New VA Clinic celebrates Sept. 13 opening in Iola

New facility merges surrounding services to central location

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

IOLA - The U.S. Veterans Administration as well as local organizers who pursued the project for more than a decade will cut the ribbon on a new VA clinic in Iola September 13 that will serve an 11-county area including Anderson County. VA Strategic Planning and Planning director Tom Boos said last week the project culminated more than a decade of work among organizers and Iola officials, and amounted to a realignment and consolidation of

VA healthcare in Southeast Kansas to one centralized location. The new full time clinic at 1408 East Street will host the event along with an open house and health fair at 10:30 A.M. key-note speakers to include Senator Jerry Moran, Health Care System Director, Mr. Rudy Klopfer, and Iola Mayor Mr. Steven French. Boos told the Review individuals representing the community of Iola met with VA leadership in Topeka in June 2011 regarding the desire to have a VA outpatient clinic in Iola. At that time, Mayor Bill Shirley and Carolyn McLean led the team, along with Bill Maness, representing Senator Moran's office, were working strategically to bring more VA services to the community. VA officials toured the area in October 2014, Boos said, and were impressed with the centrality of the proposed location and the community initiative.

"They felt Iola had the highway structure necessary for access and was centrally located to the surround-

Goodbye, hello

Change to Thursday print date effective for next week's edition

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

GARNETT - Goodbye, and hello. Today's the last day of your Tuesday Anderson County Review. Guess when the new Thursday paper begins...

You guessed it - next Thursday, Sept. 5.

That means there will be no Review published Tuesday, Sept. 3 - zero, nada, zilch.

But September 5, your local retail stores will burst forth with the newly pressed Thursday edition on the store racks and, if you can wait that long, your mailboxes will blossom with all the news fit to print...pretty much.

Papers will be printed Thursday morning and distributed to those locations Thursday afternoon, as well as dropped off at the local post office for Friday delivery. The change will mean our deadline for news and advertising will move to 5 p.m. Mondays in order to make that week's edition.

We made the change because change is always popular and people like it.

Just kidding.

We made the change because continual staffing and deadline pressures both at our office and at our press in Burlingame made it necessary to line our scheduling up with other papers that print on the same size paper we use during the same part of the week - fewer changing of those giant rolls of paper, restarting presses, readjusting ink coverage - all that. Our press prints papers from all over the region, and there are fewer presses around these days - so we're all trying to keep all the plates in the air and make it all work.

For those of you keeping score at home, the Garnett Review and Anderson Countian (predecessors of the Anderson County Review) used to be printed at our

Dauids holds on so far to "defund the police" donor cash

BY DANE HICKS

THE KANSAS INFORMER

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Kansas 3rd District Congresswoman Sharice Dauids is not responding to media inquiries as to whether she'll refund thousands of dollars in campaign contributions from donors who've pushed "defund the police" efforts.

A Fox News story listed Dauids and seven other Democrats as well as two Republicans who received contributions in the thousands of dollars each from left-wing billionaires with a history of soft-on-crime positions.

The most recent campaign information available shows Dauids received $3,300 from Quinn Delaney, founder and chairman of the California-based Akonadi Foundation, which "supports the development of powerful social change movements to eliminate structural racism and create a racially just society," according to the organization's website. The foundation says it funds primarily in Oakland (Calif.) with a focus on "ending the criminalization of people of color," and "transforming the criminal justice system."

The Fox story termed Dauids "one of the most vulnerable Democrats this election cycle." Neither Dauids' Washington office nor her campaign office in Overland Park would address inquiries from the Kansas Informer about office on 6th Street back in the old "hot lead" days of the 50s through the mid 1960s, after the two papers merged, when the type for the paper was actually made out of molten lead. Then we partnered in a press at Osawatimie in a photographic "offset press" operation for 30-odd years with publishers in Oz and Paola. When we wanted to move to more full color options, we sold that press and moved to Olathe. That paper and press closed, so we moved to Harrisonville, Mo., then that press closed, so we moved to the Kansas City Star, then that press closed so we moved to Sedalia, Mo., then that press closed...well, you get the picture.

Anyway, even in the digital age our readers and our advertisers still say they want a newspaper in print, so that's what we're determined to do for as long as we can.

It'll take some getting used to for all of us, but we'll see you next Thursday.

LICKTEIG

FEBRUARY 6, 1936 — AUGUST 20, 2024

Loretta Lickteig, age 88, of Garnett, Kansas, passed away on Tuesday, August 20, 2024, at St. Luke's North Hospital in Kansas City, Missouri.

Lickteig

She was born on February 6, 1936, at Greeley, Kansas. She was the eighth of ten children born to William Joseph and Essie Josephine (Raitinger) Lickteig. Loretta grew up on the family farm near Greeley, attending St. John's school before graduating from Greeley High School with the class of 1954.

Following high school Loretta began working at Paola, Kansas in the office of Fluor. Loretta worked a total of 60 years before retiring at the age of 78. She started working for Taylor Forge/Gulf Western on March 1, 1959, as a Secretarial Stenographer and was promoted to an Estimator in August 1964. In March 1973, she was promoted to Junior Engineer and in March 1974 Engineering Assistant. In March 1978, Loretta was promoted to Product Designer, and in 2013 her job title changed to Gas Product Designer, a position she held until her retirement on September 20, 2014.

