Garnett pressed for settlement after “threatening” employee conflict

New hire claims her predecessor destroyed her reputation, humiliated her

BY JOHN DOE THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – The newest, but recently former, director of the city/county economic development agency has demanded four months continued salary and benefits from the City of Garnett as a settlement after her recent resignation, in exchange for her keeping mum about the “threatening, intimidating and humiliating” treatment she claims to have received from the previous ecodexo director, and to avoid “next steps legal action.” Sherry Harrison’s severance demand could range in the neighborhood of $21,000 according to city payroll records. But no one is talking about the firestorm at Garnett City Hall or its associated conflicts except outgoing mayor Jason Sheahan.

The demand from Harrison, the newly-hired Anderson County Development Agency Executive Director, came in a scathing three-page November 20 resignation letter to

Harrison

Garnett City Manager Travis Wilson. In it Harrison alleged former ACDA Director Julie Turnipseed refused to contextually vacate the position from which she resigned and exhibited treatment of Harrison so reprehensible that Harrison became concerned for her own physical safety.

“I have been Julie’s ‘target’ since the very first day,” Harrison’s letter read in part, “and she has verbally abused, slandered and maligned me to businesses and others in the community.”

Turnipseed

“Clearly, after six weeks of tolerating such abuse, it is clear the City has no intention of taking action to eliminate her hostile treatment toward me, or demanding that Julie leave the job from which she retired.”

Harrison was hired in October after Turnipseed announced her resignation in June with a planned departure date effective August 1, though she said at the time she would assist on a part-time basis until the city filled the vacancy. The position functions as a staff post of the City of Garnett with half its salary and benefits costs reimbursed by Anderson County. A separate advisory board, the Anderson County Development Agency, provides community contact for the director’s position and some direction in terms of development policy.

Harrison’s Linked-In profile and a bio she submitted to the city says she came to the Garnett job after formerly working more than two decades as a paralegal in Nevada and Arizona. She said she gravitated into grant writing and administration and real estate development in Nevada before taking the job as Ignite Emporia’s director in June 2022. She left that post in the spring of 2023 according to the Emporia Gazette. The bio she submitted to Garnett officials did not include the stint at the Emporia position. Her Parade entrants, organizers and crowd braved a chilly drizzle Saturday night but the GACC Christmas Parade took to the streets damp but undeterred. A sizeable crowd attended despite the weather, many tucked away inside warm, dry cars backed into parking spots around the downtown square.

Ted Nugent loses race for Garnett City Commissioner

Write-in votes sometimes entertaining, but they still decide many local posts

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Hard rock music legend Ted Nugent received just one write-in vote in the November 7 Garnett City Commission election.

Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau got a single ballot as well in the election for Position 1 on the USD 365 School Board.

Celebrities may not have won the jobs, but such votes illuminate an ever-present sense of humor if not political frustration among local voters with actual candidates on local election ballots. And joke votes aside – those legitimate write-ins end up forming the layout of just about every town council in the smaller communities of Anderson County.

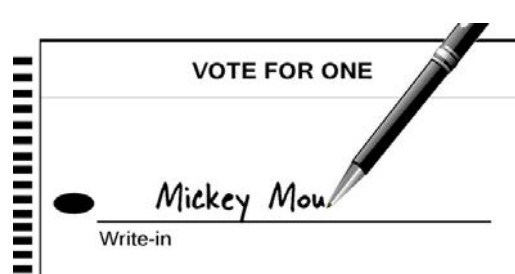

Regardless, the jokes can wear a little thin on harried election workers trying to keep their minds on getting the count right.

“It is unclear why people write in names that are not qualified voters in the county,” said Anderson County Clerk Julie Wettstein. “I’m sure there are many reasons. It is the voters’ right to put whatever name they choose but it does take extra time and effort from my write in board to hand count those nonvalid names.”

Anderson County Commissioners canvassed and certified the ballots from the election following the Nov. 7 vote – a process that required a little more doing this time around because of two write-in candidacies in the county’s largest voting wards of Garnett as well as others in council elections throughout the county.

Nate Wiehl’s write-in candidacy in Garnett, which was endorsed in a novel occurrence by his frustrated and embattled incumbent opponent Jason Sheahan, garnered 443 write-in votes to win the post over registered challenger Mark Powls with 102, Sheahan with 33 and write-in challenger Paula Scott with 29.

With Wiehl and Scott both mounting write-in campaigns for the position after the June filing deadline had passed, local voters focused more attention on what is at times a reluctant process among elected public servants that, in the end,

Long road of food, drinks leads Harabin to Scipio

After decades tending bar and working in restaurants, Williamsburg native takes stab at ownership

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

SCIPIO – The road that led Williamsburg’s Tammy Harabin to the purchase Scipio Supper Club was long and arduous, but in the end she says she feels as much at home as she ever has – and the new opportunity is the route that was always in her stars.

The hometown Williamsburg girl has a decades-long connection to the restaurant and bar business. Her mother and father ran two different establishments in Williamsburg when she was just a kid, and weekends and after school were often spent helping out there in between homework and activities. She learned by osmosis that there’s a lot to be done in the food service and bar industry – but it would take a marriage, a divorce, the birth of a daughter and sideline experience as a paralegal and in the health care field as well as acquiring an unrelated bachelor’s degree to land her at one of the area’s favorite steak houses. She knew about the restaurant business, but it took her time in college to really get her feet wet.

