Kansas, country responds to Afghanistan carnage

U.S. attacks apparent
ISIS targets after Kabul airport bombing

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

TOPEKA — Governor Laura Kelly ordered flags in the state flown at half-staff last Wednesday through yesterday in honor of the sacrifice of 13 U.S. service personnel killed in Afghanistan and as many as 170 Afghani civilians by an ISIS suicide bomber.

Meanwhile, President Joe Biden ordered successive air and drone strikes against believed ISIS personnel in Kabul, after the terrorist organization claimed responsibility for the airport bombing.

The deadline for the American withdrawal, first moved up from Sept. 11 by President Biden then embraced under threat by the Taliban, is today. Thursday's (Afghan time) blast also injured 15 other American servicemen and an as yet unknown number of others among the hoards crowding the gates to Hamid Karzai Airport trying to get out of the country before the final American pullout.

President Joe Biden vowed to track down militants responsible for the attack, but was preparing to stick with a plan to pull troops out of Afghanistan despite political pressure to extend operations. Kelly made it clear the thoughts of Kansans were with the families of the servicemen and women in harm's way.

"My father was career Army and I know firsthand the sacrifices those in our military and their loved ones make for our country," Kelly said. "My thoughts are with the families of the victims of Thursday's tragic attack in Kabul."

U.S. Sen. Jerry Moran, the ranking Republican on the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee, described as horrific the suicide bombing that targeted U.S. troops guarding the airport and the civilians lining up to seek a flight out of Afghanistan.

"The American men and women currently serving in Afghanistan to bring U.S. citizens home and evacuate our partners are heroes and dealing with impossible circumstances," he said.

Some Members of the Kansas congressional delegation denounced the deadly attack on the airport in Afghanistan. Two Republicans in the delegation were sharply critical of Biden's handling of the exodus.

U.S. Rep. Sharice Davids, the lone Democrat in the Kansas delegation, said her thoughts were with families of the dead and wounded. She said the attack required an expedited effort to "secure the safety of our people and allies as soon as possible."

U.S. Sen. Roger Marshall, a Republican, said he would pray for U.S. troops, citizens, allies and innocent people whose

City ready for annual clean & flush

GARNETT — The City of Garnett Water Department will be conducting a free chlorine burn for disinfection of the water distribution system beginning September 7, 2021. This process will last about two to three weeks. Flushing and chlorine burns are routine distribution system maintenance conducted by utilities with chloramine disinfection. Chlorine burns also reduce the potential future occurrence of coliform or other types of bacteria in the system.

During this free chlorine er-acting disinfectant. The fire hydrants will be opened to allow flushing of the system to help remove sediment from the pipes and distribute the change in disinfectant. Customers may notice open fire hydrants throughout the city during this period. At the end of the free burn, the standard chemicals used for disinfections will be reintroduced to the system and be returned to normal operating conditions.

Possible Noticeable Effects: It is important to understand that during this temporary change there may be some discoloration or cloudiness in the water and possibly a chlorine odor or taste. If this is experienced, please run the water through the tap until it clears.

Minor pressure fluctuations and small air pockets may also occur. Fire hydrant flushing should remove most of the color and odor, but some may reach customer lines during the process. Discoloration in laundry is also possible during this time. It is recommended that customers check for discolored water before adding clothes to their washing machine. If discolored water appears, customers can set their washing machine to spin cycle to purge the water, and then refill the machine with clear water. In addition, customers may wish to purchase and use a cleaning additive to help prevent or remove any discoloration that may occur.

Is the Water Safe to Drink? Yes, the water is safe to drink throughout this process and boiling water is not necessary. Customers may notice a change to the taste and smell from the water and may want to let their water tap run for several minutes or until the water runs clear. Any odor and color issues will subside as the flushing is completed. Customers who use tap water for kidney dialysis at home should properly monitor their process for complete neutralization of disinfectant residual and should contact their doctor for more information. Customers utilizing the water for aquariums should monitor the chlorine residu-

als. Why is this burn out necessary? The City routinely collects samples and monitors the water quality. The Garnett Water Department is tasked with ensuring that water in all points of the system is acceptable to our customers. Over time minerals and metals, which are naturally present in water sources, can increase and attach to pipes and release when there are changes in pres-

Hearing goes private, judge seeks to quash subpoena for testimony

GARNETT — The details of a district court hearing scheduled last week to determine if an Anderson County search warrant should be declared invalid are as yet unknown, since the hearing was changed from in-person to a Zoom hearing late in the local docket schedule.

