Voters pick Wiehl, 'yes' on Crest bond

Bizarre city commission race comes to close, while 40% fewer

Crest voters cast ballots than in '04

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Voters in Garnett chose a new city commissioner who as a write-in was endorsed by his incumbent opponent, and Crest USD 479 voters decisively approved a bond issue for new facility construction in their district.

A preliminary report from the Anderson County Clerk's office said 22 percent of county voters turned out for the election, which offered only contested choices for the Garnett city race, the Crest bond vote and two contested school board elections. The turnout was slight but not out of character for off-year elections without many contested local races.

For comparison, August primary elections in 2020 drew about 25 percent of the county's registered voters.

Though write-in votes were set to be tallied during today's canvas by county commissioners, county clerk Julie Wettstein said Friday Garnett write-in candidate Nate Wiehl had "plenty of write-in votes to unofficially win." Some 77 percent of votes cast in the election were write-ins; Mark Powls received 17 percent of the total 572 city votes and incumbent mayor Jason Sheahan, who after a turbulent less-than-two years in office eventually endorsed Wiehl in the race, still received 33 votes.

Dauids backs Tlaib against reprimand

Loyalty on display as Dauids defends those accused of anti-Semitism

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WASHINGTON, D.C. - In her second public display of support for fellow Democrats disciplined for anti-semitic comments, 3rd District Kansas Congresswoman Sharice Dauids joined the minority last week in opposition to a censure vote for a colleague advocating the destruction of the Nation of Israel.

The censure vote Dauids opposed in the U.S. Congress was a formal reprimand for Rep. Rashida Tlaib of Michigan for extensive anti-semitic comments, including the pro-Hamas chant "From the river to the sea, Palestine will be free." The chant which has emerged as a rallying cry for supporters of the terrorists who slaughtered some 1,400 Israelis in the October 7 attack, which brought massive military retaliation by Israel against Hamas strongholds in Gaza.

Saturday event marks transition to Tractor Supply

Customers will see new technology, more national brands offered

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - After a full year of transition from its former Orscheln's identity, Garnett's Tractor Supply will kick off its new brand transition with a grand opening event this coming Saturday, Nov. 18.

The Garnett Orscheln's was acquired by Brentwood, Tenn.-based Tractor Supply in October 2022 in a $320 million deal that include some but not all Orscheln's locations. Specifics of the transaction transferred ownership of 166 Orscheln's, but TS divested 85 of the locations to two separate buyers under direction of the Federal Trade Commission due to fair trade concerns.

Garnett's store has undergone an extensive brand and structure remodel to follow the TS design. A press release said customers of all ages can expect giveaways, storewide deals, vendor displays, store tours and more. In addition to the Saturday event, the store will hold a special grand opening sale from Wednesday, Nov. 15, to Sunday, Nov. 19 - an advertising flyer for which is included in today's Review.

The recently renovated store offers an updated shopping experience to support the needs of what the company press release called the "Out Here" lifestyle, including:

USD 365 to begin hunt for new superintendent as Blome departs

GARNETT - After 15 years at the head of the Unified School District 365 Administration, superintendent Don Blome has announced his resignation from the position.

Board members will meet in a special meeting Wednesday night to consider a contract with the Kansas Association of School Boards to perform superintendent search services for the district at a fee of $4,000, with an aim to schedule interviews the last week of January 2024.

The agreement which was part of the special meeting agenda specifies the marketing of the Garnett vacancy to candidates, a possible survey of district stakeholders prior to meetings of a "characteristics committee" to determine the profile of the superintendent thought to be the best fit for the district.

KASB would then chair a screening committee composed of board and community members and others selected to review applications, with a goal of making a first and second choice recommendation to the school board in keeping with the established timeline.

Blome came to USD 365 in 2008 from a superintendent's post he'd held for seven years at Burlingame to steer the Garnett, Greeley and Westphalia schools through the early years of the economic collapse of 2008-2009. During his tenure the district also sold its former downtown office and moved to its present Oak Street location after Garnett High School was razed, and passed a $14.5 million bond issue for the construction of Garnett Elementary School and other upgrades at outlying areas school in 2010. The project required a controversial eminent domain condemnation of land on U.S. Highway 59 where GES was eventually located. Blome also instigated the district's development of

CORLEY

OCTOBER 10, 1943 - NOVEMBER 3, 2023

Grant Corley, age 80, of Westphalia, Kansas, passed away November 3, 2023, surrounded by his family.

