County's DC reps rail on Afghan disaster

Senators, Congressman pull no punches in Afghan disaster, safety concerns

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Politicians in Washington representing the local area were working last week to get a handle on the humanitarian crisis in Afghanistan brought on by President Biden's pullout of U.S. forces.

Statements from Kansas' representatives joined others from the rest of the world in concern for Afghans and Americans still stranded in the country, and a near blanket indictment of Biden's strategy for the pullout from the country.

Taliban fighters, who took over the towns and villages of Afghanistan with little resistance over the past weeks, swarmed the capital city of Kabul and took over on August 15, when the government dissolved and President Ashraf Ghani fled the country. The development left Kabul's airport as the last departure point for Americans and Afghan allies in attempting to leave the country, and resulted in a re-dispatching of troops to the country to provide security for those attempting to exit.

Meanwhile, Taliban surrounded the airport, setting up checkpoints throughout the city and allegedly murdering Afghan citizens trying to get to the airport to flee. The scene in the country has been emblemized by video images of terrified Afghans clinging to the outsides of aircraft trying to take off from the airport last week.

Second District Representative Jake LaTurner representing Anderson County laid the blame for the crisis squarely on the Biden Administration.

"What the world is witnessing unfold in Afghanistan is a complete and utter failure of the Biden Administration," LaTurner said in a statement. "The lack of leadership and planning from the highest levels of the Administration during this humanitarian crisis has let down our allies and significantly damaged our presence on the world stage."

Senator Jerry Moran banded together with senators from both parties to outline methods of streamlining the bureaucratic strings delaying the granting of Special Immigrant Visas – visas given to foreigners documented as having lended special assistance to the U.S. effort in the country.

The 2021 Anderson County Fair officially came to a close on Saturday night as a large crowd braved the hot, humid weather as the drivers put on a good show.

Sentencing set in lovers triangle case

GARNETT – The man investigators said conspired with a woman in a lovers' triangle to ambush his rival with a knife in July 2020 will be sentenced in a plea arrangement on Monday.

Sentencing for Maxwell Williams of Kansas City is set for August 30 on a single count of felony assault. Another felony charge of interfering with a law officer and a misdemeanor count of violating a protective order will be tossed out, according to court documents amended to reflect the specifics of the plea deal. Williams was initially charged with attempted murder.

Williams was judged competent to stand trial in April. Investigators said he lay in wait in the closet of his sometimes girlfriend Mary Jennings at her home in Garnett and ambushed William Hopkins of Williamsburg as Hopkins entered the room. Hopkins and Jennings had allegedly made a sex tape and sent it to Williams the previous day in an attempt to agitate him. Hopkins later contacted Williams because he said he tried to contact a distraught Jennings and could not find her.

At the time of the incident Jennings and Williams were named in an active court order from June 11, 2020, specifying no contact. Jennings escaped prosecution after she agreed to testify against Williams.

A probable cause document used in both Williams' and Jennings' initial arrests said Hopkins showed up slashed and stabbed at Anderson County Hospital the night of July 24, later telling officers Williams had leaped from Jennings bedroom closet and attacked him as he entered the room with Jennings.

Williams' August 30 sentencing is set for 9:30 a.m. in person in Anderson County District Court.

Chronicler of life in Colony passes at 91

Allene Luedke began her love of writing as a pen pal, covered local news 30+ years

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

COLONY – "You have to like to do it," Allene Luedke said of writing her "Colony Community News" column for decades. "You have to like to feel like you're more of a part of the community – it lets people keep Colony on the map."

The local writer and historian who chronicled Colony news and events for local newspapers for more than three decades and assisted on a number of local history books was laid to rest last week. She was 91.

She began writing a community column from Colony in the early 1960s which was published in both The Iola Register and newspapers in Anderson County owned by the Garnett Publishing Company, Inc. She left the local writer's post in the late '60s but returned to GPI papers in 1987, where she continued until January 2019. With a weekly column as regular as clockwork, Luedke made the transition with the Garnett papers from twice-weekly to weekly in 1996 and was the first of the company's "community correspondents" to embrace email as a quicker means to get her dispatches to the paper. When she resigned due to health reasons in 2019, she was the paper's only remaining official community correspondent.