Loretta was strong in her Catholic faith. She was a lifelong member of St. John's Catholic Church and the Altar Society.

Loretta possessed many talents and always selflessly shared her gifts with family and friends. She was famous for her cinnamon rolls and sugar cookies. It seemed as if she could do anything, if she didn't know how to do something, she taught herself how to do it. Loretta willingly lent her talents wherever they could be utilized. Some of her contributions included sewing, quilting, taking photographs of family events, painting portraits, and making floral arrangements for family weddings. She enjoyed traveling with family. Several trips were accompanied by her brother, Fr. Tony (and some grubby kids). Throughout her life, Loretta seemed to be the lucky winner of raffles and drawings. One of her highlights was winning a lifetime pass to Starlight Theater in 1957 as she was the two millionth customer. That honor also earned her a kiss from Liberace. In her retirement she looked forward to visiting with her friends at the local coffee group, aka the Cane Club. In her younger years she enjoyed bowling. Her easy going personality and love of family made Loretta a special aunt to all of her nieces and nephews. She attended countless school and sporting events. Family gatherings will not be the same without her. Loretta was everything to her family and her family was everything to her.

She is survived by two brothers, Father Anthony Lickteig of Leawood, Kansas; Walter B. Lickteig of Greeley, Kansas; sister, Wilma Peine of Garnett, Kansas; and beloved nieces and nephews.

Loretta was preceded in death by her parents, William and Essie Lickteig; two brothers, Robert Lickteig and Paul Lickteig; four sisters, Helen Miller, Florine Hermreck, Eva Bastian, and Rita Peterson. She was also preceded in death by her companion of many years, Patrick Collins.

Mass of Christian Burial was August 26, 2024, at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Greeley. Burial followed in the St. John's Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the St. John's Altar Society or to the St. Rose School and left in care of Feuerborn Family Funeral Service, PO BOX 408, Garnett, Kansas 66032. Condolences may be sent to the family at www.feuerbornfuneral.com.

Move out of the darkness and into the light

WEEKLY DEVOTIONAL

BY DAVID BILDERBACK

Isaiah was God's prophet in Judah from 740-680 BC. In Isaiah 9 he prophesies concerning the coming of the Christ child. "The people walking in darkness have seen a great light; on those living in the land of the shadow of death a light has dawned." (Isaiah 9:2) You and I live in the land of the shadow of death. Darkness here does not only refer to the absence of light but it also refers to poor decisions on our part and other ways we misuse our lives and the lives of others. A kind of spiritual darkness. The further we drift from God the darker our lives become.

The Bible is full of examples where God's people chose to take the low road. From Adam and Eve's choice to eat the fruit in the Garden of Eden, to the golden calf that the Hebrews fashioned while Moses was with God, to their failures to obey God that resulted in years of captivity. The picture I am painting here is darkness ultimately leads to moral failure. Most people are not walking around in a dark room but the degree of darkness you inhabit only acts to condemn you. There is a very clear line between darkness and light. They will not co-exist together.

The only way we can move out of darkness into light is through a relationship with Jesus Christ, the light the prophet is referring to in the text. Isaiah is clearly saying there are no human means to pull yourself out of darkness into light. Jesus is the light. He tells us plainly in John 8:12 when he says, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." Darkness keeps us trapped in the land of the valley of the shadow of death. The light of Jesus Christ lifts us out of darkness, (death) into the light, (life).

THESE DEMOCRATS ARE SO CORRUPT, THEY LOST A KENNEDY

BY CLAY TRAVIS OUTKICK.COM

Last week in Arizona, Robert F. Kennedy, Jr., the eldest son of Robert F. Kennedy, Sr. and the best-known surviving scion of the Kennedy family dynasty, took the stage to endorse Donald Trump for president of the United States. It was an iconic and consequential moment: A member of the Kennedy family, royalty in Democratic politics for generations, turning his back on the party of his family's legacy to endorse a Republican candidate. In so doing, Kennedy did something extraordinary; he stood on principle over politics and embraced actual democracy instead of the rigged candidate system created by the Democratic National Committee.

In the space of a few sentences, Kennedy erased four days of speeches at the DNC. His clarion call for truth, accountability and the democratic system, has reverberated loudly for many middle of the road voters, people who feel alienated by the politics of both left and right, folks who no longer believe that people in positions of power care about their concerns at all.

Having initially sought the nomination of the Democratic Party, Kennedy was blocked at every turn by President Joe Biden's supporters in the DNC. They wouldn't allow debates, wouldn't allow a full contest for the party's nomination. Even though Biden was mentally and physically a shell of the man he'd once been, the DNC protected Biden, arguing anyone sharing videos of his clear mental and physical deterioration was participating in "cheap fakes."

So too did their allies in the left-wing media. Remember, it was only 60 days ago that CNN, MSNBC, the New York Times, the Washington Post, and other left-wing media allies attacked anyone who dared to suggest Biden was anything other than sharp as a tack behind closed doors.

