more than they make.” Valentine said his officers started out at just over $17, and it takes 14 years to get to $22 per hour.

“How do I deal with that?,” Valentine asked. “I’m trying to cover 600 square miles.” He said city and county officers had a good relationship in terms of mutual backup and cooperation, and he didn’t want to see that change.

Valentine also said allowing personal use of a city vehicle which city officers were now allowed to take home at night was another benefit that made it hard to compete.

Evans set for district court Zoom appearance Tuesday

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

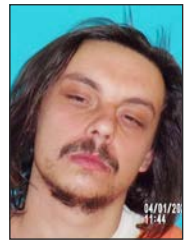

GARNETT – A Greeley man now held in the Anderson County Jail awaiting trial on charges for the alleged shooting of a female acquaintance will have a court hearing via Zoom next Tuesday.

Josh Evans, 26, is set for a remote status hearing in his case on August 17. He’s charged with shooting Megan Currant of Ottawa on March 31 during an alleged LSD-fueled dispute over his treatment of a blind dog at his Greeley residence. Evans was bonded out of jail on three previous felony drug charges from February of this year when the March incident allegedly occurred.

Status hearings allow prosecutors, defense lawyers and judges to confer on cases in advance of preparing for preliminary hearings or possible settlements of cases to avoid the costs of trials.

Currant told investigating officers she and Evans were both high on LSD when their argument over the dog escalated and she decided

Please ourselves or please God?

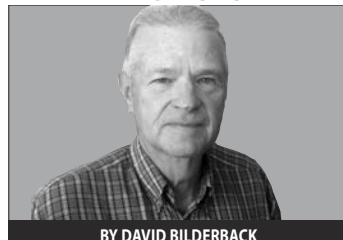

In Matthew 22:34-40 we read. "Hearing that Jesus had silenced the Sadducee, the Pharisees got together. One of them an expert in the law, tested him with this question. Teacher, which is the greatest commandment in the Law?"

Jesus replied: "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.' This is the first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' All the Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments."

Fearing Jesus because of the threat he presented to their legalistic society. The Pharisees always felt compelled to compete with Jesus. There seemed to be no limit to the extent they would go in trying to find a flaw in Jesus. However when you are competing with perfection there is no way to win. Ultimately at the resurrection Jesus proved the Pharisees to be nothing more than a legalistic cult bent on using their rules to gain power and money at the expense of others. Thus began the downfall of the Pharisees as well as the Roman empire.

Interestingly the evil one, so present within the Pharisee sect still uses a similar approach today. He likes to place things in competition with Jesus. This has become the favorite tactic of the world system today. In order to trap people today the evil one has come up with a whole catalog of things people just believe they have to have. And cheap easy money is made available to purchase these treasures. The issue is these things take our eyes off Jesus and place them on the item because we know how happy these things will make us.

What I am saying is there is a fine line between pleasing ourselves and pleasing God. So how do we find the right direction? The Bible clearly states that if we sin one time we are not qualified for heaven. Jesus tells us he is the way, and the truth, and the life. We must decide for ourselves is Jesus telling the truth?

Cori Bush's honest hypocrisy

St. Louis Congressman Cori Bush brought the totality of her awesome intellectual might to bear in answering criticisms last week that while she supports defunding the nation's police departments, she spent some $70,000 of her campaign funds this year on private security.

Her explanation was as simple as it was powerful: Unlike all those people in St. Louis and in the nation's other urban areas being beaten, shot and killed every day by criminals who no longer fear police intervention in their pursuit of crime, Bush told NBC News she needs private security because Trumpist white supremacists driving the wave of racial hate in this country and other bad guys might kill her as they have often threatened. That would stop her from doing all the great things she's doing for The People, she humbly informed the NBC anchors.

...not getting murdered is a stalwart motivator for relocation for some people, even in a place like St. Louis...

reclaim the Congress for Republicans in the 2022 elections.

Most hypocrites are at least smart enough to try to cover their tracks when they're caught dead-to-rights exalting in "rules for thee, not for me." But right thinking Americans are truly indebted to Bush for her Forrest Gump-meets-Al Sharpton style of honesty. She's been less specific however in detailing exactly which police officers have threatened her life - another claim she made on camera to NBC - so those officers could be charged and pursued in court.

Meanwhile, on the mean streets of St. Louis, the efforts of Congresswoman Bush and other Leftists is giving St. Louisians the best opportunity to be murdered that they've had in decades. It was only the major crime wave in 2020 which lifted all urban ships, in fact, that unseated St. Louis' annual contention for the highest murder rate in the nation.