The hearing was to address claims made by a defense attorney for Tommy Emerson that District Magistrate Judge Kevin Kimball had a prior relationship with Emerson and knew in advance about methamphetamine use at Emerson's Garnett residence prior to signing a warrant for officers to search Emerson's residence in February 2020. That search resulted in recovered evidence and 13 felony counts filed against Emerson including drug possession and using a cell phone to make deals involving the narcotic.

District court personnel told an Anderson County Review staffer who planned to cover the hearing on Tuesday the proceeding had been switched from an in-court appearance to a Zoom meeting, and that District Court Judge Eric Godderz, set to preside over the hearing, did not typically post his remote hearings publicly. An email inquiry sent to Godderz and Fourth Judicial District Administrator John Steelman seeking comment was not returned by press time.

An attorney representing Judge Kimball filed a motion the day prior to the scheduled hearing asking that a subpoena requiring Kimball to appear and testify be quashed. Grant Klise, an attorney with the Kansas Supreme Court's Office of Judicial Administration, said Emerson had so far offered no details regarding Kimball's alleged prior knowledge or how it affected the justification for the warrant.

"Regardless of what counsel expects Mr. Emerson to testify to, the fact is that neither the State nor Mr. Emerson have provided any specific factual allegations regarding the supposed contact between Judge Kimball and Mr. Emerson," Klise's motion reads. "Mr. Emerson's motion to suppress and motion to continue make bare bones states that some sort of significant contact existed between Judge Kimball and Mr. EMERSON. It remains to

Toddy's Back Porch cocktail lounge opens for business in Garnett

GARNETT — The closing of several bars in town was the impetus for a local man's effort to build the area's newest cocktail lounge in Garnett.

Jim Todd said Toddy's Back Porch, which opened officially this past weekend at 26192 NE Neosho, was designed to fill a need for a relaxing hang-out where customers can visit and have a cocktail in a low-key atmosphere.

"In the last couple of years you've lost Maloans, you've lost Racers, you've lost Mr. D's," Todd said last week. "We thought the community needed a cocktail lounge."

Todd helped organize some 25 local investors who joined in the idea and provided funding. He said the overall idea was to keep the operation as simple as possible in both size and scope and not to overcomplicate the operation. "We basically intend to run it with one person," Todd said.

General manager Susan Owens said Toddy's will feature a wood-fired oven and will serve pizza and wings along with standard cocktails, beers and some draft brands. She said initial plans are to be open for lunch at 11 a.m. on Monday, closed Tuesday, and open Wednesday through Saturday at 4 p.m.

Attendance: Leslie McGhee, Present: David Pracht, Present: Anthony Mersman, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes from the previous meeting were approved as presented.

Road & Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road & Bridge Supervisor, met with the commission. Discussion was held on county roads and replacing pipes. The Commissioners talked about recruiting staff for the road department and how to keep the current employees.

Bandstand

Sherry Benjamin requested the use of the bandstand on the courthouse on the third Saturday in September for various bands to play music. She is hoping to continue throughout the fall months or utilize the community building if the weather is bad.

IT Staffing

Adam Wilson, Appraiser, and Harold DeForest, Deputy County Treasurer, met with the commission. The Commissioners talked with Harold about Adam becoming a back up IT person for the county and what that entailed. Julie Wettstein, County Clerk, provided the Commissioners a breakdown of how much the county has paid Advantage Computers in labor over that past 5 years. Harold said Adam would be a good backup if he is unable to leave the Treasurer's office or is gone. Harold will train Adam on the county software system and what the departments use. Commissioner Mersman moved and Commissioner Pracht seconded to compensate Adam Wilson $3,500 in 2021 with an additional $1,000 each year not to exceed $6,500 effective 08/26/2021 for IT services for the county. All voted yes.

