Subpoenas issued in matricide preliminary hearing

Testimony from witnesses will determine if murder case against Allen will proceed

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

MOUND CITY – A preliminary hearing is expected to roll Friday for a Linn County man accused of crashing his truck into his mother’s car and killing her on a rural road south of Parker last December.

Witness testimony in the second degree murder case against James Rocky Allen, 42 of Parker, may be heard from as many as 18 individuals who answered subpoenas according to court documents.

The preliminary hearing and the assemblage of witnesses came after a June 30 bond hearing in which Crawford County District Court Judge Terri Johnson determined Allen’s past criminal history, financial means and past incidences of violence made him a flight risk and a possible threat to witnesses if his bond was reduced. Motions by the defense to have him relocated from the Bourbon County Jail in Fort Scott to another facility closer to his home were also denied.

A preliminary hearing amounts to an initial review of evidence and witness testimony in a case in order to determine if there’s enough justification for a trial on the charges. Most local cases are resolved by plea agreements prior to the preliminary hearing.

Allen is accused of killing his mother, 70 year-old Charlotte Grimes of Garnett after the two passed each other on a little-travelled portion of Keitel Road south of Parker on December 21 of last year. Investigators say they believe Allen turned around in the road and pursued his mother’s stopped vehicle, slamming into it and knocking it into a pasture before ramming it again, killing her.

Linn County Court records show Allen was charged with numerous felonies and criminal misdemeanors dating back to 2002, including an alleged Christmas Eve 2012 assault against another inmate housed with him at the Linn County Jail which resulted in a failed lawsuit against the jail and

Linn County Sheriff’s Department in U.S. District Court.

Allen’s attorney asked for a competency evaluation of his client in March based on odd statements he made to investigating officers and family members. Kansas Bureau of Investigation agents who interviewed Allen the day after the incident at the Bourbon County Jail ended their interview, according to a probable cause affidavit, due to Allen’s “bizarre behavior,” but not until after Allen told the officers he “had a lot done

Judge to answer allegations of acquaintance with man in drug case

Emerson says Kimball knew about his activities prior to signing warrant

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – An Anderson County District Magistrate Judge was subpoenaed along with others last week to appear in court December 8 to address allegations from the suspect in a local drug case, who claims a previous relationship he says they had should invalidate a search warrant of his property the judge signed that led to his felony charges.

Magistrate Judge Kevin Kimball’s attorney filed a motion to quash Tom Emerson’s initial request to suppress the warrant, saying Emerson’s allegation that he was acquainted with Kimball and that Kimball knew of the meth-for-sex activities at Emerson’s home contained no proof that any such relationship ever existed. Subpoenas were also issued to numerous other investigating officers for their testimony at the hearing on the motion to suppress.

Emerson was charged in July 2020 after a search of his home and cell phone the previous February yielded methamphetamine and numerous text conversations regarding obtaining and distributing meth as party favors for sex visitors at his home. Emerson told officers he never sold the drug but provided it to guests free in order to intensify their sexual experiences. He faces 12 felonies and other misdemeanors relating to possession and distribution as well as using a cell phone to conduct illegal activities.

A probable cause affidavit from investigators used to base the charges and a transcript from the preliminary hearing list various drug sources and amounts of drugs sought on different occasions, as well as other users outlined in a string of text communications officers found while reviewing the contents of Emerson’s cell phone.

Cox wins OPK council seat

OVERLAND PARK – Garnett native Jeff Cox defeated an incumbent city councilman in Overland Park last week to take the seat in the Ward 6 council race.

Cox took 51 percent of the vote and defeated four-year councilman Chris Newlin by about 200 votes, according to The Shawnee Post.

The 1983 Garnett High School graduate campaigned on a platform of balance between commercial/residential development and the more rural aspects of the southern Johnson County ward, opposing improper use of tax incentives for commercial development and the overbuilding of high

Locals partied hardy on word of 1918 Armistice

False report of Nov. 7 peace deal led world to premature celebration

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Thursday’s annual Veteran’s Day ceremony at Anderson County Junior-Senior High School pays tribute to local veterans past and present, but the ceremony’s connection to the first Armistice Day that ended World War I stands out with special notation in Anderson County history books.

Thursday’s ceremony begins at 10:30 a.m. at ACJSHS Auditorium and is open to the public.

In view of the Covid-19 pandemic that cancelled last year’s ceremony in Garnett and most all other across the country, it’s notable that the Spanish Influenza pandemic of 1918 claimed more soldiers from Anderson County than the Germans.

According to a Kansas Historical Society database that lists 29 servicemen from Anderson County who served in the conflict, five died from combat-related causes and 17 died from disease either while still in the states or after being shipped out to Europe.

The flu’s pressure on the war in Europe is credited with weighing on the decision by Germany to sign the November armistice

Fischbach to keynote Veterans Day event

GARNETT – Former Commander of the Kansas Veterans of Foreign Wars Bruce Fischbach will keynote the Veterans Day commemoration set for 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Anderson County High School and presented by the Sgt. Jeffery S. Mersman Memorial VFW Post 6397 in Garnett.