Corley

Grant Corley was born October 10, 1943, at Carter Hospital in Garnett, Kansas, to Ned and Rovilla Hills Corley. He grew up on the family farm north of Westphalia and started school at Cherry Mound School. He was a member of Cherry Mound 4-H Club. He graduated from Westphalia High School in 1961.

Grant married Gayla Ballard in 1964. They had three children.

Grant always wanted to be a farmer. He bought his first tractor at age 12 and farmland when he was 16. He served in the Kansas National Guard from 1961 to 1965 and earned Expert Rifle and Carbine Badges for his shooting ability. Grant served on the Anderson County Fair Board, the Farm Bureau Board, the Soil Conservation Board, and the Anderson County Planning Commission. He served as the Farm & Garden Department superintendent at the Anderson County Fair for 58 years along with Gayla and their children, and neighbors, Norman and Helen Elliss. Grant and Gayla were the Anderson County Fair Parade marshals in 2008.

Grant operated Corley Seed Farms for many years doing custom seed cleaning and growing and was active in the Kansas Crop Improvement Association. He was known for his welding and fabrication skills, and he built many of his farm and seed equipment items himself. He always had time to give his grandkids a ride in the tractor or combine. In 2020, Grant and Gayla were honored as Kansas Master Farmers.

Grant was a private pilot and loved to fly his Piper Tri-Pacer in the 1970s to check crops and visit family.

He loved to hunt and spent many hours with friends and family hunting and processing deer. He also enjoyed traveling to Texas and Oklahoma for hunts with his son, Gaylon. He attended Cherry Mound Church, Westphalia, and St. John's Lutheran Church, Aliceville.

Grant is survived by Gayla, his wife of 58 years; their children Gaylene (Lawrence) Comfort of Westphalia, Gaylette (Shawn) Conard of Wichita, and Gaylon (Heather) Corley of Westphalia; 15 grandchildren - Ian, Timothy (Olivia), Elizabeth (fiancé Jacob Gerber), and Molly Comfort; Lenna, Abigail, Eli, Nate, Clara, and Wesley Conard; and Maya, Hannah, Levi, Hershyl, and Collin Corley; his sister Sharon (Lee) Slusher of Merriam and niece Anita (Dean) Williams; his brother Joe Corley of Westphalia; and exchange student/bonus son YuSung (Wendy) Chou and honorary grandchildren Emma and Emily Chou of Hangzhou, China. He was preceded in death by his parents Ned and Rovilla Corley.

Visitation will be on Friday, November 17 from 6-8 p.m. at First Christian Church in Garnett. The memorial service will be at 2 p.m. on Saturday, November 18, also at First Christian Church.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Anderson County 4-H Council for a scholarship in Grant's memory.

Rhonda's life began on March 4, 1936, in Wichita, Kansas. She is the daughter of Evan and Thelma (Bache) Rath. Rhonda graduated high school with the Class of 1954 in Florence, Kansas. After high school, Rhonda attended Emporia State University for two years, and then united in marriage to Richard Brenzikofer on August 25, 1957, in Florence KS. They raised their daughters in Burns, Kansas. Then in 1975, Rhonda went on to get her Licensed Practice Nurse degree from Emporia Nursing College. She was an LPN in Newton and finished out her career in Marion.

Rhonda loved her Marion Christian church family, enjoyed lunch every day with her friends at the Marion Senior Center, and was a faithful member of the local TOPS club. In her free time, Rhonda was quite the seamstress. She made her daughters dresses and dance costumes while they were growing up. When living in Burns, she was an active member of the Twentieth Century Club. Rhonda was an avid lover of animals - horses, dogs and more recently leaving behind her beloved cats. Most of all, Rhonda loved her friends and family.

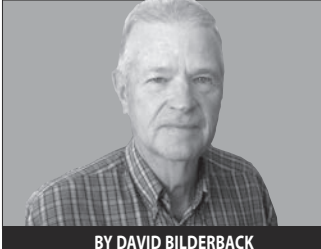

Rhonda is survived by her daughters: Robin Adams (Tom), Garnett, KS; Renae Pusateri

(Dean), Marion, KS; grandchildren: Trevor Jones (Shasta), Shakopee, MN; Amber Adams (Justin Grosdidier), Richmond, KS; Arielle Adams (Mike Vergara), Topeka, KS; Antonio Pusateri (Emilee), Wichita, KS; Andria Stapley (Derek), Grants Pass, OR; great-grandchildren: Tobias Jones, Mira Jones, Gunner Grosdidier, Augustus Grosdidier, Gatlin Grosdidier, Maximus Vergara, Maddison Clough, Thomas Edgington, Mila Pusateri, Vincent Pusateri, and Capri Stapley.

