THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 7-2-2024 / PENNY MILES

Warm, muggy temperatures greeted the fireworks show audience at Lake Garnett Saturday for the annual Liberty Festival, but the show dazzled watchers at the park and other locations in town.

Dauids, kids attend drag show to celebrate PRIDE

Children in attendance with congresswoman captured on TikTok

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARDNER – Kansas 3rd District Congresswoman Sharice Dauids celebrated gay PRIDE Month Sunday as the featured speaker at an event in Gardner that included a drag show with children in attendance.

Dauids posted about her attendance at the event on her X (Twitter) account, but deleted any images or reference to the drag show segment. The conservative account LibsOfTikTok however reposted Dauids' still photos and included video of at least two men dancing suggestively and taking tips from the audience, which appeared to include at least a half dozen children under the age of 14. Dauids is seen speaking to the crowd in one still photo under a banner reading "Thank You To Our Entertainers."

Dauids, who is gay, represents Anderson, Franklin, Miami, Johnson and parts of Wyandotte County.

Gardner Kansas Pride refused to answer questions from the Informer as to how often it hosts drag events that include children or other details of the event, instead directing us to the organization's website and to Sharice Dauids' office.

"Gardner KS Pride is a non-profit serving the Gardner community through family-friendly community events and as volunteers for local organizations," read an email signed by Gardner KS Pride Executive Board.

As of this post Dauids' office in Washington, D.C., had not yet responded to the Informer's request for comment.

Drag performances before audiences that include children and storybook readings for kids by drag performers in classrooms has become a focal point of controversy between members of the gay and queer community, who say the performative experiences help make children more accepting of gay and queer lifestyles, and conservatives who say grooming children to such lifestyles violates traditional values and confuses children as to gender and appropriate sex roles.

While some commenters on both Dauids' post and the LibsOfTikTok clip supported the event, others questioned the congresswoman's prioritization of an LGBTQ event in view of

Is it sheer numbers, or politics delaying Kansas 2023 abortion reporting?

Kelly's KDHE holds up report on year's tally and won't say why

BY DANE HICKS THE KANSAS INFORMER

TOPEKA – In a year with a record number of fetus killings and Kansas' newly established role as an abortion tourism destination in the Midwest, the Sunflower State may have logged so many abortions in 2023 that state officials are delayed in tallying them.

Schmoie

Two years after the fall of Roe v. Wade and the remanding of abortion jurisdiction to the states and away from the federal government, analysts say more than a million fetuses were killed nationwide in 2023.

Kansas likely set a record as well.

If correct, those numbers are a historic high—and the sheer volume of those deaths could be one reason why Kansas Department of Health and Environment officials aren't releasing preliminary abortion statistics this spring as they have since as far back as 1999.

KDHE told the Topeka Capital Journal last week that preliminary annual statistics on abortion typically released in the spring would not be released this year until late the fall. The full state vital statistics report for 2022 wasn't released until December 2023, so any hint on those number may be six months from now.

Such a delay in 2024 would put the release of those numbers taking place after the November general elections, when all 125 Kansas House Seats and all 40 Kansas Senate seats are up for vote. Democrats statewide are running in those races attempting to break Republicans' veto-proof majority in the Kansas Legislature, with the help of funding from Governor Kelly's political action committee formed last summer for that specific purpose. Neither Jill Bronaugh, communications director for KDHE, nor Grace Hoge, press secretary for Governor Laura Kelly, have yet responded to emails from the Kansas Informer Friday night as to any political bearing intended in the delay of those election year statistics.

Some legislators are dubious.

"I do find it interesting that this comes on the heels of us passing a bill about timely reporting on this topic from this agency," said Rebecca Schmoie, a Republican Representative from the 59th District. "Perhaps it is coincidence. I just know that the biggest argument against needing a bill addressing this was that it was unnecessary

Officers seek phone-busting software for investigations

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – Local law officers got the okay from county commissioners last week to fund training for a new computer software designed to defeat increasingly advanced security measures on phones and computers used to conceal evidence in crimes – often evidence of child sexual exploitation – in order to better form prosecutions of offenders.

Anderson County Attorney Elizabeth Oliver and Anderson County Sheriff's Department Detective Bob Ward met with county commissioners to request authority to spend $5,000 in existing funds from a handful of separate sources including diversion fees, property forfeiture and prosecutor training funds derived as a percentage of district court filing fees. The funds would pay for the second round of training for Garnett Police Department officer Daniel Frazier on the digital forensics Cellebrite system, which local officers have used on a fee basis in the past to crack phones and computers in executing search warrants seeking evidence.