"When my husband and I moved here in June 1957 I did not know anyone, only had met my husband's parents once,"

Court bans man from doing business in Kansas

Diebolt previously lost eminent domain case to USD 365

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

IOLA – An Allen County man embroiled in an eminent domain lawsuit a decade ago in Anderson County was permanently banned from doing business in Kansas last week, after ignoring more than a year's worth of notices from the Kansas Attorney General's office regarding complaints about his business practices.

An Allen County judge found in favor of the state AG's office and banned Don Diebolt of Diebolt LLC, from doing further business in Kansas. The case filing noted two cases dating from 2017 in which Diebolt's company was to construct buildings for clients and

Legislators rally against Kelly's Covid spending

BY DANEDRI HERBERT KANSAS POLICY INSTITUTE/ THE SENTINEL

TOPEKA – Republican leaders in the Kansas House and Kansas Senate will consider legal action against Gov. Laura Kelly's administration over its COVID relief spending.

In a letter to Kelly, Senate President Ty Masterson, Speaker of the House Ron Ryckman, Senate Ways and Means Chair Sen. Rick Billinger, and House Appropriations Chair Troy Waymaster, say the governor might be misappropriating federal coronavirus funding.

"We have great concerns that this is occurring in violation of state law," the letter reads.

According to the letter, the Attorney General's office agrees with Republican leaders.

Lawmakers adopted legislation that lays out guidelines for a SPARK committee to review and recommend proposed relief fund expenditures, and for the State Finance Council to approve relief spending. However, legislative leaders say Kelly's administration spent $87.9 million of COVID-relief funding without the recommendation of the SPARK committee and without SFC approval.

For instance, the Kansas Department of Health and Environment spent $3.7 million for public service announcements featuring Kelly and Congresswoman Sharice Davids, a Johnson County Democrat. The advertisement urged Kansans to vaccinate or test for COVID-19. The commercials aired prior to the Fourth of July holiday, shortly after the end of the 2021 legislative session. The legislature did not allocate the funding in KDHE's budget.

The letter from Republican leaders also says the governor spent $1.5 million more than

JULY 23, 1930 - AUGUST 13, 2021

Mary Allene Van Trump Luedke of Colony, Kansas, passed away on August 13, 2021.

Mary Allene was born near Elmira, Missouri on July 23, 1930, the daughter of Miller and Wilma Mesmer Van Trump.

She was proud to be the third generation born on the over 100-year-old Van Trump farm. She was three years older than her brother so she was her dad's right hand, helping milk by hand a dozen cows and in the field punched wires on the stationary hay baler. She loved farming.

She met Morris Luedke at the Linwood Methodist Criterion Sunday School Class in Kansas City. On April 3, 1957, they were married at the church there. In June of 1957 they moved to Colony to begin farming. They were blessed with two children, Mark Philip and Cheryl Sue.

Prior to marriage, Allene worked as a secretary in Richmond, Columbia and Kansas City, Missouri. She was the farming assistant to her husband, housewife, mother, and the Colony correspondent to Iola Register and Garnett Review papers. She loved to garden, can fruit and vegetables, help her husband in the fields, and serving her community by writing the "Colony News" 47 years. Following her father's death, her mother moved to their home in Colony where Allene cared for her for four and a half years, then visited her every other day another four and a half years at an Iola nursing center.

Allene loved life, her family, and the Lord. At the age of 21 she joined the Christian Church in Columbia, Missouri, serving on the church paper staff as membership secretary and recording secretary in Columbia, Kansas City, and Colony.

Preceding her in death were her parents; husband of almost 59 years, Morris; two uncles; one aunt; nine brothers-in-law; eight sisters-in-law; and five nephews.

Survivors include her son Mark, Colony; daughter, Cheryl, St. Augustine Beach, Florida; brother, Joe and wife Judy, Wilmington, Delaware; nephew, Joseph Miller and his family, Rozelle, Australia; niece, Michelle and family, Ft. Worth, Texas; four cousins; and numerous nephews and nieces, two grand nephews and three grand nieces.