The search for the narrow road

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

Sometimes when writing a weekly article it is difficult to know what to emphasize. A text which has become one of my favorites is Matthew 7:13-14 which reads, "Enter through the narrow gate. For wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it. But small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life, and only a few find it." I have often wondered where the narrow road leads? I have pieced together the following scriptures that I believe will offer us a glimpse of heaven, the ultimate destination of the narrow road.

In Revelation 21:21 we read the following description of the streets in heaven. The great street of the city was pure gold, like transparent glass." This text reveals to us that gold will have no value in heaven. Revelation 22:1-2 reads, "Then the angel showed me the river of the water of life, as clear as crystal, flowing from the throne of God and the lamb down the middle of the great street of the city. On each side of the river stood the tree of life bearing twelve crops of fruit, yielding its fruit every month. And the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations."

Ultimately I believe the narrow road will lead us face to face with Jesus.

In Revelation 21:5 God says, "I am making everything new!" For us that means a new body, a resurrection body. A body that no longer will be subject to death, mourning or crying or pain for the old order of things has passed away. When we come to the end of the narrow road we will be at the Holy City, the New Jerusalem where we shall dwell with God forever. Paul in 2 Corinthians 4:17 explains it well when he says, "For our light and momentary troubles are achieving for us an eternal glory that far outweighs them all. So we fix our eyes not on what was seen but on what is unseen. For what is seen is temporal, but what is unseen is eternal." Good reason to find the narrow road.

Colony Christian Church - 11/5

Do you ever struggle to know what God's will is for your life? It's not always as big of a mystery as we make it. 1 Thess 5: 18 plainly states, "give thanks in all circumstances; for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus."

As the national holiday, Thanksgiving, approaches, let's be mindful of all we have to be thankful for. The good things for sure, but we are also to give thanks in all circumstances, even those which seem unpleasant at the time. Giving thanks in all circumstances is so important for believers because it proves that we believe our God is good, and He has better things in store for us in the future. This defines our Christian faith (Heb 1:1 & 6). So giving thanks has little to do with and everything to do with our Savior! Therefore, "Give thanks to the Lord, for He is good. His love endures forever!" Psalm 136:1.

Four ways we can give thanks to God is through prayer, through praise, through personal testimony of all He has done for us, and by proclamation of the Good News to others!

Bow tie logic: More pot, less prison time

Law and order in Kansas? Pshaw, says a recent column from the bow-tie wearing but tuxedoless head of the Kansas ACLU.

"In an increasingly difficult environment to find common political ground," says the summary paragraph of a recent column written by Micah Kubic on his way to barbershop quartet practice, "these findings nonetheless show that in the upcoming legislative session and beyond, Kansas lawmakers have numerous opportunities to close the gap that remains between the legal system we have now and one that truly meets the values of potheads and criminals."

Just kidding. Kubic's advocacy for anarchy in the Sunflower State in pimping the results from the organization's latest bogus "survey" actually has nothing to do with self respecting potheads and criminals, except that this group makes up the mainstay of people who pay any attention at all to the musings of the Kansas ACLU.

The real gist of KALCU's purported "survey" of 700 Kansas voters, apparently all of whom had nose piercings and at least one imprinted hemp-based mug from a Lawrence coffee shop/CBD oil dispensary, is that Kansans want fewer pesky infringements on their right to get baked, easier ways to get out of jail and more criminals out on the streets instead of being locked up.

Basically, Kubic says of this illuminating research, Kansans want our state to be more like Chicago - even though people in Chicago right now don't want their own city to be like Chicago.

Kubic never gives a breakdown of these supposed survey respondents or any information about the sample other than the obvious clue that they were all polled moments after the bars closed, but in the interests of this newspaper's unending quest for a giggle from readers, let's encapsulate the survey's results:

- 80% of Kansans in Kubic's sample want legislators to approve medical marijuana prescriptions and 71 percent want to do away with criminal penalties for pot possession. 97% of this group also want cheaper Doritos.

- 69% want changes to the state's cash bail system - instead they'd like a 'get out of jail free' card for those accused of breaking laws in Kansas - you know, the plan that's been so successful in crime-infested cesspool urban areas around the country.

