New retail could ride on TIF funds

Hearing set to detail tax-increment financing for new retail project

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – City commissioners will host a hearing June 14 to consider establishing a Tax Increment Financing (TIF) – funded redevelopment district that would bring a new retailer to the location of the city's former cheese plant.

The location at the northeast corner of Park Road and U.S. 59/Maple Street known locally as the "cheese factory" was originally opened as the Graham Cheese Plant on Dec. 11, 1941 – the day the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and brought the U.S. into World War II. A story in The Garnett Review at the time said the plant's first day production of 658 pounds of cheese was shipped on a government war contract.

At one point the plant produced 30,000 pounds of Longhorn Cheese per month. Under subsequent ownerships it produced mozzarella for frozen pizzas. Cheese was last produced there in the 1990s and various tenants have occupied parts of the building since.

TIF projects create legal designations that allow the additional taxes produced by increases in a property's value once developed to be used for investment into that property. It would be the first TIF plan of its kind enacted by the City of Garnett. Under the plan, city, county and school districts still receive tax revenues from that property, but those revenue levels are frozen at the value prior to its redevelopment.

Guffey Properties of Belle, Mo., is named as the beneficiary of the redevelopment district in a public notice

Garnett's former cheese factory at Park & Maple Streets will be the site of a new Family Dollar/Dollar Tree retail store under the terms of a proposed tax increment financing proposal which will turn the area into a redevelopment district.

Three to seek Garnett commission seat

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Three city residents have filed in the November election for a seat on the Garnett City Commission in the absence of 15-year incumbent Greg Gwin.

Mark Locke, Troy Armstrong and Justin Thompson made the June 1 filing deadline for the office. The three members of the Garnett City Commission each serve three-year staggered terms with a different seat elected each November.

Locke is a native of Pittsburg, Ks., and lived in numerous Kansas towns during a 20-plus year in law enforcement. For the past 18 years he's been an insurance agent and financial advisor for the Knights of Columbus. His family moved here nearly three years ago. Locke told the Review he's always been involved in public and civic service and wanted to be part of making positive things happen in the community.

Armstrong is director of Emergency Medical Services at Anderson County Hospital and moved to Garnett last year from Oregon. He grew up in Essex, Ia., a town of about 980 people at the time, and said he took notice of the Garnett post because no one had filed for

Local cops, school staff talk about emergency planning and how cooperation aids safety

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Forced to consider the unthinkable yet again after the recent school shooter tragedy that killed 19 elementary students and two teachers in Uvalde, Texas, local educators and law enforcement officers last week talked about the ongoing state of preparation and training in which they engage while praying they never have to use it.

Officials in Texas are still investigating to determine the details of the incident in which an 18 year-old male with a history of bizarre and violent social media activity assaulted the school with a rifle in an attack that apparently lasted nearly a hour, part of which he had locked himself in a classroom behind a door which officers couldn't breach. Local officers from Uvalde staged outside the school and did not enter the facility to engage the gunman, but they allegedly stopped parents and others gathered outside when they tried to enter to help. The gunman was eventually killed by a U.S. Border Patrol unit which responded to 911 calls.

The events prompted an initiative from Garnett Fire Chief Wes Skillman, who said in a staff report last week he'd contacted a firefighting training instructor specializing in breaching locked doors with the hopes of sharing that training with local law officers in the wake of the Uvalde shooting. School officials contacted by the Review relayed, in general terms, their own training and preparation for such emergencies as well.

Superintendent Shane Walter at Crest USD 479 said the district had undergone ALICE training (Alert, Lockdown, Inform, Counter, and Evacuate) – a style of readiness that promotes the idea that "proactive" response to a shooting will enable the savings of lives. ALICE training has been controversial in some quarters because it teaches last resort methods to physically engage a shooter and immobilize him.

Walter said the district had taken other security measures as well, including using Safe and Secure Schools grants "including but not limited to" access and surveillance of district facilities, and also worked to increase lines of communication to law enforcement and emergency management entities.

USD 365 Superintendent Don Blome said the district conducts 9 crisis planning exercises per year per school that included crisis, fire and tornado scenarios. He said local law enforcement have used school facilities for training or planning on numerous occasions. Blome said so much of countering an incident before it happens relies on people being willing to sound off when they see something concerning, particularly on social media.