“I was a single mom going to college and

The tower is owned by US Cellular and they are requiring an application from the county to put a bigger pack on the tower. The application will cost $2,000, analysis will cost $2,200, and the larger pack will be an additional $225 per month. The Commissioners agreed that the application needed to be completed to move forward with the updates to the emergency radio systems. Mark would like to replace his Tahoe he currently drives also. He received a bid from the State of Kansas for a 2020 Dodge Durango with 50,000 miles fully equipped except local radios for $29,350. decided I needed a part-time job," Harabin said, "and I went to work at IHOP off 119th and Metcalf. I don't know - my dad says I took to it like a duck to water. I never would have thought it. I never expected to be doing it the rest of my life."

IHOP recognized her work ethic and potential for management, promoted her, and she eventually opened the company's restaurant at the new Kansas Speedway. Competitor Culvers recruited her, and she opened a Culvers restaurant right next door.

Later Harabin moved to a bar position in downtown Kansas City and during that time lost her sister, and her mother passed just a year later in 2012. Both her father and her daughter suggested she take a vacation, and that trip ended up in a love affair with Nashville after she spent a week there. The town pulled her in, and after saving up cash to make the move she became a full time Tennessean with an apartment and a couple of bar jobs in Music City.

"I sold everything except my clothes and my dog, loaded it in the car and moved to Nashville," Harabin said. "I had furniture ordered and had it delivered when I got there." The job track took her to the former Swingin' Doors Saloon just off Broadway.

"I just loved it," she said. Her Kansas exit came with the news her father had developed cancer, but again both he and her daughter urged her to make the move and take a chance on an adventure. She stayed in Nashville over four years, coming home every few months to check in. When her father's health declined to a point he needed substantial care she moved home to Williamsburg to take over the task. He passed away New Year's Day 2017.

Soon came an invitation from a childhood friend at the iconic BBQ rib joint Guy & Mae's in Williamsburg to help out behind the bar, which grew into a steady gig. Slowly the idea developed that she should take the dive and own her own place.

"One day I was sitting at home and, boom, up it popped that the Scipio Supper Club was for sale." She ignored the idea for weeks, but couldn't get it out of her mind.

"I finally just said, I'm gonna do it. I'm just gonna do it. If I have to work myself to death, why don't I do it for myself."

Former owners Traci and Josh Burkdoll had been a huge help in orientation and learning the lay of the land in the area, Harabin said, and all the staff opted to stay on through the transition. Harabin said having a trained staff and helpful former owners was a godsend for a business where fast service and quality is of to-the-minute importance. She and manager Dawn Cameron waded into the moving stream at the restaurant and have been letting the operation teach them the ropes. After all these years and all these miles it's familiar, she says, but every operation is different.

"What's the same is that in the end it's about the people, and I've always loved the people side of it," Harabin said. "It's my passion."

She said she knows that Janet Alexander still casts a broad shadow over the place. The longtime proprietor who sold the restaurant to Burkdolls a year before her untimely passing in June 2022 made SSC an institution among local customers for 17 years and established its connections to local business, civic and charity endeavors. Harabin says she doesn't want any changes she may eventually make to dilute Janet's legacy. For now, she says, she'd like a higher profile for SSC and to add a few special touches of her own.

"We want promotions, we're looking at football game events, we're looking at being open earlier, some live music," she said. "We're booking Christmas parties and birthday parties." As for changes to the menu, Harabin says some are coming, but she wants to keep those a surprise for now.

One thing Harabin hopes to have is a sign on the nearby highway - a better direction off U.S. 59 so people don't drive past in the hurry of their busy lives and never know she's there, she said. After all - it was a long road that brought her here, and she'd like others to

Hyatt Club met in October and November

October

Diane Hastert and Becky King hosted Hyatt Club at the Town Hall Center in Garnett at 5 pm. There were ten members and one guest, Erin Miller, present at the meeting. All present were happy to have Erin join the club. Walking tacos were served by the hostesses, with desserts and side dishes provided by members.

Diane read the minutes of the previous meeting. The mystery gifts were snack sized Goldfish crackers, won by Mary Ann Umbarger, and a stack of to go cups won by guest, Helen Watt. Hostess gifts were won by Mary Ann Umbarger, a turkey themed garden flag with stand, and Erin Miller, the Family Block and bowl warmers. All enjoyed playing bingo and receiving gag gifts for prizes.

Rose Marie Miller received a birthday gift from her mystery pal, chamber bucks and post cards of Prairie Spirit Rail Trail butterflies. Shirley Benjamin received a birthday gift, a pretty fall centerpiece made of fabric with a fall glass globe with lights and a bittersweet candle ring. Even though Shirley wasn't present, those present took a sneak peak at her gift!

A topic discussed was whether more than one gift, hostess and mystery gifts, would be won per person. Orders for Hyatt Club t-shirts were taken.