Sheriff

Vern Valentine, Sheriff, met with the commission. He discussed increasing the wages of his certified deputies so his department can be competitive with the changes the City of Garnett made recently. Vern thinks a $2.00 increase in the pay ranges would help tremendously. Certified deputies currently begin at $17.41/hour. Vern has the funds in his budget currently to cover the increase for 2021. Commissioner Pracht moved and Commissioner Mersman seconded to increase the pay ranges for all certified officers $2.00 effective 08/28/2021. The ranges include certified deputy, chief deputy, detective, and undersheriff. All voted yes. Sheriff Valentine also requested an increase in pay from his current salary of $63,654 to $75,000 to take effect in January 2022. Commissioner Pracht moved and Commissioner Mersman seconded to increase the sheriff salary to $75,000 to take effect January 2022. All voted yes.

Appraiser

Adam Wilson, Appraiser, met with the commission. He presented bids for a new printer/copier/fax machine for his office. Bids were from Digital Connections for a Lanier IMC4500 for $6,395 and from Salina Blue for an Epson WF-C869R for $6,595. Commissioner Pracht moved and Commissioner Mersman seconded to purchase a Lanier IMC4500 from Digital Connections for $6,595 to be paid out of the Reappraisal fund. All voted yes. Discussion was held on possibly adding a GIS tech position to the appraiser's office. Adam will draft a job description to have it evaluated by the salary committee. This position will cut the cost of outsourcing current projects/work that is being done.

Kwikom Fiber

John Cary and Eric Vogel, Kwikom, met with the commission. Discussion was held on Kwikom providing information for Anderson County to become a fiber connected county and using the ARPA funds. Kwikom would run fiber connectivity to Colony, Kincaid, and Westphalia as it is already provided in Garnett and Greeley. The commission requested additional information and a cost breakdown before it would be considered for the use of the American Rescue Plan Act monies.

How shall we escape?

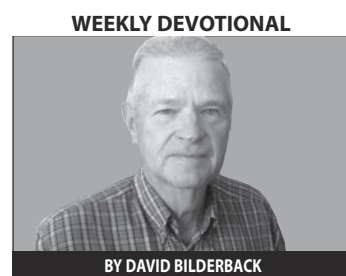

I believe that part of becoming a strong and mature Christian is understanding the power of almighty God. When you wake in the morning do you realize that God has kept you alive all night. If he didn't what did you do to help him? Not many of us realize how complex the human body is. We take for granted that our bodies will always perform as required. The human body was created by God, doctors can certainly perform procedures that restore or prolong human life but with every procedure they will explain the risks involved and the side effects that procedure may have.

Our bodies wear down over time, no doctor can reverse that process. In Hebrews 9:27 we read, "Just as man is destined to die once and after that face the judgment." Each of us has a span of time determined by God and God alone. Is God all powerful? Yes he is. Everyday that we are alive we do so at God's pleasure.

In Revelation 21:6 God says, "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end." Each of us has a beginning and an end. We have a birth certificate and we will have a death certificate. God has neither.

God not only created and sustains man but his power is evident in nature. Do you realize no one knows how many stars there are, and no one can make it rain or snow, or the wind blow or cease. We think we can get a good crop by using certified seed, good tillage practices, fertilizer and chemical but what is it that really brings a good crop in? It is rain sent from the hand of God.

All this brings us to a few questions. Does God have any place in your life? When is the last time you prayed or went to church? When is the last time you thanked God for the many blessings you have received?

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

In Leviticus 26:9-12 God tells the people what he will do if they are obedient and follow him. He would look on them with favor, he would make them fruitful and increase their numbers, he would provide a bountiful harvest year after year. Ultimately God says, "I will put my dwelling place among you, and I will not abhor you. I will walk among you and be your God and you will be my people."

This much I know. God loves you and I. No matter who you are or what you have done God loves you. In fact he loved you so much he sent his Son Jesus Christ to die on a cross for our sins so we could be reconciled unto him. When Jesus went to the cross he took all the sins of the world, past, present and future upon himself. He took our sin and imputed or assigned his righteousness to us. If we fail to receive Jesus as our Savior then we are separated from God. Tonight when you lay your head on your pillow and hear the clock ticking, consider whether you are right with God. You are alone then with your thoughts. The writer to the Hebrews asks a most important question, "How shall we escape if we ignore so great a salvation." It is a rhetorical question we won't we will be separated from God for eternity.