A graveside service to honor the life of Mary Allene was held at the Colony Cemetery in Colony, Kansas.

Memorials in honor of Mary Allene are suggested to Wings of Warriors Cancer Foundation and may be left with the funeral home or mailed to 1883 U.S. Highway 54, Iola, Kansas, 66749. Condolences for the family may be left online at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

DECEMBER 7, 1948

Herman W. (Bill) Stocks passed away peacefully at home holding the hand of his wife.

He had been surrounded for several weeks by family and friends.

There will be a celebration of life on Sat. Sept. 18 at 10 a.m. at his home at 34186 Cedar Niles Rd, Paola, Ks.

Bill was born Dec. 7, 1948. He was born into a military family that moved often all over the U.S. His father was Herman W. Stocks (Louise) and Catherine Hicks (Don). His mom's family (the Samargos) of W. Virginia were very important in childhood as they provided some of his best memories. He had 3 siblings and he was raised with Carol Borchardt (Terry); Michael (Phyllis) and Leroy. Bill insisted on recognizing other biological family he met later in life and he grew to love and care about: James (Jimmy) Jenson; Tammy Fink, Tina Fink Timmons, and Jennifer Tiegan Back. He was "Uncle Bill" or "Uncle Bubba" to numerous non and biological nieces and nephews over the years. A role he loved in particular.

Stocks

He married "the love of his life". Janet (Lankard) Stocks, daughter of Don & Hilda Lankard, April 21, 1979. They spent 42 adventurous years together having fun, they moved a couple of times back & forth from California to Missouri and Kansas.

He often stated he was a "jack of all trades and master of none". He worked as a mechanic for companies such as Crown Lifts, Caterpillar, and Southwest Marine. He also spent years working in construction. But he will most be remembered as a "Tom Sawyer". If he could talk you into doing his job while he told stories, he was most happy.

He enjoyed reading "Louis L'Amour" westerns and watching westerns. He also like to fish and go dancing. In later years he enjoyed time gardening exotic plants and spending quiet evenings at home with his "bride" and many cats.

Bill had a sharp mind and wit. He enjoyed a good conversation and wasn't afraid to "stir the pot" to get one going. He had the ability to associate a phrase or nickname to a person that would connect them in a personal way forever. Family and friends are encouraged to tell their stories behind those nicknames and phrases at his celebration of life. He will be missed by many.

The mark of a truly changed heart

One of the most difficult things for any Christian is to overcome your past. We have one past and nothing we can say or do can change it. This affects many people so badly it affects their ability to even become a Christian.

The Apostle Paul provides us some guidance on this in Philippians 3:13-14 when he says, "But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward in Christ Jesus." Paul understood the past cannot be changed but we have the future in front of us to be lived. Realizing this is a crucial step to living a life for Christ. God addresses this several times in scripture. He tells us, "though our sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow, though they are as red as crimson they shall be like wool." (Isaiah 1:18) In Psalm 103:12 we are told, "As far as the east is from the west so far has he (God) removed our transgressions from us."

If God is willing to remove our sins from us as the text states then we should follow Paul's advise and forget what is behind us. In order to do this we must repent from our sin receive Christ by faith and follow and serve him. When we do this God is willing to bury our sins in the depths of the ocean and remember them no more.

We must then follow and

serve Christ which will result in our life becoming a testimony. This means our life should reflect the same characteristics as Jesus' life did. How well we are able to serve Christ is best measured by asking ourselves one question. When non-Christians see you living out your life what do they see of God? Do they see a life lived out as Jesus did or do they see a life lived out that looks like the rest of the world. If you are going to follow and serve Jesus your life must look like Jesus' life. If the non-Christian sees no difference between their life and yours there is no reason to change their life. Following and serving Jesus is difficult. There are times when we will fail, however, when people see us fail and then try again they begin to see the life of Jesus lived out through us. That is the mark of a truly changed heart which is the primary requirement for winning others to Christ.