It turns out not getting murdered is a stalwart motivator for relocation for some people, even in a place like St. Louis, where dying in street violence is more or less expected in some quarters. Between 2015 and 2020, some 10,000 people moved out of urban St. Louis proper, dropping its population to just over 308,000, while the metro area outside the city actually gained about 7,500 residents. The reduction in city population meant a statistical increase in the murder rate, with 87 murders per 100,000 people at the end of 2020, the highest percentage of urban carnage for the city since 1970.

That dynamic's been in play all over the nation's urban centers over the course of 2020 in the wake of Black Lives Matter terrorism. While thugs make the city streets their own, the solution offered by Cori Bush and other Leftists reeks of obvious logic: Defund the police; because racist cops, not criminals, are the problem.

In Cori Bush's world, this all works. Folks in St. Louis - at least the ones still stuck there who haven't been able to rent a truck and pack their plastic Cardinal batting helmets and get the hell out - are now more safe from being murdered by racist police. Instead, they can be murdered by other St. Louisians.

And while her used-to-be neighbors drop like flies to cascades of flying 9mm bullets - mostly fired that cool sideways way so you can see the brass fly out - Bush stays safe and secure with $70,000 in protection from folks so busy working jobs and paying taxes they even forgot to even bring guns to their own insurrection.

That kind of logic, no doubt pervasive in her district, got Bush elected in the first place. They'll probably elect her again.

But the clarity she's provided for the rest of the country - which still seeks to salvage the American Way of Life - about the logic and direction embraced by the current majority party is absolutely invaluable. ###

Watching the news and having to laugh. Don't kid yourselves folks, Trump ain't in office any more. There ain't no way in hell they're going to close schools for Covid or keep them from opening this time with Biden and the Democrats having to try to get re-elected next time around. Thank you.

I have got to get this off my mind. First, I have lost a lot of respect for some people in this community over this Covid-19. Second, not getting vaccinated for no other reason than 'I just don't want to' is not enough. Third, you who aren't vaccinated or won't wear a mask are responsible for any of the younger generation who can't get vaccinated. Fourth, are you really that selfish? And fifth, Trump is not God, so stop acting like it.

I'm not too sure that the low attendance at the fair this year can be blamed entirely on not having a carnival. After seeing all the people shoulder-to-shoulder in the picture of the tractor pull in the Review the week before, considering the vaccination rate in Anderson County is barely 30 percent, I kind of think the fair would be a good place to stay away from. I know I did. There are probably others just like me.

I am not sure what's going on with the city hall and the post office, but I'm sort of blaming it on city hall. I just can't imagine all those utility bills not getting out on time and it's the post office's fault. But I can see that the city would want to make it inconvenient for us so we have to do direct deposit. Does anybody else see it that way?

Dear grader operator. I know the weather has been crazy. Sometimes it makes you seem lazy. Every pothole that I hit, I complain and then throw a fit. I know you want to quit, but without you our roads would be (deleted). The creeks destory the roads and overflows. We need better ditches and better bridges. For the work you do there is little benefit and not much pay. We expect more out of your day. We want perfect roads so we can go fast. Eight miles per hour, that is all I ask. We appreciate you being quick.

To the professional fire truck cleaner that complained about fire trucks being dirty in the parade last week. Imagine, rural fire trucks getting driven on dirt roads. Do you know if they had time to clean the trucks? They're volunteers and they have day jobs and families to take care of after work. That's probably a hard concept for you to understand. Next time before you complain I challenge you to reach out to the department and volunteer to wash a truck or two. Have a nice day.

Biden's open border for Covid is bio-treason

President Joe Biden is the root cause of today's COVID-19 superspreader extravaganza on the southern frontier. His come-and-get-it, no-borders policy offers a laurel and hearty welcome to COVID-infected illegal aliens.

Biden's red carpet for COVID carriers on the US-Mexico boundary - atop his mandatory vaccines for U.S. military personnel and vaccination papers for lawful foreign visitors - epitomizes hypocrisy, reckless endangerment, and quite likely negligent homicide.

McAllen, Texas Republican Mayor Javier Villalobos issued a Declaration of Local Disaster on August 2.

According to a municipal-government statement published on Wednesday: "Since mid-February of 2021, there have been over 7,000 confirmed COVID-19 positive immigrants released into the city of McAllen by CBP [Customs and Border Protection], including over 1,500 new cases in the past seven days."