The software allows for the digital unlocking of those devices and analysis of stored data even in cases in which suspects have used more advanced encryption software. One testimonial on the Cellebrite website revealed a sheriff's department client which accessed some 27,000 encrypted phone contacts and paired relevant ones with some 14,000 location-related entries in Google Maps and Apple Maps as part of their investigation.

Ward told commissioners Cellebrite had been instrumental in a local child sodomy case, and that officers were investigating a grant to fund half the $20,000 purchase price of the full software package, which they hoped to make in a followup request at a later date. The approval of the recent funding would complete Frazier's second of Cellebrite's three-phase training program, county attorney Oliver said.

Defense to file more motions to suppress in Slyter proceedings

Prosecution wins suppression motion only to face more

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT – More courtroom gymnastics followed the denial of a motion to suppress evidence by Marvin Slyter's attorney earlier in June, when Leawood attorney Thomas Bath moved to suppress evidence seized from all subsequent search warrants in the nearly five year-old felony theft of farm equipment case, setting up yet another hearing on the new motions in August.

Bath's move came after Anderson County District Court Judge Eric Godderz ruled in favor of county attorney Elizabeth Oliver's rebuttal to Bath's initial motion, which proposed evidence gained during a search of Slyter's property was improper. Bath claimed sheriff's office investigator Wes McClain exceeded the authority of a search warrant when he surveyed other areas of Slyter's property and found additional pieces of farm equipment that matched descriptions of others reported stolen when he served the warrant in November 2019.

Slyter, 61 of Garnett, was arraigned in August 2023 after more than a two-year investigation of theft of numerous pieces of farm equipment in a multi-county investigation. He faces seven of nine initial felony theft charges, after District Magistrate Judge Kevin Kimball threw out two counts due to lack of establishment of prior location of two stolen items.

A hearing was set August 7 at 10 a.m. for Bath's additional motions to suppress.

Cost sharing offered for soil tests in Anderson County

By Carol Engle, Frontier Extension District Communications and Marketing Manager

"One of the biggest benefits to this program is to help ensure good water quality," said Ryan Schaub, Frontier District agent specializing in crop production and farm management. "This program will help us better track where nutrients are being put and at what amounts they are being applied. In turn, this information will help us know where these nutrients could potentially end up in an erosion event."

GARNETT - As of July 1, 2024, Anderson County producers have the opportunity to test soil samples at reduced costs thanks to a joint partnership between the Anderson County Conservation District, the Anderson County Commissioners and the Frontier Extension District. The full prices for soil tests conducted through Kansas State University are $13.50 for package #1 (testing for pH, Phosphorus and Potassium) and $17.50 for package #2 (testing for pH, Phosphorus, Potassium, Organic Matter and Zinc). With the new cost sharing arrangement, the prices are only $3.50 for a test #1 and $7.50 for a test #2, with a limit of 10 tests per producer per year. To receive the reduced prices, the producer must fill out the paperwork at the Extension Office when shipping the sample(s). The $10 cost share is also offered for other test packages offered by K-State.

Anyone with questions about soil testing can contact the Frontier District office in Garnett at 785.448.6826.

Saying nothing is not an answer

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

In 1 Kings 18 we read the account of Elijah and Ahab struggling to get the people to follow each of their ways. Elijah wants the people to follow the one true God. In 18:21 we read, Elijah went before the people and said, "How long will you waver between two opinions? If the LORD is God, follow him; but if Baal is God, follow him." But the people said nothing.

Baal was a false god and can be represented in more than one form. This type of god provided the people with something they could see and touch. The one true God was invisible and seemed distant even far away. To settle the dispute Elijah challenged the prophets of Baal to a contest.

Initially Elijah had taken the word of God to Ahab three years prior. God's word was "there shall be no rain for three years." Now the Lord instructed Elijah to present himself before Ahab with the message that the Lord would provide rain. Elijah then challenged the 850 prophets of Baal and Asheroth to a contest on Mount Carmel. Each side would offer sacrifices to their God without building a fire. The ignition of the fire was left to the strongest God who would thereby reveal himself as the one true

God. When Elijah's sacrifice was consumed by fire the people responded, "The LORD—he is God!"

The Bible is replete with instances of the people of God falling away, then after a season of failure, related to this falling away, returning to God. Today we see people falling away then returning to God and the underlying reason is they lack the commitment necessary to break away from the world. They feel comfortable with one foot in the world and one in the church. That's the strategy of our adversary. This is the feel good approach of the world. Many people are afraid to commit to God because the world has convinced them that would be truly uncomfortable and we cherish our comfort. I go back to Elijah's question, how long will you waver between two opinions? Saying nothing is not an answer.

Black Thursday brings time of fear

The dumpster fire that was President Joe Biden's performance in Thursday's presidential debate was a signal flare to America's enemies that now, before a strong and capable president is elected, is the time to act.