"If people see a social media post that would indicate the possibility of a threat, please report to counselors, administration, teachers, Mr. LeVota (USD #365 Police) and/or local law enforcement agencies," Blome said. He said there is also a State of Kansas 800 number that can be called to report suspicious activity. Blome said the district monitors certain communications, but enhanced monitoring of social media might be of more value since it typically plays a part in the run up to such incidents.

Who is my neighbor?

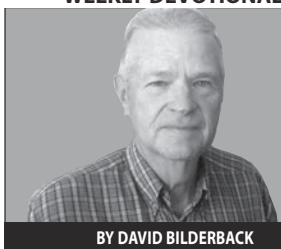

In Matthew 22:34-40 Jesus is questioned by the Pharisees. One of them asks Jesus, "Teacher, which is the greatest commandment in the Law?" Jesus responds, "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. This is first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: Love your neighbor as your self. All the Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments."

Now the question that needs to be answered is, who is my neighbor? I don't believe Jesus is talking neighbor relative to location. That means we may have to go outside of our comfort zone. This is going to require us to take some of our attention off of ourselves. As I mentioned in an earlier article self-appreciation has become very important in our world today. Put another way we have become all style and no substance. I believe if we go to Matthew 28:19-20 we will find some direction given as to who our neighbor is. Jesus issues the following command to his disciples. "Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age."

Sometimes the best way to explain a text is to explain what it doesn't mean. James 2:16 illustrates this well. "Suppose a brother or sister is without clothes and daily food. If one of you says to him, 'Go I wish you well; keep warm and well fed,' but does nothing about his physical needs, what good is it?" That is not being loving toward the person, who yes is your neighbor. Our neighbor is anyone who needs help. This concept has become so foreign we can't even imagine where to begin. Well it must start in the church. Each of us should feel a sense of responsibility for each other.

When Jesus came he brought the reality of a New Kingdom, invading rather than overthrowing the existing rule. His plan for the disciples as well as us was to take this reality beyond the church doors. When you fulfill this command you will achieve for yourself a sense of righteousness, peace and joy. When Jesus said, "Go and make disciples" that requires some action on our part. If that makes us feel uncomfortable we should rest in Jesus last statement. "And surely I am with you always to the very end of the age."

SHRUM

MARCH 18, 1930 - MAY 29, 2022

Lois Murl Shrum was born March 18, 1930, at Glen Elder, Kansas to John August Phillip Ahlvers and Lena Mae (Dieckman) Ahlvers. She died May 29, 2022 at Residential Living Center in Garnett.

Shrum

She attended rural school, Glen Elder Schools, and finally Ionia High School where she graduated with the class of 1948.

In 1950, she began work as a nursing aide in Dr. White's clinic in Garnett, Kansas. When the Anderson County Hospital was built in Garnett she was a first day employee when it opened in 1951.

Lois married Vernie Leon Shrum on April 1, 1951, in Ottawa, Kansas in the Lutheran parsonage. Later that year, Leon was drafted into the Army. After advanced training in 1952 at Fort Knox, Kentucky, where Lois and Leon lived just off base, Leon went to Korea as a radio operator with the signal corps during the Korean War. Lois went home to Kansas expecting son David born in October 1952, Leon was discharged from the Army in 1953.

They returned to Garnett where Lois began learning how to be an Xray Technician. She worked in that position until 1964, when the family moved to Burlington. Having bought and renovated a house in Burlington, Leon's job transferred him and the family to Hiawatha just five months later.

The family had only been in Hiawatha about a month when Lois was asked to train as a chairside assistant and Xray Technician for Dr. Banta's Dental practice where she stayed for five years. Leon's job transferred him again to Junction City in 1969. Lois went to work for the Dr's Bunker, Junior, and Senior in their medical practice. She worked as an office nurse and insurance clerk for thirteen years.

Lois and Leon moved back to Garnett in 1982. Leon retired in 1986. In 1990 after Leon tried his hand at selling insurance, with Lois running the office, they decided to quit working, and really start working becoming members of Laborers for Christ. The Laborers were retirees that lived in RV's at various worksites while renovating churches, building additions to schools, or building new construction. They made many dear friends during that time spending summer working on projects with the same crew.

They did that for nine years until Leon had a heart attack. While they stopped working projects, they spent a year working on the renovation of the old roller-skating rink in Garnett turning it into Trinity Lutheran Church where Lois' funeral will be held.

Lois' hobbies were volunteering at church and gardening. During her membership in several Lutheran churches, she taught Sunday School, vacation bible school, and confirmation classes. Every year while they still could Lois and Leon planted a large garden.