Kennedy lambasted this in his address Friday afternoon endorsing Trump for president, and articulating the primary challenge of our times quite clearly.

"When a U.S. president colludes with, or outright coerces, media companies to censor political speech, it's an attack on our most sacred right of free expression," he said. "And that's the very right upon which all of our constitutional rights rest."

Democrats have become so corrupt that even a Kennedy can't support them any longer. RFK Jr. asserted that in the 16 months of his campaign, ABC, NBC, CBS, MSNBC, and CNN combined gave him only two live interviews.

"The mainstream media was once the guardian of the First Amendment and democrat principles, but has since joined the systemic attack on democracy," he said. To bring this point into clear focus, after ignoring him for 16 months, as soon as he endorsed Trump, CNN had a member of the Kennedy family on last night in prime-time to attack RFK Jr. The network that wouldn't carry Kennedy himself or any of his arguments was happy to offer live prime-time guest spots to members of his family who would trash him.

All of this led to what I believe will be seen as an important legacy of the 2024 campaign. Democrats have become so corrupt that even a Kennedy can't support them any longer. Kennedy's embrace of Trump, which he compared to Abraham Lincoln's team of rivals in his address, represents yet another incredible twist in an election season that has so far been propelled by the unexpected.

Less than two months ago, on June 27, Trump took the stage to debate Biden in Atlanta. I know it feels like two years since then, but consider what has happened since that night. Trump knocked out Biden, ending his political career. It was the first true knockout we've ever seen in the history of American presidential debates. It took several weeks -- including Trump becoming the first president to be shot by a would-be assassin since Ronald Reagan in 1981 -- for Biden to realize he couldn't get back up off the electoral canvas, but on July 21 -- three weeks and three days after the debate -- the Biden campaign finally waved the towel in the corner of the ring. Biden was done. He withdrew from the race and has barely been seen since. Next up, Kamala Harris. Yes, the same Kamala Harris who Democrats spent months arguing should be dropped from the political ticket because she was the least popular vice president in the history of modern American politics. Hell, Dick Cheney shot someone in the face while he was vice president(!), and was still more popular than Harris. In one fell swoop, without receiving a single vote for president, Democrats canceled the expressed will of 14 million primary voters and elevated Harris to the nomination. Amazingly, Harris, who has never received a single vote for president, is the nominee. Yes, the same Harris who dropped out of the 2020 presidential race before a single vote had been cast. The same Harris who most with functional brains realize would have never been the Democrat nominee if Biden had done what he should have done and announced he wasn't running in the late spring of 2023. That would have allowed an actual Democratic primary but, alas, we've all come to realize Democrats don't want elections, they want selections. Hillary Clinton in 2016, Biden in 2020, now Harris in 2024.

We must ban cell phones in our children's schools

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

MARTY MAKARY - JOHNS HOPKINS

America's children are hurting. Behind in school after pandemic closures, many children are now struggling with another major barrier to learning — smartphone addiction. Two-thirds of Americans students say they are distracted by their digital devices during class.

There's also a second-hand smoke effect: More than half of students are distracted by the devices of other students, according to a 2022 Program for International Student Assessment study. It's a complex problem. But one solution is embarrassingly simple — ban phones in America's classrooms.

As a society, we don't allow alcohol or drugs in schools. Why should we allow highly-addictive phones to be used in the same setting?

Today's phones are designed to grab the attention of users — and never let go. The average teenager receives 273 cell phone notifications per day, according to a 2023 Common Sense Media report.

Limitless apps entice children with the promise of the next dopamine surge, a predatory business model. While numerous studies have shown the negative psychological impact of these devices on developing brains, they can also take a physical toll on the body.

The constant checking, scrolling, and swiping that children succumb to increases cortisol "stress hormone" levels, increases blood pressure, and worsens sleep quality.

While phones are not the sole driver of today's child mental health epidemic, they are playing a major role. Forty-four percent of teenagers say that their cell phones make them anxious, according to a Pew Research study. That's probably because apps can make children feel ugly, left out, and lonely. Addictions isolate people, and phone addiction is no exception.

Teenagers use their phones in lieu of face-to-face interaction with peers. But school is exactly where children should be developing those social muscles. In fact, they need human connections for their learning and to be a part of a community. The lack of human connections may explain why suicide and depression rates are surging, up 167% and 145% respectively for girls over the last decade, according to the CDC.

Thankfully, some leaders are taking action. Last month, Virginia Gov. Glenn Youngkin signed an executive order to create phone-free education in the state's public schools K-12. Gov. Kathy Hochul of New York has introduced a similar ban and South Carolina, Florida, and Louisiana currently have some types of restrictions on devices in schools.

These governors are attempting to correct years of unchecked technology stealing the attention of students when they are supposed to be learning. If elected officials are serious about protecting children, they should follow their lead fast.

The matter could not be more urgent. Forty percent of children will have a mental health condition by the time they are 18. And a whopping 57% of U.S. girls today feel sad or hopeless, according to a CDC report, a doubling since 2011. The data show that students are crying out for help with their phone addiction. Let's not abandon them.