"Black Thursday" brought a massive admission by even the country's most vehement liars and concealers in the Democrat Party, the White House and the mainstream media to a truth most of America has long realized – that President Joe Biden is in a failing mental state and is unable to execute the responsibilities of the office of president. Though other sources debate who is actually pulling the strings in the White House, it is now blatantly clear to the U.S. and to the world that the elected president is not capable of leading, and indeed is not in charge.

The effective vacancy in the presidency is of course the perfect time for U.S. enemies to expand their dominion in any of various ways in any of various theaters. This fact was behind Sunday night's national security alert passed along by an anonymous source to Fox News.

"There is credible intel pointing to an attack against U.S. bases over the next week or so," a U.S. defense official told Fox News' Lucas Tomlinson, according to a story reported at foxnews.com. The official, who declined to be identified because he was not authorized to speak to the media, did not elaborate on the nature of the threat, but confirmed it was not tied to the French elections, the website said. The official said U.S. bases were put on high alert, but not a lockdown.

According to the military publication Stars and Stripes, the new alert applies to all U.S. military facilities and personnel in Europe, including facilities in Germany, Italy, Romanian and Bulgaria.

It is as though a decapitation strike has already been successful against the United States. The military tactic is one used to knock out the head of command and control, hoping to leave the rest of an opponent's forces vulnerable in confusion and disarray. It is no position for the United States, with literally global interests at play at any one point in time, to find itself. Such an attack may not come militarily; modern technology allows a cyberattack to be mounted instantaneously, rendering administrative functions inert and setting up a scenario of continued vulnerability within which to approach other targets. There are more than a few threats.

DANE HICKS, Publisher

The FBI's assess that "the overall threat from the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) is a hybrid one that involves crime, counterintelligence, and cybersecurity" director Christopher Wray said in April.

Obvious and ongoing conflicts involving Russia and terrorist operations by Hamas against Israel provide cover and distraction for smaller operations or movement of assets into position inside or outside the U.S. for tactical operations. The effectively open border, yet more fruit of Biden's rotten presidential administration, has allowed an unknown number of potential terrorists into the U.S., as evidenced by the number caught at the border who had active profiles on the country's terror watchlist.

All of them were watching the American president reveal his status of vulnerability in a political debate with a stronger, proven contender last Thursday night. The American scenario sets forth another seven months before an official leadership change in the U.S. could take place. That's more than enough time to act.

As the country works through its justified nervousness at this realization, the simple takeaway is that elections matter – that leadership matters. With its ridiculous self-absorption and obsession with entitlement, half of American voters forsook that face in 2020, and now the nation is in peril.

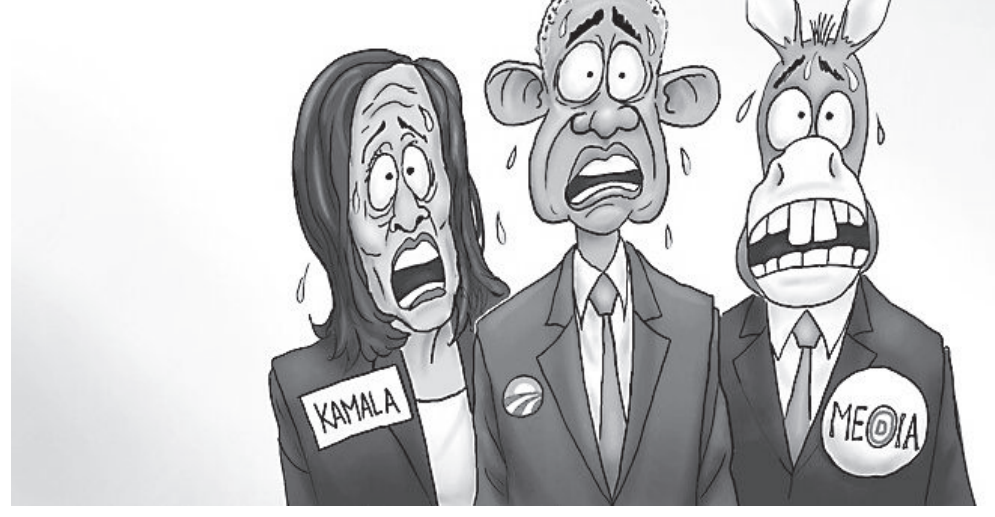

Black Thursday should have been a wake up call. It probably wasn't. These are frightening times. ###

It's okay to leave your political party when it's already left you. Democrats need to wake up.

Editor's Note: The Phone Forum will not publish undocumented allegations of criminal activities. If you have evidence of a crime, contact your local prosecutor's office.

It's kind of strange to me that they're telling on the television where all the cooling stations are. I don't think all these homeless people have TVs.