Some of them were Kansans

As terrified and desperate Afghans plummeted to their deaths from the wings of U.S. transport aircraft last week in the early hours of Joe Biden's Afghanistan horror show, it bears remembering that some of those young American soldiers who died securing that lawless country in the War on Terror - prior to Biden's abandonment of it - were Kansans.

In these days of disgust at the rank stupidity with which Biden and his administration of incompetents has treated American security and its utter disregard for Afghan humanity, those Kansans' names should be known - so that we're reminded of both our state's sacrifice in keeping our nation secure and the pain we're forced to share in Biden's second humanitarian disaster in less than a year in office.

Lost to that sacrifice is Vinson Adkinson of Harper, Cody Baker of Holton, Thomas Bohall of Wichita, David Carter of Hays, Jeremiah Cole of Hiawatha...

Others have sacrificed as well; those who left limbs and eyes and parts of their bodies and minds amid the sands and swirling dust and heat of this long conflict; returning thankfully with their lives, but forever changed.

...Daniel Cox of Parsons, Bernard Deghand of Mayetta, Richard DeWater of Topeka, Spencer Duncan of Olathe, David Hall of Uniontown, Zachary Hargrove of Wichita, Tyler Juden of Winfield...

Their honor was well earned, right up to the point that their work was undone by an ideology which should never have come to power in our country; one which elected a presidential candidate known to lack mental acuity and to prefer ridiculous "equity" criteria over competence and ability in his subordinates. The U.S. had experienced no combat-related casualties in Afghanistan for some 18 months, and for years prior to that combat deaths and injuries had been slight. President Trump, who also initially sought to abandon Afghanistan but later listened to counsel and thought better of it, as did President Obama before him, had established an equilibrium with a small contingency of military and mightier strike power just a phone call away to protect the problematically still fragile and corrupt government structure.

...Michael Knapp of Overland Park, Jamie Maugans of Derby, Erik May of Independence, Jason McMahon of Mulvane, Jeffery Mersman of Parker, Cale Miller of Overland Park...

Now, we see what the lack of that equilibrium brings - a return to the unabated petri dish for terrorism which can, and has already, reached U.S. shores, as the corpses of some 3,000 people in the Sept. 11, 2001, attack reflects. We see the hanging, lifeless bodies of Afghans who assisted U.S. and allied forces. We see scenes of melee at the Hamid Karzai Airport as thousands try to escape the new age of barbarism of the Taliban. We see a quick replacement of two decades of women's rights in the country with now painted-out women's images on commercial billboards and a return to burkas and the full scale cultural endorsement of brutality against them. And it's only been a few days.

...Thomas Moffitt of Wichita, William Mulvihill of Leavenworth, Eric Nettleton of Wichita, Bryan Nichols of Hays, Justin Officer of Wichita, Trenton Rhea of Oakley, Forrest Robertson of Westmorland, Aaron Smith of Manhattan.

It's unknown at this point whether even his benefactors in the liberal mainstream press can salvage Biden from this disaster of historic proportions. Like the scenes of bodies leaping from the burning twin towers on 9/11, the images of Afghans clinging to the outside of moving aircraft and hurtling earthward to their deaths, all that they might escape life under the Taliban, is now branded into the world psyche. Our nation's humiliation at Joe Biden's hands is complete and damning; and because we elected him, it is deserved.

The names of those who perished while protecting us, so far from the fields and sunsets of Kansas, will never wear that stain. Instead, their sense of purpose and duty drives us forward. At Gettysburg, President Lincoln warned us not to try to consecrate ground already hallowed by the lives and sacrifices of those who came before, but instead to aim our efforts at work yet to be done:

"It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated to the unfinished work which they who fought here, have, thus far, so nobly advanced." ###

Boy howdy. Have you seen the big million dollar rock in front of the million dollar Taj Mahal on Seventh Street? Yep, our tax dollars well spent again.

On TV they said it took 15 years for the United States to recover from the embarrassment of pulling out of Vietnam. Iranian embassy, hijackings, terrorism. They think the Khmer Rouge killed a million people in Cambodia after they weren't scared any more that the U.S. would come after them. How many people do you think the Taliban will kill in Afghanistan? Those are real people with real souls and if you don't care there's something wrong with you. # Sex reassignment surgery on kids is child abuse

The state of Texas has recognized the reality, as identified in the Washington Examiner's July 31 editorial, that sex reassignment surgery on minors is an act of mutilation that should not be countenanced.