ANDERSON COUNTY COMMISSION NOVEMBER 1, 2021

Chairman Leslie McGhee called the meeting of the Anderson County Commission to order at 9:00 AM on November 1, 2021 at the Anderson County Commission Room. Attendance: Leslie McGhee, Present: David Pracht, Present: Anthony Mersman, Present. The pledge of allegiance was recited. Minutes from the previous meeting were approved as presented.

Road & Bridge

Lester Welsh, Road & Bridge Supervisor, met with the commission. He presented road permit #2021,1101:01 for Jeff Davison for installation of water line. Commissioner McGhee signed the permit. Commissioner McGhee asked Lester to check into a hole on bridge south of 1300 Rd and Nebraska Rd.

Solid Waste

Scott Garrett, Solid Waste Supervisor, met with the commission. Discussion was held on a 2013 resolution to dispose of a single-family dwelling in no charge after demolition. Amanda Jones at Farm Bureau would like to demolish a dwelling to the north of the Farm Bureau building and is questioning whether it would qualify for free disposal. Additional information was given that a parking lot would be in the place of the home. Scott will let her know that it does not qualify for free disposal. In the future, the Commissioners would like to update the 2013 resolution. Discussion was held on freon removal from appliances brought to the landfill. The Commissioners would like the landfill to handle the freon removal and charge a fee to customers for the removal. Scott stated that he doesn't have enough manpower currently and strict EPA guidelines make it difficult to take on the additional work. Discussion was tabled.

Garnett Library

Andrea Sobba, Librarian, met with the commission. She asked the Commissioners if they would be willing to waive the fee for the Quonset Hut on November 27th to decorate a float for the Garnett Christmas Parade. The Commissioners agreed to waive the fee.

Adjourn

Meeting adjourned at 12:05PM due to no further business.

Schmit selected by K-State College of Business Administration for Menard Family Scholars Program

MANHATTAN — Twenty-nine freshmen business majors at the Kansas State University College of Business Administration have been selected for the Menard Family Scholars Program.

Offered by the college's Center for Principled Business, the yearlong program fosters leadership development, ethical decision-making and innovative thinking, while providing technical knowledge and skills through rigorous coursework. Through industry learning trips, alumni connections, one-on-one mentoring and other exclusive experiences, the students will explore college leadership opportunities and career pathways in the business sector.

Students work with top faculty members as they transition to college life and benefit from early access to the college's Business Career Development Program. They also receive specialized advising and career shadowing experiences. The Menard Family scholars also can gain personal, professional and career skills while building a peer and professional network with high-achieving individuals.

"We are so thankful for the Menard family's generous support of this program," said Kevin Gwinner, Edgerley family dean of the College of Business Administration. "That support will provide these students with an incredible opportunity to set a tone of success that will extend long past their time in college and well into a successful career."

The following area student, a freshmen business major, has been selected for the Menard Family Scholars Program: Katie Schmit, Garnett.

Colony Christian Church - "Jesus teaches us to serve"

Last Sunday was Youth Sunday, so Owen Bahnsen gave our Communion Meditation about being proactive in your faith. Too many people want to take a break after church on Sunday, or after youth group, etc. The "Jesus thing" just gets too tiring. But when our faith seems to challenge us, we can always lean on God and his strength to give us peace of mind and peace in our heart. We all can get tired. Tired physically, mentally and spiritually, and the last thing we may want to do is to get out of our comfort zone. But God will guide us along the best pathway for our life and help us to remain tireless and steadfast in our faith. (Ref: Philipians 4:13; John 14:27; Psalm 32:8; Luke 22:19-20)

Pastor Chase Riebel gave the sermon "Jesus Teaches us to Serve". When Moses saw the burning bush and heard God's voice from within it, he answered "Here I am.". We need to remove everything that prevents us from hearing God so we too can respond to God with "Here I am."

In Jesus' day, it was normally the "least" important person in the room that had to wash the other's feet, but instead, Jesus washed his disciples feet. This was the King of the Universe, the most important person in the room, in ANY room, being a servant to others. And if we are not washed (cleansed by his blood) by him, we cannot be saved. To be cleansed, we must confess our sins and serve others, just as Jesus did. Jesus came to earth not to be served, but to serve others. His salvation is for us all if we accept it. (Ref: John 13:1-17; Exodus 12:12; Acts 17; Mark 10:45; Romans 10:9; Luke 22:24-27; 1 Peter 5:5-6) Hear this and all our sermons by using your favorite podcast app, on our Facebook page, or on our website at www.colonychristianchurch.org.

Living in the suburbs, heading for the city!

The Apostle Paul verifies for us that heaven is a literal place. In 2nd Corinthians 12:2-4, the apostle relates his experience of being caught up, transported to heaven. "I know a man in Christ who fourteen years ago was caught up to the third heaven. Whether it was in the body or out of the body I do not know-God knows. And I know that this man-whether in the body or apart from the body I do not know, but God knows-was caught up to paradise."

There are several biblical references which imply that the "third heaven" is a place beyond the immediate heaven of the earth's atmosphere and beyond the further heaven of outer space and its constellations into the presence of God himself. These references include Hebrews 4:14, Hebrews 7:26 and Ephesians 4:10.