I would just like to say how wonderful it is to see youth and young adults having wholesome fun in this town. I have seen them several times doing wonderful things such as swimming at our local pool, and other things like hanging out at (name deleted) just hanging out and waving at people driving by. I will continue to support the youth of Garnett.

Good job Garnett. After spending all that money and months and months of construction on the road project to fix the highway from all that water – well guess what? It didn't work, and all the other roads have started flooding as well. Good job.

Have you ever thought that possibly the reason the Democrats keep Biden in the running is that they secretly like some of the things Trump is really truly for and if they keep Biden in there they won't have as many voting for him as for Trump? Just a thought. Thank you.

How many more young people have to be sacrificed for the purpose of expanding the Democrats' future voting base? Dr. Jill, the so called educator and current Biden campaign manager, should be held accountable for crimes against children. She and her party support abortion, gender reassignment surgery, an open border and so on. Where are the 85,000 children illegally trafficked into the U.S.? Are they safe?

I expect to see all you mutton-brained Biden lovers in the Phone Forum this week apologizing to the American people for the lie you have told and which we all saw revealed on television. Well, I'm waiting.

Biden debate reveals true depth, scope of hoax

This was nothing less than the unveiling of the biggest hoax in American political history.

President Joe Biden's fiery crash and burn on the CNN presidential debate stage Thursday night – after a week of closeted preparation, no less – is no longer about an election. It's about whether the most powerful nation on Earth is being led – at least outwardly – by the most unfit leader.

Just as importantly, the question no longer is whether Joe Biden is competent to be president of the United States. He isn't. Everybody knows that now. In fact, the discussion today shouldn't be whether he's capable of another four years; the question is whether he should even be at the helm for the next four months.

Rather, the question is, how long have his handlers known all this, and precisely what have they been doing to try to conceal it from the American public?

And, of course, most important of all: who's really in charge of this White House?

Those who've been watching closely have known this all along. What his handlers, his apparent overseers, have done to the country – what they've done to Joe Biden – is a crime of historic proportions.

Biden's handlers have kept him cloistered as much as possible for much of his presidency – as with his 2020 campaign – with limited work hours and engagements on many days, and carefully controlled access to the press.

Reporters were shooed away from a front porch in Michigan earlier this year – even after it was announced he would take questions.

At the 2022 White House Easter Egg Roll, a staffer dressed as a giant Easter Bunny jumped in and, gesturing urgently, interrupted Biden's talking to the media about Afghanistan and spirited him safely away from whatever the bunny thought he might say.

Handlers and even foreign dignitaries have been leading him off stages, turning him around, picking him off the ground and shutting down access constantly – for the entirety of his tenure, but more and more insistently and hastily.

They've been claiming – lying through their teeth, we now know – that Biden is fine. That those videos of a bumbling, stumbling, mumbling president – whom the special counsel called a "well-meaning, elderly man with a poor memory" – are "cheap fakes" being used deceptively by Republicans to smear him.

The left-wing media – which is to say "the media" – dutifully ran with that lie. Something called "CBS News Confirmed," a purported fact-checker, did its best to convince you not to believe your lying eyes. An anchor called the videos of Biden "insidious," saying that their distribution by The New York Post and the Republican National Committee – another canard; everyone watching was sharing those videos – lent the videos "an air of authenticity."

"How Republicans used misleading videos to attack Biden in a 24-hour period," the admittedly failing Washington Post blared in a disingenuous headline. "Such deceptively edited videos, known as 'cheap fakes,' have become staples of Republican attacks against the president."

That's just a couple of examples of how the state-run media rushed to cover up the president's debility and decline.

The media have been eager accessories to the biggest hoax in American political history – not all that long after having fallen like a slippery rock for the Democrat-concocted Russia hoax, and accepting creative writing awards for "coverage."

Biden's political apologists, who have been no less fervent in their lying, should be roasted by their constituents, and their own tenure in office should be charred by this searing new

In the scramble to replace Biden, could it be Whitmer?

If Democrats dump Joe Biden, the president might want to say the same thing about being 81.

The biggest loser of the debate, besides the president himself, was First Lady Jill Biden.

One assumes that she was the one with the most influence on her husband's foolhardy decision to run for a second term and could have persuaded him to stand down last year and give Democrats time to have a normal nomination process.

Instead, she went along with the hubristic delusion that an already unsteady 80-something could serve in the most demanding job on the planet until . . . January 2029.

Now, the bodyguard of lies of Democrats and much of the left-of-center media that had protected Joe Biden from questions about his fitness for office has finally fallen away.

Still, there's no mechanism to force him out of the race unless he and Jill make the decision themselves.