New York University psychologist Dr. Jonathan Haidt, who has studied the issue extensively, has pointed out that "Heavy phone or social-media use may also have a cumulative, enduring, and deleterious effect on adolescents' abilities to focus and apply themselves," writing on his Substack column, After Babel.

Teachers are also sounding the alarm. Seven

Free abortions and vasectomies for anyone at the Democrat National Convention. Now there's a Democrat policy I can support 100 percent.

Can someone that's supposed to mow ditches and whatever go over on First and Cleveland? There building all those new houses and that's fine but before you get to that little bit there's that field that needs to be mowed and then there's that ditch, those little kids are trying to walk home from school and can't get away from the cars. Thank you.

I lived here in Garnett, Kansas, for over 40 years and the Garnett Cemetery is in the worst shape I've ever seen since it since I've lived here. It's a shame having it look like that. If they don't have enough help get someone else.

I'd like to speak on the idea of the Democrats running on the basis of abortion. We've already murdered 663,000 and what scares me more is the vice president wants to determine when they can be taken away from their family. What are we, China or Russia or what? Anyway it sure does worry me. Thank you.

I wish people would quit mowing in the early morning and late evening and stirring up the mosquitoes so they bite. I'd appreciate it if they would mow when the mosquitoes don't want to eat you.

To the person that called in about animals not having feelings. Sure, ma'am, if you don't think animals have feelings you need to remember about dogs and cats living together. They know what's right and they know what's wrong. And if you don't believe that, you need to go back to church and learn that in the Bible.

Harris has no idea how she'll pay for her promises

NATIONAL COMMENTARY

RICH LOWRY, King Features Syndicate

Kamala Harris took a few brief minutes on the campaign trail to answer a couple of questions from reporters and flash her policy chops.

When asked how she is going to pay for her lavish spending plans, the vice president explained that it would be covered via those indispensable fiscal tools -- pixie dust and magical thinking.

The expansion of the child tax credit, which will cost $1.2 trillion? According to Harris, "The return on that investment, in terms of what that will do and what it will pay for, will be tremendous."

Tax credits generally, including a $150 billion expansion of the Earned Income Tax Credit? "We know that there's a great return on investment."

Subsidies for home ownership, costing $200 billion? "When we increase homeownership in America, what that means in terms of increasing the tax base, not to mention your property tax base, and what that does to fund schools. Again, return on investment."

In general, the vice president opined, "I think it's a mistake for any person who talks about public policy to not critically evaluate how you measure the return on investment."

Because, she continued, "when you were strengthening neighborhoods, strengthening communities, and in particular the economy of those communities and investing in a broad-based economy, everybody benefits and it pays for itself in that way."

Clearly, someone mentioned "return on investment" to her in a policy briefing somewhere along the line, and the phrase stuck. Now, Harris thinks she's the Warren Buffett of deficit spending.

in the context of government spending. In the private sector, when someone takes the risk of investing in a business or product and if it doesn't work, he or she pays the price. This ensures a measure of accountability and rigor that is lacking in government.

There's a reason that no one ever confuses the Department of Health and Human Services with Apple Inc.

That doesn't mean that some projects don't create real returns. By making New York the country's most commercially vibrant city, opening up the West to settlement and drastically reducing transportation costs, the Erie Canal was indeed a great investment. Spending $330 billion during World War II to defeat the Axis powers and to make the United States the world's preeminent power was worth it by any measure.

These are the exceptions, though. There's been so much so-called investment by the federal government in general and the Biden administration in particular, that it's a wonder that the budget hasn't already balanced itself. Instead, the deficit is nearly $2 trillion a year, and the debt is $34 trillion.

Where's the return? There is some, no doubt, but it is overwhelmed by the geyser of spending on every priority, from the Administration for Children and Families to the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau.

Harris is proposing to layer on another $1.7 trillion in deficit spending.

It's not just that there will be no return to almost all of it, government intervention often has the opposite of its intended effect by driving up prices. There's a reason that health care, higher education and housing cost so much. Regardless, the answer from the likes of Kamala Harris is always more intervention. An element of her program is more subsidies "to help Americans afford health insurance on the Affordable Care Act marketplace." Wasn't that what the ACA itself was supposed to do?

So, no, the Harris spending program won't pay for itself any more than the Biden program did, or for that matter, the Trump, Obama or Bush program did. Magical realism -- or magical unreality -- in budgeting is an entrenched, bipartisan phenomenon in Washington. That's why we've gotten so much "investing" with so little return, except an ever-escalating debt and a series of worthless pledges about impending fiscal probity.

Like any huckster working in a boiler room, Harris is hoping to find people credulous enough to believe what's too good to be true.

Out of old artifacts to share, the race is on to find more

I really have to get busy and find some more artifacts, because these three photos are the last ones I have. As I said last week, at last I was able to find a few things that weren't parts of old farm equipment or etc.

I may soon take a break and move to another site for a few days. Right now I'm working through all the red tape on getting permission to actually do anything at this site. I may only get permission to metal detect and not do any actual excavation work. Right now I'm waiting on an answer from the State of Kansas.