November

Shirley Benjamin and Ruth McDonald hosted Hyatt Club at 5:30 p.m. at the Archer Room of the Garnett Public Library. There were sixteen members and one guest present and all enjoyed the potluck meal.

Secretary, Dorothy Miller, read the minutes of the October meeting. Also reported was a checkbook balance of $246.40.

Dues of $5.00 each were collected from members for 2024.

The hosts provided the mystery gift, a tablecloth and napkins, guessed by Donna Benjamin. The hostess gifts, pot holders and kitchen storage containers, were won by Kathy Waring and Becky King. Receiving birthday gifts from their mystery pals were Donna, who got a Christmas themed stuffed moose, a nice candle and Christmas ornament, and Sandra Hamilton, who received a cozy blanket. Rosemary Turner, who was unable to attend, also received a birthday gift.

The orders for Hyatt club t-shirts were completed, and will be ready approximately two weeks after the order is submitted.

Rose Marie Miller announced plans for the Christmas meeting/dinner which will be held at noon on December 2, 2023 at the Dutch Country Café in Garnett. Reservations should be submitted to Rose Marie by November 30. Bingo will follow the meal and each person is to bring prizes, both for man and woman, and may be new or used/gag type prizes. Members are to bring a Christmas card for their 2023 mystery pal, revealing their identities.

Names were drawn for Hyatt Club mystery pals for 2024, and months were selected for hostesses for club for the upcoming year.

Officers were selected for the year 2024: Sherry Benjamin, president; Hilda Lankard, vice-president; Becky King, secretary; and Diane Hastert, treasurer.

The woman reached for Jesus

Mother Teresa stands out as one of the greatest humanitarians of the 20th century and beyond. In spite of all of her vast accomplishments the following quote is attributed to her. "Where is my faith-even deep down in there is nothing, but emptiness and darkness-My God-how painful is this unknown pain-I have no faith-I dare not utter the words and thoughts that crowd in my heart and make me suffer untold agony."

God allows us to go through hard times so that we can learn to truly trust him. You see, when we do choose to trust God-even when there is no concrete evidence of his presence-we demonstrate real faith. And that is a powerful witness to anyone who sees.

In Luke 8:43-48; we read the story of the sick woman and Jesus. This woman had suffered from bleeding for twelve years, and no one could heal her. Jesus was in a crowd of people and we are told the crowds almost crushed him. The woman believing that Jesus could help her came up behind him and touched the edge of his cloak and immediately her bleeding stopped. What we need to note is the response of Jesus. "Who touched me?" Jesus asked. The disciples stating the obvious said, "people are crowding and pressing against you." Jesus response was, "someone touched me; I know that power has gone out from me." We are told the woman came and fell at his feet and told Jesus why she had touched him and how she had been healed instantly. Jesus response, "Your faith has healed you. Go in peace."

All of us experience times in our life like Mother Teresa expressed. What we need to understand is our need for healing and push through the clutter and litter in our life and come as the woman did to Jesus. We can rest assured if we feel burdened and weary from life's struggles you and I need to receive the cleansing of the Savior. There are no limits to the power of Jesus except those we place on him by our own failure to place our faith in him. The solution to the problem is to reach for Jesus.

Cherry Mound 4-H Meeting for November

The monthly meeting of Cherry Mound 4h Club was called to order by President Huck Young on November 5, 2023, at 6:00pm. The pledge of an Allegiance and 4-H pledge was led by Flag Leaders Myah Martin and Evan Jimenez. Roll call was "What is your favorite Thanksgiving food?" It was answered by 7 members and 2 leaders.

Secretary Chance Witherspoon read last month's minutes, and they were approved. Chance Witherspoon is also the reporter, and we will have last month's in the paper by end of the month with this month. Treasurer report was given by Reagan Witherspoon she reported the club has a balance of $ 3091.38 in our account. Eva Jimenez led the club in our go to song Row, row, row your boat. Hank Newton reported that the council will meet on November 13, 2023. Leader's report - Gina Witherspoon reported that we have till December 1st to enroll for the upcoming year.

Also, our club oversees helping with the achievement banquet on November 8th. So, we need all that can to help. We also need to discuss as a club about adopting a family or getting gifts to the nursing home. Huck then asked the club for any new or old business. There was a motion by Hank Newton for the club to either adopt a family for Christmas or get gifts to the nursing home for the residents. With a budget of $ 300.00 for all. This motion was seconded by Chance Witherspoon. Motion did pass. The program was then turned over to the Vice President Hank Newton.

Eva Jimenez had a program talk and she talked about her crossbow and safety with your crossbow. Recreation was Huck Young, and he advised all to go home and do chores.

The agenda for next meeting was read with next meeting being on December 10, 2023, at Westphalia Elementary School. Refreshments were provided by the Jimenez Family. Motion was made by Chance Witherspoon to adjourn meeting and seconded by Max Jimenez. Meeting was adjourned.

immunizations and myocarditis.