Jesus' promise to the thief who was crucified with him bears witness to this ultimate destination. In Luke 23:43, Jesus tells the man. "I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in paradise." Prior to his crucifixion Jesus in an attempt to comfort his disciples pulls back the curtain of heaven and tells his disciples of their future home. "In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so, I would have told you. I am going there to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you to be with me that you also may be where I am."

tue of Jesus' atoning death on the cross and his sinless life on earth. With our future securely in the hands of Jesus where do we live in the here and now. Scottish Puritan Samuel Rutherford said, "Live in Christ and you are in the suburbs of heaven." Our greatest struggle is finding joy in the midst of the circumstances of life. In order to overcome this we must live in Christ. We must live by grace alone, thru faith alone, in Christ alone. We must also repent of our sins. That is turn away from sin toward Christ. We must also control our affections. Dr. Guy M. Richard summarized this well when he said. "To the extent we allow our affection to run after material possessions, worldly success and reputation is the degree we lose joy with Christ in our lives."

If your joy is based on circumstances it will never be complete. If your joy is in Christ it is but a short step from the suburbs of heaven to the gates of paradise.

WSU students need lessons in civics

It seems a lot of Kansas college students and even their professors have somehow determined the U.S. Constitution exists only to desecrate the American Flag, commandeer and occupy portions of college town streets, toss Chic-fil-A out of the student union and cancel speakers and organizations they don't like. That's why Kansas Legislators need to pass a bill presently languishing in Topeka that requires the passage of a civics test as a condition of high school graduation.

Our latest and most ready example comes from the delightful cherubs making up the Wichita State University student government, who in October voted to prohibit the campus chapter of Turning Point USA, a nationwide organization of college conservatives (we're not kidding, such animals do actually exist) from gaining what's referred to as Registered Student Organization status. That status gives official recognition to the group and allows it free use of school facilities for their events, etc.

The student government meeting where TurningPoint got the boot wasn't short on discussion - almost all the opposition couched in the kind of political verbosity designed to obscure the real beliefs of the student senators and drown the issue in its own details of university policy and legalese.

Those attacking the organization sought cover in bureaucracy and clearly feared any details of their reasoning being made public. With their faces covered and voices muffled by masks as per university policy, the vote was eventually 21-14 against TurningPoint, for no other reason other than a majority just didn't like the organization's opinions. It's clear from the video of the meeting those opposing TurningPoint's recognition were far more concerned about the repercussions of their votes than of guaranteeing rights to those with whom they may disagree.

The Student Supreme Court had a better grasp of the First Amendment and the university's obligations, and reversed the decision.

This isn't new ground in the WSU venue. Back in March some members of the student senate called for the resignation of Senator Olivia Gallegos after she nominated a TurningPoint USA national officer for a Student Government Association recognition of admirable women for Women's History Month. In 2017 the student senate denied acceptance of another conservative student organization, Young Americans for Liberty, a decision which also was overturned by the student's high court.

Shenanigans at WSU of course aren't the only examples that many Kansas college students think leaders like Ilan Omar, Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez and Cory Bush are the standards to be emulated in the formulation of modern American policy. Forget the Constitution - we'll bully anyone we don't like out of the picture.

Most of those kids get that there's no real Spiderman, but the reality of and respect for the rights of others - and duties of American government in that regard - were apparently never imparted to them in their junior grades.

That's a failing of an educational system that's been left on its own too long to determine what American kids need to know and what the country's educational priorities should be. The outcome? A 2016 survey conducted by the University of Pennsylvania's Annenberg Public Policy Center revealed that only 26 percent of Americans were able to identify the three branches of the U.S. government.

With the recent explosion of interest nationwide in just what goes on at public schools, as evidenced by attendance at school board meetings and the outcome of state office races in Virginia, it's clear that setting those priorities straight and setting school boards back on track to represent parents' interests is fast becoming a new national priority.

The premise of individual rights and limits on government power is pretty well covered in the U.S. Citizenship Exam given to anyone who wants to become an American, but they've obviously been lost on any number of young Kansans and others of their generation. In fact, of the 17 states now requiring a civics test, 8 require a minimum score to graduate.

A bill offered in the Kansas House by Valley Center Republican Steve Huebert would amount to a finals exam to ensure each kid graduates knowing the basics of the system - not just how to dodge responsibility within it. Legislators should move on it post haste.##

Congratulations to the Ottawa High School volleyball team. They finished second in the state championship. Way to go girls, I'm proud of you.

The president is a fraud and a bully. The revised vaccine mandate deadline is simply a ploy to coerce and manipulate people to take the Covid-19 shot against their better judgment. Joe Biden and his gang know full well that this mandate will not be upheld. If they truly believe this vaccine is important it makes no sense to extend the compliance date, especially through the holidays when exposure is at its greatest. Stand by your convictions. Surrendering to a bully only encourages their bad behavior.

Veterans before illegals.

I read with interest the article in the Review about the school board candidates not showing up for the forum and it made me wonder why it's so hard to find out anything about someone running for office here. Does no one really care about educating the public about their stands on issues? We have not all lived here all our lives and have our prejudices about who is to be believed and who is not. Do they think so little of the offices they're running for that they don't think they need to bother making their views known to the public? In other places we've lived candidates running for office advertise themselves and what they believe and why they should be elected, but I almost never see ads in the paper for candidates and certainly not for school board. Why should we elect you if we don't know you? Thank you.