- 80% of Kubic's choice respondents wanted to replace juvenile offender fines with "other accountability measures." The percentage favoring the use of one of my dad's old leather belts as an alternate measure was undisclosed. Kubic's argument here - which I confess would be way more convincing if he was wearing a Four In Hand with a windsor knot or even just an open neck pinstripe shirt with a jacket - is that Kansas Legislators should flip the tenor of state laws to favor more chaos, because vast swaths of Kansans want to be more like places where George Soros elects the local prosecutors.

Because... like... that's working out so well. Kubic wants us to believe majorities of Kansas voters who have elected a near veto-proof majority of conservative, law-and-order legislators secretly yearn for nose rings, pink hair and CoEXIST bumper stickers. These legions of repressed pro-gun, pro-business, pro-girls only in their own bathrooms fans who vote majorities in every Kansas county save the "enlightened" university meccas, apparently dug way down in their psyches for the opportunity to let it all hang out on a questionnaire administered by a group who's national parent founder was a fan of Stalin's Russia - a guy who wrote a book entitled: "Liberty Under The Soviets" which defended the Lenin's and Stalin's repression of dissent because they "are weapons in the transition to socialism."

Doesn't sound like the Kansas I know. The Sunflower state doesn't need the associated crime that comes with any expansion of marijuana policy and it certainly doesn't need more people who smell, drive and vote like they're stoned. Anybody who thinks we need easier ways for people to get out of jail and social workers, instead of prisons and cells, needs to read up on the Carr brothers. Those kinds of ridiculous ideas fit Kansas like a bow tie without a tuxedo.###

Why is there so much hate against religion and color and the way you walk and the way you talk? Why is there so much hate? I can't believe in our country where freedom rings it's this way. I just can't understand why there's so much hate against religions.

Sharice Davids is nothing but a bobbing head doll for the DNC.

OSHA says anything over 10 feet you should be wearing a harness and be tied off. How come the city, when they're 20 or 25 feet up in the bucket, they're not tied off or nothing? I don't know what's going on.

Anybody who is driving 1000 Road between Westphalia and Welda would you please slow down, because the grader guy has that road so messed up there are going to be accidents on there. So please slow that down. Thank you.

In response to the person or persons who had a little note and a few weeks ago about the falling leaves, I and some others are not really aware of the leaves and it doesn't bother us. But it made me stop and think maybe my neighbor does. So, good residents of garnett, let us clean up our leaves periodically and respect our neighbors. Thank you.

A word of patriotism as we start the Christmas shopping season. If you buy things on Amazon or online and I know everyone around here does because I see the UPS and FedEx all over here all hours of the day and night, please try to buy American made or Veteran made or American-owned. You have to do some searching but it can be done. Don't just go back to buying the easy thing because it's all made in China or Mexico and buying from them does little or nothing for America. So please make the effort. Thank you.

Biden's vote farming in full swing for this election, too

In the aftermath of another disappointing election night for Republicans, questions need to be asked about supposedly non-partisan get-out-the-vote (GOTV) operations Democrats are using to ensure their low-propensity voters - and only their low-propensity voters - get to the polls.

On March 7, 2021, Executive Order on Promoting Access to Voting, President Joe Biden instructed every federal agency to submit a plan to leverage their agency's personnel and assets to help turn out the vote. For example, agencies might use internal data to identify aid recipients who are not registered to vote, then use agency personnel to get them registered and ensure their ballot is cast.

Anyone who criticizes GOTV efforts gets accused of wanting to suppress voting. But it's not voting to which we should object - it's the exclusive collection of ballots from Democratic voting blocks.

Citing the need for "equity," Biden's order explicitly directed agencies to target Black and Native American communities, Hispanic and Latino voters, "civil rights and disability rights advocates," convicted felons, and voters who work for the federal government.

What does each of these voting blocs have in common? As I explained in my book, "The Puppeters," all of these groups have a long history of lopsided support for Democrats. One of the reasons the left is so good at getting low-propensity voters to the polls may be because they've figured out how to make taxpayers fund their GOTV operations. So, what did these agencies do ahead of the 2022, 2023, and the upcoming 2024 election? Taxpayers don't get to know that. The Biden administration has refused to disclose the plans submitted by hundreds of federal agencies, claiming executive privilege.

GUEST COMMENTARY

Freedom of Information Act lawsuits are in the courts, but the executive privilege claim by Biden is slowing the release of the action plan. Why so secretive if it is so good and important?