The Cultural Left will howl, but Texas is right. As it was put by Jaime Masters, the commissioner of the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services, "genital mutilation of a child for purposes of gender transitioning through reassignment surgery constitutes child abuse."

As Masters explained, "This surgical procedure physically alters a child's genitalia for non-medical purposes, potentially inflicting irreversible harm to children's bodies."

The finding allowed for relevant exceptions for children already affected by certain physical traumas, or who have genetic disorders affecting ordinary sex development, or who have unusual chromosomal features. In sum, Texas sticks to the science, recognizing that sometimes rare anomalies exist but not allowing them to become a justification for unconscionable procedures on children who don't need them.

The key recognition is that adolescents' outlooks, moods, and cognitive development are extremely malleable, whereas completed sex reassignment procedures tend to be either irreversible or extremely difficult to undo. It takes no deep scientific inquiry, but merely quotidian observation, to know that children and teenagers go through "phases" and that they are prone to "trying out" new experiences and ideas that don't last.

Science, of course, confirms this. As one peer-reviewed study put it, in agreement with virtually every study on the topic, "a fundamental reorganization of the brain takes place in adolescence ... Subcortical brain areas, especially the limbic system and the reward system, develop earlier, so that there is an imbalance during adolescence between the more mature subcortical areas and less mature prefrontal areas. This may account for typical adolescent behavior patterns, including risk-taking" involving "sometimes putting their health at serious risk."

For adults to indulge such risk-taking, placing the authority of medicine behind it, is disgusting.

To perform an effectively permanent change in physiology upon someone because of their temporary state of mind would be monstrously abusive. As it is, a quick internet search readily shows that large numbers of people, even adults, who undergo sex reassignment procedures seriously regret having done so. And while the scientific findings on that score are subject to fierce ideological debate, it cannot be denied that at least a significant subset of sex "transitioners" experience severe depression or, worse, become suicidal. Indeed, a respected study from Sweden, where the culture is quite supportive of "gender fluidity," found that the suicide rate among people who underwent sex reassignment surgery approached 20 times that of the general population.

For all these reasons, Texas is entirely jus-

Biden disingenuous among his signature disasters

President Biden arrived in office with the southern U.S. border secure and Afghanistan in a state of fragile equilibrium.

Eight months later, the border continues to be deluged with migrants overwhelming our capacity to properly house and process them, and we are evacuating our personnel from Hamid Karzai International Airport in Kabul overrun by desperate Afghans fleeing the Taliban.

The crisis at the border and the stunningly swift defeat in Afghanistan are entirely on Biden. He took sustainable situations and overturned them out of ideological fixity and fantastical wishful thinking.

The outcomes were utterly predictable. Indeed, anyone who knew anything about the border or Afghanistan warned what would happen.

The debacles haven't been the product of forces beyond Biden's control; events didn't take a hand, he did. These are man-made disasters.

Throw on top the crime wave in U.S. cities that is a product of the left's enthusiasm for fashionable anti-cop sentiments, and the picture is of a party that is unable to maintain order or rationally calculate the downside consequences of its rhetoric and policies.

One hallmark of the Biden approach has been laughably false assurances. He maintained at a press conference in March that there was nothing unusual going on at the border, when the historic surge had already begun. Only last month, he confidently predicted that there'd be no dramatic rooftop evacuations from Kabul, when a rapid collapse of the government was always a distinct possibility.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

Then, there are the ineffectual warnings. Biden officials have repeatedly told migrants to stop coming to the U.S. border, when they have every incentive to continue to do so, and his representatives tsk-tsked the Taliban about sweeping to power by force - something that they have fought to do for 20 years - because it would supposedly harm the group's international image.

And, finally, the rank blame-shifting. Biden's team has outlandishly tried to argue that President Donald Trump somehow created the conditions for the border spinning out of control, when the truth is that Trump, after false starts, figured out how to get a handle on it. Biden points the finger at Trump, too, on Afghanistan.