The Sentinel asked Dr. Perry what she meant by her statement, "Knowing what I knew (about COVID and vaccine misinformation) and knowing you (the public) didn't know both-ered me.":

"Having access to information about early treatment, and then later information about the myocarditis statistics coming out of Israel in young males, compelled me, as a physician, to act on that information. Whether it was to treat patients with off-label medications or to raise awareness of the myocarditis risk while working at a children's hospital, I had to do something. As more and more information became available; I knew the public was not being informed, and that fact created a heavy, personal burden. Patients were not being provided accurate information to make good medical decisions for themselves, and that lack of information was actually causing harm which was antithetical to my calling as a physician and the medical profession as a whole."

Dr. Perry is aware that some of her colleagues are bothered by doctors having a different viewpoint and that that could have an impact on her career. However, she thinks patients are exposed to a greater risk by not having all the information they need.

"The risks have already been taken by the public who have not been informed; those patients that had doctors abandon them or not give them true informed consent. The risk to us frankly is not the risk to our practice, but the risk to our soul and our integrity if we stay silent."

Dr. White spoke on The Great Barrington Declaration, named for the Massachusetts city where it was signed in October 2020 by scientists urging a strategy of "herd immunity" over the lockdowns currently in place. She discusses the GBD's multifold significance, which was opposed by government agencies:

"It was published early in the pandemic but late enough that we were already seeing the significant negative consequences of the lockdowns. It was a plea by three well-respected scientists to have an open discussion about allowing healthy, fit young adults and children to live relatively normal lives while following "focused protection" of the elderly to keep them safe until herd immunity could be reached. To allow for free discourse amongst scientists, physicians, academics, and the government to comprehensively look at the best way to manage a respiratory virus. To honestly search for the least harmful response to the situation based on past knowledge and also using new information, evidence, and data to try to answer a question. To do what science is meant to do."

We asked Dr. White the significance of Missouri v Biden, currently under consideration in the U.S. Supreme Court, which seeks to limit Executive Branch contact with social media companies over the issue of controversial posts:

"Missouri v Biden is a significant legal case because it shows exactly how far the government agencies had gone to censor free speech that did not agree with their narrative. Through FOIA requests, the plaintiffs obtained page after page of back-and-forth emails between government officials and social media companies detailing the coercion and outright threats from officials towards these companies if the companies didn't do exactly what the government wanted done. But it also showed how quickly the social media companies fell into line to do the government's bidding and censor anyone or any type of speech deemed misinformation or disinformation. This case shows that government agencies in effect, violated the plaintiff's freedom of speech under the First Amendment to the United States Constitution."

Dr. White concludes with her concerns over maneuvers by the World Health Organization (WHO):

"The World Health Organization will be voting on a new pandemic treaty and International Health Regulations in May of 2024. If these are passed, every nation that is part of the WHO will be required to follow them. These new regulations will give the Director General of the WHO the power not only to declare future pandemics but also to require nations to follow his or her directives. Currently, the WHO provides recommendations, but countries can independently decide how to manage the health of their citizens. If these are passed, the "recommendations" will be legally binding. In effect, we will be giving up our right to govern ourselves. We will be told what to do with our health by an international body that is not democratically elected by our citizens."

Dr. Krebs testified before legislative committees in Kansas the last two years on a bill that would give individuals "health freedom." Among the provisions of the legislation:

1) Allowed physicians to continue to prescribe whatever medications they thought best for their patients and required pharmacists to fill those prescriptions.

2) Made it illegal for any physician to mutilate any child under the age of 18 through the use of surgical or pharmacological gender change or alteration (gender reassignment), including puberty-prevention hormones.

3) Prohibited the Secretary of KDHE from requiring any genetic transfer injections in children.

4) Prohibit the firing by any public or private employer of any employee solely for following an isolation or quarantine recommendation by a local health officer.

5) Prevent the State Board of the Healing Arts from capriciously removing from physicians their licenses to practice medicine based on the Board's completely unscientific and illogical definition of "spreading disinformation."

But he was frustrated by the process and results:

"A number of physicians, PAs (physician assistants), NPs (nurse practitioners) nurses, and other healthcare personnel were involved in crafting and attempting to have passed legislation in the Kansas State House during the last two legislative sessions. Senator Mark Steffen and Senator Mike Thompson, along with many other legislators, wrote and introduced the various bills to advocate for Health Freedom, to regain individual (Constitutional) rights, and to protect the most vulnerable among us. Kansas for Health Freedom (KSHF) was also heavily involved in these initiatives. The bills varied widely, and for instance, in this last legislative session, 13 bills were pushed through the approval process of both the Senate and House. All thirteen were vetoed, and the Health Freedom Alliance was able to override the governor's veto only on two bills if I remember correctly."

Dr. Krebs said, "bodily autonomy is given to you by God, not by the government" in his presentation. The Sentinel asked him to elaborate.

"First, each of us was created by God and given the faculties of high intelligence and free will. Only God could create us, and at Creation, each of us was given authority over his/her own body and mind. That is part of the gift of "Free Will." Only God could give us authority over our own bodies, and only God can take it away. That is called "Bodily Autonomy." It is NOT GIVEN to us by the State, and CAN NOT BE TAKEN AWAY from us by "The State" or any other entity.

"In the field of Medicine, well-informed and uncoerced acceptance (or refusal) is required before any injection, procedure, operation, etc. It is part of the doctor's responsibility to give the information before having the patient make a decision about acceptance or rejection of any proposed invasive act. This is the basis of the 1947 Nuremberg Code, endorsed by just about every free and democratic nation. No injections or procedures without informed and uncoerced consent of the patient."