So now our wonderful president wants to give $400,000 to illegal aliens who swarmed the border looking for a better life. Well, I guess they found one with Joe Biden. Yes, I'm serious, they feel for some reason like they can justify giving $400,000 to criminals. I never ever thought I'd live long enough to see this day.

Kids need to be listening to Jesus, not Big Bird.

The time has come to take your kids out of dangerous school environments and home school them. Organize with like minded parents. Your children's life and our very country is at stake. Our government is the enemy of the people.

Baseball got a pass with World Series Braves

Last April, when Major League Baseball pulled the All-Star Game out of suburban Atlanta, sending what it thought was a strident example of the powerful corporate punishment every state would face if Republican lawmakers passed laws it did not like, its corporate, academic, and cultural peers applauded the move.

Commissioner Rob Manfred's decision was seen by those who agreed with him as a heroic one that leading American institutions should take when they want to counter what they consider a societal wrong.

In fact, Manfred was just trying to avoid being canceled by the mob. If he had really believed in what he did, he would have made a statement the day after the Atlanta Braves clinched their division last week declaring that none of the World Series games would be played in Atlanta because he is standing on his principles outlined in the boycott.

But all along, Manfred acted from fear, not principle. He did not want anyone to protest the MLB, so he cowered, accepted the mob's lies about the legislation in question, and disparaged an entire state just to avoid a boycott.

That's what we call C-suite cowardice - the way corporate America cries uncle, usually silently. Our cultural curators in corporations, academia, entertainment, and the media will willingly make that happen over and over again until the day comes when people wise up and decide that the emperors have no clothes - that the curators' opinions mean nothing.

For lifelong Atlanta Braves fan Joe Cobb, that tipping point already came. When I interviewed him in Georgia last spring about the boycott, Cobb said he was done with MLB, despite his undying love for the Atlanta Braves.

He has not looked back. Cobb said it isn't as hard as he had expected to follow through on his principled stand of refusing to consume something that had been such a part of his life. "If Major League Baseball truly wanted to make a statement," he told me, "they would have said, 'Not only will there be no All-Star Game in Georgia, there will be no playoff games or World Series played here as well.'"

The Athens native, who works as a training manager for a Fortune 500 company, remarked that there has not been a peep about Georgia's election reform law as the Braves have moved into the playoffs and now into the World Series. To him, that shows just how hollow and purely performative MLB's decision was last spring.

"I publicly said I would not watch the Braves, and I meant what I said," he added. "I know I'm just one voice. To me, the problem is that so many people caved, and now what do we have? Well, we have the World Series. That's great. And we've got full stadiums. That's great. But you know what else we have? Major League Baseball wasn't penalized. They got away with it. They were able to dictate and change people's lives, and there's no penalty for it."

The Cobb County Travel and Tourism Bureau estimated a loss of over $100 million in total for businesses across the county for the nearly weeklong event the All-Star Game host city experiences. Critics in corporate media who shared the MLB's sentiments on moving the game to Denver predictably downplayed that number.

The All-Star Game audience this year had a

'Let's Go Brandon' comes with the territory

There's a crisis afoot in the land - people are being rude to President Joe Biden.

The trend of anti-Biden protestors chanting or holding signs saying, "F--- Joe Biden," or the cleaner version that has come to signify the same thing, "Let's go Brandon," is being portrayed as a new low in American politics.

A recent Washington Post report was headlined, "Biden's Critics Hurl Increasingly Vulgar Taunts." It stipulated presidents have always been the subject of derision and abuse, then claimed, "The current eruption of anti-Biden signs and chants, however, is on another level, far more vulgar, and widespread."

Really? Put aside all the abuse presidents were subjected to prior to the digital age, whether John Quincy Adams ("pimp"), Andrew Jackson ("a greater tyrant than Cromwell, Cesar, or Bonaparte"), Martin van Buren ("Martin van Ruin"), Abraham Lincoln ("the original gorilla") or Theodore Roosevelt ("that damned cowboy"). The last few years weren't exactly a mannerly period of polite disagreement in our national life.

As Byron York of the Washington Examiner has noted, Donald Trump's opponents gloried in the F-word, such that without it some of them would have been rendered practically mute. When Robert De Niro introduced Bruce Springsteen at the 2018 Tony Awards, he used the opportunity to declare: "I'm gonna say one thing. F--- Trump." Cue the standing ovation.

A Los Angeles art gallery had a "F--- Trump" exhibit, rapper Eminem led a "F---Trump" call-and-response at a concert in England, and so on.

If lobbying this particular vulgarity is now completely out of bounds, the new progressive rule is "F--- you" for me, but not for thee.

After gaining traction with roadside demonstrators outside Biden events and with college football fans, the "F--- Joe Biden" chant took an unexpected turn last month. The NASCAR driver Brandon Brown won a race at the Talladega Superspeedway and the reporter interviewing him misstated a growing "F--- Joe Biden" chant in the background as fans saying, "Let's go Brandon."

The scene was like something out of the Will Ferrell comedy "Talladega Nights." A meme was born.