For several years she watched her grandchildren grow and then her great-grandchildren. In recent years she suffered broken bones that healed poorly. She fell more often and was slower to recover. She was proud of seeing her name on a tree of donors in the entry corridor of the new Anderson County Hospital and on a bench to rest weary bones outside the Residential Living Center.

Lois was preceded in death by her mother and father, her siblings Johnny Dale Ahlvers, Hilda Dietz, Glenda Funk, Larry Ahlvers, and Judy Richey.

She is survived by husband Leon, son David (Goldana), Garnett, grandchildren, Vandetta Mongeau (Brian), Eureka, KS, Zane Shrum, Satanta, KS, Devin Shrum, Garnett. Great-grandchildren, Chandler (Lacey) and Britta Mongeau, Braden and Brilee Shrum, and great-great-grandson Quinn Mongeau, and many nieces and nephews that she loved dearly.

Funeral services were held Friday, June 3, 2022, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Garnett, Kansas. Burial followed in the Garnett Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Trinity Lutheran Church and Good Shepherd Hospice.

He was a private pilot and flew up to Alaska with his brother, George, to sell an airplane.

At night, they slept under their wings. They had so much fun, they decided not to sell it and flew it back home. They made a trip down to the bottom of the Grand Canyon on mules and enjoyed it so much, they went back two years later. Sam never new a stranger and would strike up a conversation with whoever would listen.

Sam belonged to the Model A Car Club and was a member of the Westminster Masonic Lodge Chapter 172.

"I have had a good life; plains, trains, and automobiles. I have worked hard and loved my work. We have seen the country and enjoyed the mountains. I have a good gal and good kids. The good Lord has blessed me. I can't complain about nothing." Dad - August-2021

Funeral services were Saturday, June 4, 2022 at the First Christian Church in Garnett, Kansas. Burial followed in the Welda Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Welda Community Building and left in care of the funeral home. You may send condolences to the family at www.feuerborn-funeral.com.

What good is a woke U.S. Navy?

Would you be more confident in your surgeon if they had won a Diversity and Inclusion award in medical school? How about an aircraft carrier captain who was cited for their commitment to fighting climate change?

Our military personnel have a sacred trust — officers and enlisted alike freely take an oath to “support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic.” This oath implies obedience to the civilian chain of command who, ideally, understand that our military’s job is to defeat our enemies and who do all in their power to provide the personnel, resources, and training to prevail on the battlefield, if that becomes necessary.

But what happens when the civilian leadership has other ideas — when preparing to win wars isn’t the paramount concern, but merely one of many competing concerns?

Carlos Del Toro, the Secretary of the Navy, issued his “Climate Action 2030” plan on May 24. In the plan’s forward, Secretary Del Toro writes that climate crisis is “existential” for the Navy. He then cites “record-setting heatwaves in the normally temperate Pacific Northwest” and “expansive fires and unprecedented droughts in the West.”

In doing so, he fails to note facts that contradict his ideology. For instance, last summer’s hot spell in the Northwest was triggered by a naturally occurring La Niña pattern in the Pacific. Extended droughts? The West’s Mediterranean climate is prone to them, with paleoclimatologists documenting one dry spell that started in 850 AD and lasted 240 years. Fires? The result of dismally poor forest management practices that discourage both harvesting and preventive burns to reduce the fuel load.

In his press release accompanying the climate plan, the secretary claimed that “Climate change is one of the most destabilizing forces of our time ... (while) this strategy ... empower(s) us to meaningfully reduce the threat of climate change.”

The secretary’s assessment verges on the ridiculous in the face of China’s massive nuclear weapons and naval buildup — a true “existential” threat and a far more “destabilizing force” than the weather.

There is a very practical and deadly follow-on effect from such nonsense — the men and women who serve us in uniform will be more likely to die or be injured in training and will be more likely to suffer grievously in their first engagements with an enemy. There are only so many training hours in a week and only so much budget to fund training, spare parts, ammunition, and procurement.

Every hour that military leadership focuses on climate change — or other woke distractions — is an hour taken away forever from practicing to fight and win on the battlefield. Every time the military focuses on Pride Month, just as one example, that effort distracts from the mission. This year, the U.S. Marine Corps posted an image on Instagram of a helmet with a rainbow row of bullets as part of its support for LGBT Marines. And Ramstein Air Base in Germany had to cancel a planned event with a drag queen who was going to read a book to children.