Dr. Krebs says we must learn from the past to prevent the loss of freedoms we suffered during the pandemic.

"We, the Doctors for Truth, believe that the best way to prevent a recurrence of the illegal and immoral events of the last four years (the Great COVID Cover-Up) is to simply get out the truth of how it happened (and is still happening) to the very intelligent and freedom-loving populous of the United States. Paraphrasing St. Augustine: Truth is like a Lion, you don't have to protect it. Simply let it loose, and it will take care of itself.

"That is the point of the public information meetings we give to the general public. None of us has ever taken a dollar for the thousands of hours we have spent researching, preparing, and speaking; our only motivation as physicians is to promote the health and welfare of the public. We try to inform them of the truth in an easy-to-understand way. If they understand clearly what happened, they can prevent it from happening again. I believe proof of the intelligence of our populous is the fact that they have seen through the massive advertising/marketing campaigns paid for by the Pharmaceutical and Healthcare industries, in conjunction with the state, local, and national government agencies, and only a few percent of the US population has opted to take the new COVID-19 mRNA genetic-transfer injections.

Dr. Earl's presentation was scientific in nature, discussing the toxicity of the immunizations on the blood and internal organs, admitting his presentation was aimed at "the science nerds in the audience."

Dr. Lopez spoke on the lack of transparency in post-pandemic studies into the health effects of immunizations.

questioned why there are no studies into the adverse effects of the vaccine, such as the incidence of myocarditis in healthy, young athletes and decreased birth rates in vaccinated pregnant women.

Dr. Perry summarized her group's intentions on beginning this educational lecture series:

"Doctors, including our group, that have spoken out have absolutely nothing to gain. So why are we doing it? As I mentioned, because we love our once noble profession, we love people, and we love the truth."

Bidenomics: Yes, it's really this bad

The American economy continues to stumble along, doing better than expected at the macro level, while hurting working Americans at the micro level.

Inflation continues to loom large, despite October's numbers beating Wall Street's expectations; interest rates are at near record high levels, the housing market is a trainwreck, and credit card debt is at all-time highs.

Yet, for some reason, the Biden administration continues to give speeches touting the strength of the economy, touting Bidenomics. However, it isn't resonating with voters.

A recent poll shows that just two percent of voters in "six battleground states said the economy was excellent. More than half of voters under 30, Hispanics, women, and people in every income bracket say they trust former President Trump to handle the economy more than Biden."

Inflation continues to remain higher than the Fed's goal of 2.0 percent.

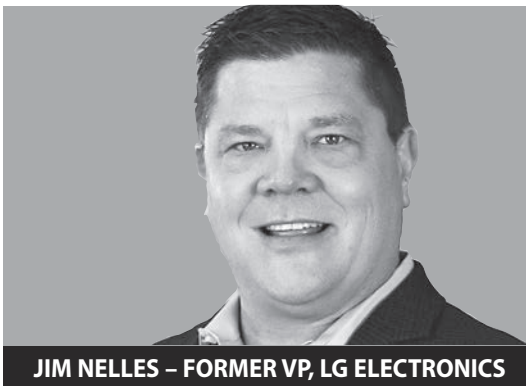

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Consumer Price Index (CPI), the most common measure of inflation, increased 3.2% in October 2023, versus September 2022. While the CORE CPI, which excludes more volatile variables such as fuel and food, was 4% higher. What is lost on the majority of talking heads on financial television is that the CPI in October 2022 was 7.7%, meaning that prices today are nearly 11% higher than they were in 2021. While this is lost on the talking heads, it isn't lost on working Americans who are trying to put food on the table and gas in their trucks.

American families have lost $7,000 in spending power during Biden's presidency. Given that the average American family earns $71,000 per year, this is a significant loss. Perhaps this is why so-called experts are forecasting a sluggish holiday season, per CNBC. People simply do not have the money to spend on holiday gifts.

More significantly, people are having to dig into their savings and their retirement funds to pay for basics. Nearly 33% of Americans have less than $100 in their savings accounts. Only 40% of Americans can pay for a $1,000 emergency expense. Emergency 401K withdrawals are up 27% this year.

In addition, we are seeing credit card debt reach record levels, surpassing $1 trillion. A recent Clever Real Estate survey found that "3 in 5 Americans (61%) are in credit card debt, owing an average of $5,875. In addition, 23% say they go deeper into credit card debt every month and 14% say they've missed a payment in 2023."

People are not incurring debt to go on vacations or purchase new televisions. They are incurring credit card debt to purchase necessities such as groceries, pay rent, and utilities.

It isn't just credit card debt that is dragging the economy down. The housing market is stuck in the doldrums. Homebuilder sentiment is at a 10-month low, as mortgage rates are kissing 8.0 percent.

Housing prices remain steady due to a lack of inventory. People with mortgages at 4 percent or less are not selling. The only reason we have not seen a collapse of the housing market is that Americans learned their lessons from the housing collapse in 2008, and the number of variable rate mortgages is negligible, representing only 9.2 percent of mortgage applications in the last week of October.