Colony Christian Church - "Make Time to Mentor"

Bruce Symes gave the Communion Meditation over the article "Advice", that he adapted from the www.becomingscloser.org website. We come to a point in our lives where we offer "advice" to God. Sometimes we tell him our plan for our life and his part in it. Other times we tell him only the part of our plan where he participates. Or we may not tell God anything, but implement it on our own and assume he knows his role. It is extremely arrogant of us to give advice to God like we know what is best for us. God is not here to serve us, but to BE served by us. He is the master potter, and we are the clay, waiting to be formed into whatever he wishes to form us into. (Ref: Romans 9:14-21)

Pastor Chase Riebel gave the sermon "Make time to mentor" over Acts 18:1-28. Chuck Swindoll compared mentoring to a relay race. You have to train and practice together before you can properly pass off the baton to another person, and sometimes you may be practicing for months or even years. In our walk with God, we work on "handing" off Jesus to others by mentoring them. Paul spent a lot of time with Aquila and Priscilla, who were tentmakers like he was. As they worked, he trained them in the ways of Jesus. There are three ways to effectively mentor to others: Stay close, Be devoted to the Scriptures, and Stick with it. First, we need to spend time with those we are mentoring, face to face. It is always easier to learn with someone you know and trust and can spend quality time together. Paul was devoted to God's Word and would teach others the scriptures by testifying how they have affected him. And he didn't sugar coat them. To be true to the scriptures, you must tell them like they're written. And sometimes being a long term mentor is what is needed, and what God may be calling you to do. Staying faithful to what you are teaching is key. Mentor without being controlling. Let those you have mentored go out and mentor others. Trust those you have trained. (Ref: Acts 2:42 & 18:1-28; 1 Corinthians 1:24 & 4:16; Hebrews 12:1-2) Hear this and all our sermons by using your favorite podcast app, on our Facebook page, or on our website at www.colonychristianchurch.org.

Not just Biden's disaster

Nothing in America and the world is better under President Joe Biden. Nothing. Kabul's fall and the fallout surrounding it are just the latest, most tragic and deadly examples.

But don't be fooled - this is NOT Joe Biden's fault. No, the catastrophic collapse of the past seven months is bigger than him. The blame does not lie with President Biden - it belongs with the Democrats. All of them.

The U.N., our allies, the mainstream media and even some prominent Democrats are starting to shift blame to Biden. They're showing pictures of him alone in the Situation Room at Camp David, stepping off Marine One alone. Even the president is claimipeggy-grande. jppng, "The buck stops with me." Don't fall into their trap.

The Democrats can't deny that they are accomplices. They own this mess collectively and need to be blamed and held accountable collectively. They can't be allowed to float while they sink him.

This unprecedented implosion belongs to every member of Democrat leadership - those in power now and those who started us down a dangerous pathway of undermining American exceptionalism, beginning with the 2008 Obama world apology tour. Our own president undercut our status as a world leader. Barack Obama and Secretary of State Hillary Clinton wanted America to be loved, not feared. Today, neither is true.

I hate to fathom this was the Democrats' plan all along and they're getting exactly what they wanted. Yet the dots only connect to that one conclusion.

Democrats don't believe America should lead on the world stage. They don't believe that a strong America creates a safer world. They believe in the good of the collaborative, the very roots of socialism. They believe in the world as they want it to be - not as it is. They say one thing while reality shows something entirely different. Americans and the world see this and know the truth - the Democrats are lying to them.

Democrats claim to care about every life yet have created a situation in which an unknown number of Americans have been abandoned behind enemy lines and in essence are hostages to a terrorist organization. Their lives are in grave danger. Texts from the State Department won't save them.

Democrats talk about being champions for women and girls, yet have condemned a generation of Afghan females to live under sharia law, which will strip them of all freedoms, rights, protections and access to education. Hashtags and "standing with them" won't protect them from unimaginable horrors.

PEGGY GRANDE, PEPPERDINE UNIV.