Also, 135 illegals in CBP's Rio Grande Valley sector tested positive for COVID-19 in July's first half, up 900 percent versus the previous 14 months.

Patrons at a Whataburger restaurant in La Joya, Texas, fretted on July 26 when several other diners coughed, sneezed, and failed to wear masks. A concerned citizen waved down law enforcement after observing this. According to police who responded, these migrants said they were caught by the Border Patrol, released, and then tested positive for COVID.

"No one told the police department that these people were here," La Joya Police Sergeant Manuel Casas complained. These and other illegal immigrants were guests of Catholic Charities of The Rio Grande Valley and were housed at La Joya's Texas Inn & Suites.

Sergeant Casas told Fox News: "The information we have is that everyone that is staying in that hotel is COVID-19 positive because it's being rented out for them."

"Not everyone we encounter we test, only those exhibiting some type of symptoms, and not everybody has symptoms that has it," Border Patrol union leader Chris Cabrera said July 31 on "Cavuto Live," "We are releasing people out the door - day in, day out - with actual positive tests for COVID, and more just keep popping up."

Catholic Charities and other private outfits largely conduct COVID tests on illegal immigrants, such as they occur.

Statistics on this crisis are chilling. They confirm that COVID is more common and less inoculated against in countries whose people are busiest busting through the border.

Reuters reports that 50.3 percent of Americans are fully vaccinated against COVID. The top five nationalities exporting illegals through our border? Not so good: Mexico - 26.7 percent; Honduras - 9.8 percent; Guatemala - 6.9 percent; El Salvador - 34.7 percent; Ecuador - 33.8 percent.

Citing a document briefed to Biden on Thursday, NBC News reported Saturday: "More than 18 percent of migrant families and 20 percent of unaccompanied minors who recently crossed the U.S. border tested positive for COVID on leaving Border Patrol custody over the past two to three weeks."

COVID-19 is an invisible foreign enemy at war with America. Joe Biden's superspreader border policies are giving this deadly virus aid and comfort. The president of the United States is guilty of bio-treason. ###

Joe Biden pursues his low-voltage presidency

Teddy Roosevelt fervently believed that the president of the United States should be at the center of the political universe, constantly attracting attention to himself. But he'd never met Joe Biden.

Biden is the most powerful man in the world and yet makes almost no impression.

No one, besides political and media professionals, wonders what Biden is going to say about something or considers him a figure of fascination. In fact, he barely rates.

His recent CNN town hall was a fizzle, averaging only 1.5 million viewers. Fox News easily beat it with its regular programming, and MSNBC had more viewers as well, dumping the president of the United States into third place in the cable-ratings race.

He's underperformed in more formal settings, too. Biden drew 27 million for his first address to a joint session of Congress, whereas Donald Trump drew 48 million.

The contrast with Trump's constant, impossible-to-ignore cocktail of provocation and political melodrama, naturally makes Biden's approach even more stark.

He's the Olympic badminton competition after a WWE match; he's elevator music after a heavy metal concert; he's the sparkler after a fireworks display.

Biden's presidency is, in this sense, practically premodern, almost hearkening back to the pre-mass-media days when presidents were neither seen nor heard.

Of course, this is in part a deliberate choice by the White House, playing on the contrast

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

with Trump and limiting Biden's exposure to avoid distractions (and gaffes). Being a notably low-voltage political figure worked for Biden in his comeback primary campaign and in the 2020 general election, so why not as president?

As a result, Biden strangely doesn't feel like the main event of the Biden years.

Assuming it arrives, the midterm backlash in 2022 won't be directly about Biden; instead, it will be driven by the Biden-adjacent issues of the border, crime, critical race theory and - if they reemerge in force - mask mandates and school closures.

Biden is the prime driver of only one of these issues, the crisis at the border that easily could have been avoided by keeping in place the policies the Trump administration had implemented to get control of the flow of migrants. In other words, the culture war itself is likely to be the overwhelming issue in 2022, rather than the president.

This would be a marked departure from the midterm shellackings that Bill Clinton and Barack Obama got in 1994 and 2010, which were deeply personal rejections of both men (Clinton was viewed as a draft dodger unworthy of the office and Obama as a crypto-socialist hostile to American exceptionalism).

If no one on the right is enamored of Biden, very little energy is invested in opposing him as such.

Indeed, the idea that tends to generate the most interest and passion isn't that the president is assiduously working to destroy the American way of life so much as Biden - whose verbal meanderings can be truly bizarre - isn't in charge at all.