The substitute version of the insult, instantly adopted by the president's critics, is more lighthearted than the original. Fundamentally, it's a joke. It is a gibe at Biden, of course, but also at the misreporting of the chant at the raceway, which is taken as a symbol of the media's ridiculous protectiveness toward Biden.

The chant is also amusingly anodyne, given its provenance. Who can object to the cheering on Brandon, whoever he is?

Not everyone appreciates the humor, though. When a Southwest Airlines pilot allegedly spoke the offending phrase over the intercom on a flight with an Associated Press reporter on board, the outrage machine kicked into gear in a particularly blatant display of humorlessness and lack of proportion.

Harvard professor and CNN commentator Juliette Kayyem posted a missive supposedly from another pilot calling for the Southwest pilot and the crew all to be fired on grounds that he must have been too mentally unbalanced to operate the plane.

Asha Rangappa, another CNN commentator and a Yale law professor, compared the pilot's statement with saying, "Long live ISIS," as if expressing an anti-Biden sentiment in a jokey way is the same as pledging loyalty to a terror group that would love its acolytes to crash airliners.

Of course, pilots shouldn't make political announcements on their flights, and it'd be better if no one resorted to public obscenities when referring to Biden, Trump, or any other officeholder. But it's one of the privileges of

Well known tribe leader once set up camp nearby

I'm wondering how many of you are familiar with the name Keokuk. Chief Keokuk was a leader of the Sauk or Sac tribe in central North America. He was one of the most recognized Native American leaders and noted for his accommodation with the U.S. Government. Keokuk moved his tribe several times. One move brought his band to Anderson County Kansas. One of their encampments was just south of Garnett on the South Fork of the Pottawatomie creek.

Keokuk was born in 1780, in the Illinois Territory and passed away June 1848 near present Ottawa, KS. He was married to "No Kaw Quale" and they had Sac & Fox Indians came into Garnett and performed a "War Dance" This dance took place at the crossing of Pine and Sixth streets. The squaws sat in a circle and the braves entered the circle and began to perform their dances. They also danced the "Green Corn" & the "Snake" dances.

In April 1884, William Gibson was plowing on his farm in the South Pottawatomie bottom 1 1/2 miles south of Garnett, when his plow struck an obstacle which proved to be a large copper kettle, capable of holding 30 gallons. It was turned upside down and was found to be covering up 6 smaller copper kettles. They were a "cache" of the Sac & Fox, who frequented this area for at least 25 years previous to 1859, they no doubt used the kettles for the purpose of making sugar from the numerous sugar maples which grew in that area.

In April 1914, the remains of an Indian Chief were found near Williamsburg, KS. Wampum, silver pennants and large amounts of beads were found in the grave. W.S. Stringham, an old settler, claimed it undoubtedly was the body of the old Chief Keokuk. His body was exhumed and moved to Keokuk, Iowa.

2021 Farm Service Agency County Committee elections underway

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will begin mailing ballots this week for the Farm Service Agency (FSA) county and urban county committee elections to all eligible agricultural producers and private landowners across the country. Elections are occurring in certain Local Administrative Areas (LAA) for these committee members who make important decisions about how federal farm programs are administered locally. To be counted, producers and landowners must return ballots to their local FSA county office or be postmarked by Dec. 6, 2021.

"Now is your opportunity to elect fellow farmers and ranchers in your community to serve on the local county committee," said FSA Administrator Zach Ducheneaux. "These committees are a critical piece to the work we do by providing knowledge and judgment as decisions are made about the services we provide. Your voice and vote matters."

Producers must participate or cooperate in an FSA program to be eligible to vote in the county committee election. A cooperating producer is someone who has provided information about their farming or ranching operation but may not have applied or received FSA program benefits. Also, for County Committee elections, producers who are not of legal voting age, but supervise and conduct the farming operations of an entire farm, are eligible to vote.

Producers can find out if their LAA is up for election and if they are eligible to vote by contacting their local FSA county office. Eligible voters who do not receive a ballot in the mail can request one from their local FSA county office. To find your local USDA Service Center, visit fsa.usda.gov/service-locator. Visit fsa.usda.gov/elections for more information.

About Committees
 Each committee has from three to 11 elected members who serve three-year terms of office, and at least one seat representing an LAA is up for election each year. Newly elected committee members will take office Jan. 1, 2022.

Urban and Suburban County Committees

Ballots to elect urban committee members were sent beginning Nov. 1, 2021. These elections will serve local urban producers in the same jurisdiction. A fact sheet on the urban county committee election and a list of eligible cities can be found at fsa.usda.gov/elections.

The 2018 Farm Bill directed USDA to form urban county committees as well as make other advancements related to urban agriculture, including the establishment of the Office of Urban Agriculture and Innovative Production. Urban county committees will work to encourage and promote urban, indoor and other emerging agricultural production practices. Committee members

The plan to strike a deal between the City of Garnett and USD 365 regarding a development plan for Garnett Stadium has fallen victim to what school officials fear would be the cost of the stadium's eventual renovation. The news is a switch from the direction both the city and school district sought to pursue after a general consensus to convey ownership of the stadium from the city to the school district, as long as the property could be reserved for use of the annual county fair during its designated period each summer.