However, we are seeing more and more people back out of agreements to purchase a home. The percentage of home purchase cancellations reached 16.3 percent in September, which represents 53,000 canceled agreements.

Meanwhile, home foreclosures are up 34 percent year over year, with more than 150,000 homes in some sort of foreclosure procedure last quarter. It isn't just housing and credit cards; automobile repossessions are now up more than 20 percent.

President Biden can continue to run for reelection on the strength of Bidenomics. But the American people are hurting, working harder than ever to fall further and further behind.

Democrat lynch mob justice. An award-winning Minneapolis journalist, tired of all the lies she saw being told, wrote a book called "They're lying: The media, the left, and the death of George Floyd." And now her documentary, "The Fall of Minneapolis," is available to view free on Rumble.com. The Democrat fascist brown shirt mobs are targeting her with death threats and harassment at her home. # How do you know when partisanship goes too far?

If ever there was doubt that politics has become so toxic that anything can be said or done to the opposition, it was proven with a recent statement by New York Democratic Congressman Dan Goldman.

With his hatred for Donald Trump burning at his soul, Goldman told MSNBC host Jen Psaki that Trump is "not only unfit, he is destructive to our democracy and he has to be eliminated."

That's right, a sitting member of Congress basically called for the assassination of a presidential candidate.

As is typical of someone who accidentally said out loud what they really want to happen but realized it makes them look bad, Goldman offered a correction to his statement, claiming he simply "used the wrong word" when sharing his absolute hatred for Trump and that he "certainly wishes no harm to Trump."

That's the classic attempt of trying to put the toothpaste back in the tube. It doesn't work.

This is where our politics are these days. It's not enough to have differences of opinion. Trump's views — according to Goldman and a large number of Democrats — are so dangerous he simply can't be allowed to become president again.

This isn't political rhetoric, trying to rally voters to a cause. This is the type of language that leads to riots, assassinations and civil war.

A recent Democratic primary in Bridgeport, Conn., was tossed out by a judge because of overwhelming evidence of ballot box stuffing by Democratic Party leaders in that city. When questioned under oath if the videos showed them stuffing the ballot box with hundreds of absentee ballots, the operatives invoked their Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination.

KANSAS COMMENTARY

EARL WATT, THE LEADER & TIMES

When political differences rise to the point of either religion or moral superiority, any action taken can be justified to achieve partisan victory.

That's why it isn't enough to accept that Jan. 6 was a riot at the Capitol. It has to be an insurrection. Those who believed there were irregularities in the election must be enemies of the state, not just citizens with concerns over the outcome of the election.

Not only have our leaders failed in becoming true statesmen, but our media has also taken sides in politics to such an extreme that the information we receive can't be trusted.

According to theamericanjournalist.com, only 3.4 percent of journalists are Republican.

Hiring practices are being affected by partisan views, especially in Hollywood where a conservative thought could get a person blacklisted.

We are told over and over that "democracy is at stake" unless we vote for one and only one party. Never mind the fact that the United States has had an almost equal number of Democratic and Republican presidents since Richard Nixon's election in 1968. Since then, Republicans have controlled the White House for 32 years, and Democrats will have had control for 28 years by the end of Biden's term. No matter what we've been told by both sides, America has survived with presidents from both parties, and it will continue to do so.

But that doesn't excuse the danger being posed by our leaders and the media with their constant beating of the drums against those with different approaches to solving our challenges.

And the moral superiority is justifying very dangerous actions. These people believe they have to take these anti-democratic actions in order to save democracy. As crazy as it sounds, that's exactly what is happening.

No one party has a lock on every solution for everything. When they believe they do, freedom dies by suicide.

The violent chaos of Arab street protests – right here at home

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

chance to mount any substantial response. It inveighed against Israel on principle even after an unspeakable pogrom.

Of course, things have only picked up from there. A week or so ago, more than 300,000 pro-Palestinian protesters marched in London, chanting for the elimination of Israel. That would be a notable crowd in an Arab capital, but it's especially remarkable in one of the greatest cities in the Western world.

In a nice touch that, again, one would expect in a country in the Middle East, the protest march ended at the U.S. Embassy.

A couple of days earlier, thousands of protesters shut down midtown Manhattan. They vandalized a police cruiser, writing "IDF KKK" on it, and splattered fake blood on the New York Times building. They kicked and smashed windows at a shut-down Grand Central Station.

Unlike other mass movements, most famously the civil-rights movement, the protesters don't seek to swath themselves in American symbolism and ideals. Palestinian flags, not American flags, are the banners of these marches. In Manhattan, they removed American flags from a lamppost. And they've vandalized war memorials in Europe.

In some prominent cases, we have directly imported hatred of ourselves via the Middle East. At a large pro-Palestinian rally in Washington, D.C., the lawyer and activist Lamis Deek praised martyrdom and resistance, and bellowed that "the truth is the Western world is a lie." She comes from Nablus, and her worldview is about what you'd expect of someone from there.

At MIT, Israeli and Jewish students say they were blocked from attending class by a pro-Palestinian protest at the school's main entrance. The protest violated the rules, but when the school ordered all protesters to leave the area or face suspension, the contingent of Jewish counter-protesters left, while the pro-Palestinians stayed.