If Biden does exit, suddenly Donald Trump isn't running against an octogenarian considered too old for a second term by a supermajority of Americans prior to his debate debacle.

The natural heir is the vice president. Kamala Harris has many weaknesses, but, at a youthful 59 years old, frailty is not one of them. As a historic nominee and a progressive Democrat, she would be the beneficiary of deliriously favorable coverage in glossy magazines and much of the elite media, at least initially.

On the other side of the ledger, she's as unpopular as Biden and would be saddled with the administration's record. She's a terrible boss and is utterly charmless. Biden has held up pretty well in the Rust Belt states, when Harris would probably give up ground there. An upside of Biden's age is that he seems too old to be a radical. Harris, though, is a progressive from central casting, combining the politics of Elizabeth Warren with the charisma of Al Gore.

Even with the age issue neutralized, Trump would be favored over her, so it's not clear how much Democrats would gain by making a painful switcheroo. If Biden goes, it will be an admission that he was a failure and that Democrats have been lying about his condition for years – not an auspicious basis for launching a new candidate, who, by the way, won't have won any votes in a primary or caucus.

Getting to a stronger potential candidate requires bypassing Harris, which involves its own complications. Is an identity-politics-obsessed party really going to pass over the first African-American female vice president of the United States?

Even if it can, an alternative presumably wouldn't be the unanimous choice of a Democratic convention, creating chaos at an event typically choreographed to drive the message of a presumptive nominee.

If Democrats can somehow work through all of this, someone like Gretchen Whitmer would be a much tougher opponent for Trump on paper. She's a young, relatively popular governor in the key swing state of Michigan. She wouldn't have to answer directly for any of Biden's failures and has a history of presenting herself in campaigns as a non-ideological Democrat. "Fix the damn roads" was her slogan when she first ran for governor.

Any somewhat conventional Democrat would have better odds than Biden against Trump. It'd be easier for such a candidate to make the race all about Trump, something Biden wanted to do, but it is going to be impossible after his catastrophic debate.

The likelihood, though, is that Democrats won't find a way to push aside Biden. At the end of the day, by going along with the deceptions about his mental and physical would'n notice, Democrats chose to hire Joe Biden at age 81. They presumably won't make that mistake again, but it may well be too late for 2024.

Solid ground makes excavating impossible as temperatures soar

It's hard to believe that just two weeks ago it was raining and too wet to dig and here it is 100 degrees and so dry I can't get my trowel in the ground. I'm sure glad I still have a few photos to share with you of my great grandfather's treasures. As you already know I found buttons everywhere I dug.

#1 - These three buttons, are little round buttons often used on children's clothes, adult cuff buttons etc.

#2 - Three guesses on this artifact. After lots of research, I finally was able to identify it. If you look at some old hand saws you will see this set into the handle.

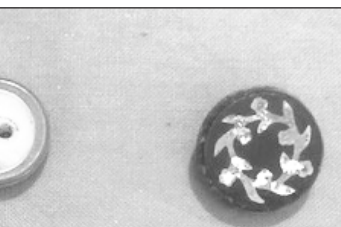

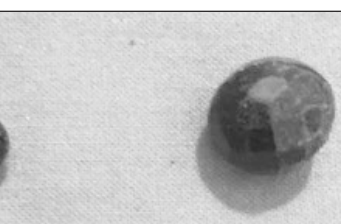

#3 - Three of the many decorated buttons I found at this site. The middle one is actually a mother of pearl button. This photo doesn't really show how spotlight.

Just one example: Even after some 45 insiders told The Wall Street Journal of Biden's obvious cognitive breakdowns in private meetings, Sen. Chris Coons, D-Delaware - from Biden's home state - insisted "they didn't use quotes from those of us who serve with President Biden, who know him, who have had the opportunity up-close-and-personal in meetings in the White House or in events publicly or privately, to give affirmation that he is sharp, he is engaged, and he is commanding."

Maybe The New York Post should publish a front-page rogue's gallery of all the "Biden is competent" liars, as it did with the 51 intelligence community officials ("Spies Who Lie") who lied in saying the Hunter Biden laptop was Russian disinformation in order to get Biden elected in 2020.

The guiltiest parties by far are Biden's closest handlers and advisers. They've been lying brazenly to the American public about their most important task, and their sacred duty to the American people: their job as caretakers of the most vital position in the world.

They've all been blatantly lying about the president's mental state and his ability to do the job - and they've been only-too-happy to slander those of us who've seen and shared the truth.

Have the American people ever been told a bigger, more cynical, more dangerous lie?

This is no longer about an election. It's about whether the lights are on but nobody's home in the White House. It's about whether the free world is being led by an out-of-it surrogate.

And it's about whom he's a surrogate for.