Just because your children have never had any desire to taste the contents of bottles and pill boxes in your medicine closet, and just because they are not of the inquisitive, prying type is no good reason to be sure that they never will be. In any household where there are children there ought to be a shelf, inaccessible to any save adults, or preferably a cupboard with a key in which to keep whatever poisons you deem it necessary to have about the house. Wise people do not keep many poisons. If it is necessary to have some actual poison or some strong drugs during an illness, it is best always to throw them away when the immediate need for them is no more. Bichloride of mercury tablets should certainly never be kept on hand for future use even when they are colored blue for protection.

Profiling for fun and profit

Profiling gets a bad rap out in the political world, usually because it works pretty well. Marketers have known for decades it works in business, and you should learn from their experience to sell more and better.

Profiling is nothing more than identifying your favorite customer, making a list of their characteristics, and then crafting your marketing efforts, inventory choices, store promotions – even your store décor – in a way that attracts and rewards that favorite customer type.

If you've been in business for a while or if you're modeling your business after an existing one, you already have a customer profile although you may not know it. If you run a convenience store, your customer profile is determined by who lives nearby and who drives past your store on their way to and from work – so geography is king. If you're an antique store, your customer profile likely involves home ownership instead of renting; more vintage, eclectic tastes than Target & Wal-Mart, etc.

What's most important to your customer type? Do they want it fast? Thorough? Cheap? Flexible? Available at odd hours? Pretty? In multiple styles and colors? Convenient? Are they men or women?

Amazing tip: Did you know women make 85% of all household purchases? Think about it: Who bought or ordered the last roll of toilet paper you used?

Profiling also helps you identify the customer you do not want. The customer that costs you huge amounts of time and then makes either no purchase or a low-profit one; The customer who's just tapping your expertise so he/she can make a better decision with a cheaper seller; The one determined to haggle. Sometimes we can't be choosy about the customers we attract, but it helps to know up front what to expect.

Determining those optimum customer traits gives you the direction you need in order to speak to them and those like them, and bring them into your business to buy.

Anderson County High School is proud to present 'Getting to Know...The Sound of Music'

Garnett, KS - Anderson County High School Theatre and Vocal Departments proudly present 'Getting to Know...The Sound of Music', Friday, November 12, and Saturday, November 13 at Anderson County High School Auditorium. Ticket prices are $5 for adults and $3 for students.

The final collaboration between Rodgers & Hammerstein was destined to become the world's most beloved musical. Featuring a trove of cherished songs, including "Climb Ev'ry Mountain," "My Favorite Things," "Do Re Mi," "Sixteen Going on Seventeen" and the title number, The Sound of Music won the hearts of audiences worldwide, earning five Tony Awards and five Oscars. The inspirational story, based on the memoir of Maria Augusta Trapp, follows Maria (Kristen Schmit), an ebullient postulant who serves as governess to the seven children (Emma Shaffer, Dalton Howard, Ella Reichard, Emmett Holloway, Reese Witherspoon, Mack Poeverlein, Sawyer Stevenson) of the imperious Captain von Trapp (Zack Mead), bringing music and joy to the household. But as the forces of Nazism take hold of Austria, the von Trapp family must make a moral decision.

In this adaptation for school students, the content has been edited to better suit younger attention spans, but all the elements that make this show a classic are still in place. You will be enchanted by the timeless story and the dazzling score.

Getting to Know... The Sound of Music

Miller honored with Eunice Harrington Award

Dorothy Miller of rural Garnett is the 2021 recipient of the Eunice Harrington Award.

This award is given to a district officer in the United Methodist Women of the Great Plains conference of the United Methodist Church. There are 17 United Methodist Women districts in the Great Plains conference which covers the states of Kansas and Nebraska.

Eunice Harrington was a UMW member from York, Nebraska who, in her lifetime, exemplified leadership, philanthropy, service, advocacy and activism. She worked to right injustices. She believed in the power of women to positively impact the world.

Every year, each of the 17 UMW districts nominates an officer who exemplifies these traits. Rachel Wegener, president of the Five Rivers district United Methodist Women has announced that Dorothy Miller who attends the Welda United Methodist Church and is an officer in the Five Rivers district UMW has been selected to receive the Harrington Award for 2021.

a slight bump over the 2019 audience. However, it was the second-smallest audience ever for the game.

Cobb said before the controversy happened he was pretty pumped about the prospects for this season. "I was really, really excited," he said. "And when this whole controversy blew up, I was like, I don't own a team. I don't own a newspaper. I don't have a public outlet. The only way that I can make my feelings known that I cannot reward a company when they do something so bad to other people is just not give them any of my money."

So he did not. His stance has become a running joke with his family and friends, who ask him the day after every game whether he watched it. He has not watched, attended, or streamed any game, not even the highlights.

"I'm just one person, but you know what? It is a principled stand, and I will stick by it. In good conscience, I couldn't do it if someone came up to me today and said, 'Here, Joe, here are two tickets to the World Series.' I would donate them. I'd give them somebody else, but in principle, I just couldn't go."

Cobb said that baseball is the American pastime. "It broke color barriers," he said. "It has united people. But it has also had a history of over-living in a democratic age that people can insult the head of state without fear of jail or other punishment.