Democrats have abandoned the singular reason for the military - to protect America and Americans. They have shamefully turned the Pentagon into a laboratory for social issues. I wonder how many trapped Americans are supportive of the military's recent focus on BLM, climate change, transgender issues and bending to the will of the woke left. Perhaps the Department of Defense should have been reading intelligence reports rather than their Twitter feed.

Surrender in Afghanistan has triggered a tsunami of consequences that will diminish our capacity to lead the world for years to come.

Joe Biden and the Democrats have let down our allies and driven a wedge between our nation and the nations of the U.N. The Democrats have insulted our partners and brothers in arms in Afghanistan and endangered America by bowing down to a terrorist organization.

The Democrats owe the taxpayers an explanation for unnecessarily abandoning billions of dollars of assets, facilities and equipment. That equipment will likely be reverse engineered by China and used against America and her allies in future conflicts. Yes, the Democrats caused that too.

The Democrats' failed withdrawal is facilitating China's support of Afghanistan. China is more than happy to help the Taliban build a new government - and take over American resources, technology and a treasure trove of Afghan rare earth minerals while they're at it.

Democrats promised that this administration would be the most experienced and diplomatic and ready to right the wrongs of the Hey Phone Forum. I see the cancel culture is alive and well in good ole' Garnett. This person that called, you're seriously attacking a church - a church of all things; because they rented their meeting room to someone to show a movie in it that you don't agree with? Sounds like a typical snowflake liberal to me. And you're bashing them and telling people not to support that church because of that? Are you a poor little snowflake that can't handle it when somebody disagrees with you? Poor widdle snowflake. We'll just make your world all soft and cushy so you can be in your little bubble with your widdle fragile self esteem where no one will argue with you. I think everybody in town ought to double their donations to that church this week and build their meeting room on even bigger. Get back on your mommy's apron strings she'll protect you.

As a biker, people mowing grass, putting it out in the street everywhere, last year I know of 10 bikers in Kansas and Oklahoma that died because of the grass in the street that was wet and slick. I think the city ought to have an ordinance about blowing grass in the street. Protect everybody. Thank you.

Seriously if you or a loved one was going in to get an operation at the hospital, would you or would you not want your doctor to wear a mask? Something to ponder.

Respect your nurses. For they are the ones who have to clean up you after you poop all over yourself.

I don't think having a hate Biden, hate mask meeting at a church is a wise thing to do. No matter how many posts you have about meetings you cannot bring Trump back. I voted for him but once I saw his crowd destroy our nations capital I regretted my vote. Biden's not perfect but he is our president.

There was no reason to pull out of Afghanistan

Last year, many of us called on President Donald Trump not to withdraw from Afghanistan, as he seemed intent on doing. We argued that it would be a humiliating surrender to an enemy we had already defeated and a disastrous error. President Joe Biden has now implemented the withdrawal, and the consequences have been as disastrous as feared.

President Trump's policy and President Biden's decision were not required by any facts on the ground. The United States and Afghanistan had achieved a strategic balance. The number of American soldiers there had been brought down to less than 3,000 from a wartime high over 150,000, and not one of our troops had been killed in battle for more than a year.

That is because they and we were no longer at war in Afghanistan. Our mission there was to counter terrorists who want to kill Americans and to give backup support to the Afghan government and military, which were building and defending their nation.

President Biden must have understood part of what would be lost if we withdrew when, in June, he raised with Russian President Vladimir Putin a plan to essentially reconstitute our counterterrorism mission in Afghanistan to a friendly neighboring country in Central Asia. Putin naturally objected. Yet

COMMENTARY

JOE LIEBERMAN, FMR. U.S. SENATOR

President Biden went ahead with the pullout anyway. The inevitability of a rising anti-American terrorist threat from Afghanistan as a result of our withdrawal has already become clear just days after the Taliban victory. On Sunday, National Security Adviser Jake Sullivan said the threat from ISIS to Americans in Afghanistan is "real, acute and persistent."

That is why, as I watch the heartbreaking scenes of human suffering, death and desperation in Afghanistan, I keep saying, "None of this had to happen. The decision to withdraw was tragically unnecessary."