In the Navy’s case, it ditched a reading list featuring Ibram X. Kendi’s “How to be an Antiracist.” That might help since the Navy needs to train its sailors not to run into sea-mounts or collide with other ships or to have the resources to maintain combat vessels. At the leadership level, when President Joe Biden, Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin, and Secretary of the Navy Del Toro make reducing the “threat of climate change” a priority, then their officers will too. They must. If they don’t, they won’t get promoted. This will manifest itself in the Navy’s fitness reports and sister services’ equivalents.

In one of my last officer evaluation reports in 24 years of service in the U.S. Army, there were 22 lines of text from my rater, the brigade executive officer, and my senior rater, the commander. Every line of comment related to my effectiveness as a combat officer; some read, “The ADC-M (Assistant Division Commander for Maneuver) of 2nd Infantry Division praised his technical and tactical abilities ... singled

Why has the media seemingly forgotten Johnny Depp’s 2017 public threat to assassinate president Trump as a factor in the decline of his career? Are these entertainers who insert themselves into the political arena with public vitriol that may offend half of the country not aware that it can effect their career? If Mr. Depp wishes to revive his stellar career and public popularity, it may take more than a $15 million judgment over his estranged wife from a disastrous 1-year marriage who penned a lie in an obscure op-ed accusing him of abuse. Although he may be an extremely talented actor, he would also be well-advised to keep his addictions under control and stay away from future public political controversy.

I want to thank all the people who put the flags up on 4th Street and out on the highway and all the folks who put the flags at the cemetery for the veterans. It just makes me proud to be in a town like Garnett that honors their veterans. I appreciate it very much. Bye.

Abortion. Back in the 70s if you were a woman and wanted to have a surgery to not have any more children they wanted to get the permission of your husband to see that he didn’t want any more children. And that was the 70s. If they want to have children or not have children isn’t it their choice?

Has anybody else noticed that the government wants to disarm us at the same time they are also decriminalizing serious crimes? That’s some government logic. Only makes sense if your idea is to tear down the United States of America. Thank you.

We learned a lesson from the horrible tragedy in Uvalde. Government will mandate that your children be vulnerable, hold you back at gunpoint while they are murdered, and then try to lie about it. And then they’ll tell you that it all happened because you own a rifle.

I think it’s disgraceful and an insult to our veterans that they left the flags on the highway and at the cemetery in the rain for three days so

Here’s why gas prices could skyrocket again

We’re all looking for relief from record high gas prices these days.

Gas prices are the highest in United States history at a nationwide average of $4.59 as of May 19, according to AAA. Many states surpass this average with California at $6.050, Nevada at $5.224, Washington at $5.148, and New York at $4.868, to name a few.

But lawsuits filed by several cities across the country could actually drive gas prices even higher. In the name of climate change, over a dozen federal lawsuits have been filed by state and local governments, including New York City, Baltimore, and several California cities. They are suing oil and gas companies for alleged damages they caused contributing to climate change.

So what do climate change lawsuits have to do with the devastating gas prices sweeping the nation?

State and municipal climate lawsuits are anti-growth, anti-innovation, and anti-environment. They could impose large economic costs on families and businesses as the hundreds of billions of dollars in damages these municipalities are seeking in these lawsuits would inevitably be passed along to consumers.

As calculated in a new Pacific Research Institute study, for every $100 billion in potential judgements in these cases, gas prices could rise by 31 cents per gallon -- or an additional $326 per household per year in higher energy costs.

As Americans suffer through painful inflation increases, such additional costs are simply unaffordable for most households.

Burdening consumers and businesses with additional costs is detrimental not only to economic growth but discourages the private sector innovation required to meet America’s clean energy goals. A strong economy fosters an environment more conducive to developing the meaningful innovations required to address the global climate change these municipalities claim to be fighting for.

In fact, increasing use of natural gas contributed to the decline of carbon emissions over the past twenty years. The U.S. Energy Information Administration (EIA) has noted that “the 4% decrease in U.S. carbon intensity came largely from a decrease in the consumption of fuels with high carbon contents. Part of this change came from the continuing trend of natural gas and renewables displacing coal for electric power generation, both of which have lower or zero carbon content. Low natural gas prices supported this switch from coal use, and higher natural gas prices in 2021 have started to reverse this trend.”