Were they suspended? No, apparently because many of them are foreign students. The president of MIT cited "visa issues" in not following through on the discipline.

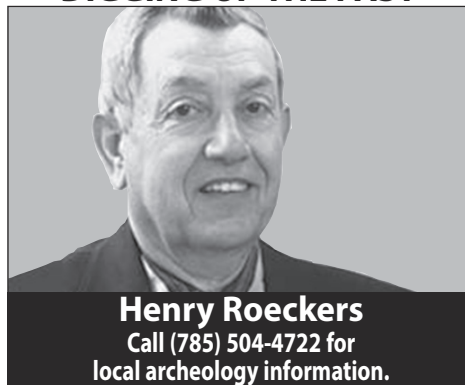

This is perverse. But we can never forget the extent to which we ourselves, through determined inculcation in our own schools, have made students from right here in the United States haters of Israel and the West. Altogether, we've created the conditions for the ongoing cataract of anti-Israel agitation, coupled with outright antisemitism and harassment of Jews, that shows no signs of abating.

Why settle for an Arab Street abroad, when you can have one here at home?

Part 1 of Branson Christmas 2023 tour

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Henry Roeckers
Call (785) 504-4722 for local archeology information.

Here we were, halfway thru the fall season and we hadn't taken a bus tour for a long time. But all that changed the week of 13-16 November as we went on the Branson Christmas 2023 Tour.

Monday, November 13

Kay and I left our home at 9:30 am for Parsons, Ks. We arrived at Pete's filling station at 10:45. It was here that we left our car and soon boarded a Heritage Tours bus out of Yoder, Ks. Our tour hostess was Carmon Unruh and driver Arick Mayan. There were 50 passengers on our white bus and 48 on the red bus.

Just east of Parsons we stopped for lunch at the Circle's Pecans & Country Store. After lunch our afternoon break was at the Joplin, Mo. 44 Travel Stop.

Proceeding on, we arrived at 4:45 p.m. at our home for the next three days, the LaQuinta Inn & Suites, Branson, Mo.

At 6:10 pm, we enjoyed the Lights of Joy Drive thru Christmas Lights Display before enjoying the Million Dollar Quartet Dinner Show. This smash hit, based on the Tony award winning production, took us back to 1956 in the Sun Records Studio's when Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Carl Perkins and Jerry Lee Lewis actually came together for the greatest jam session in music history.

Tuesday, November 14

After breakfast at our motel, we were entertained by the Clay Cooper's Express. The singing, dancing and hysterical comedy kept us on the edge of our seats. We ate lunch in the Branson Craft Mall at the Pickin Porch Grill. Our afternoon was spent at the Dutton Family Christmas Show. They are a high energy family that does it all. Sing and dance, from Bluegrass to contemporary rock to country. At 5:00 pm we enjoyed a fabulous Chateau on the Lake dinner. Then it was on to experience one of the most riveting Bible stories of the Old Testament, the original stage production of QUEEN ESTHER.

Next week I will share with you our last two days of this wonderful tour.

yields the makeup of the city councils of most of Anderson County's smaller cities.

It's been a tradition for decades in the mayor/council-based governments of Greeley, Colony, Westphalia, Kincaid and others - the idea that candidates rarely file for office and instead rely on word of mouth or just their local reputations to generate enough voter turnout to put them into office as write-ins.

This year, for instance, Krystal Baugher filed for Greeley Council Member and won the top return with 19 of the 97 votes cast, followed by runner-up write-ins that elected Ronald Sommers (14), Amy Miller (12), Jenny Brown (11) and Ryan Hermreck (9). Other write-ins received a spread of 31 votes, but none individually totaled more than those above.

In Colony, 200 votes were cast for candidates Angela (77) and Seth (98) Black with six write-in votes for Debra Oswald and 19 others for three open posts on the council.

In Lone Elm 13 write-in votes were cast to fill the post of mayor, with 7 going to Gerald Morrison and 6 going elsewhere. Five council members were seated totaling 25 write-in votes: Lori Morrison (5), Eileen Johns (6), Mike Johns (4), Jean Johns (6) and Cassie Morrison (4).

Cristin Fuller won a 20-vote write-in battle for Kincaid Mayor with 4 votes. Thirty votes were cast to place council members Connie Edgerton (5), Allen Edgerton (5), Matt Fuller (5), Darlene Stewart (4), and Frank Stewart (4).

Quinton Webber swept the field with all five write-in votes cast for mayor of Westphalia. Benjamin Hess got five votes for his council seat along with Drake Dieker (4), Samuel Pitts (4), John Hess (3), Jim Nolan (3). One additional write-in vote was cast in the election as well.

resignation alludes that she continued to live in Emporia after taking the Garnett post because she couldn't find adequate housing.

Among Harrison's allegations are that Turnipseed continued to access the ecodexo office, files and computer system weeks after her resignation was effective and that the former director specifically made comments undermining Harrison to community leaders and local business people. Harrison said she notified city management about the ongoing issues but no action was taken, and that she was not allowed to make a police report of the robberies of files and materials from her office.