I've known President Biden for more than 40 years. He is a good and caring person and an experienced and skillful elected official. I am sure he is deeply troubled by the harmful consequences of his decision on people in Afghanistan and must be asking himself how it could have gone so wrong.

If the United States were a parliamentary democracy, it is quite possible that this Biden government would fall. But we are not. The Biden administration has been in office only seven months and has about 3 1/2 years to go. The president's priority now to evacuate as many Americans and friendly Afghans as soon as possible is, of course, the right one. But there is something else he can do now for our country and himself.

There is an urgent need for President Biden to initiate a review of the decision-making process of his White House and administration in this matter, including the advice he received from his top aides, as well as the planning for the evacuation, which was clearly and outrageously inadequate.

There are tough questions President Biden must ask, including:

Why and how did he make the decisions he did? Did he ask for, and listen to, the opinions of people who were critical of his long-held desire to withdraw from Afghanistan? Was he well-served by those in his adminis-

Biden disingenuous among his signature disasters

Poor Ron Klain. It's not a good sign when a White House chief of staff to a Democratic president wants to re-tweet favorable news coverage and all he can find is the least credible and most slavishly loyal commentators on the internet.

The Afghanistan fiasco has created that most disorienting and discomfiting experience for a progressive administration - a serious bout of critical media coverage immune to White House spin and determined to tell the unvarnished story of an ongoing debacle.

The White House and its allies have lashed out at what they are portraying as an insular, pro-war media ignoring its many successes in the Afghan evacuation.

This, like Ron Klain's tweeting, is a sign of desperation and of a feeling of outraged betrayal that usually dependable allies have, on this story, switched sides. Say it's not so, CNN.

The White House is unfamiliar with what it's like to be on the receiving end of the kind of media feeding frenzy that Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis experiences every other day (almost always involving spurious storylines).

But on Afghanistan, Joe Biden in effect set out to test how much shameless incompetence and dishonesty the media would accept. The answer? Not nearly enough.

The press is blatantly biased and has become even more so over time, repeatedly propagating false narratives that have shredded their credibility. Still, there are limits beyond which even it can't be pushed.

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Biden said that the Afghan withdrawal wouldn't be another Saigon within weeks of Saigon-like scenes of a hasty evacuation of the U.S. embassy, of terrified Afghans clinging to a U.S. transport plane, of desperate Afghans passing their infants over the barbed wire to Western soldiers guarding the Kabul airport.

There is no number of look-on-the-bright-side briefings that are going to overcome these indelible images, and even a journalist who tilted heavily toward Biden in 2020 and supports his agenda was going to be hard-pressed to look away.

The contradiction in Biden's case for withdrawal was also too stark to ignore. He originally justified his pullout because the Afghan government and military were capable of defending the country without us, then he justified his exit because the government and military collapsed so quickly. Which was it?

Much of what Biden has said in his remarks and press conferences has been vulnerable to instant fact checks. When he said that Americans weren't having trouble getting through to the airport, reporters could immediately attest that it wasn't true.

Who was everyone supposed to believe? Biden's misleading assurance, or CNN reporter Clarissa Ward's compelling report from outside the Kabul airport that she was threatened with a whip for not covering her face and her producer nearly pistol whipped? Ward said it was "mayhem" and "a miracle that more people haven't been very, very seriously hurt."

The complaints from the administration and its most committed journalistic supporters that the coverage has been unfair and the product of a press biased toward interventionism ring hollow.

It is certainly true that the East Coast media has more cosmopolitan attitudes than the rest of the country, but it's hardly full of committed foreign policy hawks. The press didn't notably dissent from President Barack Obama's pullout in Iraq in 2011 or his nuclear deal with Iran. It has instead favored the so-called peace process in the Middle East.

It's not as though only the American media has noticed Biden's ineptitude, either. If anything, our foreign allies have been harsher about the humiliating mess Biden has stumbled into (former British prime minister Tony

If you said, it's block ice tongs,

I'm sorry but that isn't correct. In actuality it is a pair of old railroad tie tongs. From what I've been told, it took at least two men or more, each with a set of tongs, to lift and set a R/R tie. This set of tongs bears a stamp saying R.R. on one of its handles. No! I didn't dig this artifact up at the old school I'm presently working at, in fact I didn't dig it up at all. I was given this wonderful artifact by my dear friend Jackie Finney.