Given the alternatives, this probably works in Biden's favor. He is pushing a truly radical spending agenda that would, if championed by a more in-your-face progressive president rather than someone who feels like a caretaker, surely be met with much fiercer resistance. But there are risks to Biden, too. If his spending agenda founders, it's not clear what comes next. Even if the White House decides to try to "unleash" Biden, he is not well-suited to rallying the country or driving an agenda.

His low-intensity presidency may, as his advisers hope, help create a sense of a return

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roeckers
Call (785) 504-4722 for local archeology information.

Well there are some of you that are thinking since I was out traveling around that I probably forgot all about digging. You're wrong. In fact I'm more involved than ever. In fact I'm once again working at two different sites. One is at an old house site in Franklin County and the other is a long forgotten rural school site here in Anderson County.

A Chanute woman has been charged with murder in a drunk driving wreck that killed a 13-year-old girl more than a year ago. Connie Louise McCormick, 46, was arrested last week on charges of second-degree murder, driving drunk, and several other related charges stemming from a one-vehicle wreck May 27, 2010, near Colony. McCormick was driving south on U.S. 169 near 700 Road when her Ford Explorer entered a ditch and rolled end-over-end, according to highway patrol. Her 13-year-old passenger, Mary Jane Robertson, was ejected from the rear hatch of the vehicle and pronounced dead at the scene.

The historic West Scipio schoolhouse on Highway 59 is facing an uncertain but optimistic future, as two local groups have expressed interest in moving and restoring the building. Karen Voigts, who plans to establish a tourist and cultural attraction at the Sutton Valley Homestead 3 1/2 miles southeast of Greeley, said she is proceeding with efforts to move the schoolhouse. If her efforts fail, the Friends of the Prairie Spirit Trail have expressed an interest in moving the schoolhouse to a location near the Santa Fe Depot.

Dr. J.A. Milligan visited the state tuberculosis sanatorium, at Norton. He says the equipment has been enlarged, and now, a hundred patients can be accommodated. Seventy-two percent of patients are turned out, and, though they may not be said to be thoroughly cured, they are in a position to take care of themselves, and are so educated that, with their knowledge obtained at the sanatorium, they may readily become perfectly well.

According to Anderson County Undersheriff Lee Coltharp, law enforcement officers discovered 38 cultivated plants in the field area near the home as well as a small amount of processed marijuana in the home. Miller to retire after 50 years

Linda Miller is retiring after 50 years of doing hair in Garnett, KS. She has been a pillar in the community since 1971.

Linda grew up in Denver, Colorado. She spent her summers in Garnett staying with family. When she was young, she enjoyed tagging along to work with her Aunt Judy Blubaugh to The Professional Shop, a local hair salon. This is where she fell in love with the craft.

After high school, Linda attended cosmetology school in Denver. She planned to start working in Denver in the fall, but came back to Kansas for one last summer. It was during this time that she met Tarry Miller and ended up staying in Garnett. Linda and Tarry were married in January 1972.

In the fall of 1971, she started working for Carolyn Wolken and Gertie Hager at The Professional Shop along side her Aunt Judy. At that time The Professional Shop was in the basement below a shoe store on 5th and Oak. The Professional Shop moved twice while she worked there, ending up on 4th street across from the library. The shop eventually sold to Norma Tilton. Linda worked a little longer under Norma before opening her own shop.

Linda's House of Hair Design was opened in 1987 and was located in a little house on highway 59. By then she was a mother of three sons, Eric, Jason and Chris. Linda moved her shop to the old Dairy Queen building after her good friends Mike and Helen Norman opened the new Dairy Queen Brazier. She has since enjoyed 21 years of doing hair in the "Blue Top Shop."

Linda has enjoyed being part of everything from first haircuts, proms, and weddings for several generations of clients. In some families, she has been blessed with 4 generations. Some of Linda's fond memories throughout her career have been volunteering backstage for the Chamber Players Community Theater. First helping with hair and makeup and then performing as well.

Working as a hairdresser, Linda has gained so many friends that have become family that she loves very much. In her words, "So many people have treated me so very special and treated me as family in return. This has been one of my greatest rewards."

Please join us in celebrating this amazing woman at a retirement reception from 1pm-4pm on Sunday, August, 15, 2021 at the Family Center at First Christian Church.