The development of once-celebrated natural gas through private sector innovation has resulted in lower overall emissions. Investors see this litigation effort as a threat, making them less likely to make future investments in nuclear energy advancements, new battery technology, improved fuel efficiency and other innovations required to continue lowering emissions.

We cannot afford to stifle positive incentives for innovation in this space. Rather than continue with these lawsuits, there are other, better ways that state and local gov-

The verbal bumbles of The Blowhard in Chief

The president of the United States is a blowhard -- again.

If the country thought that it was getting a buttoned-up, by-the-books communicator after four wildly undisciplined years of Donald Trump, it knew nothing about Joseph R. Biden’s long career as Washington’s stand-out long-winded, seat-of-the-pants, poorly informed, and misleading talker.

Biden blew up two presidential campaigns with his verbal idiocy, and no one thought during his decades as a senator that he was just the statesman the country needed to handle sensitive international questions with precise, cogent communications.

Winston Churchill famously mobilized the English language and sent it into battle. Joe Biden tries to muster the English language but confuses and dispirits it, until the poor language slinks off ready to get its discharge papers and return to civilian life.

Biden’s handling of Russia and China in recent months has been marked by a basic inability to stay within the lines of U.S. policy -- by seeming to give a kind of greenlight to a “minor” Russian incursion into Ukraine, by calling for Vladimir Putin to go, and by committing to defend Taiwan by force.

All these wayward statements required immediate and utterly predictable clean-up by a White House staff that must be on constant alert to explain on a moment’s notice what the president meant after he says something completely different.

Rarely have so few had to clarify so much. Biden the other day related how a trauma doctor had supposedly told him once that a .22-caliber bullet might, say, lodge in the lung and be removable, whereas a 9 mm “blows the lung out of the body.” It should be stipulated, first of all, that all bullets are dangerous. Still, this was a ridiculous explanation of the relative dangers of the two calibers and gave the impression that Biden was moving on from seeking to ban so-called assault rifles to wanting to prohibit 9 mm pistols, too.

The gaffe joined other notable Biden miscues on guns, including his bizarre advice several years ago to shoot a shotgun in the air as a means of self-defense and his erroneous insistence that there was a prohibition on the ownership of cannons during the Revolutionary War.

Biden clearly believes that he is some sort of expert on gun policy when he has managed to demonstrate over and over again that he has no idea what he is talking about.

His anecdotes and personal stories are invariably studded with exaggerations or outright fictions. As The Washington Post wrote of a story Biden told about Afghanistan on the campaign trail in 2019, “It appears as though the former vice president has jumbled elements of at least three actual events into one story of bravery, compassion and regret that never happened.”

An NBC News report about Biden’s White House relates that -- showing colossal but typical lack of self-awareness -- Biden resents his staff following him around with a broom and dustpan: “He makes a clear and succinct statement -- only to have aides rush to explain that he actually meant something else.” This, according to Biden, “smothers the authenticity that fueled his rise.”

Uh, no. The sentiment that motivated voters to switch to Biden in 2020 wasn’t, “We’re going to vote for this blustery guy who says anything that comes into his head because that will be such a refreshing change.” Rather, it was, “This guy in his basement seems relatively restrained compared to the blustery guy who says anything that comes into his head.”

Biden is less flagrant than Trump -- he’s not firing top officials on Twitter or making pronouncements based on the last thing he saw on TV. But he’s also less entertaining. Biden imagines himself the adult in the room at the same time that he routinely beclowns himself and makes potentially consequential verbal missteps.

This is, indeed, the authentic Biden, but it’s not inspiring, praiseworthy -- or reassuring.

Kentucky bus tour continues

Our bus tour to Kentucky continues.

Tuesday, 17 May 2022

From 9:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. we spent visiting the wonderful Creation Museum.

Wow! What a day. So much to see and do. While there, we watched videos in two different theaters. One of our hi-lites of the day was going into the planetarium and seeing the heavens as they were created.

At 4:50 p.m. we were on our way to take a dinner cruise on the Ohio River.

As we traveled down Pete Rose Way we saw the Cincinnati Bengals and Cincinnati Reds ball fields. At 6:15 p.m. we arrived at Belle of Cincinnati River Boats and was soon enjoying a wonderful buffet dinner and a 2 hour cruise on the Ohio River.

We arrived back at our hotel at 9:30 p.m.