Residents of Anderson County who voted down the original school district unification plan at a special election in June will have a second chance to vote on September 8, as required by law for those counties where the proposed, approved unification plans by their planning boards failed to carry. The unified school district is the same as for the June election; the entire Anderson County Planning Unit is to become one unified district. The election districts remain the same. Saturday, September 5, is the date set for the dedication of Lake Pomona in a ceremony sponsored by Osage Lakes Area Association, Inc. The program dedicated to this new dam and reservoir completion will start at 2 p.m. with Harold Ensley of Kansas City, the master of ceremonies.

Room prices at the Anderson County Hospital will rise on October 1, the start of the new fiscal year, $4 on the acute side and $2 in extended care. The new rates will be $41 per day in the hospital and $16 per day in the extended care wing. There are 1,620 students attending school in Unified School District 365, and 222 of them are in Catholic Schools. Garnett, Westphalia, Harris, and

Anderson County grew in population over the last year, while Greeley, Kincaid, Colony, and Richmond showed small losses. Lone Elm retained the same. City Manager Mike McDowell said that it would likely be the end of September before all of the debris in the parking and alleys could be hauled away by the city crews, and he asked for the understanding of residents; many have helped in the work, reporting immediately after the storm and continuing to work throughout the week.

Randy Ratliff's steer dominated the "best of the best" Grand Champion overall steer eliminations Thursday at the Anderson County Fair cattle judging. Though he did not get the number of awards that David Ratliff received for his excellent entries, his was the entry the judge finally selected as the Grand Champion Overall of them all. Cattle judging dominated Thursday's events at the Anderson County Fair. Congressman Bob Whittaker will be in Garnett Tuesday from 6:30 P.M. to 7:30 P.M. on August 28 and will conduct his "Listening Tour" meeting. Baby Judging at the Anderson County fair drew more entries in the boy's division. Judges were from Ottawa Jaycee Women.

The Anderson County Sheriff's Department annual marijuana harvest is in full swing. Deputies confiscated over 60 cultivated plants last week from a plot south of Garnett. The average height of the plants was six feet, according to Sheriff David Vaughn. A confidential informant gave the department the location of the weed. Another 500 plants were confiscated later in the week northeast of Garnett. An informant also reported these plants were ready to be picked. The plants were destroyed by fire, per the Kansas Bureau of Investigation. Those driving past the Anderson County Courthouse on October 1 might be blinded by the shimmering paint jobs and polished chrome of more than 200 customized and restored cars parked around the courthouse lawn. The vehicles will be part of the Fourth Annual Lake Garnett Cruisers Auto Show. The car show is open, so expect to see everything from 1920 Fords to 1994 Corvettes, low-riders, street rodders, and restored stock cars. Plaques will be given out to the top 75 cars, and special awards for many classes of vehicles.

Twenty years ago, Aug. 2004

This summer's cooler and far more moist weather has been good for local farmers, but it's reduced attendance and revenue needed for the Garnett Municipal Pool by more than 30 percent. Eighty years ago, the world was different, but Joe Boserman Jr. said the sound of hammers on the anvil, heat, and metal shaping has not changed. When he came home from the U.S. Army in 1946, he joined his step-grandfather Steve Thompson's blacksmith shop and began welding, fabricating, and repairing everything. Boserman said that since back when his grandfather and other family members were in the blacksmith business, there were several places where folks took their horses to get "shod." There was a long shed full of stalls at the Farmer's Feed Yard, where people would leave their horses while doing business in town. He said he remembers people bringing plowshares to be sharpened, machinery to be repaired, and eggs and cream to sell and trade.

Governor Sam Brownback has 30 days to select a 4th Judicial District Judge. On Friday, Anderson County Attorney Brandon Jones and Coffey County Attorney Doug Witteman were nominated by a committee of lawyers and laypeople from the area. Applicants for the post included Jones and Witteman, Paola municipal judge Sheila Schultz, and Frederick Meier II. The vacancy follows the retirement of Judge Tom Sachse. Labor Day and the 14th Annual Greeley Smokeoff Barbecue competition are just around the corner. The aromas of the competitors will surround the streets of Greeley and bring crowds of visitors to the area.

in ten teachers say that cell phone distraction is a major problem in the classroom, according to a study by the Pew Research Center. The problem is also worsening the teacher shortage crisis in public schools because of the new cell phone culture of schools. Teachers that leave the profession have cited issues with social media in the classroom as a major factor to their departures.

Banning cell phones in school is entirely feasible. At St. Anthony Middle School in Minnesota, students are now required to put their cell phones in their lockers between 8:00 am and 2:45 pm.

Principal Amy Kujawski enacted the ban in part to deal with online misbehavior. "Smartphones were a giant distraction to learning and they were also interrupting our chances to build strong relationships with our students," she told Minnesota Public Radio. As a result of her policy, the school experienced a near elimination of phone-related behavioral issues.

Doing nothing is not an option. Do we really trust Silicon valley companies, who profit from this addiction, to meaningfully help the current mental health crisis of children? I don't.

States are looking for practical solutions to address teacher retention, student performance and mental health.

A phone ban in the classroom can help with all three.