We all depend on the strength of the American Worker

America didn't become the most prosperous nation on earth by chance. Working Americans built this nation from the ground up, embracing very "American" qualities like creativity, ingenuity and originality. They in turn depended on the families that supported them. Through challenge, trouble and strife, quite amazingly, the whole thing worked.

Whether teachers, farmers, office workers, equipment operators or production employees, the local businesses below recognize the immeasurable value of our local labor force in building our community and maintaining its greatness.

Enjoy your Labor Day Holiday.

The next rural migration

Greg Doering, Kansas Farm Bureau

There were no surprises in the recently released 2020 census numbers that will be used to draw new lines for congressional and state senate and house districts. Kansas grew, but at a rate slower than the nation overall. Rural areas largely saw their populations dwindle while metros swelled, an ongoing trend since the industrial revolution.

Overall, rural parts of the country lost 226,000 people in the past decade to urban and suburban places, which grew by more than 20 million. As a state, we're slightly older and more diverse, overall. Beyond the obvious demographic shifts, the census numbers mean political power is shifting, too.

This is worrisome not because the issues facing cities and towns are all that different from the challenges across the countryside. It's because far too often a policy or program that works in one area is a total bust when expanded to another.

Many of the challenges we face across the state are the same, from housing and child-care to taxes and labor shortages. The solutions to these are nearly as varied as the more than 2.9 million people who call Kansas home.

But with fewer folks walking in the statehouse or the halls of Congress with rural backgrounds means there's less understanding of the challenges and opportunities that exist in communities where the nearest neighbor might be a quarter-mile or more away. The rules and regulations that make sense in cities where people interact with one another more frequently are often ineffective or even counterproductive in less populated areas.

While the proportional political power flowing to cities carries real risks for those of us who enjoy rural lifestyles, we still have a lot of capacity to shape the outcomes of laws.

I don't expect our big city citizens to wield their growing power over their country cousins with malice. But there's only so many issues we have the time to fully grasp. Self-interest being what it is, we usually don't stray too far outside our immediate neighborhood when trying to solve a problem.

That's why it's so important to tell the story of farming and ranching, the benefits of rural living and, most importantly, why people who do none of those should listen. They're not going to agree with you on everything, but through conversations with friends, family and business partners, greater understanding of rural issues and their solutions is possible.

It's also a good opportunity to talk about the quality of life available in the country and small towns. Most aren't looking to give up their lives in the city, but in a world where it's increasingly common to work anywhere, the choice of where workers live is everywhere. That means one of the primary drivers of urbanization is perhaps at its weakest point since the steam engine was invented.

Technology alone won't undo centuries of change quickly, but it's certainly a welcome tool in reviving rural living. Not only does this mean access to jobs that allow people to stay in rural areas, but benefits like clean air and water, less stress and traffic and more privacy are certainly going to be enticing to some city folks as well. By the time the next census comes around, there's a real chance the story will be about the dawning of the next rural migration.

Labor Day warning - Drive sober or get pulled over

Summer may be coming to an end, but there's no end in sight to law enforcement's crackdown on impaired driving. This Labor Day holiday, the Kansas Department of Transportation (KDOT) urges drivers to think twice before driving drunk or high.

Enforcement for the national impaired driving campaign, "If You Feel Different, You Drive Different. Drive High, Get a DUI," is from Friday, Aug. 20, through Monday, Sept. 6.

KDOT, along with officials from the Kansas Highway Patrol and the Wyandotte County District Attorney's office, have partnered to spread the word about the Labor Day increase in impaired driving crashes and fatalities. A news conference will take place at the Capitol in Topeka at 10 a.m. on Aug. 18 to kick off the safety campaign and upcoming law enforcement mobilization.

Law enforcement officers will be out in force this Labor Day holiday. When convicted for impaired driving, drivers face stiff penalties, including hefty financial consequences — from fines, legal fees and lost time at work to jail time. Bottom line — if you are impaired, don't drive. Designate a sober driver, take public transportation or stay home.

lives were at risk in Afghanistan. He said casualties were preventable and a consequence of the Biden administration's "proven failure."