That secrecy argument is bogus on its face. But it may take ongoing lawsuits years to force their disclosure. Meanwhile Democrats are winning elections with the help of more than 2 million federal employees.

Biden's approval rating is underwater on nearly every critical issue. Republicans should have the wind at their backs on the economy and inflation, on energy, on foreign policy, on border issues, on crime and many more. Yet for three cycles in a row, Republicans have tanked expectations.

The truth is the Biden administration doesn't really want to get out all the votes. They want to get out all the Democratic voters. And it's working very well for them. Nonprofits, unions, and now the federal government work non-stop to get out the preferred vote.

Where is the Republican infrastructure to turn out our own low propensity voters? What is the party doing to support those who are challenging the partisan deployment of federal agencies? Voters will tell you their No. 1 issue is the economy and inflation. But what lobby is out there targeting voters who care about that issue? As 2024 approaches, Republicans cannot afford to sit back and watch as Democrats vacuum up all of their low-propensity voter ballots while the GOP fights among themselves. Republicans have to get serious about challenging the left's dominance in this area.

It isn't enough to be right on the issues. Winning campaigns need appealing candidates and a plan to get out the vote. This is the challenge for Republicans.

Jason Chaffetz is a FOX News (FNC) contributor and the host of the Jason In The House podcast on FOX News Radio.

The saga of two toxic candidates has a definite resolution

Robert F. Kennedy, Jr. has a history, and a present, of promoting wild conspiracy theories. His independent bid for the presidency is quixotic at best. And yet a new Quinnipiac poll has him getting an impressive 22% in a three-way contest with Donald Trump and Joe Biden, and with a narrow lead among independents.

This should be less encouraging to RFK than a warning sign to the major parties that they are courting disaster by nominating two candidates so unappealing that a solid bloc of voters, at first blush, would prefer someone, anyone really, with the last name Kennedy.

Democracy is usually the art of giving voters what they want. But, apparently, not in 2024.

Usually the obvious political considerations prevail in presidential politics.

It was pretty obvious that Joe Biden was a stronger general-election candidate in 2020 than Bernie Sanders, and lo and behold, Biden rose from the dead and won the Democratic nomination.

Sometimes passion, calculated risk-taking, delusion or stasis overwhelm the obvious, though. When this happens to one party - think of the Barry Goldwater or George McGovern nominations - it often suffers a debacle. But what if both parties succumb to these forces at same time?

Then, you get a clash of weakness where each party risks throwing away a winnable race through its insistence on a desperately flawed nominee.

The Republican reaction to the likely re-nomination of President Biden is, in effect, "We'll see and raise your unpopular incumbent who looks like he could tip over at any moment with an unpopular former president who will likely be convicted of felonies next year."

The Democratic reaction to the likely re-nomination of Donald Trump is, in effect, "We'll see and raise your radioactive standard-bearer with a president who is trailing him in polls and who most people think can't serve another four years."

Both parties think they are going to win anyway. Even if they are right, their chances of victory would go up appreciably if they switched away from their current presumptive nominees.

A generic Democrat who is not festooned with Biden's failures and weaknesses and is not in his or her 80s would almost certainly readily defeat Trump. (The unpopular Kamala Harris does not meet the definition of such a Democrat.)

A generic Republican who hasn't spent years making him- or herself hateful to suburbanites, who isn't wedded to ridiculous yarns about the 2020 election, and who isn't in serious legal jeopardy in multiple jurisdictions would almost certainly readily beat Biden.

According to the latest USA Today/Suffolk poll, Trump leads Biden on who's best to handle the economy, foreign affairs and the border, while surveys consistently find about three-quarters have doubts about Biden's ability to serve another four years. And yet the mandarins of the Democratic Party believe he's best suited to beating Trump.

On the other hand, despite all his troubles, Biden has a higher favorable rating (39% positive, 49% negative) than Trump (35% positive, 54% negative), according to a recent NBC News poll.

There's no doubt that Trump could eke out a win against Biden, the way he did against Hillary Clinton in 2016. But why settle for hoping for a narrow win against such a debilitated incumbent?

With Trump, the GOP will be asking the middle of the electorate to conclude, "We can't stand this guy and there's nothing that can make us change our minds about him, but things are so bad in the country that perhaps we should give him a try again, anyway."

Maybe that happens, but it isn't the strongest grounds on which to contest an election.

The parties show no sign of doing something different, though. Benefiting from incumbency, Biden is all but unchallenged, and Trump continues to have an incredible grip on Republican voters.