Here, he has more of a case - the so-called peace deal that Trump cut with the Taliban was a travesty that undercut the Afghan government. But nothing forced Biden, who has happily reversed field on most Trump policies, to abide by an agreement that the Taliban violated from the outset or to execute a withdrawal that kneecapped the Afghan army in the midst of fighting season and a gathering Taliban offensive.

He was the one who exit denied the Afghan army the U.S. air support and logistics it had always depended on, who left without securing a nearby base in the region, who didn't care enough about Afghan allies who had risked their lives for us to ensure that they could get out of the country, who sent a message of abandonment that was a blow to Afghan morale from the top all the way down. It's a particularly galling Biden rhetorical move to use the catastrophic failure of the Afghan forces that he helped bring about to insist that his decision to leave was the only responsible one. He's gone from claiming we could safely leave because the Afghan security forces would do just fine on their own, to arguing we had no choice but to get out because they couldn't manage without us.

Both at the U.S. border and in Afghanistan, Biden merely had to keep in place what he inherited to sustain success or at least

I have brought my farm home excavation to a halt, with a possible return this fall or winter. Right now I'm giving my full attention to the old rock schoolhouse. I'm hoping to complete this project by Oct.-Nov. of this year, so I've a lot of digging ahead of me. Right now I'm concentrating on excavating around the entire foundation, before searching elsewhere on the school grounds.

Here are the last artifacts I dug at the farm site. By the way these artifacts have been turned over to the landowner. They are a large iron washer, long screw, mottled Crockery, Mother-of-Pearl shell, small clay marble and a two hole red button.

tified, in every ethical and legal sense, in outlawing sex reassignment surgery for minors. The Lone Star State will treat such procedures (other than the rare exceptions described above) as legally prosecutable "child abuse" and also will prosecute professionals, including doctors, teachers, and day-care employees, who "fail to report" such abuse.

Consenting adults are always free to do what they want to their own bodies. But when abuse is involved, what they do to children and adolescents incapable of valid consent becomes the business of the state. Anyone who abets what for these minors may be a life-ruining procedure richly deserves to go to prison.

Colony Christian Church - "The Unknown God?"

Brant McGhee gave the Communion Meditation "Difficult". For something to be considered difficult, it must take much effort or skill; it is not simple or easy. God gives us many simple instructions that can seem to be difficult. We need the skills he gives us to follow thru with these instructions. Loving others, being kind, being helpful, etc, can all be simple tasks. But many times it is difficult to follow thru on the simplest things. We need the skills God gives each of us to accomplish these tasks. (Ref: 1 Corinthians 9:24 & Hebrews 12:11)

Pastor Chase Riebel gave the sermon "The Unknown God?", over Acts 17:16-34. When traveling thru Athens, Paul was deeply troubled by all the idols he saw. And then he came across one that was labeled "To an unknown god". These people were worshipping in ignorance. You need to KNOW what you're worshipping. Paul took their unknown god and began preaching to them about the One True God. He explained to them how God made the heavens and the earth; that everything was made thru him. We must get to know God in a relational way. And that first step can be difficult and uncomfortable, it's not easy, and it might even seem unsafe. We are called to give up our lives, let go of old friends or bad habits, and release all control to God. If you just take that first step, you'll find him there waiting for you. (Ref: Acts 17:16-34; Jeremiah 9:23-34 & 29:13-14; 1 John 5:20; John 17:3; Philippians 3:8; Matthew 7:23) Hear this and all our sermons by using your favorite podcast app, on our Facebook page, or on our website at www.colony-church.org

Men's Bible study, Tuesday mornings at 7:00 in the church basement. Women's Bible study, Tuesday mornings at 9:00 at the parsonage. The Marjorie & Martha's life group, Tuesday evenings at 6:00 at the parsonage. Men on Fire life group will be the 2nd Friday of the month. Adult Bible study at the parsonage, and Youth group at the church, each Wednesday at 7:00 pm.

approved by the State Finance Council on consulting services. The administration awarded the funding through a no-bid contract. In another instance, the Governor's Office distributed $82.7 million to local governments without a recommendation from the SPARK committee or approval from the State Finance Council.