Wednesday, 18 May 2022

We left our motel at 8:45 a.m. and arrived at the ARK at 9:30 a.m. Unbelievable! Did you realize the Ark is five football fields long. (500 yds) and 3 stories tall. It was built exactly as to the description in the Holy Bible.

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roeckers
Call (785) 504-4722 for local archeology information.

About midday we went to the Emzera's Restaurant for a buffet lunch. After lunch we returned to the Ark and continued our exploration of the third floor.

At 3:30 p.m. we walked thru the zoo next to the Ark. Camel rides were $10. We left at 5:30 p.m. for our new motel, the Fairfield Inn, in Georgetown, Kentucky, arriving there at 6:10 p.m.

What an experience this day was. A day we will always remember I'm sure. "God is so Good."

Next week I will conclude our wonderful tour.

Vikings finish season with strong showing at State

WICHITA - Central Heights track and field coach, Troy Prosser, couldn't be any happier with how his team finished at state Memorial Day weekend.

Prosser loves the ambiance of the entire event.

"There is no other high school athletic event in the state that compares to the Track & Field Championships (3,000+ athletes and 20,000+ spectators). In fact, there is no high school Track & Field meet in the nation as large as what we have in Kansas. It's difficult to put into words what it is like being immersed in the atmosphere of Cessna Stadium for those two days at the end of each May, but for those two days and the seven events our kids represented Central Heights in, it was nothing short of memorable."

State track is often the end of the road for many high school athletes, even if they are pursuing sports in college the bonds built with friends over many years can't be replicated.

"It was the culmination of the efforts, the trials, the determination and the growth of the best that Kansas has to offer. It is a fitting end point, of sorts. The end of the season, the end of the school year, and, in the case of Taryn Compton, Lily Meyer, and Tony Detwiler, the end of their Central Heights athletic careers. Their accomplishments, too numerous to truly put into perspective, reach far beyond the track," Prosser added.

Meyer transitioned from a 3200m and a relay specialist three years ago and built herself into a 400m/800m workhorse the past two seasons. This year, for a second consecutive season, she finished as one of the 16 best 800m runners in Class 2A.

What Compton achieved is nothing short of remarkable considering the circumstances. One week ago, a terrible fall on the last hurdle in the 300s put Compton's chances of being able to compete in jeopardy. Over the course of two days, and two chewed up knees she had been nursing all week, Taryn put herself in the top 10 in both of her races - the 100m hurdles (9th) and on the podium in the 300m hurdles (7th).

Detwiler's run to state was impressive as it was his only year of high school track.

"Tony's last track season was also his first in high school. He quickly worked his way into top form in the 300 hurdles, and at the State Championships he had a personal record time and a 9th place finish in that event to then end his season as the last leg on the medal winning 4x800 relay (8th)," Prosser said. "Those three (Meyer, Compton and Detwiler) are not only special athletes, they are incredible people with great character. Endings, as difficult to accept as they may be, often pave the way for new beginnings," Prosser added.

In their freshman season, Connor Burkdoll, Cody Hammond, and Christian McCord made a statement in more ways than one. Connor set a personal record Friday night and captured the first of seven medals for CH with a gutty last 600m in the boys 3200m (7th). The next morning, Connor, Christian, Cody and Tony lowered their season best time to also find the podium (8th) - Central Heights was the only school in 2A boys running more than two freshmen on the 4x800 relay in the entire field. In the final event of the weekend for us, Cody was seeded 12th in the 800m but a nearly three second personal best and an outstanding kick the last 250m put multiple runners behind him on his way to a 7th place finish on the awards stand.

Prosser added one last thought, "Although we bid farewell to our incredible seniors and wish them all of the best going forward, the future of Central Heights Track & Field is already off to an incredible start!"

ernments concerned about climate change can make positive changes. For example, they could increase incentives for private sector investment through reducing taxes for the companies working to develop innovative technologies that reduce GHG emissions. Such a positive-focused policy has the potential to address the risks associated with climate change through the private sector, rather than punishing innovators who have successfully reduced emissions through misguided lawsuits.

It's time to find new ways to make America's clean energy potential a reality. If these lawsuits are successful, we will continue to see increased energy expenditures for consumers across the country, further strained family budgets, rising costs of production for businesses, and decreased motivation to innovate - while ironically reducing our progress in combating climate change.

they can get wet and mildew and eventually rot. And here it is the city wanting the people to donate $60 to buy new flags. Gee I wonder why? If you'd take better care of them they'd last a lot longer. I'd like to know where our tax dollar are going. They sure as hell aren't going to fix the county roads. These roads are a disaster and we need to find someone that knows what they're doing to maintain them and repair them. We need to get rid of the commissioners and get rid of the county supervisor. This is completely and utterly ridiculous.

out as one of the best S3's in the Division ... His tactical and operational skills allowed him to be a very successful brigade combat team operation officer."