So, both parties will probably roll the electoral dice unnecessarily next year, and try to give the voters what they don't want, good and hard.

As I continue to dig, I continue to find artifacts. What I really love is finding such a wide variety. The best part is researching and identifying so many different items. These items range from the mid 1800's thru the mid 1900's. This week's photos are a prime example. From 1851 thru 1944.

#1 - The front of a Goodyear hard rubber button of the mid 1800's.

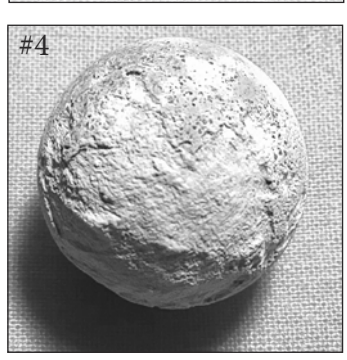

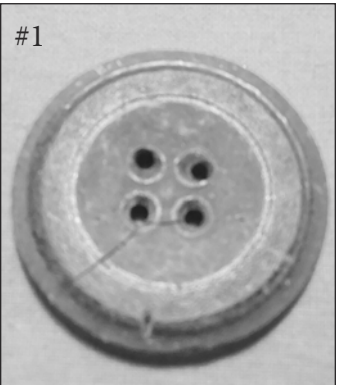

#2 - The back of the Goodyear hard button. NOVELTY RUBBER CO. GOODYEARS PATENTED 1851. Goodyear had the contract to manufacture these hard rubber non glare buttons for the Sharp

Shooters during the Civil War. 1861-1865.

#3 - A 1944-S Penny from the WWII era

#4 - This is a well used clay marble. One of several found at this site.

Twenty-two Democrats joined Republicans in the censure vote against Tlaib. Davids, Kansas' only Democrat congressional representative, opposed her Sunflower State Republican counterparts Ron Estes, Jake LaTurner and Tracey Mann in the 234-188 vote.

Censure is a formal vote of disapproval that carries no real penalties. The resolution censuring Tlaib, forward by Georgia Republican Rep. Rich McCormick, assert Tlaib had promoted "false narratives regarding the October 7, 2023, Hamas attack on Israel and for calling for the destruction of the state of Israel."

Congresswoman Davids' spokesman Zac Donley said Davids had "very real concerns" about Tlaib's inflammatory language, but that censures were distractions.

"She (Davids) believes the constant censuring of members of congress distracts from important issues at hand, like ensuring appropriate aid to Israel and averting a government shutdown here at home."

Davids was on the record in February with a vote of support for Rep. Ilhan Omar of Minnesota, when Republicans sought her ouster from the House Committee on Foreign Affairs over comments attacking Jewish lobbyists, asserting support for Israel by Republicans was "all about the Benjamins," a reference to $100 from a rap song. Omar later apologized for the comments.

Both Omar and Tlaib are followers of Islam and have been longtime supporters of Palestinians in the decades-long violence and political strife with Israel in the region of the Middle East.

Davids' support for her anti-Semitic fellow Democrats puts her at odds with elements within the two largest population areas of her district. In April Johnson County Commissioners unanimously passed a resolution formally adopting the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance's working definition of anti-Semitism and recognized what they called an increasing number of incidents in the region and nation. The resolution is not legally binding but intended instead to spread awareness and education of the issue.

"Anti-Semitism has no place in Johnson County, and it is contrary to the values of a democratic society," said JOCO Board of Commissioners Chairman Mike Kelly.

Public Information Officer for Wyandotte County Krystal McFeders told the Review WYCO's Administration & Human Services Standing Committee adopted a similar resolution in October.

Davids also received a $4,000 campaign donation from Omar for her 2018 campaign. Critics have suggested Davids return the money after Omar's anti-Jewish comments, but to date she has not done so.

of its own bus department after issues with new owners of its longtime transportation contractor in 2012, made vast improvements with development vocational instruction for welding, HVAC work and automotive service education with a vocational campus in Garnett beginning in 2013, and expanded security at Anderson County Junior-Senior High School with a security-focused redesign of the building entrance and creation of a full time security officer post in the school district.

District finances also expanded during Blome's tenure, with a 2009 total spending budget of $15.8 million up to $23.8 (50 percent) for 2023. District property taxes increased from $2.9 million to $5.3 million (82 percent) and the district's property value assessed for school taxes went from $59 million to $116 million (96 percent).