Declaration of Independence - In Congress, July 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. -That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, -That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. -Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

For Quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Quilts, other displays at Richmond UM Church during 100th Richmond Free Fair

A dazzling array of quilts and displays of all kinds will be available for your enjoyment at the United Methodist Church during the Richmond Free Fair July 11th, 12th, & 13th. Organizers Mary and Arlen Hall named this project "Open Doors" about 20 years ago.

The building, across the street from the fairgrounds, will be open each day from 4-8 pm and offer A/C and cold water to visitors, in addition to the enjoyment of seeing the quilts and other items.

Anyone who has a collection, or even a small group, of just about anything is encouraged to bring it to the church on Wednesday, July 10th, 10-4, along with a sign with your name and other information you want to share. Many different items have been shown at Open Doors in the past, from trip photos to Lego creations to paintings, family history, models, and everything in between. Just use your imagination!

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 07-02-2024 / SUBMITTED

Quilts will be displayed in the sanctuary and will recognize the 100th consecutive Richmond Fair by having A Century of Quilts.

Cathy Parsons, chairwoman, said there will be a quilt made in each decade of the past 100 years in the front of the room, and other quilts will be draped over the pews.

Anyone is encouraged to bring a quilt or two, and have your name, pattern name and year quilted to attach to the quilt.

Garnett Cares campaign doubles donations, surpasses goal

GARNETT - A month-long matching gift campaign hosted by the Garnett Community Foundation has raised an incredible amount of funds that will be used to address community needs. The campaign, named Garnett Cares, took place in June and invited the community to donate to the Foundation and have their gift matched up to $70,000 by the Patterson Family Foundation.

The response quickly exceeded the max match amount, raising over $86,000 from the local community. With the match, that makes a total of $156,000 available that will make a positive impact in our community.

Thank you to everyone who donated and helped make this campaign a major success! And thank you to the Patterson Family Foundation for matching these generous donations and for investing in rural communities like ours!

More updates on how these funds are used will be shared on the Garnett Community Foundation's website and social media channels.

New horticulture agent joins Frontier Extension District

By Carol Engle, Frontier Extension District and Communications and Marketing Manager

OTTAWA - The Frontier Extension District is pleased to introduce its new horticulture agent, Lauren Gammill. Having completed her bachelor's degree in Spring 2024, Gammill joined the staff in late June and will serve individuals and communities in the Frontier District's three counties: Anderson, Franklin, and Osage.

science, the outdoors and people," Gammill said, "so I am excited to show up every day and get to do things that I love."

During her first weeks on the job, Gammill said she hopes to meet people and learn what they are most passionate about. "I'm also excited to learn about the land and what the community needs most," she said.

"We are thrilled to have Lauren on staff," said Rebecca McFarland, district director and family and community wellness agent. "We have been without a horticulture agent for about a year, and our other two agriculture agents have filled in well, but we're happy to allow them to return to their specializations in crops and livestock and let Lauren focus on horticulture."

Gammill's home base is in the District's Ottawa office, but she will be making visits and providing programming throughout the whole district. She can be reached at lauren.gammill@ksu.edu or 785-229-3520.

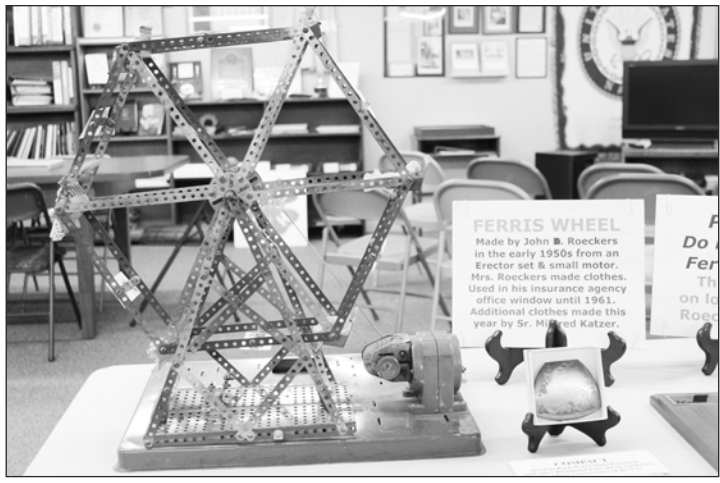

Gammill added, "I just got married a few weeks ago, and my husband and I are both working in Ottawa, so we are hoping to grow into the community together!"

Richmond fair items featured at museum

Several historic items that help tell the story of 100 consecutive years of the Richmond Free Fair will be featured at the Richmond Community Museum during the fair. The fair is July 11th, 12th, & 13th. The Museum will be open each day from 2-8 pm and there is no admission charge.