Anyone who thinks deriding a U.S. president, especially an unpopular one, is breaking new, dangerous ground knows nothing of our history or what it's like to live in a clamorous continental nation. Partisan insults, vulgar and not, come with the territory.

Car care even more critical as average age of cars topped 12 years last year - which is a record

WICHITA, Kan. - October was Car Care Month, which takes on a whole new meaning this year in the wake of the pandemic. There is the typical need to ensure your vehicle is road-ready as temperatures fall and the challenges of winter weather lie ahead, but for several reasons related to COVID-19, drivers are also keeping their vehicles longer than ever, which means there is an even greater need to invest in basic vehicle maintenance to keep those vehicles running.

According to the research firm IHS Markit, the average age of vehicles on US roadways topped 12 years last year for the first time ever.

"There are a combination of factors, such as the chip shortage limiting supply of new vehicles, forcing owners who might otherwise shop new to keep their cars longer, so car care has become even more critical," said Shawn Steward, spokesman for AAA Kansas. "Investing a little time now could save drivers both time and money down the road."

Previous AAA research shows that vehicles 10 years and older are twice as likely to end up stranded on the side of the road compared to newer vehicles and on top of that, the odds of needing a tow quadruples. And yet previous AAA research also shows that more than a third of Americans forget or delay recommended maintenance, ultimately paying more for repairs when the vehicle does breakdown.

"Those who neglect vehicle maintenance are at greater risk of having travel plans disrupted, requiring a tow and spending hundreds if not thousands of dollars for needed repairs," AAA Kansas' Steward added.

And the risk is not just to older cars. Despite advances in-vehicle technology, including maintenance reminders and other dashboard alerts designed to mitigate roadside trouble, AAA rescued hundreds of thousands of Members in 2020 experiencing flat tires, battery troubles and lock outs.

AAA Offers 5 Important Car Care Tips

•Engage a trusted mechanic - A professional and thorough vehicle inspection can help reduce the chance of a serious breakdown - which is not only an inconvenience, but more costly than preventive maintenance. Find a AAA Approved Auto Repair facility near you.

•Check Battery - Automotive batteries typically last between three and five years. To avoid an unexpected battery failure, AAA recommends that drivers have their vehicle's battery tested when it reaches three years of age and on an annual basis thereafter. AAA's Mobile Battery Service offers free battery testing to AAA members.

•Check Tires - With nearly 800,000 crashes occurring on wet roads each year and as winter approaches, AAA reminds drivers that worn tires can increase stopping distance and the risk of a crash. AAA urges drivers to check tread depth, replace tires proactively.

•Check Engine - system failures, such as the radiator, thermostat or water pump, or failure of engine parts such as the timing belt, are most prominent in vehicles age 10 years and older.

•Check Fluids - Incorrect fluid levels can cause breakdowns or even serious damage. Check fluids regularly to ensure proper vehicle function and longevity.

looking their own personal scandals involving cheating, steroids, and drugs. But God forbid, someone has to show an ID to vote in Georgia, and we're just going to punish you and never even apologize for it."

There are a lot more Cobbs in this country who have taken what they think are lonely stances against the big guys.

They are mostly silent. You won't find them at a protest, or as online warriors, but collectively, they are affecting our cultural curators' bottom line, beginning with the loss of trust in doing the right thing - the most important relationship they have with their consumers, and one they cannot afford to lose.

that later became Veterans Day in the U.S. But the celebration would falsely come a few days early, in the rest of the country and in Anderson County as well.

On November 7, 1918, peace talks had been underway in France from some period of time while hostilities on the battle fronts continued. At one of those locations, German and allied commanders agreed to a temporary cease fire to allow a German delegation to pass through a zone unharassed. That word made it to the American Embassy in Paris, then to the commander of U.S. naval forces, who passed it to the president of United Press who sent the story out nationwide.

The word made it to Garnett in hours after J.W. Bronston in Garnett talked to his brother Charlie via a telephone call to Kansas City, where the newspapers were preparing evening extras about the peace declaration and sirens, whistles and parties were taking place in the streets. Soon the celebration spread to Anderson County with similar gaiety. But word got out the next morning that the world had been duped.

When the real celebration came on November 11, Anderson County residents were primed to party.

"The news was received at three o'clock Monday morning at the home of the editor of the Review from Carl Champe," said an article in the Garnett Review. "Mrs. Champe got busy at the telephone, and soon whistles and bells were awakening the people, and the little old cannon at the city hall was taken to the park and from that time on till morning nobody had a chance to sleep any more. Guns, revolvers and other noisemaking instruments added to the racket."

"Later in the day Mayor McDowell issued a proclamation that all business houses were to close at noon and the din was kept until midnight. A big parade took place late in the afternoon."

"Greeley, Westphalia, Colony and Kincaid also held jolifications. Greeley especially on a large scale, keeping it up all day and far into the night," according to the Garnett Review.

In Lone Elm everyone stopped work Monday at noon and set about the celebration. An effigy of the Kaiser was burned in a big bonfire downtown, with speeches by local pastors and singing until the wee hours.

KHP seeking witnesses to hit and run fatality in Franklin County

The Kansas Highway Patrol is seeking assistance to identify witnesses to a hit and run fatality crash that occurred around 9 p.m. on Friday, October 29th on southbound I-35 at mile marker 193 in Franklin County.