However while costs ticked up and facilities and educational opportunities expanded, many students in the district continued to struggle to reach proficiencies according to state assessment scores. A quarter of Garnett students are below grade level in Math and English Language Arts, and only one in three is proficient according to state assessments. Only 19% of the 2023 graduates were college-ready in English, Reading, Math, and Science, according to the Kansas Department of Education data.

Wednesdays special meeting to consider the search contract is set for 7 p.m. at the district board room in Ray Meyer Gym on North Oak in Garnett.

AAA: End of daylight saving time = drowsy drivers, increased danger on the roads

WICHITA – Beginning at 2 a.m. this Sunday, November 5, Daylight Saving Time will end, which will result in fewer daylight hours. As we prepare to turn our clocks back one hour, and in support of Drowsy Driving Prevention Week, which runs November 5-11, AAA reminds motorists to be prepared for sun glare during their Monday morning commute and for reduced visibility on the road during their suddenly darker Monday evening commute.

“The end of Daylight Saving Time this weekend will bring shorter days and longer nights,” said Shawn Steward, spokesman for AAA Kansas. “Night driving brings challenges, so we urge motorists to slow down, increase their following distance, use headlights to make yourself more visible, and be extra cautious on the roadways.”

The time change can cause disturbed sleep patterns, and when combined with the earlier dusk and darkness during the evening commute, become a formula for drowsy driving and fatigue-related crashes – conditions many drivers may be unaware of during the time change.

Previous research by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety has estimated that 16% to 21% of all police-reported fatal vehicle crashes likely involve drowsy driving, a factor likely underreported in government statistics.

Symptoms of drowsy driving can include having trouble keeping eyes open, drifting from lanes or not remembering the last few miles driven. However, more than half of drivers involved in fatigue-related crashes experienced no symptoms before falling asleep behind the wheel.

AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety’s 2020 Traffic Safety Culture Index data shows that most motorists (95 percent) identify drowsy driving as very or extremely dangerous. Yet, despite high rates of perceived danger and personal/social disapproval regarding drowsy driving, about 17 percent of drivers admit to having driven while being so tired that they had a hard time keeping their eyes open, at least once in the past 30 days.

Additional AAA Foundation research findings:

- Drivers who have slept for less than 5 hours have a crash risk comparable to someone driving drunk.

- Drivers who miss one to two hours of sleep can nearly double their risk of a crash.

While the signs of drowsiness should never be ignored, drivers must not wait for their bodies to sound the alarm. AAA recommends the following drowsy driving tips.

Drowsy Driving Tips

- Travel at times of the day when they are normally awake.

- Avoid heavy foods.
- Avoid medications that cause drowsiness or other impairment.

For longer trips, drivers should:

- Schedule a break every two hours or every 100 miles.

- Travel with an alert passenger and take turns driving.

- Not underestimate the power of a quick nap. Pulling into a rest stop and taking a quick catnap – at least 20 minutes and no more than 30 minutes of sleep – can help to keep you alert on the road.

AAA supports the development of vehicle technology that can passively monitor drivers for impairment and prevent or limit vehicle operation when needed. The 2021 Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act requires NHTSA to create testing standards for this kind of technology that can detect driver impairment, including that caused by drowsiness, medical impairment, or drugs, including alcohol.

Drowsy Drivers = Other Dangers – Increased Risk of Distractions

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), nationwide, there were 684 deaths from drowsy-driving-related crashes in 2021. Tired drivers are not as focused and are at risk of being distracted.

First responders, construction workers, and people stranded with a breakdown on the side of the road are especially vulnerable to drivers who are not paying attention and are in greater danger of being hit. Almost 2,000 people were killed outside of the vehicle, in roadside crashes over the five-year period from 2017-2021, and nearly 1,500 – more than 75% of those deaths occurred after dark, according to data* analyzed by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. This is important always, at all hours, but it is even more critical, as the days grow shorter and it gets dark earlier.

“This data is extremely troubling, especially with the darkest days of the year ahead, and serves as a reminder for drivers to Slow Down and Move Over when they see first responders, tow truck drivers and others with emergency lights flashing at the roadside,” said Steward. Nearly 20 states have Move Over laws that also include motorists with disabled vehicles. Senate Bill 142, sponsored by AAA Kansas and slated for hearings during the upcoming 2024 Kansas legislative session, would enhance the state’s law to include stopped or disabled passenger vehicles displaying proper hazard lights or other emergency signals.

In addition to driver dangers, pedestrians are also particularly vulnerable as the sun sets earlier. In 2018, 76 percent of pedestrian fatalities nationwide occurred in the dark, according to NHTSA.