The legislators point out that Kelly signed two pieces of legislation that lay out the process in 2021, House bill 2007 and Senate bill 159. Kelly announced the creation of the Strengthening People and Revitalizing Kansas executive committee, or SPARK, in June, though the original SPARK committee made recommendations for COVID-relief spending starting in March 2020.

"Through the SPARK process, we have transparently and equitably allocated more than $1 billion in CARES Act funds to support businesses, keep Kansans healthy, improve access to broadband, and boost our economy," Kelly said in a press release several weeks ago. "I'm pleased to reignite the task force this year to maintain that transparent process and show Kansans that we're using these relief funds to make strategic investments where they are needed most."

In the letter, legislative leaders demand that the Kelly administration immediately stop spending funds in ways contrary to Kansas law.

"Respect for the rule of law compels you to cease your attempt to circumvent the will of the people as expressed by the Legislature and approved by your own," the letter reads.

The letter concludes with a warning.

"If you continue to expend these funds in a manner that breaks state law, we will be forced to explore all necessary legal actions to see that the rule of law is upheld and this challenge to our Kansas system of government is reined in," it reads.

took prepayment, but never executed the service.

Diebolt was ordered to pay more than $18,000 in restitution and $40,000 in civil penalties in connection with the court's action.

Diebolt was owner of land north of Garnett on U.S. Highway 59 which was seized by USD 365 in an eminent domain action in 2010 and 2011 when the district sought a site on which to construct the Garnett Elementary School.

Diebolt said at the time he planned to use the acreage to develop a retail center, but was unable to stop the court action via the school district.

The school district initially paid Don and Susan Diebolt $278,800 for the parcel, but the Diebolts appealed, claiming the property was worth $432,000. A jury rendered a verdict value on the property of $249,000, which was less than the school district originally paid, after a panel of local realtors analyzed the tract for the local district court.

across Afghanistan and take-over of Kabul should not cause us to break our promise to the Afghans who helped us operate over the past twenty years and are counting on us for assistance," wrote the senators. "American inaction would ensure they become refugees or prime targets for Taliban retribution."

Senator Roger Marshall said the priority now was in extricating Americans and preferred Afghans out of the country, and to wait until later to assess the policy damage done by the incident.

"The Administration's focus needs to be locked in on getting American citizens out of there right now - that we aren't going to leave anybody behind," Marshall said. "At first I thought this was an intelligence failure, but now I realize this White House sees foreign policy through the lens of politics and polling as opposed to what's in the best interest of this nation..."

"This will be a scar on America for decades to come," Marshall said. "It is just inconceivable what this Administration has done."

she said in her final column. "As I became acquainted with Colony people and an opening came along, I was hired to write the Colony News. It worked in well with farming, raising our children, and keeping up with Colony people who volunteered their news for the paper," she said. "It was a service I enjoyed for the Colony Community."

Born and raised in north-west Missouri, Luedke started writing to pen pals she found in a Kansas City magazine when she was in grade school in the 1940s. At one time she had as many as 21 pen pals, she told the Review in a 2013 interview. Some of those snail-mail letter relationships lasted into high school and at least one even into her 20s.

Luedke's columns were rich with the local fabric of the community. Local business stories, school news, local clubs and organizations, birthdays and family and social gatherings were a staple of her writing. A strict organizer, Luedke's columns followed a regimented formula that separated calendar events from general news and set various types of articles and news items apart in their own categories. Staffers at the Review noted her columns were almost always on time and almost always without typographical errors.

In addition to newspaper writing, Luedke worked on Colony history and Northcott Community history books as well. As community correspondents winnowed over the years, Luedke lamented the decline in community journalism which was eventually replaced by the hodge-podge banter of Facebook and Internet websites and generally, a lack of connection to and knowledge of local communities.

It kind of concerns me," she said in 2013. "You don't see many people care about writing like that anymore. I used to know everybody in town and where they lived. A lot of people have been here as many or more years as me. Now they come and go so much I don't know everyone anymore."

Services for Allene Luedke were held Friday.