The fair display includes a miniature Ferris wheel and the first barn, both made by John H. Roeckers many years ago. A photo of the first fair poster from 1925 will be shown, along with three vintage enlarged photographs. There are numerous other mementoes, plus two thick albums of fair stories and photos, and plaques that honor Virginia Cunningham and John H. Roeckers who contributed generously to the fair.

Plus, there are all the other displays that cover many years of the Richmond area for you to see and perhaps learn some-

USDA announces June 2024 lending rates for agricultural producers

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced loan interest rates for June 2024, which are effective June 3, 2024. USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) loans provide important access to capital to help agricultural producers start or expand their farming operation, purchase equipment and storage structures or meet cash flow needs.

"I encourage our lenders and borrowers alike to work with our local offices and our cooperators to capitalize fully on the existing flexibilities in these important programs," said FSA Administrator Zach Ducheneaux.

Operating, Ownership and Emergency Loans

FSA offers farm ownership, operating and emergency loans with favorable interest rates and terms to help eligible agricultural producers, whether multi-generational, long-time, or new to the industry, obtain financing needed to start, expand or maintain a family agricultural operation. For many loan options, FSA sets aside funding for underserved producers, including, beginning, women, American Indian or Alaskan Native, Asian, Black or African American, Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander, and Hispanic farmers and ranchers.

Interest rates for Operating and Ownership loans for June 2024 are as follows:

- Farm Operating Loans (Direct): 5.375%
- Farm Ownership Loans (Direct): 5.625%
- Farm Ownership Loans (Direct, Joint Financing): 3.625%

- Farm Ownership Loans (Down Payment): 1.625%
- Emergency Loan (Amount of Actual Loss): 3.750%

FSA also offers guaranteed loans through commercial lenders at rates set by those lenders. To access an interactive online, step-by-step guide through the farm loan process, visit the Loan Assistance Tool on farmers.gov.

Commodity and Storage Facility Loans

Additionally, FSA provides low-interest financing to producers to build or upgrade on-farm storage facilities and purchase handling equipment and loans that provide interim financing to help producers meet cash flow needs without having to sell their commodities when market prices are low. Funds for these loans are provided through the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) and are administered by FSA.

- Commodity Loans (less than one year disbursed): 6.125%.
- Farm Storage Facility Loans:
 - Three-year loan terms: 4.750%
 - Five-year loan terms: 4.500%
 - Seven-year loan terms: 4.500%
 - Ten-year loan terms: 4.500%
 - Twelve-year loan terms: 4.625%
- Sugar Storage Facility Loans (15 years): 4.750%

Farm Loan Program Process Improvement

FSA has a significant initiative underway to streamline and automate the Farm

Loan Program customer-facing business process. For the over 26,000 producers who submit a direct loan application annually, FSA has made various improvements, including:

- The Online Loan Application, an interactive, guided application that is paperless and provides helpful features, including an electronic signature option, the ability to attach supporting documents, such as tax returns, complete a balance sheet and build a farm operating plan.
- The Loan Assistance Tool that provides customers with an interactive online, step-by-step guide to identifying the direct loan products that may be a fit for their business needs and to understanding the application process.

- An online direct loan repayment feature that relieves borrowers from the necessity of calling, mailing, or visiting a local Service Center to pay a loan installment.
- A simplified direct loan paper application, reduced from 29 pages to 13 pages.

More Information

Since the Inflation Reduction Act was signed by President Biden in August 2022, USDA's Farm Service Agency has provided approximately $2.3 billion in immediate assistance to more than 42,000 distressed borrowers. The deadline to request assistance through the Inflation Reduction Act Assistance for Distressed Borrowers and Discrimination Financial Assistance Program has passed. Any applications submitted before the program deadlines are currently under review. Visit the related program webpages for more information.

To learn more about FSA programs, producers can contact their local USDA Service Center. Producers can also prepare maps for acreage reporting as well as manage farm loans and view other farm records data and customer information by logging into their farmers.gov account. If producers don't have an account, they sign up today.

USDA touches the lives of all Americans each day in so many positive ways. Under the Biden-Harris administration, USDA is transforming America's food system with a greater focus on more resilient local and regional food production, fairer markets for all producers, ensuring access to safe, healthy and nutritious food in all communities, building new markets and streams of income

Creative Kids - Part 6

The Fire of 2019

Kaylee King
6th Grade, GES
Mrs. Scott

January 7th, 2019, 5:36 a.m., late in the night, while the crickets were chirping, the moon shining into my room from the closed blinds, filling my room with light; the coyotes howling in the distance, and I was still awake. I had a feeling that I could not shake. A feeling that something was about to happen to my family and I. So I stayed in my room with the moonlight flowing in, just waiting and waiting.