Harrison said she was verbally abused by Turnipseed from the outset.

"Her comments at my first Morning Mingle meeting were humiliating and professionally damaging," Harrison said, "and served to enforce her statement that she was not leaving, she was going to continue her work doing my job. Her repeated infliction of abuse was threatening, intimidating and humiliating," Harrison wrote.

"The city, its failure and refusal to mitigate the situation and handle Julie as a hostile former employee, repeatedly and intentionally exhibiting extreme outrageous behavior, has caused me to suffer emotional distress, lack of sleep, exhaustion, feelings of being unsafe in my own office, workplace and adjacent parking lot, and other physical maladies," Harrison wrote. "Are you understanding that what you allow, you condone?"

She said Turnipseed's efforts deprived her of the opportunity to succeed in her new job, and that the slander and character impugment she suffered had destroyed her chances of being re-employed in the region.

"And yet, the city did nothing to discourage her behavior, which translated to acceptability and is tantamount to negligent retention of the problem," Harrison said.

Calls and emails from the Review to Turnipseed and city commissioners Jody Cole and Mark Locke went unanswered. Harrison replied to an email and said she was traveling out of town and that she would address our questions later. Outgoing mayor Jason Sheahan refused to comment on Harrison's resignation or her severance demand, but he said the situation is an indicator of conflicts that arise because of the structure of the city's development and business relations bureaucracy.

"This situation highlights structure issues within ACDA, Chamber of Commerce, Morning Mingle, Love What's Local, and Community Development," Sheahan told the Review. "The city contributes funding to ACDA, Chamber, and Community Development. The ACDA helped form Morning Mingle and Love What's Local. I think the city commission needs to re-evaluate the structure and funding."

City commissioners meet tonight at 6 p.m. for the city's twice-monthly meeting.

Colony Veterans Awarded Quilts of Valor

Two Colony veterans were awarded Quilts of Valor by the East Central Kansas Quilters Group. Members of the group which serves Anderson and Coffey counties are Lori and Kent Hoyt, Burlington, Connie and Dennis Hatch, rural Burlington, and Mary and John Parrott, rural Leroy.

On Friday morning, November 10th, Neal Wallace and Gene Vincent were honored at Crest High School Veterans' Day Assembly. Neal Wallace served in the United States Navy from 1948 to 1952 during the Korean Conflict. His quilt was made and quilted by Lori Hoyt.

Gene Vincent served in the United States Army from 1958 to 1962 at the beginning of the United States sending troops to Vietnam. Gene's quilt was pieced by Erica Billings of Kincaid and quilted by Sharon Rich of Leroy. Additionally, Gene was presented with a Vietnam Commemorative pin as authorized by Presidential Proclamation upon the 50-year anniversary of the Vietnam War.

To nominate a veteran for a Quilt of Valor, an online form can be found at www.govf.org.

Abigael Reid earns scholar award

EMPORIA - Abigael Reid of Garnett, Kansas, is one of 51 student-athletes representing all 15 of Emporia State's intercollegiate sports to be named an Earl W. Sauder Athletic Scholar for 2023-24. The group was honored at a luncheon on Nov. 16.

Reid

Addressing the recipients, Steve Sauder said, "Congratulations! You are the best and the brightest, which is the history behind this scholarship. That is why you were chosen to be here today."

Reid, a Junior majoring in Health and Human Performance, competes in track for ESU.

Steve Sauder's father, Earl, established the scholarship in 2004 with a substantial gift over $1 million. After Earl's passing in 2006, the Sauder family committed to carry on the tradition that Earl started. Steve and his wife, Bobbi, made a 10-year pledge in 2013 which doubled the annual output of the scholarship.

"My mom and dad [Earl W. and Stelouise Sauder] created a legacy of generosity and a legacy of giving," Steve said. "We are doing our part to extend that legacy for our family and to honor Earl and Stelouise."

In May 2022, the Sauders

announced a legacy gift that will ensure the scholarship will support ESU student-athletes for future generations. As part of the Together, Forward campaign, this generous bequest will also help strengthen the athletic program, allowing ESU to continue to recruit high-performing student-athletes.

"The Sauder family's support and the Earl W. Sauder Athletic Scholarship are invaluable to our athletics department and our student-athletes," said Shane Shivley, president of ESU Foundation. "They show not only the Sauders' dedication to the university, but also their deep desire to uplift and encourage our players."

across the United States and Canada to give our rodeo youth an equal chance to make it to Vegas and the opportunity to win their share of $1.5 million-plus in cash & prizes," said Sherrylynn Johnson, the event's organizer and four time qualifier for the National Finals Rodeo.

Mrs. Johnson and her husband Mike Johnson, an ironman of rodeo who has qualified for the National Finals Rodeo a whopping 23 times, said the event offers barrel racing, double mugging, goat tying, breakaway roping, tie downroping and team roping.

stakes payout in five events for youth in rodeo history and this year we've added Team Roping which will push it even higher."

Mike also noted that the total payout, including two Dodge Ram dually trucks is to exceed $1.5 million in cash and awards this year. "Winners will take home electric Trek bikes, Crickets, saddles, rope cans, World Champion rings, and plenty of swag from our A-list group of sponsors.