Hyatt Club met August 13

Hyatt Club met Tuesday, August 13, 2024 at the beautiful home of Sandra Hamilton and co host Donna Benjamin. We had a tour through the new modern farmhouse style home and we were in awe and so happy for Sandra and LeRoy.

We had a pot luck meal and for dessert we had homemade ice cream with a dessert of your choice. Our motto should be "No member will go home hungry" Our guests were

Kay Wisdom, Julie Wight and Janice Tush. We had other guests but we kept them in the basement, they were fed and they were happy...a guy thing! Mystery gifts were won by Sherry Benjamin and Diane Hastert. Diane read the minutes and gave the treasure report. All approved. Hostess gifts were won by Kay Wisdom and Mary Ann Umbarger. The members were given a jar of a spice of your choice, a magnet clip with a Recipe for Friendship. We all brought our favorite recipe to share and Sandra is copying them off and will hand them out at the next meeting.

Ruth Ann and Shirley will have the Sept. meeting. We always cherish our time, laughter and friendship together, Secretary, Becky King

Garnett BPW invited Scott Garrett to their Tuesday meeting, and he gave an excellent program on recycling. He answered a lot of questions and reported facts that enlightened the group about the recycling program in Anderson County. We highly recommend having him talk at your next meeting. ## Colony Christian Church enjoys guest speaker on 8/18

Guest speaker Brent McCrory from Emporia spoke from Exodus 3 about a consistent and faithful relationship with God. God looks for people who will turn aside to look at the burning bush and sends those people into spiritual battles giving them everything they need to fight. Pastor Chase Riebel was with the men's group, Men On Fire, at a retreat in Colorado. Brant McGhee gave the communion meditation "Back to School." Every time we take communion we revisit the cross and learn new things about what Christ does for us.

Brant and Danelle McGhee led worship, singing "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" accompanied by Psalm 24:1. "Open the Eyes of My Heart" was accompanied by the scripture Ephesians 1:18.

Jayden Smart displayed a quilt she made for Trevor Kennington who is in Kuwait.

Area library employees attend workshop

Charlotte Lutz of Garnett Public Library and Morgan Parks of Kincaid Community Library attended the Summer Library Program Reflection Workshop at Garnett Public Library, Garnett, Kansas on August 13, 2024.

pre-planning for next year. Summer Library Programs are offered through public libraries to help prevent the loss of reading skills gained during the previous school year, promote and provide library services to community members, and promote the love of reading.

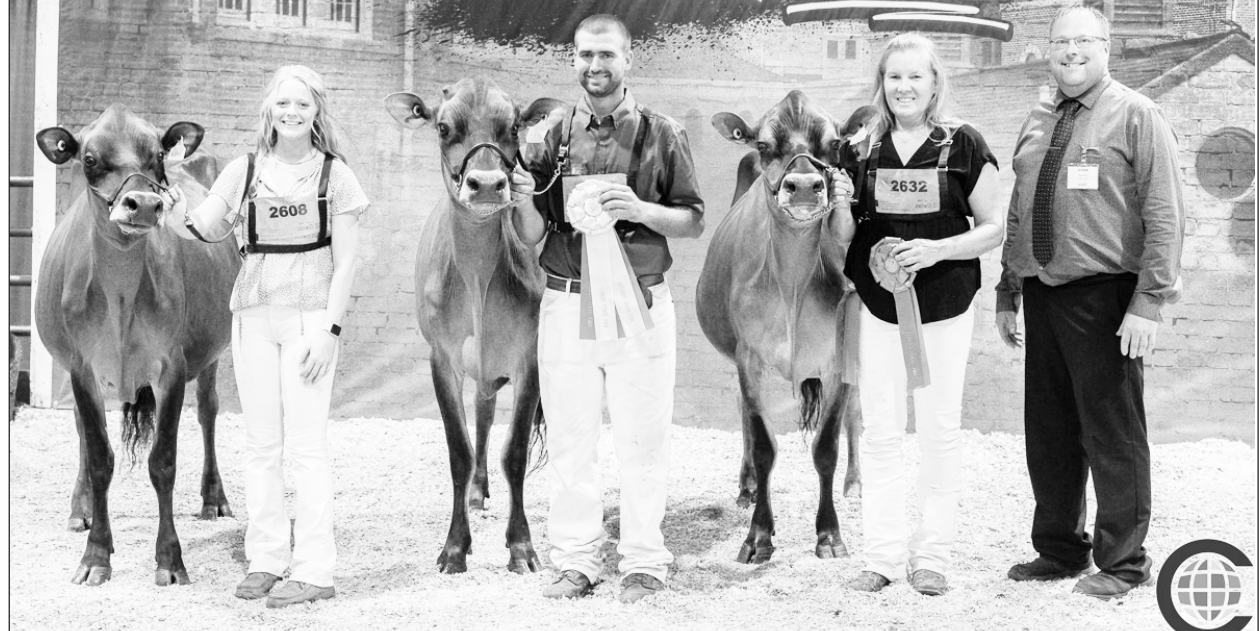

Check the social media account or website of your local library for information about signing up for Summer Library Programs.

THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW 08-27-2024 / SUBMITTED

The first beekeeper discussion group met August 20th at Troyer's Prairie Gold for those interested in beekeeping.

Beekeeper discussion group to meet again Sept. 24

Lots of wiggle waggle going on at Troyer's Prairie Gold. The first discussion group came together on August 20th for anyone that had an interest in bees and/or beekeeping. With 11 in attendance, the discussion group was hosted by Troyer's Prairie Gold and guest speaker was Tarry Miller. So much information was passed around ranging from how to build a swarm to fogging to collecting honey.

It was a very educational night; so much that they have scheduled another discussion group on Tuesday, Sept 24th @ 7 pm. Contact Troyer's Prairie Gold or Garnett Chamber of Commerce if you would like more information.

Lake Road project underway

The City of Garnett is excited to see the Lake Road Project begin! The City teamed up with the Lake Garnett Grand Prix Revival to apply for the Attraction Development Grant through Kansas Tourism.

Thrive Allen County assisted in drafting this grant, while numerous individuals provided letters of support, donated funds, and provided valuable information needed for the grant process. The total budget for this project was $500,000.

The work done will include concrete replacement over the top of the culvert by the Anderson County Rodeo Arena as well as new concrete over the culvert near Clubhouse Bend Campgrounds.

Once the concrete has cured, the Lake Road will have asphalt patching, macrotecture, and UBAS applied for the resurfacing. The work will be done by McAnany Construction, Inc.

The City of Garnett would like to take time to thank the following:

- Lake Garnett Grand Prix Revival
- Susan Wettstein
- Tracy Modlin
- Goppert Foundation

- Patterson Family Foundation
- Garnett Community Foundation
- Wittman Napa Auto Parts
- Thrive Allen County Kansas Tourism
- All other donors and volunteers

Without the incredible efforts from so many dedicated individuals and groups, this project could not have happened. Your hard work over the last several months is greatly appreciated.

tributions, the possible impact on local law enforcement offices in the 3rd District, or the possibility of Davids returning those contributions.

The Fox story also noted a contribution to Davids' campaign from Django Bonderman, part of the family of TPG Capital founder David Bonderman, with a long history of contributing to left-leaning and liberal political candidates and organizations. Davids Campaign says it never took money from Bonderman and has asked Fox to correct the story, though her camp hasn't addressed the Delaney donation. Republicans said Democrats like Davids can't run from their complicity in surging violent crime.

"Defund the police donors backed up the Brinks truck to bankroll the campaigns of extreme House Democrats," NRCC spokesman Will Reinert told Fox News Digital. "If elected, these far-left Democrats will work hand in hand with San Francisco liberal Kamala Harris to send violent crime rates soaring, reward felons and punish cops for trying to keep communities safe."

Republican Congressman from Arkansas Steve Womack also received a donation from Django Bonderman, but Womack said he returned the money.

Democrats running for office have struggled to shake the reputation acquired since the George Floyd riots of 2020, when tens of millions of dollars were donated to election campaigns by leftist financial leaders like George Soros to the campaigns of local prosecutors like George Gascon in Los Angeles, who set about reducing criminal prosecutions and restricting or ending cash bail policies and allowed criminals faster release times after their arrests for various crimes. The resulting surges in urban crime have crippled those neighborhoods and resulted in public backlash, fostering massive resentment among law enforcement entities.

At least 30 people were shot, 6 of them fatally in the City of Chicago the weekend before the Democratic National Convention began there.

counties where most Veterans reside," Koos said.

Previously, VA Eastern Kansas Health Care System was operating 3 part-time outpatient clinics in southeast Kansas. The distance between the clinics, combined with the limitations of being part-time clinics, limited access to VA care and services.

"After careful consideration of available options, VA arrived at our current proposal which we believe best serves the needs of our veterans," Koos said.

The project consolidates VA care from Garnett, Chanute, and Fort Scott communities to one centralized location, the cornerstone being primary care, mental health services and laboratory.

"This consolidation will improve health care access and allow us to expand services to Veterans and active-duty service members in the southeast section of Kansas and serve Veterans in six surrounding counties, using the two major highways that run through Iola," Koos said.

Primary and Mental Health Care are currently in place with plans to expand Home Based Primary Care, Tele-Eye exams, TeleDerm consults, Video visits for Mental Health and Pharmacy and Chronic Disease Management, in the future, he said.

TRAVIS...

They're all the product of the people running the DNC, the hand-selected nominees of the party, will of the voters be damned.

The party that claims Trump is a threat to democracy has now, incredibly, charged Trump with felonies in three different states and Washington, D.C., seeking jail time in each case, removed the president who received the Democrat nomination for president and replaced him with a nominee who received not a single vote for that nomination, fought every third party challenger, including Robert F. Kennedy, Jr., the green party, Cornel West, and the libertarian party, who has sought ballot access in the 2024 election, and dutifully hidden Harris from all media, refusing all interview requests and all press conference availabilities.

This is not the democratic process. This is not how candidates should be chosen.