Tips for Night-Time Driving

- Reduce speed and increase following distances. It is more difficult to judge other vehicles’ speeds and distances at night.

- Turn on headlights to see better during dawn and dusk and to be more visible to other drivers.

- Keep headlights, tail lights, signal lights, and windows (inside and out) clean.

- Have headlights properly aimed. If not properly aimed, headlights will blind other drivers and reduce your ability to see the road.

- When following another vehicle, keep your headlights on low beams so you don’t blind the driver ahead of you.

- If an oncoming vehicle doesn’t lower beams from high to low, avoid glare by watching the right edge of the road and using it as a steering guide.

- Do not drive after drinking alcohol, while fatigued, or after taking certain medicines that can cause drowsiness.

Tips for Pedestrians and Bicyclists

- Cross at intersections or corners. Do not cross in the middle of the street or between parked cars.

- Evaluate the distance and speed of oncoming traffic before you step out into the street. Remember, during inclement weather, a vehicle needs extra time and distance to stop.

- Avoid walking in traffic where there are no sidewalks or crosswalks. If you have to walk on a road that does not have sidewalks, walk facing traffic.

- Wear bright colors or reflective clothing if you are walking or biking near traffic at night.

- Carry a flashlight when walking in the dark.

- Bicycle lights are a ‘must have’ item for safe night riding, especially during the winter months when it gets dark earlier.

- Do not let umbrellas or jacket hoods block your view of approaching traffic.

- Avoid listening to music or use only one earbud so you can hear danger approaching.

Tips to Protect Roadside Workers, Stranded Drivers

- Remain alert, avoid distractions, and focus on driving.

- Keep an eye out for situations where emergency vehicles, tow trucks, utility service vehicles, or disabled vehicles are stopped on the side of the road.

- When you see these situations, slow down and, if possible, move one lane over and away from the people and vehicles stopped at the side of the road.

Active shooter preparedness webinar

The Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA), Region 7 (Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, and Nebraska) invites you to join a two-hour security webinar to enhance your organization's resilience in case of an active shooter incident.

Preparing employees for a potential active shooter event is an integral component of an organization's incident response planning. Because active shooter incidents are unpredictable and evolve quickly, preparing for and knowing what to do in an active shooter situation can be the difference between life and death. Every second counts.

Objectives:

- Provide information about best practices, communications protocols, and resources that will assist stakeholders to develop or enhance their emergency planning, preparedness, and response to active shooter incidents.
- Discuss the elements of active shooter incident response planning with guidance from expert instructors.
- Describe common behaviors, conditions, and situations associated with active shooter events.
- Discuss how to recognize potential workplace violence indicators.

Understanding Liability and Risk Exposure

The webinar focuses on providing awareness training that supports the development of emergency action planning capabilities.

These capabilities may better position organizations in receiving important legal liability protections from the DHS Support AntiTerrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies (SAFETY) Act of 2002. To learn more about the SAFETY Act and the types of products, services, and layered security programs that have received protections, visit www.safetyact.gov.

Only 434 votes were cast in the USD 479 school bond vote, with 56 percent - 245 ballots - voting in favor of the $5.95 million project. The slight turnout was significantly 40 percent less than the last vote for a district bond issue at Crest 20 years ago, when voters defeated a $1.75 million building expansion project by 5 votes - 367-362.

The Crest project will construct additional classroom space, revamp the school's main entrance into a secure and ADA accessible entryway, renovate locker areas and the kitchen/cafeteria, and also construct an auxiliary gymnasium on the property of similar square footage to the existing gym. Funds will also be used to build a storm shelter on the property and make improvement to the parking lot and driveway.

Incumbent USD 365 School Board member Adam Caylor retained his board seat by a 51-48 percent margin (409-387) against challenger Justin Kohlmeier. Incumbent Jason Beckmon in USD 479 lost his seat to challenger Jamie Henderson 55-42 percent (230-176). Elaine Holloway and Michelle Cunningham were elected to posts on the Frontier Extension Council Board of Directors.

Those running uncontested for board positions in USD 365 included Roger Schilling, Matt Self and Brian Schafer. Uncontested winners in USD 479 were Kevin Nilges, Laura Schmidt and Nathan Beckmon.

Seth Black and Angela Black were elected to the Colony

City Council. Krystal Baugher received 19 of 97 votes cast for Greeley City Council, with seats to be determined after the 78 write-in votes are tallied.