I get up to go get a cup of water. As I walk to the kitchen, the floorboards underneath me creak one step at a time, then I feel the room get hotter. I thought little about it until I saw the deep black color of smoke out the back door window; I opened the blinds not thinking it was anything bad, because I was 7. Next, I see it. Fire on the back porch, burning the wood with strength.

Immediately I run to my mom's room, gasping for air as I run. The fire alarms go off. That is when I realized...the fire was inside.

As I see smoke, and start coughing, my mom gets up grabs my little sister out of her colorful crib, she runs and runs outside into the cool breeze, with the moonlight shining on the flaming house. Coyotes howling at the moon, my dogs running into the distance, chasing the coyotes. Everyone gets outside. That is when I realized my little brother was still in the flaming house. Then I scream bloody murder, yelling "Joey is still in there! Joey is still in there!" and my grandpa runs inside the flaming house.

Dropping his hat on the ground, they get out of the house. We all get into our car and we drive out of the driveway. As we are getting out of the driveway my mom calls the police. "they said they will be here soon!" she exclaimed. As the firefighters and the police get here, they put out the fire, and the police question us "is there anybody who smokes in this family?" a police officer asks. My uncle was living with us and he smoked the night of the fire. So my uncle said, I do, but I remember putting out the cigarette before going back inside."

After the fire was put out, my family and I went to my cousin's house to stay the night. I chatted with my cousin; I felt like crying rivers. I told my cousin while crying, "Joey could've died in that house!". As I'm crying, I lay down in her bed, as I lay down the metal on the sidings squeak. I lay down staining the pillow with my tears. I fell asleep. A day later, we go back to see the damage the fire has caused. My parents bought a house in the city until our house gets rebuilt. Every day, for a year, we went back to our house, taking out the burned ashes, wood floorboards, and water out of the basement. Our backs aching, the sun flowing into the cement and shining onto our faces. The dump truck coming and going, full of ashes and burned wood, and after our house has gotten rebuilt, we have been living in it since 2020! The theme of this non-fiction story is to always be brave, no matter what.

as they were always on time and completely compliant and forthcoming with their data. Apparently, always doesn't always mean always."

Since Kansas voters defeated a constitutional amendment in 2022 which would have clarified that no right to abortion is implicit in the state's founding document, Kansas and other abortion states have become abortion tourism destinations, drawing thousands of women who want to kill their fetuses from states which have enacted tougher restrictions or bans.

While abortion advocates have lamented the end of Roe as an assault on women's personal freedom to end their pregnancies, the actual net effect has been a spike in the number of abortions in 2023 to a record million-plus fetal deaths, according to the U.S. Abortion Provision Dashboard compiled by the Guttmacher Institute, which measures monthly abortion traffic state to state. Guttmacher's monthly Abortion Provision Study estimates the number of clinician-provided abortions provided in each US state without a total ban for each month since January 2023. It collects data on procedural and medication abortions provided at brick-and-mortar health facilities (such as clinics or doctor's offices), as well as medication abortions provided via telehealth and virtual providers in the United States. Abortions are counted as having been provided in the state in which a patient had a procedure or where pills were dispensed.

Kansas doctors killed 12,318 fetuses in 2022 according to last year's KDHE stats, about half of those to women 20-39, 8,590 of which had at least one previous pregnancy and 3,836 of whom had at least one previous abortion. There were 7,849 abortions in the state in 2021.

Legislators in Kansas passed a law which became effective July 1 which requires the secretary of KDHE to issue twice-yearly accounting no more than 30 days after the end of a reporting period, but doesn't establish the dates of those accounting periods, leaving KDHE to select them. The law was passed after some legislators came to believe KDHE took too long to produce last year's report.

In Kansas, Pro-Life dominant legislators have passed a number of measures designed to reduce abortions and to give women pause who may be seeking to end their pregnancies. According to Guttmacher's research of Kansas laws:

- A patient must receive state directed counseling that includes information designed to discourage her from having an abortion, and then wait 24 hours before the procedure is provided.

- Private insurance policies cover abortion only in cases of life endangerment, unless individuals purchase an optional rider at an additional cost.

- Health plans offered in the state's health exchange under the Affordable Care Act can only cover abortion in cases of life endangerment.

- Abortion is covered in insurance policies for public employees only in cases of life endangerment.

- The use of telemedicine to administer medication abortion is prohibited.

- The parents of a minor must consent before an abortion is provided. • Public funding is available for abortion only in cases of life endangerment, rape or incest.

- A patient must undergo an ultrasound before obtaining an abortion; the provider must offer the patient the option to view the image.

- An abortion may be performed at 20 or more weeks postfertilization (22 weeks after the last menstrual period) only in cases of life or severely compromised physical health.

- The state prohibits abortions performed for the purpose of sex selection.