Now, imagine a similar report today where "fighting climate change" competes with honing "technical and tactical abilities." And then extrapolate that out year after year until those who best acted upon those climate priorities became admirals and generals, setting policy and guidance for those under their command.

If a Republican is elected president in 2024, he or she will face a massive challenge. In addition to the vast majority of the permanent federal bureaucracy being in ideological opposition to the president's goals, so too will be the senior officer corps, shaped by a dozen years of Obama-Biden. (That was only interrupted by four years of Trump, whose secretaries of Defense largely saw themselves as running interference for the institution they led against the White House.)

Refocusing on the deadly seriousness of warfighting will take a sustained effort against an entrenched uniformed bureaucracy. It won't be easy, as military leaders will engage their Beltway allies on Capitol Hill and in the media. But the payoff in a more professional, lethal, and motivated force will be more than worth the effort.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 6-7-22 / SUBMITTED

The Central Heights Vikings softball team finished 3rd at State. The Vikings finished the regular season 11-6, which was good for a #3 seed at the Lebo Regional. They downed Crest 15-0 in the opening round before knocking off #2 seed Jayhawk Linn 7-5 in 8 innings to advance to the regional championship. They faced top seed Yates Center (15-3) and crushed them 16-5 to advance. Once again, they defied the odds as they opened as the #6 seed at State. They downed the #3 seed Bluestem (22-1) in the opening round 12-5. Then it was the #2 seeded Troy (22-0), but Troy would upend Central Heights 3-2 to send the Vikings to the 3rd place game. There they would face the #1 seeded Saline High School (24-1) and win handily 11-1 to finish 3rd.

Fitness Court grand opening to be Thursday, June 9

My dog

By Parker Brooks
4th Grade, Westphalia
Mrs. Madden

My dog is really crazy. He can jump hay bales. He can shake, sit & lay down. Whenever we jump on the trampoline, he bites at the bottom of it. It is very fun when he does that.

He rides in the back of the truck with us to a lot of places. When we play baseball outside and when we hit the ball far he goes and chases it and runs fast as flash.

For Christmas I got him some treats. He loves to eat them a lot. Sometimes we play games with him like hide and seek.

When it snows outside he loves it! He digs in it and he goes sledding with me. He is really fun to play with. Sometimes we let him in the house.

He is a really good dog. I love him so, so much.

Christmas in Michigan

By Zeke Tkaczyk
5th Grade, Greeley
Ms. Secrest

Two Christmases ago we went to our grandparent's house for Christmas break. Since they live in Michigan, the trip was almost a day long. We left at 4:00 and got there at 6:00. We made a routine that every hour we got a snack or something on that line.

On the way up we would sometimes see deer once we got past the Michigan border. There was a big pine forest and lots of little swampy areas. After we drove by the pine forest we were really close to the house. When we pulled into their house it was much bigger than I remembered. They had a big tree in the middle of their roundabout driveway. On the side of their driveway there were two weeping willow trees. They had a big house with a tree house and forest trails, they had a porch and two little dogs, Moby and Logan. They had a green roof and a sandy spot on the yard. Once we got up there it was dark and it was very cold so we stayed inside most of the time.

We went outside. Sometimes we'd go outside and walk around the trail or ride on the mule. It was fun going up the big hill. Sometimes we'd get to ride in the trunk of the mule. The first day we really just played inside. A few days later our cousins came over and brought an old game system so we played that most of the day. That was fun for awhile when they left we played with our grandparent's dogs Moby and Logan.

It was almost Christmas by then so our parents went Christmas shopping and we stayed home with our grandparents. When our parents got back we had to go into our room because we couldn't see what the presents were. When Christmas finally came we all woke up early and went to the Christmas tree and started opening presents.

The first present was for my sister. She got a doll. The next present was for my older brother, he got a lava lamp. Then the next one was for my little brother. He just got some little toys. Finally, it was my turn and I got a lot of little stuff and I don't really remember what I got. On the day we left we got up early that day, put everything in the trunk, said goodbye and left. When we got home we unpacked and then went to bed.