Longtime owner of The Scipio Supper Club Janet Alexander, left, has sold the restaurant effective in late July to Traci and Josh Burkdoll of Princeton. After 30 years in the establishment and 17 as its owner, Alexander will continue to bartend at the club under the new management. The Burkdolls both grew up in the area and attended Garnett and Central Heights schools.

process. In the post announcing the surrender of his license Samsel said the classroom incident was caused by stress.

"After multiple visits with mental health professionals over the last three months, all have concluded that the day's events resulted from an isolated episode of mania with psychotic features, caused by extreme stress, pressure and agitation over a sustained period of time," Samsel said. He said the stress was brought on by the traditionally pressured months of April and May in the Kansas Legislature.

Samsel had drawn the ire of fellow Republicans a few weeks before the incident for his vote against a GOP-sponsored bill that would have banned biological males from competing in women's sports at the high school and college level in Kansas. The measure passed the Legislature but was vetoed by Governor Laura Kelly.

Samsel was ordered to seek mental health counseling as a condition of his bond after the charges were filed against him.

"By sharing, I also hope this helps bring awareness and understanding, especially for those who have never been touched by a mental health battle," Samsel said in the post.

He is set for a Zoom hearing in the case Monday at 11:30 a.m.

also present at the meeting, said he was just doing what he had to do to staff his department in an environment that saw officers becoming harder and harder to find, and drawing higher pay. He said the city had lost officers shortly after having paid for their certification training and even paid them for a year waiting for them to become street ready. He defended the $5,000 hiring bonus as a means to acquire already-certified officers instead of new hires for whom the city paid for the training.

"We've paid somebody their full salary, sent them to the academy, plus all their equipment," King said. "You pay for them for a year before they're any good to the department." He said some new hires had left shortly after getting certified.

King said the department had received six applications after the new compensation plan came into effect. He said Garnett's department had competed with the metro area for a number of years for officers, even before recent national events revolving around the killing of George Floyd in Minneapolis and a national movement to defund police departments in some major metro areas stressed officers and began to thin their ranks.

County commissioners were expected to take up Valentine's own salary budget request in coming weeks.

to leave a rural shop building he lived in south of Greeley. Currant said she began walking toward the door of the structure when she heard the gunshot and fell through the door, landing outside the building.

Her statement in a probable cause affidavit for Evans' arrest said he spent several minutes moving around both inside and outside the building immediately after the shooting while she lay on the ground. She said she assumed Evans called his father, Michael Evans, because the elder man arrived eventually and they loaded her up and took her to Michael Evans' home in Lane, where they helped her clean up her wounds, gave her fresh clothes and allowed her to shower.

Later the following morning, the affidavit says the Evans' transported Currant to her mother's residence in Ottawa where she was eventually taken to a local hospital and law enforcement officers notified.

Biden Administration extends student loan pause through early 2022

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Education recently announced a final extension of the pause on student loan repayment, interest, and collections until January 31, 2022. The Department believes this additional time and a definitive end date will allow borrowers to plan for the resumption of payments and reduce the risk of delinquency and defaults after restart. The Department will continue its work to transition borrowers smoothly back into repayment, including by improving student loan servicing.

"The payment pause has been a lifeline that allowed millions of Americans to focus on their families, health, and finances instead of student loans during the national emergency," said U.S. Secretary of Education Miguel Cardona. "As our nation's economy continues to recover from a deep hole, this final extension will give students and borrowers the time they need to plan for restart and ensure a smooth pathway back to repayment." The Department will begin notifying borrowers about this final extension in the coming days, and it will release resources and information about how to plan for payment restart as the end of the pause approaches.

This action is one of a series of steps the Department has taken to support students and borrowers, make higher education more affordable, and improve student loan servicing, including:

- Approving $1.5 billion in borrower defense claims, including extending full relief to approved claims and approving new types of claims.
- Reinstating $1.3 billion in loan discharges for 41,000 borrowers who received a total and permanent disability discharge and protecting another 190,000 from potential loan reinstatement.
- Helping 30,000 small business owners with student loans seeking help from the Paycheck Protection Program.

Aggravated assaults and batteries increased by 13.8% in 2020, while reported rapes and robberies both declined from 2019.

Overall, property crimes declined in 2020 by 1.2%. Kansas experienced a 9.4% increase in motor vehicle thefts, which was the only property crime offense to increase.

to normality in Washington, but it easily could be consistent with a disturbing sense of drift. Usually, the dynamic of the presidency is if you don't seem to be in control of events, they are in control of you. The test for Biden will be if, eventually, he has to be the dominant public figure in his own presidency.