A Jeep and Dodge Ram were traveling southbound for several miles and involved in a road rage incident. The driver of the Dodge Ram began tailgating the Jeep, would speed up and drive beside the Jeep then slow down and get behind the Jeep. The Dodge Ram changed lanes in front of the Jeep and came to a stop in the right lane in front of the Jeep at mile marker 193.

The driver of the Dodge Ram exited their vehicle and began walking to the driver side window of the Jeep while shouting. According to occupants of the Jeep, and an independent witness, an unknown Commercial Motor Vehicle struck the rear driver side quarter panel of the Jeep and the driver of the Dodge Ram while she was standing at the driver side window of the Jeep. The CMV continued southbound on I-35. The independent witness stated she believed the CMV possibly had a blue bull rack cattle trailer.

If anyone has any information regarding the crash or CMV, please call Technical Trooper William Bailiff at (785) 217-3359.

The Kansas Highway Patrol is grateful to the public for their assistance to help with our cases. There have been numerous instances and vehicles which have been successfully located. We thank you and truly appreciate any help you can provide.

Farmers can now make elections, enroll in Agriculture Risk Coverage and Price Loss Coverage Programs

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is in the process of issuing $1.8 billion in payments to agricultural producers who enrolled in the Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) and Price Loss Coverage (PLC) programs for the 2020 crop year. These payments provide critical support to help mitigate fluctuations in either revenue or prices for certain crops. These two USDA safety-net programs help producers of certain crops build back better after facing the impacts of COVID-19 and other challenges.

In addition, USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) is encouraging producers to contact their local USDA Service Centers to make or change elections and to enroll for 2022 ARC or PLC, providing future protections against market fluctuations. The election and enrollment period opened on Oct. 18, 2021 and runs through March 15, 2022.

ARC and PLC payments for a given crop year are paid out the following fall to allow actual county yields and the Market Year Average prices to be finalized. This month, FSA processed payments to producers enrolled in 2020 ARC-County (ARC-CO), ARC-Individual (ARC-IC) and PLC for covered commodities that triggered for the crop year.

For ARC-CO, view the 2020 ARC-CO Benchmark Yields and Revenues online database for payment rates applicable to their county and each covered commodity.

For PLC, payments have triggered for barley, canola, chickpeas (large and small), dry peas, flaxseed, lentils, peanuts, seed cotton and wheat. More information on rice payments will be announced later this fall and in early 2022.

For ARC-IC, producers should contact their local FSA office for additional information pertaining to 2020 payment information, which relies on producer-specific yields for the crop and farm to determine benchmark yields and actual year yields when calculating revenues.

By the Numbers
More than 1.7 million contracts were signed in 2019. In 2020, producers signed nearly 1.8 million ARC or PLC contracts, and 251 million out of 273 million base acres were enrolled in the programs. In 2021, signed contracts surpassed 1.8 million.

Since the ARC and PLC were authorized by in the 2014 Farm Bill and reauthorized by in the 2018 Farm Bill, these safety-net programs have paid out more than $32.5 billion to producers of covered commod-

2022 Elections and Enrollment

Producers can elect coverage and enroll in ARC-CO or PLC, which are both crop-by-crop, or ARC-IC, which is for the entire farm. Although election changes for 2022 are optional, producers must enroll through a signed contract each year. Also, if a producer has a multi-year contract on the farm and makes an election change for 2022, it will be necessary to sign a new contract.

If an election is not submitted by the deadline of March 15, 2022, the election remains the same as the 2021 election for crops on the farm. Farm owners cannot enroll in either program unless they have a share interest in the farm.

Covered commodities include barley, canola, large and small chickpeas, corn, crambe, flaxseed, grain sorghum, lentils, mustard seed, oats, peanuts, dry peas, rapeseed, long grain rice, medium and short grain rice, safflower seed, seed cotton, sesame, soybeans, sunflower seed, and wheat.

Web-Based Decision Tools
In partnership with USDA, the University of Illinois and Texas A&M University offer web-based decision tools to assist producers in making informed, educated decisions using crop data specific to their respective farming operations. Tools include:

- Gardner-farmdoc Payment Calculator, a tool available through the University of Illinois allows producers to estimate payments for farms and counties for ARC-CO and PLC.

- ARC and PLC Decision Tool, a tool available through Texas A&M tallows producers to estimate payments and yield updates and expected payments for 2022.

Crop Insurance Considerations

ARC and PLC are part of a broader safety net provided by USDA, which also includes crop insurance and marketing assistance loans.

Producers are reminded that ARC and PLC elections and enrollments can impact eligibility for some crop insurance products.

Producers on farms with a PLC election have the option of purchasing Supplemental Coverage Option (SCO) through their Approved Insurance Provider; however, producers on farms where ARC is the election are ineligible for SCO on their planted acres for that crop on that farm.

Unlike SCO, the Enhanced Coverage Option (ECO) is unaffected by an ARC election. Producers may add ECO regardless of the farm program election.

Upland cotton farmers who choose to enroll seed cotton base acres in ARC or PLC are ineligible for the stacked income protection plan (STAX) on their planted cotton acres for that farm.