"America must respond to these attacks with strength — not weakness. But doing so requires a commander in chief fit to lead," Marshall said. "President Biden must face the American people and address questions on how we will respond to this massacre or he should resign immediately."

Marshall also said his office had assisted in evacuating the family of lawful permanent U.S. residents earlier last week.

U.S. Rep. Jake LaTurner, who serves the Second District in eastern Kansas including national security. The situation in Afghanistan was entirely a political decision that Joe Biden says was a "promise to the American people." Yet not one American would have said to stick to an arbitrary deadline if it meant unnecessarily endangering so many innocent lives. This was an unforced error.

This isn't just Democrat incompetence. This is Democrat intention. They all share the blame.

Anderson County, said the U.S. House should reconvene promptly for meetings to learn more about events unfolding in Kabul. The GOP lawmaker said withdrawal of military forces should be blocked until "all Americans and our allies are safely out of Afghanistan."

"It's our duty to protect Americans. No excuses," LaTurner said. "We must make it abundantly clear to the Taliban, ISIS and all other extremist groups that any attacks on American citizens in Afghanistan will be met with the full force of the United States military."

About 500 U.S. Army soldiers stationed at Fort Riley near Junction City, Kansas, are expected to deploy to U.S. military bases to assist with temporary housing and other support of people evacuated from Afghanistan. The Kansas troops are expected to be at Fort McCoy in Wisconsin, Fort Lee in Virginia, Fort Bliss in Texas or Joint Base McGuire-Dix-Lakehurst in New Jersey.

Biden has sought to complete the U.S. withdrawal by the Aug. 31 deadline, which represented an extension from the deal struck in February 2020 by President Donald Trump to depart Afghanistan by May 2021. Trump's agreement with the Taliban included the pledge to withdraw U.S. forces and to compel release of about 5,000 Taliban fighters from Afghan prisons.

AAA Kansas helps improve roadside safety of law enforcement officers

AAA Kansas, with support from the AAA Kansas Traffic Safety Fund, has donated sets of digital road flare lights to about two dozen smaller police departments and sheriff's offices across the Sunflower State, to help increase visibility and safety when officers work roadside emergency incidents in dark conditions.

"Many people, including law enforcement officers, road construction crews and tow truck operators, such as our AAA emergency roadside service technicians, are in put perilous situations while working their daily jobs, often just feet away from passing traffic," said Shawn Steward, AAA Kansas spokesman. "In AAA Kansas' ongoing commitment to educating motorists about "Move Over" safety laws and protecting roadside workers, it is our honor to donate these highly visible flare kits to our Kansas law enforcement partners, to help them return home safely to their families after nighttime duties along the roadways."

"The Rawlins County Sheriff's Office sends our thanks and appreciation for the generous donation of the digital flare kits," said Undersheriff Catlyn Wahrman. "The safety of our deputies is of the utmost importance, along with the safety of our community. The flares have already been used multiple times working accidents and helping disabled motorists, after dark and in low-visibility conditions. With small agencies like ours, budgets are always tight, and donations like this allow us to use our limited funds for additional important items. Thank you, AAA Kansas Traffic Safety Fund."

"These lights are being kept and carried by the Sergeant on night shift," said Bo Jacobs, Sergeant, Seward County Sheriff's Office. "They are being utilized for accidents and are a great tool for our office."

"Move Over" Laws

Move Over laws exist in all 50 states. AAA and other traffic safety advocates have been instrumental in the passage of laws to better protect tow truck drivers, road construction workers and other first responders.

Kansas' Move Over law requires drivers approaching a stationary emergency vehicle displaying flashing lights, including towing and recovery vehicles, traveling in the same direction, to vacate the lane closest if safe and possible to do so, or slow to a speed safe for road, weather, and traffic conditions. In Kansas, the original law took effect in 2000 to protect law enforcement officers. It has been expanded over the years to reduce risk to roadside construction crews, emergency responders and tow operators and waste collection vehicles. It was most recently broadened during the 2021 Kansas Legislative session to include to utility and telecommunications crews.

If motorists are cited for violating this statute, they will face a $75 fine plus, potentially, additional court costs.