Kennedy realized all of this. It's why he couldn't stand silently by and allow himself to be a spoiler in this race. It's why he felt compelled to speak out, stand on principle, and endorse the only presidential candidate who actually won a primary, to support the only presidential candidate who supports free speech and believes in sharing his vision for the world.

Ultimately, even if it required him to turn his back on the party that made his family a mythological heir to Camelot, Kennedy had only one choice.

The result -- Trump and Kennedy are now a team.

Thanks to the bevy of interviews, press conferences, and public events both men have had, we know exactly where Donald Trump and Robert F. Kennedy stand on all the issues. But we still don't have a single policy page on Harris' website. Her team has spent more time telling us what she doesn't believe than what she does.

Harris is the phantom candidate, a smiley-faced emotion gazing back at you from a computer screen as her videos play on social media influencer pages fed to our young by an algorithmic rig job perpetrated by our online billionaire lords, a constant loop of vacuous nothingness, as deep and complex as the number of votes she received for the most important job in the world -- a rigged candidate from a rigged party, the antithesis of American democracy, the only person in any of our lives to ever run for president without a single person voting for them.

So now, here we are, it's Harris vs. Trump and Kennedy, and if you're paying attention to the slightest degree, even if you're a lifelong Democrat like Kennedy, it isn't a tough call at all.

It's Trump or nothing.

Labor Day, September 2, 2024

Holiday recognizes workers who make America exceptional

Observed the first Monday in September, Labor Day is an annual celebration of the social and economic achievements of American workers. The holiday is rooted in the late nineteenth century, when labor activists pushed for a federal holiday to recognize the many contributions workers have made to America's strength, prosperity, and well-being.

Early Adopters

Before it was a federal holiday, Labor Day was recognized by labor activists and individual states. After municipal ordinances were passed in 1885 and 1886, a movement developed to secure state legislation. New York was the first state to introduce a bill, but Oregon was the first to pass a law recognizing Labor Day, on February 21, 1887. During 1887, four more states – Colorado, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York – passed laws creating a Labor Day holiday. By the end of the decade Connecticut, Nebraska and Pennsylvania had followed suit. By 1894, 23 more states had adopted the holiday, and on June 28, 1894, Congress passed an act making the first Monday in September of each year a legal holiday.

McGuire v. Maguire: Who Founded Labor Day?

Who first proposed the holiday for workers? It's not entirely clear, but two workers can make a solid claim to the Founder of Labor Day title.

Some records show that in 1882, Peter J. McGuire, general secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and a co-founder of the American Federation of Labor, suggested setting aside a day for a "general holiday for the laboring classes" to honor those "who from rude nature have delved and carved all the grandeur we behold."

But Peter McGuire's place in Labor Day history has not gone unchallenged. Many believe that machinist Matthew Maguire, not Peter McGuire, founded the holiday.

Recent research seems to support the contention that Matthew Maguire, later the secretary of Local 344 of the International Association of Machinists in Paterson, New Jersey, proposed the holiday in 1882 while serving as secretary of the Central Labor Union in New York.

According to the New Jersey Historical Society, after President Cleveland signed the law creating a national Labor Day, the Paterson Morning Call published an opinion piece stating that "the souvenir pen should go to Alderman Matthew Maguire of this city, who is the undisputed author of Labor Day as a holiday." Both Maguire and McGuire attended the country's first Labor Day parade in New York City that year.

The First Labor Day

The first Labor Day holiday was celebrated on Tuesday,

September 5, 1882, in New York City, in accordance with the plans of the Central Labor Union. The Central Labor Union held its second Labor Day holiday just a year later, on September 5, 1883.

By 1894, 23 more states had adopted the holiday, and on June 28, 1894, President Grover Cleveland signed a law making the first Monday in September of each year a national holiday.

A Nationwide Holiday

Many Americans celebrate Labor Day with parades, picnics and parties – festivities very similar to those outlined by the first proposal for a holiday, which suggested that the day should be observed with – a street parade to exhibit "the strength and esprit de corps of the trade and labor organizations" of the community, followed by a festival for the recreation and amusement of the workers and their families. This became the pattern for the celebrations of Labor Day.

Speeches by prominent men and women were introduced later, as more emphasis was placed upon the economic and civic significance of the holiday. Still later, by a resolution of the American Federation of Labor convention of 1909, the Sunday preceding Labor Day was adopted as Labor Sunday and dedicated to the spiritual and educational aspects of the labor movement.

American labor has raised the nation's standard of living and contributed to the greatest production the world has ever known and the labor movement has brought us closer to the realization of our traditional ideals of economic and political democracy. It is appropriate, therefore, that the nation pays tribute on Labor Day to the creator of so much of the nation's strength, freedom, and leadership – the American worker.

We all depend on the strength of the American Worker

America didn't become the most prosperous nation on earth by chance. Working Americans built this nation from the ground up, embracing very "American" qualities like creativity, ingenuity and originality. They in turn depended on the families that supported them. Through challenge, trouble and strife, quite amazingly, the whole thing worked.

Whether teachers, farmers, office workers, equipment operators or production employees, the local businesses below recognize the immeasurable value of our local labor force in building our community and maintaining its greatness.

Enjoy your Labor Day Holiday.
